CHILDRENS PICTURES TO BE TAKEN FOR PUBLICATION IN PAPER

It is an undisputed fact that the responsibilities of tomorrow's world out nation and community will rest upon the shoulders of the children of today. Since this is true, the publisher of this newspaper would like to give you a good look at these future "World Builders."

The only way we can do this is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series. To assure the latest and best reproduction pictures they must all be of uniform size and quality.

An expert children's photographer with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work will be here Wednesday July 20th.

Pictures will be taken at Nora's Cafe from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 noon.

No Charge to Parents!

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation. It is bonafide in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated after they are taken. Those who want some additional prints may obtain a limited number by arrangement with the studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper. It is entirely up to them.

The more pictures the Better.

This paper simply wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more, the better. So the mothers and fathers of the community in which this paper circulates should remember the date, Wednesday July 20th to bring their children to the photographer.

You will be mighty glad afterwards, if you did and very sorry if you did not permit your children to participate in this event. The kiddies will have fun and both mother and father and the youngsters will be very proud to see their pictures in print later.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burnett of Miami, Texas, former residents of Wheeler attended the Masonic Lodge in Wheeler Tuesday evening.

Working Women

By Vivian Warminski
WORKING WOMEN ARE NOT AS YOUNG NOR AS SINGLE AS IN THE PAST.

Women in the work force have almost double since 1940, but there has only been a slight increase in the employment of young women according to a report of the Institute of Life Insurance. Women in their middle years have been increasingly on the hunt for jobs and they have been finding them.

Between 1940 and 1964, the number of working women 35 to 44 has more than doubled; it has more than tripled at ages 45 to 54 and at ages 55 to 64 the number has increased more than three and one half times.

In the past quarter century there had been a rise in employment of mothers with children under 18. Twenty-five years ago there were 1 1/2 million working mothers with young or teenage children, or roughly nine per cent of all mothers with growing youngsters. In 1965, 9 1/2 million, or 35 percent-of these mothers had jobs.

Today women are urged to assume 4-way roles--wife, mother, employee and community volunteer. A woman must realize that, as a human being is a distinct, unique individual. As such she must discover herself and select the role or roles for which she is best suited. She should help channel and use her strengths to serve the needs of society and work for the development of her fellow man.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

If you are an irrigation farmer, are you using every drop of irrigation water efficiently?

Proper management of irrigation water depends upon three main factors: determining when to irrigate, how much water to apply and how to apply it in the most efficient manner.

Lets look first at the preplant irrigation. It is generally agreed that this is our most important irrigation.

In preplant irrigation, we should fill the soil reservoir or root zone. For most soils in our area, the root zone is about six feet deep and each foot holds 1½ to 2 inches of water.

Failure to apply enough to fill the root zone will tell on us at harvest. On the other hand we should be careful not to apply excess water that ends up in a neighbor's lake and evaporates or penetrates beyond the root zone, leaching nutrients with it.

In actually irrigating crops, we are primarily interested in the top two feet of the root zone. It is from the top 24 inches that the plant receives about 60 percent of its moisture and nutrients.

The farmer can determine how much moisture he needs through a simple test of the soil. By taking samples from varying depths and squeezing them in the hand, one can tell approximately how much moisture is in the soil at that time.

Soil which leaves a damp impression on the hand is 75 to 100 percent full of water while soil which falls up and remains firm when bounced a few times in the hand is 50 to 75 percent filled.

Soil that merely crumbles when squeezed shows there is a need for moisture.

In crop irrigation we should try to time our irrigation so as to cover the entire field before plants on the dry side start hurting for lack of moisture, or by the time the moisture level dries to 50 percent. The technicians of the local Soil Conservation Service office will be happy to aid in the design of an irrigation system which could help cut irrigation cost and make each drop go just a little further.

BERMUDA GRASS: Pictured above, in top picture, is Bob Holwick of the Kellerville community observing use some 400(odd) pound heifers have made of irrigated Midland Bermuda grass. In the lower picture Bob is standing in front of his sprinkler irrigation system. He is completing the irrigation of another pasture of bermuda grass. He has 3 pastures of about equal size. He rotates his cattle on a 10 day cycle. This system permits grazing a pasture 10 days and resting 20. During the rest period the bermuda grass is fertilized and irrigated.

