Slipping—

The impression grows among Washington insiders that the National Labor Board is slipping. The score sheets indicate it has lost most rounds of its bout with industry to date.

Opinion is divided as to why. Many think the Board lost its teeth when Senator Wagner was compelled to devote less time to its chairmanship and more to the Senate. Others are convinced N.L.B. is not putting on a bold enough front.

Critics of the agency supposed to settle labor differences and give the worker a square deal have three cases particularly in mind.

They are the Weirton Steel Co. argument, the trouble in the New York fur industry and an issue in a Houston, Tex., tool company.

In each instance the Board is charged with failure to make full use of its powers under the law. (In fairness it should be added that two of these cases were mighty tough propositions.)

Weirton—

The Labor Board went through the motions of polling sentiment at Weirton to see whether the workers want to join a company union or prefer to line up with the A. F. of L. But the steel company threw a brick in the federal agency's face and got away with it.

The Board refused to make its payroll available to Board representatives so they could pull a real poll and threatened court action if the Board tried counting noses in the residential district around the plant. The Board failed to produce a empty comeback.

This development immensely encourages conservatives who think labor is too damn fresh anyway.

Jury Acquits Lieut. Murrel

ACQUITTED

Returns Verdict On Attack Charge After 55 Minutes

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—After deliberating 55 minutes, a jury in federal district court returned a verdict Wednesday afternoon acquitting Lieut. John H. Murrel, former West Point football star, on charges of criminal attack and attempted criminal attack upon Miss Blanche Ralls Boiscaire, a visitor here from Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 22, 1933.

Verdict Applauded

The verdict was returned late Wednesday after three and one-half hours of arguments by attorneys.

Murrel was indicted on two counts, the first of which alleged assault on Miss Ralls with intent to rape, punishable by a penitentiary sentence to be fixed by the court, the second charging him with criminal attack, which is punishable by death or, if the jury so recommends, by life imprisonment.

When the clerk of the court read the verdict of "not guilty" on the first count, there was a ripple of applause from the crowd which had gathered, among them being more than a score of women. Judge R. J. McMillan immediately halted the proceedings and warned the spectators that all would be expelled from the courtroom if there were any further demonstrations. Then the court read the verdict of "not guilty" to the second count, after which the courtroom was cleared quickly.

"I knew I would be acquitted," Lieut. Murrel said. "I was confident from the start. I suppose it was because my conscience was clear."

MacCracken was freed under $5,300 bond pending an appeal. Brittin started serving his term.

The planning program would include city and county planning, zoning, reforestation, prevention of soil erosion and many other projects of a similar nature.

Attending from here were C. T. Watson, Will Hayden, George White, and E. V. Spence.

American Dies In Vienna As Riot Victim

Socialist Rebellion Fades Before Government; Italy Awaits Action

Cotton Check Up Scheduled For Friday

County Agent O. P. Griffin announced Thursday there would be a check up on the cotton acreage reduction campaign conducted in Howard county.

Community committees have been called to meet 10 a. m. Friday in the county court room for the purpose of completing the check.

Scores of additional contracts were brought into Griffin's office as a result of a time extension to February 15 and reducing the lint limit from 100 to 75 pounds.

However, quite a few farms which could have qualified under the old arrangement have come in since the extension of time, Griffin said.

Griffin does not expect a great number to sign the corn and hog production control plan. Signing that contract calls for a pledge not to increase grain acreage over 1932-33. Very few farmers in this area, he believes, can well agree to do that.

LOW RENTS ESSENTIAL

It is encouraging to discover that the Public Works administration is insisting that slum clearance projects now under consideration be devised so that the lowest possible rents be charged in the completed buildings.

An elaborate housing program was devised for one large manufacturing city and it was figured that the new apartments would rent for approximately $7 a room. PWA authorities notified local authorities that this figure was too high, and that federal funds would not be forthcoming unless a revision was made to bring the rentals down.

This is extremely sensible. A scale of $7 a room would make a five-room apartment cost $35 a month and there are plenty of people who simply can not afford to spend that much money.

Furthermore, they are precisely the people who occupy slum quarters, and whom housing programs are designed to help. There would be little sense in replacing slum dwellings if the new quarters were too expensive for their prospective occupants to use.

STILL SHIPPING LIQUOR

The little island of Higueleon, home port for a fleet of run-runners throughout the prohibition era, is not yet finished with the task of supplying liquor for thirsty American citizens.

Examination of the liquor import 600 and wines valued at $181,000, figures for December, recently released by the Department of Commerce, shows that this tiny island in that month sent to the United States distilled liquors worth $186,000 and wine and beer worth $186,000. Since the island itself ferments no wine and distills no liquor, these stocks obviously originated farther afield; and one probably is doing the islanders no injustice by suspecting that to a certain extent they represent stocks laid in in the smuggling days.

And one wonders: Will Higueleon cease shipping liquor to the United States, once these stocks are gone, or will it continue to maintain its place as a source of supply for the American market making its shipments legally instead of surreptitiously?

FATAL RELICS OF WAR

Mines put into the sea during the World War still are afloat. A Finnish steamer recently found one in the Baltic sea and had it destroyed. Since the war one Swedish naval officer has found and destroyed more than 250 drifting mines—hideous engines of death, waiting to slip into the paths of unsuspecting ship captains.

