

Holloway Again Heads State Brotherhood Wirt Franklin Sounds Keynote Of Oil Tariff Campaign

Curtailment In U.S. Offset He Declares

Good Faith of Secretary Wilbur Questioned At Tyler

TYLER, Oct. 20. (UP)—The keynote of the impending battle in congress for a tariff on crude and refined foreign oil imports was sounded today by Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Producers Association of America.

Speaking before East Texas oil men here, the Oklahoma City independent leader sketched the various conservation movements in the nation since 1921. He scathingly denounced theories and practices of the federal conservation board. The good faith of Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur was questioned when Franklin charged him with sponsoring a "false conservation idea."

"Within the past two years the individual oil producing states have heeded the demand for curtailing production and have created a condition in which there is no actual overproduction," Franklin said.

Work Offset
"But the good work has been offset by mounting imports of oil and gasoline. The permanent remedy for the existing condition of demoralization in the petroleum industry is the imposition by Congress of a tariff of at least $1 a barrel on imports of gasoline and other refined products."

These figures, the speaker said, are supported by the report of the tariff commission made to congress last year.

"Without this protection, the domestic oil industry is doomed to gradual, but nevertheless certain, extinction."

Franklin flayed the administrations of Harding and Coolidge and the actions of Mark Requa, acting for President Hoover, in the Colorado Springs conference of 1929. The bugaboo of rapid depletion of domestic oil reserves as testified to by these groups was branded as propaganda for importing companies.

RAILWAYS LOSE RATE HIKE PLEA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today denied the railways permission to increase freight rates throughout the country as asked in a long series of hearings.

The carriers sought a 15 per cent raise. The commission, however, suggested specific increases on designated commodities during a limited period.

The suggestions were conditioned upon submission and approval of arrangements between the road for pooling the revenue thus resulting. The plan was intended to enable the lines to meet fixed interest payments as they accrue.

Italian Nationality Of Columbus Verified By Recent Discovery

ROME, Oct. 20. (UP)—Two priceless documents—one the original diploma which Ferdinand and Isabella gave to Christopher Columbus appointing him "Admiral of the Indies" before he set out to wind the new world—have just been discovered.

These, with a third document unearthed in the Vatican archives, established decisively the Italian origin of the discoverer, according to Professor Francesco Creli, who made the announcement to the United Press today.

Professor Creli believes he has a completed chain of records which prove that Columbus was born near Genoa.

Medical Clinic Secretary Sought For Killing, Mutilation of Women; Bodies Found In Trunks at Station

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20. (UP)—Officers were watching trains and roads along the Mexican border today, hunting for Mrs. Winnie Ruth Rudd, 37, medical clinic secretary, suspected of the killings of Mrs. Agnes Lovel, x-ray technician of Phoenix, Ariz., and her clinic roommate, Miss Hedvig Samuelson.

An evening in a local hotel with a man and some liquor, followed by a night flight in a specially chartered airplane from Big Spring airport to Dallas, ended for the waitress known as "Fritzi" with arrest Tuesday morning by Dallas county officers and the filing of a charge of theft by the county attorney on complaint of a Big Spring business man.

When arrested in a Dallas hotel the young woman, a blonde of 20, had $2,300 in cash in her purse.

The Howard county sheriff's department advised Dallas officers the woman was alleged to have taken a large sum of money from a man here.

"I didn't steal the old geezer's money, he gave it to me and told me to have a good time with it," she said when arrested.

She admitted the man had been somewhat under influence of liquor when the money changed hands.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter reported a local man came to his office from a hotel Tuesday morning and said he had lost all his money during the night.

Sheriff Hal Hood of Dallas was advised. It was learned that Don Teel, local commercial pilot, had taken off from the airport here at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday in his ship with one passenger.

The ship's numbers were sent to Dallas. The plane's landing place was learned, the woman passenger's route from the field checked through a taxi cab company.

She was found at a hotel. Teel told the sheriff he reached Dallas about six a. m. He landed here at 12:15 p. m. today and reported all he knew about the affair.

County Attorney James Little filed a complaint of theft from person against Fritzi Stales.

Deputy Sheriff Andrew Merrick was on his way to Dallas to return the girl here.

Construction of T&PN Would Give Impetus to Dawson County Livestock Feeding Operations, Agent Points Out

LAMESA, Oct. 20.—Construction of the T. & P. Northern railway line proposed from Big Spring north through Lamesa to Vega, would give added impetus to feeding operations in Dawson county. It is believed by many in close touch with the agricultural situation.

