By David M. Britt
Showing their best offense of the season thus far, the Wheeler Mustangs defeated the Erick Bearcats 30-19 last Friday night before a near-capacity crowd at Nicholson Field.
For the second week in a row, the Mustangs proved to be poor hosts for visiting Oklahomans and they will try to keep their home field record spottless this week when they entertain Sunray, coached by a Mustang of several years ago, Clarence Whittenburg.
The first time the Mustangs had the ball against Erick, only six plays were required for the touchdown with Mendall Hunter capping the 44-yard drive with a 28-yard scamper to paydirt.
The try for the extra points failed and the Mustangs had a quick 6-0 lead.

It looked like the game would be all offense as Erick stormed right back on a 74-yard drive to score. The big play in the drive was a 36-yard pass play from Ellis to Holland.
Ellis scored the TD with a seven yard keeper and kicked the extra point, and the Bearcats led 7-6 with 4:15 still to play in the first quarter.
The Mustangs drove to the Bearcats five as the quarter ended but lost the scoring opportunity when Erick received a fumble on the 14.
The ball changed hands twice before either team mounted another threat and the Mustangs were able to move 45 yards for their second touchdown in the last two minutes of the first half.
The Wheeler quarterback, Richard Wallace, sneaked the ball over from the one and after Porter passed to Hunter for the two-pointer, the Mustangs were able to go into the halftime break with a 14-7 lead.

Five plays deep in third quarter, the fired-up Mustangs again made the scoreboard flash.
Taking the second half kickoff, they marched 50 yards with the touchdown coming on a well-concealed and executed pass from Wallace to Hunter from six yards out. This was the second pass completion of the four the Mustangs completed in the game and both were on the drive.
Porter hit Callan for a 23-yard gain to keep the drive going.
Terry Vanpool, Mustang half-back, suffered an elbow injury on the drive and the Mustangs will be without his services for about three weeks.

Porter rammed the two-pointer home following the TD and the Mustang lead was now 22-7.
The Mustangs drove to the Bearcat 12 on the next exchange of the pigskin but Erick rose up and took over at that point. Failing to pick up a first down, Ellis punted and Burks ran it back to the Erick 25, but clipping was called against the Mustangs and they were pushed back to the 47.
A pass interference call gave the Mustangs the ball at the 21 and three plays later Wallace hit Hunter with a scoring pass, but it was nullified by an offside penalty.
Not to be denied, Wallace passed again to Hunter for a 15-yard gain down to the one and the next play saw Porter pushing it across. Hunter ran the extra point and the Mustangs had their biggest (Continued on Page 8, No. 1)

TEST PROGRAM PLANNED HERE FOR STUDENTS

Arling Cordell, Superintendent of Wheeler High School announced today that the ninth- and tenth-graders would participate in the 1963 National Educational Development Tests Program in March.
The NEDT battery, he pointed out, measures the student's ability to apply basic skills rather than ability to memorize particular facts or specific subject matter.
Consequently, the superintendent noted, the tests help educators identify educational strengths and weaknesses, and help students and parents make a realistic appraisal of educational and vocational objectives.
The tests, providing scores in English, social studies, mathematics, natural sciences, and word usage, are constructed under the direction of Dr. E. F. Lindquist, author of the Iowa Tests of Educational Development. In 1962, more than 498,000 students in 5,539 of the nation's public, private, and parochial high schools took tests.
Cordell further stated that Science Research Associates, publishers of the tests, have made revisions in the NEDT interpretive materials in accordance with the results of a "user survey" conducted last spring.
A new student-parent profile leaflet is being published which will aid students and their parents (Continued on Page 8, No. 3)

worm Program Appears Effective As Cases Decline

Officials of the screwworm eradication program are hopeful that a recent absence of screwworm cases reported in certain counties within the sterile fly release area reflects the effectiveness of the program.