That such hazards still exist on the high seas is rather shocking to one's sense of security. But when you stop to think about it, the wonder is that there are not more of them around to cause tragedies.

Mines were tossed into the water in an indescribably prodigious manner during the war. When the armistice arrived, the allied navies spent months picking them up; but in the very nature of things it was inevitable that they should miss a great many.

The world really is very lucky that these dretful mines have not proved a far greater hazard to post-war ocean traffic.

ANIMAL HUNTER ON AIR

Frank Buck to be heard in Broadcast Thursday Evening

Frank Buck, who brings wild animals out of the jungles alive and who got his start in this profession when a boy at San Angelo along the Concho Rivers, will be on the air from 8:30 to 9 o'clock Thursday evening in a Ford dealers' broadcast, according to announcement received here. He will talk about his latest animal-hunting expedition into the jungles of India, Ceylon, Sumatra and Malaya. The program will be on the Columbia chain.

The prize of Buck's recent foray was a male Indian rhinoceros now housed in the St. Louis Zoo, the only one in captivity. There are three female Indian rhinos in captivity, two of them having been caught by Buck ten years ago. The young male will weigh five tons when it grows up.

Among the other animals recently brought back was a Malayan tapir, a pair of black leopards, which Buck considers the most vicious beasts he has encountered; a pair of binutrong, which is a cross between a bear and a cat; a pair of Sumatran clouded leopards, and a number of rare birds and monkeys including an orang-utan which has an arm spread of nine feet.

Buck's only injury on his last venture into the jungle was a lame knee caused by a normally-placid honey bear, which almost scratched itself out of a box shortly after it was captured. Buck caught several animals by shooting them down from trees alive. Using a 30-30 rifle with soft-nosed bullets, he shot branches from under the animals so that they fell into steel nets on the ground. One of the clouded leopards was captured in this manner.

MEXICO, D. F.—Charging him with frequent violations of the Mexican broadcasting laws the department of communications has ordered John Brinkley of Kansas to give satisfactory proof of his right to practice medicine, under penalty of a 30-day suspension of his radio station at Villa Acuna, Coahuila or possible withdrawal of his broadcasting license if he fails to do so.

Brinkley, whose station (XIER) was reported to be the target of a bill introduced in the Washington house of representatives to prevent remote control broadcasting, was fined twice recently, the department said, for broadcasting in English announcements and advertisements by remote control from the United States.

Representatives of the station obtained temporary injunctions to avoid payment of the 50 to 100 peso fines and also to extend the original 15-day period given Brinkley to prove he is a doctor. A hearing is scheduled for the 28th of this month.

One of the infractions with which the station is charged is advertising Brinkley as a doctor, without having first established his right to that title.

Ward's Cooking School Draws Out Large Crowd; Menu Sheets To Be Made

Montgomery Ward's National Cooking School was well attended the first day, which was Wednesday. Over 100 women were present for the opening session.

A complete meal was prepared. Each day different, but complete menus are being offered. Mrs. Rance King, manager of Ward's store, has arranged to have menu sheets printed, listing each daily menu and a number of new and practical recipes, in order to eliminate the necessity of taking pencil and paper to the school for notes. The menus will be presented Friday.

The school will be held each afternoon at 2:30. Every woman in Howard county is invited.

The menu for today follows: Hamburger steak, creamed potatoes, carrot pudding with grape juice sauce.

Mrs. Werner Neese of Midland drove through Big Spring this week enroute to visit her parents in Longview. Mrs. Adams Talley joined her here to make the trip.

Carl S. Blomfield and Ray Chambliss went to Lamesa Wednesday.

