

King Meets Congressmen, Pays Homage To George Washington

Small Crowd At Mt. Vernon Ceremonies

Royalty Greets Solons In Reception At Capitol

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—In solemn reverence, King George VI paid homage today to America's foremost shrine, the tomb of George Washington, who led thirteen struggling colonies to independence from British rule.

Ties of Friendship
Perhaps more than any other event of the historic two-day visit, the unprecedented but simple ceremony on the grassy slopes of Mount Vernon symbolized the peaceful ties of friendship today between two English speaking peoples who divided on the battlefield in 1776.

While the queen and President and Mrs. Roosevelt looked on, the king placed a wreath of white lilies, iris, and carnations on the marble sarcophagus.

The ceremony of respect for the Father of His Country was one of the most dramatic of the royal visit, yet was witnessed by one of the smallest crowds to attend any of the functions of the last two days.

On the yacht Potomac, while cruising down the quiet Potomac, the presidential party and the royal guests had lunch.

The king and queen boarded the Potomac at the navy yard after exchanging cordial greetings with American legislators at a brilliant reception.

Standing in the huge, high-domed capitol rotunda, King George and Queen Elizabeth had a smile and royal hand-shake for the 400-odd senators and representatives crowded into the chamber.

The monarchs stood less than 100 yards from the spot where victorious British troops held a mock legislative session in the house chamber 125 years ago, and then sacked and burned the capitol.

Seventy-four-year-old Senator Borah (R-Ide), dean of the senate, was the first, other than the reception committee, to meet the king and queen after they were escorted inside by a reception committee headed by Senator Pittman (D-Neu), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

The king and queen first were greeted at the door of the rotunda by Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead.

King George chatted with Pittman until the reception began.

When the rulers appeared in the big, circular chamber, the assembled legislators broke into spirited applause.

The couple passed along a route marked out by purple plush rope and took their positions in the receiving line. Senators and representatives waiting to greet them were penned into separate groups behind other plush ropes to the center of the rotunda.

Pittman stood at the king's left to introduce the senators to the British monarchs. The queen, seeming really to enjoy the occasion, stood at the king's right. Next, and chatting frequently with her was Garner, in his infrequently-used formal morning attire.

When the senate line had passed, house members stepped forward.

MRS. WINGER ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINALS

MINERAL WELLS, June 9 (AP)—Nosing out her townsman, Mrs. Giles Day, by a 2 and 1, Mrs. E. Winger of Fort Worth, the medalist, led the way into the semi-finals of the women's West Texas golf championship today.

The other survivors were Mrs. W. G. Powell of San Angelo, Mrs. George Thompson, Jr., of Fort Worth and Mrs. E. J. Woodward of Brownwood.

Mrs. Winger, defending champion, ran into stout opposition. She had a poor first nine and was one down to Mrs. Day's 47. However, she got even at the tenth, and won the eleventh and seventeenth to stay in the meet.

Cool as the sturdy Mrs. Powell put out Fort Worth's new city champion, Mrs. F. C. Rochon, 5 and 4. She won three of the first four holes and was four up at nine.

Mrs. Thompson bested Mrs. C. L. Dean of Lubbock, 7 and 4, gaining revenge for her golfing family. Mrs. Dean had beaten her daughter, Anna Bland Thompson in the first round but was badly off from today.

Mrs. Woodward, two down at nine, shot even par on the incoming nine to win 6 holes in a row for a 4 and 3 triumph over Mrs. Jesse Rogers of Amarillo.

Many Entries For Parade

Plans for a record breaking parade to open the sixth annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo got off to a good start Friday as 22 firms and individuals entered floats of decorated cars, trucks, riders, etc.

However, this was about a third of the number Burke Summers, chairman of the parade committee, hoped to have by parade time. Since the canvassing of business firms and organizations is yet incomplete, prospects were good for organizing a better parade than last year's colorful spectacle.

Entry may be made by any business concern, individual or organization without cost. They should be filed with the chamber of commerce. Prizes totaling $50 in both commercial and non-commercial divisions will be awarded.

In the commercial division, these firms entered floats: A. C. Drugs, L. E. Coleman, Barrow Furniture Co., B. & L. Package Store, Higginbotham-Bartlett Co., Snappy Service Station, Ponca Wholesale Co., Allen and Ogden, Lone Star Chevrolet, Inc., Gibson Household Appliance Co., Southern Ice Co., J. L. Drugs, Empire Southern Service, Big Spring Motor Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., Piggy Wiggy, R. B. Reeder, and Lee Hanson Haberdashery.

Non-commercial entrants were H. H. Hall, Byron Moore and Lions club.

Corpse Of Dubious Value Must Be Divided Between Two Claimants

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 9 (AP)—A withered corpse—there are those who will tell you it once was the explorer, Hernando De Soto—lay in not so regal state at a Memphis storage company today while Chancellor John E. Swenson turned Solomon to decide its ownership.

Disputants laid their claims to the iron casket and the bones it contains. Chancellor Swenson listened, decreed yesterday that to Mrs. Jeanne Baur belongs two-thirds of the corpse, to Stephen A. Denison the remaining third.

Like the mothers who came before King Solomon, the claimants wouldn't want to back to pieces the object of their dispute—all that remains of one who might have been the discoverer of the mighty Mississippi. The Chancellor thought of that, too, so he ordered the corpse sold at public auction, the proceeds to be divided in the proportion of the ownership he set.

To the successful bidder at the auction—the date was not set—goes full title to and possession of the remains.

Mrs. Bauer claimed she purchased the find from two men who were with Denison when he dug the casket from an Indian mound across the Mississippi from Memphis almost three years ago. Denison contended with the assertion the two had previously transferred their rights in the discovery to him.

Value of the relic? "Problematical," says counsel for one of the claimants.

Mrs. Reubens Sentenced By Soviet Court

18-Month Term, However, Already Has Been Served

MOSCOW, June 9 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marie Reubens, American woman whose long detention in Russia has caused extended United States diplomatic intervention, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in court today but was told she would be free tomorrow because she has served all but one day of the sentence.

False Passport
The sentence was passed in the Moscow city court on charges that Mrs. Reubens entered Soviet Russia on a false passport.

She had disappeared from a Moscow hotel with her husband, known also as Donald Robinson, in December, 1937, and a month later United States embassy officials were permitted to see her in prison.

Her husband's whereabouts never has been established.

Whether she will be turned over to United States authorities immediately after liberation could not be learned.

Theoretically she might be prosecuted by United States authorities for falsification of an American passport.

Mrs. Reubens freely admitted coming to Russia with false documents but denied "criminal intent."

Her main concern in court was to learn what had happened to her husband. After sentence had been pronounced she asked the court for information concerning him but her request was turned down.

She said her husband had suggested they travel in France and Italy "because of my delicate health." She quoted him as saying "it would be a good idea to visit modern Russia" after their arrival in Europe.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Reubens and her husband has been a mystery throughout most of the negotiations between the United States and Soviet governments.

Last November it was reported unofficially the couple had been arrested as German spies, but no details came to light.

SENTENCE HERE
WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—If Mrs. Ruth Marie Reubens, following her release from a Russian prison tomorrow, returns to the United States, she will face a possible penitentiary sentence of five years and a fine of $2,000.

The state department wants to prosecute charges she entered Russia on a fraudulent American passport issued on the basis of a birth certificate made out for a long-dead child.

DENNY SHUTE AND BUD WARD LEAD IN U. S. OPEN

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP)—While most of his rivals also saw their scores go higher, big Ralph Guidahl completely lost his putting touch today as he played the first nine holes of his second round in the National Open golf championship in 38, four over par for the Philadelphia country club's Spring Mill course.

With a good half of the field having completed their first 36 holes, the lead was shared at 142 strokes by Marvin (Bud) Ward, the Spokane, (Wash.) amateur who won from a first round 69 to a 73, and Denny Shute, former British Open and P.G.A. champion, who followed up a 70 with a sound 72.

NAZI RALLY TO BE STAGED IN DANZIG

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 9 (AP)—About 6,000 East Prussian storm troops arrived here today to participate in a monster rally tonight at which Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chief of staff of the brown-shirted S. A. Corps, Viktor Lutze, and Danzig's Nazi leader, Albert Forster, will speak.