The new line would give overnight livestock freight service to Fort Worth whereas now three days or thereabouts are required.

Several sheep raisers of the San Angelo and Sterling City territory have recently evidenced a desire to feed out herds in Dawson county, because of the abundance of rich, nourishing feed here. Dawson county likely, it is said, raises more feed than any other county on the plains and it is uniformly of high quality.

Several raisers have said they would not put their sheep in a county that had no county agent. Since Dawson county does have a county agent that phase of the project is overcome. Should the T. & P. come through it would furnish raisers another reason for wanting to feed sheep out here. Once fattened the animals could be put on the market with the minimum of time and effort.

when that body was hearing the petition of the T. & P. N. railway to build north from Big Spring through Lamesa to Vega. County Agent W. W. Evans said: "The farm men and women of Dawson county are cooperating in this program of work, and many of them are demonstrating the value of following this method and system."

Among numerous outstanding results only two are selected: "Pure seed, state certified, is being produced and shipped to all parts of the country."

"Livestock production with purebred and high grade animals is permanently and definitely established on 75 percent of the cotton farms."

Further testimony given by Mr. Evans at this hearing, testimony which he arranged and which was not refuted, was, quoting only extracts:

"Continued growth and development of Dawson county as a farm-community is dependent more and more on adequate transportation to the market centers. This is absolutely necessary to encourage farmers to better prepare and finish livestock and livestock products for sale."

Mr. Evans stated that under then existing transportation facilities, (which still exist) that it was practically impossible to transport finished cattle to El Paso and realize a profit. Virtually the same held true of Fort Worth.

profitable and that feed is available for that purpose. It is also demonstrated that it is economically sound and more profitable to the farmers to convert a part of their grain and forage into meat products rather than to be forced to ship the grain to other locations, as at present, to be used for feeding purposes. This industry will never prosper until Dawson county receives such railroad service as will be provided by the T. & P. N."

With completion of the road Mr. Evans pointed out "There will be northward movement of feeder stock direct to the Dawson county neighborhood for final finishing for the market." One of the big reasons is that an improved rail schedule to Fort Worth and El Paso will make Dawson county a highly favorable finishing area, the feed and all other factors already abetting such a project.

Mileage Opinion Issued Years Ago Alred Declares

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—Attorney General James V. Alred today pointed out that an opinion holding sheriffs were not entitled to mileage for the execution of a justice court warrant in felony cases was made originally nine years ago during the administration of former Attorney General W. A. Keeling.

He said the ruling again was made during the administration of former Attorney General Claude Pollard.

"These rulings of the former attorneys general apparently were disregarded until this year when the state auditor again placed the question before this department and it was furnished with copies of the former opinions," Attorney General Alred said.

"The matter of the opinions had been discussed at the Texas Sheriffs' Association convention in Fort Worth."

"We are not responsible for the law regardless of the hardship it may work upon honest sheriffs of Texas," Alred said. "We drew a bill to correct this matter and it was introduced and passed the Senate in the last session of the legislature but failed to get through the House. The sheriffs are at liberty to try to get a bill through the next session of the legislature, or to test it out in court again if they want to, but I merely want to get the records straight and want the public to know what I believe most of the sheriffs know: That this has been the law for 20 years."

The Diary of a Deb

This evening outfit is one of the fall costumes worn by Jean Woodson, Washington debutante. The coat is of black velvet with white fur collar.

(Editor's Note: Following is the third of a series of eight articles written by Jean Woodson, Washington society girl, describing the life of a debutante.)

By JEAN WOODSON (For The Associated Press) 3—My Houston Whirl WASHINGTON, (AP)—Right now I want to forget Washington and tell you about my visit in Houston, Texas, for I had such a wonderful time there.

Everyone treated me so nicely and there was something to do every minute. I visited Virginia Eagle, and she gave a wonderful luncheon in my honor the very day I arrived. I was so thrilled when we drove out to the country club and met all the girls.

After the luncheon we drove around the city in Virginia's new car. We went to the first football game played this season by Rice Institute and that night we attended the first Rice dance.

During my visit we went some place every night. Most of the time though it was to a roof garden. The orchestra was very good and the dance floor was fixed up so cute with colored lights that made the girls' dresses most attractive.

It reminded me a lot of a roof garden in Washington. The Texas girls are beautiful and their complexions are exquisite.

Hallowe'en Party Announced For Birdie Baileys

The Birdie Bailey Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church met at the church Monday afternoon for Bible Study conducted by Mrs. Hugh Duncan. The study was the first and second chapters of Chronicles.