SUPPLEMENT FEEDING

By Charles Jackson
This is the third in a series on the new beef cattle bulletins from Texas A&M University.

According to the bulletins, supplemental feeding should not be overlooked by an on-the-ball cattleman. For simple maintenance of a cow's present body weight, pasture forage should not be less than about 4.3 percent digestible protein. If the cow has a calf, the digestible protein of the pasture grass should be from 4.8 to 5.3 percent. Most pasture grasses will not meet this requirement except in the young, actively growing stage. Thus comes the need for supplemental feeding.

Several things should be considered when you are wondering whether or not to give supplemental feed. First, the amount and nutritive value of available forage. Probable changes in pasture conditions and physical condition of the cows is important. The stage of production—whether the cows are dry, pregnant or have a calf—and the cost of different supplemental feeds should also be considered.

In most commercial operations, cows lose weight slowly after calving, while the calves are gaining about 1 pound per day. If the calves are born in the proper season, it usually should not be more than 90 days before new forage growth begins.

Even if a pasture tests extremely low in digestible protein, this does not mean the test figure is the exact percent protein the cattle are getting. Cattle graze selectively on the more nutritious part of the grass—if there is ample grass for a selection. Selectively means the cows are getting grass of a higher nutritional value than an overall protein test indicates.

When forage is limited because of drought or overgrazing, additional protein is needed to keep cows from losing too much weight.

If enough mature forage is available to furnish needed energy, 1 to 1.5 pounds of a high protein (40 percent crude protein or more) feed is enough supplement for dry pregnant cows. Two to 2.5 pounds of a high protein feed supplementing mature forages will furnish the additional digestible protein needed for cows nursing small calves.

FABRIC NEWS

By Vivian Warminski
This article is a continuation of the "Simplicity's Fabric News Letter for Fall-Winter 1966." This week's article stresses fabrics, Holiday assemblies and specialty items.

The flat, hard surfaces in wools take an added weight without bulk enabling even the non-expert to tailor a high fashion seam. The weaves are closer, tighter and firmer for the sharper, rigid lines of design; dresses take on suiting weights, suits adopt coating weights and coats find even heavier companions. Tweeds mean to deceive; nubs wander carefree on the surface appearing as though they were attached to nothing - the ground is actually firm and tight but made subtle behind a profusion of color. Plaids are cleverly planned in this same manner with attention being drawn to the face and roving strips of color while behind the scene the backing is solid.

The classics with a sporty touch find increased strength. Homespins, heavier and coarser, and denims, "scrubbed" with a pre-washed, nappy hand, are newest. Heather tones are strong in all areas; a relief in another season of electrifying brights. This fall there are an increasing number of synthetics and blends with the "Woolly" look possessing the benefits of the fibers - washable, non-allergenic and moderate priced.

The craze for corduroy is growing with intensity. The wider, plushier ribs are more in demand than ever and new thick - and; thin wale variations have been added. Most companies have added a 45" width for retail since so much attention has been given to horizontally worked corduroy. Every type of popular print is interpreted on both fine and heavier cords. The highlights for holiday offer a variety to suit any woman's taste. To show off the spectrum of color, shimmering satins combine in dynamic color contrasts. Velvets, in rich deep tones, melt with the evening lights. Moire, an old favorite, finds renewed importance. Chiffons move sensuously around the body in a revealing manner; most tempting are chiffons with areas patterned in velvet. Glowing bits of metal glitter on almost every holiday fabric; metal encrusted on jerseys, gold or silver dusted brocades, raised, glittering puffs resembling precious jewels, quivering lames - all glamorize the night. Evated matelasse brocades are dimensionally raised to create quilted effects or horizontally corded, incorporating a jacquard design with an ottoman ridge. For a delicate floaty feeling, bands of feathers may be added to detail a design. Strips of gleaming beads or sequins tell a lightning bright story as they border on the edges of a fashion.

The young non-conformists have taken a particular fancy to felt. A new apparel felt is not available in a fantastic range of colors at 63" wide, pre-shrunk, steam pressable and dry cleanable. As broadly as it is accepted for decorating and accessory items, felt is finding its way into fashion. It is easy to sew and to finish - no hem and no ravelling edges. Leather and suede gain attention in more fashion directions. It is an absolute must to have something made from suede or leather in your wardrobe and the adventurous seamstress will make her own.