The occasion was the opening of the annual festival of the East Prussian troops for which Danzig has been selected as the site this year.

Mass Arrests Threatened In Nazi Officer's Death

PRAGUE, June 9 (AP)—Germans reported today mass arrests would be carried out if Czechs failed to produce the slayer of a German police sergeant in Kladno by 8 o'clock tonight.

They said the arrests would continue until the person or persons responsible for the first German fatality since Reichsfuehrer Hitler absorbed Bohemia and Moravia into Greater Germany were found.

Kladno already is under strict regulations which may be widened into martial law tonight if the deadline passes without the ultimatum being heeded. The mayor, the chief of police and many others already are in custody.

The policeman, Wilhelm Kniest, was killed late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning in front of the technical school at Kladno, industrial town 15 miles from Prague.

Behind the stern measures, informed Nazis said, was a threat to abolish the last semblance of Czech self-government.

They said the German action was intended to set an example to discourage possible further slayings and perhaps to avoid the necessity of abolishing the protectorate which responsible sources predicted would follow "if the Czechs cannot rule themselves."

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the reich protector, (governor of Bohemia and Moravia, formerly part of Czechoslovakia) after consulting Chancellor Hitler removed the Kladno mayor, appointed a new official, disarmed the Czech state police, closed public places and several schools, forbade outdoor assemblages, and ordered windows and doors locked at 10 p. m. with the warning guards would shoot in to open windows.

Czech sources reported some 60 persons were arrested. Germans said the measures were intended as a sample of what would result if Czechs forgo the generally passive attitude which has existed since the Nazis took possession of the country March 14-16.

The Czech unity party, only political body permitted in Bohemia-Moravia met in Prague with President Emil Hacha and government officials and ordered a special commission to go to Kladno to investigate the killing.

At the same time the party called upon all Czechs to cooperate in bringing the slayer or slayers to justice.

After first offering a reward of 30,000 crowns ($1,200) for any clue leading to the arrest of the slayer or slayers, the Czech district council of Kladno later increased it to 100,000 crowns ($4,000).

Sales Tax To Come Before House Again?

AUSTIN, June 9 (AP)—The smoke of battle cleared from legislative halls today, disclosing a battered and bleeding sales tax constitutional amendment.

Five times proponents have tried to ram it through the house and five times it has run against a stone wall.

The fifth attempt came yesterday. It mustered 91 ayes to 56 noes, with 100 required for adoption.

After voting down the amendment, the house refused by 76 to 67 to adopt a sine die adjournment resolution, but quickly decided to quit work until Monday. The senate followed suit.

The stage was dramatically set for the battle over the amendment. Lines had been drawn for weeks. Proponents had worked feverishly the past two days and Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr., of Galveston, leader, said he had pledged 104 votes for it Wednesday night. He shrugged his shoulders when asked where they were when the test came.

"We will bring it up next week and pass it," Thornton asserted. "We will have the necessary votes. It's a cinch now."

Equally as confident, however, were opponents. "They'll never in the world pass it," said Rep. Albert Darden of Marlin, opponent. "Our lines are solid. They need six more votes and they will never get them from us."

Governor O'Daniel, who had given the senate-approved proposal his blessing repeatedly over the radio and who had lashed out in opposition to two statutory tax bills passed by the house, refused to comment.

WPA STRIKE AT STANTON SHORT-LIVED

STANTON, June 9—A short-lived WPA strike was at an end here today as a dozen workers on the city park project returned to their job.

Officers said that some of the workers refused to report for duty Thursday in protest to a change in project superintendents.

A Mr. Vernon, former superintendent, left the job 10 days ago. The shift coming on Thursday protested the change and refused to work. Some few, however, went to the park under the new superintendent, whose name could not be learned immediately.

Friday all hands were back at work and the sheriff's department reported the incident as "closed."

IN REVUE

In Fort Stockton this week-end as Big Spring's representative in a beauty revue staged in connection with a water carnival program is La Fern Dehlinger (above). Queen of the carnival will be crowned Saturday evening. Miss Dehlinger is to be escorted at Fort Stockton by Johnny Hall, and her mother, Mrs. William Dehlinger, will join them tonight.

Approximately 40 Boy Scouts from Big Spring and around 10 from Coahoma are due to leave here Monday morning for the council camp at Barksdale, Tex.

C. S. Blomsheld, council camp chairman and chairman of the Big Spring district, reminded scouts that a bus and truck will leave from the First Methodist church at 5:30 a. m. Monday.

The group is due to arrive in camp around 3 p. m. About half the number will stay for two weeks and others will return on June 19 with the Coahoma group in a school bus from that city.

Word from Al Stiles, area executive, said that the first week of the camp is proving a success and that the swimming hole in the crystal-clear Nueces River is in excellent condition.

FINLAND WILL PAY ON DEBT AS USUAL

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Finland, only war-debtor now honoring her obligation to this country in full, is keeping up her record by making the regular June payment of $100,000.

The Finnish minister, H. J. Procope, in a letter to Secretary Hull, said the Finnish government would deposit the amount in the Federal Reserve bank, New York City, June 15.

Arrested In Front Of Hotel, Taxi Drivers Refuse To Pick Up Fares

HOUSTON, June 9 (AP)—Taxi-cab drivers today snubbed fares standing in front of the town's largest hotel.

The drivers, members of the American Federation of Labor's Chauffeurs, Teamsters, Stablemen and Helpers Union, said it was not a boycott.

It appeared, police said, to be a slap at the cops.

Ten drivers were arrested last night at the hotel entrance for blocking traffic as they discharged passengers. The drivers appeared miffed at the cops today.

"We are just not stopping there today," explained driver C. M. Winters, "that's all."

Neither Albert Win, president of the union, or W. L. Allison, union business agent, said they knew what it was all about. They stood in front of the hotel and watched the cabs go by along with fares clustered and clamoring for a ride.

Allison walked two blocks from the hotel to where a dozen or more cabbies were gathered, and said:

"You guys have got to break this up. I told you last night it wouldn't work."

Then he went into a huddle with the cab drivers, who drove away and passed up more fares standing in front of the hotel.

H. Bruce Carter, manager of the hotel, denied he had asked police to arrest the drivers last night as they stopped at the hotel entrance.

Discrepancy Is Alleged By Board

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The securities commission announced today it had started to investigate the "facts and circumstances" involved in alleged "discrepancies" reported in transactions in Du Pont common stock by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the company's board.

The commission said these "discrepancies" had come to light in corrections of Du Pont common stock transactions submitted to the SEC by Du Pont.

The commission's announcement said:

"The official summary of transactions and holdings of officers, directors and principal company stockholders published today includes corrections submitted by Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, of 20 previous reports of his direct holdings in the common stock of that company since November, 1934."

The commission said that whereas the original reports showed substantial net long positions, the corrected reports showed that "throughout the period he owed substantially more shares than he owned."

As of Dec. 31, 1934, he reported he held 33,252 shares, the commission said.

ATTEND CEREMONY AT BROWNFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Shick and daughter, Lillian Shick, returned Thursday evening from Brownfield where they attended the dedication of the new postoffice in that city.

While there, Shick conferred with Ambrose McConnell, second assistant postmaster general, concerning a representative from the national office to the Texas Postmasters association convention here June 23-24. McConnell, who was the principal speaker at the Brownfield dedication, indicated an announcement concerning the department representative would be made Friday.

VETERAN SECY. OF PRESS UNIT IS OPPOSED

LUBBOCK, June 9 (AP)—Second day session of the 69th annual convention of the Texas Press association followed a placid, programmed course today, with interest focused on Saturday's final business session and the announced fight in opposition to re-election of Sam P. Harben of Richardson to the secretarial position he has held for 20 years.

Fred Massengill, Jr., of Terrell, who attacked Harben's continuance in office from the convention floor Thursday afternoon, said he will nominate Douglas Ben Mesador of Matador for secretary if such a nomination is not reported by the nominating committee Saturday morning.