Dance At Hotel Last Night Was Popular Feature

Following a most entertaining afternoon spent in driving over the city Monday afternoon and getting acquainted with all the good dancers of town in the evening, the delegates to the Ladies' Auxiliary to the B. of R. T. are strong in their praises of Big Spring today.

The morning session behind closed doors held most of the delegates in strict confinement today but occasionally some of them slipped out to say "at a nice time Big Spring was giving them. The crystal ballroom of the Settle Hotel was crowded for the dance and the popularity of waltz music testified to the fact that old and young were enjoying the evening together.

B. N. Ralph and W. E. Clay were sent in a committee to greet the Ladies' Auxiliary, from the men who held their session separately. The Auxiliary committee, who returned the courtesy, was composed of Meses J. P. Meador and J. T. Allen, from the local organization and G. H. Killingsworth of Cleburne and E. Stalcup, of Temple.

Among the most active visitors are the Temple delegation. Temple wants the convention next year and according to reports from the Auxiliary, it has sent its prettiest and peyriest members to secure it, or to give El Paso a hard fight.

Mmes. Hill, Happel Are Hostesses To Christian Council

The members of the Christian Council met at the home of Mrs. E. H. Happel Monday afternoon for a business meeting and a social meeting. Mrs. H. G. Hill was co-hostess for the afternoon.

The members occupied the time suggesting ways and means to fatten the Council pig which has not earned all the money it should have brought. They also planned a silver tea to be given at the home of Mrs. Inkman on Nov. 18, the next council meeting date.

Unusually delicious sandwiches, individual pumpkin pies with whipped cream and coffee were served by the two hostesses to the following members: Meses. Ira Rockhold, H. E. Cla., F. R. Peck, W. M. Taylor, C. A. Brewer, Dorothy A. Newland, H. Clay Read, J. P. Kennedy, C. A. Murock and W. W. Inkman.

Grand Officer Praises City For Its Welcome

"I have attended conventions in every state of the union and in every province in Canada, but in no place have I experienced a more cordial welcome than was given by the mayor of this city this morning, nor a greater hospitality than has been shown by the people of Big Spring," Augusta M. Stutzer, Columbus, O., Grand Secretary-Treasurer, said in speaking before the members of the L.A. and B. of R. T. yesterday afternoon in an open meeting in the ballroom of the Settle Hotel.

Mrs. Stutzer gave a brief history of the foundation of the order and of its present work. The Ladies' Auxiliary is organized in every State in the Union with over 65,000 members. Financially and in every other way the Auxiliary has been a great success, the Grand Secretary-Treasurer declared.

Junior Hyperion Club Meets At Mrs. Thurman's

WASHINGTON

DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—Again Washington political observers are wondering if the opening session of the congress in December will find Huey P. Long in his seat in the United States senate or in the governor's mansion at Baton Rouge, La.
The issue of a move of his bitter enemy in Louisiana—curly-haired Paul N. Cyr, lieutenant governor—in taking the oath as governor on the grounds that Long can't be the state's chief executive and United States senator at the same time raises some doubt if it is not the first time a situation like this has arisen. The late "Old Bob" LaFollette remained away from the senate almost a year after he was elected because he preferred to hold on to his job as governor of Wisconsin.
In this case however, claims are advanced that conditions are different.

Cyr Cites His Reason
Cyr, a native of the famed Arcadian section of Louisiana and who once sponsored the career of a successful boxer, contends that Long is violating the state constitution by holding both jobs.
And he refers to article IX, section 4, which reads:
"No member of congress, nor person holding or exercising any office of trust or profit under the United States or any state or under any foreign power shall be eligible as a member of the legislature, or hold or exercise any office of trust or profit under this state."
Long replies that he is not a member of congress; that he will not be until he stands before the bar of the senate and takes the oath of office.
Cyr counters that Long has presented his credentials, signed by himself as governor, and by that act has taken on the job as senator. In this Senator Broussard of Louisiana concurs.
Apparently it is a question that the courts alone must decide.

Long 'Sets Tight'
Louisiana's next gubernatorial primary will be held January 19, Cyr is an avowed candidate for governor. Long has a candidate in the field.
Long has studiously avoided leaving the state since the break with his lieutenant governor.
His fear that the moment he leaves the state, Lieutenant Governor Cyr will step in and work detriment to him is responsible.

