David Benefield, 21-year-old Negro airman, was sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary Wednesday afternoon when he pleaded guilty in District Court to charges of assault with intent to rape. Benefield, from Toledo, O., waived jury trial. He admitted the attack which occurred in the nurses quarters at the Webb Air Force Base on Dec. 31. He said he regretted the incident. In addition to the defendant, testimony was heard from the victim of the attack, a Webb nurse; from Dr. (Capt.) John F. Johnson; Airman Vernon Adams; Harry Lane, Air Force investigator; A. G. Mitchell, special agent for the T&P Railway and who participated in the investigation; and Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney. The attack victim exhibited a scar on her forehead and photographs were introduced showing the cut on the head and marks on the nurse's throat. Benefield was assigned to Webb AFB last August. He came here from Reese AFB, Lubbock. Prior to entering the Air Force in April, 1953, he was a truck worker for the New York Central Railway. He was arrested at Webb on the morning of Dec. 21, a few hours after the nurse was cut on the forehead with a knife as she struggled after being awakened about 1 a.m.

VOTES FOR TWO CHANGES

House Armed Services Panel Approves Extension Of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved 32-0 a bill extending the draft for four more years. The House is expected to consider it next week. The committee voted for two changes in the present law but kept intact basic requirements that all young men of 18½ years are subject to induction for two years active service followed by six years obligation for reserve duty. Under the committee-approved changes: 1. Any young man joining the National Guard before he is 18½ and serving continuously until age 26 could not be drafted. The law passed in 1951 now makes him liable for the draft until he is 25 years old. 2. Anyone who served after Sept. 16, 1949, for six months or more in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines or Coast Guard, or 24 months in the Public Health Service, would not be liable for induction except in event of a declaration of war or a national emergency declared by Congress.

Nationalists Pound Communist Targets

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist bombers and outpost island artillery pounded Chinese Communist land targets and shipping yesterday and last night along a 350-mile oceanic front from Formosa Strait northward into the East China Sea. There were no reports of Communist action. While Chiang Kai-shek's airmen and gunners carried on the furious civil war, the whole issue of a Nationalist pullout from the menaced Tachen Islands 200 miles north of Formosa appeared to be hanging in the balance today because of U.S. reluctance to give clear-cut guarantees for the protection of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

John R. Blandford, committee counsel, said the purpose of the second amendment is to make sure that young men who serve in the armed forces but are discharged with less than two years service will not be called for a second tour in peacetime. Blandford said that at one time there were about 144,000 servicemen serving their second tour of duty. A Pentagon spokesman said the Defense Department did not actually oppose the changes but would prefer some different amendments more in conformity with a planned reorganization of the reserves which will be presented later to Congress. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) suggested that the Pentagon "revise its views" on the pending reserve bill to conform to these amendments. Vinson said he expected that Rep. Burr T. Harrison (D-Va.) might propose an amendment on the House floor to clarify one phase of agricultural deferments but the chairman said otherwise he expected no changes in the bill as approved by the committee. An Armed Services subcommittee will consider later a separate measure by Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif.) to grant exemptions to young men with promise of scientific and technical careers. Vinson said this will not be offered as an amendment to the main draft law. Testifying before the committee yesterday, Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, a University of California scientist, urged an exemption for youngsters who give promise of proficiency in science. Chaney said in that connection

Cruelly Beaten 5-Year-Old Dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Lloyd George Stanley Jr., 5, cruelly beaten and killed early today and murder charges were filed against an aunt who admitted the beating. The boy was hospitalized nine days ago. He lapsed into a coma yesterday. His estranged parents, reunited by the tragedy, were at his bedside when death came at 2:30 a.m. County Atty. Raymond Burger said murder charges were filed against the aunt, Mrs. Virginia Thompson, 29, and her husband, Lawrence, 32. He said the husband took no active part in the beating but was charged because he failed to come to the boy's aid. Burger said the beating of young Lloyd, and his 3-year-old brother, James Edward, was the most brutal crime of his prosecution career and announced he would seek the death penalty for Mrs. Thompson when she comes to trial. James Edward remains in a hospital here. He is expected to recover but doctors said he would probably require plastic surgery. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George Stanley Sr., said Mrs. Thompson begged permission to care for the boys and a daughter when the Stanleys became estranged late last year.

Car Bomb Test Evidence Found

HOUSTON (AP)—Police said today three rolls of wire, aimed at a car used for explosives, were found in a wooded area where a former convict claims a friend made a test run for the San Angelo automobile explosion that killed Mrs. Harry E. Weaver. Andrew H. Nelson, 45-year-old Houston man who has served two prison terms, told police last night he and his friend purchased the bomb material in nearby Rosenberg and then drove to the wooded area west of Houston for the test. Police and Texas Rangers returned Nelson to the wooded area today after a search last night failed to find the wire and explosives cache Nelson said had been buried there after the test run. By 11 a.m. today no explosives had been found but police said they had found the wire and a mutilated scrub oak with indication its bark had been blown off by dynamite. Mrs. Weaver, 51-year-old wealthy West Texas ranchwoman and socialite, was killed at 8:30 a.m. on Jan. 19 as she turned the ignition switch on her husband's automobile. Harry L. Washburn, 38-year-old Houston contractor, is being held in the Tom Green County jail at San Angelo on a murder charge. He was arrested here Saturday after two Houston men had supplied police with tips alleging Washburn had asked them to kill Weaver, the husband of the slain woman. Police Chief Jack Heart announced early today that a clerk and a waitress at Rosenberg had identified Nelson and a photograph of his friend as the two men who purchased 50 pounds of 40 per cent dynamite there on Jan. 14. Police Capt. Cecil Priest quoted Nelson as saying his friend went to San Angelo the night before the murder, placed 12 sticks of dynamite on the engine block of the Weaver automobile, wired the dynamite to the car generator and returned to Houston before the 8:30 a.m. explosion. Nelson early today told police and newspaper reporters that upon arrival in the wooded area on Jan. 14, his friend took 10 dynamite caps, one stick of dynamite, and about 60 feet of wire and hooked the wire to the automobile generator. "He started the ignition of his auto and the dynamite blew up," Nelson said. "By this time I figured he wanted the dynamite for something else than blowing tree stumps like he told me earlier." Nelson was arrested Monday and charged with the Sunday robbery of $7,400 from a Houston food market. Heard said, however, he and Detective H. K. Thompson had received tips prior to Nelson's arrest that the former convict was involved in the Weaver case. The new developments broke late yesterday afternoon. As detectives and rangers left for Rosenberg last night with Nelson, Heard announced "we now know who set the bomb" that killed Mrs. Weaver. Officers said Nelson, under a burglary charge, was first linked with the Weaver case by tips supplied Detective H. K. Thompson and Heard. Officers said Nelson was identified in Rosenberg by Allen Tittel, 26-year-old clerk, as the man who bought a quantity of explosives and detonation material. Tittel also identified from a photograph the man whom Nelson said accompanied him when he bought the bomb material. The second man, Tittel told officers, helped load the explosives in a 1953 Ford. Washburn was charged after two men told police he gave them money, guns and a car last March and told them to kill Harry E. Weaver, the slain ranchwoman's husband. The pair quoted Washburn as saying, "I'll do it myself, then," after they refused to carry out the plan.

Sheriff's Past-Due Items Studied By Grand Jury

Detailed Report Submitted On 40 Old Cases

Money due the county amounting to $3,145 in fines is shown in the report on the sheriff's office, submitted to the county commissioners court today by County Auditor Lee Porter. This figure was as of Dec. 31. A supplementary report made by Porter shows that $791.80 in fines and $51 in jail-term credits had been turned in since the first of the year. This would bring the current figure down to $2,302.20. The report is one of several covering county officers, submitted in detail by the auditor.

The figure on the sheriff's office does not include court costs involved in 40 cases cited in the report, which, Porter estimated, would average $23.85 per case, for a total of another $1,154. The cases cited in the auditor's report are listed as "fines and costs due on county court criminal cases, where judgments have been rendered." They date back to January, 1953, and run through to December, 1954. In 10 of the cases, Porter's report shows that payments have been made to the county clerk during January and February of 1955, totaling $791.80. The amount due on these 10, according to Porter, is $1,154. In two of the cases, notation is made for jail credit, $27 for one case and $24 for another. In the other, eight, Porter said there was no notation as to jail credit, and he could not so record it. Standard practice is for the county to credit $3 per day jail term on fines; however, Porter said full notation had not reached his office covering length of jail times served. His records, thus, show amounts outstanding. The auditor's report in the 40 cases shows docket number, date of the case, name of defendant, nature of the offense, judgment handed down, and the arrest and release dates of those sentenced.

COLD FRONT MOVES IN Highways In Panhandle Are Covered With Ice

By The Associated Press Highways in the northern Texas Panhandle were coated with ice Thursday as a Pacific cold front brought freezing drizzle to the northwestern part of the state. The State Highway Department at Austin said ice has made driving hazardous in these areas: All highways north of the Canadian River in the Panhandle were reported covered with ice. To the south, roads between Tulla and Platavia also were icy. The front is expected to bring freezing rain or snow as deep as the upper part of South Texas by Friday morning. At mid-morning, the front extended from northwestern Oklahoma southwest across the Panhandle and into the Big Bend country of West Texas. The temperature at Dalhart had risen only a degree from its overnight low of 24. Freezing drizzle fell on both Dalhart and Amarillo. Light rain was reported at Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Childress, Laredo and Longview. Occasional showers are expected over all of the state except the far west. The weather bureau said the front probably will reach East Texas by daybreak Friday. Behind the front skies are expected to clear. Forecasts call for 18 to 26-degree lows in the Texas Panhandle, South Plains and upper Red River Valley area Thursday night or early Friday. The only measurable precipitation in the past 24 hours was .19 inch at Laredo and .02 at Dalhart.

Temperatures Run Below Zero In New York, New England

By The Associated Press A flow of arctic air extended over broad areas of the nation today from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Coast with the most severe cold in the northeastern section. New York City and other Eastern cities reported the coldest weather of the season, with temperatures at zero in the Metropolitan area. An unofficial low of -38 was reported in the village of Beekmantown, in northeastern New York. New York City, hit yesterday by winter's heaviest fall of snow, 3.7 inches, was numbed by the first zero temperatures in seven years. It was a new low for Feb. 3, 1948, when the mercury also dropped to zero. It was I above in Newark, N.J., a new low for the date; Boston was a little colder with -1. It was -23 in Newport, Vt. and -20 in Burlington and Montpelier, Vt. New York state reported these sub-zero marks: Watertown -25; Massena -22; Albany -18; Glens Falls -15; Poughkeepsie and Binghamton -18; Utica -15, Syracuse -11, and Elmira -10.

