

Court To Rule For State In Bridge Suit

It remained for Mrs. John Nance Garner, hard-working secretary to her foxy husband, the speaker of the national house of representatives, to bring to the public print discussion of the fact that many of us long have felt; viz, that West Texans are southwesterners more than southerners.

Whether you like the idea or not, it is just a bald fact out here that the roots of old southern tradition and manner of doing to which the fathers and grandfathers of many of us were firmly linked have sort of loosened their hold for the present generation of West Texas people.

Your humble servant's grandfathers, both of 'em, fought for the Confederacy. As a treasured possession we have an old file that was used in the life and drum corps of Parker's army. Many times we've heard one of 'em buried himself with fallen leaves, in a forest at night and two northern soldiers came and sat on a log right next to him. Of course, he got home all right. And we have a hazy recollection of having been told that one of our great aunts hacked the wrists of a gang of Yankees with a corn knife when they tried to break in and take her aged father away.

Yep. Proud of all that. But, this in 1932 and West Texas and to us the most significant statement in the editorial we reprint below is: "What can he do? not, who was his"

CITIZEN OF BIG SPRING

Although Alexander Parker McDonald was born in Nashville, Tenn., he came to Texas from Athens, Ala., where he was reared. It was during a cotton depression, too.

Back in 1892, he recalls, the price of cotton was mighty low and prospects for climbing were good. Mr. McDonald didn't like the idea of being always hedged about by one crop and its limitations. He thought of the cattle country, where cattle grew wild, and thought surely the plains of West Texas could not suffer from anything.

Since he had a brother in Taylor County, he went to Abilene. Eagerly he looked out of the car windows for roaming cattle. But all he saw were sheep. He had heard that the best place to raise sheep was in the hills of Texas. He had heard that the best place to raise sheep was in the hills of Texas. He had heard that the best place to raise sheep was in the hills of Texas.

When he first came to Big Spring, he went to work for H. P. Patten & Co. The firm became Patten, Matthews, Wolcott and Co., and he handled the dry goods department. This firm later went into hardware exclusively; the Big Spring Hardware Co. occupies its old location.

In 1908 Mr. McDonald considered himself familiar enough with the business and the town to go into a shop of his own. He occupied the store now given over to the men's wear of Austin and Jones. After three years there, he moved into the north room of the Masonic Hall and from there to his present location.

He has today one of the most handsome interiors, especially so far as woodwork is concerned, of any man's furnishings store in the state, so the salesmen inform him. It is walnut throughout and very conveniently arranged. He bought his new equipment at the beginning of the boom and was one of the first merchants in the city to dress his store up to meet a future which everyone regarded as certain to continue for a much

'There Will Be No War While I Can Prevent It' Grand Old Man of Many Geneva Battles of Peace Declares

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is another of a series of articles of world leaders on the arms question. In this Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, explains his country's attitude toward the disarmament conference opening in Geneva February 2.)

PARIS (UP)—"So long as I am there will be no war." That is the reply of Aristide Briand, long the French minister of foreign affairs and the grand old man of many Geneva battles for peace, to charges that his country is ready to clog the machinery built to grind the world's armaments into scrap metal.

"I will not allow war to be let loose upon mankind again, and if all the governments show the same determination then progress will have been made," said the co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war.

"I am under no illusions as to the difficulties, for indeed I have seen them grow month by month. I am conscious of them facing me and all around me. But the League of Nations must boldly take the wheel and not shrink from any kind of responsibility."

"France won't block Parley" "It is the sad privilege of my country that in such matters as disarmament people are always ready to think in terms of her."

"It has been remarked that the conference on disarmament has not yet met and that, lurking in the shadows, there is a country on the watch ready to snatch at any favorable opportunity to bring about its adjournment."

"That is not so. France will do nothing to bring about such an adjournment, and I may say that if any such attempt were made France would be among the first to oppose it."

The foreign minister, whose stooped shoulders are showing more and more the effect of his relentless campaign for peace, said that his own country lost no opportunity of limiting its armaments in preparation for the great conference, that it had reduced the period of military service by two-thirds and its effectiveness by one-half.

In addition, Briand said, France has marched toward the ultimate aim set forth by the League of Nations covenant.

"A Court, a Judge" "France is a country which does not look to war as a means of furthering her interests," he said. "She has said beforehand: 'A court, a judge, that is what we want.'"