Presented to Harben at a banquet Thursday night was a large framed scroll on behalf of past presidents by E. A. Carlock of Paducah. Carlock said all other past presidents of the association have signed the scroll.

If uninterrupted precedent is followed, Walter Buckner of the San Marcos Record, now vice-president, will be elevated to the presidency succeeding Dean Wells of Wellington.

Delegations from seven cities have indicated they will present invitations for the 1940 convention. They are Mineral Wells, Galveston, Waco, San Antonio, Harlingen, El Paso and Lubbock. The city will be chosen by directors next October.

MAREK HITS NINTH INNING HOMER TO STOP AMARILLO SOX, 4-2

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

"Give me equality or give me room," could be Tony Rego's motto in dealing with the WT-NM circuit's arbiters. The Baron skipper moved into action against Jim Etheridge when Billy Capps hit a questionable home run over the left field wall in last night's fracas with the Amarillo Gold Sox. Had it not been for Phil Margavio, Sox pitcher, the developments could have jeopardized the harmony of the entire peace pact. The partisan crowd unanimously agreed that Capps' long swat was in fair territory and by yards to spare. That was all Anthony needed.

He bounced in from somewhere and tapped the ball and strike man none too gently on the shoulder. Etheridge went reeling but came back for more. Just to show that it wasn't an accident Rego did it again and made hurried preparations to better a verbal argument when Margavio stepped between the men and hurried Rego away. Etheridge retreated and a crisis had passed.

Jodie Marek, Rego's fair haired youngster whom the little skipper calls the best flogger in the entire organization, dedicated his grand show Thursday evening to his family which returned to Big Spring after a visit in Temple.

Jodie's youngster, a lad of six months whom the "old man" affectionately calls "Tuffy" is feeling much better than he did three weeks ago when Jodie had to carry him to Temple for a physical checkup.

Jodie has been troubled with a sore arm but hasn't failed to take his regular turn. Hard work as prescribed by the pilot is bringing the arm around. Rego's conditioning program, incidentally, for his pitchers is fly shagging duties intermingled with plenty of lap work before each game.

Marek's control is probably the best ever seen in this league. He must have established some sort of a record by pitching two successive games without surrendering a free pass.

Jodie Tate has inserted Dick Hobson, the former Baron, at second base in his lineup at Lamesa, leaving Sammy Malvin at short. The skidding Lobos have had their lineup strengthened of late, will probably never again

1944 GAMES TO LONDON

LONDON, June 9 (AP)—The international Olympic committee today awarded the 1944 summer Olympics to London, the 1944 winter Olympics to Italy and changed the site of the 1940 winter games from St. Moritz, Switzerland to Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany.

This was unofficially disclosed by a member of the I. O. C. who said that in the voting for the 1944 summer games London received 20 votes, Rome 10, Detroit 3 and Lausanne (Switzerland) 1.

The 1944 winter games will be held at Cortina d'Ampezzo and the summer games in Wembley Stadium, London.

The site of the 1940 winter games was changed to Germany because Swiss officials refused to run the games as the I. O. C. directed.

Santone Jumps Into 1st Slot In Texas Loop

By the Associated Press
San Antonio's Missions, whipping Oklahoma City by identical scores of 5-4 in a doubleheader last night (Thursday) ran their winning streak to 13 and jumped from fourth to first place in the heated Texas League race.

Credit for both victories went to Art McDougall, ace relief hurler. He entered at the ninth inning of the first game with the score tied, held Oklahoma City scoreless, and batted in the winning run in the tenth with a single.

In the three innings McDougall worked in the second game he permitted no hits.

Fort Worth's Cats defeated Houston's Buffs 6-2, while Dallas was winning 2-0 from Shreveport and Beaumont beat Tulsa 4-1.

Ray Starr of Fort Worth stretched his string of successive scoreless innings to 34 as he blanked the Buffs for the first four frames, tying the modern Texas League mark Morton Cooper, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, who with Houston last year, Starr struck out 11, and spaced out nine hits.

Houston dropped into a second-place tie with Dallas, with Shreveport and Fort Worth trailing in order.

Three-hit pitching by Bob Uhle beat Hurler Bobby Combs of Shreveport and gave the Rebels their win. Quinn Lee, pitching for Beaumont, held strong throughout. He permitted eight hits but it was only in the sixth, when they scored, that the Rebels were able to put any of them together.

Teams Move To Amarillo Today For 3-Game Series

By HANK HART

A lusty 350-foot ninth inning home run swat by Jodie Marek enabled the Big Spring Barons to decision the Amarillo Gold Sox, 4-2, here Thursday evening, terminating the most amazing series ever witnessed in the West Fifth and San Antonio streets plant. For the third consecutive game a last round circuit play had decided the outcome in favor of the high flying Regomen.

The 800 fans who looked on, with the memory of Pat Stasey's dreamer, were prepared for anything but hardly expected Marek to produce the lick that won the game, instead had set themselves for another extra inning struggle that would have seen Stasey appear on the scene in the next round. Jodie, the smooth working mound star, however, wasn't leaving the job to anyone else. Rolling to the plate, Van Marshall on second base and the two teams one-third through the half inning, Marek swung at a high pitch and connected. There was never any doubt about the lick clearing the wall.

First Defeat

The death blow was a heart-breaker to diminutive Phil Margavio, Amarillo right-hander, who was seeking his fourth victory in as many starts. Margavio had hurled five-hit ball up until that point, had shown no signs of cracking.

He failed to match Marek's stride, however. In setting up his eighth pitching triumph of the campaign the ex-Texas Tech gridder surrendered but three base blows, gave no gratis passes and experienced but one bad inning. He gave up a brace of the licks in the fourth frame when the Sox counted both their runs. Bobby Decker's erratic throw to first after taking Holt's ground ball was followed with bingles by Sanders and Rabe and a sacrifice by Hudson for the two runs.

Stymied by the weird offerings of Margavio through the first three rounds, the Barons waited for the Sox to play their hand before buckling down to work.

Margavio's troubles started after two men had been retired in the fourth. Pat Stasey stroled to signal the rebellion. Margavio waded in with everything he had but it wasn't enough. Billy Capps met him with a left field poke that dispatched Stasey to the keystones where he remained until Herb Morey angled to send him in. Marshall forced Morey at second to put a quietus on the rumpus and Margavio slipped through two rounds without trouble but Capps' second lick in the eighth heralded big developments. The Comanche Kid was forced at second base by Morey's ground ball to Smythe and, after Marshall had stroled, a second out was effected at second base when Rego bounded to Jordan in the far corner but Marek waited successfully for a free pass to fill the sacks. Margavio failed to offer Decker anything good and the little short stopper walked to force in Morey. Curdell Loyd fanned to quell the uprising.

Gets Better
But 15 men faced Marek through the last five stanzas. A double play started by Decker removed a mild threat in the ninth.

The Barons and the fans thought Billy Capps had sewed up the ball game in the ninth when he clouted a ball that cleared the left field wall but Umpire Etheridge ruled the blow foul.

The Sox' manager, Neal Rabe, protested the game for alleged use of an illegal ball.

The Barons today moved on the road for a severe test, facing Amarillo, Lubbock and Clovis in a series of three games each before returning home Sunday, June 18, to face Lamesa.

Now firmly established in fourth place, three games in front of Amarillo but seven games off the pace being set by the league leaders, Lubbock's Hubbers, the odds are definitely against them in overtaking the champions before the termination of first half play June 28.

SNEAD GRINDS OUT 68; CHAMP NEAR WITH 71

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP)—Samuel Snead, the limber young West Virginian who paid income tax on more than $30,000 of golf earnings last year, led the field in the National Open golf championship by a stroke today as play resumed on a Spring Mill course in the nearby hills.

Sam, with a fine 68 scored in yesterday's opening round, stood one jump ahead of a trio who exactly matched the layout's strict

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP)—Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., who tied for second place yesterday with an even par 69, kited to a 73 on his second round and moved two shots ahead of the national open golfing field today.

Although he went two over par with a 6 on the heart-breaking twelfth hole, Snead's victory over Deal, N. J., played the back nine in even par 35 to post a second round 71 and take an early lead with a 56-hole score of 144.