In early July all counties within the sterile fly release area, which includes over 60 counties in the southern Texas, reported some screwworm cases. Since that time, the number of counties in the release area reporting no screwworm has increased to more than 20 counties at the beginning of September.

Officials are hesitating to give complete credit to fly release since that period of hot weather results in fewer screwworm cases anyway, but they are watching the situation very closely to see if it does represent a definite trend.

The eradication program entails the production and sterilization of screwworm flies at the plant near Mission, Texas, and their release over infested areas. The sterile male flies mating with naturally-occurring females results in infertile eggs.

Program officials explain that originally the plan in 1962 was to contain the screwworm fly in the southern area of Texas where it normally overwinters and, by the release of sterile flies, prevent the insect from moving north. It was also felt feasible to release sterile flies in "hot spots" or areas outside of the overwintering area where screwworm cases were reported.

However it became obvious that the flies could not be obtained, and because of a limited number of flies available, a sterile fly release area was established. Sterile flies are being dispersed from airplanes in this area at rates of 300-1,200 flies per square mile.

Officials say they are hopeful of eradicating screwworm within this area, while winter kills all those in the northern areas. In addition, a 100-mile wide barrier zone will be established on the Mexico - United States Border sterile flies will be airdropped to prevent the northward migration of fertile flies into the U.S.

4 DISTINCTIVE LINES OF CHEVROLETS WILL BE OFFERED FOR 1963

DETROIT—Four distinctive lines of 1963 Chevrolet automobiles will go on sale in Chevrolet dealerships across the nation this Friday.

Offering 33 models in four separate categories—each aimed at a specific segment of the market—the 1963 cars represent faith in a continued strong national economy by Chevrolet, which is already on its way to setting an all-time industry sales record for '62.

In the regular Chevrolets, a smooth, straight line styling gives the side of the new Chevrolets a flowing look of motion. A horizontal line highlights the sculpture of the side, extending from the foremost point of the front fender to the extended point of the rear fender. Lower, a slender accent rib from midway down the front fender and carries through to the rear bumper.

Throughout the line, ventilated rocker panels provide a new measure of protection from corrosion. Doorlocks are improved to enhance passenger safety.

The Impala sport sedan has a fleet, new roofline and an optional vinyl top is available for the Impala sport coupe. Fifteen solid colors and 11 two-tone combinations are available in the regular Chevrolets. Interiors of the cars are entirely new and more luxurious for 1963.

Mechanically, there are the following new features:

- A new six cylinder 140 horse power engine, higher in horsepower and yet 23 per cent lighter than its 1962 counterpart, teams with a revised 238 cubic inch V8 and five other V8 engines to offer engines ranging from 140 to 425 horsepower.

Brakes are self-adjusting, mufflers will have longer life, and the lightweight Powerglide transmission used with the 327 cubic inch engine option in 1962 is extended to all models.

Delcotron generators are standard on all models, assuring ample reserve electrical power for added accessories and longer battery life.

—All radios are transistorized for 1963.

—The standard equipment heater is new as are the optional all-weather and custom airconditioners.

CHEVY II—In its second year on the market Chevy II continues the basic styling of the previous model with new exterior and interior appointments. There are ten models in three series.

There is a new grille and wide hood and deck and lid emblems to give a more massive look to the car. There are new side moldings for the 300 and Nova 400 series.

For 1963, Chevy II offers Super Sport options on its Nova 400 sport coupe and convertible, featuring bucket seats and all vinyl interiors. Fifteen solid colors and eleven two-tone combinations are available on Chevy II models.

Mechanically, the Chevy II has self-adjusting brakes and Delcotron generators. Four- and six-cylinder engines again are offered, with minor improvements. Longer-life mufflers are standard on all models. Radios are completely transistorized.

CORVAIR—Chevrolet's distinctive small car enters its fourth year on the market with an ever-growing following among those who want a sports car feel in a less expensive car.

Styling changes are confined to ornamental and molding details. Otherwise, America's first rear engine car continues its unique personality.

