President Is Considering Debt Message

Policy Debtor Can Approach Creditor Any Time Not Altered

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt is as ever ready to renew war debt discussion with England, but a view Thursday from official quarters held little hope for parleys or any immediate successful settlement.

It can be stated the president has not altered his policy "that the debtor may at any time approach the creditor with representations concerning a debt and ask for a readjustment."

The president now has under consideration a message to congress on the war debt situation.

It is generally expected he will confine himself to an actual report on existing status.

News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig
Written by a group of the best informed newspapermen in Washington and New York. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial policy of this newspaper.

WASHINGTON By George Durso
PWA—Confidential figures compiled for Public Works Administrator Ickes are a jolt. They show that the best PWA has been able to do to date is put 251,900 workers on actual projects.
Contracts for federal undertakings have been awarded in the sum of $718,000,000. An additional $230,000,000 of federal work has been started with day labor. The employment count shows 225,824 men in resulting jobs.
Non-federal contracts actually awarded amount to only $197,000,000 with but 28,545 men at work.

Still Ickes' aides point out that this doesn't unveil the whole picture of work relief from that $3,300,000,000 completely allocated but not spent.
Nearly a third of the original fund was diverted by Presidential and legislative allotment from actual building work. Part of this billion was the $400,000,000 that ran CWA and gave over 2,000,000 people temporary jobs. Another $322,000,000 went to maintain the CCC and thus put 500,000 young men in the forests.

Nearly all of the myriad emergency agencies that have mushroomed up in the last year cut in on the remainder of the diverted third. For instance all of the NRA employes get their pay checks from Public Works Funds.

John L.—The stature of John L. Lewis has grown by leaps and bounds in organized labor circles in recent months.
Relapse Suffered By Ector Sheriff
Reader Webb, Ector county sheriff, suffered a relapse at his home in Odessa Wednesday afternoon and had to be removed to a hospital. His condition was said to be serious.
Webb was injured more than a month ago when the car in which he and Earl Glaser, Big Spring, were riding was struck by a hit and run driver in Louisiana.

Two gendarmes then entered and served the document which tells him to "get out."
Trotsky's departure for Spain appeared imminent.
The exact time of his departure was kept secret, but probably will be tonight or early Friday.

Kiwanis Club Is Addressed By Tech Dean

Rev. W. H. Martin, who was in charge of the program for the day at the Kiwanis Club, Thursday noon, presented the club with one of its most interesting luncheon programs.
The after-luncheon talk was given by Dean J. M. Gordon of Texas Tech, Lubbock, dean of men and also of the Arts and Science department of the school. He chose for his subject "Removing Limitations." The speaker stressed the importance upon those present, of the removal of limitations on human welfare and the spiritual side of life.
The musical part of the program was furnished by the girls quartet of the high school, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bruce Frazier.
The next meeting will be in charge of George Brown.
Dean Gordon also addressed the high school students Thursday morning.
F. C. Cook was being held Thursday on a charge of forgery.
He was charged with having passed a false instrument on the First National bank of Stanton with the signature of Wayne Cook to John Colin, manager of the Master's cafe. The check was in the amount of $5.00.

Hail Accompanies Four Inch Rains In Howard County

Tales of heavy downpours and hail drifted into town Thursday from the northeastern section of Howard county.
A four inch rain, accompanied by a generous dose of hail, pelted Vincent and surrounding country Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.
Hail around Fairview and Knott played havoc with young fruit. Some fruit stuff was battered badly in the Vincent region but no great damage occurred.
The rain extended in a heavy downpour as far north as Gall in Borden county, replenishing stock water and topping off ranges in fine shape.
Big Spring received an additional .08 inches since 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, running the total to .72 inches. The U. S. Experiment Farm gauge only registered .51 inches.

Expect Macon Over El Paso Saturday

EL PASO.—The Macon, giant helium-filled navy dirigible, will pass over El Paso soon, probably Saturday, in its flight from the base field at Sunnyvale near San Francisco, Calif., to Miami, Fla., dispatches said Wednesday night.
Exact time of the departure will depend on the weather, and will not be known before Thursday, officers were quoted as saying.
The huge airship will follow the Pacific coast line to Los Angeles, turn in and pass over the Imperial valley to Yuma, Ariz., and then head directly to El Paso.

Large Crowd Inspects First Air Line Sleeper In Visit Thursday

Marking a new era in American Airlines transportation, the first Curtis-Wright sleeping plane to be put into service on a transcontinental route set down at the Big Spring airport Thursday 1:35 p. m. before a crowd estimated at 500.
During the hour which the plane rested on the terminal ramp, every person present had an opportunity to go through the cabin and see the unique seating arrangement and sleeping accommodations.
The ship will be placed in service on or about May 1 on the Fort Worth-Los Angeles run, according to Hugh Smith, general superintendent of the southern division for American Airlines.
Setting a new record of 1 hour and 50 minutes flying time from Fort Worth to Big Spring, the twin motored ship roared into Big Spring with the veteran Howard Woodall at the controls. The air route distance is 245 miles. Forty-five minutes after the ship took off from Abilene it was in front of the Big Spring terminal.

One hop was made shortly before the ship departed for El Paso. Twelve local citizens were taken aboard.
Mayor C. E. Talbot and C. T. Watson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, greeted those on the craft when it arrived here.
Ray Cantrell, Settles hotel manager, Allen Woods, Duncan Coffee company of Houston, and Joe W. Galbraith, managing editor of the Daily Herald, boarded the ship for El Paso when it left here Thursday afternoon. Woods is a former school mate of Julian K. Lyles, general traffic manager of the American Airlines.
Riding the ship here from Fort Worth were Ralph S. Damon, president of the Curtis-Wright corporation of St. Louis, his father, William C. Damon, also connected with the company; Lyles; Harry Maynard, Los Angeles, publicity director for the airlines; Smith; Miss Mary Richardson, Fort Worth, stewardess, and Pilot Woodall.