Turning to the Jewish question of security, Briand asked, "Has progress been achieved? No one can deny that it has," he replied.

"War is a crime. Such was the dictum of the Paris Pact. Until then, we must not forget, war had actually remained, in certain circumstances a 'licit means' for settling disputes. The Paris Pact said down that it is an impious act to have recourse to war. Morally this was excellent."

"One fact, however, we cannot disguise: cases still exist in which war may occur."

When Briand recently presided over the League of Nations council meeting called to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict, he gave the impression that despite his advanced age and failing health he was hanging on with a firm grasp to his ideal of organized peace.

His audience recalled his famous Geneva address of several years ago, when he was at his height, in the machine guns and cannons behind us; down with war."

Two of the most heavily attended services in the history of the First Methodist church are expected Sunday when Bishop Edwin D. Mounzer who has charge of the four conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland will fill the pulpit.

Bishop Mounzer, father of Mrs. J. Richard Spann, the wife of the local pastor, has a distinguished career as a clergyman. He began his ministerial career in Bryan, Texas, as a boy of 19 years. Among other places in the state he has been pastor in Abilene, Fort Worth and San Antonio and later was teacher of religious education in Southwestern University at Georgetown. In 1916 he was elected bishop and assigned to various Texas conferences for the next ten years. Later he was in charge of Oklahoma and Tennessee conferences with headquarters in Tulsa and Nashville.

Institute Of Business Set For Next Week

H. W. Stanley's Service Offered Without Charge

Final arrangements have been made for the opening Monday of a two day Institute of business and merchandising which is to be presented here by Henry W. Stanley, nationally known economist, under the auspices of the Trade Extension Division of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Evening sessions will be held at the Settles Hotel beginning at 7:30 and closing promptly at 9:30. Two subjects pertaining to merchandising or salesmanship will be presented in the form of lectures each evening, and following each talk there will be a brief round-table discussion.

Mr. Stanley is being presented to the merchants of this city through an arrangement effected between Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. The latter organization is offering the services of this merchandising authority in the belief that as Dallas is recognized market center, it should assist in every way possible the merchants who patronize it. No charge will be made for the course and all persons engaged in merchandising, selling and advertising are invited to be present each night.

In addition to the evening session, Mr. Stanley will hold a special class in advertising. Department heads and those responsible for writing and placing advertising copy are urged to attend these morning classes. Every afternoon Mr. Stanley will conduct a special class in display, dealing with window display and interior store arrangement. The exact hour at which these classes will open will be announced at the opening lecture Monday night. An unusual feature of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce representative's visit here will be a confidential service to the individual merchant. While Mr. Stanley is not occupied with classes during the day, he is arranging to make visits to the stores and will devote his time to a study of the problems of the individual merchant.

In view of the fact that the speaker who bears a national reputation as an authority on merchandising, is to be in the city without cost to the business men the Chamber of Commerce, urges every merchant and salesman to attend the opening lecture. No books or courses will be sold following this institute had no charge is made for individual consultation. The service is a gesture of good will toward the city on behalf of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce in recognition of the patronage extended to the Wholesale Market by local merchants.

Waco Man Is Killed In Collision With Empty Cotton Truck

WACO, Jan. 15. (UP)—C. W. Farrar, 65, was killed today when his automobile collided with an empty cotton truck at a one-way bridge over Sandy Creek, between Ritzel and Perry, about 15 miles southeast of Waco.

He is survived by four sons, E. R. Farrar at Bryan, Troy and C. W. Jr., at Temple, and another at Dallas. The body was taken to Martin. Sheriff M. M. Reese, of Falls county, and Justice B. C. Curry, who investigated, said A. E. Farrar, was driving the truck and that J. A. McKenzie, also of Mart, accompanied him.

Benefit of radio communication with the company's stations here and at San Antonio is being enjoyed this week for the first time by Pilots Paul Vance and Ed. Bows, who fly for American Airways on the Big Spring-San Antonio-San Antonio mail line.

The pilots now are provided with receiving sets, although they do not have two-way communication as do those on the transcontinental line between Atlanta and Los Angeles.

Value of the radio reception cannot be overestimated, declared Vance, who was the pilot Friday. The two men fly the schedule each way on alternate days. They use new Stearnman ships.

