UNCLE OLIVER

In Memoriam to O. Pendleton "If in this life only we have hope, the word of God does say, Then we are the most miserable, Of all mankind today. But thanks be to God for the hope, He gave to you and me, When He gave His only son, To die on a cruel tree. "We can have confidence and trust, And hope, that we will see Our loved one when we are called, Out into eternity. We can by faith some day look Upon his face once more, When we have passed from this life, And crossed o'er Jordan's shore. "So I would comfort you today, In this your hour of grief, Look up, renew your faith in God, Be sure of your belief, For it takes a blood applied to be Assured that you will see This loved one whose life here is done, He is in eternity. "And if they have a corner there, You will find him setting by, Never saying very much, But you can see his eyes, And see the joy reflected there, Of the love of our Lord, So today you can take comfort in, The hope of God's word. "We can know that we will meet At the feet of Jesus soon, We can know that we are saved, And know that there is room, For all who will accept the Lord, As our loved one has before, And some day dwell together in Heaven forever more. -Wilma Dene Patterson