CLUB WOMEN TO SELL TICKETS TO MOVIES TO HELP PAY DEBT THAT IS DUE ON CLUB HOUSE

Ticket Number One In Big Spring Goes To Highest Bidder; Mrs. Joe Fisher, Sales Chairman

Theatres of Texas have agreed to help the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs pay off its indebtedness against the headquarters club house at Austin by setting aside a "Woman's Day" at one theatre in each city and town in Texas on April 26th, announces Mrs. Joe Fisher, district officer and sales chairman of tickets.

J. Y. Robb, manager of the Ritz Theatre of Big Spring, is among those cooperating.

The underlying idea of "Woman's Day" is that the club women of each town will sell as many tickets as possible to the theatre for the matinee and evening performances of April 26. In return the theatres will donate a percentage of their receipts to the Federation headquarters fund.

Mrs. Volney W. Taylor, state president, has asked Mrs. Joe Fisher to be in charge of the ticket sales for Big Spring. This week Mrs. Fisher received from Mrs. Taylor a letter saying that the tickets are being in serial numbers of A-B-C-D-E-F, ranging from 1 to 50,000.

"Ticket A-1 has been reserved for Governor Ferguson. It will be sold then present the ticket to some underprivileged child to be used in seeing the show. There are left five other tickets numbered 1. Of these five, it so happens that Big Spring has one." The State Federation has asked that all Number 1 tickets be sold for an especially high price, to the highest bidder, since there are only six of them in the state, including the one for Governor Ferguson.

Whoever buys the Number 1 ticket in Big Spring will receive statewide publicity and possible national publicity. Enthusiasm over this means of paying off the club house indebtedness is running high among club officials according to reports received by Manager Robb. The women plan to make the day as successful financially as possible. Members of the permanent headquarters committee also are assisting the organization of the ticket sale for the special shows of the day. The personnel of the committee is:

Mrs. James F. Welder of Victoria; Mrs. Clyde A. Lilly, Ft. Worth; Mrs. Harold Abrams, Dallas; Mrs. Sam Cox, Mexia; Mrs. J. W. Fincher, Houston; Mrs. Volney W. Taylor, Brownsville; Mrs. Greenleaf Fiske, Abilene; Mrs. Joe Fisher, Big Spring.

The clubhouse in Austin is an imposing structure in which are centered the activities of more than thirty thousand club women of Texas. It bears a mortgage indebtedness that has created a problem during the depression years. Executives of the Federation were highly optimistic of the success of the ticket sales for the shows, which are being presented throughout the state as a means of raising necessary funds. They were loud in their praise of Karl Hobbitt and other theatre operators active in the movement.

"A new relationship between the theatre and the public is born of this magnificent offer of Mr. Hobbitt and others in the theatrical business," said Mrs. Volney W. Taylor in a statement. "This glorious assistance from the theatres is making every woman's organization in the State joyous and is spurring them on in the sale of tickets for the theatres on "Woman's Day". The movement marks a new era in community work.

While theatres have always risen to such emergencies as flood, storm and other disaster relief, this is probably the first time on record that the entire amusement structure of the State has pledged a share of its receipts to constructive public work of State character and scope.

Hutto Tells Lions About San Jacinto

Gives Interesting Sketch About General Sam Houston

John R. Hutto, principal of the Kate Morrison school, Wednesday presented a brief, interesting sketch of Sam Houston as a Jacinto Day offering at the Lions club.

He traced the colorful and varied career of Houston from a strapping who ceased his schooling because the teacher refused to allow him to study Latin to the commander who retreated to San Jacinto to strike the enemy into complete subjection in an 18 minute rout.

Hutto recalled that Houston lived as an Indian during two periods in his life, that he served four terms as congressman from Tennessee and part of a term as governor of that state, that he was the second man over the top in an attack against Creek Indians, that he was first president of the Texas republic.

Twelve Mexican school girls presented a novel program of songs and descriptive dances. They opened the offering with characteristic dances and appeared in a duet. One child gave a solo followed by a chorus of seven girls. Three concluded the program with a descriptive dance.

Vernon Logan, who was unable to attend, was accommodated by two husky club members and rushed to the Settles hotel in a taxicab. He was wheeled into the meeting place.

Candidates A. R. Sisson, L. I. Stewart, Clyde Thomas and Bob Badger were initiated into membership. President P. W. Malone stressed importance of the district 2-T convention in Colorado Monday and Tuesday. A short meeting of delegates was held immediately after adjournment.

repeatedly touched on the wrong of the law which is now under debate between Rep. T. H. McGregor and Atty. Gen. James V. Alford—giving a legislator the right to continue any lawsuit during a legislative session.

That collateral wrong is that the legislature legislated a special advantage to members of succeeding legislatures with respect to employment as counsel. It created a privileged class of lawyers—that is, legislators—who had powers in court not possessed by others. It legislated an open invitation to litigants to hire legislators for lawyers. . . . And the body which passed the act certainly could not have had that intention.

And while they talk about abuses by the legislature of the public good, why doesn't one rise to inquire why friends of corporations in the legislature so long have blocked the constitutional mandate that in civil cases nine, 10 or 11 jurors might return a verdict, instead of forcing so many thousands of trials and delays by requiring a unanimous verdict. . . . U. S. supreme court decides cases 5 to 4.

Miss Lucille Taylor of Boone county, Kentucky, thinks she set some sort of record last year when she canned 600 quarts of home-grown fruits and vegetables.