Former champion Gene Sarazen shot a 72, three over par, for 146.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, the man who had Oakmont figured to the last blade of grass and thereby won the 1935 open, came in with his second 73 to join Sarazen.

First and second round scores and 56-hole totals included:

Victor Gheszi, Deal, N. J. 73-71-144.

Billy Burke, Cleveland, O. 74-74-148.

Sam Parks, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa. 73-73-146.

par of 69. They were Lawson Little, former amateur king; Bud Ward of Spokane, Walker cup star, and Matt Kowal, an assistant professional of this vicinity.

But between Snead and the championship stand 54 holes of back-breaking golf under constantly increasing pressure, and behind Snead looms the very towering figure of Ralph Guldahl. It will be a record for modern U. S. Golf association history if Guldahl makes this the occasion for his third straight open triumph. Yet it would be foolhardy to bet against the ambitious Scandinavian with the ice-water nerves.

Big Ralph finished three shots off Snead's hot opening pace with a 71. One of eight putts that should have dropped for birdies, only two found their way to the cup. Even so, there wasn't a wrinkle on the Guldahl brow and there wasn't a man in the field of 160-odd pros and amateurs who felt any lessening of the strain that the champion's terrific consistency has imposed on the best of them.

No Claim Yet
Snead himself, despite the fact that he was the only one to crack par, wasn't laying any untimely advance claims to the title. The amiable young hill-billy, like all his top-flight rivals, still is of the opinion that a score of 284, eight over par for the 72 holes, will be good enough to take down the $1,000 first prize.

One big shot turned the tide in Slugging Sammy's favor yesterday. Already three over par, he appeared to be sunk when his second shot on the 480-yard twelfth, the stiffest hole on the course, caught a green-guarding bunker. But Snead went after the ball with his sand wedge and boomed it up, out and into the cup for a birdie 3 where he'd stood a good chance of taking a 5 or worse.

From there on Sam was on fire. The old guard still is in the battle. Tommy Armour, Olin Dutra and Craig Wood who among them represent 117 years in age and almost half that many in top-flight competition, were three of the six to post 70's, and Gene Sarazen, who claims all he wants is to finish in the top 30 so he'll qualify for next year's championship, staged a typical finish. The doughty little Connecticut gentleman farmer ripped off an incoming 34 after appearing to be out of the picture with a bad 40 for the first nine.

On the first day's returns the course, and therefore this championship, looks like a great spot for the boys with power off the tee and the ability to keep that power in line.

Recreation News

Ben Daniel's Roosters won the Junior Boys Recreation Softball league championship Wednesday afternoon by defeating Moore in the final game, 27 to 7. The Roosters were undefeated in league play, winning all of their 10 games.

East Side won her first game of the season by shellacking A. B. C. 19 to 5. The Mexican Tigers won from South Side in a game played at the city park, 9 to 3.

Junior Boys Recreation Softball league standings (second half):
Roosters 5 0 1.000
Moore 4 1 .800
Mexican Plaza 3 2 .600
South Side 2 3 .400
East Side 1 4 .200
A. B. C. 0 5 .000

A Recreation Summer Softball league has been formed composed of five playground teams. Teams will meet each other in a double round robin schedule on a home and home basis. All juniors who are not members of other league teams and who live in the playground community are eligible for their playground team. League play will begin Wednesday, June 14.

Nine miniature boats were entered in the races at A. B. C. park Wednesday afternoon. Awards were given for workmanship, and to winners of the contests.

The boys from Mexican Plaza were given a swimming party in the "Old Swimming Hole" near Coahoma Thursday afternoon.

A Thursday afternoon sewing club was organized at the city park of fun.

DiMaggio Paces Yanks To 7-2 Chisox Win

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Somebody is always taking the joy out of living by calling attention to the walkway the New York Yankees are making of the American League, so some similar clamor ought to be raised, as a counter irritant, against the Cincinnati Reds.

Their 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night increased the Reds' margin over the second place St. Louis Cardinals to four full games and extended the gap between first and last place in the National League to 17 1/2 games.

A few days ago any reference to the campaign in the senior circuit included some such descriptive as "a blanket would cover all eight clubs, but it won't appear the Reds have become uncovered."

Their lamplight struggle with the Phillies was a pitchers' duel between Paul Derringer of the Reds and Hugh Mulcahy—and like most such pitching duels involving Cincinnati, the Reds not only produced the better pitching, but the more timely hitting.

Both twirlers were touched for seven hits, but Mulcahy was wild in addition.

In the two other National League games Lou Fette pitched three-hit ball to give the Boston Bees a 2-0 shutout over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Harry Danning and Zeke Bonura hit homers for the New York Giants' 5-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Leads At 9 Games
The Yankees' second consecutive victory over the Chicago White Sox, 7-2, kept their lead over the second place Boston Red Sox at nine games and increased it to 22 games over the last place St. Louis Browns.

Joe DiMaggio hit a homer, a double and a single to pace the champions' 12-hit attack on the Sox and Rookie Alton Donald moved into the league's pitching lead with his sixth straight victory.

Boston had to do some heroic hitting to hold its position with an 8-7 triumph at St. Louis. Jimmy Foy hit two home runs and Lou Finney came through with a pinch homer with one on in the eighth to tie the score. The winning run came on a double and two sacrifices in the ninth.

Paul (Dixie) Trout pitched the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, striking out seven and allowing only six hits. Outfielder Dixie Walker tore a ligament in his leg and Billy Rogell was spiked on a finger to make Detroit's triumph a costly one.

Washington's winning streak was ended by a 7-5 defeat at Cleveland, with the Senators committing five errors.

Celebrities To Be Presented By Chesterfield

Continuing its popular series of "personality" advertisements for Chesterfield Cigarettes, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company is releasing its summer series to newspapers nationally. The first advertisement will appear during the week of June 12th, and among the stars of the new campaign are such well-known celebrities as Joan Blondell, Melvyn Douglas, Gale Page and the Lane sisters of the screen, Albert Spalding the violinist, Johnny Vander Meer, big big league pitcher, and others.

The Chesterfield newspaper advertisement, as usual, is backed up with extensive space in the magazines, billboards and store display.

At the same time a new Chesterfield radio program, featuring Fred Waring and his original Pennsylvanians, begins June 19th, broadcasting five nights a week from Monday to Friday, over the coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Company. The popular Paul Whiteman broadcasts for Chesterfield continue every Wednesday evening via the Columbia Broadcasting System, with Joan Edwards, Clark Dennis and the Modernaires.

yesterday afternoon. Girls of any age are welcomed as members of the organization whose purpose is for a quite helpful form of recreation for the girls. Bring your sewing kit and join us next Thursday at 4 o'clock near the children's wading pool at the park.

There will be a pet show at South Side this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Awards will be given children entering the most attractive, largest, smallest, oldest, youngest, most intelligent, and the most unique pet.

McGhee Super Service softball team will meet the Taystee Bakery team in an exhibition game at the city park at 8 p. m. Saturday night.

Tonight is "play night" at Moore. You are invited to join that community in its regular, weekly night of fun.

Smith Resigns As Manager Of Cowboys

MIDLAND, June 9 (AP)—Field Manager Charley Smith and Business Manager Charley Willson of the Midland, West Texas-New Mexico League club, resigned yesterday.

Smith, a catcher, returned to the Dallas Rebels of the Texas League for a five-day look.

Joe Plot, pitcher and utility player, took over temporary management. The club dropped an 11-inning game last night 5-3 to Pampa.

JEFFRIES LOOKS BACK TO SCRAP FOR TITLE

BURBANK, Calif., June 9 (AP)—Forty years ago today James J. Jeffries won the heavyweight championship of the world by knocking out Bob Fitzsimmons.

Under blazing arc lights in the old Seaside Sporting club at Coney Island, New York, the California brawler stopped Ruby Robert in the 11th round and ascended the heavyweight throne as the last of the old line of champions.

Today Jim Jeffries paused briefly to look back on the event. Ceremony? Celebration?

"Naw, I don't guess so," Jeffries lives simply but well in a neat little cottage here on the outskirts of Los Angeles. He raises chickens and keeps a hand in boxing in staging weekly amateur cards in the "Jeffries barn."