Sterling P. Strong In Race For Congress

DALLAS, Jan. 15. (UP)—Sterling P. Strong, Dallas prohibition worker and official of the state law enforcement commission, today had announced his candidacy for congressman at large.

Strong said he believed congress is vested with power to reflect the country and that it can enact laws making it impossible for depressions or panics to return.

Dr. Chester To Observe 81st Birthday Here

Noted Presbyterian Leader To Fill Pulpit Of Local Church

It was the rare privilege of the Presbyterian congregation in Big Spring throughout the month of December to listen to weekly sermons by Dr. S. H. Chester, who had been visiting his son at the latter's residence in the Howard county oil field.

In his college days Dr. Chester was pupil and friend of General Robert E. Lee at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia, and subsequently rose to what is perhaps the most influential position in the great northern Presbyterian church, that of secretary of foreign missions.

Now, in his later years, Dr. Chester commands a lucidity and spirituality of thought, combined with an unflinching perfection in the use of the English language, which render his sermons high lights in the religious experience of those who are privileged to hear him.

Next Sunday he will celebrate his eighty-first birthday, and on that morning, just before departing again for his distant home, he will again occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here, whose congregation issues a sincere invitation to all friends of the gospel to attend and enjoy this service.

Lee's Life Is Lions' Theme

Jack Hodges Reviews Life Of Confederate General

An interesting talk by Jack Hodges on the life of Robert E. Lee featured the Lions club program of Friday at the Settles hotel when B. T. Cardwell was chairman of the day.

It was announced that Lee's birthday, Tuesday, January 10, will be a legal holiday this year in Texas.

Mr. Cardwell, chairman of the Lions education committee, gave an interesting talk on Lion organization plans and methods.

Some members agreed to donate Boy Scout uniforms for members of the troop the club sponsors, No. 7, composed of Mexican boys.

As a result of energetic efforts of the club president, R. W. Henry, attendance for the day was unusually good.

Appeal Rests With 2-Judge Federal Court

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (UP)—District Judge W. F. Robertson said he would find for the state in the suit of the Red River Bridge company against the highway commission for $16,000 on two contracts.

Appeal Rests With 2-Judge Federal Court

Conditional Signing Of Contract Cited By State Court

He said a contract to pay the company $60,000 when the free bridge opened at Denison, paralleling the toll bridge, was void because R. S. Sterling, then chairman of the commission, signed it conditionally and other members of the commission refused to sign it.

The other contract, allowing the company to operate a fourteen month free bridge was void because of explanation of that date, was held void because the commission exceeded its authority in granting the concession, said the court.

Federal courts, Oklahoma national guardsmen and Texas rangers recently figured in a complicated dispute over final opening of the free bridge.

It was revealed that the state settled a suit of the Terral Bridge company for $15,000.

DALLAS, Jan. 15. (UP)—Joseph W. Bailey, jr., attorney for the Red River Bridge company, said decision to appeal from the Austin court's ruling on the company's suit against the highway commission rested with two federal judges, before whom the company is in receivership.

City Buys Own Bonds

$1,110 Saving Made Possible By $6,000 Purchase

Purchase by the City of Big Spring of $6,000 in City of Big Spring 1925 waterworks bonds, was effected following authorization of the deal by the city commission, on recommendation of the city manager.

The money used in buying the bonds will not be needed in the sinking fund from which it came until after the purchased bonds mature, which will be in 1933 to 1938 inclusive, $1,000 per year.

A net saving of $1,110 will be made by the city. The bonds bear 5 per cent interest and were bought at 92 cents on the dollar. The sinking fund money draws 2 per cent in the regular dispository banks.

There's No Magic Formula
THE PROBLEMS of trimming
the tremendous expenditures of the national government and raising more revenue to cope with the growing deficit are already occupying the attention of members of congress. Undoubtedly the questions will continue to be paramount in importance throughout the session.

Democrats, in control of the house, have shown a tendency to cut appropriations below the estimates of the budget, but unfortunately it appears that little dramatic economy can be effected by house means.

It is well enough to slash off a few hundred thousand dollars here
and a few more there, and undoubtedly any economy, no matter how light when viewed in the light of the aggregate sums needed, is worthwhile, but we will never have an economy until we change our entire concept of government.