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

The Wirt investigation at least gave the country a verb and a common noun often needed in connection with our venerable national legislative proceedings:—
To bulwinkle: To attempt to be judge and prosecutor at once.
A bulwinkle: A strutting, pompous pose, accompanied by a tendency to make personal accusations from the security of official immunity.

Amarillo, heart of the Panhandle empire, metropolis of a section ready to lead Texas' march forward, has started the visible advance. The city has prepared to make an aggressive bid for the 1936 West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. In this campaign, Amarillo will show that even with a long and severe drought, it has remained in the white zone of good business condition longer than any other spot of the nation except the East Texas oil field.

Amarillo waited a long time for rain, then didn't get it; but a 21-inch snow—third of a century record—served as an adequate substitute.

The city and its section are on the march; not to recovery, but to a new advance on out ahead of anything so far known. Part of its advance is the fact that Amarillo's hinterland has had more railroad building during the past four years than perhaps all the rest of Texas, plus any other five states put together.

Not with respect to any single case, certainly not with respect to legislators who wanted to preserve their right to serve their people without doing violence to the interests of clients—but the respect to a collateral effect, this column has REPEAL IS NEW FACTOR IN TRAFFIC PROBLEM It is still a great deal too early to get a fair slant on all the effects of repeal of the 18th amendment. Enough time has passed, however, to make at least one thing pretty clear. Repeal has unquestionably added to the difficulties of an already tangled automobile traffic situation. The traffic commissioner of a representative metropolitan police department, pointing to the fact that this year's traffic fatalities are substantially higher than last year's, asserts bluntly that "the most significant single factor is the novelty of legal drinking," and goes on to add that alcohol has figured in a large percentage of fatal and less serious traffic accidents, during the first three months of 1934 than in the first three months of 1933. It is not only the fact that drunken drivers get out on the road that complicates matters—although this, of course, is the worst part of it. Drunken pedestrians reel out into the street and get hit.

Furthermore, financial difficulties having caused most cities to reduce the scope of police activities, there are fewer "beat" patrolmen on the scene to collar such men and lug them off to the police station to sober up than there used to be. And there is still another angle to it. There is more night life now in the average city. More people are on the streets after midnight than used to be the case—and not all of them are cold sober. Empty roads on the edge of town are more dangerous now, along about 2 in the morning, than they used to be; exhilarated revellers, homeward bound, zip along such boulevards at breakneck speed and 'a' too often reap the literal reward of such speed—broken necks.

All in all, the evidence is pretty strong to show that repeal has introduced an ominous new factor into the traffic problem. What needs to be done in the face of this new factor is not at all clear. That there is hardly a city in America which has enough traffic policemen goes almost without saying. That the police and the courts need to adopt a much more hard-boiled attitude toward traffic law violators is equally clear. Most of all, however, we need a new sense of individual responsibility. The man who is driving a car is actually handling a weapon as dangerous as a loaded revolver.

UNUSUAL FACTS REVEALED

Joseph Schildkraut THE COLUMBIA STAR CONSIDERS HIS MOST PRIZED POSSESSION A $40,000 VIOLIN ONE OF THE 101 INSTRUMENTS MADE BY JACOB STAMER, A SWISS Clara Blandich WAS BORN ON HER FATHER'S SHIP IN HONG KONG, AND FIRST STEPPED ON DRY LAND AT THE AGE OF THREE! Elissa Landi THE FEMMININE LEAD IN 'SISTERS UNDER THE SKIN' HAD TRAVERSED THE GLOBE AT THE AGE OF TWO!

It's perfectly safe if he handles it carefully. It's a nasty menace to public safety if he doesn't. And it's hard time that every auto driver was forced to realize the fact. AN INCOME TAX REVELATION One of the most ominous signs about the New Deal is one that so far has gone almost unnoticed—a little disclosure made in compilation of the most recent income tax statistics. These statistics show that whereas corporation taxes are up almost 50 per cent over last year, collections from persons taxed on incomes of less than $5000 a year have shown an actual decrease. A FAMOUS FAIR PASSES Sentiment lies between the United States and England, despite the ineffable host of magazine writers and after-dinner speakers, are extremely strong; and one thing in which Americans are sure to display a good deal of interest is the slow passage from the contemporary scene of some of old England's most ancient traditions and customs. An example is the pending abolition of the famous Stourbridge Fair, at Cambridge. This fair dates back to the year 1211. In the Middle Ages it was one of the most famous fairs in the world, bringing merchants and travelers from all over Europe. Milton mentions it in "Paradise Lost." King Henry VIII levied on the fair's profits, in 1539, to relieve his own financial stringency. Now, according to the London Sunday Times, the fair may be abolished. It has no practical value, and it is neglected by the general public. Another time-honored custom, left behind by the tide of modern affairs, seems about to disappear forever. GETTING DOWN TO FACTS The congressional request that the Federal Power Commission make an elaborate survey of electricity rates throughout the country—to ascertain, among other things, exactly how rates charged by publicly owned plants compare with those charged by private concerns—sounds like an exceedingly sensible move. For many years we have been hearing a good deal about the difference between these rates. On the one hand we have been told that the publicly owned plant offers consumers a vast saving; on the other that such plants are wasteful, extravagant, and inefficient, and that their rates are really no lower than those of private companies when all factors are properly considered. This survey ought to enable us to settle definitely just which arguments are correct. We can tackle the entire power question a lot more sensibly after this survey has been completed. W. O. T. U. POSTPONED The meeting of the local W. O. T. U. was not held this week due to the session of the Proby at the First Presbyterian church. The meeting has been postponed until next Wednesday. # EIGHT TEAMS BANDED TOGETHER FOR SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Other Clubs To Organize

Preliminary Steps Made In Meeting Wednesday Night

Preliminary steps toward organizing a softball league here were made in a meeting Wednesday night when eight teams were tentatively banded together. They were the Lions, Kiwanis, Robinson, Methodist Men's Bible Class, Southern Ice, Herald, Cosden and Automobile Salesmen.