How's your HEALTH
Whoooping Cough
With the possible exception of measles, the public underestimates the seriousness and hazard of whooping cough.
Whoooping cough is a very debilitating disease. The spasms of coughing, which are characteristic, consume the vitality of the child and interfere with the normal workings of its little body.
There is no specific medical treatment. Drugs may be prescribed to reduce the frequency and the severity of the coughing spells, and they are frequently of great value.
The substance of good treatment of the afflicted child is in the physical care given, and this is largely in the hands of the mother and nurse.
The child should not be exposed to severe weather, though it will benefit and suffer fewer coughing spells in the open air.
Dust and smoke should be avoided, since they are apt to irritate the throat and lungs and cause coughing.
When going out of doors the children should be so dressed that there will be no danger of their suffering a chill.
Flannel pajamas will help protect the child at night against chills, should it disarrange its covering.
Unless the doctor orders a change, it is best to adhere to a dietary composed of foods which the child eats normally.
It is generally better to reduce the size and increase the number of feedings.
The extra meals can with advantage be made up of milk, milk-containing drinks, soups, ice cream, custard and the like.
The child is more prone to retain its food after a paroxysm of coughing. In case of vomiting, it may be necessary to serve the child a new meal.
The mother who must be nurse as well should keep a simple daily record, noting the number, frequency and relative severity of the paroxysms of coughing, vomiting, if any, and all other noteworthy incidents.

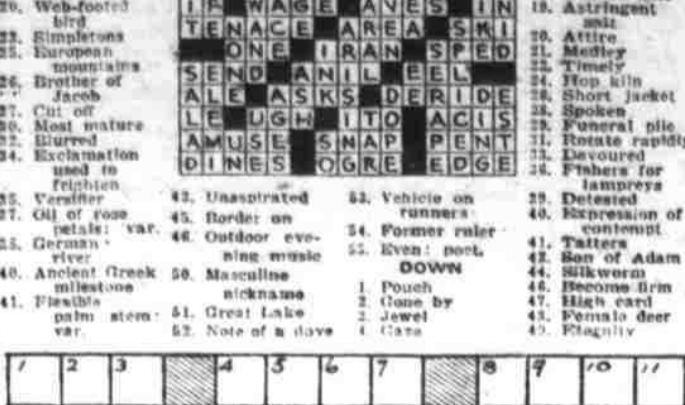

Political Mistake
San Angelo Standard:
"THE political mistake of failure to redistrict Texas for congressional purposes became more apparent Saturday at Coleman when Jim Ferguson made one of his typical addresses. The setting was ideal for another edition of Fergusonism and an unrelenting crowd received it, we are told, with applause.
It is generally understood that both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson are contemplating the race for congressmen at large next year. It would be an unsettling condition, aggravating an already unsettled economic state.
Ferguson introduced a promissory note to Texas politics, but he would abolish such things as interest on the economic structure. He claims he would jail the federal reserve members. The political clap-net, always an identifying mark of Fergusonism, readily becomes apparent through the psychology of the statements probably touched a responsive chord among those who would like to see such a thing happen, though anyone should have the good sense to know that neither could be accomplished.
It is apparent that the federal reserve system could function to better advantage of the people and the banks compelled to be members of the system, but the fallacy of introducing Ferguson's plans for bolstering the economic structure is just as apparent.
Ferguson hit upon some truths—"taxes should be cut in half, politics is in awful shape, and the people need the best talent and the best courage to meet the conditions." He had opportunity to demonstrate that he couldn't cut tax levies in half when he was governor in his own right and again when he was helping his wife. He eliminated himself when he talked of best talent and best courage. It takes no great stretch of the imagination to picture a candidate who would have more of such than has Ferguson.

Building Industries Wage Scales Stand On Five-Day Basis
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28 (UP)—Present wage scales in the building industries in the San Francisco area will be maintained in 1932 on a five day week basis, according to an order today by an impartial wage board representing employes and employers.
In addition, the board recommended the adoption of a six hour day "if, as seems probable, such a course proves advisable."

Superintendent of New York Banks and 29 Others Indicted
NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (UP)—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, and 29 officers and directors of the Bank of the United States were indicted today in connection with the bank's failure.
Three indictments, charging neglect of duty, and conspiracy were returned against Broderick.