Bonding, bonding and more bonding, there is hardly a fabric left untouched. It started with laces and knits and expanded in every direction, flannel, linen, crepe, gingham, almost any bondable surface. The purposes of bonding are diversified to stabilize, to line to add weight and to add reversibility.

STUBBLE MULCHING: Pictured above is Mr. Marvin Hefley at his farm in the Gageby community. Mr. Hefley is showing an excellent job of stubble mulch tillage. This wheat crop yielded about 27 bushels per acre in June, 1966. Following the harvest a good rain fell. The soil was just right for plowing. The land was first chiseled and then followed with 16 inch sweeps. These were gang sweeps on a tool bar. Mr. Hefley says this stubble mulching has really paid dividends. He said he has had trouble with joint grass and wind erosion before he started using sweeps. He has very little joint grass now and wind erosion is no problem. He falls his land occasionally.

END SPOTS AND STAINS
by Vivian Warminski
Spots and stains on your clothes? NEVER! Even the most expensive Dior original can look unattractive if you are careless in removing any stains that might appear on it. So, start today, not tomorrow, in collecting a "first-aid kit" for stains.
You will need solutions to care for the three types of stains. Greasy, such as lipstick, rouge, oil or grease; non-greasy, such as blood, grass or mildew; combination greasy and non-greasy such as chocolate, cocoa or milk. Here's a list of the things your kit should include:
SOLVENTS FOR NON-GREASY STAINS:
Acetone - 4 oz. bottle
Amyl acetate (chemically pure) 4 oz bottle
Rubbing alcohol - 1 pint
Turpentine - 1 pint
SOLVENTS FOR GREASY STAINS:
1,1,1 trichloroethane or Ener-gine (new, fireproof)
CHEMICAL STAIN REMOV-ERS:
Bleaches - laundry bleaches both chlorine and oxygen based along with hydrogen peroxide -- 1 pint, 3 percent solution.
White vinegar
Household ammonia
Oxalic acid - 1 pound
Sodium thiosulfate - 1 pound
Pepsin - 1 ounce
Glycerine - 1/2 pint
Color Removers
Household liquid cleaners
Some of the items listed you are familiar with and have in your home. The items not available in your supermarket can probably be purchased at a drug store.
When looking for cleaning agents this writer discovered the new fireproof Ener-gine which contains 100% trichloroethane. Try it! You will like it as a grease stain solvent.
Having these agents handy is only one part of the stain removal process. Here are the rules for successful stain removal at home which will further guide you in this process.
1. Identify correctly
2. Act promptly higher glucoside content than plants nearing maturity; therefore, if wilted would be more toxic. I suggest grazing a few animals on fields in question early in the morning and under close watch for an hour. If no trouble occurs, it should be safe to turn in the herd. But, if any animal shows a tendency to become restless and breathe fast, get them out in a hurry. Death or recovery usually happens within an hour or two. Drenching with a syrup or sugar solution slows the release of prussic acid in the rumen, but a veterinarian should be called immediately for further treatment.

3. Work carefully and patiently, but quickly
 4. Observe all precautions about removers
 5. Follow directions accurately
 6. Use solutions as recommended
 7. Determine whether a stain remover would change the appearance of the fabric to be treated by testing it first on a hidden part of the article.
- A FEW WORDS TO THE WISE:
1. Store solvents in a safe place.
 2. Do not allow small children to play in room when solvents are used.
 3. Work outdoors or in well ventilated room.
 4. Do not breathe solvents vapors or get chemicals near face.
 5. Use small quantity at a time, keep bottle capped.
 6. Wash any spilled solvent off skin immediately.
 7. Observe all warnings given on solvent containers
 8. Flammable solvents should not be used near an open flame or an electrical outlet.
 9. Use only glass or unchipped porcelain enamel containers.
 10. Never use flammable or non-flammable solvents in a washing machine.
 11. Never place garments cleaned with the solvents in a dryer before they have been laundered.
- Some stains require special treatment. If you are in doubt, obtain a "Removing Stains from Fabrics" bulletin from your Extension Office.
- If Yellow Jackets are putting a sting into your summer, try keeping a pan of soap or detergent suds in the yard, it seems that yellow jackets are attracted to the suds and then fall into the water - leaving your home's "setting out" area safe from stings.

rough Mr. Walter Labay, area Supervisor of vocational agriculture.

