Farm Labor Housing Here Discussed

WILLIAMS NOT TO RUN

Candidate-Filing Picks Up Steam

Politics moved off the simmer burner here this past week and onto the "medium" spot after first of the official filings was reported by County Democratic Chairman Harvey Bass.

First person in the county to post his filing fee with his party chief was Calvin P. Calvert, a Muleshoe grower who once sought the county clerk's spot in Bailey County. Calvert filed as a candidate for county judge on the democratic ticket.

Incumbent County Judge Glen Williams surprised political observers Friday when he announced that he will not seek re-election to the county judge's post. "Other interests" was the reason given to the Journal. At the end of this year Judge Williams will conclude three four-year terms as judge.

Bass said two Democratic officials also had filed — Ralph Blossley as precinct chairman for voting precinct No. 6, and George Tyson for Three Way. Meantime, another candidate tossed his hat into the ring through the columns of this newspaper: R. P. McCall, Enochs, authorized the Journals to announce he will seek re-election for commissioner, precinct 4.

Earlier this month, two women had announced for county positions. Hazel Gilbreath announced she will seek the post of county clerk, and Nelda Merriott will seek the newly-created post of county clerk.

Both are Democrats. Meantime, Jean Lovelady.

Muleshoe Rotarians saw a program on the spreading menace of Communism at their luncheon this past week. The program, a film showing Communism's encirclement, was brought by Alan Waldrop, district manager of General Telephone Co., Littlefield. Guests, in addition to Waldrop, were Cliff Vandever, Lubbock; Warren Dayton, Littlefield and H. H. Patter of Sudan.

Mrs. Arch Flower, a teacher at DeShazo for 9½ years, has resigned; she and her husband are moving to Lubbock where he will be district director of Farmers Home Administration, a position he had held here for several years. Also resigning: (See MULESHOE, Page 5)

MOVE TO AUDITORIUM POSSIBLE

Chamber Banquet Sell-Out Likely

Sell-out possibility loomed Saturday for the 16th annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce banquet, slated for tomorrow night at 7:30 in junior-senior high cafeteria.

Roy Davis, manager, said all 550 tickets are expected to be gone by Monday morning, and that overflow arrangements may be made. In case more people desire to attend than can secure seating at the banquet, he explained, arrangement will be made to move the program to the high school auditorium after the dinner is served. Those who attend only the auditorium portion will be offered tickets to hear Dr. Kenneth McFarland, but at a reduced price.

"From all indications," said Charles Lewis, president, "this will be the biggest year ever for the chamber banquet, and more people will attend the banquet than ever before. We feel fortunate in having the facilities of the new cafeteria for our dinner this year."

Meantime, plans for the dinner project were nearing completion. It was announced by chamber headquarters Saturday that Neal Dillman, superintendent of schools, will serve as toastmaster. He has known the speaker, who also hails from Kansas, for a number of years. Dr. McFarland was once superintendent of schools in Topeka.

Another feature of the dinner will be the presentation of a plaque by the Soil Conservation Service Blackwater district to the outstanding conservation farmer. Name of the honoree will not be announced in advance.

New officers and directors, who formally take their seats Monday night for the new year,

FHA OFFICIALS — Possibilities for a federally-guaranteed loan to erect labor housing units here were discussed at a luncheon this past week, when Louis D. Malotky, Washington, national director of FHA, was the speaker. Others in the picture are Clinton Kennedy, local FHA head; Louis Lee, Temple, state FHA official; Arch Fowler, district FHA chief, and Virgil Nowell, president Western Farm Labor Association. National FFA Chief Tells Possibilities

By Ray Martin

Bailey county farmers need farm helpers throughout much of the year. But the helpers need housing.

In the past these two — labor and housing — have failed to get together. With the collapse of the bracero program a year ago, the type of farm labor available changed from single units to family units — if it was available at all, and thereby posed a problem.

Family units require better and bigger housing, and few farmers in this area have such housing available.

But the possibility of a mammoth housing project to care for upwards of 100 families — or 400 persons altogether — loomed brighter this past week after Louis D. Malotky, director of the rural housing loan division of Farmers Home Administration, Washington, met with a group of farmers for an impromptu luncheon at Paul's.

The high FHA official told a cross-section of farm employers, merchants and professional men the steps which can be taken to make adequate family-type housing available for farm workers.