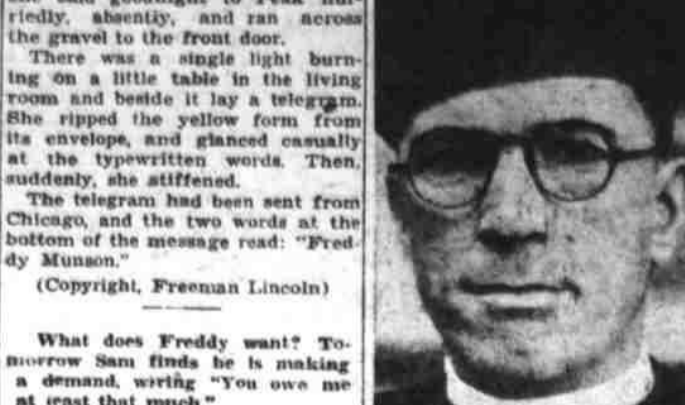

Chapter 25 TRAMCART
Peak could not answer Sam's question of how poverty had affected her.
"Well," said Sam, "the result has been that I've always been a charity patient. I've been forced to accept invitation after invitation that I've never had a hope of being able to return. People have even tried to give me clothes! Is it any wonder that I've fallen into a very definite classification?"
"And what," Peak inquired slowly, "do you consider your classification?"
"I'm a sponge," said Sam contemptuously. "A large, squishy, high-absorbent sponge."
"Rot!" said Peak. "Nothing but silly pride."
She nodded. "It also explains why I've been so happy since Fourth made that money."
"Yes," he nodded, and then frowned. "I see that, but if money was your only worry, why weren't you happy as soon as you and I got ourselves engaged?"
She stamped her foot. "Oh, can't you see that money from you would just be more of the same? More charity? Can't you understand that this money of Fourth's is honestly earned, is honestly mine?"
"Yes," said Peak calmly. He had himself under complete control once more. The madness had gone.
"I'll admit, though, that had happened in you was due to something else."
Sam's eyes wandered from his. "You mean that you hoped I'd come to care more about you. Well, I have come to care more about you—a lot more."
He did not move. "But you can't that you love me? Is that it?"
She was silent.
"You kissed me, Sam," he reminded her gently. "It wasn't just an ordinary kiss. It meant something. What did it mean?"
"I—I don't know."
"Don't you want to love me, Sam?"
"Yes, I want to love you. I want to love you—terribly! But—"
"But, what?"
"But I don't see how I can." Her eyes were wide. "It's impossible, Peak," she said in a small tired voice.
He instantly knew what she meant. She meant that it was impossible for her to love him because of Freddy Munson. Freddy Munson stood in the way. Freddy's presence suddenly filled the entire summer house, and Peak resented it. He resented it so deeply that he said something he was bitterly regretting.
"Impossible!" The words were cold. "Why is it impossible, unless there is somebody else. There isn't anybody else, is there, Sam?"
Sam said nothing. Her wide eyes merely became wider and wider and then suddenly filled with tears.
After an interval of silence Peak shuddered and shook his head as though emerging from a bad dream. Then he said roughly: "Don't pay any attention to me. I must be crazy. Come on, let's get out of here. It's cold."
They went out into the wind. The moon had disappeared, and with it the pleasant little valley. As Peak had said, it was cold.
On the way home, and Sam had insisted, that they go home inside,

Pains Stopped When Lady Got Stronger
"ABOUT a year ago, my health was not good," writes Mrs. W. F. Siveley, 8660 First Court, N., Birmingham, Ala. "I felt weak, tired. I had pains in my back. I knew by these symptoms I needed something to build me up. My mother advised me to try Cardui, which I did. I found it was what I needed, for it built me up. The pain in my back stopped, and I felt better and stronger than I had in some time. I took about 7 bottles of Cardui in all."

should have remembered, she had been happy when she should have been miserable. As a sort of crowning touch she had kissed Peak Abbott that very night. She had not kissed him, as Peak himself has suggested, through any sense of duty, but simply because she had responded to a very definite urge. What did that kiss mean? What did anything mean?
When they reached the stable she said goodnight to Peak hurriedly, absently, and ran across the gravel to the front door.
There was a single light burning on a little table in the living room and beside it lay a telegram. She ripped the yellow form from its envelope, and glanced casually at the typewritten words. Then, suddenly, she stiffened.
The telegram had been sent from Chicago, and the two words at the bottom of the message read: "Freddy Munson."
(Copyright, Freeman Lincoln)

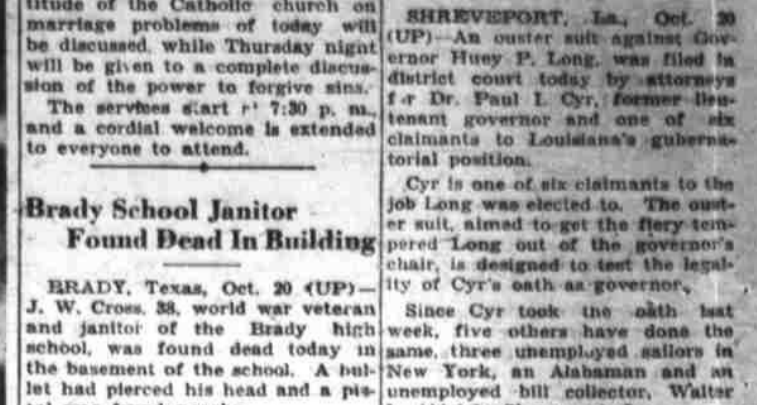

What does Freddy want? Tomorrow Sam finds he is making a demand, writing 'You owe me at least that much.'