JAPS ENTER JET AIR AGE

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese colonel and a major yesterday officially brought their country into the jet air age with solo flights in U.S. T33 trainers at an air base in southern Japan. The Far East air forces today said Lt. Col. Masanobu Ibusuki and Maj. Shoji Matsumura stayed aloft about an hour without incident. Capt. Stanley E. ### TENTATIVE ARRANGEMENTS McMorries May Plead Guilty To Some Of Counts Saturday

STANTON — Under tentative agreements, former Martin County Judge James McMorries may come into 32nd District Court in Sweetwater Saturday morning with pleas of guilty to some of the 13 indictments charging misappropriation of Martin County funds. McMorries has appealed his conviction on a case in which he received a five year sentence. This was for taking of Grady Independent School district funds for his personal use. The appeal would not be affected. "It's purely tentative," said Martin County Attorney Ralph Caton. "We did talk with Davis Scarborough (defense attorney) Wednesday. Although Scarborough had proposed that pleas of guilty would be entered in two other cases in return for a state recommendation of two years to run concurrently in each case, he pointed out that the imposing of the term was purely in the hands of Judge A. S. Mahon. Eldon Mahon, Colorado City, the 32nd district attorney, said he had emphasized that the court was in no way involved or bound by any recommendation the state might make. Another point stressed in nego-

Delinquent Fines Shown In Audit

The grand jury this morning was asked to investigate what appeared to be delinquencies in the audit of collections of fines and court costs through the sheriff's department. County commissioners referred the county's annual audit to the grand jury on recommendation of the county attorney when it appeared that some fines and court costs assessed over a two-year period remain uncollected. Sheriff Jess Slaughter went before the grand jury about 11 a.m. to explain his bookkeeping system and policies regarding the release

Communist Hungary Frees American Woman's Deaf Son

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Communist Hungary released an American woman's 18-year-old deaf-mute son from behind the Iron Curtain today after long years of petitions by the mother. In a tearful reunion in Vienna after five years apart, Mrs. William Brooks, of Washington, D.C., and Great Neck, N.Y., declared: "This is the happiest day of my life." Mrs. Brooks said she had been petitioning the Communists to let her have her Hungarian-born son Peter Predic since soon after she left him in Budapest in 1949. A former Hungarian actress, she had escaped from communism and left the boy—a childhood victim of maldietitis—with friends. After immigrating to Canada and then to the United States, she married William Brooks, an engineer attached to the Sperry Corp. on Long Island and now assigned in Europe for two years. It was her second marriage. Mrs. Brooks said she believed the Communists finally freed her son only because he was unfit for military service.

tations was that the case now on appeal would not be pulled down. The defense is seeking reversal, but the state feels it has a case with a good chance to stand up. If it stands, the sentence would have to be served in addition to the ones imposed on guilty pleas. "I don't know just what cases would be involved," Caton said. "That's something that would be decided Saturday at 10 a.m. when the matter comes up in court. We have reached no decision on this." Elton Gilliland, Big Spring, who worked on most of the cases as former 118th district attorney and took a lead in the prosecution of McMorries, said he had been contacted but would be unable to be present in Sweetwater because of previous commitments. The proposal to enter pleas was advanced in a rapid, surprise move Wednesday, he said. Mahon indicated Thursday morning that if pleas are entered, there will be none of the original fence post" case which ended in a mistrial when the father of one of the jurors died suddenly. This is the case in which McMorries was alleged to have drawn money for the right-of-way fence posts which the state said were never bought. McMorries said he had obtained posts of some prisoners prior to full payment of fines and costs. The grand jury recessed for lunch without completing its interview with the sheriff. The session was to be resumed this afternoon. He told three commissioners and a Herald reporter just before going into the grand jury room that there probably is $2,500 in the safe in his office. This represents payments on fines, etc., which some offenders have made since their release from jail. Slaughter said he keeps each individual's payments in an envelope in his safe until the entire amount of the fine and costs is paid off. The audit, submitted to commissioners by County Auditor Lee Porter, showed $2,302.20 outstanding at present on fines assessed during 1953 and 1954. An estimated $1,150 also is outstanding on court costs assessed during the same period, Porter said. Actually, the audit showed $3,145 due on fines as of Jan. 1, but the auditor attached a supplemental report showing that $791.80 has been on the fines this year. Also credited since Jan. 1 was $51 in jail time.

Porter's audit also covered other departments of the county government, excepting the tax collector's office. The auditor explained that audit of records in this office is being postponed because it is now the tax collecting season and the audit would interfere with operation of the office. He said tax office records probably will be audited in March. The auditor said records in all other offices were found to be in order, except that a final accounting remains to be made with former Justice of the Peace Cecil Nabors. He said the county owes some money to Nabors and that the former justice, who resigned Nov. 15, apparently owes a small amount to the county.

Commissioners received the annual audit and the annual financial report at the same time this morning. Porter said the audit had been made in "a little more detail than usual." He said that in determining the amount of outstanding fines and court costs he checked the court dockets by case number, getting the judgments and cross-checking with the sheriff's docket. He explained that all fines and court costs are paid to the sheriff and that the funds are then turned by the sheriff to the county clerk who issues receipts and turns the funds over to the treasurer. Porter said he had called the auditor's attention to the apparent delinquencies on about three occasions, furnishing the official with a list of names, case numbers and dates, and the amount due. He stated that in the last few weeks the sheriff has brought in fines on a number of the cases. County Judge R. H. Weaver said it is "probably customary" for the sheriff's department to release prisoners and accept payments for fines, etc., by installments. The judge pointed out that after a judgment is entered in a case, the defendant is remanded to custody of the sheriff's department where he is to either pay any penalty and costs or lay that

Many Farm Prices Gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report showed today that despite a general decline in farm product prices in 1954, returns farmers received for many commodities averaged higher than in 1953.

Average prices received for wheat, cotton, corn, peanuts, crude pine gum, soybeans, hay seed, crops, hogs, potatoes, hops, grapefruit and pecans were higher than in 1953.

The report said wheat farmers — plagued by a record high surplus of their grain — received an average of $3.05 a bushel last year compared with $1.99 in 1953. The highest average price ever received for this grain was $2.35 in 1947, a postwar year marked by a serious world shortage.

Cotton brought an average of 32.40 cents a pound last year compared with 31.58 in 1953 and the postwar high of 39.68 in 1951, also a year of short world supplies.

A number of farm products changed little in their average prices during the two years. They included flaxseed, oats, apples, beef cattle, calves, lambs, sheep and wool.

Commodities that lost most ground in average prices included rice, butterfat, milk, barley, dry beans, cottonseed, rye, grain sorghum, sweet potatoes, poultry, eggs, oranges, lemons, sugar cane, sugar beets, walnuts, and most fruits and vegetables.

Truman Suggests World Work For Peace Is Necessity

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former President Truman, urging the world to work for the brotherhood of man, said last night, "If peace doesn't come, there will be no world left."

"We are facing the greatest age in history," Truman said. "We must meet it. All we need to do is meet the situation with which we are faced, and we should meet it on the principles of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

"If peace doesn't come, there will be no world left. You are listening to one who knows what he is talking about and I say that advisedly."

Truman, later in his speech, said he had reference to the use of atomic energy. He was the main speaker at a testimonial dinner honoring the Rev. Dr. Harold L. Reader, a fellow 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason.

Talking with reporters after the dinner, Truman wouldn't comment on the Formosan situation "as a matter of policy," but said reporters could say he didn't appear worried about the Pacific.

"The man in the White House has my sincere sympathy," he said.

British Government Denies Effective Air Cover Missing

LONDON (AP) — Britain's government denied an opposition charge yesterday that defective fighter "Janes" and a lagging guided missile program have left Britain with "no air defense whatever."

Laborite Woodrow Wyatt touched off the exchange in the House of Commons, demanding, "When is it expected that defects in the Hunter fighter, which causes engines to stall when guns are fired, will be cured?"

George Ward, undersecretary of state for war, admitted that the Royal Air Force Hunter — only faster-than-sound jet fighter available to the RAF in squadron strength — has developed "bugs" in simulated combat.

"It may be necessary to make certain modifications," Ward said, "but as it is, the Hunter is a formidable aircraft and could go into action tomorrow."

Schmidt, 54, retired last August and died Nov. 21. Three-fourths of the estate goes to his daughter with the remainder left in trust for his widow.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With both political parties planning a shorter presidential campaign in 1956, AFL leaders expect an earlier start in trying to whip up political interest among workers.

Union chiefs of the 10-million-member AFL plan to devote today's session of their winter meetings to mapping strategy for next year's election campaign.

James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Education, the AFL's political arm, said that if the two parties hold 1956 nominating conventions in August as indicated, instead of July as in 1952, the AFL will step up its vote-getting drive.

Egg Producer Prepares To Raise Own Chicks As Economy Move

By JESS BLAIR

Ed Fisher has built a new brooder house at his Fisher's Fowl Farm, a mile and half south of Elbow. He says it is cheaper and more satisfactory to raise chicks from one day old than to buy them at a month or six weeks of age.

Hatcheries charge about 17 cents each for keeping the chicks the extra weeks. Fisher thinks they can be raised in brooder houses here for around 10 cents.

He plans to buy about 400 baby chicks every six weeks so he will have a steady stream of replacements for the culled hens. He says another thing local poultry men have learned is that only first year pullets make money. They can be made to lay at 70 per cent production, while the second year hens will barely reach 50 per cent.

Ed thinks 1955 might be a better year for eggs, because hatchery orders have been cut back about 25 per cent from last year.

In the Tarzan Community they gave part of the credit for their high cotton yields to a man who moved away from there several years ago. He is Oswald Hayden who was one of the irrigation pioneers of that area. He had an idea that one could put production into the soil. That is, if the soil would normally make a bale of cotton per acre, a farmer could put enough plant food in the form of fertilizer, and with intensive farming make it grow maybe two bales.

Rubbish Can Issue Causes Woman's Quizzing By Police

DETROIT (AP) — For lack of an adequate rubbish can, Mrs. Shirley Ann Duckett, 24, was haled into a police station yesterday.

"They shot questions at me like it was the third degree," Mrs. Duckett protested. "Just like I'd committed some sort of a crime."

She said police fingerprinted her, asked her if her parents were born in the United States, if she or her husband ever had been arrested, requested her height and weight, and made her sign her name.

Then they threatened to lock her up, she said, until her scheduled court appearance today. Her three young daughters accompanied her to headquarters in a police cruiser.

Police said Mrs. Duckett was warned last July to get an adequate rubbish can and to maintain her half of the alley in a sanitary manner. She was ticketed in November and the warrant was signed in January.

But the petite young wife of a salesman, just back from a long Miami vacation, said she bought a new rubbish can two months ago so she threw the November ticket away.

"Besides," she added, "there's a woman down the street who doesn't even have a rubbish can."

Disputed Charolais Cattle Are Moved Back Into Mexico

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP) — A herd of rare French cattle, whose illegal entry into the United States two years ago brought demands from 16 states that they be deported finally were shunted back into Mexico yesterday.

The valuable herd of white Charolais cattle crossed the border in five trailer trucks yesterday, bound for the 275-acre El Fortin Ranch of Maxie Michaelis of Eagle Pass, about 190 miles in the interior.

Michaelis, asked if he had bought them all, would say only that "they're going to my ranch, that's all."

Mexican government agencies in Mexico City claimed the herd eventually would wind up on an experimental farm near the Mexican capital.

Trinidad Has Royal Holiday

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—Trinidad took a royal holiday today to watch Princess Margaret tour this capital city. Early birds staked out claims to sidewalk vantage points for her state drive, with thousands expected to jam the route.

The princess, who landed in Trinidad Tuesday to begin a month-long tour of the British West Indies, was given a preview last night of the islands' gala carnival later this month.

Almost 800 singers and dancers appeared in the hour performance that followed a big reception at Government House. Margaret tapped her feet to the rhythm of a Calypso song written and sung in her honor by Vernon Roberts, nicknamed "Mighty Panther."

The last guest Margaret greeted at the reception was James Byran, of Dillon, S.C., who came to Trinidad in 1941 as an American soldier and stayed. Byran, who is crippled, was sitting in a wheelchair. The crowd applauded as the princess first passed by, then turned and walked up to him.

Milton Eisenhower Urges Latin Economic Progress

By BRUCE HENDERSON
DALLAS (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower says Communism hasn't a chance in Latin America as long as its people "can achieve their just economic aspirations."

How the United States is helping along this line is expected to take up much of a speech tonight by Dr. Eisenhower, adviser to his brother, the President, on Latin America.

The talk has been billed as a major review of U.S. policy in Latin America. President Eisenhower himself announced at a news conference Jan. 12 Milton would make the speech here to the Dallas Council on World Affairs.

In 1953 Milton, president of Pennsylvania State University, toured South America. He recommended to the President stable and consistent trade policies, stockpiling strategic commodities to keep prices up to producing nations, substantial public and private capital loans, expanded technical help and revised tax laws to encourage U.S. investment overseas.

Dr. Eisenhower was asked at a news conference after his arrival yesterday whether he was satisfied with the way his proposals have been received. He said, "I am most assuredly pleased with the progress we've made in the last year and a half."