It was explained that Uncle Sam has become much more particular about the type of house farm workers, even domestics, live in these days. But to offset the stepped-up requirements, Uncle Sam, through FIA, is making long-term loans available to groups, individuals or even municipalities to provide year-round housing for farm families.

Western Texas Farm Labor Association has been considering applying for such a loan with possibly a 100 family project as the starter. Speaking for the association were its president, Virgil Nowell and its manager, Elvon deVaney.

In addition to the long-term loans (Malotky spoke in terms of 33 years), the FHA now makes grants for as much as half the cost of such a project, but restrictions and terms are considerably more strict.

Malotky explained that the relatively new farm housing project is authorized by Title V of the Housing Act. The loans may be used to "construct, improve or repair farm labor housing, including facilities for kitchens, dining halls and appropriate health and recreational facilities."

He said the facilities also may provide funds for water, sewage disposal, heat and lighting systems, but the funds may not be used to buy land or refinance debts.

Malotky, asked who may borrow under the housing act, pointed out these four requirements:

1. Be eligible, an applicant must:
 1. Be a farm owner, association of farmers, state or political subdivision or non profit organization.
 2. Be unable to finance the needed improvements with his own resources or with credit from other sources.
 3. Have authority to obtain, give security for and raise revenue to repay the loan and to maintain and operate the housing financed with the loan.
 4. If acting through an authorized representative, be represented by one who has no pecuniary interest in the award of the architectural or construction contracts, the purchase of the land or the housing site.

Since the bracero program is definitely dead, the present programs must be for United States citizens — farmers, or farm workers, in fact.

"The law specified," pointed out the national director, "that the occupants must be citizens of the United States who receive a substantial portion of their income as farm laborers."

He explained that "in determining who is eligible to occupy the housing, there will be no discrimination because of race, color, creed or national origin."

He said the interest rate is 5 percent per year on the unpaid principal, the maximum term being 33 years of the useful life of the security, whichever is less.

Western Farm Labor, DeVaney told the FHA official, had been considering a 100-unit housing project to cost in the neighborhood of $175,000. Malotky of course could not say whether such a loan could be approved or not, but said the FIA has made loans that large or larger for such purposes.

Of course farm labor housing loans also may be secured by an individual farmer or by two or three farmers pooling their assets, Malotky explained, but "a loan to an individual farm owner may not exceed the normal value of the farm as improved less other liens. . . A loan to an organization may not exceed the estimated value of the completed housing financed with the loan or the cost of construction, whichever is less."

The Washington official said standards are rather strict. "Buildings," he said, "waste, sewage disposal, heating and electrical systems must be constructed in accordance with good practices." (See HOUSING, Page 6)

Senior Citizens Given Approval As UF Agency

Muleshoe Area United Fund's Budget and Admissions committee this past week approved another agency to the 10 already sponsored by the fund.

They granted a berth to the Bailey County Committee on Aging, the newly-formed senior citizens' group for Bailey county headed by the Rev. J. Frank Peery.

The B&A committee recommended that the senior citizens' organization be granted $500 to aid in furthering its program. The entire board will have to approve the addition before the action can become final. (See AGENCY, Page 5)

Library 'Friends' Set Member Drive

Plans for a banquet and membership drive were formulated during the meeting of the "Friends of the Library" this past week presided over by Melvin Evans, president of the "Friends." Joe Harbin was appointed banquet chairman and Neil Arnold, membership chairman. These two important events will take place in the early part of February, and the committee chairman will announce the details of their committees in the near future.

The banquet to be held in February will be open to the public and an interesting program is planned, along with recognition of the various organizations that have helped so faithfully, Evans said.

Mrs. Rosalyne T. Shamblin, Field Consultant, representing the Texas State Library, was present at the meeting and told of ways the "Friends" could be of help to the library. Mrs. Shamblin says there is great (See LIBRARY, Page 5)

Reese to Speak At Boss Night Banquet Here

This is Jaycee week in Muleshoe in the nation, for that matter.

And big things are on the schedule for Muleshoe, says Terrell Johnson, general chairman. Tuesday, for example, the young men will take over K-MUL, lock, stock and barrel, and then on Thursday night, their annual bosses' banquet will be held in Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church when 35-year-old James O. Reese, Odessa, and a vice-president of national Jaycees, will be the speaker. He is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Damron, Muleshoe.