Laborsaving appropriations is going the way of the dark. The efficient way would be to discontinue any services of the government that do away with entire divisions or to destroy many of its functions.

It is to be hoped that the citizens do not want to happen. We continually hear protests against higher taxes,
but just as regularly find one group or another in some section of the country arising to demand that the government institute a new service
take over another field for regulation.

Government costs us many times
over, even difference in money values being considered, than it did our forefathers. But then we have a government that does everything from suing pamphlets telling us how to run babies to regulating hundreds of kinds of our private businesses. Our forefathers had to struggle along with a constitutional government unchanged by 150 years of legislative tampering.

There is no panacea for lowering taxes and maintaining a bureaucratic government. No congress in reality relieve the tax-payer by simply cutting appropriations. It depends on what kind of government you want, but be assured one thing: as long as you have bureaucracy you are going to pay for it.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS
A Blundering State Department
Kansas City Star:

When Secretary Stimson sent his note to Japan and China making the Nine-Power treaty and Kellogg pact, it was understood that he had acted only after consultation with the other powers involved, and that they would support the stand of the United States.
They have not done so. The America therefore is deprived of much of its effectiveness. The country is left to know how this misunderstanding arose.

On Thursday afternoon the Associated Press announced from Washington that "definite action in the Siberian situation has been decided on by the interested powers."
Attention has been reached after conferences between Secretary Stimson and the British, French and Italian ambassadors. State department officials said the action to be taken was sweeping and unmistakable. The same evening the Associated Press followed its earlier announcement with another, saying: "It is expected Great Britain and several other powers will follow the American example."
This expectation was repeated in another dispatch from Washington today. It was not fulfilled. The other powers refused to support the American position. Saturday it was announced in Washington that "announced by Great Britain that she could not participate with the United States in invocation of the Nine-Power pact in the Sino-Japanese crisis came as a blow to Secretary Stimson today. Officials here had confidently expected the British government would follow the lead of Stimson."
The denunciation of the United States
and grave, especially important

In this particular case, in some other diplomatic crisis a similar misunderstanding might prove disastrous. It is exceedingly disconcerting to find the state department proceeding on the basis of incorrect information on the attitude of other powers. This vital information could have been readily obtained. Why was it not had?

The episode has shaken the confidence of the country in the competency of the state department's handling of foreign affairs.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Jago Gulistan, Academy of Medicine

MUCOUS COLITIS

The diseases to which mankind
is subject are many, but the specific treatments known to medical science are few.

No two cases of a disease are alike, and very rarely do we find a standard treatment that can be effectively administered without being first modified by the peculiar needs and circumstances of the patient.

For example, neither in origin,
cause, or behavior, does one case of mucous colitis resemble another. There are but few general rules of treatment applicable.

The rest must be determined by a careful study of the individual patient.

A number of cases of mucous colitis are due to catarrh of the intestines. Others are caused by irritation of the colon and rectum.

Disease of the ovaries and of the tubes may reflexly cause the passage of mucus and slime.

Evidently then, each case of mucous colitis must be studied to determine its possible cause or causes.

The nervous factor is usually large in this disease. Hence the basic neuroathetic state must be dealt with to achieve a cure.

The effect of intense emotional states upon the functions of the colon and rectum are proverbial.

Drugs and diet are at a disad-vantage in the treatment while the "secretion neurosis" of the colon persists.

Some relief may be gained by avoiding the coarser sorts of foods which leave a large residue after digestion.

Such foods include raw and cooked vegetables, fruits, bran breads, and the like.

The injection of a few ounces of olive oil at bedtime is sometimes helpful, but irrigations should not be taken except on instruction.

Sunday—Fear

SUNSET PASS

by Lane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Trueman Rock's
love for Thiry Preston is chilled
by her fear of her brother Ash.
Ash forbids any cowboy to approach Thiry. She rebuffs Rock, who is indignant because he knows Ash has a bad character
and is unworthy of her sympathy.
Rock works for Gage Preston, Thiry's father, who is growing mysteriously wealthy.

