Band Concert Friday Night

Variety Program To Be Offered At Auditorium

The municipal high school band, with months of preparatory work behind, was ready today for its annual spring concert to be presented Friday at 8 p. m. in the municipal auditorium.

Director Dan Conley had his 63 pieces and blended into a concert group, ready for a 10 number offering. In addition several specialty numbers were to be offered as feature attractions.

Among them is a dance number by Jacqueline Paw, band sweet heart, accompanied by Homer Adams, Leona Warren and Ben Nix. The string band, composed of Leona Warren, Donald Alton Ben Nix and Paul Warren, will be presented in specialty numbers. The West Texas vocal trio composed of Mrs. Ruby Read, Mrs. Alma Houni, and Ruby Bell, will round out the program.

Conley said the concert numbers would feature march selections with overtures, waltzes and other types interspersed. As a climax to the concert, the winner of the band queen's contest will be announced.

Although ticket sales had progressed at an encouraging rate, there was still a lack of sufficient funds with which to pay out band uniforms from the express office. Band members were offering the tickets for sale Thursday.

D. W. Crain, director of the Abilene Christian college, was to be present for the concert. With him were to be Jack Cook and Edward Johnson, both former members of the local band.

ICKES HOLDS UP HELIUM CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, concerned about possible foreign military use of American helium for dirigibles, said today he would not approve the pending sale of the gas to Germany until President Roosevelt returns from Warm Springs, Ga.

"Because of the disturbed political situation in Europe," he told his press conference, "I have decided not to do anything more about this sale until the president returns to Washington."

The American-Zeppelin Transport Corporation, New York, is waiting to close a contract with the government to acquire helium for the new German dirigible LZ120. The United States has a monopoly on the gas.

TO OPPOSE CUTS IN RAIL WAGES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24 (AP)—Railroad labor leaders, here for a conference with representatives of rail lines, declared today they would oppose any pay reduction proposals.

The carriers started talking about a wage cut after the interstate commerce commission turned down their request for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

CROWLEY COMING TO TEXAS TO REVEAL THE BIG SECRET

Traffic Hampered By Calif Storms

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24 (AP)—Northern California's newest storm interfered with rail and highway travel and communications today and threatened to isolate the counties of the Redwood empire region from the rest of the state.

Blizzards raged in the mountains. Rain fell in the lowlands. Great waves battered the coast.

Sixty-five miles of the Redwood highway between San Francisco and Eureka were closed last night by slides and fallen trees.

A continuous series of storms during the past 60 days have brought Eureka's seasonal rainfall to more than 83 inches. The normal at this date is 22.63.

The Sacramento, San Joaquin, and Eel rivers threatened floods in Northern California.

Snow continued to fall in the Sierra Nevada.

FDR Studies Reaction To Wage Plea

Southern Industry Told Its Pay Is Far Too Low

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Mar. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt, established at a vacation retreat here, today read editorial and congressional reaction to his outspoken "enemy stronghold" plea for higher wages in southern industries.

Secluded in his white cottage among the trees on Pine Mountain, he called for newspapers of the "Lower South," where opposition to his wage-hour bill has centered and whose industries, he declared at Gainesville, Ga., yesterday, are paying their workers wages that are "far too low."

He placed his opponents in and out of congress in the same category with "feudal" overlords and interationally prophesied those who "opposed progress" would fall to meet the test in the fall elections.

To a throng massed in Gainesville's new civic center and to congressional wage bill opponents seated on the same platform with him he said bluntly:

"To those in and out of public office, who still believe in the feudal system—and believe in it honestly—the people of the United States and in every section of the United States are going to say 'we are sorry, but we want people to represent us whose minds are cast in the 1938 mould and not in the 1898 mould'."

They'd Like To Have This Gal In A Bathing Suit

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 24 (AP)—Two highbrow film writers canvassed the field of literature today for an excuse to put Danielle Darrieux into a bathing suit.

If you've seen "Dan-yell Darrieux," you know why.

Not since Dietrich burned up the sands in "Morocco" has feminine underpinning caused such furor hereabouts. And on the theory that as Hollywood goes, so goes the nation, Universal is budgeting Miss Darrieux's first American picture for a million dollars.

Miss Darrieux is a 29-year-old French girl. She is tall and slender like Siegfried's ideal chorus beauty. She is naturally at home in a bathing suit. She likes to swim.

She finally started work this week after collecting better than $80,000 and waiting more than four months while Universal got a story ready for her. The story still isn't quite ready. But it has a title, "The Song of Paris" and it is expected to have a bathing suit sequence soon.

Fifty seamstresses have toiled on Miss Darrieux's costumes. There isn't a pair of slacks in the lot.

Blonde Joan Bennett's health remained at par but she nursed today a facial cut she suffered in a movie mob scene. She was being carried out of a fight in "The Texans" by Hero Randolph Scott when a soldier-extra's bayonet grazed her face.

Uncover Skeleton Near Scene Of Alleged Murder

POCAHONTAS, Ark., Mar. 24 (AP)—Prosecutor Shelby C. Ferguson said today an investigation into the finding of a skeleton in an abandoned storm cellar near where was proceeding on the theory the victim was the invalid husband of 50-year-old Mrs. Cora Treuba Hebner, who is held on murder charges.

The woman told a coroner's jury yesterday that she was confident the skeleton was not that of her husband, Will Hebner, who has been missing several months. She said she did not know his present whereabouts.

Neighbors complained to Sheriff John T. Thompson concerning Hebner's disappearance several months ago. He said he investigated and was told by Mrs. Hebner that she had placed her husband in a St. Louis hospital.

15th U.S. Infantry Back On Home Soil

TACOMA, Wash., Mar. 24 (AP)—The 15th United States Infantry regiment was on American soil today for the first time since 1911.

The regiment came from its 26 years of patrol duty in China yesterday on the army transport U. S. Grant. The 800 officers and men and nearly that many women and children commenced early today taking prized Oriental possessions through customs in preparation for a permanent stay at nearby Fort Lewis.

The first question asked by returning soldiers came from a crowded deck: "How much," said a husky voice, "do they get for beer in this town?"

IN PEACE—A 'FLYING YACHT'; IN WAR—A 'DREADNAUGHT' is claim for this Seversky-designed, 120-passenger plane shown in artist's drawing. Ship would weigh 300,000 pounds and have top speed of 300 miles an hour. For war purposes, the plane could carry ten 2,000-pound bombs 12,000 miles, says Seversky Aircraft corporation of Farmingdale, N. Y.

WHAT IS CZECHOSLOVAKIA'S FUTURE?

IF HITLER DREAMS OF CZECH CONQUEST, thinks that some day these Praha streets will echo the sound of Nazi goose-stepping instead of, as above, the march of Czech soldiers welcoming Hussainia's King Carol, he must reckon with Czech determination to resist. Observers believe that France and Russia will not permit Hitler to repeat the Austrian coup.

DESOLATE CAMP ON ICE FLOE was left without regret by four Russian scientists, who drifted 1,000 miles from North Pole to a point off Greenland before Feb. 19 rescue. Valuable records compiled by the scientists in the Arctic were brought back to the Soviet Union.

A DEVOUT PEOPLE. Czechs are dominantly Roman Catholic and their love of holy rites such as this St. Wenceslaus Day procession in Praha could never be reconciled with Nazi neo-paganism. In case of war there might be the curious phenomenon of non-religious Russia aiding Catholic Czechs. Free exercise of religious beliefs is guaranteed all creeds.

Envy of every delegate attending a convention: The man who succeeded in eluding his wife and is present sans attachment. Ah, but he is a rare specimen of a rare accomplishment—he has done what you tried to do and failed. While he flits gaily from place to place...

Then there is that type of convention goer who is the perfect gentleman and probably asked his wife to accompany him. But he is as rare as the man who shook the family shackles for one more shady shady.

There is only one consolation about having to take the little woman to a convention. You don't have to spend the entire time while going home trying to think up excuses and apologies for your conduct—or do you?

We Americans are really amusing people. We are so inconsistent, self-contradictory, incongruous and other contrary words. Take the word convention for instance. When we gather for a convention everything in the world is followed but convention. We follow the leader—he follows the bottle—and a hang-over follows that. You see, it is very funny the way we get our words mixed up. Conventionality is something never considered at a convention.

A new dress, new blouse or even a new handkerchief has a way of putting lightness in the feet and music in the air. Sometimes a new ribbon gives one a different slant on life. And a new dress gives one strength to conquer the unconquerable. When you are feeling "blue" I would suggest the buying of something completely new. You'll be a new woman.

NLRB Hearing Moves Monday

HOUSTON, Mar. 23 (AP)—The national labor relations board hearing on charges of Wagner act violation by the Humble company at Baytown entered its scheduled last day today.

The hearing is scheduled to move to Corpus Christi Monday for the testimony of employees at the Humble company's Ingleside refinery after witnesses for the employees federation present bargaining agency, yesterday denied the company fostered their organization.

The CIO controlled oil workers union charged the federation is a "company union" and that members of the oil workers local had been intimidated by their employers when a strike was threatened in 1936.