At least one other league of eight teams and possibly two more will be organized to take care of all of the softball teams now being organized. Another meeting will be held next Tuesday night. In the meantime, a committee of Tiny Reed, Doyle Robinson and Tom Beasley will draft a schedule to submit at the next meeting. Play will start about April 30 and end about August 30. A split season was desired by those present.

Player Limit

It was decided that every team would have an eighteen player limit and that any player desiring to shift from one team to another would have to secure a release from his manager ten days before playing with the new team in a league game. Any player participating in a league game with any other team than his own will be suspended for ten days and the game will be forfeited.

Glenn Guilkey, Joe Pickle and H. H. Hannah were named to select a playing site and determine means.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Unbitten your ears, my friends, and listen to the extraordinary story of Francis A. Schmidt, about whom you will have heard this fall as head coach of football at Ohio State University.

At the outset it is a bedtime story. Schmidt, it seems, has a habit of hanging pad and pencil on a string tied to his bed so that he can jot down gridiron notes as they may occur to him between snoozes.

A COACHING 'EDISON'

"That guy is the hardest working coach in the United States. Even the late Thomas A. Edison managed to get in more rest from his job than Schmidt, who was unhappy if he didn't work at least 18 hours a day. He slept with a pad and stub pencil under his pillow and as many as three or four times a night he snapped out of slumber, yanked the light cord and jotted down something which later was to cause rival coaches anxious moments."

"He recalls every sports item that drifts his way and especially studies pictures of athletes in action. 'I remember on one occasion he saw a picture of a Texas high jumper clearing the bar at a fair height. 'Schmidty' picked out a flaw in the jumper's form. 'Loid' him and the Texas coach about it (after the conference meet was ended) and the jumper (I forget his name) went on to win the national collegiate title later that spring."

A MOUNTAIN OF VERSATILITY

"There are lots of things of interest about this enterprising fellow who coached a high school team in Kansas, Henry Kendall college (now Tulsa university), Arkansas and Texas Christian before stepping into the big league, but his versatility is amazing. 'He was a star baseball player and grinner at Nebraska, but never played basketball—the sport that brought him perhaps his greatest achievements as a coach. He was awarded an A. B. and LL. D. degree at Nebraska and later practiced law. While at Tulsa he played the 'lead' cornet in the National Shrine band. He plays a banjo, guitar, violin or piano with equal ease and sings quite well."

for having the field lighted for night playing. Election of officers was deferred until the next meeting.

SPORT LINES

By Tom Beasley

Kiwanis vs. Auto Salesmen

in a practice game at 6:15 this evening. Game site at 17th and Runnels.

Robinson Softballers

beat the Outlaws, 13 to 7, in a six inning affair Tuesday afternoon. The Outlaws led the first three innings, but the last half was all Robinson's, with nearly every play smacking one to the outfield. Miller Harris got three hits out of three times at bat.

Score by Innings:

Robinson ..... 001 912-13
Outlaws ..... 013 012-7
Batteries: Outlaws—Malone and Coots; Robinson—Smith and Hannah.

Organization of the first softball league got off to a flying start Wednesday, and other teams interested in having league play are requested to get in touch with this department as soon as possible.

Two more loops of eight teams each will be formed if possible.

The Giants, not doing so well in the hardball division, have decided to take up softball. The high school teachers will also enter a softball team.

The league just organized has been named the Big Spring Softball League, and a game will be played every night.

Only minor changes in the baseball rules. Among them, a penalty for teams not ready to start either half, such penalty to consist of a technical foul each minute of delay. Now, these games will start on time or else. Another change provides that officials, in awarding the ball out of bounds to a team in its forecourt must hand the ball to the proper player instead of merely touching him or tossing the ball to him. The third important change provides that after successful full free throws, time will be taken out until the ball is put in play at center. Time, now out when fouls are called will not resume until the free thrower actually misses his shot. Instead of when the ball leaves the thrower's hands. Many proposed drastic changes were pigeon-holed for further study.

Here is the roster of managers in the National and American leagues:

- NATIONAL
Giants: William H. (Bill) Terry.
Pirates: George Gibson.
Cubs: Charles J. Grimm.
Braves: William B. McKechnie.
Cardinals: Frank F. Frisch.
Dodgers: Charles D. (Casey) Stengel.
Phillie: Jimmy Wilson.
AMERICAN
Senators: Joe Cronin.

"As an architect he is above the average and is an expert in watch and clock repairing, as well as in photography. The fellow who wrote the adage 'Jack of all trades and master of none' apparently never heard of Schmidt. He is good at all of 'em. Oh, yeah, he volunteered for service at the outbreak of the world war and engaged, after active service on the other side, as a captain of infantry. 'Maybe he won't win the Big Ten football title his first year up, but that 'pencil and pad' story is no myth and the word might as well be passed along to rival managers who work under the able supervision of Major John L. Griffith. He'll keep 'em awake many nights trying to figure out ways of stopping his strategic moves."

Yankees: Joe McCarthy.

Athletics: Connie Mack.
Indians: Walter Johnson.
Tigers: Mickey Cochrane.
White Sox: Lew Fonseca.
Red Sox: Stanley Harris.
Browns: Rogers Hornsby.

"2 TRIP" TESTS SHOW GULF-LUBE CUTS OIL CONSUMPTION AS MUCH AS 51%!