America can achieve their just economic aspirations, Communism won't have a chance," he added. Dr. Eisenhower said that despite recent turbulence in Central America this hemisphere's record of settling disputes peacefully "is a model for the world."

Why Formosa Is Vital In Far East

Today is the tenth anniversary of General MacArthur's triumphant re-entry into Manila, two years and nine months after surrender of the U.S. forces to the Japanese. Except for sporadic last-ditch fighting that lasted for days in some parts of the city, the Americans had gained effective control by February 5.

That is an anniversary of special interest today when there is so much world excitement over the fate of Formosa. Japan "owned" Formosa from 1895 to 1945, having taken it from the Chinese. Had Japan not controlled the island it is altogether possible the Pacific war starting in December, 1941, would never have started at all.

For Formosa is the strategic key to the Far Pacific, and if Japan had not already controlled the island it would have been necessary for her to reduce it before launching into the Philippines and Southeast Asia and then on to the South Pacific.

In short, Formosa is the most important single strategic prize in the Western Pacific today as it was in 1941. In control of our friends it guards the Philippines, Okinawa, Japan and South Korea. In the hands of our enemies it would be a fatal fault in our defense chain stretching from the Aleutians through Japan, across Okinawa and on to the Philippines.

It is recognition of this simple fact that caused our government to take such extraordinary actions regarding Formosa, starting with President Truman's "Cordon sanitaire" drawn around the island the day after the Reds invaded South Korea, and continuing to last week when Congress specifically granted President Eisenhower authority to do anything he thinks necessary in defending the island.

We must keep Formosa out of the hands of the Chinese Communists at all costs. The only alternative would be its neutralization under a U.N. trusteeship under supervision of the U.S.A. We could settle for nothing less. Our entire present and future position in the Western Pacific depends on denying the Chinese Communists outright possession of Formosa.

Ingenious Parking Devices

Ingenious Melbourne, Australia, plans to roof over 80 acres of railway tracks and use the roof as parking lots for 5,000 automobiles, thus getting some use out of property otherwise of no use in solving the parking problem.

But in Pretoria, South Africa, H. Gillam Scott, that city's traffic chief, has bent a few brain waves around the same problem and come up with a switch on the parking meter system now in use throughout the world.

Mr. Scott would do away with conventional parking meters entirely. He would substitute a 3x3 gadget attached to a car's instrument panel. The car's owner would pay the city for a certain amount of parking time and set the meter gadget accordingly. When he parks, he would turn on the meter with a special key and it would mark the time until he came back and used the same key to stop it preparatory to driving away. This meter time would be cumulative, and when the motorist had used up his money's worth he'd have to start all over again by paying a new fee.

Police checking cars would tag only those with no meters, with meters showing purchased time had run out, or with meters not turned on.

Presumably motorists so equipped would be anxious to get back to their cars as quickly as possible, and thus save their boughten time. Unfortunately the Pretoria dispatch neglected to tell us what safeguards the city would have against scheming motorists not above tinkering with the meter's innards, or turning it back.

Well, these two items from farflung parts of the British Empire show that somebody is thinking about the parking problem besides Americans, and quite possibly might eventually come up with something really practical: how to find a parking place when you need it most.

Sooner or later, of course, there will be only one answer to that headache — off-street parking either on rooftops, in underground facilities, or some mechanical gadget that would stack cars like cordwood.

The Risks We Take With China

It is impossible to take any position concerning China without taking a serious risk of further disturbance or even war. These are the possibilities:

1. We have drawn a publicly indefinite line beyond which, in effect, we have served notice that the Red Chinese may not go;
2. They can move beyond their interpretation of that line and we might then either clarify the line or recede to another line;
3. Or we may hold the line which is undoubtedly clearer in the minds of the President and the State Department than of the American people;
4. We could end this situation by either giving Red China a seat in the United Nations or by the recognition of Red China by the United States of both;
5. We could withdraw from our guardianship over Formosa and the Pescadores;
6. We could defend Formosa and the Pescadores by attacking the provinces of Chekiang, Fukien and Kwangtung;
7. We might adopt the British plan of recognizing two Chinas, the People's Republic on the mainland and the Republic of Formosa.

Each step herewith outlined involves a serious risk and the possibility of war. Behind the Chinese Communists are a hundred years of antagonism to the "white man." This psychological complication makes the Chinese situation different from any European situation, even as between Germany and France. To the Chinese — and it makes little difference which kind of Chinese or other Asiatic — the slightest victory over the "white man" is emotionally so elevating that it may at times appear juvenile.

Behind every act of the Chinese Reds is this Asiatic emotion and it is one reason why the Chinese Communists at Panmunjom were so arrogant. It is the reason for the dirty trick of withholding some of our troops as hostages in violation of the Truce of Panmunjom.

The Chinese tasted blood in the Korean and Indo-Chinese wars. The "white man" was defeated in both these wars, the Americans in Korea, the French in Indo-China. From the American standpoint, the Korean War was unfortunate but it was not a major catastrophe; for the Chinese Communists, it was one of the greatest victories in the history of that country. The Chinese defeated the Americans; as a result of that war the greatest of American generals was dismissed from his post. It was not only a military victory; it was evidence that a new day had dawned in Asia. From that day, Chou En-lai began to compete with Nehru for the leadership of the Asiatic peoples. He had gained "face."

Whether the outstanding problems between Red China and the United States can be settled without a shooting war, largely depends upon historic accidents. Surely Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai are working themselves into the kind of frenzy which was exhibited in the Boxer Rebellion and the Students Movement and in the various boycott movements — mass hysteria which is a expense to the challenge of racial inferiority.

It is difficult for most Americans to understand the depth of emotions concerning race unless they have witnessed it themselves. They are not conscious of race and therefore assume that all racial protests against an assertion of superiority are exaggerated. But in any Asiatic country, particularly China, the racial question looms large even among those who may, for one reason or another, be friendly to Westerners. It is impossible for a Chinese to acknowledge "white" superiority. It is impossible for him not to be offended by the notion that Western civilization, a comparatively young manifestation in human culture, is superior to the age-old civilization of China.

Our incapacity for dealing with the Red Chinese since 1945 has only convinced them how right they are because they know what they have put over on us.

Potomac Fever

WASHINGTON—Army Secretary Stevens defends cuts in the size of the Army. It's American sportsmanship. If the Reds insist on fighting little wars—we'll fight 'em with little armies.

Gen. Ridgway opposes Ike's reduction of the Army. Phone call to the Pentagon from the White House: "Col. Ridgway, please. . . Hello, Maj. Ridgway?"

He asks more federal aid for health. The best thing the Government could do for our health is to quit undermining it at income tax time.

The Supreme Court rules that pro baseball is a sport, but pro boxing is a business. The Justices like the uproar at a ball game, but at a prize fight, they can't stand the racket.

Farm Secretary Benson says the only way to solve the farm problem is for people to eat more. The trouble is women. The only reason a teen-age girl eats heartily today is so she can grow up fast and go on a diet.

The Chinese Reds threaten to stop us from evacuating the Tachen Islands. What a world! Now the other guy wants to make us fight for the privilege of giving him some more real estate.

He wants more research on the smog problem. It's easy to spot industrial progress these days. You know a city is thriving when you can drive through it without seeing it.

Formosa Resolution Does Double Duty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower killed two birds with one stone — at least temporarily — when he asked for, and got, congressional approval to defend Formosa and the Pescadores islands as he thinks best.

The birds were (1) the demands of some Republicans, like Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), for stronger action against Red China and (2) the old question of the President's power to take action which might lead to war.

Persons familiar with the administration's thinking have been saying around Washington the President's request for the resolution has had a quieting effect on those Republicans who didn't consider him tough enough on the Reds.

Knowland, who has repeatedly called for a blockade of the China coast, supported the resolution. But if there is any real Republican unity on Formosa policy now, it will almost certainly dissolve if, for instance, Knowland thinks Eisenhower uses this resolution to make concessions to the Reds, instead of stiff-arming them.

The resolution, with language both broad and vague, sounds tough. Under it Eisenhower could order the bombing of Red China, even if it meant war, if he felt that was necessary to frustrate an attack on Formosa.

The resolution is clear on only one thing: that this country will specifically defend Formosa and the Pescadores. But that has already been the clearly stated American policy for five years under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

The resolution says Eisenhower can take action to defend other areas around Formosa, now held by Chiang Kai-shek. Or, since the resolution says nothing to the contrary, Eisenhower could let the Reds have those other areas without a fight from this country.

Eisenhower was quizzed closely at his news conference yesterday about his intentions on defending Chiang's islands near the China mainland. He declined to be any more specific than the resolution.

There has always been a constitutional question, going back to the Republic's beginning, about this:

The Constitution says only Congress can declare war. But can a president actually get the country into war, thus making the actual declaration by Congress only a recognition of an accomplished fact?

Presumably a president could, by some action of his, plunge the country into war. Congress has been a check on any president's warming inclinations.

The reason Congress could refuse to back up a president with a declaration of war after he had started one, it's always been a thin line. The problem has become more acute in the atomic age when, to save the country, the President might have to act before Congress had time to approve.

In the case of Formosa, where war may or may not come, Eisenhower got an okay from Congress before he had to act. But this authority is limited to Formosa and expires when the Formosa problem is settled, if it's settled.

Nature's Freedom Welcome

NEW YORK (AP)—The snow is falling outside my window, softening this harsh jungle town with its white feathers.

Each year I enjoy snowfalls more, because they arrive by the free will of heaven and wear no man's label.

Nature has been put in harness in so many ways by man that it still is pleasant to some of her wayward children to see the old girl kick up her heels and show she has a mind of her own.

Snowfalls and rain still have an emotional quality for mankind because they still have the freshness of surprise. They are awesome too, because they are still wild and free demonstrations of a massive power that yet lies beyond our ability to control.

But how long will this last? "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it," said the Hartford Courant in 1860. No, Mark Twain didn't write it. His friend, Charles Warner did.

The remark is no longer true. The trouble with the weather today is that too many people are trying to do something about it.

One of man's oldest dreams is the wish to control climate and the weather. It might be a fine thing to be able to make the Sahara Desert bloom, although you might get an argument from the people who live there and prefer to keep their desert untamed.

It would be a fine thing also to avert the disasters caused by hurricanes, hailstorms, tornadoes and floods.

But there is considerable doubt that if man had the ability to muscle the weather around as he chose it would prove an unalloyed boon.

Book Circulation Up In January, Librarian Says

A total of 4,439 books were checked out by the Howard County Library in January, according to Librarian Opal McDaniel. Although the library staff was busy all month completing the cataloging of the library's books, a record amount of circulation was tabulated in the files, she said.

Over half of the books checked out were to adults. Mrs. McDaniel said adult books checked out totaled 2,530. Of these, 2,105 were fiction and the rest, 418, were non-fiction.

There were 1,919 juvenile books checked out she said. Fiction accounted for 1,272 of these books and nonfiction 283. Very small children's books totaled 264 for the month.

Fines for books which were kept out too long totaled $63.55, the librarian said.

The librarian purchased 88 books during the month and 23 books were donated to the library by Big Spring citizens. These additions bring the library to 11,530 volumes.

Limits Passover Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Service Commission announced today a new rule barring federal agencies from passing over eligible veterans and giving jobs to nonveterans approved on the list without the approval of the commission.

The commission must find that the reasons for a passover justify such action.

Desert Metropolis

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Paotow, which stands on the east edge of the Gobi (desert) in Inner Mongolia, is being transformed into a large industrial city, say Japanese repatriates just back from Red China. They estimate that more than 40,000 engineers and laborers are being sent monthly to the old desert terminal of the railway leading up from Peiping.

Material is rushed by truck up two new asphalt roads. Soviet technicians have moved in. The object is to use iron ore and coal in the region, the repatriates say. A railway linking Paotow directly to Siberia is under construction.