Armand Loriaux, a Belgian, professed the uniform line accusation, which permitted the same line to be played on "out and in" fellows.

Preached Own Funeral Last Year, Now Is 'Too Darned Busy' To Die

COATESVILLE, Ind., Mar. 24 (AP) Wade Millman, 50-year-old farmer who "preached" his own funeral sermon to a curious crowd of 5,000 last spring, is "just too darned busy to die," he said.

"I'm still a game old devil," he told a reporter who found him busily reading a pile of fan mail in the shade of an elm tree on his farm near Coatesville.

"I ain't dead yet. I'm just too darned busy to die."

A lot of his mail comes from women, he explained.

"They either want to marry me, or work for me," he said. Millman's wife died shortly before he gave his funeral sermon. Lately he has been doing his own housework, making his bed, cooking his meals and doing the "straightenin' up."

Vigorously shaking his homemade walking stick, the grizzled old farmer declared:

"Why, young feller, I ain't agoin' to die for a long, long time. My old dad lived to be 102. My sister is 96. I weigh 182 pounds, I'm never sick. Never felt better for years. My hearing may be bad, my right eye may not be so good, but I ain't no fool by a long ways."

The Kansas Farmer and The AP

KANSAS lawyers were selecting jurors to hear an important case. One elderly, windbitten farmer was asked on what he formed his opinions.

"Do you read the newspapers?" the lawyer asked.

"Usually."

"Do you believe what you read in the newspapers?"

"Well, no," the farmer hesitated.

"Answer the question, please."

"When it is 'By The Associated Press,' I believe it," the farmer said.

YEARS of honest effort to present the daily intelligence of the world to the American people, without bias, without prejudice, without distortion, objectively and clearly and with regard for the decencies of life, put those words in the mouth of the Kansas farmer.

One of the priceless possessions of the American people is its free press. The Associated Press is proud to stand for that. It assembles and distributes a daily record of today's history which all men may read with confidence.

Business Map Encouraging

Employment, Payrolls, Store Sales Are Improved

AUSTIN, Mar. 24 (AP)—The Texas business map exhibited some encouraging spots in February. The University of Texas bureau of business research reported today employment and payrolls, electric power consumption, dairy products and department store sales continued encouraging trends.

Employment dropped 9 per cent under January but the 107,644 workers were 2.3 per cent more than in February last year. They received $2,557,394 weekly, or 2 per cent more than in January and 2.7 per cent more than in February, 1937.

Amarillo, Austin, El Paso, Galveston and Houston showed greater than average gains.

Butter, cheese and ice cream production made substantial gains over February, 1937. No comparison with January was reported.

Abilene, Houston, Lubbock and Fort Arthur exceeded the state average in department store sales, which slumped 5.8 under January but were 3.6 per cent above February, 1937.

Rootless Plant Eats Mosquitos

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Mar. 24 (AP)—Meet Mr. Bladderwort! He comes from the Chicago district. He is a plant. You know, like spinach. Only he grows under water, has tender green foliage, and shoots cute little yellow flowers to the surface.

Mr. Bladderwort has no roots. He doesn't need them. He eats whitish, gill bottles, dragon fly nymphs, the predacious diving beetle, and mosquito larvae.

That sounds awful, but he's only living up to his family name—urticari vulgaris.

J. Loyell Clarke, sanitary engineer of Oak Park, Ill., told the New Jersey Mosquito Control association today that Mr. Bladderwort might be the great white hope of New Jersey, whose tri-motored, double-acting, compound sketeers have made it famous the world over.

He placed a bladderwort plant in a glass bowl containing 1,800 small mosquito larvae, and Mr. Bladderwort permitted only three to escape alive.

The baby mosquitoes dive down to the plant for a bite to eat and get caught in Mr. Bladderwort's clutches.

Procedure Changed On Interviews For Age Pensions

Procedure in investigations and granting of interviews has been changed in this district of the state old age assistance commission, George White, district supervisor, said.

In order to expedite work, all conferences except on original applications will result in definite appointments for office interviews.

Original applications still demand field investigations.

Office interviews, assigned by letter from the district office, may call for further field work in some cases, White said. The appointments became necessary because of the need of conserving time in order to keep investigations on schedule.

Oil, Gas Stocks Getting Too Big, Ickes Asserts

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24 (AP)—Secretary Ickes told his press conference today that "something ought to be done" about over production of oil.

Gas and oil stocks, he said, were getting too high for the best interests of the market, but that his department had no power to act.

"Something ought to be done about these excessive supplies," he said, "but we are a little hesitant to offer our services again after past failures to get the companies to support oil conservation legislation."

"I have always contended," he added, "that we can preserve crude more effectively underground. Besides, it is safer and cheaper. The companies, themselves, should realize they could serve themselves best by not taking excessive supplies from the ground."

Czechoslovakia Has Military Punch To Back Her Warning To Invaders

By the AP Feature Service

Czechoslovakia always has stuck its chin out to Germany, on the map. That chin is the western extremity, where rich Bohemia is located. Since Germany has absorbed Austria, Czechoslovakia's neck is out too, as the smaller map to the right shows.

Little Czechoslovakia's position in the face of Hitler's ambitions has been made more jittery by the Nazis' avowed determination to protect Germans outside the borders. Three and a half million Germans live in Czechoslovakia, most of them rabidly pro-Nazi.

But Czechoslovakia, like a Chow dog growling at a mastiff, has courageously warned the world that she will defend herself against sudden attack.

Little Czechoslovakia Is Rich In Industries And Resources

SKODA MOUNTAIN PLANT, in Bohemia, near Pilsen, is a vast project. It has been said if it could turn loose all the war machinery it is capable of producing it could whip a large part of the world single-handed.

THE ARMY is small—180,000, with 1,000,000 men in reserve—but it is said to be well equipped. Realizing the next war is likely to be against civilians, citizens between the ages of 6 and 30, men and women, boys and girls, have been drilled in what to do in case of air raids, gas attacks and fire.

Engineers Receive Orders For Spring Highway Improvements

AUSTIN, Mar. 24 (AP)—Engineers received orders from the highway commission today for numerous road improvements in addition to major projects contemplated for spring.

The commissioners yesterday earmarked $50,000 for purchasing and installing at locations to be determined by surveys 120 flasher type traffic lights and 40 stop and go signals and authorized expenditure of $24,508 for painting center stripes on 1,097 miles to be designated in Houston, Yoakum, Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Beaumont, Pharr and Del Rio divisions.

In addition, they earmarked $8,500 for operating from June 1 to Sept. 1 information offices at Becham, Farwell, Texline, Shamrock, Wichita Falls, Galveston, Denison, Paris, Marshall and Orange and for continued operation of other offices at Laredo, Texarkana and El Paso.

Other orders by counties included:

- Hill, asphalt surfacing U. S. highway 77 from the Ellis county line 2.9 miles south.
- Midland, asphalt surfacing U. S. highway 80 from the Ector county line to Warfield.
- Harrison, asphalt surfacing U. S. highway 80 from Hallsville to Marshall.

Land Leases To Be Auctioned

AUSTIN, Mar. 24 (AP)—Leases to 73 tracts of University of Texas land in Andrews, Crane, Crockett and Ward counties, in or adjacent to oil production, will be auctioned here tomorrow.

The auction will be in charge of Col. E. Walters of Skedee, Okla., booming-voiced veteran who has conducted five previous sales for the university.

Of the more than 11,600 acres, 46 tracts are out of a block of 294,000 acres owned by the university in Andrews county; 20 are in Crane, five in Crockett and two in Ward. They range from 153 to 168 acres in size.

The last auction, in October of 1937, brought $621,900 for oil and gas rights to 10,896 acres in West Texas land, setting a new high of $57.07 average per acre. The lowest average was $28.84 on lands auctioned in June last year.

COAST PAPERS TAKE STRIKE VOTE SUNDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24 (AP)—The Northern California News paper Guild membership will take a strike vote Sunday against four San Francisco newspapers and one Oakland paper.

A deadlock in negotiations with publishers for a 1938 agreement, guild officers said, resulted last night in a recommendation by the guild's executive council that the vote be taken to authorize union negotiators to call a strike.

Newspapers involved are the San Francisco Chronicle, News-Examiner and Call-Bulletin and the Oakland Post-Enquirer. The Chronicle is locally owned, The News is a member of the Scripps-Howard chain and the other three are Hearst papers. Publishers' representatives told guild negotiators they were unable to accept what guild officials said were 12 fundamental demands. These included the guild shop, overtime and dismissal pay and no staff reductions because of making effective the proposed agreement.

CAGE READY TO DISPLAY DRUNKS

WOBURN, Mass., Mar. 24 (AP)—A trailer license and Mayor William Kane's long-planned "Bon's cage for drunks" will be ready to show Woburn inmates through the streets on an exhibition.

The crash of a bottle of mineral water against the steel sides of the mayor's tippers' last christened the red-wheeler chariot last night.

Mayor Kane, a former marine, announced he was ready to stage his projected Saturday night display of inebriates as soon as the cage is licensed by the Massachusetts motor vehicle registry.