Do you doubt that you can cut your oil costs from 10% to 55% and get better lubrication? Then listen to this...

Fact No. 1—Last year the American Automobile Association tested Gulf-lube against 3 other famous 25c oils in 6 borrowed cars. Gulf-lube won 28 1/2% more miles per quart than the average of all other oils! It outlasted every oil in every car.

Fact No. 2—This year, motorists in various parts of the country made the "two-trip" test. They made two trips to some distant point, using a well-known 25c oil on the first trip, and Gulf-lube on the second. In every one of these tests made thus far, Gulf-lube has showed the lowest oil consumption!

CHAPTER 27 STRAIGHT TALK

As Judith Dale raised her hand, silence fell on the crowd of dam workers who had come to greet her. They had asked for a speech. "Tell me what you would like to know," she asked.

"Our jobs... how about our jobs?" "Who gets Mason's place?" "How long you goin' to keep operatin'?"

Again her uplifted hand—"Big Tom would have had the man next in line fill Mason's place. We'll follow the same plan. Max Larson is next in line."

A roar of approval greeted this. "Your jobs are safe. The new company has money to carry on the work and keep your salaries going during the will contest."

She stopped. Somewhere on the outer fringe an argument was going on. "What's the trouble?" she demanded.

"Aw," came a voice, "there's a bird back here says we ought to beat it while beatin's good and get ourselves a real job. He says the Bevins women are goin' to let this dam go as soon as the will's broke and they get the money."

"What'll we do with him, Miss Judy?" asked a young voice, "shall we ride him out on a rail?"

This emergency was one Big Tom could not have foreseen. Judith knew her dam workers. She had known them all of her life. They could be quickened to mutiny as quickly as they could be quickened to loyalty and upon the turn of a word this decision might rest.

"Ride him out on a rail!" echoed Judith in derision, "why give him transportation, let him walk."

The quick answer won. Roars of laughter, scuffling on the fringe, then silence.

Judith spoke again—"naturally you are interested in your jobs. Whether you keep these jobs or not is up to you. It will depend upon one thing, your loyalty to Big Tom Bevins."

"As you work, remember you are working for him, just as I am working for him. He earned the five million dollars it will take for the erection and maintenance of this dam and he had a right to say how it should be spent. He left it to me with the orders to spend it as he would have spent it had he lived, not for my personal use. I am working as his secretary; his stenographer, at a salary less than many of you are receiving."

"Big Tom knew there would be an attempt to break his will and he prepared for it. There will be no danger from that source... but the same influence which will try to break the will, will try to send spies into camp here to cause dissension, distrust, anything to hinder the work on the dam.

"If you listen to these spies, you will be hurting yourself worse than anyone else."

"Big Tom had foresight enough to protect your interests against our common enemy. Have you loyalty enough to protect his memory and carry out the desire of his life, the building of this dam?"

To Judith, it seemed the shout of assent was unanimous and shortly afterwards the crowd began dispersing and she found herself surrounded by a group of foremen, engineers and construction men, many of whom she had worked with before.

"You said the right thing, Mrs. Dale," said Larson, "they were worried about working for a millionaire stenographer. You put them straight on that."

"And what you said about loyalty," added another.

"Say, Judy," interposed Clark Goodwin, with whom she had attended college, "did you mean that about working for a salary?"

"I certainly did," she answered, then with a boyish grin, "where do I pitch my tent? And say, could you rattle a second one for my girl friend? This is Delphy, boys, she decided she wasn't going to let me come down here and eat manillas and holy beans, so I found her on the train, spending her last nickel to take care of me."

"Good for Delphy, you bet we can find a tent for her."

They had been walking uphill and Judy saw they were fast coming to the queer ship-rack where the surveying crew had taken shelter during the storm. There in its lee was a small house, lights gleaming through bare windows, hammers beating a rapid tattoo.

They stopped before the opened door and a man in coveralls, pounding a final nail in the door step, stood up.

"Welcome home, Small-Jude," he said.

"Slim Sanford," gasped Judith, "if I didn't know you had wings I'd believe you were your own ghost. However did you get here?"

"With my wings, Cunard sent me down as soon as you made up your mind to come. He wired Laredo for lumber to be sent in and the boys worked in their off hours to put this up."

"I repeat, you're a great gang." Judith, who knew the dearness of lumber so far from shipping centers, appreciated the little wooden shack for its true value. It was just one long barren room with a boarded lean-to for a kitchen and a curtained alcove for Delphy, but it spelled luxury.

Delphy took in the situation and called Slim Sanford aside. Slim had been around Hillendale enough for Delphy to have assumed a proprietary air over him and his services. "Ma's Slim, reckon I'd best make coffee and sandwiches?"

He decided it would be a fine idea and he presided over the oil stove which Delphy eyed with considerable apprehension while she made sandwiches, devoured by the men who sat in the big room talking to Judith.

Judith was silent for the most part, listening to them talk and glean the real news of Big Tom Town. When Slim came in with the coffee pot she looked up and surprised his eyes in an unguarded moment. Sympathy and tenderness were there, and a fierce protectiveness.

"Delphy says just chocolate for you, Judith," he explained when she held up her cup for coffee.

After the men had left, Judith went to her comfortable bed, brought in on the work train for her, and tried to sleep, but her mind sped back to Houston. What would Norman think when he realized she had left? What would he do? Would he write? Where was he?

now, still in Galveston, perhaps? His case promised to last for a week at least. She wondered if Mathie was with him?

Restlessly she turned and tossed. Mathie would be with him if it were within her power. Perhaps she would talk him into taking her to their farmhouse for dinner...

perhaps there would be clove pinks and hollyhocks along the path.

She was being silly, neither one were in blossom this time of the year and Norman would not be out with Mathie.