PRESIDENT'S AIDE VIEWS AUTO OF THE FUTURE

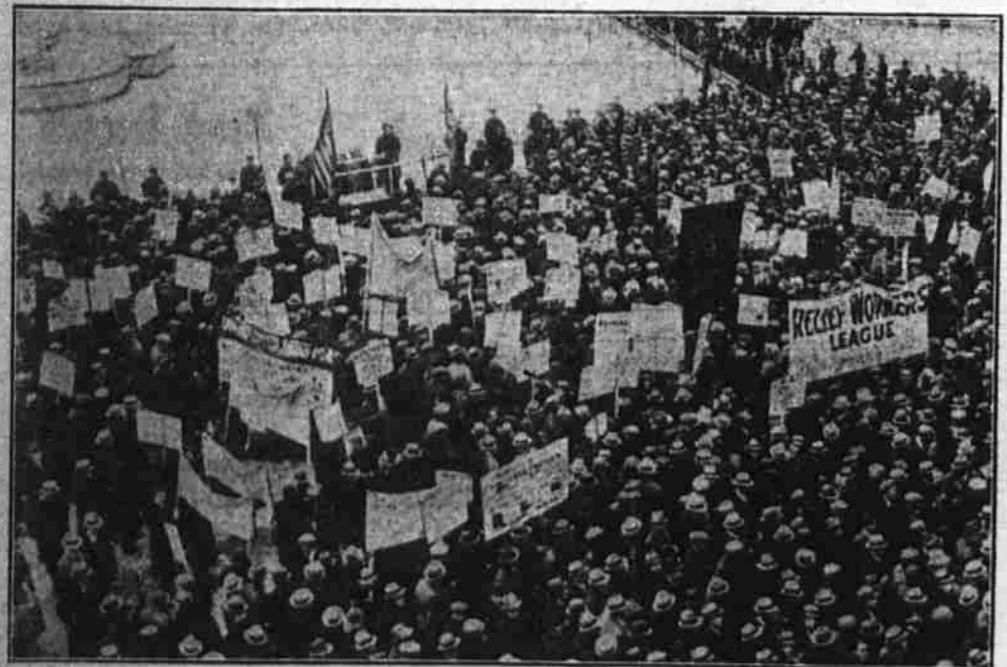

(Photo by Underwood & Underwood, Washington.) MARVIN McINTYRE, secretary to President Roosevelt, displayed keen interest in an amazing modernistic three-wheeled, super stream-lined automobile, driven by Capt. Al Williams, noted speed flyer and former U. S. Navy pilot, when it visited the White House executive offices in Washington recently. The body of the unusual car, which can do 120 miles an hour and goes about 30 miles on a gallon of gas, is made of light-weight duralumin, of high tensile strength, and weighs a thousand pounds less than the conventional Ford sedan. The low pressure Jumbo tires further carry out the streamline principle. Powered by a Ford V-8 engine, mounted in the rear behind the passenger compartment, it is steered by the single rear wheel, while the power is supplied through the two front wheels. In the photograph above, at the White House, are Capt. Williams (left), and Mr. McIntyre.

U. S. SPEEDS SEARCH FOR BREMER KIDNAPERS

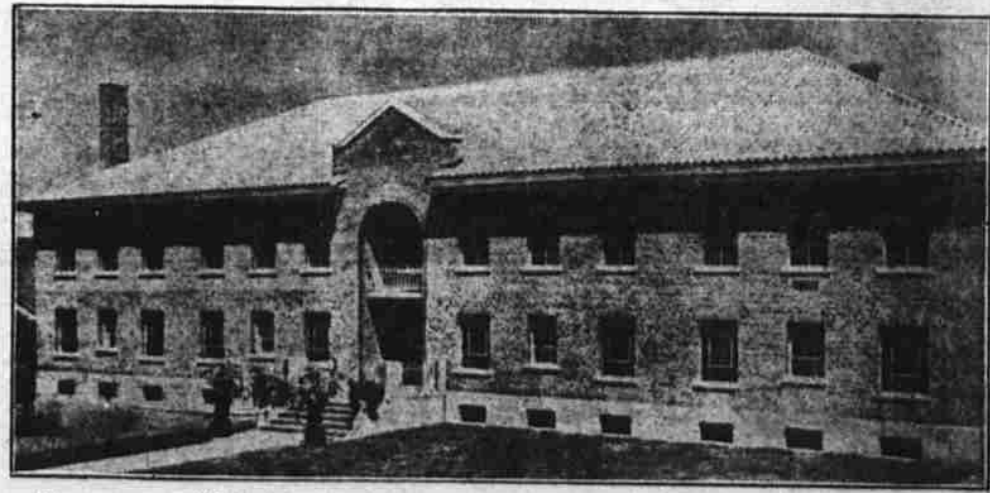

A far-reaching search was pushed by the department of justice for abductors of Edward Bremer, 37-year-old St. Paul banker who was ordered to bed after his release for $200,000 ransom. STEERS TO OPEN WITH NOLAN COUNTY CHAMPS

Locals Entered In Sectional Cage Fracas

Divide Will Likely Be Big Spring's First Opponent

Big Spring Steers will meet the winner of the Divide-Roscoe contest in the first round of the sectional tournament at Colorado Friday night.

Wylie Gets Bye In the semi-final round at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the Steers will meet Wylie, if they win their first game with the Nolan county entry.

The Steers have already played Divide and Wylie this season. The locals were lucky to get over Divide by a one point margin and lost to Wylie's top-notch team by a heavy score in the Colorado invitational tourney.

The first game at 7:30 tomorrow night will pit Coach Father's Abilene Eagles against the Colorado Wolves.

Forsan is to face the Abilene Colorado survivor at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The Wolves are favored to take both Abilene and Forsan.

At the same time the Colorado meet is in progress the northern half will be played at Roby. Among the teams which will compete at Roby are Hamlin, champion of Jones county; Dunn, champion of Seery; and Old Glory, champion of Stonewall.

Wolves Whip Loraine Colorado won the title of Mitchell county night before last by defeating Loraine, 75 to 19, and last night concluded its pre-tournament schedule with a 45 to 20 verdict over Dunn.

The draw was made yesterday at Colorado, with representatives of Colorado, Big Spring, and Forsan high schools present.

CAR IS RECOVERED A model T Ford touring car stolen from R. H. Miller recently was recovered the following morning by police west of the T. & P. shops. It had been stripped by the thieves.

Bovine Mentor

George Brown, Steer coach, is now in his third season with the Steers as head coach and has two district and one bi-district titles to his credit.

