'66 Cotton Prospect Good Despite Lowered Acreage

'66 Forecast; 63,000 Bales

Bailey county's 1966 cotton crop will average a bale to the acre, but there's just not as many acres as last year. Last year the county had 103,000 acres in cotton but produced only 87,000 bales. It was definitely NOT a good cotton year here.

This year, however, the county has only 63,000 acres devoted to cotton and the yield will be 63,000 bales.

The forecast was issued this past week by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the first county-by-county prediction for the season.

Of course, the bale-to-the-acre yield here is based on present conditions; a bad hail between now and gathering time this autumn could knock the predictions sky-high, growers were quick to point out. For that matter, a farm expert here pointed out this past week, "There already has been considerable late summer hail damage, and that may not have been taken into consideration when the first forecasts were issued by PCG."

In general, the county has an exceptionally good cotton crop. Irrigated land is in splendid condition, and most of the county's dryland cotton has best prospect it has had in years, although an area around Stegall is an exception.

One farmer, in discussing the 1966 prospects, said, "I have never seen the dryland cotton look so good at this time of the year. Baring a bad, late turn, we should have a record year acreage-wise."

Although total acreage in cotton is lower than previous years the farmer's income may be as great as in previous years, he said. "The government, I believe, will more than make up the difference." Nevertheless, actual cotton acreage is far below last year's 103,000 bale mark.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. serves a 23-county area. Thus the estimates made by PCG.

Area Teachers' Dinners Slated

Teachers in four area school systems will be honored at luncheons or dinners late this month as a part of the tack-to-school programs, Bob Janca, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, announced Saturday. The chamber of commerce here will pick up the tab for most of the events, although in Muleshoe, three

Draft Officials Here Anxiously Await Peak Call

Draft board in Muleshoe received its quota Saturday when 25 were called to take physical examinations and 20 will be inducted.

With a 14-year record call set for the nation and for Texas officials of Texas Local Selective Service board here were anxiously awaiting board 4's October call.

"Usually," a spokesman for the local three-county board said Saturday, "we receive our quota early each month, but this month we have not been informed as yet. We expect the quota to be larger than usual since the nation-wide and state figures for October are higher."

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said 2671 men will be called from Texas for October. This is the biggest monthly draft call received by the state since May 1953, when the monthly quota was 2,823. This was during the Korean conflict.

Colonel Schwartz also announced that the September quota for Texas has been increased from 1,585 to 1,890. These monthly quotas compare with 1,837 for August, 1,381 for July, 878 for June, 1,927 for May, 979 for April,

Klump is Cited For Long Service

Weatherman J.R. Klump got at least some of the honors due him this past week. The long-time Muleshoe weatherman who has served this year so successfully, was cited by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Environmental Science Services Administration for his "45 years providing exceptional accurate and complete weather observations to the Weather Bureau."

In a letter to The Journal Saturday, Charles G. Thomas called Klump's work "... a record of public service to be envied." Thomas is head of the public information department for the ESSA, stationed in Silver Springs, Md. He added: "We of the ESSA are very proud of Judge Klump and we know your community is too."

The announcement said

Klump has been "selected to receive the John Campanis Holm award, according to Dr. Robert M. White, administrator of the Environmental Science Services Administration, Department of Commerce. In the citation signed by Dr. White, Judge Klump was cited "for over 46 years of providing exceptional weather observations to the weather bureau from Muleshoe, Texas."