She should be think of the work which lay before her. She thought of Slim Sanford instead of thought of him wondering. Of course Slim had been acting as a winged courier for Cunard and yet there seemed to be something deeper in his concern for her welfare.

Judith did not want Slim's regard to go deeper than friendship—and yet she felt a twinge of pleasure when she thought of the aviator.

She started to turn and heard Delphy's spring creak. She held her breath. If Delphy learned she was awake she'd have to drink some more chocolate and she couldn't. She lay there wondering what the old woman would do when she saw the native children; try to fatten them? What a time she'd have.

That was it, she'd write Norman in a light vein—"Normy dear, behold your wife, Delphy accompanied by six cans of chocolate and the old red brick—"

She curled into a comfortable position, punched her pillow into a puff ball and burrowed her head into it resolutely. She'd count sheep. She began, one, two three... and then one hundred, two hundred... four hundred and fifty... was it six or seven... there were voices outside. She opened her eyes, the sun was streaming in through the uncurtained windows and Delphy was tiptoeing to the door, a warning—"Shhh" preceding her.

"Is right sorry sir, but she didn't get no sleep till come two-thirty this mornin' ax' I won't waken her."

Judith sat up and peeked out the window. Heads, men's and women's, Scoggins was in the lead... a delegation of the native families were waiting at the door.

"Delphy," she called, "tell them I'll be out as soon as I dress."

A LAST TRIBUTE TO MY BROTHER

J. B. Winn, 74, of Big Spring, Texas, died at 11 o'clock p. m. April 18, 1934. He had been very sick for two months or more when the end came. He was my only brother. I had two other brothers who died very young. In our boyhood days we had some little tilts as is common to boys, but before we reached our teens, we dropped all this and ever after were as loving and kind to each other as boys can well be. Each were ever ready to extend favors and kindness to the other, as it was possible for us to be. When I last visited him just a few days before his death, he said, "Wilton, you have lived almost four years longer than I have, but I do not envy you one day of the time, but my time is about up. I must soon go but I have tried to live right, not to wrong any one and to love and help my neighbors to the extent of my ability."

your claim." He expressed the hope that I might live many years more and be useful to and advise and encourage his children to go on in the right way, and be useful citizens and to love and help each other in the affairs of this life. I assured him I would gladly do this at all opportunities. We are glad to give this testimony for one we loved so well. His ten living children, all grown were with him during his illness and death, and we want to say of them we have lived a long time but never saw any bunch of children show any greater respect and earnest and continuous effort to nurse a parent than did his children. His wife performed her part faithfully and well, though she was not the mother of his children. We commend them to Him who said, "Honor thy Father and thy Mother that you may live long on the land," that the Lord, your God has given you, we feel sure, the great Judge will reward these children for the love and kindness they have shown their dear father in his last days of suffering.

We say, sleep on dear father and brother, undisturbed by the affairs of this life and await the promise of the one who said: the time is coming in which all they in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth to life again. We have faith and look for this glorious day.

OKLAHOMA GUARDS HALT SALES OF LAND FOR TAXES

Gov. William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma directed national guardsmen to prevent delinquent tax sales of real estate in 11 counties of the state. This was the scene as a squad of guardsmen halted a public sale at Enid. An officer is shown serving the county treasurer with a copy of Governor Murray's order. (Associated Press Photo)

Dodge Truck Chassis Turns "Sweet Chariot"—Look Who's With It!

Here, folks, is an attractive layout which, singly, or in combination, will get a second look everywhere. The uniquely shaped vehicle is one of a large fleet of special-bodied Dodge motor trucks put into store-delivery service by Lifesavers, Inc., makers of the ubiquitous candy mint with the hole in it. And the alluring bit of femininity acting as temporary chauffeur? That's Sari Maritz, famous motion picture actress, starring in "The Right to Romance" now being shown in theatres of the large cities.

MYSTERIOUS SMITH COMPANY GIVES REAL ENTERTAINMENT

One of the most entertaining shows of its kind and probably the best that has ever played here.

Humble No. 1 J. W. Kuykendall in section 24, block A-46, has shut down for orders at 2485 feet in anhydrite and shale. C. J. Davidson et al No. 1 Cole, in section 10, block 45, township 1 north, topped anhydrite at 1475, topped salt at 1579 and set 10 inch casing at 1647 feet.

Honolulu Oil company No. 1 Kioh et al, in section 33, block 44, township 2 south, topped Yates at 2695 and is drilling at 2705 feet. The Glasscock ordovician test, John I. Moore No. 1 McDowell in section 22, block 34, township 1 south, is still drilling a water well.

Ray Albaugh et al No. 1 John Robinson, hole full of water at 90-140 feet, 20 inch casing at 200 feet, has shut down for orders at 1750 feet in lime. It is Dawson county's wildcat test. In Howard about the only test of interest the past week was S. B. Dorn No. 1 J. P. Davis, 2310 feet from the north and east lines of section 2, block 30, township 1 south, T. & P. survey. It is drilling at 1535 in red rock.

Location has been made for L. C. Harrison et al No. 2 Texas Land and Mortgage company in section 4, block 30, township 1 south. Humble No. 2 E. Settles in section 132, block 29, has rig up to pump with 1700 feet of oil in the hole.

questioners, and she got it also from the others, and only once did the audience give way to levity, that when a man was advised to divorce his present wife before marrying "the lady from Seattle." And the strange part about it all was the affirmative replies she got from most of her questioners when she in turn asked, "Am I right?" Mysterious Smith's assistants are competent, the setting are in keeping with the haunting atmosphere of the performance, and equipment obviously is expensive. The Hindu invitation act is well done, and one leaves the theatre convinced that Smith does make the charming young woman float about the stage.