Lomax Hornets Defeat Brown

The Lomax Hornets took a 31 to 21 decision over Brown school at Lomax Tuesday night. Brown girls defeated Lomax girls the same night, 31 to 8, in a one-sided game.

ment. Their chances of winning are slim, very much so. Bob Flowers has a bad leg and "Bucket" Hare a cold. However, Brown expects to have his team in fair condition by time for the first game.

Wylie and Colorado loom as the two strongest contenders. They both hold victories over the Bovines this season.

Brown has only the required number of players, five, that he can rely on with any degree of certainty. It has been necessary for the coach to concentrate his work on his five best players, consequently the others have had very little opportunity to keep in trim.

On Monday Bristow plans to start spring football work-outs. He has promise of a much better team than the past season's squad. Some of the district teams already have the jump on Bristow.

A girls basketball tournament to be staged at Lomax on February 23 and 24 promises to be a lively affair. The Lomax entry plans a strong bid for the title.

San Angelo high school officials are very amusing. They couldn't play the Big Spring basketballers on Tuesday, yet they played Abilene on that day.

Miller is a good long shot and Chapman a good crisp shooter. Usually, if one is connecting with the basket the other is not.

Just before the championship game on Saturday night, there will be an exhibition game between the Howard county teachers team and a team from Garden City.

Dallas Team Situation Is Well Jumbled

Hope Lies In Acquisition Of Several Star Players

By JACK BISCO United Press Staff Correspondent DALLAS (UP) — The Dallas Steers of the Texas League today looked forward with mingled feelings of hope and despair toward the approaching 1934 pennant race.

The despair was founded on the loss of Zeke Bonura, star first baseman and spark plug of the 1933 roster. Bonura, leading home run hitter of the league last year, whose batting average of .357 placed him only one point behind Sid Purdy of San Antonio, was sold to the Chicago White Sox.

Replacing Bonura will be Jim Keesey, acquired by the Steers from the St. Paul club of the American Association. Keesey went to St. Paul late last season after playing with Kansas City. His 1933 batting average was .339.

Practically the entire Steer infield this year will be made up of new players. Ernie Holman, third baseman for the past three years, has been replaced by Eddie Hook, who comes from the Houston club, to which Holman goes.

Remainder of the infield includes Lou Brower, valuable shortstop of last year's infield, and Shine Cortazzo, newly obtained from the Birmingham club of the Southern Association. Cortazzo and Ray Flanagan, who was here last year, will fight it out for second base position.

Funk and Bubber Jonnard, a last year's regular, will head the catching staff. Business Manager Bob Bartlett is now casting about for a youngster to succeed them.

The Steer outfield looks fairly good. At left field will be Fred (Red) Bennet, who by the way, batted .328 last year.

In right field Dallas will have what promises of being an outstanding horse, still backing them up. Murdoch's record for consecutive games does not compare with Gehrig's mark of 1347 consecutive baseball games, but the hazards in hockey are far greater.

CHAMPIONS TWICE The American tennis combination of Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston was supreme in Davis Cup competition for seven straight years, 1920-26, but it cracked up during the eighth.

HITTING OVER 400 The scoring exploits of the Cook boys, Bun and Bill, in combination with Frank Boucher, leave them in a class by themselves.

However, it may be said broadly that averaging between 30 and 40 points during a hockey season of 44 games is equivalent to a baseball batting average of .300 to .350.

That same year Boucher notched 62 points and Cooney Weiland of the Boston club set an all-time record with 73 points, which represent the combined total of goals and assists.

SPORT SLANTS By ALAN GOULD

The world of sports has few records of team or individual endurance to compare with that of the New York Rangers, world champion professional hockey team, five stars of which have now played together ever since the club entered the National League in 1926-27.

The New York Yankees were champions of the American League the same year the Rangers were organized, but no more than four of the regulars are still on the roster and two of these, Babe Ruth and the Earle Combs, have nearly played out the string.

Contrast with this the fact that the famous Cook brothers and Frank Boucher of the Rangers are now in their eighth consecutive season as the first forward line, with Ching Johnson, the old war-

A New Serial By Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 22
 "We will take burros and horses along," continued Ortega, "and when you have finished your pictures, we can push on to the coast. I have a launch there, at my hacienda, and I will take you south to Belize where the United Fruit boats stop. From there you may sail to Cuba. You have plenty of money?"
 "Enough," said Greene shortly. Ortega shrugged. "I would suggest you take enough," he said. "If you carry drafts I can arrange tomorrow to have them cashed for you." His glance appraised the diamonds on Janice's fingers and at her throat. "It is not wise to wear jewels in these times. You had better hide them."
 "Will this trip be safe?" asked who whispered, soldiers with stolid, sullen faces, whose metallic equipment clinked and rattled as they moved.

 It was then that she observed the man who leaned against a post in the station entrance. Almost a pure Indian type she thought, talking in the dark skin, the beaked nose, and wide cheek-bones. A shock of coarse black hair fell over his forehead. He seemed to be staring toward her, yet not at her. She turned toward Ortega, who was at her elbow. He was looking directly at the Indian. Ortega nodded his head. His lips were parted in a half smile, which vanished as he became conscious of Janice's interest.
 "A poor fellow," he said suavely.