The Japanese estimate that the population of Paotow, former capital of Inner Mongolia, had increased 10-fold since the Reds took over to about 500,000.

Unintelligibility Bureaucrat's Refuge

Reporter Glenn Coates and I were talking the other day about how difficult it is to take one of those government "news releases" and write an intelligent news story.

Those things are sort of like the instructions they pass out with the income tax report blanks. You get the impression that there's something they want to say, but that they know it isn't safe to put the message in concrete terms. It's simpler terms—it just won't do to get pinned down.

The upshot of this discussion with Colleague Coates was that he remembered reading a book, one time, in which the author sought to display the real force of the English language. The author, Stuart Chase, entitled his work "The Power of Words," and in it he took to task some of the compounders of high-sounding phrases.

Coates also happened to recall a passage from the book. It was in the chapter on "gobbledygook" and anybody who ever read the income tax instruction booklet will understand just what the plumber (and reporters) are up against. We quote: "A New York plumber wrote the Bureau of Standards in Washington that he had found hydrochloric acid fine for cleaning drains, and was it harmless?"

"Washington replied: 'The efficacy of hydrochloric acid is indisputable, but the chlorine residue is incompatible with metallic permanence.'

"The plumber wrote back that he was mighty glad the Bureau agreed with him. The Bureau replied with a note of alarm: 'We cannot assume responsibility for the production of toxic and noxious residues with hydrochloric acid, and suggest that you use an alternate procedure.' The plumber was happy to learn that the Bureau still agreed with him.

"Whereupon Washington exploded: 'Don't use hydrochloric acid. It eats hell out of the pipes!'"

Wallace Didn't Want To Be Quoted

Typical of the stories about the visionary politics of Henry A. Wallace while he was vice president was the wisecrack gag someone got off while Wallace was visiting a couple of days in Austin.

Wallace, according to this, was credited with proposing that we give "a quart of milk a day to every Hottentot."

This joke credited Wallace with retorting: "I didn't say a quart of milk for every Hottentot. I said cream."

I have recounted Wallace's strange course during that Austin visit of getting off his feeble little crack in a speech to 1,500 at the University, at the "University of Texas," and his bothering to deny it later, from New York.

There is also the little episode of Wallace's case of jitters while in Austin, though it is so trivial probably not even Harold L. Ickes would have included it in his diary:

Wallace, still vice president and before he became the temporary captive candidate of the radicals, was making a speech, with Mayor Tom Miller his official host, and paying the bill.

Wallace got strung off on the astounding progress Russia was making, in which he said it was getting ahead of the United States in both agriculture and industry. It wasn't anything startling, though disparaging to this country. "I hope this particular remark will not be quoted," he said.

As he went on, newsmen continued to make notes. Suddenly Wallace stopped, turned to Mayor Miller, apparently much agitated, and said: "Mayor, that can't be quoted. They're writing it down. Please stop them . . . See that they don't put that in the papers . . ."

Robert Young 'Works' The ICC?

It certainly takes the Interstate Commerce Commission a long time to make up its mind on a simple question. Back in June, Robert R. Young, now chairman of the board of New York Central Railroad, asked the ICC to hold off. Maybe hold on would be the better phrase.

Young was then, as now, chairman of Allegheny Corp., an investment trust which responds to Young's touch like a violin to Menuhin's bow string. Young had sold out Allegheny's holdings of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway to the Cyrus S. Eaton interests of Cleveland. At that point, Allegheny Corp. ceased to be a railroad holding company, which wasn't to Young's liking.

It meant that the ICC no longer had jurisdiction over Young and Allegheny. It meant that the Securities & Exchange Commission would become supervisor of his operations, which would cramp his investment style. So, Young asked the ICC to hold off in releasing him to SEC.

Young had been in the habit of making deals with business associates and even with himself, which, under the Investment Company Act, would be subject to SEC review. Once, for example, he swapped Allegheny Corp. preferred stock which he owned for stock of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., which Allegheny owned. The ICC didn't say boo. Nor was it supposed to.

agreement to sell control of Investor Diversified Services to associates of Clint W. Murchison, Texas Oil millionaire, who has been in several joint ventures with Young and Allegheny.

Murchison is a director of New York Central Railroad. Young claims that Allegheny Corp. now controls New York Central. This control is the basis for his argument that Allegheny is a railroad holding company and therefore subject to ICC regulation and exempt from the scrutinious clutches of the SEC.

As a director of New York Central, Murchison would be an "affiliate" of Allegheny Corp., because of Allegheny's alleged control of Central. So, the Investors Diversified transaction would be subject to an SEC veto or may under the Investment Company Act. Young would have to prove that there was proper value received.

While the ICC has fiddled, Young has put on a financial striptease. He has sold off Allegheny's holdings of Portsmouth Steel, Investors Diversified Services, and other industrial shares. Will such divestment charm the ICC into thinking the Allegheny is a bona fide railroad holding company? Arthur Wiesenberger's authoritative volume, "Investment Companies," includes Allegheny Corp. So does Moody's Investment Trust Manual. And Standard & Poor's Corp. describes Allegheny as an "investment company."

Even Lewis D. Gilbert, who was one of Young's ardent supporters in the New York Central proxy fight, is aroused by the subterfuge. Gilbert, frequently and properly referred to as America's One-Man Vigilante Committee, calls Allegheny's plea a "means to shield itself from lawful regulation under the Investment Company Act."

At one time, Allegheny's rail holdings amounted to only about one-fifth of its assets. The policy of Allegheny, under Young, is by no means set. He is in and out of situations. He can argue today he's interested in rails. But tomorrow?

The SEC has told the ICC it is prepared to assume jurisdiction. It says Allegheny behaves like an investment trust. It argues that the "overall legislative policy expressed by Congress will be best served" if it gets jurisdiction.

Desert Metropolis

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Paotow, which stands on the east edge of the Gobi (desert) in Inner Mongolia, is being transformed into a large industrial city, say Japanese repatriates just back from Red China. They estimate that more than 40,000 engineers and laborers are being sent monthly to the old desert terminal of the railway leading up from Peiping.

Material is rushed by truck up two new asphalt roads. Soviet technicians have moved in. The object is to use iron ore and coal in the region, the repatriates say. A railway linking Paotow directly to Siberia is under construction.

The Japanese estimate that the population of Paotow, former capital of Inner Mongolia, had increased 10-fold since the Reds took over to about 500,000.

Pigeon Shortage?

MIAMISBURG, Ohio (AP)—There must be a shortage of pigeons in Silver Springs, Ky., says Irvin Egelus, safety-service director here. He said he had hired a Silver Springs man to rid the business district here of troublesome flocks of pigeons, and the man reported he will take them to his home town.

Offers Good Advice

"Rest and relaxation are real beauty assets," says Allied Artists' star Marian Carr, as she takes a breather on the set. The popular actress, in an interview with Lydia Lane, also talks about exercises for the bustline.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Has Simple Exercises For Firming Bustlines

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD—Marian Carr established herself in Hollywood several years ago, then deserted her career for marriage. Now she has returned to her first love and Hollywood has given her a warm reception. She has made three pictures in rapid fire succession, the latest being "The Indestructible Man" with Lon Chaney, Jr. for Allied Artists Studio.

I found Marian in her dressing room, stretched out on an upside-down board, when I kept our appointment at the studio.

"When I take a break," she told me, "I find I can relax more quickly this way."

"I think rest and relaxation are real beauty assets," she continued. "But relaxation is two-dimensional. You can't really banish body tension unless you remove mental tension first. It isn't always easy to do but it certainly improves your looks and your health if you can learn how NOT to get tied up in knots."

"There have been several books written on the subject of relaxation," I volunteered. "I think people are beginning to recognize its value."

"Yes," Marian agreed. "I read 'The Art of Relaxation' not too long ago and I learned a great deal from it. There are so many different ways to relax, depending on your particular nervous system."

On a chair beside Marian were two curious looking dumb-bells with flat weights.

"I call these my beauty bells," she said laughingly as she picked one up. "I use them to hold that bustline."

"I exercise with them every other day—one day to build and the next day to rest. I have three exercises that I do faithfully."

Holding a five-pound weight in each hand, she proceeded to demonstrate.

"I lie on the floor like this, my spine relaxed, and stretch my arms sideways in what is known as the crucifix position."

She then raised her arms so that they were perpendicular to her body, keeping her elbows straight, held them that way for a moment then lowered them to the original position. She repeated this 12 times.

"The second is done still lying on the floor," she continued.

"This time I start out with my arms at my side, close to the body, raise them slowly above my head until they are perpendicular as in the first exercise and lower them back to the first position. I do this 12 times also."

"That's a curious number," I commented.

"Yes," she agreed, "but the routine was worked out scientifically to firm the breast muscles and this rhythm seems to get excellent results."

She proceeded to do the third exercise for me, in the same position on the floor. She picked up a weight in each hand.

"Bend your elbows so the weight is over each shoulder. The upper part should be against your body. Lift the elbows as high off the floor as you can, feeling a pull as you go up. Hold a moment and then lower to original position. And do this one 12 times, too."

MORE BUST EXERCISES Try Marian's exercises if you want to improve your bustline. And if you want more information on this subject, why not order a copy of leaflet M-33, "Marilyn Monroe's Own Exercise Routine." Marilyn tells you how to keep breasts firm and uplifted, how to prevent flabby upper arms and how to streamline legs and ankles. Get your copy by sending only 5 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald. Remember to ask for leaflet M-33.

Macaroni Hint

Keep this recipe handy when you are cooking elbow macaroni. Add a tablespoon of salt to three-quarters of boiling water; add one-half pound (2 cups) of elbow macaroni slowly so that the water continues to boil. Stir occasionally but do not cover. Cook only until just tender—eight or nine minutes. This makes about four cups of cooked macaroni.

American And Indian To Head Atom Meet

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
 UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—An American and an Indian will be top men at the first world scientific conference of atoms-for-peace in Geneva next August. The U.N.-sponsored pact will disclose scientists' estimates of the prospects for nuclear power in the next 25 to 50 years.

The American, Walter Gordon Whitman, 39, of Concord, Mass., will be the secretary general, in charge of arrangements. He is a pioneer researcher in aircraft propulsion for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, member of the AEC's General Advisory Committee and director of the Defense Department's research board.

Homi Jehangir Bhabha, 45, of Bombay, chairman of India's Atomic Energy Commission and secretary of its Department of Atomic Energy, will be conference president, empowered to rule out political discussion.

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced their appointments last night in letters inviting 84 countries—10 of them Communist—to send five official delegates each to the congress.

He enclosed an agenda and rules for the "International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy," to start Aug. 8 in the old League of Nations Palace and last 12 working days.

The rules, formulated by a seven-nation advisory committee of scientists which met here Jan. 17-28, specify that the conference is for exchange of information only.

One provision reads: "No proposals requiring adoption by voting shall be submitted or entertained by the conference."

The committee also agreed that the conference proceedings will be published.

To guard against the propaganda exchanges which have impeded so many postwar international conferences, the rules also provide that reports will be "presented only from the scientific and technical points of view," and that the President "may call a speaker to order if his remarks are not relevant."

Hammarskjöld also sent with the invitations an announcement that the Soviet Union plans to report to the conference on "the U.S.S.R.'s first atomic power plant for industrial purposes and methods of developing atomic power."

The Russians say they began operating such a plant, generating 5,000 kilowatts of electricity, last summer.

The United States already is producing electricity at two small experimental plants, one at the AEC's reactor testing station in Idaho and the other at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The U. N. General Assembly called for the conference in a resolution adopted unanimously last Dec. 4 as the outgrowth of President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" speech a year earlier.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

While writing about the history of the automobile, these questions have come to my mind:

"When is an invention really made? Is it when a man figures out a way to meet a problem, or when he makes an actual, working machine which does something by a new method?"

This Selden automobile was built to prove a point during a lawsuit.

Those points are of special importance when we consider the gasoline automobile. This kind of car (now far the most popular) came into use more than a century after the invention of the first steam automobile.