THE SPORTS PARADE By HANK HART

Landis Ruling Has Several Jumping

The ruling Judge K. M. Landis handed down yesterday against the St. Louis Cardinals when he set an estimated 100 players free from the Red Bird Cardinal "farm system" and fined offending owners $3,176 for not settling so well with several parties connected with the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league who have been accused of "tampering" with a franchise holder's players.

Why? Because Jim Payne, the franchise holder, has about all the written evidence he needs to swing on many rights and left as he cares to and suffer no ill consequences. Since he first suspected that certain parties were trying to crowd him out of the picture at the beginning of the year he has been collecting his evidence and finally has accumulated exactly what he wanted.

You'll have to hand it to old Jim. There's one thing about it. He knows the game from A to Z, every rule and regulation and the penalty for breaking said rules and regulations and don't think that he doesn't know what he's talking about.

League officials have been far too quiet about the next league meeting. Most of the managers have received a silent hint that the confab is to be held here Sunday but no official announcement has come from headquarters yet.

At any rate when the meeting does come to order, Payne and Milton Price, league proxy, will come face to face for the first time since the Lubbock session and the battle royal may be on.

Jim is expected to have support from several worthy fans of Roswell, N. M., his town who will be on hand to explain, if the need arises, to back up Payne with their support.

Upon being accused this week of trying a lone wolf's role in efforts to break up the league, Payne retorted by saying that he believed that two or three men were capable of that job, especially when he had the guiding hand of the legislative body of baseball backing him up.

Sportmen Cooperate In Coahoma Drive

Sportmen of this area unlimbered their guns in the Vincent area north of Coahoma Monday when a 100 or more participated in a rabbit drive that netted about 1,000 of the desperados.

The drive was conducted over the Noble Read ranch. Many gun bearers from Big Spring helped to sweep the countryside.

San Angelo's junior high school football team has started spring training and the "varsity" squad is expected to don their working togs within the near future.

Bobby Blackburn is handling the Concho Kittens and has more than 20 young athletes to handle.

Mrs. E. E. Blount's cousin, Tony York, who was taken to the Chicago Cubs' training camp at Santa Catalina, Calif., paused in Big Spring this morning en route to Marshall where he will join the St. Paul Saints for the remainder of the training season.

Tony, who was with Tulsa last year, had little chance to prove his worth due to the fact that Manager Charlie Grimm was working Tony Lauer and Bill Jurgas as a double play combination but he farmed him out with the idea of bringing him back immediately if needed.

There have been rumors that the Bruins are dissatisfied with their training quarters on Santa Catalina and York backs that statement up by stating that the Bruins had but three days in which to put in their full time on the field.

COLLEGE SWIM MEET BEGINS

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Mar. 24 (AP)—One hundred fifty-two swimmers representing 34 institutions will compete for nine individual and two relay titles in the 35th annual national intercollegiate championships tomorrow and Saturday at Rutgers university pool.

Yale, with 15, has the largest entry for the team title. Michigan, defending titleholder, and Ohio State each entered 12, and Harvard, eastern intercollegiate champion, and Texas entered 11 each.

Rickey Is Silent On Landis Decision Youngsters In Decision Are Of Class D

Jimmy Webb Only One Affected On Cards, Fines Small

By GAYLE TALBOT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 24 (AP)—The citrus circuit wonder today whether Branch Rickey, the "David Harum" of baseball and adduct of gentlemen's agreements, was going to take lying down the whacking around he and the St. Louis Cardinals got from Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis yesterday.

Up to a late hour last night Rickey still was studying the judge's lengthy tome and declining to make a statement of any kind. He would not even enter a plea of "not guilty" because of getting caught, but there was a feeling that he would have something to say today about all these lovely young players the cat turned loose and the fines he imposed.

The judge, if you were not listening when he emerged from his hibernation at nearby Belleair yesterday, made free agents out of practically all the plays on six Midwest clubs, including Cedar Rapids of the Three-Eye league, because he said the Cardinals had been conspiring clandestinely with Cedar Rapids for the last two seasons.

Rickey, as head of the Cards farm system, was the principal target. It has been fairly common knowledge for a long time that Landis wanted to "catch" the St. Louis slicker, and the surprise was that he didn't crack down harder when he got the evidence.

The judge said, though, that he desired to take only the "remedial and preventive action" required to end the situation.

As a matter of fact, all the Cards lose are their strings on about 100 young players, most of them of class D calibre. Only one is being given a tryout by the Cards here this spring. He is Jimmy Webb, a shortstop who was at Cedar Rapids in 1938.

Fined Only $2,176

The Cards, of course, will have to pay $2,176 in fines imposed on these of their clubs, but that is not enough to bother Rickey. More sympathy was felt for the 17 members of the Monett club of the Arkansas-Missouri league who must find new jobs at this late date.

Those declared free agents on the other teams will be permitted to sign back for 1938 if they don't receive better offers.

There was some conjecture whether the big league clubs who are on the lookout for promising material for their farm systems would go after the cream of those turned loose by Landis. They might not regard it as cricket to take advantage of Rickey's slip-up, and so leave the lads no alternative but to sign right back into the chain gang.

Some regarded the decision as the most important and far reaching delivered by Judge Landis in his many years on baseball's highest bench. They saw in it a death to gentlemen's agreements, between major and minor league clubs, and predicted that those who have been skirting the law would sign the pledge.

Bruins Favored In Hockey Duel

NEW YORK, Mar. 24 (AP)—The bruising Boston Bruins, seeking their first national hockey league title and Stanley cup since 1929, invade Toronto tonight for the opening battle of a best-of-five series with the high-scoring Maple Leafs. To the winner goes the N. H. L. championship as well as a place in the final round for the cup.

The Bruins, on their fine record in the regular season and their nice balance between defense and offense, are favorites to come through this opening engagement, and, eventually, to professional hockey's world title.

But in the eyes of at least one competent observer, there isn't over-much to choose between the rivals. That observer is Lester Patrick, whose own New York Rangers attempt to square their best-of-three second-place series with the New York Americans tonight at Madison Square Garden. Tonight's third game finds the Montreal Canadiens out to make it two straight over the Blackhawks at Chicago.

Sox Rookie May Be Star Of Year

By DILLON GRAHAM AP Feature Service Writer

SARASOTA, Fla., Mar. 24—Ted Williams, Boston's young outfielder, has yet to feel the sharp scrape of a keen razor and the glowing flush of a warm, wet towel banked about his jaws.

There's a bit of soft fuzzy down on his chin but the 19-year-old outfielder from San Diego says he won't be in the market for a shave for some time.

Williams is the kid Pacific coast writers tabbed as a second DiMaggio. Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox unbundled a roll of bank notes and a couple of players to outfit other clubs for him.

But Ted is a trifle upset by all this praise. He thinks the scribes poured it on too thick. "I'm just a punk trying to get along," he grins. "I've never even seen DiMaggio play but from all I have read about him, I know I'm not in his class, yet."

When He Grows Up

Ted is a beanpole, 6-foot-3 and 170 pounds. But when he grows up and that lanky frame fills out he's going to be some pumpkin. He is just a year off the sandlots. Ted turned down a scholarship at the University of Southern California for a whir with San Diego, and woke up to find himself in a major league uniform.

That long trip east was quite a sight-seeing expedition for him.

TED WILLIAMS—very promising. He'd never been east of California before. He feels he owes a lot to Lefty

O'Doul, manager of the Seals. It's this way: Williams was doing quite a bit of bench-sitting until O'Doul made an offer for him. Then San Diego suddenly realized he might be a fancy package and poked him into the outfield. If Lefty hadn't popped up with a bid Ted might still be getting bench splinters in his pants.

His biggest thrills last year came when he hit two home runs in a game three times. He was fifth in the league runs batted in. And he hit .391, belting out 25 homers.

Needed: Experience

"I should have hit better, but I've got a lazy disposition and when the jockeys out there started riding me I got discouraged and for awhile just didn't give a darn."

He's a pull ball hitter. "They say I'm a wrist hitter. I take a medium-sized cut at the ball and don't try to kill it every time."

He was a pitcher in Hoover high school in San Diego but when he turned pro they took a look at his batting average—439 for three years—and promptly directed him to the outfield.

Williams is afraid the Red Sox have too much outfield talent—Cramer, Chapman and Vosmik—for him to break in as a regular this year.

"And if I can't get in games pretty regularly, I'd rather they'd ship me to the minors for another season. I guess I could stand some more experience."

GALVESTON ANICOS EDGE OUT TOPEKA IN FEM'S AAU MEET

Play Wamego In Q'Finals Tonight

WICHITA, Kas., Mar. 24 (AP)—Queen Ludene Duke's Tupelo, Miss., lassies and seven seeded sextets barged into quarterfinals of the women's National AAU basketball tournament today with her royal highness cohorts decidedly on the spot.

Tupelo and Miss Duke, the tournament's beauty queen, spilled the seeded Lambuth Collegians of Jackson, Tenn., last night 29-23. "Tonight they must prove against the high schoolers which is an exact tiebreaker."