People moved restlessly about Janice.

the girl.
 "Oh, quite," replied Ortega casually. He smiled slightly.
 "Well," said Mr. Greene, "let's get going."
 They filed out of the car. Several soldiers helped them with their boxes. Ortega made arrangements to have them taken to an hotel. Mr. Green admitted to Janice, rather grudgingly, that Ortega certainly could get things done.
 Janice did not reply. She was too tired from the long day and the excitement to take much interest in what was going on about her. She noted, however, that Ortega kept close to her, rather too close she thought, but perhaps it was only his zeal to see that she was made comfortable.

She stood waiting for her coach. It was poorly illuminated before the station. People moved restlessly about her—native women with awails about their heads, children and smiled. "It is better to die swiftly with a bullet than to expire slowly from too much work." Grahame chuckled. "Spoken like a true son of Mexico."

 "Nevertheless," he continued, "we should be able to tell from the trail whether they have passed toward the hacienda or not. Also, they may have returned with the cases. In that event, we can keep behind."
 "Buena," agreed Juan. "Good. The trail lies three kilometers to the south behind that small hill."
 They were about forty kilometers from the coast. Roughly the direction of the trail was south-west. They had been nearly two weeks journeying to reach this point, keeping always off the main trail. At times their way was easy, when the jungle opened into broad grassy savannas. At other points they were forced to plunge into leech-glutted bogs where every step was a supreme effort.
 They skirted the small hill that Juan had noticed. Soon they stood upon a narrow path that twisted southward, a truly Indian trail that looped and swung around trees and swamps—never ran straight.
 Juan preceded Grahame as they strode along. Their packs were humped high upon their shoulders. Each carried a rifle, taken from Ortega's landed cases. Occasionally Juan pointed to the right or left of the trail, calling Grahame's attention to fresh severed vines.
 "They have passed this way toward the coast. I can not tell whether they have returned."

 They walked for several hours. The trail dipped toward a swamp, and Grahame noticed that at the point it crossed the bog, tree trunks and branches had been thrown to give a firm footing. Juan uttered an exclamation and hurried forward.
 "I can tell you more now," said the boy. "They are behind us. They have not returned. See—The mud is trampled. The footprints go all in one direction. A very large party too—perhaps half a hundred, perhaps more."
 They stood at the edge of the swamp that stretched about two hundred yards ahead of them. Thoughtfully they examined the footprints.
 "It's the side trail again for us, son," said Grahame. "At least until the footing is dry. It would be telling 'em too much if we crossed here. We don't know how far they are behind us. If they see our prints here they'd send a party ahead to catch us."

ly in the making. Railroad executives are dazed because they never know what Co-ordinator Eastman will spring on them.

They don't take kindly to offers of loans for new equipment when they aren't sure their revenues will show signs of coming to life. Some executives fear that if they borrow too much from Uncle Sam he'll just take over their properties to square the account.

Hoover

Politicians here are agog about the recent meeting of Herbert Hoover and former Senator Smoot of Utah. What, they ask, could those two Old Guards have been talking about—the tenets of the Mormon church?

Hoover is titular head of the Republican Party unless and until his successor is chosen. Lobby talk here tallies on one point—whether Hoover expects to run again or not he intends to have something to say in picking the next candidate.

A regular Republican movement is on in California to lick Hiram Johnson at all costs.

Greenbacks

Some of the so-called inflationists wonder whether President Roosevelt's recent appeal for a general scaling down of interest rates on debts wasn't a trial balloon to test sentiment about an issue of greenbacks. That would cut the cost of financing the huge national load.

And more people are getting concerned about the interest charges on the public debt.

recently tried to gobble up the Laviathan but were blocked by U. S. naval authorities.

(W) Rye

They're in a pinch down here over liquor ads. The law that prohibits 'em in dry states is still in effect. But what can you do about sound waves which refuse to recognize state boundaries?

The Radio Commission thinks the answer is simply to stop all liquor ads over the air. Radio stations have had hints that they better watch their step or out go their licenses. The warning wears a veil for fear an outright ban might start a howl over government censorship.

There isn't any but radio folks are wary. To revoke a license the Radio Commission needs just one little reason. The offending station isn't "serving the public interest."

"What?" say the radio crowd with a (w) rye grin. "Doesn't liquor itself serve the public interest? That's what they said when they wanted repeal."

Dan Hastings, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee, gets nowhere collecting campaign funds. Who wants to kick in when it looks like another Waterloo? Senator Ashurst is getting support for his bill to make it a felony to pay ransom to kidnapers. Current conferences on municipal debts are expected to end in a plan for federal financing of several cities—including New York. Mayor LaGuardia's suggestion that back taxes are good security for RFC loans seems to look good.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Silver

Big doings in silver are brewing under cover. Interested New Yorkers will tell you that informal discussions with Britain have already started. The aim is silver in the Far East. We have a double-barreled motive in promoting such an agreement.

For one thing stiffening of silver exchange would crack down on the Japanese dream of under-selling everybody—which several experts maintain is an important reason why our commodity price level doesn't move up faster. Britain should be in hearty agreement on this point because Japanese trade ambitions have hurt her even more than us. The only Britishers likely to object seriously are a few folks who have been making a mint out of the Chinese trade.