Chapter 17 ROCK GETS DESPERATE

"Through my brother Ash," said Thiry.
"Well, that's not hard to believe," replied Rock, with sharpness. "The other day he was a drunken, vulgar, lout. He ought to have been kicked out of that corral, and I'd have done it for you. Today when he was sober, he was a different proposition to meet. He was cold, mean, vicious.
He had no hospitality of the West—
no idea what was due a tired and hungry stranger. But at that I'd prefer him drunk. In my day on the range I've met some—"

"Trueman bit his tongue. The girl had suddenly covered her face with her hands. He could see her strain and almost writhe.
"Aw, Miss Preston, forgive me,
he burst out. "I didn't mean to distress you. I just spoke out quick without thinking."

"She drew her hands away and lifted her head. "You're quite right
—Mr. Rock," she said unsteadily.
"Ash is—all that you say. To my shame I confess it. All my life I've made excuses for him. It's no use.
I cannot do it—any more. . . .
"But that's not the point."

Rock sat down beside her, his anger flown, but there was another kind of heat running along his veins. How this girl must love her brother!
"I know. The point was the harm
that might come through Ash.
Please be frank with me. If I've brought this distress upon you, I'm entitled to know why."

"I've always been very—very fond of Ash," she said tremulously, struggling for a composure that would not return. "Partly because he was always so bad—and I seemed the only one who could influence him; for good. Ash cares for nothing but me. Not for father, mother, brothers, or his other sisters. He hates men—he hates horses
—he hates cattle. . . . And through these things I—I've stuck to him until now—I—Mr. Rock, I can't tell you."

"Spare yourself, Miss Preston," returned Rock, impulsively. "It's wonderful—beautiful of you. I admire and respect you for it. But I can't understand."
"No one can," she said, sadly.
"Alice thinks I'm mad. . . . Oh, how I dread this! But it has to be done—more with you than with any other who ever tried to be friends with me. I've known lots of boys and liked them, too. But not lately.
As I grow older Ash grows more jealous. He fears I might like some cowboy."

you were of Nick—how you saved his life once. Then Dad, he likes all cowboys, but I never saw him taken with anyone as he is with you. . . .
But the thing is I can't be friends
with you."

"Because of Ash?"
"Yes. That's where the harm would come in. He will not let any boy or man be friends with me—at least not here at Sunset."

"Very well. I give up my job and go ride for some other outfit—if you will be my friend."
"That's fine and square of you,
Mr. Rock, and I might promise so much."
"Much? That isn't much. I mean only friendship. Do you think I'm the kind of a man who'd want a girl to give more than friendship until he'd earned it? Well, I'm not.
And I wouldn't ask anything."

"Mr. Rock, you're making this harder for me," she said, with pite-ousness.
"I'm sorry. But go ahead."
"Cowboys have called on me here and many have come to ride for Dad. Just the regular run of cowboys. Ash soon got rid of them."
"I wonder how he did all that. I know cowboys well, where a pretty girl is concerned. And I'm just curious."
"I'll tell you. Ash has chased them away in every conceivable manner.
He's lied, as he lied to you about my not seeing riders who came to Sunset. He'd coolly invite them to leave. He'd bluff. He'd threaten.
He'd cripple and shoot their horses.
Oh, that was the vilest thing! He'd get them drunk while on guard—which Dad wouldn't forgive. He'd

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—It must make some of the democrats in the house feel a bit giddy when they see their names
and utterances occupying a much front page
newspaper space
nowadays.

It has been a long time since
they have enjoyed that sort of thing. For years it has been such lean picking for all but such a few of them
that they must be in a sort of daze.

There's the white-haired floor leader, Henry T. Rainey, for example, and James W. Collier of Mississippi, chairman of the ways and means committee. They have been doing a lot of talking lately
about taxes, tariff and the like,
and their every word has been snapped up eagerly by the newspapers.

Both of them have freely expressed their opinions before, but they attracted relatively scant attention. It is different now.

TOO MUCH TALK?
Gossip around the capitol has it that there is a feeling among the democratic leaders that too much talking is being done.

Outsiders have too frequently grabbed at the statements of one man and made them appear as expressions of party policy.

When Oden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, attacked the
"supposed" democratic tax plan, Speaker Garner quickly rushed in declaring that his party had not decided on anything definite.

Garner said in effect that an individual opinion is a vastly different thing from party policy.
Just who will be the enunciator of democratic policy when one is formed?
Will it be Speaker Garner? Will
it be Floor Leader Rainey? Or will it be Chairman Collier of the ways and means committee?