The favored Galveston, Tex., Anicos rallied sensationally in the fourth quarter to come from behind and eliminate Topeka, Kas., 18-11 and the defending champion Little Rock Flyers easily disposed of Bremerion, Wash., 25-12.

Galveston's quarterfinal opponent back Tampa, Fla., 24-19. Little Rock, who won the title last year, was out of the National University 23-13.

Wichita was hard pressed to defeat Wolfe City, Tex., high school in the other second round game, 17-14.

John McCarthy Leads Hitters

Giant First Sacker Has Connected In Every Game

By the Associated Press BATAVIA, N. Y., Mar. 24 (AP)—John McCarthy, firmly installed at first base for the New York Giants, is the Giants' leading hitter. He has hit safely in every exhibition game and added "three for five" against the Athletics yesterday to boost his average to well above the .500 mark.

DONALD STRENGTHENS BID FOR MAJOR BERTH

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Atley Donald, the ex-Newark Base pitcher who is trying for a place on the New York Yankees' staff, strengthened his bid considerably yesterday against the Boston Bees. Donald yielded five hits in as many innings but only one run.

FITZSIMMONS FEELS BEST IN 5 YEARS, OPPOSES SINTS

LAKELAND, Fla.—Pat Freddy Fitzsimmons thinks Bill Terry made a mistake when he traded him to the Brooklyn Dodgers. The knuckleball master claims his arm is looser than it has been in five years and that he will be able to convince Bill of his mistake when he takes the mound against the Giants in the regular season.

BROWNS GET RIBBING BUT TRIM MISSION, 4-0

SAN ANTONIO—The St. Louis Browns weathered a ribbing from Texas league fans yesterday when the fans heard a rumor the Browns had gone "on a perfume buying expedition" at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. The fans rode the team throughout the game with San Antonio but it didn't "phase" the Browns. They beat the Missions, 4 to 0.

Luisetti Movie Try May Prove Successful

Stanford Cage Star To Get $10,000 For First Try

By HUBBARD KEAVY HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 24 (AP)—Hank Luisetti is an exceptional basketball player and he may be another exception to the rule that sports stars do not become movie stars.

If the law of averages is still working in these parts (some folks who have been between pictures for a long time are getting suspicious), it's about due to drop another jackpot. Maybe Luisetti will catch it.

Dozens of other sports stars, put on the screen with all the advantages—sports coaches and make-up artists and such can offer, failed to register. Only one so far has amounted to anything big cinematically.

The name is Sonja Henie, whose 13.1 film was appropriately titled "One in a Million."

Luisetti, high scorer for the Stanford team, has a box office name. That's why Paramount signed him up the other day for a possible seven years. He may be star stuff.

He'll earn $10,000, as the star of one film, before he and his studio learn whether he has what it takes. It does take it, you'll recall. Babe Ruth didn't have it, nor did Gene Tunney, nor Max Baer nor Jack Dempsey. They, like many another, were one-picture stars.

Johnny Mack Brown, who won the Rose Bowl game for Alabama back in 1926, got off to a swell start, but he didn't become a star. He's a serial here these days.

H. Moody Maps Net Comeback

Former Champ Slated To Compete In Great Britain And Europe

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 24 (AP)—Admittedly as "thrilled" as when she prepared for her first trip abroad many years ago, Helen Williams Moody looked forward today to a tennis comeback which will carry her through tournaments in England, continental Europe and the United States.

The former many-times American and Wimbledon champion confirmed the announcement by the United States Lawn Tennis association that she would be a member of the Wightman cup team this year, as well as seek the national and all-England crowns.

Hoping to regain laurels she held when she was the undisputed "queen of the courts," Mrs. Moody said she would sail for England early in May. She has not yet decided on the exact departure date.

To Wimbledon

Preparatory to the Wimbledon tournament, she will play in a couple of small tournaments in England, she said. She will play with the American Wimbledon cup team against the British June 10 and 11, and on June 20 will seek to regain the all-English title she has held many times.

On July 8 Mrs. Moody will play in the German championship, and later take part in tournaments in Poland.

She will return to the United States in September to prepare for the national championship, following which she will undertake a seven-week lecture tour of this country.

Mrs. Moody predicted the United States would retain the Wightman cup, pointing out that England would be without the services of one of its finest players, Mrs. Douglas Leigh Little, the former Miss Dorothy Round.

HELEN TO PLAY ON CUP TEAM

NEW YORK, Mar. 24 (AP)—With Helen Wills Moody, one-time queen of the courts, back in the lineup, the United States will present this summer one of the strongest Wightman cup teams in the history of the competition.

The squad, in addition to Mrs. Moody, includes Alice Marble, Helen Jacobs, Dorothy Bundy and Gracey Wheeler, all of California, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabjan, of Brookline, Mass. Miss Wheeler was chosen as alternate on the team, which includes five of the six top-ranking singles players.

Doyle Still Bets Against Jones

By EDDIE DRIEST PINEHURST, N. C., Mar. 24 (AP)—Jack Doyle, the betting commissioner, who lost a fortune betting against Bobby Jones when Bobby was in his heyday, is quoting the Atlanta at 25 to 1 for the approaching masters' tournament at Atlanta and betting even money he doesn't finish higher than fifth.

Bobby Cruikshank, the Richmond pro, who currently is among the leaders in the North and South, played yesterday with a worried putter. "I'll order a carload of them," he promised.

Wallace Wade, Duke football coach, is taking in the North and South and shooting a pretty fair game of his own. "Another celebrity here is Lew James, first tenor of the famous Revelers radio quartet, who also hits the low 90's in golf every now and then. Jimmy Fox, one of baseball's longest hitters, lost a driving contest to Jimmy Thomson in Sarasota. Thomson drove exactly 345 yards. Jimmy was just 69 yards short. They say they had five works, a parade and all for the premiere of the Lon Gehrig movie in St. Pete yesterday. Interviewed on the eve of the North and South Tuesday night, Sam Snead said, "Oh, no, I'm not a bit nervous. This is just another golf tournament for me. But those who dined with him noticed that he used two forks (and no knife) throughout a pretty healthy meal. So, the guy probably wasn't nervous at all."

Evidence Forwarded To Landis—Payne's "Tampering" Charges Involve Two

James E. Payne, holder of the Roswell, N. M., West Texas-New Mexico league baseball franchise, advised The Herald today that he had filed charges against Milton E. Price, league president, and Jack Zellner, business manager of the Roswell Texas League team for alleged "tampering" with a ball player under contract to Payne.

Charges as filed by Payne were forwarded to Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball. Evidence sent Landis, Payne said, consists of letters pertaining to the Roswell situation to Payne from Price and Zellner, and letters from Price and Zellner to players under contract in Payne and letters from players under contract to Payne advising the franchise holder that Noel Babe, manager of the Roswell club last year, had offered them contracts.

Landis is in Bellair, Fla., on a vacation and is considering the case there.

Bouts Sought For Other BS Battlers

Alton Bostick And Yanz Yanz May Go To San Angelo

Five Big Spring fighters may appear on the San Angelo Texas Amateur Athletic Federation card Friday night if Don Legge, promoter, can find suitable opponents for them.

Legge had previously lined up bouts for Ellis Head, lightweight; Red Womack, bantam; and Johnny Owens, feather; and today was searching for someone to fight Alton Bostick, welter; and Yanz Yanz, flyweight. Bostick fought on a TAAAF show in Angelo several weeks ago.

Read and Womack will be featured in Friday night's featured bouts. The lightweight's opponent will be the same 135-pounder who met and lost to him two weeks ago—Charles Carter. Carter, after being kayoed in the third round, asked for a rematch. Womack fights Noah Valdes who requested a duel with the Big Spring red head when O'Dell pumped his way to a decision over Cecil Knox of San Angelo.

Owens, scheduled to fight in Angelo two weeks ago but who had his bout called off due to illness, will go to bat with Wayne Casson of San Angelo.

Chezzi Paces North-South Golfers

NJ Italian Scorches Fairways With 63, Nelson Second

PINEHURST, N. C., Mar. 24 (AP)—The start of the second 18 hole round of the North and South golf tournament today found eleven top flight golfers within five strokes of pacesetter Victor Ghezzi, Italian links artist from Deal, N. J.

Ghezzi scorched the fairways for a blistering four under par 68 in yesterday's opening round, but had only a stroke lead over young Bryn on Nelson of Reading, Pa., and Ed Dudley, veteran Augusta, Ga., pro. Each had a 69.

Two strokes behind the leader, at 70, were Denny Shute of West Newton, Mass., Bobby Cruikshank of Richmond, Va., and Leonard Dodson of Springfield, Mo.

Two of the pre-tournament favorites, Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., and Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., were in the 75 bracket.

Today's 18-hole round will cut the field almost in half for Friday's drive down the stretch and a $4,000 bag of gold.

Hutch Return Is Delayed

Remains In Monahan's Due To Illness In Family

Due to unexpected illness in the family, Jack Hutchison was unable to return to Big Spring from his home in Monahan Wednesday and as a result construction on the Big Spring baseball park has been held up momentarily.