If a clear plan of an invention is enough, it seems plain that George Selden, an American, should be honored as the inventor of the gasoline type of automobile. Without building a full-sized model, he applied for a patent 75 years ago.

While Selden was searching for funds to start an automobile factory, he kept his patent application alive. A patent was granted to him by the United States 16 years after he first applied.

Several wealthy men promised to supply Selden with money for a factory, but in each case there was a failure to keep the promise. If the promise had been kept, profits of many millions of dollars probably would have been made.

Selden was a graduate of Yale, and he made his living as a lawyer. He built a gasoline engine at his own home, but waited until he was having a carriage and proved that his plan would work. The courts ruled that his patent was good for two-cylinder gasoline cars.

During the years that Selden was waiting for his patent, excellent work went on in Germany, Austria, and France. Better gasoline engines were built, and were fitted to cars.

It is hard to say which man should have the most credit for the gasoline cars which were built in Europe. Ranking high among the pioneers are three Germans—Dr. N. A. Otto, Gottlieb Daimler and Carl Benz. All of these did important work in developing the gasoline motor and the gasoline car.

Russians Use Imagination On Atoms-For-Peace Idea

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians, rather coy about taking part in President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan, are giving free rein to their imaginations about what it could mean.

For instance, a recent broadcast from Moscow monitored in Washington talks about moving mountains, reversing rivers, even melting the polar icecap.

The broadcast was based on an article by an engineer, Andrei Markin, who said Soviet scientists have taken steps in peaceful uses of atomic energy to "make it possible to rectify many defects of nature."

The article suggests that only the Communist approach will work in using atomic energy on an international scale. He says of his projects that "under capitalism they cannot be turned to practical account."

Then he says "plans exist"—without saying where—"to irrigate deserts such as the Sahara, to construct a huge hydroelectric power station in the Straits of Gibraltar, and so forth."

Markin goes on: "An even bigger scheme would be the construction of a power dam in the Bering Straits. There is also a plan to create a whole complex of projects with a view to directing the warm currents of the Pacific into the Arctic Ocean in order to raise the temperature of the areas behind the Arctic Circle."

Capt. H. E. Finnegan, who is chief of the Tides and Currents Division of the U.S. Coast Guard and Geodetic Survey, was skeptical about melting the polar ice cap.

"What happens in the rebound when the icecap's pressure eases off?" he asked.

He produced a Weather Bureau estimate that if all the world's icecaps and glaciers melted, the sea level would rise perhaps 150 feet.

That would flood San Francisco and New York, as well as Sevastopol and Vladivostok—and all other ports everywhere.

Soviet engineer Markin did not ignore his own country. Atomic explosions might blast away the canyon called Turgay Gate and "the way will be opened for the rivers of Siberia to flow southward to Central Asia and Kazakhstan," he said, adding: "The Arab steppe will become a flowering garden of bountiful fields."

Ohio County Loses Fight On U. S. Aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rebellious Harrison County, struggling four years to stay free of federal aid, has lost its fight.

The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday ruled the county must participate in a federal aid program for Ohio's totally and permanently disabled.

Harrison County's flat refusal of the money threatened to cost Ohio three million dollars a year in U.S. grants. Of the state's 88 counties, Harrison County alone remained aloof.

To officials of the coal-mining county one thing was clear—they demanded the privilege of taking care of their own. Harrison, with some 19,000 residents, is located in eastern Ohio.

County commissioners said they neither needed nor wanted the federal money. They said their handicapped were cared for under their poor relief program.

When prolonged negotiations failed, State Welfare Director Henry J. Robison turned to the state's high court. In a 5-2 decision, the court allowed Robison a writ of mandamus requiring the county to accept the federal funds. Attorneys said the amount would total about $400 a year.

In its decision, the court said: "The board statutory authority of the (welfare) department to make rules and to require accounting and reports as to persons permanently and totally disabled in the county . . . cannot be questioned by the county."

New Development In Vertical Takeoff To Be Shown Soon

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Courier-Express says the Bell Aircraft Corp. will soon unwrap a revolutionary airplane that can take off and land vertically and fly with jet speed.

Bell, the newspaper said, developed the plane at its Niagara Falls plant and has already put it through a number of test flights.

Designated the VTOL, the plane differs from other vertical takeoff planes in that it is (1) powered by jet engines and (2) lands and takes off from a normal flying position, rather than from a "tail-sitting" position.

It is powered by two Fairchild J44 turbojet engines mounted on the fuselage just under the wing, the newspaper said. The engines are swiveled at takeoff so the jets blast at the ground vertically. Once airborne, the engines are rotated close to 90 degrees to permit forward movement.

Michigan Bishop Urges Integration

DETROIT (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Michigan Episcopal diocese, has called on churches in the diocese to accept members of "every racial and cultural background."

At the annual diocesan convention, he urged the churches to do "on the basis of love" what the U.S. Supreme Court did "on the basis of law and justice." He referred to the court's ruling last year against segregated schools.

Two Guatemalans Condemned To Die

GUATEMALA (AP)—Two army men were sentenced to death yesterday by the Army War Council as ringleaders in the attempt to overthrow the government of President Carlos Castillo Armas Jan. 20.

Both the men, Capt. Fernando Montes de Oca and Cpl. Enrique Franco Pineda, pleaded innocent. Nine other defendants were acquitted. Another 453 are still jailed in connection with the uprising.

Escaped From Jail Caught In Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP)—Capture of 49-year-old R. S. Hemphill in this Texas Panhandle city yesterday completed the roundup of four men who fled the Delta, Colo., jail Monday. Hemphill, a native of Grayford, Tex., and a former Plainview resident, was arrested by two deputy sheriffs shortly after he walked out of a house and got into a stolen pickup truck. Deputy John Shropshire said he and another deputy quickly corralled the truck and Hemphill, unarmed, stepped out and surrendered.

Turkey To Go Ahead With Iraqi Alliance

By RICHARD EHRMAN
 ROME (U)—Turkish Prime Minister Adnan Menderes declared today his government will go ahead with its mutual defense alliance with Iraq despite the opposition of other Arab League countries.

Leaving for home after four days of talks with Italian officials, Menderes said other Arab nations were still welcome to join the Iraq-Turkish alliance, but we don't care about the attitude of other Arab countries, nor do we care about their reaction.

Lebanon's government announced last night that Iraqi Premier Nuri Said had agreed to meet Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser in Beirut in an effort to smooth the split in the Arab League caused by Nuri's agreement with Menderes. But in Cairo, Nasser after a meeting of the Egyptian Cabinet, said no decision had been made on whether he would meet Nuri and the Cabinet had approved Egypt's withdrawal from the Arab League if Iraq, a league member, signs the treaty with non-Arab Turkey.

Lebanese Premier Sami Solh and leaders of three other Arab nations are now in Baghdad trying to iron out the squabble. Egypt charges the proposed pact is a threat to the neutral position she contends the league should maintain in the East-West cold war.

(Some observers feel that Egypt also fears that outside alliances might threaten her position as acknowledged leader of the Arab bloc.

Egypt contends that the Arab nations should pin their defenses on their league's collective assistance pact signed in 1950. It says that since that treaty has never been implemented, she needs Turkey's strong military forces to help her guard against possible Soviet aggression.)

In their talks with the Italian leaders, Menderes and Turkish Foreign Minister Fuat Koprulu discussed the possibility of Turkey's joining the projected Western European Union and Italy's inclusion in the Balkan "Little Three" alliance of Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia.

Both Menderes and Italian Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino made plain at an airfield press conference today that further talks would have to be held before any step in strengthening the Western defense chain could be taken.

Menderes said Yugoslavia and Greece would have to be consulted about Italy's joining them. Greece, Italy and Turkey are already members of the North Atlantic Alliance, but an Italian-Yugoslav link may be difficult to achieve because of their long dispute over Trieste.

News From Webb Air Force Base
 By BILL SEILER

OPEN HOUSE MONDAY

Planning is in the final stages for the graduation of Class 55-11 and the 2,000th jet pilot to receive his training at Webb Air Force Base. Next Monday will be the big day, and the civilian populace of Big Spring and the surrounding area have been invited to attend the "open house" celebration, to be highlighted by another appearance of the Thunderbirds, the Air Force's famed jet aerial demonstration team.

The honor of being the 2,000th graduate will fall to 2nd Lt. Hall Gunduz, a member of the Turkish Air Force training at Webb under the provisions of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact. Comprising the remainder of the class are four American, one Italian and eight Turkish student officers, and 28 U.S. aviation cadets and one Belgian flying student.

Activities on Monday afternoon will get under way at 1 p.m. when the gates at Webb will be thrown open to the public. A 2,000-man wing review will begin with adjutant's call at 2 p.m., and parade music will be by the 50th AF Band. Following the flight, line activities will be commencement exercises in the Academic Auditorium at 3:15 p.m. Maj. Gen. Orvil A. Anderson (Ret.) will address members of the graduating class and their guests after being introduced by Col. Charles M. Young, Wing Commander.

NO MORE CADETS

Aviation cadets will soon be a thing of the past at Webb and on the streets of Big Spring. Under a new training program set-up cadets and student officers will no longer train together. Webb has been designated as one of the four FlyTAF bases that will handle only officers, most from the AFROTC program.

The others are Greenville AFB, Miss.; Laredo AFB, and Goodfellow AFB (multi-engine). Cadets will receive jet training at Williams AFB, Ariz., and Bryan AFB, Tex. Those selected for multi-engine training will receive it at Reese AFB, Tex., and Vance AFB, Okla.

Class 55-Q, which entered training here Jan. 19, is Webb's first all-officer class under the new program.

CO-OP SAVINGS

Possibilities for the establishment of a base credit union to benefit military personnel and civilian employees at Webb look good, according to Col. Cleon E. Freeman, wing executive, providing a satisfactory plan can be outlined.

Two Webb airmen, M-Sgt. Jack Wilson, Finance NCOIC, and M-Sgt. John W. Tipps, Personal Affairs NCOIC, recently visited Reese AFB, at Lubbock, to observe the credit union in operation there. Their report is now under study here.

SCOUT WEEK

National Boy Scout Week will be observed next Sunday at Webb when special services will be held.

S. Korea Official Cites Obligations

SEOUL (U)—Defense Minister Sohn Won Il today said South Korea's armed forces might automatically join the United States in case of a shooting war with Communist China.

He told a news conference that such action would be justified by the recently ratified U.S.-South Korean Mutual Security Treaty in which both countries agree to come to each other's aid in time of attack.

Asked if South Korean forces would be deployed toward Formosa or north toward Manchuria in case of such a war, Sohn said: "We must not forget the United Nations Command has the operational control of our armed forces. We will act in complete coordination with U.N. forces."

The Boy Scouts will attend the regular 11 a.m. Protestant services, and will march to their places in the chapel. They will then recite the Scout oath, and hear a special message on the scouting theme by Chaplain (1st Lt.) William H. Barker.

Webb's Cub Scout Pack 48, composed of children of base personnel, will participate in the Scout Circus in the Big Spring High School gymnasium on Feb. 12. Their Cubmaster is Capt. Richard O. Franz.

MORE TREES

Five hundred more trees are being added to the landscaping at Webb, with the purchase last week of seedlings from the Texas Forestry Service. They will be planted here in conjunction with a state program for the erection of windbreaks in the West Texas area.

At present, the trees are located at the Base Nursery, where they will be allowed to grow for a year. They will then be transplanted at various other locations on the base, "those spots where they are most needed," said Col. William A. Stephens, AB Gp. commander, SETS RECORD.

AWARDS TO OFFICERS

Three Webb officers have recently been awarded the Armed Forces Reserve Medal, denoting completion of 10 years of honorable and satisfactory service in the Armed Forces Reserve of the United States.

The three, all captains, are: Leverett C. Ficklin, 3561st Pilot Tng. Sq., Max W. McClure, Installations Sq., and Eber J. Neely Jr., Hq., M&S Gp.