Death from gunshot wounds inflicted.
Cyr had been familiar with the school four years. He survived by his estranged wife and two small sons by a former marriage.
Cyr Files Ouster Suit Against Long
SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 28 (UP)—An ouster suit against Governor Huey P. Long, was filed in district court today by attorneys for Dr. Paul I. Cyr, former lieutenant governor and one of six claimants to Louisiana's gubernatorial position.
Cyr is one of six claimants to the job Long was elected to. The ouster suit, aimed to get the fiery tempered Long out of the governor's chair, is designed to test the legality of Cyr's oath as governor.
Since Cyr took the oath last week, five others have done the same, three unemployed sailors in New York, an Alabamian and an unemployed bill collector, Walter L. Aldrich, Shreveport, La. Aldrich is expected to file a suit to oust Cyr.

That Stays up in the Motor and Never Drains Away

PROVES ANY OIL WOULD BE BETTER OIL IF GERM PROCESSED

Other good oils lubricate working parts after the motor starts and oil is pumped from the crankcase through the motor, which takes several minutes. But Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor at all times and lubricates working parts safely during the starting period... when almost half of all motor wear takes place! A "hidden quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Only Germ Processed Oil can give you this sure protection at all times, because only Germ Processed Oil can penetrate and combine with metal surfaces... an exclusive characteristic called "penetrative lubricity." So you can see... any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed! But only Conoco makes Germ Processed Oil... for Conoco owns exclusive patent rights for North America. Don't be contented with oil that lacks the germ process. Stop at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Save your motor from wear... keep it young and powerful!

JAPANESE STATESMAN RECOMMENDS PROHIBITION AS SOLUTION FOR ECONOMIC DEPRESSION

By SHO NEMOTO

The recovery from the present economic depression that is now daily increasing throughout not only Japan but all the countries is a matter that should be carefully considered by us all.

First, then, I believe the right and speedy way to bring about the betterment of the economic situation is to work for prohibition.

An immense amount of money is not only wasted by the drinking habits of the people are demoralized and degraded by the use of alcoholic liquors.

We hear that the present time there are half a million people out of employment. To change this sad state of things we wish to know what course to pursue.

We are happy to know that the Emperor of Japan does not take any alcoholic beverages, nor is he a user of tobacco. This was much praised when Count Futaba, in an address, stated the reply of the Crown Prince when asked why he did not take wine on his trip to Europe: "His Majesty replied: 'Wine or sake is useless.'"

On the same voyage Rear Admiral Yamamoto asked His Highness, who was then Crown Prince, why he did not smoke? His Majesty replied, "Yamamoto, do you not know the anti-smoking law for minors?" His Majesty was not then twenty years of age. The Rear Admiral was mortified and ashamed by the instructive answer of the Crown Prince.

Recently His Highness, Prince Chichibu, and the Princess made a trip to the North. The governor of Fukushima Prefecture made careful preparation to entertain His Highness, and among other things sent to Nada, near Kobe, five hundred miles away where the best grapes in Japan are grown, for a supply of wine. But His Highness did not touch a drop of wine of any sort.

His temperate life may be due in part, at least to the influence of his consort who was educated in a Friends' school in the United States.

This I say after the experience of eighty years.

Anniversary Of Yorktown Is Observed

President Hoover Heard At Sesquicentennial Exposition

YORKTOWN, Va., Oct. 20 (AP)—Standing where once George Washington led a ragged force to a great victory, President Hoover Monday warned that in the face of "temporary dislocations, Americans must remember that similar obstacles had been overcome in the past as the nation swept forward to ever increasing strength."

The president spoke on the hallowed ground into a battery of modern microphones. He stood surrounded by three sides of a great amphitheatre, seating many of the noted of this country and Europe, present for the pageantry commemorating the sesquicentennial of the battle of Yorktown.

But few of his words touched upon present day problems, only as he closed did he picture in broad, brief strokes the advance of the nation during the past century and a half.