Hutch, in a telephone conversation here, said that he would return to Big Spring as soon as possible and complete plans for the West Fifth and San Antonio streets plant.

While no official word has come from the office of West Texas-New Mexico League President Milton Price, Hutch is thought to be returning here to attend the cantab which had tentatively been set for Sunday.

Despite Hurts, Cubs Appear As Top Club

Carleton Injured But Allows Sox Only One Hit

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 24 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, to all appearances, have taken a jigger of the old bromide commonly known as "The Fighting Spirit" and seem ready to do or die for the home town, P. K. Wrigley and a hot bonus at the end of the 1938 baseball war.

The club reached the mainland from its training camp at Catalina Island in condition far ahead of schedule, and has proceeded to chew all opposition to bits. The Cubs look so good that many experts have already selected him to crawl out on to pick them for the top spot in the National league.

Casualties, which wrecked the Cub pennant hopes last year, have appeared, but nothing serious has occurred to mar the club's hopes.

Rangy Tex Carleton twisted an ankle the first day on the island, and for two weeks it looked like the knp on one of Harry Lauer's games.

But old Tex stepped out to the mound for the first time here, without benefit of some an ankle-club game, and pitched the White Sox into scoreless submission for four innings and allowed but one hit and fanned three.

Bill Lee, the big, burly one from Louisiana, shapes up as one of the Cubs' best pitching bets, and high hopes are pinned on young Clay Bryant, who was used mainly for relief work last year.

Patty Berg Adds To Mid-South Advantage

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., Mar. 24 (AP)—Southern Patty Berg was the player to overtake today in the final 18-hole round of the women's mid-South golf tournament.

The Minneapolis red-head, winner of many of the Florida tournaments, had an eight-stroke lead over Jane Cochran of West Palm Beach, Fla., after the first two rounds. Miss Berg added a 76 yesterday to her 75 of Tuesday for a 151-hole total of 151.

McDonald Meechum, Houston, chairman of the chamber's tax committee, was to explain this activity.

M. R. Ball, chairman of the entertainment committee, said plans were made for 350 guests at the luncheon preceding the business session. E. L. Smith, Mexia, and Hubert Harrison, Longview, president and vice president, respectively, were in charge.

The roster of speakers included: also Paul T. Sanders, Trinity; M. E. Dorsey, Grapeland; Burris C. Jackson, Hillsboro; Gus Blankenship, Jacksonville, and Lamar Fleming, Jr., Houston.

Proration figures on citrus fixed.

WESLACO, Mar. 24 (AP)—Weekly proration of 225,000 standard boxes of Rio Grande Valley grapefruit for interstate commerce have been suggested by the statistical department of the growers industry committee. The department estimated there would remain 796,807 boxes of grapefruit for movement after this week. A weekly allowable of 225,000 boxes for three weeks was recommended.

Next week's allowable was set at that figure—25,000 boxes under the proration for the current week.

The shipping season officially closes May 1 when all fruit must be off the trees under quarantine regulations.

Convict-Made Music Goes Over Walls

Radio Program From Prison Acquaints Public With Work

HUNTSVILLE, Mar. 24 (AP)—Convict-made music hurried prison walls via radio here last night for the first time in the history of the Texas prison system.

The broadcast, over station WBAP of Fort Worth, was the first of a series of weekly programs designed to give outsiders "30 minutes behind the walls" and to acquaint the public with the rehabilitation activities in prison. Members of the prison board who arranged the broadcasts said the programs would include material to indicate that convicts are being prepared to resume their places in organized society upon their release.

Gov. James V. Allred, on the opening program, said he hoped the series of broadcasts would "present a word picture of conditions as they are, contrasted with what they have been."

The broadcasts are prepared, announced and presented by inmates. Last night's announcer was L. C. Keel, of Ardmore, Okla., serving 30 years for robbery. The orchestra leader was Jack Purvis of El Paso, serving 25 years for robbery.

Negro spirituals and swing music were among the offerings "last night."

The strains of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, For To Carry Me Home" frequently have been heard in the cotton patches of the prison system farms, but the radio broadcasts offered prisoners their first opportunity to project their talents from behind the walls.

Americans To Be Tried In Bahamas

Two American, J. Forrester Scott and Stanley Boynton of Philadelphia, were ordered to face the red-robed, long-wigged chief justice of the supreme court, Sir Richard Tuten, knight templar, on charges of attempting to abduct Scott's two daughters. The maximum penalty is two years imprisonment.

FSA Program Moving Along

Plans About Complete For All Borrowers In County

Farm and home plans for practically all borrowers in this county are completed, W. H. Gore, county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, said today. He said that many of these farmers are being enabled to rent better land than before. In spite of the fact that most of them were on relief a few years ago, FSA borrowers are now being sought by landowners, the supervisor said. In one county, the owner of 40 farms requested FSA's supervisor to provide him with rural rehabilitation clients to operate all of them. He gave as his reason that he had observed progress made by clients under guidance of the county supervisors. He had seen that all were required to follow soil conservation practices recommended by the extension service to the fullest possible extent which was practical on their farms.

The FSA supervisor said that progress has also been made in bringing about a closer partnership between clients and landlords, under which longer leases are being obtained and improvements made on the farms which are bringing about increased profit for both the landlord and the tenant. More than 95 per cent of FSA clients have written leases, whereas less than 25 per cent had written leases on farms which they were operating three years ago. A new FSA lease form is soon to be distributed to tenants and owners, for their study. It provides compensation to tenants and owners, for certain improvements which they make on lands and buildings, similar to provisions of English leases which have brought increased profit to all concerned.

can husband with a thought in his head.

This is because it falls with extraordinary frankness the plain truth about the fashion racket. It tells this in smart English, and there are repetitions. But the kernel of the book is as sound as a hickory nut.

Elizabeth Hawes is a Vassar girl who put herself into the middle in the world of style (not fashion). She began designing clothes as a girl. She did more of it at college and paid her own way by work in Paris while she explored the French dressmaking business, often with her fingers pinching her nostrils together. Now she operates an establishment of her own in New York; it does no harm to mention the fact, for she is too expensive for any but the very rich to bother with.

Her thesis is this: women should study themselves, with the help of an intelligent designer if there is money to use for that purpose. They should decide what becomes them, and should buy that and that alone, no matter what the department store clerks say. Style, Miss Hawes believes, should be the governing factor, not fashion. Style is something which changes only as the thought of a country changes—a style may last a decade or longer. Fashion, she believes, is something arbitrarily decided upon every few months to outmode the clothes you bought and perhaps have not yet worn out.

One of the triumphs of fashion, for example, was getting all the salespeople to dress in afternoon clothes in the morning. Fashion says that Kelly green is the only color one spring, and that two months later you must not have a smidgeon of Kelly green in the house on pain of excommunication. One season only a sole and a collection of strings may be worn on the foot; next season only a dodo would wear anything but Oxfords with half inch thick soles. And so on.

Oh yes—there's a lot about design thievery also—

Color And Flavor Considered In Preparing Mid-Lenten Luncheons

JELLED CRABMEAT
This shiny mold, surrounded by crisp celery, deviled eggs, tomato slices and ripe olives makes a pleasing Lenten luncheon.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, AP Feature Service Writer

It's an ingenious hostess who turns to lighter, gay foods for her mid-Lenten luncheon. She'll take special pains to see that her dishes have a subtle flavor, are interestingly arranged and are pleasing in color.

On a chilly day she'll probably serve a creamy soup, an a la king mixture, a soufflé or a fondus—as the first course.

* She won't have to plan more than two courses if she chooses an interesting main course and a rather light dessert.

Take creamed asparagus, for instance. Instead of serving it in the usual way try arranging a row of toast points around the edge of a platter. Top each with creamed asparagus. Fill in the center with little mounds of buttered carrots, green beans, Harvard beets and potato balls rolled in parsley. Sprinkle the vegetables with melted butter mixed with a little grated cheese, salt and pepper.

Try a salad. Put individual molds of frozen fruit or vegetable salad on cups of crisp lettuce. Have plenty of mayonnaise in a bowl nearby. Add a plateful of ginger muffins for a surprise.

Dice tuna fish or salmon, hard-cooked eggs, peaches and celery up together. Mix in a generous quantity of mayonnaise. Arrange each portion on fresh watercress and surround it with tiny cheese straws.

Stuff fresh tomatoes with cottage cheese seasoned with diced cucumbers, green peppers and nuts. Pass a bread tray full of warm orange bread.

If you want something a little

Uneven Price Level In Oil Industry

Gasoline Demand Sends Bids Up; Fuel Oil Low

TULSA, Okla., Mar. 24 (AP)—The oil industry contemplated a test-tube price structure today, with the current rise in motor fuel at one end of the board balanced by softness in all lines of fuel and lubricating oils on the other end.

Partly under the stimulus of an increase in freight rates due March 23 partly because of the normal increase in demand at this season, gasoline became a sought after commodity. Third grade motor fuel was tight after two increases of an eighth of a cent each in a period of ten days.