OFFICERS OVERSEAS

Maj. Charles B. Calvin, director of academics in the pilot training program at Webb, leaves this week for transfer to Parks AFB, Calif., and subsequent assignment to the Far East Air Forces. Capt. Donnell H. Marsh has been named as his successor.

Also leaving on transfer orders to a base in the Azores is Capt. William S. Williams, Maj. Harry S. Long, former morale services officer, replaces Capt. Williams as food services supervisor and squadron commander.

AIRMAN OF THE MONTH

Airman First Class James F. Howell, supply clerk in the 3560th Student Squadron, has been selected as Webb's "Airman of the Month" for the month of January. He will receive a $25 savings bond to go along with the honor.

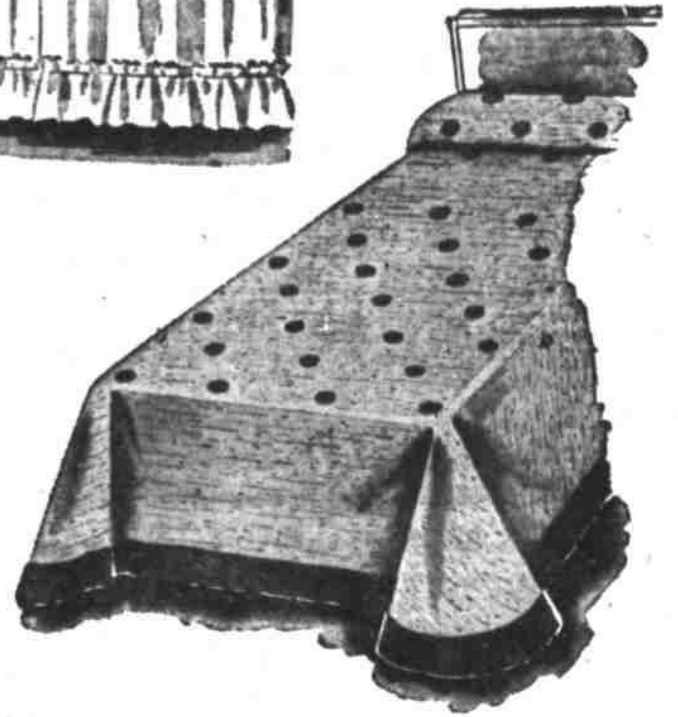

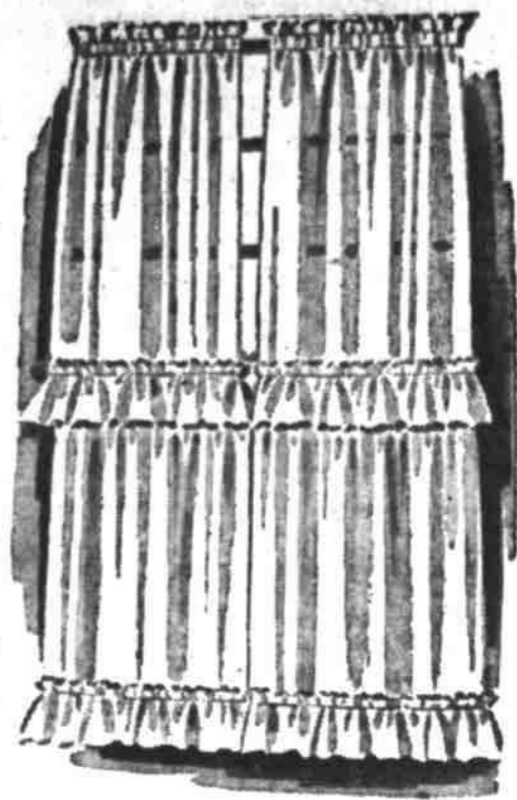

A native of MacArthur, Ohio, Howell has been in the Air Force for 29 months. Before being assigned to Webb last October, he was stationed in Kunsan, Korea.

FEW WAITING UNTIL APRIL

Revenue Service Smiles Over Speedy Tax Filing

By FRANK O'BRIEN
 WASHINGTON (U)—There's an air of quiet satisfaction at revenue service headquarters for an unusual reason: a lot of people apparently have not caught on to one provision of the new tax law.

A number of taxpayers evidently think the income tax filing deadline is still March 15, as it was for 40 years. But the 1954 tax law moved the date to April 15, effective this year.

Since this change was widely publicized, the revenue service had glumly expected a dull January followed by a mounting crush of calls for help in making out returns during February, March and early April.

It just isn't developing that way. A headquarters telephone check of some major tax filing points today disclosed that business is as good this January as a year before—better in some places.

And a check of one long line of taxpayers waiting for advice in the Washington area disclosed that something like 80 to 90 per cent of the people in the line thought the income tax deadline was still March 15.

The revenue service is continuing last year's drive to give priority to returns calling for a refund.

Also, last year's program of giving an especially close look at returns calling for big refunds is being repeated. Officials never have said where they drew the line between "big" and "small" refunds, but it was reported to have been at or near $200 last year, with all refund claims over that amount being set aside for special scrutiny. The line may have been dropped to around $150 this year, but officials would neither confirm nor deny this report.

Bell Laboratories Study Hollow Tube For Distance Use

NEW YORK (U)—Bell Telephone scientists are working on a small, hollow metal tube which will radically step up transmission of television impulses and telephone calls over long distances.

The present coaxial cable has a copper wire running down the center. The new wave-guide transmission, experiments show, would carry many times the capacity of present coaxial cables and microwave radio relay systems.

Models for dies which are used in making machinery often are made of mahogany.

Chiang Has Busy Draft Operation

TAIPEH, Formosa (U)—Motorcycles of young Chinese Nationalist army draftees snake through the streets of this capital city daily on their way to rugged infantry training.

The automobiles bearing the young draftees—90 per cent of them native Formosans—are festooned with bright banners calling for a staunch defense of Formosa. The draftees pitch out rickety strings of firecrackers.

After their big sendoff, the men are loaded on trains and taken to Nationalist training camps, where their terms of service range from 3 to 10 months. Younger soldiers get the longer terms.

Draft age is 18 to 44 but the vast majority of draftees appear to be the minimum age.

The Nationalists say 100,000 men have been drafted for this service in the last five years. After their training is complete, the men are released but are kept in the army reserve.

Training in many units is crisp and efficient. Chinese Army units are organized from battalion down almost exactly like American units, and are equipped with the same weapons and vehicles.

The troops wear the dull green fatigue uniforms of U.S. soldiers but the suits are altered to the high-neck Chinese style for both officers and men. Training is heavy on camouflage.

The training of many units is climaxed by a rough week in the field on night and day maneuvers.

VA Medical Chief Named

WASHINGTON (U)—Dr. William S. Middleton, 65, dean of the University of Wisconsin Medical School, will become chief medical director of the Veterans Administration March 1 succeeding Vice Adm. Joel T. Boone.

Administrator Harvey V. Higley announced Middleton's appointment yesterday and said Adm. Boone chose to retire because of his health when his four-year term expires Feb. 28. He also is 65.

Middleton, named to a four-year term at $16,800 a year, is not a member of the National VA Medical Advisory Committee on Education and has served in various consulting capacities to the VA since 1922.

A gallon of liquid will cover two square feet about one inch deep.

Nugent Called Unwilling Dupe

FT. SILL, Okla. (U)—Maj. Ambrose H. Nugent, at his general court-martial on charges of collaboration with his captors in Korea, was pictured as an unwilling dupe for North Korean propaganda efforts.

That surprise testimony came yesterday from a 43-year-old ranking officer who was with Nugent for 10 months in a prison camp. Lt. Col. John J. Dunn, Rome, N.Y., told the nine-colonel court Nugent was pin-pointed by the Communists for a role in a peace demonstration in August, 1950.

When Nugent objected, the witness testified, the Communists said, "you must take part because you are one of the oldest prisoners." Nugent was taken prisoner July 5, 1950, when the first American troops met the enemy in Korea.

Dunn testified that "if they wanted a man to do something bad enough, they would get him. They tried to pick people they could break down sooner than others."

Testimony of the peace meeting was drawn from Dunn by Col. Ferdinand T. Unger, president of the court, over the objection of Mja. Thomas Reese, chief prosecutor.

"I don't know who this witness belongs to—me, the defense or the court," Reese protested. Dunn told of pressures put on Nugent nine months prior to the peace meeting, used as the basis of three of the 13 Army charges against Nugent.

Lt. Col. Donald L. Manes Jr., law officer, told Reese the witness had been "adopted" by the court in matters not brought out in questioning.

Nugent, a 44-year-old Merrill, Wis., career officer, faces life imprisonment if found guilty of the charges. He had stoutly denied the allegations.

Mother, Crippled Son Are Graduated

CHICAGO (U)—A mother and her 23-year-old son, a victim of polio for three years, were graduated yesterday from Loyola University.

Patrick O'Mara, sitting in a wheel chair, received his degree from the Very Rev. James T. Hussey, university president. O'Mara's legs and one arm lifeless, completed his junior and senior work while bedridden.

His mother, Mrs. Nellie O'Mara, a high school mathematics teacher, was granted her master's degree in education. Present at the exercises was her husband Arthur, a high school principal.

Game Bird Raiser Hopes Hobby Will Make Money

By CLIFTON LAWHORNE
John J. McCown is a man who has parlayed an expensive hobby into a money making business.

Grass Research Project Slated

AUSTIN — The University of Texas has received $9,600 from Swift and Company of Chicago to study the chemical composition of Southwestern grasses.

The project will open a new phase of the University's long-range program to lay scientific groundwork for improving Southwestern grasses and grassland management.

The new project has two aims: to determine chemical differences among selected strains of important Southwestern forage grasses and to discover seasonal chemical changes in single plants.

Grasses to be studied will include: side oats gramma, a species said to offer the best chance of being a good Southwestern domesticated hay and forage grass; plains brome, providing green forage over a longer period than other species and better forage at all times; and curly mesquite grass, a drought-resistant species making up approximately 80 per cent of Central Texas' Edwards Plateau forage and also appearing in South and North-Central Texas.

Also andropogon inaequalis, a species showing promise in Texas, and stipa leucotricha, one of the few native winter forage grasses in the state, covering much of Central Texas from the Rio Grande to the Red River.

The latter species is the dominant grass in many Edwards Plateau and South Texas pastures, and is a good feeder, coming in rapidly on overgrazed pastures.

trips to Missouri saw the addition of quail to his collection.

Before the youthful liquor store manager knew it, he had more than 100 pheasants and about half as many quail.

The excessive number led him to check into the possibilities of supplying the birds to local restaurants and markets, and a business was born.

McCown found that several restaurants here in Big Spring were interested in buying the pheasants and quail.

He expanded operations, fenced off about an acre of land, purchased incubators and brooders, and organized the Big Spring Game Bird Farms.

The farms, which can be viewed by bird enthusiasts, are located just off the Lamesa Highway about two miles north of Big Spring.

McCown has quite a few show birds in cages just off the highway.

The bird farm manager said that he has about $4,000 tied up in his project now, and that he just about broke even in the profit and loss columns last year. Income should be greater this year.

McCown has been in business for about two years now, and he has had requests from as far away as Laredo and Fredericksburg. So far as he knows, he is the only game bird dealer in these parts.

His wife, Jackie, is responsible for much of the success of the bird farm operation, McCown said.

Special equipment is little for the game bird business, he pointed out. In addition to his pens he has the electric machine to de-bill and de-wing the animals, two incubators and a brooder.

It usually takes about 21 days in the incubators to hatch the quail eggs, and about 28 days to hatch pheasants. The quail will lay about 40 to 60 eggs apiece, McCown explained.

The show birds which McCown has include several golden pheasants, ring-neck pheasants, and a Lady Amhurst. He calls his quail "West Texas chukars," though explaining that they originate in Africa and are now raised all over the United States.

Pheasant eggs are available from April 20 through June, he said, and 100 eggs are sold for $20. They come higher when lots of less than a hundred are purchased.