Fund

Then the question of how to use our stabilization fund most efficiently enters the picture. The things we can buy with that fund in order to keep the dollar down are fewer than most people think. If France declares a gold embargo—which is probable—there isn't an awful lot of gold left for us to purchase, probably not enough to accomplish our purposes. If we buy any foreign paper currency—such as pounds—we risk heavy losses though depreciation and put our investment at the mercy of foreign governments. If we buy ordinary commodities abroad we simply make things that much tougher for domestic producers.

This situation sort of puts silver in the limelight. But an understanding with England is necessary insurance against wasting our efforts.

Revalued

Experts believe such a step would inevitably lead to revaluation of silver in order to obtain a profit for the Treasury. They also foresee an eventual change in reserve requirements for Federal Reserve Notes to 25 per cent gold plus 5 per cent silver instead of 40 per cent gold as at present.

Oil

Oil men are gleeful at the way their business has held up this winter. Gasoline consumption has been especially encouraging. They say a lot of CWA workers must have tanked up their old cars as soon as they got a job.

The industry sees a real boom ahead this summer which will end the clamor for price fixing. Every-one wants prices as high as the traffic will bear.

Consumers

This will probably lead to the first major battle on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Consumer. The heavy taxes on gasoline have hardly been noticed so far because of reductions in the base price. But a retail price of 35c and more is in sight and then the fun will begin.

The Consumers' Advisory Board in Washington is known to be making a private study of the situation. You can expect to hear from Paul Douglas of the Board when the storm breaks. Douglas has a reputation for holding fire until the opposition is completely nullified.

Three

Watch General Weygand, Marshal Foch's former Chief of Staff will be an increasingly important figure from now on. He has no Napoleonic ambitions of his own but he can come pretty close to imitating an emperor what to do and easing it out the window if it shows a disposition to argue.

Informed insiders would not be surprised to see French destinies handed over soon to a triumvirate similar to those of Roman history and the early French revolution. The French Parliament might confer emergency powers upon them and then virtually abdicate its own authority. The hint is that powerful army circles favor this solution.

Weygand would certainly be one of the three. Tardieu might be the second. Galloux—despite the sinister pattern in his background—might also figure in the picture as a financial expert.

Could national unity be achieved by such an arrangement? New Yorkers who know France well believe a little judicious bloody-shirt waving in Hitler's direction would accomplish miracles.

Coneland

The battle to oust Senator Copeland from his job looks tougher all the time. The doctor represents Tammany's last hope of saving himself from the junk pile by a show of strength and the boys are up on their toes. Political insiders comment that Copeland is perfectly capable of running as an independent—with Tammany backing—if he should lose out in the primaries. He would have no chance to win that way but he could make his Senate seat pretty safe for the Republicans. This threat already been pulled behind the scenes just to warn the Farley wing of the party not to be too anxious to grease the skids.

Copeland backers intend to play out their string. They have nothing to lose. They are going on the theory that the administration will probably lay off its opposition to Copeland rather than take a chance on losing a Senate seat to the Republicans in the President's home state in what would be interpreted as a New Deal test. This outcome will be a life-saver for Tammany if they get away with it.

Rift

The inner rift in local Republican circles was widened by the National Committee's vitriolic attack on CWA. Former off stage Republican angels are thoroughly sore at what they call "the dumbest generalship since Cincinnatus was a corporal." Another comment runs: "Unless those birds do a better job of picking issues from now on they're going to be surprised at the neutrality of a lot of New York pocket-books this fall."

Curry

Quite a few Tammany insiders are wishing Boss Curry would get wise to himself and resign. "We don't want to give the old boy the bum's rush if we can help it but he can't seem to realize he's out of date and something has to be done." Some of the boys are ready to put tacks in his chair if he doesn't move out pretty soon.

France

There's plenty of T. N. T. left in the French situation. Insiders will tell you that Doumergue's personal popularity can not carry him far. His coalition cabinet will be a source of weakness instead of strength. There are too many mutually jealous prima donnas in his supporting cast for harmonious action unless they are ruled with an iron rod—and Doumergue isn't built that way. Also the French are thoroughly fed with politicians. The recent riots were rooted in that disgust. Doumergue's cabinet presents an inviting target for the discontented and they'll be heard from again.

nable and then smashing it to a pulp.

France

Ironically the French crisis has probably postponed devaluation of the franc. The French peasant—who is a tough hombre when roused—remembers what devaluation did to his hoarded savings last time and is set to take it out of the hide of anyone who tries it again. Only a government with strong military support and beyond political retribution could get away with it now.

Financial experts point out that France could maintain the fiction of remaining on the gold standard even with an embargo in force. She would only have to do what Germany has already done and would be in a stronger position to do it.

Entente

Poor France is having her troubles with her smaller European allies too. First Poland gets thicker than honey with Germany and now the Little Entente is showing signs of breaking away from French domination. Czechoslovakia has taken the initiative in fostering a commercial agreement among Entente countries to raise the volume of their trade with one another by 50 per cent. Behind this trade bond is a

Also the French are thoroughly fed with politicians. The recent riots were rooted in that disgust. Doumergue's cabinet presents an inviting target for the discontented and they'll be heard from again.