The Holm award was created by the weather bureau in 1959 to honor voluntary observers for outstanding accomplishment in the field of meteorological observations," the citation explained, adding: "Since 1965, the Weather Bureau has been one of the major components of the Environmental Science Service

Santa Fe Rites Unite In Marriage Annamay Elrod, James Ortega

Double ring vows were repeated for Annamay June Elrod and Raymond Ortega in the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Santa Fe, N.M., Saturday at 8 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Elrod, Muleshoe, and the groom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Elrod O. Ortega, Santa Fe. The Rev. Elrod O. Ortega officiated at the ceremony.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white peau de soie with scooped neckline, elbow length sleeves and sculptured bodice. A panel effect was featured of appliqued medallions of re-embroidered alecon lace on the center front of the bodice, at waist and controlled skirt which featured a short sweep train of self material. The bride wore a mantilla of illusion designed with border and appliqued motif of re-embroidered alecon lace. A pearl necklace was borrowed to complete her ensemble and she carried a Bible covered with satin and lace. An arrangement of stephanotis and greenery covered the top. A blue garter was given by a friend.

Mary Ann Greene, Muleshoe, served as maid of honor. She wore a street length cotton brocade dress of midnight blue and featured a fitted bodice with scoop neck. Butterfly sleeves and slight fullness in the skirt completed the dress. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink daisies.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Elrod chose a dusty pink two-piece suit with matching accessories and a fuschia corsage of pom poms completed her outfit.

Mrs. Ortega wore a beige suit with matching accessories and a pom pom corsage of fuschia.

David G. Pacheco, cousin of the groom from Trinidad, Colo., served as best man.

Ushers were Eluid D. Ortega, brother of the groom, from Alamosa, Colo., and Charles Elrod, brother of the bride, Muleshoe.

Elizabeth Marie Ortega provided traditional wedding music and accompanied Elizabeth Brock from Lubbock as she sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer." Elizabeth Brock is a cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given the couple in the Fellowship Hall of the West Minister Presbyterian Church. Members of the house-party were Miss Charlene Wharton, Betty Payne, Denver, Colo., Elizabeth Marie Ortega, and Elizabeth Brock from Lubbock.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Texas, New Mexico, and Colorado, the bride wore a tailored sheath of blue featuring long sleeves, and accessories were white. She lifted her corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Long Beach, Calif., where the groom is stationed with the Navy.

LUBBOCK, The U.S. Department of Agriculture now plans to issue regulations which would result in the loss of some 75,000 to 85,000 cotton acres to the state of Texas in 1967 and probably more in 1968 and 1969.

The acres involved are those acres not planted in the state in 1966 as a result of productivity adjustments on allotments transferred between growers last year by sale or lease. Nationwide, estimates run from 150,000 to 200,000 acres that will be lost to producers in the same manner.

And Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., who learned of the development on a recent trip to Washington D.C., says the procedure by which these acres are to be "frozen" appears to be completely illegal.

As an example, a High Plains farmer with a projected yield of 800 pounds lint per acre who purchased a 100 acre allotment from a producer with only 200 pounds projected yield, could only plant one-fourth of that allotment in 1966. So there were 75 acres that went unplanted and this was the case in almost all High Plains purchases.

Original Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service regulation said this unplanted acreage was to be put into a "productivity pool" by State ASCS offices, and would be used to calculate future state and county allotments.

And since state and county allotments are figured on the basis of past planted acreage history, observers on the Plains had thought this would work to their advantage.

Now however, it is understood these acres will be used to figure the state's share of the 16 million acre minimum national allotment, but will not be in the total state allotment when county allotments are computed. So, the acreage will be "frozen" at the state level.

Johnson says this has the effect of reducing the national allotment to the legal minimum of 16 million acres set by Congress in 1958. Section 342 of the law states: "Notwithstanding any...

'Didn't Hit Him,' Swint Claims

Editor's Note: Bill Hart, sports editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, went to the trouble of looking up Muleshoe's Ronnie Swint last week the day after the now-famous North-South football game in Houston. Here's the column Hart sent back from Houston after his interview with Swint.

school All-Star Game. In fact, two of them cam on the opening drive of the contest one of the most lackluster until the final three minutes of play. The area performers had on hand (no pun intended) in both quarters. Swint and one may have been judged a bit prematurely by the officials—at least some of the coaches felt that way. It was the first one. South quarterback Dickie Phillips faded back to pass, but suddenly fourth North defenders zeroed in and he desperately threw the ball, hoping one of his mates would catch it.