The short course at Briscoe high school is scheduled to begin July 18 at 8:00 in the vocational agriculture building.

During the dates the short course is in progress, Mr. Page will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Albert Walker. An entry fee of $3.00 will be charged. Farm Electrification Short Course Certificates are to be presented to each farmer who attends all the training sessions.

Mr. Page states that the short course can be adjusted to wishes and interests of the farmers enrolled, but that he expects to cover such subjects as safety, how to properly choose wire sizes and install circuits, how to properly fuse and ground electrical equipment, and how to calculate the cost of operating electrical equipment. Farm wiring techniques will be demonstrated and class enrollees will have the opportunity to do practice wiring including 120 240 volt service, outlets, 3-way and 4-way switches, lights, etc.

Mr. Albert Walker, teacher of vocational agriculture, states that enrollees are invited to bring their families, and that visitors are welcome to the first meeting of this short course. Mr. Page will cover "Safety in the Home" at this meeting, and if the past is any indication men, women and children will find it interesting. All equipment used in this demonstration will be equipment found in everyone's home.

Tom West Fuiks visited his aunt Marie Fuiks last week. Tom is from Amarillo.

"Texas" Attended By Area People

"Texas," a musical-drama and historical re-enactment of pioneer life in the Texas Panhandle during the last years of the 19th century, which is currently being presented in the Pioneer Amphitheater in Palo Duro State Park was highly praised by many Wheeler residents who attended during Founders Week. Panhandle residents and visitors who fail to take advantage of the opportunity to see such professional performance will miss a rare, entertaining and worthwhile treat.

The story of "Texas" has to do with the trials and tribulations of the early homesteaders, their feuds with the cattle barons over property rights and the coming of the railroad. There is plenty of everything in the play, including: romance supplied by Lil Cowart as Elsie McLean and Eddie Thomas, as Calvin Armstrong, the stout-hearted young farmer who fights for progress on the arid plains; Comedy in the role of Tucker Yedell, played by Gary Brundidge, an itinerant gold prospector who stays as right-hand man to Armstrong; exceptional music and dance numbers, which includes the work of premier danseuse Camille Hess and the ballet members of the choreography of Neil Hess and the authentic western folk songs, ballads, hymns sung by various members of the cast, a good men's quartet and recordings by the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra and West Texas State University Orchestra.

22 Top O Texas Rodeo At Pampa

Pampa's 22nd Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo will kick off July 27th at 3:00 p.m. with a big street parade, headed by the Amarillo Air Force Band, under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer, Ross Whitehead.

Top attraction of this year's show will be Miss Molly Bee, famous TV, Radio Stage and Screen Star of Hollywood, appearing nightly in the arena with Johnnie Lee Willis Western Swing Band of Tulsa, Okla.

The RCA approved rodeo, produced by Beutler Bros. of Elk City, Okla. will afford a purse of $3,800.00 plus all entry fees in the regular rodeo contests, including Calf Roping, Saddle Broncs, Bareback Broncs, Bull Riding, Steer Wrestling and the popular Cowgirl's Barrel race. A special prize of $250 is offered to the All-around cowboy.

Cy Tailon, popular rodeo announcer of Denver, Colo. will be on hand to describe all events. This will be Cy's fifth appearance in Pampa. His years of work as a rodeo sports announcer and emcee have made it unnecessary for him to carry any written file. He can call every cowboy by his first name and tell you his rodeo record. Cy's clearly enunciated, smooth running announcing and commentary is an essential complement to a rodeo performance.

Farmers, Ranch Will Not File

Special by Charles J. Farmers and ranchers will not file a claim for refund of Federal tax on line used on their farms and ranches as they have done in past years. Instead, the fund of Federal tax on line used on or after July 1965 must be claimed on credit on their annual income tax return.

This credit will first be taken on the return for first full tax year beginning after June 30, 1965. If a return is filed on a calendar year basis, the credit for gasoline tax refund on 1966 return will include tax on gasoline used in period from July 1, 1965 through December 31, 1966.

The refund is claimed credit in a manner similar to the credit for tax withheld on wages.