Under The Dome

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN (UP)—Rep. Ben Cathey, Quitman, probably would have little opposition in an election of the state legislature's most unpopular member, if the vote were confined to legislators.

In his report as chairman of a committee investigating relationships between those drawing state pay, he included a record of each Representative and Senator.

Legislators who have been unable to help the Widow Jones' daughter get a job in these hard times, may find it embarrassing in their campaigns for re-election if an opponent looks up the record and shows the legislator's own kin are at the trough.

Cathey presents not only what has happened but detailed for the edification of the legislators what happened under existing conditions. He outlined the child of a state department head being employed in another department. Suppose the youth proved slothful and neglected work. The D. H. gets him on the carpet and threatens dismissal. But he is met with this staggering reply: "If you fire me, I'll tell Daddy and he'll fire your kinfolks."

Miss Marie Dresden, Texas new relief director, is one expert who does not have a graph on her office wall. Its absence was observed at her first press conference after becoming director. "But there is one being prepared," she said to the disappointment of reporters.

There are 7,000 officers in Texas, including Rangers, Highway patrolmen, sheriffs, deputies and police, all looking for Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker and Raymond Ham-

A mass meeting will be called and all Mexicans are invited to attend. Pictures will be shown to more clearly explain the points Mr. Ortega will bring out, to stress the importance of community health and sanitation. John R. Hutto, and the teachers of the Mexican school will be called on by the Howard County Tuberculosis Association, according to Dr. Lee Rogers, chairman to help in the observance of Public Health week among the Mexicans.

San Antonio Political Machine To Support C. C. McDonald For Governor In Coming Election

AUSTIN—Decision that the San Antonio city political "machine" will support C. C. McDonald for governor has been announced. The decision is largely that of Jake Rubiola, recognized leader of this organization. It was reached during the past week, and disclosed by responsible sub-leaders in the city ring. Three weeks ago Rubiola said that "the boys hadn't talked it over to see what one candidate would be supported." This writer, in regarding his statement at that time said that when "they" made up their minds every indication pointed to backing McDonald. That is the way it turned out.

Power of the city political machine has long been recognized. Rubiola's personal dominance in affairs of the machine has remained steadily successful and effective. There is no indication that the voters of San Antonio plan to do other than vote as has been decided for them.

San Antonio will have better than 50,000 votes. What at one time was a rather powerful opposition party known as the county organization, gradually is centering upon James V. Allred for governor. Its strength, and Allred's assurance of numbers of dry votes, promised to bring him, in second in Bexar county, with McDonald apparently sure of leading the ticket, unless "they" should have a break with him before the July 28 primary.

Texas first moratorium against forced real estate sales has expired but 14 law suits involving its validity and construction are to be argued in the State Supreme Court on April 18. Forty-one attorneys are listed for the suits. The 14 cases are to be heard together. The court will listen to arguments for six hours. The attorneys have been requested to meet and divide the allotted time agreement, if they cannot do so, the court will allot the time.

"A Bible and a Newspaper in every home"

—said Benjamin Franklin, whose death on April 17, 1790, we remember this week

IF YOU asked the founder of a great library system what reading matter you should place in your home, you might expect him to hand you a sizable list of books.

But old Ben Franklin, father of the free library system of our country, being a man to put things first, might have looked over the top of his glasses at you, and repeated "a Bible and a newspaper in every home."

Franklin himself was Printer and Publisher . . . and an advertising writer. He recognized, as you do, that good advertising is NEWS. Back in 1780, when a ship came to port with a consignment of India shawls and some merchants announced this in the newspaper, you may imagine that that item meant more to the ladies of the day than the usual chronicle of somebody's cow "lost, strayed or stolen."

An editor gathers up the news from all corners of the globe, just as a merchant gathers up his stock of goods. Then the story of both is carried in the newspaper. Both mean a great deal to every reader.

Sanders—
Former Vice-President Charlie Curtis thinks that a new chairman for the Republican National Committee should be picked from one of the central states. He is keeping it dark but he says the man should come from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan or one of those states rather than the east.

Everett Sanders' closest friends expect him to drop the G. O. P. chairmanship shortly because of ill health.

When Sanders was rushed to a Pittsburgh hospital recently he was a far sicker man than was advertised. He is pulling through but his physician is said to have strongly recommended that he take things easy for a while. . . .

Rhymes—
There is more than one way of spreading the New Deal gospel. Amateur news daily flood NRA headquarters with their verse and suggest that it be made into a Blue Eagle theme song. Most of it's pretty sour.

But each rhymester sets a cordial letter of thanks for his "timely verse" with expression of a "hope you will continue to spread this propaganda in your community." . . .

Cooling—
Japanese big navy men are hot and bothered over the rapidly bettering relations between their country and ours. If this sort of thing keeps up they see all their fine plans for expanded armaments and naval parity with Britain and America going a-glimmering.

They've always used America as the big bad wolf and that made a big navy necessary. Now with Foreign Minister Hirota receiving such cordial responses from Washington they see themselves made faintly ridiculous. . . .

Hirota's diplomacy is seen by insiders directed not against foreign nations but at the Jingoists in his own country. He quietly settled the army's hash not long ago when he arranged matters with Russia so that nothing could happen in that direction. Now he's taking the wind out of the navy's sails in his dealings with America. . . .

In the six months he has held office Hirota has practically re-oriented the whole national attitude of Japan. . . .

Agitation—
The State Department has heard of a probably discountable new Moscow organization called the "European Workers' Revival Committee." It's purpose is said to be the sending of specially chosen agitators to Britain, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Austria and France to work with their Social Democratic and Labor parties.

The idea is of "automatically driving them into war with their neighbors, each war to be followed by a civil war."