Regular, or "house brand" gas-oil was up an eighth of a cent of a gallon at the refinery, the first increase in that product since it hit bottom in the forefront of November.

In the Mid-Continent brokers were seeking to buy gasoline at the refinery in order to take advantage of anticipated increases in service station or tank wagon prices expected when the new freight rates go into effect. Marketers reported there was not much gasoline to be had at prevailing quotations. Refiners were not selling readily at present prices, despite the record amount of gasoline in storage. They hoped for still more improvement.

Fuel, heating and diesel oils, which a few weeks ago were the backbone of the market, got in a slump that brought price reductions on the east coast. In the oil producing states it generally was agreed that business conditions had checked principal outlets such as power plants, railroads, industries and left the industry with an unusual stock of heavier oil on its hands.

The Oil and Gas Journal estimated stocks of gas oils, distillates and residual fuels at more than 22,000,

The Mystery Men of St. Louis still set the pace with 3,035.

Second sign mark of the night was made by Weingarten's of Houston, Texas, bowling on the first squad. Their 2,947 figure entitled them to eighth place in the standings.

Houston Man Is Faced With Two Assault Charges

HOUSTON, Mar. 24 (AP)—Herman T. Williams, 36, faced two charges of assault to murder today in the serious wounding of two men last night in a downtown shooting.

The wounded men, Russell Manieri, 40, former prize fighter, and George S. Beck, 44, pattern worker, were in critical condition in hospitals today. Beck was hit by a stray bullet. Manieri was hit four times.

Captain George Peyton of the police homicide squad said a quarrel over a $32,000 debt led to blows which culminated in the shooting.

Paperhanger Has Busy Time When Shooting Starts

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Mar. 24 (AP)—Paperhanger Albert Muthler, 25, has two arms, but, he said today, he couldn't have had a busier or more breathless night if he'd been the one-armed hanger with the hives.

Muthler was hanging paper by a light on an electric extension cord when a fleeing automobile thief, pursued by two pistol shooting policemen, burst into the house and tripped over the extension cord.

The light bulb smashed, plunging the room into darkness. Its explosion sounded like another shot to Muthler, and he broke into a sprint he couldn't stop even after the policemen cried halt and fired twice at his shadowy figure. Muthler had a .25 calibre bullet in his left knee when the pursuing officers found him hiding under a bed in a nearby second-hand furniture store.

The thief escaped. Ten per cent of the residents of Fall River, Mass., are illiterate.

A Ton Of Feed Every Two Days For Steers At U. S. Experiment Farm

Jot Smith, U.S. Experiment Farm feeder, mixes up a ton of feed every two days and figures about 160 pounds of choice beef as the result.

It takes that much feed to keep the 40 head of white-faced steers going according to schedule at the farm barns and they add an average of two pounds each day for the trouble.

With the calves munching on their afternoon ration, Smith mixed up the morning supply, and here's what it amounted to:

Fourteen pounds of ground threshed milo to 20 head fed the full ration and 11.2 pounds to the remaining 20 fed the ration amounting to 85 per cent of the full quota. Each steer gets 12 pounds of linlage and two and a quarter pounds of cotton seed meal daily. Of inconsequent weight is the black strap molasses, the two pounds of limestone flour and one pound of salt fed to the lot each day.

In so many words, the tests require 504 pounds of ground grain, 480 pounds of linlage, and 100 pounds of meal daily—or a total poundage of around 1,085 daily. At the end of the 180 day feeding period, if all is as well as it is now, the records will show around seven and a half tons of finished flesh added to the steers.

A new twist to the test this year is the feeding of linlage from a trench silo constructed near the barn. This is yielding a choice product and may be the factor which is keeping the calves ahead of the showing last year. At any rate, the demonstration is proving wholly successful.

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think. What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement. What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crumby toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B<sub>2</sub> and iron. Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

PERJURY CHARGE

AUSTIN, Mar. 24 (AP)—C. E. Ruby of Berger stood charged with perjury in a justice of the peace court here today in a complaint brought by C. A. The matter probably will be acted on by a Travis county grand jury in April.

IN CROWDED TOWNS OR IN WIDE OPEN SPACES

The cowboy on the range and the city dweller in his home share at least one thing in common—a love of Administration Coffee. Billed over a camp fire or brewed in the latest coffee-making device, this favorite coffee of Texans everywhere has a tempting deliciousness that cannot be equalled. After all, the TASTE of a coffee is what counts most, and Administration's sparkling, invigorating flavor appeals alike to the out-door man or to those who work in city offices or live at home. Try a pound today—so many Texans can't be wrong.

The cook is of the duck-hog Whistling "Hallelujah in the Green," Making baking-powder biscuits, boys. While the pot is boiling beans. The boys unite their bedding And scrawl it on the run. For they are in a monstrous hurry For the supper's almost done.

"Here's your bloody work!" Cried the cook's smaller voice As he climbed the wagon wheel To watch the cowboys oil rejoice...

... This life is not so sumptuous. I'm not longing for a change, For there is no place so homelike As a cow camp on the range.

Airmail Week Plans Mapped

Dallas Man To Head Activities In This State

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Mar. 24—The "big push" to make National Air Mail week, May 15 to 21, an outstanding event of 1938 for the United States began today when Paul R. Younts, Charlotte, (N. C.), postmaster and national chairman, announced appointments of the state chairmen.

W. Bruce Luna, of Dallas, has been appointed state chairman for Texas.

The national chairman also announced that the National Air Mail week headquarters has forwarded to each state chairman a broad plan for organizing committees to have charge of the many phases of this movement, the greatest of its kind in the history of the United States.

Younts was selected by Postmaster General James A. Farley and Second Assistant Postmaster General Harlow Branch, in charge of air mail, as the national executive of the Air Mail week. Younts said the preliminary work of building up the nation-wide organization, which will extend into each of the 46,000 cities, towns and villages, has met with splendid cooperation in every state.

Similar set-ups, including state, district and local units in a closely knit machine, will be functioning soon in each of the states and territories. The announcement by the national chairman said each state committee will form a district committee in each congressional district and through each district committee the more than 46,000 prospective local committees will coordinate their various activities with the state and national committees.

The purpose of National Air Mail week is to intensify the American people's consciousness of aviation and the air mail, but the more immediate objectives of this far-flung and vigorous movement, which has the full support of the post office department, are at once patriotic and practical. As announced by the national headquarters, these objectives are: To commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of the air mail service that was started by the post office department May 15, 1918; to educate the citizens in the use of air mail, showing its progress, dependability, safety and value, and to increase the use of the air mail to the end that through increased revenues still further expansion of this now essential service will be made possible.

Decision Given On Tax Contracts

AUSTIN, Mar. 24 (AP)—The right of the state to exercise strict supervision over delinquent tax collection contracts executed was upheld again by the supreme court today.

The tribunal voided a contract between El Paso county and a group of "tax ferrets." The county, victorious in lower courts, had contended the primary purpose of the agreement was not to collect delinquent taxes but to add to the current rolls personal property which had been escaping taxation.

The contract provided for payment to the "ferrets" of 25 per cent of current and delinquent taxes collected on personal property they discovered. The maximum in delinquent tax collection contracts is 15 per cent.

Plans Shaping Up For Dairy Show

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 24—Offering the usual free gate, outstanding midway attractions, rodeo, horse show and prospects of appearance of some of the finest cattle in the Panhandle, the eleventh annual Panhandle Plains Dairy show is rapidly being shaped for readiness on April 19 to 23rd, inclusive.

Taking on the air of a spring festival the five-day exposition will be balanced by a varied entertainment program that will include a pageant on Tuesday night when the queen of the dairy show will be selected from young ladies representing Plains and West Texas towns, dances, the Silver State shows on the midway and other attractions.

Pete Smith, show manager, has predicted this year will bring one of the outstanding exhibitions in the history of the association.

C. E. Martin, Hale county agent, general superintendent, said all department superintendents had accepted their posts and were working toward a record breaking exposition.

Plan To Expand Baylor Medical Departments

DALLAS, Mar. 24 (AP)—Plans to strengthen the scientific branches of Baylor university here will be submitted to the semi-annual meeting of the school's board of trustees in Waco April 19, local members of the board announced last night.

Dallas trustees heard the proposal for establishing a huge medical research foundation from Dr. J. F. Kimball, executive vice-president of the university's branches in Dallas. The plan, submitted for alumni of the medical school, would set up an organization to obtain endowment to expand the college and to establish a regional medical research laboratory to study disease conditions peculiar to the southwest.

"We expect to give careful thought to the proposal of the alumni," said Earl B. Smyth, a Dallas trustee. "We appreciate the humanitarian purposes of those who would strengthen the medical school."

Smyth said reports of any proposed change in the Dallas unit's executive set-up were erroneous. Details of the plan for gathering additional funds for the medical school were not made public. A $5,000,000 fund has been mentioned by proponents of the plan.