A second basis for the Parisian stappede was a deep fear of Germany and contempt for the weak governments which have let Hitler get away with so much. Doumergue's inability to do anything about this will also tend to shorten his reign.

Three

Watch General Weygand, Marshal Foch's former Chief of Staff will be an increasingly important figure from now on. He has no Napoleonic ambitions of his own but he can come pretty close to imitating an emperor what to do and easing it out the window if it shows a disposition to argue.

Informed insiders would not be surprised to see French destinies handed over soon to a triumvirate similar to those of Roman history and the early French revolution. The French Parliament might confer emergency powers upon them and then virtually abdicate its own authority. The hint is that powerful army circles favor this solution.

Weygand

Weygand would certainly be one of the three. Tardieu might be the second. Galloux—despite the sinister pattern in his background—might also figure in the picture as a financial expert.

Could national unity be achieved by such an arrangement? New Yorkers who know France well believe a little judicious bloody-shirt waving in Hitler's direction would accomplish miracles.

Pneumonia Claims Banker, Who Was President First National, Chicago

CHICAGO, (AP)—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank and a candidate in 1932 for the democratic nomination for the presidency, died Wednesday night after a month's illness from pneumonia.

Death of the 55-year old banker and party leader occurred at 11:08 p. m. from an especially virulent type of the disease. He suffered several relapses during his illness but rallied from each to the extent that doctors earlier today had given him a fair chance to recover.

Once in the early hours this morning, Dr. William Cubbins, one of the five doctors attending Traylor said the banker's heart stopped for two minutes. Artificial respiration hastily was resorted to. Traylor most of the time during the more important drive for political unity of the Entente countries and gradual independence of their patron.

War

Here is the inside analysis of the European war scare as given by local experts:

1. The eastern situation is working against any immediate explosion in Egypt, Britain, France and Germany collectively hope to benefit from a Russo-Japanese squabble.

2. All European governments today fear the growing strength of Revolutionary anti-war movements and the overthrow of their regimes if workers and peasants were mobilized and armed. A high Nazi official recently admitted confidentially that the Brown Shirts would be just as likely to shoot down the present government as the "national enemy."

3. Financial experts point out that France could maintain the fiction of remaining on the gold standard even with an embargo in force. She would only have to do what Germany has already done and would be in a stronger position to do it.

Ships

Shipping circles report a revolutionary development in the British "Arcform" ships just completed with great secrecy and launched to carry coal to South America. They burn twenty per cent less coal than any other vessel afloat and promise hot competition for oil burners. Also they carry two hundred and forty tons more cargo than other ships of the same dead weight. Coal owners hope this invention means a revival of their fallen fortunes.

The German government's official gazette carries a weekly list of articles of all kinds approved or disapproved by the Nazi authorities. Some dolls in storm-trooper uniforms were put in the "verboten" column because they do not show a true military bearing.

just three weeks had been under an oxygen tent.

Born in a log cabin on the hillside of a Kentucky farm near Breeding, Traylor rose as a district school teacher, grocery clerk, self educated lawyer, and banker to organize the bank for international settlements at Basel, Switzerland, provided for under the Young plan to settle problems arising out of German reparations payments.

Traylor as a reward for his work was mentioned for the democratic candidate for president in the 1932 race and obtained support from several states.

Traylor's wife, the former Dorothy Arnold Yerby of Hillsboro, Texas and their two children, Nancy and Melvin A. Traylor, Jr. were at the bedside when the banker died. Doctors Sunday said they found present trilateral's headliners to complicate the pneumonia infection. The physician said at that time they could not be certain whether Traylor would recover or die, but today again held out hopes as he rallied from his last setback. Until Traylor went to Europe in 1929 with Jackson S. Reynolds to represent the United States in organization of the international bank it was said that he had never been away from his work for more than three weeks at any one time. The 1929 task, however, consumed many months.

Airplane May Create Cloud Formations

FORT WORTH—A plane traveling through a perfectly clear sky may leave clouds. In its wake under certain atmospheric conditions, according to American Airways' engineers.

On rare occasions, particularly at high altitudes, the turbulence caused by the propeller and the passage of the plane through the air may result in partial condensation of moisture in the air with a resulting cloud function. However, the extreme tenueness of such clouds and the relatively small area which they cover make them a very uncommon sight.

Bill Authorizing State To Condemn Land Unsubmitted

A bill authorizing the state to condemn land for right of way purposes has not yet been submitted to the legislature by the governor.

Representative Penrose B. Metcalfe, in a telephone message to C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, said he had prepared a suggested measure to that effect and asked the governor to submit it as special legislation.

Passage of such a law would enable the state highway commission to condemn land in Glasscock county for right of way on Highway No. 9, thereby permitting uninterrupted construction of a hard surfaced road from Sterling county to Big Spring, connecting this city with San Angelo by an all weather route.

R. C. Sanderson left Tuesday for Fort Worth, where he will remain for several weeks.

BROWN

There were only thirty-three at Sunday school Sunday morning, after Sunday school, Rev. Edd Moore of the Flowergrove community preached, he preached again in the evening.