There are eight models of Corvair, ranging in variety from the Monza Spyder convertible to two models of the popular Corvair Greenbrier sports wagon. Fifteen solid colors plus two-tone combinations are offered.

Mechanically, Corvair has self-adjusting brakes, more durable exhaust system and changes in front suspension and steering linkage. Engines have numerous improvements and radios are transistorized.

CORVETTE—In its tenth year on the market, America's only production sports car is redesigned and re-engineered for the first time. In addition to the convertible (with optional hardtop) model offered in the past, there is a new "fast-back" sport coupe.

For the first time, Corvette offers optional power steering, power brakes and air conditioning for the customer who wants a sports car but also wishes to retain the driving conveniences to which he has become accustomed.

Mechanically, there are a host of improvements, including a completely new chassis, four-wheel independent suspension, self-adjusting brakes, improved steering and Delcotron generators.

tractable headlights which are especially dramatic and set up from the airfoil-shaped end at the touch of a switch.

Both Corvette models are as the "Sting Ray". They are aerodynamic fiberglass bodies available in seven high-gloss acrylic lacquer finishes.

Corvettes for 1963 are 10 inches lower and four inches wider in wheelbase than 1962 models. Attention to their exterior and interiors have been completely redesigned for 1963.

Additional Note: On all Chevrolet passenger cars, oil change is recommended every 3,000 miles or 60 days and 6,000 miles or six months.

Also, all 1963 models have front turn signals instead of white turn signals as in previous years.

RANGE CONSERVATION PRACTICES VITAL TO SUCCESS OF PROJECT

The Sweetwater Creek watershed is being considered for a flood prevention project. Farmers and ranchers inside the watershed need to consider their own farms and ranches. Flood water control starts at the top of the drainage area. Without a large per cent of the rangeland having complete conservation measures applied, the flood prevention structures won't be near as effective.

Let's take a look at the purpose of a flood prevention structure. First, it catches silt that might otherwise be deposited on bottom land. Second it stores water which can be used for stockwater, irrigation, and recreation. Third and most important of all, it stores runoff water and lets it drain out slowly, preventing flooding of bottom land. All of this is very good for the land the structure is on and the land located below it.

What about the land located in the watershed above these structures? Basic conservation practices on rangeland can serve about the same purpose as a water retarding structure and help to prolong the life and usefulness of the structure located farther down the drainage area.

What are these conservation practices and just how do they help? Rangeland conservation practices include proper range use (proper grazing); proper distribution of grazing by use of water, salt, and cross fences; brush control; grass seeding, deferred grazing; erosion control dams; and diversion terraces. One or more of these practices are needed for soil conservation of all rangeland.

Let's see how these conservation measures help. A good cover of vegetation helps to slow down water and gives it time to soak in. (Grass is the best form of vegetation present in sufficient quantity, it needs controlling to allow grass to become established. Some areas are bare of grass, or have a poor stand, and need to be reseeded. Oftentimes a period of deferred grazing is needed to help the grass to make seed, regain its vigor, or become better established.

A good cover of grass, to be effective, must be maintained. This is accomplished by proper grazing and distribution of livestock. The livestock numbers must fit the amount of grass produced. The placement of water facilities (let-ther wells or ponds, salt, and cross fences helps to obtain a fairly even distribution of grazing. Remember, it takes grass to grow grass.

The vegetative practices must sometimes be supplemented by structures, erosion control dams and diversion terraces store water, divert it around gullies, or slows it down. These, like flood prevention structures, control water and protect land below, but on a smaller scale.

For a watershed project to be effective, the land above the flood prevention structures must be protected. Only then can a structure be most effective for a large period of time.

The Typographical Error

(From the Newport, Washington, Miner)

As you say, "She may be empty, but I'll tell the world she's clean!"

But when the sheet is printed and is out upon the mail.

On its way to the subscribers I have never seen it fall—

In the center of the front page in a most conspicuous place,

Some typographical error fairly kicks you in the face.