House Defeats Myers, 6-4, 6-0

Marvin House gained third place ranking in the first rankings of the Big Spring Tennis association by defeating Jimmy Myers, 6-4, 6-0, Wednesday afternoon on the city park courts.

Harry Jordan is seeded No. 1 while George Tillaght holds the No. 2 ranking.

Mrs. Woodrow Campbell is the champion in the women's division of play.

Required Explanation

WILSON, N. C., June 9 (AP)—An announcement there would be no fanfare at the formal opening of the new baseball park brought newspapers this urgent plea from A. W. Fleming, president of the baseball club:

"Please explain about that word 'fanfare.' Too many people think it means there will be no admission charge for the game."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—How much longer are the top notch lightweights going to get away with dodging Sammy Angott, the Louisville slugger? You ought to see the "not in" signs pop out the windows when Sammy comes a-knocking at the doors...The tatters have it Lew Riggs would be playing third for the Giants if Bill McKee didn't demand Jimmy Ripple in return...Tony Galento put Nathan Mann and Harry Thomas to sleep faster than Joe Louis did—so what?

At the Open: most of the sharps think the open will be decided on the 16th or 18th holes...Best long shot: Bobby Cruikshank, the Richmond veteran...Mrs. O. B. Keller, whose golf sayings are almost as official as her old man's, is around saying Betty Berg is a lead pipe clinch to overpower the field when the grilles tee off at Weeburn in August.

Personals: The Fort Worth papers frontpaged the marriage of Ki Aldrich, Texas Christian's all-American center...Tommy Loughran, the old heavyweight, gives El Galento just one minute against Joe Louis...Tony Lazzari has no plans. But he can afford to wait till next winter when there'll be several managerial vacancies in each major league.

Today's guest star: Dan Esmond, Sioux City (Ia.) Journal: "A clothes pin padded with felt so it won't bruise the nostrils should go with every ticket sold for Louis vs. Galento." Sports cocktail: So Lou Nova insists on Louis next fall? Well, it's his funeral...Umpire Babe Pinelli won't let his two sons (now at Notre Dame) sign with National League clubs—too embarrassing when the close ones come up...A well known southern college press agent got his ears pinned back for sending his releases to Atlanta papers before taking care of the sheets in his own state...The Texas Christian board of directors has ruled no other footballer shall ever wear No. 8, the numeral carried so gloriously the past two years by little Davey O'Brien.

DANCER INJURED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9 (AP)—Flo Neil, 25-year-old night club dancer, was making a long slide as a part of her dance routine early today. Suddenly, screaming, she stopped. Her leg was impaled on a two-foot silver from the dance floor. An emergency hospital crew worked 20 minutes before chopping her free with an axe. The silver pierced her thigh and came out below the knee.

ENTERING TEXAS U.

Joe Laasiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Laasiter, is entering Texas University for the summer session. He has been serving as committee clerk in the house and recently was chosen to make the presentation speech when clerks and page boys bestow a traditional gift upon the speaker of the house.

KILLED BY BANDITS

MEXICO CITY, June 9 (AP)—Four men, a woman and a four-year-old child were reported today to have been killed by bandits who held up a passenger bus near San Teresa, Queretaro. One of the men killed was Efrén Saavedra, a candidate for congress.

NOTES ON ROYALTY

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The British king and queen brought a bit of Buckingham palace to the British embassy garden party, but they didn't seem to mind the definitely American touches.

New to the 1,400 guests, but old for their majesties, were the formal entry to "God Save the King," the opening of wide lanes for the royal couple to pass through, and escorts of ladies-in-waiting, equestrians and Scotland Yard operatives.

GETS DEGREE

John Camp Adams (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Adams of Forson, received his B.B.A. degree from Texas Technological college last week. Mr. and Mrs. Adams and another son, Darrell, attended the commencement exercises. John Camp is going to Salem, Ill., where he will be employed by A. E. Chester and the Magnolia Oil company.

Fashion Observes 12th Birthday With A Special Sale

At a time when most women are doing their summer wardrobe buying, The Fashion, observing its 12th business anniversary in Big Spring, makes its most important announcement of the year in the way of a birthday sale. This event takes in all departments of this modern ladies' ready-to-wear store with substantial discounts on every article.

An advertisement elsewhere in today's Herald includes such nationally known lines as Queen Quality, Foot Rest and Tweedie shoes, Printzess coats and others. Silk, crepe, linen and evening dresses, two and three piece suits of all styles, summer straw hats, blouses, foundation garments, Dobbis hats, purses, etc., are also listed.

NEW SOARING MARK

WICHITA FALLS, June 9 (AP)—Dick Eassey of Lenoxx, Calif., who flew his sailplane with one passenger to a landing near the capitol building in Oklahoma City yesterday, set a new American transport distance record of 121 miles.

Harvey Stephens, Los Angeles movie actor, wrecked his sailplane but escaped injury when it hooked a fence post and tore off a wing as he tried to land the ship in a plowed field near Pawnee, Okla.

SUICIDE VERDICT

DALLAS, June 9 (AP)—Justice of the Peace Lewis Sterrett today brought a suicide verdict in the gun-shot-death of H. T. (Halle) Patrick, 48, chief deputy county tax officer. A nightwatchman found his body in the basement of the courthouse.

Foreign Minister Deplores Mexico Demonstrations

MEXICO CITY, June 9 (AP)—Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay has made public a declaration that there was "utter lack of justification" for anti-United States manifestations following the death of Francisco Sarabia, the Mexican filer.

The federal department of press and publicity stayed open three hours overtime last night to distribute Hay's 500-word statement. It followed the stoning of the American school and assignment of a optics guard to the United States embassy. Sarabia was killed Wednesday when his plane plunged into the Potomac river at the start of a projected non-stop flight from Washington to his home in Mexico. Hay's statement said it was "stupid" to think sabotage could have had anything to do with Sarabia's accident.

The American people, he said, had demonstrated a "positive affection" for the filer and he had received the "full cooperation" of United States authorities.

Hay instructed the Mexican ambassador to Washington to convey to President Roosevelt and other officials the "feeling of gratitude of the government and the people of Mexico for the cooperation they rendered our glorious aviator Sarabia" and for "empathy and assistance given following his death."

INJURIES FATAL TO DEPUTY SHERIFF

TULSA, June 9 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Sam Ramsey of Amarillo, injured when an automobile overturned near here Wednesday, died last night.

Three others were hurt in the crash, two seriously. They were Deputy Dick Vaughn of Amarillo, Cecil Clark, Vaughn's son-in-law, and Mrs. Clark. She was the least injured.

DAIRY ADVANCEMENT PROGRAM MAPPED

FORT WORTH, June 9 (AP)—The development committee of the Texas Dairy Products association adopted here yesterday a three-point program, with its goal the building of Texas into the greatest dairying state in the union.

The program called for better feeding practices to increase efficiency of existing herds; better sales to raise herd standards, and promotion of cow and calf clubs through Texas 4-H clubs.

Henry Teubel of Tulsa, president, said that while Texas had more dairy cattle than any other state, it ranked 42nd in milk production per cow.

RED BANK READY
RED BANK, N. J., June 9 (AP)—With the guard already posted at some points, New Jersey advanced today the mobilization of the military and the masses for the visit of Great Britain's king and queen.

Red Bank residents relished the idea that here the monarchs would visit "the only real American town they'll see" during four days in the United States. The population is about 12,000.

The royal train is due here early tomorrow.

The royal couple plan to embark for New York from the Sandy Hook reservation aboard the U. S. S. Warrington, a destroyer leader, if the weather is good.

Leadership Demand

Great business and religious leaders are considered to be more important to the country today than great political leaders, a poll taken by the Psychological Corporation during May revealed. The poll, conducted under direction of Dr. Harry C. Link, covered 70 cities. Answers were obtained by trained interviewers from more than five thousand persons.

Percentages of each class were—political leaders, 20; religious, 31; business, 32; don't know, 16.

The persons who were questioned were divided into four financial groups. Upper bracket incomes, next lower, next lower and lowest. There was an unusual uniformity among these four groups on importance of business leaders. The lower income people however considered religious leaders most important and those in the upper incomes believed political leaders were of greater need.