School is progressing nicely as this week is the second week of the seventh month, if the term is to be only eight months, school will be out unusually early and at a time when the children will not have a thing to do to employ their time.

A number of the patrons are hoping there can be a nine month term, then the children will be out early in the spring. It is hoped that another room and teacher can be added before another term of school starts. There is great need for four teachers here.

Wednesday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Miller carried our junior and senior girls basketball teams to Knott where they played some very interesting games. The junior girls lost while the senior girls tied in a five quarter game.

Thursday of last week the senior boys basketball team played Moore on the Moore court and won the game by a score of 12 to 19 in favor of Brown.

The senior boys and girls basketball teams played at the Garden City Invitational Tournament last week-end.

The gin here still gins a little cotton but the season will soon close, being one of the smallest since the gin was erected.

Joe Cox is at Big Spring taking treatment for his eyes, his host of friends are hoping he soon is able to return home with his eyesight normal once more.

Mrs. Owell Shortes and daughter, Doris spent Saturday with Mrs. F. L. Bass, while Mr. Bass, Owell Shortes, J. O. Hardin and Ben Goolsby went to Stanton and

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. Best drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Radford Co. To Elect Officers In Abilene Today

ABILENE—J. M. Radford company, largest wholesale grocery house of Texas, will start its fifty-first year today with the election of officers and directors.

The president's chair has been vacant since the death of James T. Radford, founder of the business. Mr. Radford died in his home here last July 4. Succession is that his son, O. E. Radford, the only child, will be elevated to the presidency. He is now vice-president and general manager.

The company's stockholders will assemble at 10 a. m. for the election. There are O. E. Radford, Rupert Harkrider, H. M. Harrison, Mrs. J. M. Radford, Mrs. Will Stath, of Abilene; Oscar Cliett, Cleo; R. E. McDonald, Stamford; Joe Burgess, Alpine; Harkrider is now secretary of the company, Harrison treasurer, and both are directors. Other directors are O. E. Radford, Cliett, McDonald and Burgess. The company is strictly a "family affair" in ownership of its stock and control of its policies, there being no stock on the market.

Saturday and Sunday managers of the 24 branch houses will convene for annual convalescence. At that session the company's policy will be fixed. Two division meetings for salesmen will be held during the year.

Although 1933 is commonly considered to have climaxed a four-year period of depression in American business, the year was profitable to the Radford company. O. E. Radford revealed Wednesday.

"The figures won't be available before Thursday," he said, "but we know that our volume in 1933 exceeded that of 1932 and we know that January of this year was a better month than January last year. So we feel pretty good over the outlook, and we are thoroughly sold to the new ways of doing business, inaugurated under President Roosevelt's recovery program, in which intelligent co-operation has succeeded destructive competition."

Joe Kuykendall, local manager of the Radford Grocery company, will leave Friday for Abilene, to attend the managers meeting of this concern.

Tobolowsky Returns From Eastern Marts

Jack Tobolowsky, Abilene, who spent Sunday here with his brother, Dave Tobolowsky, has just returned from the eastern and middle west markets, including St. Louis and New York, where he has spent the past thirty days purchasing new spring merchandise for La Mode in Abilene and Big Spring. A full and complete line of ladies' ready-to-wear and shoe merchandise was purchased for spring on this trip, said Mr. Tobolowsky, who said business conditions were improving all along the line.

M. H. Bice, Simplex maintenance superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company, with headquarters in Dallas, is spending several days in Big Spring, making an inventory of maintenance stocks. Mr. Bice formerly had headquarters in Big Spring, but was transferred to Dallas several months ago. He covers Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Judge Thomas Benton Greenwood, who has announced that he will retire from the bench of the State Supreme Court, will have been on that court for 17 years, when his present term expires. He was appointed associate justice April 1, 1918 by Gov. W. P. Hobby. A native of Louisburg, N. C., he had been a resident of Palestine. He wrote what became known as the L. & G. N. Bill, designed to prevent railroad mergers interfering with obligations of the International & Great Northern Railway, which had established headquarters in Palestine.

He is a graduate of the University of Texas and for many years before going upon the Supreme Court Bench, was one of its regents. Like all the members of the court he has broken down in health at times under its rush of work.

He will engage in private practice. Judge F. A. Williams, Galveston, and Judge Nelson Phillips, Dallas, are other members of the State Supreme Court who have left its bench to re-enter private practice.

There is quite a helpful knack in knowing just how to fold the official map of the Texas Highway system, issued by the State Highway Department with a single restriction. No charge may be made for it nor for maps based on its information.

The state is so large that it is difficult to consult the open map in an automobile. It can be folded so that one portion shows mostly the southern tip and another the Panhandle and a little part of the territory along the Red River.

Folded this way, the greater part of the highway area is in a strip easily consulted, with cross folds, easily carried in a pocket.

The top fold should be made so that on the Eastern border the crease is between Texarkana and Atlanta, and on the New Mexico border about Tatum. The lower fold should be on a line from Eagle Pass to Matagorda.

The folds running all the way across the map can, of course, be varied to suit the portion of the state in which a person does the most traveling.

Besides types of road, the map gives accumulated mileage between points, state and federal road markers and ferry and bridge locations.