After he threw, the North charger smashed him to the ground, but not many saw what happened after that because they had their eyes trained on the flight of the ball. The next thing we knew, the red flag was thrown and one of the officials was walking toward the sideline with Ronnie Swint of Muleshoe. He wasn't allowed to re-enter the contest. The 15 yards gave the South a first down, but two plays later, the Rebels were in trouble again. But this time pass interference was called on Tascosa's Jimmy Bennett and again the South had new life. Then a field goal attempt went wide and the South had failed to take advantage of the breaks. About time, word was received in the press box that Swint had been ejected for slugging Phillips three times when he was down. It sounded hard to believe since there hasn't been anything noticeable between the two teams, and Swint just hasn't been that kind of player. After the game was over, the players were hurriedly rushed to a dormitory where they dressed, and reporters because of deadlines, didn't have time to chase many of the players down, so no one got to talk to Swint and find out what happened. But he was still in town Friday because he's a member of the Big 33 team that will play Pennsylvania next week and they're working out at the University of Houston and he had a lot to say about the incident. "I think there must have been a misunderstanding because the first thing I knew was the official was walking with me off the field and he told me I was through," Swint said after he was awakened from an afternoon nap in the Cougar athletic dorm. "I know this much, I sure didn't slug him and I definitely did not hit him three times while he was on the ground like you say they said," Swint said, staring you right in the face. "The only thing I could think of when he knocked him to the ground was that my arm might have hit him in the face. But, sir, I sure didn't hit him on purpose, he stated. When asked if there had been words on the field prior to the incident, Swint said "no." He said there was no need to try and argue the decision because it was already made. "I had worked hard for the past four years to get a chance to play in a game like this and then can't play because of this," he said dejectedly. Several coaches felt it was an unfair call, especially in an all-star game, when a player wasn't warned first. Usually officials working all-star contests let a little more go on because the players haven't been active in football in some time. But that apparently wasn't the case down here because the officials threw the flags quite frequently, and according to the other North players the ejection was unfair. One of the most unusual calls was on the offense for grabbing a player by the face mask. Normally, the call is against the defense for tackling by this method. One North griddler, Bill Bridges of Carrollton, was chucking about it. "You know, (Glen) Halsell had Phillips by the headgear and his hand slipped down to the face mask. About that time, Phillips grabbed Halsell by the face mask and Halsell turned loose. The officials saw Phillips and threw the flag. At first we thought it was a 30-yard penalty because of the yardage stepped off, then we learned it was from the point of the foul, not the line of scrimmage," he said. Swint plans to visit in New York after the Big 33 gave grandparents live and where his parents were former residents before his dad was stationed at Clovis during the war. They never went back, settling down in Muleshoe and a lot of people over there are glad because Ronnie has been an asset to the athletic program there. He turned down a chance to play in the Oil Bowl game to visit his relatives but he says he has had enough with the starting of college right around the corner. The University of Texas bound griddler was razzed by his Big 33 teammates Friday because of the incident, but he shrugged it off. "I'll stay in this one-I hope," he laughed.

She dyed her hair red?

WOMAN TALK

Hair Color Now Dyed 'To Match'

BY YVETTE de la FONTAINE PARIS (WNS) "Dyed-to-match" hair may soon be as commonplace as colored tie bathrobes, pastel dinner jackets and automobiles in car colors. A girl with pink eyebrows won't seem any more odd than a housewife in a pink kitchen. Dyed-to-match hair will be as acceptable as dyed-to-match sweaters and skirts.

As a matter of fact, "hair-color" hair may look as old-fashioned as a black kitchen stove, fountain pen or automobile. Jacques Dessange, the famed French coiffeur, is responsible for the new fad. He is the hairdresser who made a hit at the recent Paris fashion openings by offering dyed-to-match wigs and false eyelashes in pastel tones for spring.