"It has attained a security amongst nations," he said, "by which no thought ever comes that an enemy may step within our borders."

"While temporary dislocations have come to us because of the world war, we must not forget our forefathers met similar obstacles to progress time and again, and yet the nation has swept forward to ever increasing strength. No American can review this pageant of progress without confidence and faith, without courage, strength, and resolution for the future."

The chief executive asserted that without Washington "the war for independence would not have been won."

"The campaign which led to its final climax here established his military genius," he said. "It was the crown of victory which placed his name among the great commanders of all time."

Earlier he had described the battle of Yorktown as one of the few decisive battles in the history of the world, asserting that had it not been won the whole course of history would have been altered.

"The primary national consequence of the independence we finally won here," Mr. Hoover said, "was the release of our national minds from all hampering restraints put upon us by submission to another nation and an older civilization. Here America became free to be America."

The president paid tribute to the aid lent the struggling colonists by France, calling by name Degrasse, Lafayette and Rochambeau. He spoke also of Marshal Pétain, who listened as he talked.

This And That By Mark

Just a little error in yesterday's column we would like to correct. We gave Hebsen credit for making 40 yards from scrimmage when the number should have been 140.

We are in receipt of a letter from a good local fan and friend who gets us told in no uncertain terms concerning the TCU-AAM game of last Saturday. A few figures handed us for our enlightenment follow:

Yards gained from scrimmage TCU 284—AAM 130

Yards gained on running plays TCU 99—AAM 90

Yards gained on passes TCU 185—AAM 40

Just a little error in the first statement. The yards listed as gained from scrimmage should be changed slightly. Yards from scrimmage are not inclusive of passing gains. The scrimmage yardage is just about the same with the Frogs having a 9-yard advantage.

Our remark that the Frogs walked late in the contest to come across with a scoring punch seems to have been misunderstood. We were casting no reflections on the Frogs, but possibly we should have said that it was not until late in the game that the Frogs were able to put over a marker.

The Frogs have a good team. It just so happens that this column got on the wrong side of the fence and picked the Aggies to come out on top. We all make mistakes however, for your scribe also picked the Owls to drop one to Texas in the conference opener.

Three special trains will leave the Lone Star State Wednesday carrying fans to Cambridge for the Longhorn-Crimson battle on Saturday. Arrangements have been completed for the Texans to work out in Indianapolis Thursday and Friday in Boston Friday. The Texans on their first invasion of the East will play before one of the sectional contests in the East in largest crowds to witness an inter-year.

An added attraction to the tussle Saturday will be the individual battle between "Bull" Elkins, Texas field general and Eary Wood, who directs the Crimson while on the field of battle. Both men are three letter men and in contradiction of the ordinary supposition that most football players are just a wee bit slow in the classroom the rival quarterbacks are Phi Beta Kappa men which in plain English means they rank high enough in their studies to become eligible to the highest scholastic fraternity in the country.

As far as football ability is concerned we hand the advantage, if any, to the Crimson back.

Dr. J. R. Dillard spins the best yarn of the week. Doc tells us that he went out in the country the other afternoon to look at a horse and he passed through a pasture so thickly populated with quail that he had to borrow a shotgun to get the birds away from the car. No, nothing for the game warden to get excited over. The M. D. rambled on to mention an owl he shot between the eyes at 100 paces with a 22 calibre pistol. This department would enjoy hearing from anyone who can either equal or better the foregoing.

The second conference game of the season will be staged for the benefit of local fans Saturday. The McCamey Badgers, rated by preseason dopsters as being the most powerful club in the district will be the Steers' guests for the occasion. The Bovines should down the visitors by a slightly larger margin than the Bobcats did last week.

The Sweetwater scribbler maintains a silence unbroken since the failure of the Mustangs to down the Behemoths of Dewey Mahew from Abilene. The Mustang stock seems to have taken a decided drop since the fray in mention. We look for a repetition of the Hamlin affair, if Hennig will turn the Ponies loose, Saturday when the Mustangs tangle with the Colorado Wolves. Such a victory would send the Nolan county fans into another ecstasy of joy to remain undisturbed until the afternoon of Nov. 11—and what a disturbance they will see that p. m.

Just in case the Ponies do topple the Steers, defeat will come via the air and not through the line. Accurate reports have it that the Mustangs have several pass receivers in a class all by themselves.

We have heard that C. T. Watson is going to enjoy carrots today as a result of the bouquet presented him by City Manager Spence following the Secretary's address before the B. of R. T. convention yesterday afternoon.