No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum case keeps it
FRESH ALWAYS!

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .
a little at a time
. . . so the uniform flavor
of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process
that roasts evenly, continuously, "a little at a time."

YOU CAN BANK ON THE SAME EXQUISITE FLAVOR IN EVERY POUND OF HILLS BROS COFFEE

MEAL AFTER MEAL—day after day—even year after year, you'll get the same pleasure from Hills Bros. Coffee. It never varies in flavor! Here is the reason—

Instead of bulk-roasting . . . the common practice . . . Hills Bros. use their patented Controlled Roasting process. The blend flows through the roasters in an even, continuous stream . . . a little at a time.

The roast that results can't be equalled for accuracy! No berry is underdone nor overdone—all are roasted to the same perfect degree . . . with a marvelous, unvarying flavor. It is a flavor no other coffee can have, because Hills Bros. patented the process.

Variation prevented by Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros' patented process

"A little at a time"—instead of in bulk—permits uniform roasting all the time

Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Order Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Young People Enjoy A 'Goober' Party

A group of young people enjoyed a pleasant evening, dancing and playing various games at the home of Fay Millaway Tuesday evening. This was a "goober" party and peanuts were served throughout the evening to the following: Ola Mae Hartman, Evelyn Bugg, Lillie Mae

Hill, Elizabeth Vick, Tena Lea Sikes, Lois Haley, Murie Grace Choate, Margaret Millaway, Cecil French, Lloyd Forrester, Paul Roberts, J. W. Forrester, Elmer Dyar, Oscar Heibsen, Bill Gage, Red Saunders, Doyle Vaughn, Charles Vines, Dub Coots, Paul Wasson, Carl Fletcher, Art Winslow and O. Johnson.

STORY HOUR

Mothers who want to go shopping tomorrow afternoon are reminded that the Child Study Club sponsors a story-telling hour and rhythm band at the Crawford Hotel, commencing at 3 o'clock.

A million dollars worth of mohair has been marketed in the San Angelo territory this year.

West Side Baptist W.M.S. Plans For A Social Meet

The West Side Baptist W. M. S. met Thursday afternoon with a business meeting. Mrs. B. G. Richardson had charge of an interesting Bible lesson.

Those present were Meses. Richardson, Miller, Claybrook, Robinson and C. O. Murphy. The lesson next Thursday will be the book of Acts. On the following Thursday, Jan. 28, there will be a program and social at the church at 3 o'clock, to which visitors will be welcomed.

The United States supplied 80 per cent of Chile's petroleum imports in 1930.

Wanted: Baby Shirts By A Deserving Infant

Imagine a little new baby with only one undershirt to its name! Mrs. Grief, of the Salvation Army, has appealed to the people, especially the mothers of the city, through the Herald, to help her clothe some of the winter babies who are coming into this world with no wardrobe whatever.

Surely, she says, some mothers have some warm infant clothes, especially little undershirts, stored away, that they would be glad to give to a little deserving baby. She has a baby on hand right now, whose sole possession is one undershirt. The telephone number of the Salvation Army is 1071.

Thrift Week Observed By West Ward

Mrs. Stripling Talks To P.T.A. On Subject; Play Postponed

West Ward P.T.A. met for a program on thrift, Thursday afternoon, observing in advance national thrift week which commences with Benjamin Franklin's birthday Sunday. Mrs. Fox Stripling made the chief talk of the afternoon.

The meeting was opened with a singing led by Mrs. Robt. Parks and Mrs. V. H. Fiewellen. Due to Mrs. Smith's illness the children in her room were unable to put on the play they had planned, to their great disappointment.

In the business session the members discussed the feeding of the undernourished children, planned to buy 125 tooth brushes for those who had neither brushes nor money; to ask the unemployed fathers to erect the schoolground play equipment which has been stored in the basement.

Mrs. Agnell's room had the most mothers present. For the second number, Miss Chadd's, Miss Fowler's and Mrs. Smith's rooms tied.

On the next meeting of the P.T.A., Feb. 11, there will be a program prepared by the children to dedicate the U. S. flag donated to the school by the council and a tree planting ceremony honoring the memory of Geo. Washington. Each room will plant a tree in the school ground in accordance with the landscaping plans of the builders. This date will also be founders' day and a silver offering will be taken.