McCown also sells chix, started chix, and selected breeders with live delivery guaranteed. Dressed birds are also plentiful in lot purchases.

In 1954 the national death rate dropped to an all-time low of 9.2 per 1,000 population, an insurance company's records show.

however, as he is set up for larger operations.

Last year McCown raised about 5,000 birds, and most of these were pheasants. This year he plans to emphasize quail, which sell for about $4. The pheasants go for $3.

At the present time he has around 1,500 pheasants in his seven pens as compared to about 100 quail. Quail are more troublesome than pheasant, he explained, as the quail have to be paired.

Pheasants have to be de-billed, however, as they will peck one another to death in a cannibalistic manner. Quite a few of the pheasants have their wings clipped so that they can be raised in open top pens, McCown said.

These de-winged birds are raised for pets, and they are sold for pets also.

Texas Song Writer Stuart Hamblen Hits Snag On BBC

LONDON (AP)—Texas song writer Stuart Hamblen, who came to London "just to kinda see what goes," complained today his songs are getting the cold shoulder from the British because there's too much religion in them.

"If you put the word 'God' or 'angel' or 'Lord' in 'em," the BBC will stop you," he said.

He said he has even had trouble with "saint" and expects to have to take "the devil" out of one song before it will be accepted by a publisher.

"I feel stymied but I'm a foreigner here and I don't want to start a fight," said the lanky Texan who wrote "It Is No Secret."

"I just want to try to reach the people with good clean music to give 'em a spiritual uplift instead of an emotionals downdraft," Hamblen claimed some songs published here and in America are "big feeders for juvenile delinquency," and that if some song lyrics were spoken over the air instead of sung they would be "kicked off."

"Just try saying 'em to yourself," he said.

Hamblen flew into London Thursday wearing a tailored blue suit and a 10-gallon hat. He said one of his best sellers, "This Old House," was accepted for broadcast in Britain, but not until the line "I'm getting ready to meet the saints," was changed to "I'm getting ready to fade away."

"I don't think a man ever 'fades away,'" Hamblen said.

He's also run into a snag with "Open Up Your Heart and Let the Sun Shine In," a song he said he wrote to help bolster Sunday School attendance.

"That's got 'the devil' in it and it probably will have to come out before it's published here," he said. "But in the States it sold over 500,000 records and it's been translated into 30 foreign languages."

Hamblen, who says he's just a "country boy," is flying back to New York tomorrow "just a little heartick."

Red Cross Chapter Devoted To Needs Of Veterans, Servicemen

By GLENN COOTES

The Howard - Glasscock Chapter of the Red Cross, in normal times, is devoted to aid for the serviceman and veteran, according to Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, executive secretary here.

The chapter handles about 100 cases each month, she said, and the average assistance check varies from $5 to $250. But there is no limit to the amount a person may receive, she added.

Red Cross aid takes many and varied forms. Sometimes, it fills the gap for a serviceman's wife who has not received her allotment check. Or maybe, a pension check for a veteran has been delayed and he needs financial assistance until it arrives.

A typical Red Cross case was handled by the office recently. A 33-year-old Latin American veteran was admitted to the hospital with serious injuries. Attendants estimated that he would require medical attention for quite a few months.

The veteran had no money saved and was concerned about the care of his wife and five children while he was confined to the hospital. The case was then handed over to the Red Cross.

The Red Cross worker visited with the wife and found out that the family had no food and no money in the house. However, a relative had volunteered to help a little with financial assistance, enough to pay the rent.

After discussing the problem with the wife, the Red Cross worked out a plan whereby the wife will receive a grant of $15 per week to buy groceries until the veteran recovers his benefits from the government.

Emergency messages between servicemen and their families, assistance with government claims and benefits, and counseling advice concerning all phases of serviceman-veteran problems are also handled by the Red Cross.

In addition, volunteer Gray Ladies visit the VA Hospital here each week and distribute personal articles for the patients. Among the articles the Red Cross furnishes are toothpaste, combs, shaving soaps, razor blades, hair dressings, writing materials, gum and cigarettes.

On Monday nights, the Red Cross sponsors movies at the hospital. The Gray Ladies conduct these movies. These volunteer workers gave over 1,750 hours of their time last year.

Over four thousand dollars was granted to veterans and servicemen last year through the Red Cross office in Big Spring. About six thousand was granted through the office at Webb AFB.

These grants are in the form of loans in cases where recipients' circumstances improve to the extent that they can repay emergency funds. Otherwise, they are outright grants.

Also, the Red Cross sponsors numerous first aid classes and these classes are conducted by persons trained and certified by the Red Cross.

Classes in home nursing are a regular feature at Webb and a special course on mother and baby care is conducted for the servicemen's wives.

Last year, during the flash flood in Big Spring, the Red Cross chapter was on the spot with help for the needy. A two-way radio had been set up for emergency messages before the rain stopped falling. Aid in the amount of $1,200 was expended by the local chapter for persons who suffered losses of homes and household goods as a result of the flood waters.

Although office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Red Cross is available 24 hours a day for emergencies.

The budget for the year 1955 has been set at $15,537. This is approximately the amount that the Red Cross spent in the area last year.

There are 30 million members of the Red Cross in the United States and they contributed over $85 million last year. Aid was provided through 3,720 chapters by 1,575,000 volunteers and 15,000 paid staff members.

Coed Gets Wish, Meets Real Prince

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—American coed Jo Ann Stork has met Monaco's ruling Prince Rainier III and says she "love to be a princess and live in this country."

There was no indication today that bachelor Rainier would grant her wish.

The 20-year-old University of Illinois student flew to Monaco last week on the blind chance of meeting the handsome 31-year-old prince after reading in a U. S. magazine that his subjects want him to get married and some would like the bride to be an American . . .

At first she couldn't get past the palace gates. Then the prince's Roman Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Francis Tucker, interceded and she visited Rainier for two hours Tuesday afternoon. Father Tucker and Rainier's sister Princess Antoinette chaperoned.

Joan said they discussed football, yachting, music, the prince's private zoo and Joan's plans for the future. They toured "the Green Room, the Blue Room, the Throne Room, the corridors with pictures of his ancestors on the wall," and the terrace, which has a "marvelous view."

Rainier, she bubbled, was "a real prince charming . . . more handsome than all the pictures I have seen of him."

Joan didn't say what further plans she has. The prince wasn't available for comment.

Howard, former athletic star at Big Spring High School and HJC, spent 14 months on duty in Korea. His wife, the former Melva Ray, went to San Francisco to greet him and accompany him back to Big Spring.

Howard expects to get his discharge from the service soon.

BEN HAWKINS
... Bologna biscuits are his specialty

Income Tax Man Can Cook Up Something Other Than Forms

Thanks to his wife, Ben Hawkins, local internal revenue agent, can cook biscuits. It isn't that she can't cook but when they were first married she wouldn't make biscuits, so he tried his hand at them.

Now he can cook most anything and calls it a hobby after-a-fashion. Photography is his hobby, too, but he hasn't gone so far as to fix up a darkroom. Wives don't like converting bathrooms into darkrooms, he says. Another of his interests is the American Heritage group in which he participates. Hawkins' sharp eye and thorough reading of the Herald landed him on the food page this week. A week ago he called to find out the ingredients of a recipe that had been left out of a story and was promptly hooked for a recipe of his own.

Hawkins has a way of combining biscuits with bologna. The combination is his idea but the biscuit part is a basic recipe. Sometimes the Hawkins' pretty 14-year-old daughter, Judy, gives her dad a hand.

He has been an internal revenue agent for 14 years and has been here since 1946. His work was interrupted for a while by service with the Navy. Late income tax filers will be amused to know that Hawkins is always "the last man to get his in."

Because Mrs. Hawkins has a job as assistant librarian at Howard County Library she is probably thankful that her husband can come through in a pinch with these bologna biscuits.

Lobster Chowder Makes Fine Sunday Supper

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Sunday night supper was a favorite meal around our house when I was a little girl. As I look back on it now, I realize that we probably enjoyed it so much because it was such a relaxed time.

Monday would bring school for us children, my father would go back to his office, and my mother would be bustling as she managed her home and took part in community projects. But with the big noon dinner out of the way, Sunday afternoon was a time for curling up in a big chair with a book, for playing dominoes or checkers, for sitting around the fire or sewing. There was a warm comfortable serenity about the house, and an easy-going air in the kitchen as a light supper was put together.

Sunday night supper menus come to mind. There might be split pea soup with the rich smoky flavor of a hambone, and the soup's wonderful and inevitable accompaniment—croustons. I can see my mother preparing the croustons: cutting slices of stale bread into small squares and putting them into the oven in a big pan to brown. Of course the soup was ladled out of a big tureen at the table. We children could hardly wait to bite into those crunchy little squares of toast floating on top.

For dessert there would probably be a big bowl of winter fruit. That always meant apples, oranges, perhaps tangerines, and of course bananas. And we often had old-time oatmeal cookie sandwiches that we used to call jam-jams. Why, I would wonder, were they called jam-jams when they had a date filling. But that was only one of many unfathomable grown-up mysteries.

Sometimes at Sunday night supper, we had what was to our inland family a great delicacy—seafood, meaning canned lobster or crabmeat. The lobster would be made into a Newburg, the crabmeat would be served à la meunière. It wasn't until I lived in the East that I learned to prepare Lobster Chowder and found it a fine Sunday night supper dish.

If you try the following Lobster Chowder, be sure to serve crackers with it. But remember that practically every kind of cracker benefits from a brief period in the oven. I usually put the crackers on a large square of aluminum foil in a moderate or hot oven and take them out as soon as they are tinged with brown. They go, foil and all, into a basket to cool off a bit and crisp; then they come to the table while they are still warm.

Some of my friends use tray service for Sunday night suppers. Mother (or Dad) ladles the soup right of the kettle on the range, and each member of the family carries his own tray. A big bowl of green pepper rings, carrot and celery sticks, green and black olives will be fine accompaniment to the Lobster Chowder, and the celery and green pepper will repeat part of the soup's good flavor.

For dessert, a pineapple upside-down cake will fill the bill and may be made easily from a packaged mix.

Try Peanut Butter Bread Sandwiches

For a school lunchbox or a Saturday noon light lunch sandwiches made with peanut butter bread are very filling. The bread tastes especially good with jelly or jam.

PEANUT BUTTER BREAD

2 cups sifted all purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
One-third cup sugar
1 cup chunk style peanut butter
2 eggs
1 1/4 cups milk

Mix and sift into a medium size mixing bowl the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in the peanut butter with pastry blender or two knives, or rub in with fingertips. Beat the eggs until foamy with a rotary beater; add the milk and beat again to combine. Make a well in the center of the dry ingredients and add egg and milk; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Turn into a buttered loaf pan (about 4 x 9 inches) and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 1 hour and 10 minutes or until done.

ROCK LOBSTER CHOWDER

Ingredients:
2 cups diced potatoes
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup minced celery
1/2 cup minced green pepper
6 cups milk
2 6 1/2-ounce cans South African rock lobster

Method:
Cook potatoes rapidly in a small amount of boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter in saucepan or kettle; add onion, celery and green pepper. Cook over low heat until onion is wilted and yellowed. Stir in potatoes and milk; add lobster in large chunks and liquid from can. Bring slowly almost to boiling; do not boil. Stir as little as possible so lobster won't shred. Add salt and pepper to taste. Makes 6 servings.

Potato Salad Complements Main Dish

Everyone can't bring main dishes to a covered dish supper, and sometimes the sidelines get as much attention. Salads are always popular, the best ones being those that take advantage of seasonal prices—cabbage when it's at the market peak—for example. Congealed salads are a good winter-time offering, and potato salad is good anytime. Below is a basic recipe for old-fashioned potato salad.

