Dr. H. Q. Sibley, Executive Director of the Texas Animal Health Commission has released the following Operation Procedure relative to the Brucellosis Eradication Program:

By action of the Texas Animal Health Commission at a regular meeting held on April 4, 1974, the following Operational Procedures relative to the Brucellosis Eradication Program were adopt

Effective immediately herds of origin of brucellosis reactors disclosed on blood test conducted at Texas Livestock Markets will be treated the same as herds of origin of reactors found at Slaughter Establishments.

As provided in Section XVIII, Brucellosis Regulation the Texas Animal Health Comnission after receipt of proper application will give consideration to hardship cases by permitting infected herds to be sold and moved to a different premise under quarentine, provided the transfer does not jepoardize the brucellosis status of the neighboring herds.

Reference is made to

Section XI, Brucellosis Regulations: If quarantine has been imposed as a result of a market cattle test reactor or a slaugh ter establishment reactor, the quarantine may be released after the first herd test is negative, complying with Section XI, Paragraph a., which provides that the first test be conducted not less than 30 days after the removal of the last

If a reactor is found as a result of this test, then subsequent tests will conform to the provisions of Section XXXI, Paragraph a., Re!ease of Quarantines. 'A. Two consecutive negative herd tests shall be required for release of a quarantine with the first such test being conducted not less than thirty days after the remova! of the last reactors and the second such test not less than ninety days following the first negative test.

Livestock producers should be aware that 1974 has the earmark of an extremely bad screwworm season, and should-make every effort to reduce the number of outbreaks. This word comes from County Extension Agent Don King.

Program officials are asking producers to refrain from livestock surgery or other man-made wonds to prevent screwworm infestations. The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has pointed out that at least 30 per cent of this season's cases have tesulted from dehoming, branding, docking and similar practices. County Agent Don King urges all livestock producers to support the screwworm eradication effort by carring out three key practices: (1) Inspecting their animals frequently; (2) Treating all founds found with an approved product; and (3) colecting and sending worm samles from wounds to the USDA Screwwo m laboratory at Mission , Texas, for identification. The post office box is 969. As cases are confirmed, sterile screwworm fly treatment is initiated by the USDA "It is vitally inportant for program officials to know where cases are happening in order to begin the sterile fly treatment before cases are too numerous", the County Agent reminds.