A feature of the banquet will be the presentation of the distinguished service award, the outstanding merchant award and the outstanding Jaycee of the year. Sil Tanguma is chairman of that feature.

The week of Jan. 16-22 has been proclaimed as official Jaycee week in Muleshoe by Mayor Wilbur LeCoeque to recognize the "outstanding contributions made by the young men of our community. . ."

Reese was elected one of 10 vice presidents of the United States Jaycees at the organization's 45th annual convention in Buffalo, N. Y., June 21-25, 1965.

1966 is 'Decision' Year!

"This is the year of decision for the High Plains Bookmobile Service," reports Mrs. Rosalyne T. Shamblin, Texas State Library Field Consultant for West Texas, on a field visit to the bookmobile headquarters in the Muleshoe Area Public Library.

The mobile library service to Bailey, Cochran, Lamb and Parmer counties began in April 1964 and will continue until December 31, this year by agreement with the County Commissioners of these counties and the Texas State Library. After that date, the service can be continued through county appropriations up to a maximum of twelve cents per one hundred dollars valuation for county library service.

"The red and white State Library bookmobile serves 42 communities in the four counties. Books are on hand for all types of interests — farmers, ranchers, fathers, mothers, young adults, children, senior citizens," according to Georgia Pena, bookmobile librarian.

Two thousand books are carried on the mobile unit. These are changed each trip from the 10,000 volume headquarters collection in the Muleshoe Area Public Library. Established libraries in Friona, Littlefield, Morton, and Otton may check (See DECISION, Page 5)

"I would like to ask for that same support again in the coming May elections."

McCall lives in Enochs where he farms. Mr. and Mrs. McCall, who attend the Methodist Church at Enochs, have two children at home, both of whom attend Bala school. They also have two other children who are married.

Mobile Service

BOOKMOBILE FUTURE DISCUSSED — With the High Plains Bookmobile in the background, Mrs. Rosalyne T. Shamblin, TSL field consultant, visits with Georgia Pena, High Plains librarian, when Mrs. Shamblin visited Muleshoe last week to discuss the future of the Bookmobile. (Journal Photo)

Decision

Continued from Page One • need for the Hi Plains Bookmobile service to be continued in this area. If this service were to cease the library would lose 10,000 books now made available. Mrs. Shamblin explained that the "Friends" group could obtain many added and needed features for the library that are over and above the regular budget.

Costs of continuing the service are based on an overall $14,000 budget for the four counties. Each county's appropriation for continuance of the book service would be based on 1965 population figures proportionately.

Texas County Library Law provides for contracts for multi-county library service. "A recent example of such contracting is the case of Camp, Franklin, Morris and Titus counties. These have contracted with the Mount Pleasant Library in Titus County for bookmobile service," Mrs. Shamblin reports. "In West Texas Taylor and Shackelford counties have contracted with the Abilene Public Library for the past three years. Here the counties could contract with the Muleshoe Area Public Library."

"County budgets are prepared from June to September for the following calendar year. Bookmobile patrons are already beginning to tell me that they plan to talk or write to their Commissioners about keeping the bookmobile rolling," Mrs. Pena notes.

Mrs. Shamblin explained that the "Friends" group could obtain many added and needed features for the library that are over and above the regular budget.

During the month of June there were 3,600 books checked out. The summer reading program showed that 300 certificates were awarded to children.

Mrs. Camp said there are approximately 500 persons using the services of the library each month. Donations are always welcome, she said, and there were thanks extended to all donors. There have been over 500 books given as memorials.

The librarian expressed great appreciation for the part the City has had in the support of the library. She also expressed gratitude for the various Civic and Women's clubs that have supported the library so consistently.

There was routine business in connection with the paying of bills and some repairs to the building were discussed.

of building practices and conform with any applicable laws, ordinances, codes and regulations governing construction.

FHA merely guarantees the loans, he explained; it does not actually lend money for such projects, the money coming from private sources.

In discussing grants, Malotky said such may be obtained to pay part of the cost of the building, buying, repairing, etc.

However, those who receive a grant to be eligible must:
1. Be a state or political subdivision or a broadly-based non-profit organization which intends to provide the housing as a community service.
2. Be unable to provide the necessary housing from its own resources or with credit from other sources, including a farm labor housing loan.

3. Have initial operating capital and, after the project is completed, have income needed for a sound operation.
4. Possess the legal capacity to contract for the grant.