OLD FASHIONED POTATO SALAD

8 medium potatoes
Two-thirds cup salad dressing
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup finely sliced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

1/2 cup diced fresh cucumbers or pickles

Scrub potatoes and cook in jackets in boiling salted water. When potatoes are barely tender, drain and shake over low heat to dry. Peel while hot. Cut into 1/4 inch cubes to potatoes. Add dressing sugar, pepper and vinegar. Mix well. Add celery, onions and cucumbers to potatoes. Add dressing and toss. Cover and chill. Makes 6 servings.

Marshmallow Pudding Is New Angle

Everyone has a favorite cake or pie that frequently finds its way to a covered dish supper. But if you're looking for an especially economical dessert, you might try this.

MARSHMALLOW BREAD PUDDING

1/2 pound marshmallows (about 32 marshmallows)
4 cups milk
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup seedless raisins

Cut 20 marshmallows in halves with wet scissors. In top of double boiler combine milk and halved marshmallows; place over boiling water. Cook until marshmallows are melted, stirring occasionally. Add bread crumbs and butter or margarine. In a bowl combine a little of the hot marshmallow-milk mixture with the slightly beaten eggs. Add this to the remaining marshmallow-milk mixture with salt, vanilla and raisins. Pour into buttered 2-quart baking dish. Place in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour, or until almost firm. Cut the remaining marshmallows in halves, cross-wise and place on top of pudding. Return to oven until marshmallows are golden brown.

Sponge Cake Remedy

If you have baked your sheet sponge cake too slowly and it is too stiff for rolling up neatly, you may be able to remedy the trouble this way. Cover a very hot baking sheet with a wet cloth; place a sheet of paper on top of the cloth and the sponge cake on top of the paper. After a minute or so the cake will be steamed enough so it can probably be rolled up with ease.

Frankfurters, Sauerkraut And Potatoes Economical

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ever get a craving for that old-fashioned combination — frankfurters, sauerkraut and potatoes? When we do, our food budget fully approves.

When we prepare this dish, we add a few tablespoons of dark brown sugar to the sauerkraut because we like the suspicion of sweetness it gives. Usually we put kraut, frankfurters and small potatoes into a large skillet; cover the pan tightly and let the flavors mingle gloriously until the spuds are cooked through. But the last few times we were in the mood for the supper dish, we tried baking it. This method met with the approval of our severest critics—our family. If you would like to try it on yours, the recipe follows.

Preface this main dish, if you like, with a thick peasant-style soup. For dessert we're likely to whip up an airy soufflé and put it in the oven when the sauerkraut, frankfurters and potatoes come out. If we choose to serve a vanilla soufflé, we accompany it with a fruit sauce. With a chocolate soufflé, we usually serve whipped cream.

SAUERKRAUT, FRANKFURTER AND POTATO CASSEROLE

Ingredients:
One No. 2 1/2 can (1 pound and 3 ounces) sauerkraut
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
4 to 8 frankfurters
4 medium-sized (about 1 1/4 pounds) potatoes
1 tablespoon butter or margarine (melted)
Salt
Paprika

Method:
Turn sauerkraut, without draining it, into a baking dish (about 11 by 7 by 2 inches is a good size). Toss with onion and brown sugar. Bury frankfurters in the kraut. Peel potatoes and cut in half lengthwise; arrange on top. Brush with butter and sprinkle with salt and paprika. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven, uncovered, for 20 to 30 minutes, or just until some of the top ends of the kraut brown a bit; tightly cover — with aluminum foil if desired — and bake until potatoes are cooked through — 20 to 30 minutes longer. Serve at once from baking dish. Makes 4 servings — 1 to 2 frankfurters for each portion, depending on how many were used.

Note:
If desired, you may use an apple corer to make a hole through each potato lengthwise; draw a frankfurter through each hole. Bake as directed above.

Method:
Drain pineapple well; measure syrup; add enough water to make 1 1/4 cups. Pour into top of double boiler. Sprinkle gelatin on syrup to soften. Add eggs, prepared mustard, vinegar and salt. Beat with a rotary beater only until blended. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white. Fold in whipped cream. Fold in celery and diced apple. Stand apple wedges against sides of ring mold (5 to 6 cup size). Carefully spoon gelatin mixture into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on flat serving plate. Wipe off any gelatin mixture adhering to apple wedges so red peel shows. Fill center of ring with salad greens. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Casserole Flavor

Here's a really different casserole. Layer slices of cooked chicken with canned drained ravioli. Mix the sauce from the ravioli with some chicken stock and add to the baking dish. Heat in a moderate oven and serve with grated Parmesan cheese and a green salad.

Coffee Prices Down Some, May Go Lower, Dealers Say

Coffee prices in Big Spring average about the same now as a year ago, but they are 25 cents lower than the peak average during the summer, local grocers say. Prices are expected to get even lower in the next few months, according to several grocers. Current prices of the best grade coffee in Big Spring averages about 59 cents a pound, one grocer said. A year ago, the average cost of this same coffee was about $1. Other grades are a little cheaper, he said. An average of 73 cents is apparently the lowest price for any grade. Most all grades are carried by each of the stores queried. About 10 brands with three different grades of coffee are sold by most of the larger grocers.

South Gets First Moving Sidewalk

HOUSTON (AP)—The South's first moving sidewalk was placed in operation here yesterday.

The $235,000 revolving rubber belt spanning Buffalo Bayou connects the Sam Houston Coliseum with what eventually will be a 2,000 car parking lot. Full use of the sidewalk will be delayed until later this year. Excavations for a new expressway project limits current parking facilities on the north side of the bayou.

The belt moves at 132 feet a minute and in its 115-foot course rises 12 feet.

Tangerines are a source of vitamin C popular with children.

One grocer stated that the price of coffee hit its peak around the first of August last year. The best coffee sold for $1.25 a pound then, he added. Since that time it has been steadily decreasing to the present average.

Although the supply is more plentiful than it was when a shortage threatened, coffee is still not so abundant that the cost should be so low a merchant said. A grocer said that he sells coffee now for less than it costs him wholesale.

Competition is apparently a primary reason for the lower consumer prices. This price competition has lowered the cost much faster than the increase in coffee supplies, another retailer said. The outlook for the future appears to be even brighter for the consumer. Several grocers said they think that the price will drop still more.

Grads Teach At 'Alma Mater'

Both Lt. William J. Epperson, Athens, Tenn., left, and Lt. James P. Lovely, San Jose, Calif., instructors in Webb's flying training program, are not only graduates of Webb Air Force Base, but were members of Class 52-D, which was the first class to graduate from the basic single engine flying training course following reactivation of Webb two and one-half years ago. After distinguished tours of duty in Korea, both officers were returned to Webb as instructors. In Korea, Lt. Epperson flew the F-84 Thunderjet in 100 combat missions with the 49th Fighter-Bomber Wing. Lt. Lovely flew 57 missions in an F-86 Sabrejet as a member of the 51st Fighter-Interceptor Wing and participated in six MIG kills. Both men have been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters in addition to campaign and theatre ribbons.

CAREFULLY CHOSEN

38 Webb Grads Now Teach Here

Almost half of the flying training instructors at Webb AFB who impart the skills of aircraft piloting to aviation cadets are graduates of Webb.

According to Pilot Training Group Commander Col. William A. Jones, 38 instructors now on duty here received their basic training at Webb. In addition, seven other Webb graduates are now attending Basic Instructors School at Craig AFB, Ala., and will return to Webb as a part of the instructor corps.

Seven more local graduates are currently enrolled in a similar instructor school here and will soon be on duty as instructors. Many of these instructors are veterans of the Korean conflict and came to Webb directly from an overseas assignment. The average instructor is married and is about 25 years old. Many have one or more children.

To insure the very best possible training for young men entering the aviation cadet training program, great care is taken in the selection of instructor personnel. Col. Jones pointed out. They are picked not only for their ability to fly well, but to pass along the valuable experience they have gained in the air as well as to impart the basic fundamentals of jet aircraft operation.

All instructors must graduate from a comprehensive instructor training school before going on duty. At this school, actual student conditions are simulated and the potential instructor learns the "tricks of the trade." He is observed and graded on his ability to teach, to guide the student pilot over the rougher parts of his training, to talk the student through new air maneuvers, and to anticipate the many problems which confront each aviation cadet. A part of his training program is "teaching" the instructor so that he may be graded according to his ability.

The result is a fine instructor force whose ability to train can be found in the high numbers of top students graduated. Col. Jones said. At Webb, 43 distinguished graduates received their wings in 1954, and there were two command-wide honor students. Also among Webb's graduates is Lt. Henry Buttlerman who became the 36th jet ace of the Korean conflict.

Instructors must cope with many difficult problems every day. One of these is the "language barrier" which confronts instructors who work with students of allied nations receiving their training in the United States under provisions of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact. However, this barrier is not unsurmountable and is overcome through constant work and understanding.

This was one of the problems a Webb instructor was faced with during the training of 2-Lt. Hall Gunduz of the Turkish Air Force, who is due to be the 2,000th graduate of Webb. But the language barrier was dissolved thanks to the instructors' know-how and Lt. Gunduz will receive his wings during graduation ceremonies at Webb Monday. Special ceremonies will mark the day, and open house will be declared so that West Texans may visit the base.

A 2,000-man wing review will be held and aerial maneuvers used daily by the Air Force will be performed by the famed "Thunderbirds" from Luke AFB, Ariz., beginning at 2 p.m. Open house starts at 1 p.m.

These are the names of Webb graduates who are now instructors here: Lts. R. G. Davis, E. T. Lynch, H. D. Stoke, K. A. Bernick, J. Donoghue, W. H. Kirk, E. Coggins, J. J. Jelinek, K. R. Carman, C. R. ## Library Gets Good Novels, Other Books

Purchases at the Howard County Library in January included many top-flight novels and other interesting fare for the readers of Big Spring. Librarian Opal McDaniel said she tries to order as many books as possible from requests of borrowers.

Some of the requests which resulted in the books being bought by the library are:

"THE REVOLT OF AMERICAN WOMEN" A humorous picture history of the rise of the American woman. Humorous in spots and revealing in others, the book is entertaining in its portrayal of women in a man's ("") world.

"JOAN OF ARC" by Lucian Fable. The biography of a rough, uneducated, 17-year-old girl, who made a nation where none had been before, is an interesting and inspiring story.

"SIDEWALKS OF AMERICA" edited by B. A. Botkin.

This collection of folklore, legends, sagas, traditions, customs, songs, stories, and sayings of city folks is a modern history of these United States.

"NOW I CAN TELL" by Quentin K. Y. Huang. The story of the first bishop to be imprisoned by the Chinese Communists.

"THE GOLDEN ARGOSY" edited by Van H. Cartmel and Charles Grayson.

A collection of the 40 best short stories in the English language.

"YEAR'S BEST SCIENCE FICTION NOVELS" edited by Everett F. Bleiler and T. E. Kilty. Five of the outstanding s-f novels of 1952 are included here by first class writers.

For those who like their reading on the lighter side, two Crime Club selections were also received. "OLD MRS. OMANNEY IS DEAD" by Margaret Erskine is a suspenseful novel about a vicious practical joker who creates a furor at the final rites of Mrs. Ommannney.

Dolores Hitchens traces the work of a private eye in "SLEEP WITH STRANGERS" as he attempts to solve several mysterious disappearances.

Urges FDR Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) has introduced a resolution proposing that Jan. 30 each year be made a legal holiday in commemoration of the birth of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Enlistments Open In Navy Service School

Direct enlistment into four specific service schools after basic training is now available to enlistees of the Navy, according to local Recruiter Chief R. E. LaFon.

The program is open to high school graduates, who had no previous military service and can meet the physical, mental, and moral qualifications of the occupational field selected. The occupational fields open for direct enlistment are electronics recruit, airman recruit, hospital recruit, and seaman recruit. Qualifying recruits will be assigned to one of 43 service schools that cover these fields, LaFon said. The Navy recruiter is located in the basement of the post office. About a quarter of all deaths among Americans 25 to 44 years old are from heart disease.