Sailplane Flights To Be One Of Features At WTCC Convention

WICHITA FALLS, Mar. 24—Visitors attending the twentieth annual West Texas chamber of commerce convention in Wichita Falls on April 25, 26 and 27, will have an opportunity to enjoy sailplane flights to be held by the Soaring Society of America, Wilburn Page, WTCC convention manager, announced today.

The Soaring Society of America will hold an experimental expedition here in Wichita Falls April 10 to May 8, to test soaring conditions over the Great Plains, and these will be in full progress during the WTCC convention week.

The meet will bring many nationally known sailplane pilots, enthusiasts and designers to Wichita Falls for the occasion.

Among those with already announced plans to attend are Lewin Barringer, Philadelphia, manager of the Soaring Society; Richard DuPont, 1937 American soaring champion; Chet Decker, 1936 national champion; Emil Lebecka, New York champion; Dr. Karl Lange, head of the research department of the Blue Hill observatory of Harvard university, numerous other "big names" in the soaring world have given tentative acceptances to invitations to attend.

Barringer believes that the world soaring distance record of 405 miles established in Russia, was set under updraft conditions similar to those that exist over the Texas plains, and expedition leaders are confident a new American record may be established here. A cash prize of $1,000 is offered.

DRUGGISTS SEEK PLEASURE, PROFIT

Big Spring currently is host to a third major convention in less than three weeks as it entertains the Spring assembly of the West Texas Pharmaceutical association.

And it is toward these aims that various business topics on the convention program point.

Of course, the convention is not all business, and nobody intended that it should be.

Big Spring hopes the West Texas drug men find both pleasure and profit in their current convention.

HELPING TO BUILD FUTURE FARMERS

Service clubs—most of them—are engaged in commendable activities, in addition to the prime purpose of their respective organizations.

The Rotary club of Holdenville, Okla., has been assisting some farm boys in their 4-H club projects.

The Big Spring Rotary club cooperated similarly in aiding Howard county farm boys toward showing calves at their first exhibit here this spring.

There can be no more worthy activity for a Rotary club, or any other association of men, than to encourage youths to make a success of a vocation, and to give such assistance as may be needed in beginning the work.

Yet what the sponsors of the Ludlow resolution are trying to do is entitled to all respect. They are trying to make sure that the nation is not taken into a war against its will and without its consent.

WILMINGTON, Del., Mar. 24 (AP)—Lambert duPont, president of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., Inc., declared today he hadn't "the slightest doubt" business could find work for all who "want a job" if given "reasonable certainty" conditions would remain "reasonably stable."

But, he added, "permanent relief" for the needy might become necessary "if business is to be permanently overtaxed, handicapped and impeded."

DuPont described his recent suggestion that 2,000,000 additional men could be put to work in industry at a cost of 25 billion dollars as a statement of fact rather than a "plan."

Army authorities meanwhile

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

(Mr. Lippmann's column is published as an informational and news feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald—Editor's Note.)

GOOD INTENTIONS MISDIRECTED

It may seem astonishing but it is a fact that there exists considerable support in congress for two measures: one to depose the president of his constitutional power to conduct foreign relations before war begins and the other to suspend the constitution and make him a dictator.

LIPPMANN would require a referendum before war may legally be declared. The other (H. R. 9694), reported favorably by the house committee on military affairs, would automatically empower the president, once war is declared, to conscript the whole population and all its property.

Apparently there are congressmen who favor both measures, imagining that they can prevent war by making the president impotent as a diplomat and that they can take the profit out of war by making him omnipotent as a dictator.

The objections to the Ludlow referendum have been explained patiently and fully by Secretary Hull and by ex-Secretary Stimson. They are in substance this: to provide that congress may not declare war until there has been a national referendum is to do two things.

First, it gives notice to foreign powers that the president does not have the authority to speak for the nation, and that he may safely be disregarded until enough time has elapsed to organize and conduct a national election on the issue of whether to declare war.

Second, though the Ludlow resolution would invite foreign powers to strike swiftly before a referendum could be held, no president could fail to take action if irreparable injury to a vital interest were threatened. He would, in effect, go to war as commander-in-chief of the army and navy and let the referendum legalize his acts afterward.

Third, if by any chance the people voted no on the referendum and forbade congress to declare war over some specific issue raised by a foreign state, what would happen if the day after the referendum the foreign state redoubled its demand? Suppose, just to make the matter concrete, Japan delivered an ultimatum to the Philippines demanding the same kind of monetary concessions of the islands that Japan has imposed on Manchuria.

And suppose that the American people then voted that there should be no war to prevent that. And suppose that Japan, seeing how well-mannered we were, celebrated the election returns by delivering a second ultimatum demanding military possession of the Philippine Islands.

Would there then be another referendum on that? And suppose there were, and again the people voted to accede, and then Japan, seeing that the going was good, surveyed the Pacific and selected a nice, convenient island owned, say, by France, and occupied it in order to establish a naval and air base within easier reach of Hawaii.

Would there be a third referendum, and so on, and on, and on? This is the reductio ad absurdum of the proposal. But though the example is imaginary, it illustrates exactly how aggressive states do actually behave. They do not, as we can see in Europe and Asia, make a simple demand that can be voted on; they act all over the place, striking a blow here, making a feint there, and long before a democracy can take a vote they have taken advantage of the opportunity created by the hesitation of the democracy.

Yet what the sponsors of the Ludlow resolution are trying to do is entitled to all respect. They are trying to make sure that the nation is not taken into a war against its will and without its consent.

Remember particularly, I suppose, the war congress of 1917 which was checked on an implied promise to keep America out of the war. And there is much to be said for the feeling that a congress which is given a mandate to wage war should have a fresh mandate from the people.

So far as I can see there is only one way in which this might be done. It would also, like the Ludlow resolution, mean an amendment to the constitution. It might be provided that when the president decides to ask congress for a declaration of war, he must also submit the existing congress, and that a new congress must be elected at once. This would still leave the president with sufficient power to act in emergencies as commander-in-chief and it would preserve representative government. For the new congress, though fresh from the people, would have all the authority of congress to deal with the executive.

Why should it? Why should the representatives of the people abdicate their right and their duty to decide when the occasion arises whether men shall be conscripted and whether money shall be appropriated? No doubt wars have to be waged by dictatorial methods. But the democracies waged wars carefully in 1914-1918, not by giving the executive a blank check but by issuing drafts of men and money as they were needed.

This is a power congress ought not to surrender. It is the only effective power by which the executive can be kept responsive and accountable to the people; it is the only way in which he can be kept from carrying on the war longer than is necessary; it is the only way in which the congress can make certain that he will not perpetuate his dictatorship.

These two measures have the same fundamental vices as the neutrality legislation. They are all inspired by the notion that the unknown future according to the supposed lease-base of the not very well understood past. The Ludlow resolution prohibits a president from conducting foreign relations and it prohibits congress from advising, restraining or supporting the president in his dealings with foreign powers. The conscription bill prohibits a future congress from taking part in a war except to sign its own death warrant.

All these measures are based on the notion that if you forbid some one to do evil you accomplish more than if you enable him to do good, and though they are well meant, they are dangerously naive.

All But Government Boats Barred From Pearl Harbor For War Games

HONOLULU, Mar. 24 (AP)—Naval orders today barred Japanese fishing craft and all other non-governmental boats from Pearl Harbor during April maneuvers of the United States fleet, and army authorities urged civilian participation in far-flung war games designed to test Hawaii's defenses.

The naval orders, effective from March 30 until May 1, affect 50 pleasure and other type boats, including 18 power fishing craft operated by Japanese who customarily catch bait within Pearl Harbor, the navy's gigantic mid-Pacific base.

Closing of the harbor is designed to prevent any possible interference from other marine craft to mass berthing of the fleet, now engaged in annual spring war games over a vast Pacific triangle bounded by the Pacific coast, Alaska and Samoa.

Army authorities meanwhile made their most direct appeal for civilian participation in the grim games in which a defense force of more than 22,000 soldiers and sailors await a simulated attack by fleet units acting as invaders.

With Hawaii's military machinery operating at war-time speed, civilians were urged to listen to test military broadcasts on a special wave length (91.5 kilocycles) as a means for the dissemination of information in the event of a catastrophe or emergency.

Man About Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A bold ruse based on the valuable ingredient of "base psychology" is indignantly exposed by Wallace Ford.

It concerns a spurious newspaperman who calls back-stage and, without saying so, implies delicately that the actor may regret it unless a few "shillings" are forthcoming.

This is how it works: the stage doorman is condescended to by a man who hands him a printed card. On the card is embossed John Doakes, The Star.

"I would like to see Mr. Ford," he says politely. Right off the bat this has a phoney ring, for reporters seldom approach actors they don't know without first making appointments.

There is no denying the fact that the intruder is an artful worker. He has studied the star's career; he knows he has been in pictures; he comes in beaming and with hand outstretched. "It's such a delight to see you," he cries. "I haven't seen you since that day on Vine street. I'm Doakes of the Los Angeles Star-News."

"Oh, yes," replies Ford, "won't you sit down." He doesn't know the guy but perhaps there is a vague resemblance to someone he has seen before.