Malotky explained that the FHA is providing the money for long-time farm labor housing "because the need exists for a year-round, adequate type of housing for farm labor."

Timothy Reeder Is New Year Baby

She pointed out that this is a "goodly number for this year, especially since many persons probably figured the poll tax payment as a requisite to voting will be killed by federal action."

(Of course regardless of the outcome of such a case now pending, a decision will come too late to effect this year's voting, it was pointed out.)

Candidates have until Feb. 7 in which to toss their hats into the ring for places on either democratic or republican primary tickets, May 7.

Deadline for paying poll taxes or securing exemptions will be Jan. 31. Persons just turned 21 who will be voting for the first time this year may secure free poll tax receipts. Those above 60 also do not have to pay in order to vote.

In deciding not to toss his hat into the ring this year, Judge Williams said he plans to devote his time to his other interests, farming and the ministry. Already he holds three pastorates as a Primitive Baptist minister, serving churches here at Tahoka and at Eldorado, Okla.

"I feel that I would like to devote more time to my ministry," the judge said, "and since

McDonnell Goes To Friona Radio

Bill McDonnell, the popular chief engineer-special events man-salesmanager in the Radio KMUL studios here in Muleshoe, resigned his position with the KMUL Radio staff.

McDonnell will now devote his full time in founding a new radio station in Friona. Bill McDonnell is the manager and production director for the new Friona, Texas radio station.

The station at Friona will have 250 watts power and will broadcast on a frequency of 1070, which will give it an effective radiation in this area of about 3000 watts, McDonnell says.

McDonnell says the station hopes to be on the air by the middle of March and that most of the equipment has been bought.

This coming April McDonnell would have been in Muleshoe three years, and Saturday expressed thanks to the people here for "making my stay in Muleshoe such a pleasant one." He added: "I think the community has a lot of fine, progressive citizens who are truly interested in the growth of the area."

His partner in Friona will be Frank Spring, president of the Friona State Bank. Other stock holders are H. K. Kendrick and Joe Shields, Amarillo.

"It seems to be an ancient and historic institution which christens, marries and buries and so adds a little colorful ceremony to life's great occasions," he says. "It provides a number of rather indifferent social activities and can be quite useful in keeping children occupied in the afternoon."

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE THIS SUNDAY

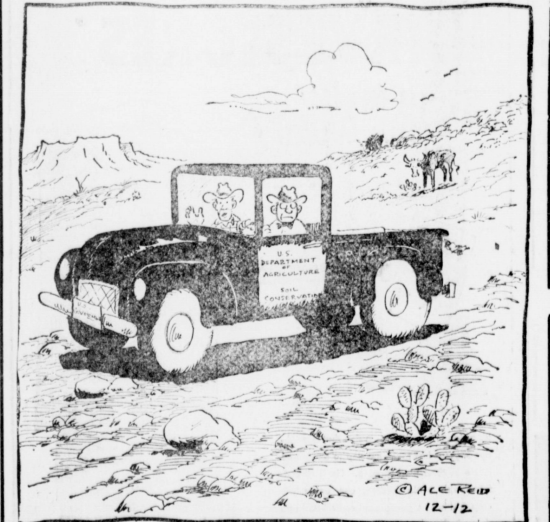

GOD LOOKS ON THE HEART

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Man's first reactions to another is based on outward appearances, and only time will help him to know the heart of another. God knows, immediately, every attitude of the heart, whether it is good or bad. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." There are many rewards for those that follow the Lord. "Let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord." Attend church Sunday and share in the joy of worshipping the Lord. Coleman Adv. Serv.

New Library "District"

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A new library system enables cooperation between 18 libraries located in six counties in the Rockford area.

A 15-member board, composed of board members of local libraries, recently met to authorize the cooperative effort. Funds, provided by the state of Illinois through recent legislation, require each library to contract for the service.

The contracts provide rotating collections of materials to member libraries, central purchasing of books and central processing of all materials.

The libraries cooperate in a book and delivery service, advisory or consultant service and staff training. There also is a centralized reference service, help in developing basic reference and supply of materials on request.

Cardholders in the six-county area of northern Illinois can borrow from any cooperating library.

BANKRUPTCY

Motorist A, held liable for an accident, was ordered to pay more than his insurance coverage, more than everything he owned. In desperation, he decided to go through bankruptcy.