The poll having disclosed the belief of a fair cross section of the people, the question is, will the need be met? We have uncountable leaders and would be leaders, not many of whom measure up to the description of being great. There are men and women high in political offices who give no sign of being leaders. There are others successful in business for themselves who are either unable or unwilling to exercise leadership. There are others in pulpits and colleges, many of whom seem more concerned with social and political affairs than with religion.

But it is heartening to discover that so many people are looking to religion for leadership. Not political nor business leadership, but church leadership, the restoring the church to the position it once occupied, of ostracizing the crooked politician, the dishonest business man, and of preaching the gospel of salvation by faith and works, the plain unadorned gospel of love of God and of one's fellow man—a gospel, the practicing of which will do more for the world than all the politicians and all the business men combined.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Sometimes it happens like this: Three mechanics, grease-smearing and sweaty, are jacking up a car in a Manhattan garage. A helper is lazily polishing a windshield. A customer, with his radio going, is listening to a baseball game between Brooklyn and Pittsburgh. The boss is in his cubbyhole of an office counting up the day's receipts.

It is about 4:25 p. m., just the moment the cop on the beat is reporting to his call-box a block away.

A car with three men in it drives in. "How about a little air?" one of them says, "about 32 pounds in that left rear tire?"

The three men start browsing about the garage. One of them steps to the open office when the boss is sitting.

"You the manager here?" he wants to know.

The boss looks up and draws "Yeah!"

"Then get 'em up," snaps the man, whipping out a "rodney." He waves the gun within an inch of the boss' face. The boss' hands get up there.

Outside the mechanics and the customer who was listening to the game are standing in a line, their hands in the air. The customer isn't interested in the game any more.

"You're in rotten luck, buddy," the boss draws.

"There ain't five bucks in the place. We sent it to the bank not 10 minutes ago."

The gangster steps forward and slaps the boss hard across the face. "You're a liar," he says. "Try that again and I'll beat your head into a paste. He seems all coked up on something, maybe excitement or maybe cocaine. The boss shrugs. "Go ahead," he says. "It ain't my money. It's in my hip pocket."

The gangster lifts a roll of bills out of the boss' pocket. Just then one of the other gangsters sticks his head through the door. "Come on, come on," he yells, "come on."

There is a shout outside, and one of the gangsters is sticking his head into the door again. "Come on," he shrieks. They run out and the three of them, pointing their guns, fade into the street.

For a long half minute there is dead silence. One of the mechanics lets out a long, hissing sigh. The customer steps forward and clicks off the radio. The boss spits out a little blood where his lip is cut.

"Well," says the boss heavily. "They got us for $300. They say we down pat, all right. They been in here before."

"They left their car," shouts a mechanic. The customer and the mechanics and the boss crowd around the car, examining it. "Hey," says the boss, "they stole this car. They stole it just for this job."

Just then the cop saunters in. "Any scores?" he wants to know. "Then he stops. 'Hey, Joe, what's up! What's happened?'"

"Three bums just robbed us for 200 bucks," says Joe.

The cop lets out an oath and runs for the telephone.

Epilogue: Five minutes later the cops stick his head back out of the telephone booth. "Hey, Joe, what's the number of that gangster car?" Joe tells him "N.Y. 3346-L."

"Yo god!" shrieks the cop. "That's the Heuten-sen's car. It was stolen while his wife was shopping at Macy's this morning!"

Chapter Four POINTS NORTH

"She tried to close the door," Jumbo continued, "but she couldn't."

"What? Couldn't shut a door?" asked Tacks. "The girl must be a moron."

"I had my foot in it," Jumbo explained.

"He had his foot in the door," Tacks said to Bill and Van. "Softwood door, eh?"

"Oh, you know what I mean," growled the badgered Jumbo. "Not in the door. Between the door and the—thing. Still or jamb or something."

"I see. Go on!"

"Well, she told me to take my foot away and go away myself and—"

"Yes?" The other three leaned forward expectantly.

"Well, I—I didn't do either right away. I took her hand—that is, I didn't take it. I was only going to see if I could take it and all of a sudden, bingo! She socked me square in the eye."

"Well, gee," said Tacks disgustedly, "what did you expect? Girls are insulted nowadays if you only take their hands. You should have swung your arms around her, of course. I never heard of anything so Mid-Victorian."

"I stepped back," Jumbo went on. "But I forgot the stairs were there. I fell down them—backwards."

"Nice work, Cutler. Go on!"

"There isn't any more. I got up and ran like the dickens."

Tacks smote the table. "You fool. You unmitigated fool. You had the ball right in your hands and you dropped it. Don't you see that your cue then was to play dead and get carried back into her apartment? I told you something like that before you went out." He flung up his hands.

"You could have had the girl signed up by now."

"Listen, boy," said Jumbo, "all I wanted to do was get out of there. I heard her running down the stairs shrieking—"

"Shrieking? How? In concern or like a fishwife?"

"I don't know. I didn't wait to find out."

"Dumbell! What became of your hat?"

"It's in that hallway, I guess. Or on those stairs."

"That's a break," said Steele. "You can go back now and ask for your hat."

Jumbo eyed him pityingly. "Back? I wouldn't go back there for a million dollars cash."

"Come on!" Steele said. "Don't be a sissy! You've got another eye for her to shoot at, haven't you?"

"So," resumed Tacks, "you ran off in cowardly fashion and peevish the streets festooned with roast beef. What a degrading spectacle you must have been, Cutler!"

"You try," said the injured one, "getting a poke in the eye and falling down about a hundred steps all at once."

"Listen," Steele asked interestedly, "what is this girl, anyhow?"

Jumbo glared defiantly. "I don't see that it matters," he said fiercely. "But if you've got to know, she's—she's a teacher of Physical Culture."

"Pretty inviting."

Miss Patricia (Packy) North was in a black negligee with little white crescents scattered willy-nilly over it. Miss Patricia North had thrust bare feet into black satin, peach-lined mules. Miss Patricia North, in the black negligee and the black satin mules, looked swell. There is nothing surprising about that. Miss Patricia North would have looked swell in a bit of gunny-sacking.

Subtracting the mules, Packy was five feet six inches tall. She had a complete set of great dark eyes that reminded you of black stars. Her hair was raven's wing, spun through with blue fire; her mouth was wide, with humorous little crinkles at the corners.

Sombody or other appeared to have mashed rose-petals and late-autumn leaves to get the color for her cheeks. Match all that with svelte sapling-in-the-breeze figure and you've got Packy. One million dollars farmed out at exorbitant interest couldn't have looked any more inviting.

On this particular afternoon, Packy was pining about her apartment. Not that she was a secret dancer or anything. The cause of the pining was simply a new song number which she was obliged to learn and which was running through her head and out of it again via her perfect red lips.

There was a foot-tickling quality to this song that seemed to drive the singer, involuntarily, into a dance. Packy would have sung and danced with less abandon, however, had she been aware of a presence standing in the hallway just outside her door. The presence had gained admission to the apartment house in which Packy lived by the simple expedient of waiting until the combination doorman and elevator operator was aloft in his bell at the staircase moment that she had arisen from within.

Tacks removed his hat and listened almost respectfully. The voice was the kind that always fascinated him, low-pitched, bluey, croony. So he waited until the song was finished, applauding silently. Then he squared his shoulders, gulped, shot a glance Heavenward as if seeking divine assistance and landed a straight left to the doorbell's chin.

Within, Miss Packy North whirled gracefully across the room, jerked the door open.

Inspiration

Let a door be flung wide to reveal precisely the sort of girl you've dreamed about since you were knee-high to a tumblebug and speech does not always flow with rhythmic nonchalance.

"Uuuuh!" Mr. Adams managed, without undue brilliance.

Packy looked at him out of great cool eyes.

"Well?" she said, in a purred voice.

The individual before her pulled himself together. Of stern stuff are the sons of Ed.

"Er—ab—are you Miss Patricia North?" he began.

"I am," said Packy.

There was an uncomfortable ad-pause. Then Heaven sent Tacks Adams an inspiration.

