It will work like this: the patron registers at the theatre. It is not necessary to buy a ticket to register. Each name is given a number, which is also printed on a small card which is put in on a small card which is put in a hopper — only one card for each person, who will always have the same number. The lucky person, if present either wednesday or Thursday night, will be given the cash, and card will be given the cash, and card returned to the hopper.

"The added responsibilities of the National Foundation mean that the 1959 March of Dimes must raise much more money,' the campaigne director added.

"In the area of arthritis and rheumatism alone, at least 11 million are crippled in the United States, and of these 30,000 are infants and children. In the case of birth defects, 250,000 infants are born each year with congenital malformations (not birth injuries) Added to these problems, our chapters still have 50,000 polio patients on aid rolls.

it will take larger March of Dimes contributions this January if the organization that put polio on the run is to move on 'Toward Greater Victories.'

'Swiss Chalet' Successful In San Francisco Bay Area

California's newest home design, the "Swiss Chalet," is being built in Corte Madera, north of San Francisco. It features a steep roof of rich brown asphalt shingles, along with traditional styles of double-hung windows and panel doors of ponderosa pine.

A new development of homes be at home in the mountainous the a design that promises to terrain. A further advantage of with a design that promises to become a style-setter through-out California is rising in the rugged hills of Marin County, ten miles north of San Fran-cisco's Golden Gate Bridge. It is Marin Estates, a tract of homes in Corte Madera, whose style at first seems as alien to the West Coast as New England maple syrup.

This is because the houses are designed somewhat along lines of an Eastern Cape Cod dwelling with steeply pitched roofs, dormers, and traditional double-the steeply pitched roofs (many have pitches of 12 inches per foot) is that they enable him to offer more living space for less money.

Asphalt shingles, which can be used on any roof pitch from two inches up, were chosen in a warm brown color to harmonize with local surroundings.

The model in the photograph has four bedrooms, two baths, a two-car garage, complete landscaping, and scores of built-in extras. It sells for $19,750.

Blackfield says he chose windows of ponderosa pine because they are available in a wide selection of traditional designs, and come in sash-plus-frame units that can be quickly installed at a minimum of labor subtle humor and quiet charm, blended with the inimitable Bettye Knapp's light-hearted touch.

The Prologue starts the story on its merry way with two angels descending to earth to pick up a couple of elderly souls. However, their mission is complicated when a mischievous would-be angel, Pilone by name, joins them in kind of heavenly hitch-hike. The exact status of this would be an-gel is never wholly revealed, but ne wears only one wing and might thus be a sort of halfangel. The real angels, Wilfred and Agnes, never doubt that Pilone has been sent with them by DOWN TO EARTH is a play of The Higher Authority for a purpose; but from Act I on, he gets into so much mischief that it looks as if the angels might be stranded on earth - the worst fate that could befall them.

The two elderly souls who were supposed to be picked up are Augusta Applegate, a wealthy and sarcastic spinster, and Herman Howell, a kindly, retired sailor, who lives in the same block as Augusta Herman is ready to go Augusta. Herman is ready to go; but August has spent a lifetime accumulating her wealth, and she naturally hates to part with Unconsciously on the side of the ones who get "fired with enthe angels, however, are Augus- thusiasm." ta's two nieces, Orpha Teel and Millie Bromsley, who try vainly to interest Augusta in giving her money to them. Orpha is a social climber and a widow with designs on a rich husband for her grown daughter, Ruthie. The other niece, Millie, has an inventor-husband whose inventions have never found a successful market. His latest is a tricky little gadget - a thimble that also threads needles! All that Baxter and Millie need in order to make millions on the gadget is Augusta's capital . . . they hope.

Another person with an avaricious eye on Augusta's money June, the daughter of Millie and Bexter. June is engaged to marry a handsome lad, Richard White; adn they want Aunt Augusta to lend them $1,000 so Richard can buy into a photography business thus start them on their twolane highway to married bliss and financial independence.

Pilone, in his mischief-making, eventually manages things so Augusta gives her money away at just the right moment, but not before he gaily manipulates the romances of three couples involv-ed. He discovers, when he and the other two angels appear on earth, that he has been granted a very special power. He is able to make people fall in love — simply with his kiss. Pilone tests his power on Ruthie, who falls in love with Richard (June's fiance); an the situation really gets tense. He later sets things right by kissing Ruthie again, this time making her fall in love with Robert Hanley, the rich hypochondriac: and the threads of romance are thus woven into a happier pat-

But when Pilone kisses the two elderly souls, Augusta and Herman, and makes them fall in with each other, he really puts himself and the two angels on a spot. Augusta and Herman take a stronger grip on life, thus leaving Agnes and Wilfred (the two angels) earth-bound unless until they can find two souls who are willing to "go".

Diana, Augusta's frustrated maid, who had just been jilted for the eleventh time, suddenly and dramatically qualifies as and dramatically qualifies as an angel. Pilone, who has fallen in love with Diana, comes to a very important decision — that of taking on full-fledged angelfood so as always to be near Diana. He is rewarded with his other wing: and the final curtain closes on four happy angels, concentrating with all their might on beginning their ascent back to heaven.

Many a guy has the habit of saying, "Well, I'm going to tell you the truth. . ." Makes me wonder what he has been telling me. Really now, isn't the most curious thing in the world a woman who isn't?

This is the nursery of a large metropolitan hospital. Six times a day these precious bundles visit their happy mamas. And every night their proud papas gape at them through the glass. Nurses watch over them constantly. Doctors examine them daily.

But the statistics in the files of the police department cast a black shadow over this innocent scene. For one of these babies is J.D.

J.D. is short for a juvenile delinquent. And from police records and census figures we can estimate the proportion of new-born infants who will become juvenile delinquents in ten to twenty years. The one factor that threatens the accuracy of our calculations is that juvenile delinquency is increasing.

There are just two ways to deal with the problem. One is to enlarge our jails. The other is to give every child's spiritual well-being the same thorough attention that this hospital gives his physical well-being.

Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support Plan to go to church regularly and read