Meanwhile the caller rattles off gossip in a pleasant fashion. Finally he gets down to brass tacks: "Fact is," he confesses, "I'm rather down on my luck. I'm on three months leave without pay, and the bus fare to Chicago is $3.80. Now, if I could get to Chicago my uncle..."

So it is a "touch" after all. "Here," Ford says shortly, "all I've got on me is $4; take it."

Two days later Ford was visiting Gertrude Lawrence when the same phoney came in and announced himself as a correspondent for a London paper. He remembered Miss Lawrence well. Ah, yes, Gertrude was certainly a favorite of his.

"That's interesting," said Ford, stepping from behind a door. "The other day you were from Los Angeles."

"I don't know what you mean," stammered the guy. "Oh, yes, you remember me, I'm Wallace Ford. You hit me up for four bucks."

"I'm afraid you've made a mistake," declared the fellow stiffly. "I'm a stranger here. This is my first visit to America."

"You're a liar," shouted Ford, who gets angry easily. "Miss Lawrence, little did I dream I'd be humiliated when..."

"Scram!" bellowed Ford before he could finish. "But the fellow didn't wait to hear the rest of it. The last they saw of him he was heading towards Eighth avenue, scrambling!"

HOLLYWOOD—The colony's getting to be a real family-minded place, even on the screen. Several studios, after looking at what "The Jones Family" has done for 20th Century-Fox, already have chimed in with parallel fire-side groups. And before long we expect all the lots to have their individual versions of these versatile, problem-beset Joneses.

M-G-M is offering the Hardys, who made their bow in "A Family Affair," continued their adventures in "You're Only Young Once," and currently are in the throes of a new one called "Judge Hardy's Children." Like the Joneses, the Hardys' "just grown" as a semi-perennial. The first one was intended to be a program-filler, but it clicked, and the second did better. Now the studio plans a series of 12 features with the same characters—Lewis Stone as the judge, and Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Janet Beecher, Ann Rutherford, et al.

R-K-O is projecting a series of a slightly different type—a what might be called a pre-family saga. Theirs will concern the adventures of a young married couple, but the possibilities of a future "family cycle" are obvious.

A "Quickie" Start The Joneses, as a movie family, date from Christmas, 1935. On Christmas eve, the first one, called "Every Saturday Night," was completed after 13 days' shooting—a genuine quickie, costing next to nothing. It was based on a little theatre play by Katharine Cavannah, prolific playwright who worked on this film and the next, then sold the characters for other movie writers to work on. So far there have been nine Jones adventures, with comparatively few changes in cast. Shirley Deane replaced June Lang as the daughter—when June stepped up to the "A" class—and there have been additions such as Russell Gleason, son-in-law, and Marvin Stephens, adopted son. At last reports the players, through long association, were actually beginning to develop a family resemblance.

The screen's "family tradition" dates back a long way to the first two-reelers of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, but the Joneses set off the present interest in movie family life.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

Chapter Nine EMMY MOONLIGHT "It's funny to hear Rube rant about this valley being God's country," Clary went on blithely.

"You're going to find plenty of amusement during your visit," Judith told her. "Most of us think that way."

"You would be born here and never getting further away than a horse can take you."

"Help!" from Gary. "Gary is always jaunting," Judith enlightened her, "and coming back loyal."

"Loyalty is fine if it doesn't stunt—Goodness, I sound like a tract or something! I get that way sometimes," Clary said with a guilelessness that charmed Gary.

"We must appear funny—set in a rut—to a cosmopolitan of the air, eh, Judy?"

"Another thing I've never thought about," Judith's complete indifference riled Clary all over again.

"That's what makes you so funny," she exploded. "You're all so self-satisfied. So contented with your little world that you don't even bother to look over the rim."

"Perhaps it's just as well."

"As well for you, maybe, but not for Rube," insisted Clary. "He's always been like an eagle, swooping higher, circling wider. She got quickly to her feet. Even on still heels she was ridiculously small, 'im ready going now."

Judith hoped she did not show her relief. "How did you come?"

"One of Rube's cars. It's parked somewhere behind your shrubbery. I made the turnings at random. Hope I'll find my way back."

"There's a huge red oak at the cross roads."

"Please pray that I spot it. I'm good in the clouds, but trees queer me."

Judith thought: "She's so keen she could spot a huckleberry bush in a thicket at midnight." She said: "The oak is hard to miss. It almost blocks the road."

"Let's ride that far with Miss Rogers, Judith," Gary suggested exactly as Clary hoped he would.

Resentful because he voluntarily postponed their golden hour one second longer, Judith said: "You go, Gary. I'll see you in the morning, Miss Rogers."

"Thank you," Clary said sweetly. "Goodnight!"

Walking through the purpling darkness with Gary, Clary thought: "I needn't worry about Reuben—that high-altitude man. He's pretty," contemptuously, "I can send him back—but I won't. I'll take him along. Let her have a taste of the bitter. She's had too much sweet."

Her spike heels sunk into the soft earth. She stumbled slightly. Gary put out a rescuing hand. He called over his shoulder: "Back in a few minutes, Judy. Mean of you to desert me!"

"Afraid of me or the dark?" Clary teased.

"Can't you guess?" Gary studied her face from flirtatious eyes.

A late home coming robin arrived in the maple near the porch. Above his mate's shrill scolding Judith heard Gary's laughter echoing faintly—Clary was being amusing—and—Amused—

Always Waiting Judith was waiting in the garden. She had been waiting an hour. With hands placidly folded in her yellow organdy lap, and her hair, in a tumult, she waited for Gary.

"If I have any pride I won't let him find me here. If I have the least bit of pride I'll go inside, read—turn on the radio—play the piano—go to bed—"

But she sat and waited. The garden was almost too exquisite to be quite real. A young moon made silver filigree lace on the tree leaves on the grass. Lilies foamed and billowed in the light breeze.

In the midst of such serenity it was wicked to feel so restless. Judith told herself, beating a tattoo on the back of the bench upon which she sat! Gary had gone all the way to the Oliver place. Clary Rogers would see to that, but surely she would send him back in a car—in that case he should have been here.

Through the trees she could glimpse the west-wing guest room. A dim light shone from the window. Once, a nurse in white uniform stood framed in it. Tomorrow another one would come on duty.

The doctors had agreed it would be better not to move Reuben to home or hospital. With rest and quiet in a week, perhaps—

"We can't put him out," Judith admitted; "intensely, resentful eyes upon the light, "but I wish I'd never seen him!"

In her heart she blamed Reuben not only for her delayed happiness, but for Gary's present defection. But for that man upstairs in the four poster bed she would never have met the thoroughly unpleasant girl who had dragged Gary from her. She would be engaged to Gary, not waiting for Gary.

But even while she told herself this, she knew infallibly that she would always be waiting for Gary. Social, Gary Gary who, like the butler, took the pleasure of the moment where he found it. Not a light-of-love—loyal at heart, meaning to come back—always coming back, when the diverting moment had passed, filled with confidence, charm—totally unmindful of his wavering.

That would be her life—waiting for Gary. The waiting would be sweet—if he loved her. If—

Abruptly she stopped her tattoo upon the bench. Clary's word came drifting back to her. "You're so self-satisfied—You never even bother to look over the rim—"

Was there perhaps a grain of truth in what that girl said? Judith wondered if she had taken life—all of it, too much for granted, followed too closely the pattern set by others?

She commenced her tattoo again. She was being silly. What did this Clary Rogers know of the finer things of life? What did she know of anything—jazzing and jangling and revelling in sensation?

But, although Judith did not realize it, Clary had cast the first stone of doubt into the pool of her mind. It would lie buried for years, perhaps never come to the surface, but the stone had been cast.

Ten minutes ticked away, twenty, thirty—

Judith felt longing rise within her, like a tide. Somewhere was infinite beauty for everyone—a heritage waiting to be claimed. She felt it in the deepest recesses of her being. Why then all this fumbling uncertainty?

Someone was coming along the path between flowers opening honey-sweet hearts to the night.

"Gary?"

It was the lank colored boy, Ben. "Mr. Gary on de phone, Miss Judy."

She went swiftly between dew kissed sweat alup, up the steps and into the lighted hall.

"Yes, Gary?" she spoke quickly into the telephone.

"Judy—I'm at Oliver's place. Deuced awkward to leave."

"Why? unsteadily.

"Hostless party, you know, Clary asked me to get things going."

"I see."—Clary—Somewhere in Judith a light went out.

"She wants you to come over. Judy. I'll start right now, be there in 10 minutes."

"Please—don't, Gary." Pride said the words for her.

"Why?"

"I'm—dead tired."

"Nonsense! They're dancing. Swell orchestra out from town. Jolly folks. Come on—please—please!"

Her heart went all soft and warm. When Gary said please—

"Goodnight!"

Walking through the purpling darkness with Gary, Clary thought: "I needn't worry about Reuben—that high-altitude man. He's pretty," contemptuously, "I can send him back—but I won't. I'll take him along. Let her have a taste of the bitter. She's had too much sweet."