TRAVELING MAN ENDORSES ALL-BRAN

Says It Brought Relief From Constipation

"I want to take this unsolicited means to tell you what ALL-BRAN has done for me.

"I am on the road all the time, and this has a tendency to constipate me, or any one who travels all the time. I used to suffer a great deal from constipation, until some one told me about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating this cereal, I have been cured of constipation. I heartily endorse it to any one suffering as I did."

Mr. B. F. Pollard, Marion, N. C. Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet. "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN provides both. At the same time, it supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

How much better than risking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation—serious cases, with every meal. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Local R.N.A.'s Install Heads

Two New Members Are Initiated Into Chapter

Blue Mountain Lodge, No. 7277, R.N.A., met for initiation and installation ceremonies Thursday evening at the Settles Hotel Lodge rooms.

Mrs. Nellie Forbes and Mrs. Monette Moore were initiated as new members. The following officers took the oath of office: Mrs. E. C. Boatler, orator; Mrs. T. J. A. Robinson, past orator; Mrs. D. H. Petty, vice-orator; Mrs. Roy Williams, chancellor; Mrs. Gray Byers, receiver; Mrs. Shelby Hall, reporter; Mrs. A. A. McElrath, musician; Mrs. J. H. Pond, inner sentinel; Mrs. A. C. Wilkerson, outer sentinel; Mrs. John Orr, flag-bearer; Mrs. Troy Byers, degree captain; Miss Clara Bailey, marshal; Mrs. W. L. Buzbee, assistant marshal; Meses. Ford Pierce, M. C. Lawrence, F. W. Plummer, Morris Burns, L. S. Boyles, five graces.

Mrs. Robinson was honored with a lovely assortment of handkerchiefs as retiring orator. The social hour was in charge of Meses. Russell, Masters, Robinson and Nance, who served fruit at the close of the evening to the 30 members present.

Mrs. Carnrike Aids In Installation

The W.O.W. Circle installed officers for the coming term at the regular business meeting Thursday evening at the Woodmen Hall.

Mrs. W. E. Carnrike, who was re-appointed auditor, had charge of the installation ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. A. M. Ripps.

The following were into office: Mrs. Lela Andrews, guardian; Mrs. Eula Robinson, past guardian; Mrs. W. A. Rieker, advisor; Miss Fannie Stephens, clerk; Mrs. Ethel Clifton, banker; Mrs. Anna Petefish, attendant; Miss Pauline Schuber, assistant attendant; Mrs. Cora Fleeman, chaplain; Mrs. Clara Boyles, inner sentinel; Mrs. Willie Henry, outer sentinel; Mrs. A. M. Ripps, reporter and junior supervisor. During the social hour Mrs. Eula Robinson, retiring guardian, was presented with a handsome pocket book from the Circle, the lovely presentation speech being made by Miss Pauline Schuber.

Refreshments of pie and coffee were served to the officers and the following members: Meses. Jim Cauble, Maude Morris, Ruth Barnes, Elvira Stinson and Mr. E. G. Towler.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET

The Young People's Class of the Presbyterian Church will meet in the assembly room of the church Sunday evening at 8:15 promptly. Miss Verberna Barnes will continue her story of the Bible. All members are urged to be present and visitors are welcomed and reminded that the lesson is always over in time for other church services in the city.

Texas Topic

By RAYMOND BROOKS

A group of nine men and women who sat in Austin early this week has more power than any other body short of the two houses of the legislature action together, to effect financial economies to the state.

That group has planned, when it can get away from other duties, to begin a program of efficiency development that will carry the economy part with it... but unless its program is worked out before the budget receives the initial pre-view of the governor this year, it cannot be made very effective for two long years.

The group is the state board of education, of which Nat M. Washar, able business man, is chairman—a group having such outstanding men in its membership as James O. Gileke of Amarillo.

Its long arm in the direction of efficiency and economy is the power specifically given it by the legislature to deal with the courses of study in the higher educational institutions.

What does that power mean? It means not only authority but the duty of integrating the teacher colleges and the other colleges with the work of the university.

The power extends to making each of the 20 higher state educational institutions a specialized unit. It therefore extends to abolishing 19 sets of overlapping and duplication—nineteen parallel setups for the same type of work.