"I'm a radio man," announced Tacks Adams.

The puzzled expression still decorated the face of Miss Patricia North.

"Is that so?" she said.

"I mean, I—er—I sell radios," said Tacks hastily. "I fix them, too."

"Well, I've got a radio and it doesn't need fixing."

So much for Heaven's inspiration. Mr. Tacks Adams dropped Heaven like a hot potato and became of the earth earthy.

"But I'm really here," he said briskly, "to read the meter. I—I only sell radios on the side."

"Well," Packy said, "I haven't got a meter."

This time Packy gave way to impulse.

"Do I look like a taxicab?" she said, and smiled.

That smile lit Tacks Adams right where he lived. It was the most dazzling, charming smile that he could remember since he had become smile-conscious.

Jews Told To Get Out Of Germany

BERLIN, June 9 (AP)—Between 10,000 and 15,000 Jews were reported today to have been rounded up and headed toward the Polish border for deportation or given definite notice to get out of Germany across other borders.

Reports of threatened retaliation by the Polish government—in the way of wholesale deportation of Germans living in Poland—coincided with the opening of a new drive to hasten the exodus of all Jews from Germany. It was the first campaign of its kind since last fall.

Reliable advices reaching Berlin said all Jews in East Prussia—not merely Polish Jews—were ordered to leave before June 30. The most recent authoritative figures available showed there were 11,000 Jews in East Prussia.

German Jews once held in concentration camps were said to have been called in by police throughout Germany and told bluntly that unless they left Germany soon they would be returned to the camps.

Others must report regularly to their district police headquarters in the way of wholesale deportation to obtain entry into countries abroad.

Jewish sources said that within the last 10 days Polish Jewish boys and girls had been removed from camps established to train them under Jewish supervision for life in Palestine.

WASHINGTON—This business of exploring the Antarctic always appeared to us so much piffle but the government is taking it seriously just now and that means Captain Richard Black will have to give up the South Seas and take to the ice packs.

Black, a curly haired engineer, is the department of the interior's only authentic Antarctic explorer. He went to Little America with Admiral Byrd on his second expedition.

Every expedition either to the Arctic or the Antarctic has to have a motive. Most of the recent ones starting from this country have explained they were going there to hunt weather data. The weather bureau says it has some importance.

DOUBLE-BARRELED PURPOSE

But the current proposal, which is supported by Admiral Byrd, is advanced on a double basis, protection of whaling rights and securing our claims to that part of the Antarctic already explored by Americans, including Byrd, Ellsworth and perhaps others.

The idea has been mulled over by various government agencies for several months but it was given an especial fillip when Germany recently laid claim to a whaling tract right in the heart of territory long claimed by Norwegians. The state department geographer, Samuel W. Boggs, told us that the claim was close to the border line but didn't quite penetrate the western hemisphere so we won't have to send the navy down there to drive them out.

Whales are being wiped out pretty fast, what with Germany, England, Japan and Norway now in the field with these tremendous factory ships. It is sort of like sending the Chicago packing houses galloping over the Texas prairie gobbling up all the cattle in sight. Germany uses whale oil for butter and we use it for soap, if that means anything. Japan trades hers to us in exchange for fuel oil for her busy war machine.

But all these things are only the big motivating forces. Captain Black is more immediately concerned with the question of getting congressional approval for the expedition. Admiral Byrd's trips cost close to a million dollars each. Plans are to make the government job cost a lot less by using government boats, planes and other facilities. Governments rarely get more for less, but that is the plan anyway.

WORKED IN SOUTH SEAS

Shortly after his return from the second Byrd expedition, Captain Black was hired by the interior department to perfect the U. S. claim to Canton and Enderbury islands, those flat little atolls southwest of Hawaii 1,200 miles or so, which we are planning to use some time as trans-Pacific airplane stations. They are sort of out of the way just now but you never can tell when they may come in handy. Maybe it is that way with the Antarctic.

King And Queen See Square Dance, Hear Kentucky Girls Sing Such Songs As 'Knock 'Em Daid'

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The friendship of the English-speaking petite queen of England, wearing a diamond and ruby coronet, sat forward in her chair to watch Soco Gap square dancers from North Carolina do the "water wheel."

Britain's king-emperor, resplendent in evening attire and glittering decorations, sat by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to hear the Coon Creek girls from Kentucky "knock 'em daid" with fiddle and song.

The unusual scene was the climax of a state dinner and musical at the White House last night in honor of the visiting monarchs—a program in which American folk singers and dancers appeared with such eminent vocalists as Lawrence Tibbett and Marian Anderson, the negro contralto.

But before the program, take a peek in the oak-paneled state dining room.

First, there had to be an extra cushion for Queen Elizabeth's chair, which of course was at the right of President Roosevelt's.

How Does One Pass
Time While Waiting For The Elevator?

By MARY WHALEY

There should be some book of etiquette on what to do while waiting for the elevator. It's not polite to stare at the other waiting passengers but what else is there to do?

You can study your shoes, look in the opposite direction, arch your neck to watch the arrow indicating where the elevator is, and tap your foot. However, you sometimes even run out of these things to do and the elevator is still floors away.

I've always suspected the operators of finishing a hand of bridge before making the down trip but I've never caught them at it yet.

Then too, you begin to wonder if the waiting persons have rung the bell yet and you give it another jab just to make sure. That usually brings forth a withering look from the person who did ring it, and a glare from the operator when he finally brings the elevator to rest on the first floor.

Seems like you ought to be able to start a game of dominoes or spend your time shooting paper wads at folks in the lobby or do something that a Mrs. Post would not frown upon. There's the fertile field there for a great deal of thought.

A few times I've essayed something like "Certainly hot today, isn't it?" and the waiting group has turned frosty glances my way and turned back again which sort of left me holding the weather all by myself.

Of course science has proved that whatever goes up must come down but sometimes you begin to wonder if someone would put out a little booklet entitled "How to Appear Natural While Waiting for an Elevator." It would be helpful.

Queen Elizabeth
Charms All Of Washington

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth could have had almost any movable object in Washington today for the asking.

She charmed officials and plain folks alike. Most of the talk ran, "And did you see HER?" then later, "He's nice, too."

She seems to overcome the fact she's a queen. In a twinkling she has spectators thinking of her as an extremely feminine and pretty person. But there is an aura of royalty about her that's hard to explain.

She's a slight figure, much more so than her pictures look. Only her face looks plump. She's shorter than the king, but she stands very erect, bowing with a slight, graceful nod of the head.

Her salute when the cheering crowds get especially noisy is an individual gesture. She brings up her right arm gracefully from the side, palm turned in, until her hand is on a level with her head, and then she moves the hand back and forth three or four times.

She turns a frankly affectionate smile on her husband when he speaks, and he returns the attention with a swifter, shyer glance.

Her clothes add much to the regal impression. Their pastel shades make her stand out in the crowd. Her high off-the-face hats and the very high heels of her dainty pumps add to her height.

FLIER'S WIDOW IS RETURNING HOME

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Senora Agripina de Sarabia, widow of the Mexican aviator killed in a crash here Wednesday, arranged to leave tonight for Mexico City aboard an Eastern Airlines plane.

Accompanied by her three children and her sister, she planned to leave at 9 p. m. (eastern standard time) and was scheduled to reach Mexico City at 1:35 p. m. tomorrow.

The air safety board of the Civil Aeronautics Authority meanwhile continued an investigation into the cause of the accident in which Francisco Sarabia was killed.

Army officials were preparing the world's largest military plane, the B15, weighing 40 tons, to return the body of Sarabia to Mexico City.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—Financial markets stepped out of the fog today and put on one of the brightest rallying performances of the past two weeks.

Following a hesitant start, bidding for stocks revived on a broad scale and leaders, at the top, were up fractions to 3 points. There were one or two wider swings. Extreme gains were reduced in some cases at the close.

Activity in the stock list was about double that of the previous session, with transfers approximating 800,000 shares. Dealings were fastest in the forenoon, tending to flatten out in the final hour.

Bonds displayed selective strength throughout, with a number of rails registering sizable advances. Commodities were a bit uneven.