For the typographical error is a slippery thing and sly.

You can hunt 'til you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.

'Til the forms are off the press it is strange how still it keeps.

It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps.

That typographical error too small for human eyes,

'Til the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size,

And you see that blasted error, far as you could throw a dog.

Looming up in all its splendor, like a lighthouse in a fog!

That glaring blunder juts out like an uncrested tooth.

Where it dodged the eagle vision of a napping comma sleuth.

Elbert Zybach and H. J. Finsterwald attended a Germania Insurance meeting in Lubbock Wednesday.

ENGLISH STUDENTS WRITE THEIR IMPRESSIONS OF TRI-STATE FAIR

After visiting the Tri-State fair in Amarillo last week, Wheeler students of English III were asked to write a paper in class giving some of their impressions of the fair.

In describing the Ice Capades, Huey Williams wrote, "Powerful spotlights threw gorgeous colors of bright lights on the graceful skaters who performed with utmost agility."

Marilyn Nash expressed her feelings while looking at the various exhibits when she said, "It is fascinating to see the blue, red and white ribbons waving gently as the swift breeze flows through the open door."

While looking at the fairgrounds from the top of the ferris wheel, Carolyn Page felt as if she were seeing a great masterpiece painted against the sky.

After discussing "the strange and weird sounds of creaking gears of the many rides, the joyous shouts of the crowds and the barking of the ticket salesmen", Henry Lewis said, "As fascinating as all this seemed for a while, it soon grew old and our aching feet compelled us to leave the fair to the more adventurous. We started for home talking of our wondrous adventure as we humbly left."

Mary Holt felt that "with blistered, calloused feet, tired and aching bones, mused hair-dos, dirty and wrinkled clothes, everyone is ready to go home after a hard and unforgettable day at the fair."

In making his observations of the fair, Bobby Ely said, "I saw things at the fair this year that made me laugh, that made me scowl and a few things that made me stare in amazement. I could see humor all around me as I stood and watched people packed around a small booth literally throwing their dollars away only to be occasionally rewarded with some petty trinket. I realized that all of his was done in a frenzied effort to get something for nothing."

"Even with all the exhaustion and expense that goes with a fair," Ely continued, "I still found it to be exciting and colorful and maybe even a little necessary for us odd human beings."

Committees Named At P-TA Meeting

The Wheeler P-TA unit held its first meeting Sept. 10 in the school cafeteria with a very good attendance.

The meeting opened with the Pledge to the Flag, led by Ronald Rives, and the invocation by Robert C. Frahm.

Thurman Rives, president, presented the following committees, for the new year:

Budget and finance—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weatherly, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Helton, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Baker and Mrs. Hyland Weaver. Hospitality—Mr. and Mrs. Dick DeArment and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marshall.

Publicity—Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Edwards.

By-laws—Mrs. Walter Dunn, Mrs. John Manning and Mrs. Roy Ford.

Program—Thurman Rives, Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Arling Cordell and Mrs. Max Wiley.

The proposed budget for the year was read by Mrs. Hyland Weaver, secretary.

Rives reviewed the outline of work for the year.

The faculty was introduced by Supt. Arling Cordell. The faculty includes four new members.

The first grade won the room count.

Following the adjournment of the business session a social hour was hosted by the eighth grade.

The next meeting will be Oct. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

ASCS Official Is Kiwanis Speaker

Albert Marshall, of the Wheeler County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, was guest speaker Monday at the weekly Kiwanis Club luncheon in the Methodist Church.

Marshall showed color slides to emphasize the small share of the food dollar that goes to the farmer.

He criticized the use of the term "farm subsidy," pointing out that the subsidy actually goes to all citizens of the United States in the form of lower food prices.

The ASCS official reported that Americans spent a smaller share of their income now for food than before World War II. He said that prior to the war one-fourth of a wage-earner's income was spent on food; now this has been reduced to one-fifth.