The power extends to a tremendous change from the present system in which teacher colleges at Alpine, Canyon, Commerce, Denton, Nacogdoches, San Marcos, Huntsville compete with one another in their courses of study. It extends to taking out the lost motion of duplications between Texas Tech, the College of Arts and Industries, the College of Industrial Arts, Arlington and John Tarleton colleges.

Duplication between the University of Texas and A&M College... and between each group and each other group.

If the revised and specialized curriculum should disclose that Texas can pay the transportation of pupils now attending some of the colleges at other half-way across the state—if it shows that the state has about twice as many teacher colleges as there is any excuse for—if it proves that ambitious colleges have crowded into a field of endeavor and set up competing faculties for work they are not justified in attempting, those problems can be worked out in the light of the $5,000,000 present deficit, and the peaceful revolution over excessive taxes.

Its final report probably will prove all of these things.

The board is cautious, and rightly so on a matter of this importance.

It found so much to do concerning public school education that it has not yet, in a little more than a year of its existence—since it replaced an ex-officio board of three—to get beyond the problems of public schools.

But it is looking forward to functioning in adjusting the higher education curriculum to Texas needs, rather than the political ambitions of members of the legislature.

The budget is being made for higher education this summer by the board of control. Under a new law, Gov. Sterling will make his own recommendations before the legislature gets the budget. And since the governor has final say, by veto, his recommendations will get respectful attention in the legislature.

If the board of education is to make its work of ironing out the foolish, costly duplication—duplication that is injurious actual to the state's system of education by making all mediocre rather than each a highly-developed, specialized unit—its preliminary revisions at least should be made in time to go into the budget.

Sensible Designs Easily Used By The Home Dressmaker

A GOOD STYLE IN PAJAMAS FOR THE GROWING GIRL

7416. In this comfortable model, one has a choice of long or short sleeve or collarless and sleeveless blouse. The front of the trousers is mounted on a pointed yoke. In the back an elastic run casing holds the fulness. The blouse may be tucked in under the top of the trousers or worn in over blouse style. Cotton crepes or cotton prints are good for this style. Saten or pongee is also suggested. Designed in 7 Sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 will require 3-3-8 yards of 29 inch material if made with long sleeves. If made with short sleeves 3-1-8 yards will be required. Collar and cuffs of contrasting material will be worth who has been ill for several months.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps by the Herald.

SUNSET—
(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4)—ridicule any sensitive cowboy before the outfit—so terribly that the poor fellow would leave. He'd concoct devilish schemes to make a cowboy seem negligent or crooked. And as a last resource he'd pick fights. Oh, he has beaten several cowboys brutally. Then worst of all—he has thrown his gun on more than one. Archie Black will be a cripple for life. And Jack Worthington nearly died of a gun-shot.

"How very interesting!" exclaimed Rock, and for the life of him he could not keep his voice normal. "And has nothin' ever happened to this bully?"

Bleeding Gum Healed

The sight of sore gums is sickening. Reliable dentists often report the successful use of Leto's Pyorrhoea Remedy on their very worst cases. If you will get a bottle and use as directed druggists will return money if it fails. At Cunningham & Phillips—adv.

"Sure, Sailor.. I used to Roll my Own"

"I CARRIED the makin's for years. Got so I could roll 'em single-handed. But there's no real economy in it. The way I figure is this: A fellow don't spend so much on himself but what he can afford to enjoy the best in smokes."

"Myself... I smoke Chesterfields. They cured me of rollin' my own. First off, you get better tobacco."

"I'm not knockin' the makin's... but it stands to reason Chesterfields wouldn't be where they are today if they didn't give you the finest tobacco. I like their aroma."

"Plenty of Turkish in Chesterfields... and you don't get that in the makin's."

And there must be something about the blend, too... you can't get a milder, better taste... not anywhere!

"Got a right good opinion of myself, but I don't figure I'm as clever as those cigarette-making machines. Every single Chesterfield is round and filled right... beats anything you can roll yourself. Besides, it smokes cooler and lasts longer. I've tried both, so I know."

Nothing amateurish about Chesterfield's Radio Program, either! Nat Shilkret's Orchestras and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you every night except Sunday, at 10:30 Eastern Standard Time, on the Columbia Coast-to-Coast Network.