Tax Equalization Work Continues

Still in session as a board of equalization, the county commissioners court Friday continued interviewing representatives of oil, utility and railroad companies concerning values for tax purposes in 1939.

The staff of Pritchard and Abbott, valuation engineers, was engaged in making adjustments ordered by the court following an opening session Thursday.

The amount of increase in taxable values of these interests was unknown, but it was estimated that the increase might be around half a million dollars.

Kidnaping

She was quoted by Inspector George Page as saying "I would do it all over again if I had the chance."

Page said the girl indicated her real name was not Gaylord, but police had no other name save the signature "G. Lord" on the San Jose hotel register. She said her home was in Chicago until she came here several weeks ago.

The child's mother discovered the pair's disappearance and found the asserted ransom note about 1:15 p. m. Wednesday.

The note, which Chief of Police William J. Quinn said was in Miss Gaylord's writing, warned the mother not to tell the police "if you value your son's life."

The Osborns are not wealthy. Apparently officers said, the girl hit upon $1,000 as a ransom sum after seeing a deposit book with an $1,000 balance.

Miss Gaylord was employed three weeks ago.

SAYS CONGRESS MAY QUIT BY JULY 15

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic leader, told reporters today "it is a possibility but not a probability" that congress will adjourn by July 15.

Barkley said congressional leaders would be unable to give President Roosevelt a definite quitting date "until about two weeks before adjournment."

It definitely is possible, he added, that neutrality legislation could be enacted before members of congress go home.

House leaders hoped to send to the senate before nightfall a bill liberalizing benefits of the social security act and extending them to additional classes of workers.

ment. The two tax bills were killed in senate committee.

Already the longest in history, the session will be 154 days old when business is resumed Monday. Many members who previously had forecast adjournment by the middle of last or next week now were reluctant to guess at a date. Some placed the time two weeks hence.

There was much speculation over the exact parliamentary status of the amendment.

In order to be placed before the house again one of the opponents must move to reconsider the vote by which it was rejected. That would require a majority vote. Otherwise it would be necessary to suspend the rules which would require a two-thirds vote. This move could be made by a proponent.

Rep. Harvey Rivers of Fort Arthur, who made one of the strongest speeches of the day in opposition to the amendment said he believed it had mustered its maximum vote.

Proponents, in registering 91 votes yesterday, showed a gain over the last test—May 10—of six votes.

Local Youngsters Form A Club To Stress Safety

Volting to include refreshments as a definite part of the program from now on out, seven safety-minded youngsters met at the Elmo Wasson home Thursday afternoon to form a club and included Mrs. Wasson as honorary member (to make the dues come out even).

The club is to be known as "Safety First" club and dues are 1 cent apiece but 2 cents if a member happens to be absent. Ray Simmons, Jr., is president. Marilyn Keaton was secretary until the middle of the meeting when the stronger sex prevailed and Durward Carnett took over the job.

The first program concerned bicycles and how to ride them and the members got a bit out of hand over whether to use the right side of the road or the left side. The discussion led to the definition of "what is a vehicle anyway" and was more or less dropped.

Joan Simmons was elected program chairman but disagreement over whether to have dances and singing as against more serious topics threatened to break up the meeting.

President Ray Simmons restored order with the general agreement to meet next week at 2:30 o'clock Thursday for a discussion of "Jaw-walking."

Other members who discussed the idea of taking care of bicycles and preventing poor brakes, pedals and broken spokes in order to maintain the greatest safety were Gene Harrington, Dorothy Marie Wasson and La Rue Tucker.

ACQUITTAL VERDICT ASSAILED BY JUDGE

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—Five men charged with grand larceny of $700,000 in transactions involving the securities portfolio of the Continental Securities corporation were acquitted by a general sessions court jury today in a verdict which Judge Saul S. Streit denounced as an "outrageous miscarriage of justice."

The defendants were George H. Clayton, broker; Vincent E. Ferreri, lawyer; Philip A. Frear, Washington, D. C. broker, and Thomas W. Morris and S. Leo Solomon both Boston lawyers.

Judge Streit told the jurors: "The evidence here is overwhelming as to the guilt of the defendants. x x x I don't think you are fit to serve as jurors."

The five men were accused of purchasing control of Continental Securities with a loan of $500,000 and liquidating the loan by selling securities to the extent of $700,000, giving them control of the corporation and approximately $100,000 in cash after payment of brokerage fees.

Into this square were led ex-servicemen, many of them hobbling along with the aid of canes and crutches. Although dressed in more medals won in the service of civilian clothes, they none-the-less the British empire.

Embassy aides said about 250 ex-servicemen were on hand and that the crowd gathered in response to invitations to witness the review of these former soldiers numbered around 800.

Before leaving for the embassy, the king and queen met newspapermen who had assembled for a press conference with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Queen Elizabeth, tiny besides Mrs. Roosevelt, wore a white silk frock trimmed in silver hand at the neck and a large white strand of pearls.

Landon slipped and fell against the gunwale while attempting to go over the Blue Moon's side into a small boat.

Fight Films To Be Shown At The Lyric

The Lyric theatre's Saturday-Sunday program is given over practically in its entirety to fight fans.

Headlining the screening will be ringside, blow-by-blow pictures of the recent Lou Nova-Max Baer fight, in which Lou put Maxie away in the eleventh round to become a contender for heavyweight honors.

Those interested in such scraps will find a complete recording of every round in the pictures.

Also on the program is a fictional treatment of the fight game, a production called "Ex-Champ," in which Victor McLaglen is headlined. Tom Brown, Nan Grey and Constance Moore are others in the cast of a story that tells of a tough guy's climb to the top through use of his big fists.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Seale have returned from Enid, Okla., where Seale did work for the Texas controller's department.

Roy Rogers And Fred Scott In Western Films

The movie customers who like shoot-'em-up fare will find a couple of thrill-romance westerns on local screens this weekend. At the Lyric Friday and Saturday Roy Rogers is starred in an adventure melodrama called "Southward Ho" and dealing with post-Civil war days in Texas. In the cast with him are Mary Hart, George Hayes and Wade Boteler. Rogers appears as the hero who succeeds in quelling lawlessness during the Lone Star state's restive days, and of course he gets the girl.

Fred Scott, another of the singing cowboys, is starred in the Queen's Friday-Saturday offering, "Moonlight On The Range." Fred shows his he-man abilities in riding and shooting sequences, and his romantic qualities as he sings choice range ballads.

In the supporting cast are Lois January, Al St. John, Frank La Rue, Dick Curtis, and others.

SHERMAN, June 9 (AP)—Weldon Goodman, 19, Denison negro, drowned in Iron Ore creek near here.

World production of oil in 1938 is estimated at 1,995,000,000 barrels.

Miss M'Donald Stars Alone In New Musical

Jeanette MacDonald appears in her first solo starring role in "Broadway Serenade," which is featured at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. Based upon the struggles of a young singer who progresses from cheap nightclubs to musical comedy stardom, the new picture offers Miss MacDonald an opportunity to sing everything from grand opera to popular selections written especially for the production.

Jeanette MacDonald, the comedy songstress, has her first solo starring role in "Broadway Serenade," a musical production which headlines the Ritz theatre's program for Friday and Saturday.

Frank Powell's New Texaco Station To Open Saturday

A modern addition to the city's service stations is the Frank Powell Texaco establishment at East Third and Austin streets, which will be opened formally Saturday.

Just completed, the station represents the first word in service equipment and facilities. There is a pressure washer, greasing and oiling equipment, tire repair department, and other equipment and facilities to give complete servicing to all cars. Modern rest rooms are included in the building.

Texaco products will be carried, and efficient service is pledged by Powell with thoroughly-trained, courteous attendants.

Mr. Powell, long-time resident of Big Spring and well known in business circles here, will be in personal charge of the new station. He invites the public to drive in.

WOUNDS FATAL
HOUSTON, June 9 (AP)—O. N. Edgar, 48, who was found shot in a parked automobile Wednesday, died today at a hospital.

Miles Mosley, night watchman who found the wounded man, said Edgar had been shot once in the head and a pistol was grasped in the wounded man's hand.

A justice of the peace was investigating the shooting.