This is still considerably less, he said, than that spent on food in European countries with comparable standards of living.

Charles Jackson, Wheeler County agent, and Bill Brooks, work unit conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service here were installed as new members of the Kiwanis Club.

David Britt installed the two.

TWITTY NEWS
 By J. Lloyd Rice

This is Tuesday morning, Sept. 25. The clouds are hanging low. They are lead colored and dripping wet.

This kind of weather is very fine on young wheat, and tender grass. It is a definite help to late feed, but what of the cotton?

It is definitely causing delay in the harvest, and damage to the crop generally. What can we do about it?

If I could, I would bring out the sunshine over my farm today for I want to finish mowing my soil bank land. At the same time I might cause damage to my neighbor who needs this rain for his wheat crop.

I would open up the clouds and send the rays of the sun to dry out the cotton, but I know someone would complain because they need the rain on their grass, or wheat or late feed.

No, I would not like to have the job of controlling the weather. Better leave things alone, for man would certainly make a mess out of it if he had control.

We pretty well control the weather inside our buildings now. However, in a public gathering there is always some one unhappy, either to hot or to cold.

One thing I can say: I had rather have the rain than blowing dust.

I noticed several fields around Twitty full of dead cotton. Maybe this weather will not damage it too much. Of course it was deliberately killed to hasten the maturing and opening process of the bolls.

Saw an old friend of mine from Erick yesterday. He was running the scales at the gin. He is Mr. Hardy. To save my life I can't remember his initials, but we call his Wiggles. He and his good wife have moved to Twitty. You will find them charming people.

Tomorrow-GO JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET for '63

If it didn't say Chevrolet on the flanks of the superb automobile you see here, you'd have a hard time proving it's a low-priced car. It offers luxurious styling, extremely comfortable, spacious and silent interiors... plus a lot of invisible ways to keep it looking and running like new when a lot of others have started to sag and sigh: new flush and dry rocker panels under the doors to guard against rusting... self-adjusting brakes... Delcotron generator for longer battery life. If you ever wondered why Chevrolet leads its field, a drive in this '63 should answer all your questions.

IT'S EXCITING!

GO CHEVY II for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

GO CORVAIR for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

Change it? Calm yourself, nobody's going to mess with a winner like this one! We did add self-adjusting brakes and a more fully aluminum muffler; interiors and outside trim are refined a bit, but the rest is pure Corvaire with all the over-the-road goodness that implies. Oh yes, we changed the taillights so all those people you pass will know you're driving a '63.

Hard as it may be to believe, this year's Chevy II is better, better than last year's and better than anything in its class. It combines all the new easy-care features of the big Chevrolet with its own wonderful attributes of parkable size, four- or six-cylinder fuel economy and interiors that'd do justice to cars with twice its price and half its charm.

It's Chevy Showtime '63!—See four entirely different kinds of cars at your Chevrolet Dealer's Showroom

MOVIE REVIEW

By Laura Guthrie

KING OF KINGS with all of its glory and truth is continuing thru Friday and Saturday. A marvelous narrative of the life of Christ. A Real meaning for all who see it. Rating: Superior.

ADVISE AND CONSENT is just about the richest account of a political battle that could be brought to the screen. Taken from recent best seller it has been made into an impressive and searching motion picture. It is fiction, of course, or is it? Any way this film is producing a lot of controversy. It is thought provoking and significant. Rating: Excellent 13 WEST STREET is of crime and its victim. The subject is juvenile delinquency, but with a different twist—the corrosive effect of vicious and senseless mugging on the life and character of the victim. Suspense and action. Rating: Very Good.

Local 4-H's Are Elected to Office

Terry McCasland and Estelle Fillingim, local outstanding 4-H Club youngsters, have been elected to the top two offices of the District 1 4-H Council.

McCasland was named chairman and Miss Fillingim vice chairman for the coming year at a meeting of the council at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo on Sept. 15.