The Committee is reported ready to grant funds of $50,000,000 for each country where results show up after a reasonable period. . . .

Russia—
New Yorkers interested in promoting Russian trade are decidedly active behind the scenes. Negotiations hit an unexpected snag in the Johnson bill forbidding credits to nations defaulting on their debts. Originally that wasn't intended to apply to Russia and the Export-Import Bank appeared to have a clear field. But now—for diplomatic reasons—it's been officially decided to include Russia. The point was to ma. It's less obvious that the bill was aimed directly at France. It's understood here that the State Department strongly recommended each camouflage.

The problem of borrowing under this barrier is complicated by the necessity for face-saving on both sides. The Soviet government can't "Should this bill become a law, it will undoubtedly lead to unemployment, distress and suffering. Very likely it will reverse the trend toward recovery."

Petition forms are attached for the use of "friend and trades people."

Sidelights—
New York has more investigators and observers in Washington than any other city at the height of the Senate investigation. . . . Europe is more interested in American security markets now than it has been since the first of the year. . . . Technocracy appears to be staging a comeback in the middle west. . . . New York has learned that Howard Scott has picked up a lot of speaking dates out there.

Silver—
New York is keenly attentive to this chess game between the administration and the silverites. Despite the alliance between local silver supporters and unadulterated conservatives against the "planned economy" phases of the government program, the latter are pulling for the administration on this particular issue.

Insiders regard the Pecora questionnaire about silver purchases as a shrewd counter to the Thomas and Fiesinger gestures—all the shrewd because it is apparently originated in the senate instead of the treasury department. But there's no doubt here that Secretary Morgenthau could shed light—if he cared to—on why it was timed just now.

If Pecora really wants to know who's been buying silver he'll have to be good at penetrating aliases. Wall Street points out there's been plenty of warning about such an inquiry and forecasts a bumper crop of secretaries, customers' men and numbered accounts in the official list.

It's a pretty safe bet no Congressional names will be disclosed. It's equally safe that some of the boys who have been pulling silver strings from here stand to gain a tidy penny from any move that advances the price of the metal. If their identities and connections can be unearthed it'll certainly cramp the silver block's style. It appears to be Pecora's job to break down that "if."

Methods—
So a strictly private organization—with the highly unofficial help of people connected with the Export-Import Bank—is being mobilized to do the hidden spade work. Those interested are optimistic about damage claims by corporations.

That's just a question of getting the Russians to pay a deliberately inflated price for the products they buy. The difference above the normal price will be applied to settle the claims. Officially Washington will know nothing whatever about this arrangement—ditto for Moscow.

Will the Russians agree to this surreptitious levy? Experts believe they will in order to foster trade relations. The precedent has already been set. One large American corporation obtained completely satisfactory settlement of its own claims some time ago in precisely this way.

The Kerensky and Czarist bonds present a knottier problem. The Soviet government has already helped (though the bondholders might not agree) by quietly buying in a number of bonds at default prices in carefully concealed transactions. This will probably continue.

It is possible that a large part of the remainder will be balanced off against Soviet claims arising out of our Siberian expedition during the war. . . .

France—
France evidently didn't believe the Johnson bill meant what it said. The French have nearly exhausted the 100,000,000 guilder loan arranged through Dutch sources and need more help. So they recently approached their American banking connections and asked how about it. The said banking connections are taking no chances of incurring Washington wrath and referred the inquiry to the State Department.

The answer—as expected—was a firm and vigorous No. The bankers were privately just as pleased to have the government let them out.

Local authorities predict that the straw to break the Doumergue cabinet's back is likely to develop out of the attempt to force a wage cut on the French railway workers. This measure is pressed could easily lead to a general railway strike which would dump the fat in a sizzling fire. . . .

Gold—
Recent figures on gold losses show clearly how the gold bloc is gradually being driven to the wall. In the past year Switzerland's gold holdings have dropped from 2,354,000,000 francs to 1,710,000,000, a loss of 22.3 per cent. In the same period Holland's gold has shrunk from 955,000,000 guilders to 788,000,000—down by 17.7 per cent. Holland has also lost nearly the whole of 70,000,000 guilders in foreign exchange which is owned a year ago.

French holdings of the metal have declined from 80,417,000,000 francs to 74,513,000,000. This is only a loss of 7.2 per cent but at the same time its holdings of foreign exchange have collapsed from four billion francs to only one billion.

Exchange experts agree that it can't—and won't—be long now.

Devaluation—
Strong pressure from grain circles will shortly be added to the Committee for the Nation's plea for more rapid devaluation. The President is due to be told—from quarters hitherto silent—that wheat and corn prices are in for a damaging drop unless the gold price is raised very shortly to $40 an ounce.

Pressure—
A number of Stock Exchange firms—not satisfied with the trend toward softening the Fletcher-Rayburn bill—are urging their employees to bigger and better efforts to help kill it. Here are significant extracts from a circular distributed in several houses. The circular is unsigned—perhaps in case it falls into government hands.

"We must not become too optimistic but must redouble our efforts from now on. The time has come when all true, straight-thinking Americans should protest the action of this small group that is attempting to strangle individuality through governmental control of finance and industry."

"This will be accomplished only by 100 per cent cooperation of every employe. . . . It is up to every individual as a patriotic citizen to protest. . . . They should also solicit the assistance of their friends and trades people to do likewise."

Tammany—
Edwards Ahearn—the man who was beaten by a narrow margin when Curry was chosen Tammany boss—has been privately seeking an alliance with Jim Farley. He's even letting it be known—where he thinks it'll help—that he and Farley are as close as a stamp to a letter.

Curry would have been given the gate long ago if his opponents had been able to agree among