Although this left him poor, at least he was relieved of his overwhelming burden of debt.

Motorist B, in a similar predicament, also tried bankruptcy. But in his case, that didn't help. Even after going through bankruptcy, liability for the accident still hung over him as heavily as before.

The difference in these two cases illustrates an important provision of the Bankruptcy Act. Bankruptcy does cancel most debts, but not all. One debt it does not cancel is liability for "willful and malicious" injuries inflicted on others.

Motorist A had caused his accident by just driving a bit too fast. The court held this was not "willful and malicious."

But motorist B had been driving at high speed during a storm, on the wrong side of the road, while under the influence of liquor. The court decided this was indeed "willful and malicious" conduct — and not even bankruptcy could save him from responsibility for it.

Most often, such questions arise out of auto accidents. But any kind of willful and malicious act may put the offender beyond the relief of bankruptcy. Consider these cases:

A cantankerous home owner, to scare away some boys, fired at them with an air gun, injuring one in the eye; A disgruntled boy friend spread slanderous stories about a girl's reputation;

The owner of a dog known to be vicious let it run loose on the streets, where it attacked a passing pedestrian.

In each case, after a judgment for damages, the offender went into bankruptcy in hopes of "getting out from under." But in each case, even after bankruptcy, he was held still liable for the willful and malicious harm he had done.

A keynote of the Bankruptcy Act is sympathy for the hapless debtor. But, in the willful-and-malicious cases, the law's sympathy is dampened by behavior that is not just foolish but wrongful.

Besides, the law owes consideration not only to the debtor but also to the person who has been run down, shot, slandered, or bitten.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR: I had hoped a statement of this nature would not be necessary; however during the last four months my only known opponent and a few of his friends, have consistently and deliberately persisted in spreading the idea that I was not a candidate or might not be a candidate for re-election.

Restricting has changed the area and proportion of all our legislative districts, but I think it is only fair, due to the propaganda referred to above, that the citizens of our new 30th Senatorial District know that I am a candidate for re-election.

Sincerely,
Andy Rogers.

200,000 Boats Due to Register Before April 1

More than 200,000 motorboats subject to the new Texas Water Safety Act must be registered by April 1, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer said today.

The law gives the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department the task of issuing certificates of number for boats operating in Texas waters, just as the division administers issuing of licenses and titles to motor vehicles operating on Texas highways.

Renewal notices for boats now registered in Texas will go out starting January 3, along with a brochure outlining key features of the new act.

"This is a good time for Texas skippers to brush up on the law," Greer said, "to make certain their craft complies with the extensive changes in the new Water Safety Act."

For the first time, state game wardens have full authority to enforce water safety statutes. All current certificates of number for motorboats operating in Texas waters expire March 31, Greer said.

The new registrations will be valid for a 2-year period instead of the old 3-year registration period.

New fees are: Class A boats (less than 16 feet), $3; Class 1 boats (at least 16 feet long, but less than 26 feet), $6; Class 2 boats (at least 26 feet, but less than 40 feet long), $9, and Class 3 boats (40 feet long and over), $12.

As an example of the changes in equipment in the new act, Greer noted that under the old regulations a small Class A boat needed only to show a single white light for nighttime operation. Now, such craft cruising on Texas waters after sundown must have red port-side and green starboard lights as well as a white light showing from the stern.

The regulations also require horns, bells, fire extinguishers, flame arresters and other equipment, depending on the class and type of boat. It also requires a boat towing skiers to mount a 4-inch rear view mirror.

Details of the new regulations also are contained in booklets supplied by the Motor Vehicle Division to more than 500 marine dealers in Texas. Copies of the Texas Water Safety Act are available at 10 cents a copy from the Texas Highway Department, Motor Vehicle Division, 40th and Jackson Street, Austin, Texas, 78703.

All fees over the cost of administering the certificate of number program are used by the Highway Department in construction of boat ramps on Texas lakes and waterways. More than 40 ramps have been constructed so far.

The law authorized political subdivisions, the authorities operating many Texas lakes and waterways and the Texas Highway Department to "zone" Texas water for specific boating and recreational uses, and make local rules and regulations relating to the operation and equipment of boats, provided a copy of any rule or regulation be filed with the and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The Texas Highway Department, however, has left such zoning to local authorities, since the Department has no means or facilities for enforcement.