The two this week were selected as 4-H Gold Star winners in Wheeler County.

McCasland succeeds Dick Plank from Deaf Smith County and Miss Fillingim replaces Rita Sue Witkowski of Castro County.

In Memory Of Opal Laffin

A white ship slipped from its mooring

At the close of a beautiful day
And out with the tide it glided,
And silently sailed away,
Away from the far horizon

Where clouds wall up the skies,
It drifted into the darkness,
Too deep for tear-dimmed eyes.
Standing there in the twilight
With empty, aching hearts
And arms that longed for their burdens

We learned what it meant to part,
But we know that beyond the shadows
Beyond the purpling west
In the calm Port of Eternity
She is at home, and at rest.

On Sept. 15, 1962, Almighty God,
In His infinite Wisdom and mercy,
Saw fit to call our dear friend,
Opal Laffin, from among us.

We wish to express our deepest love, and appreciation for her. Her cheerful smile and her kindly manner, words and deeds, cast a ray of sunshine and hope wherever she went.

Her great love of God, and for humanity caused her to give of her energy, ability and talents beyond the call of duty, inspiring individuals to build better characters and to become better citizens.

We extend to her husband, children and grandchildren, our sincere sympathy. May her memory, and the rich heritage she has left you, strengthen and sustain you, always.

Number One

lead of the game 30-7 with only 27 seconds remaining on the clock in the third period.

Midway in the final stanza, Hunter punted the Bearcats deep in their end of the field when the ball was killed at the 11 and it looked like Erick was through for the night. But this was far from correct.

It took the Bearcats only eight plays to move the 89 yards to paydirt with a 25-yard pass from Ellis to Burner and a 28-yard run by Burner being the two big gainers. Ellis ran for the six pointer from three yards out, but Rogers broke through to down Ellis on his at-and the Bearcats had cut the Mustang to run for the extra points tang lead to 30-13.

A little over three minutes remained and the Bearcats were presented with a break which gave them the opportunity to score a quick touchdown and they were up to taking advantage of the opportunity.

Wheeler was unable to gain with the kickoff and Hunter punted from his own 37-yard line. The ball went off the side of his foot and when it crossed the sideline, it was on the Mustang 36.

This minus-one in yardage punt gave the Bearcats their final chance and Ellis scored from the 18 on a wide keeper with only 39 seconds left in the game.

The Bearcats tried an onside kick following their failure to add the extra points, but Jamison fell on the ball at midfield and the Mustangs backed up their second win of the season with the final tally being 30-19.

County Agent's Notes

By CHARLES D. JACKSON
... County Agricultural Agent

The opportunity to sell hogs on a graded basis is becoming a reality in most areas of Texas, and packers generally are willing to pay more for the well muscled, correctly finished kind.

The annual carcass test of self-fed hogs conducted at Texas A&M College provides producers with an excellent opportunity for doing some checking up on production and the carcass desirability of their hogs. Progress is being made in finding strains and families of hogs which are prolific will make fast and efficient gains and produce the kind of carcasses desired by consumers. The effort needs to be speeded up if Texas producers are to remain competitive with other states.

Facilities at the test site permit the testing of only 160 pigs and early entries should be made. Entries will be accepted on a first-received basis. An entry will consist of two littermate pigs, either sex. The pigs may be farrowed between August 1 and September 30 and delivered to A&M when eight to nine weeks of age. Breeders may make two entries.

The weaning pigs are to be donated to start a fund for the construction of a new test facilities according to the Testing Committee of the Texas Swine Breeders Association in order for the College to establish a more rigid sanitation and disease control program on the hog farm.

Results of the test will be released during the annual Swine Short Course next spring, and awards made to the owners of the top-doing pigs. There will be All Breed Sale of registered boar and gilt littermates of those tested or others sired by the same boar. Detail information concerning the Carcass Contest may be obtained from the County Agents office or your local Vocational Agriculture Teacher.