"However, wigs are hot for summer so I have decided to take the obligatory step forward toward freedom for women," Dessange told me at his fashionable Right Bank salon. Harmonizing Hair

Now a lady can just bring him a swatch of the material of her new spring suit, and this

GOODIE! A TRAIN RIDE--These two boys were among 77 pupils from the first and second and pre-schoolers who rode the train to Clovis Friday, ate a picnic lunch, visited the animals and rode school buses home. For some, their first ride, some were

French hairdressers will dye her hair to match or to contrast. He will also supply a pair of thick false eyelashes to harmonize, and suggest that the eyebrows be dyed-to-match, too, for full harmony. Although Dessange planned his new program for summer, avant-garde customers are demanding eye jobs now to wear with their new pastel ski clothes (pink in particular).

"I've had cables from American women who want to pay me a Paris visit en route to Gstaad," he said. "I've had ready-to-wear houses have color combinations like aqua and chartreuse, "shades both tender and biting." Already there are hose, shoes, bags and plastic jewelry, all dyed to match.

"Now it is time for hair to join the fun and come to the party," insisted Jacques Dessange. "Not only wigs but also the hair on your head can have a hair."

Looks "Natural"

To him, colorful hair is not only beautiful, but natural. "It's yourself, and not something artificial like a hat or wig," he explained. "You wouldn't limit your hat colors to brown, blonde and reddish blonde, so why not let your hair be completely flattering, too?" Just as hose has burst into garden colors to everyone's delight, so Paris coiffeurs agree that hair must now be liberated and shine forth.

The hair tones that are the first Paris favorites range from deep to pale rose and from sweet to bitter greens. Also popular are a tender shade of violet and a crazy, shouting red. "Success at the Carnival in Rio proves that dyed-to-match hair will become a must for balls, galas and even cocktail parties," declared Dessange.

For conservatives who cling to "hair-colored hair," he proposes "a little exaggeration, just for the joy of it." The new shades for conservatives: blue-black, white-blonde, Van Dongen orange, and flag red.

"But there's nothing shocking about color," the Frenchman added. "Color has taken hold of our lives, and nobody is shocked at colored furs, colored hose or colored sheets. Dessange's new cut for color-

DEVIL'S WEAPON LONDON (AP) - The devil's latest weapon for disarming the Church may be the Church's current preoccupation with meetings and conferences, suggests an article in the Church of England's "Essex Churchman."

The article, by the Rev. Paul Berg, vicar of Rainham, says: "Once Christians were tortured, burnt and crucified; but very often the more the Church was persecuted the stronger it grew. The enemy's latest weapon is much more effective. Don't destroy Christians but isolate them."

"Keep them so busy talking to each other that they have no time to speak to the unbelieving world outside. The keener the Christian, the more he or she should be loaded with committees."

"If you cannot burn them with fire, then burden them with meetings," says the devil."

LAWN MOTH - also known as Sod Webworm - Causes irregular brown dry spots in lawn. They are night feeders. The caterpillars, 3/4 of an inch long, usually are found in silken webs. The adults are small whitish-gray moths. Spray entire lawn regularly.

BERMUDA MITE - These pests of southern lawns suck sap from grass, causing wilting and stunting. Spray lawn regularly.

APHID - These are soft-bodied insects of many colors, under 1/8 inch long and often called plant lice. They infest most grass plants, feeding by sucking plant juices. Spray entire plant.

BILLBUG - These grubs of the snout beetle feed on roots and crowns of grass plants. They are black or brown, 1/4 to 1/2 inch long. Spray or spread granular form.

ARMYWORM - This insect, which can appear suddenly in lawns and flowers. It is about 1 1/2 inches long. Spray promptly at first sight.

VISIT THE BEARS--How thrilling to visit the bears and other animals at the zoo, is the thoughts these little folk had as they hurried along to see what else was in store for them on their trip to Clovis Friday with other summer school students. (JP)