Such a victory would send the Nolan county fans into another ecstasy of joy to remain undisturbed until the afternoon of Nov. 11—and what a disturbance they will see that p. m.

Just in case the Ponies do topple the Steers, defeat will come via the air and not through the line. Accurate reports have it that the Mustangs have several pass receivers in a class all by themselves.

Dr. J. R. Dillard spins the best yarn of the week. Doc tells us that he went out in the country the other afternoon to look at a horse and he passed through a pasture so thickly populated with quail that he had to borrow a shotgun to get the birds away from the car. No, nothing for the game warden to get excited over. The M. D. rambled on to mention an owl he shot between the eyes at 100 paces with a 22 calibre pistol. This department would enjoy hearing from anyone who can either equal or better the foregoing.

The second conference game of the season will be staged for the benefit of local fans Saturday. The McCamey Badgers, rated by preseason dopsters as being the most powerful club in the district will be the Steers' guests for the occasion. The Bovines should down the visitors by a slightly larger margin than the Bobcats did last week.

The Sweetwater scribbler maintains a silence unbroken since the failure of the Mustangs to down the Behemoths of Dewey Mahew from Abilene. The Mustang stock seems to have taken a decided drop since the fray in mention. We look for a repetition of the Hamlin affair, if Hennig will turn the Ponies loose, Saturday when the Mustangs tangle with the Colorado Wolves. Such a victory would send the Nolan county fans into another ecstasy of joy to remain undisturbed until the afternoon of Nov. 11—and what a disturbance they will see that p. m.

wishing to monopolize the domestic market free from domestic producers' competition.

Contrast Franklin contrasted the domestic and import situation with statistics showing results of the state conservation movement, which he approved. Domestic daily production dropped 538,455 barrels daily from a peak of 2,975,435 barrels in August 24, 1929, to 2,538,980 barrels, July 11, 1931, just prior to closing the Oklahoma City field.

"While we reduced 11,900,000 barrels less in 1930 than in 1929, importers brought in dry free 105,000,000 barrels.

"Secretary Wilbur argues inaccurately when he says imports are less than 10 per cent of production. Is it not a fact that a 10 per cent surplus on any industry, even slightly demoralized, tends to crush it?"

Franklin endorsed the work of the oil states advisory committee which he said, was valiantly trying to co-ordinate state curtailment programs in line with demands.

Speakers Other speakers on today's program were C. V. Terrell, chairman of the state railroad commission, Attorney General James V. Allred, Capt. J. F. Lucey of Dallas; Claude C. Wild, executive vice president of the Independents, Fort Worth; Major J. E. Parton, Shreveport, La.; Congressman Morgan G. Sanders, Canton; Senator Thomas G. Pollard, Tyler; and Tom E. Cranfill, Dallas.

INTRODUCES NEW IDEA Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan of Better Home-Control of Colds.

TO REDUCE "COLDS-TAX"

Following years of research on the problem of colds and their increasing cost, Vick Chemists announce a new discovery—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in preventing colds, it is a perfect ally to Vicks VapoRub, the modern and better method of treating colds. Together, they make possible the new Vick Plan of better control of colds in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" of time, money and discomfort.

Here is the Plan: 1.—Before a Cold Starts. On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first, stuffy, sneezy irritation of the 7307. Eyelet embroidered batiste was used for this model. Crepe, handkerchief linen, cotton prints or poplin are also suggested. The dress is cut in six sections with flat extensions on the front and back, which lend pleasing fullness to this little frock. The sleeve—a short puff, finished with a sleeveband—may be omitted.

A PLEASING FROCK FOR A LITTLE GIRL

Designed in 5 sizes: 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 years. A 3 year size will require 1-3/4 yard of 32 inch material if made without sleeves. With sleeves, 1-5/8 yard will be required. To finish with binding as shown in the large view, will require 1-7/8 yards 1-1/2 inch wide. The tie string of ribbon will require 1 yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps. Send 15c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Book of Fashions, Fall 1931.

Mrs. Edwards Rotan Is Buried In Waco

WACO, Texas, Oct. 20 (UP)—The body of Mrs. Edward Rotan, 80, philanthropist and leader of Texas club women, was buried here yesterday. Mrs. Rotan succumbed to a short illness at her home here Saturday.

She was the first president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, led the movement for a public library in Waco, helped establish a state home for girls at Gainesville, and was active in the campaign for woman suffrage.

Dr. C. T. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Rotan was a life-long member, conducted funeral services at the home.

Penland Tells Of Strength In Drug Business

Trade Ranks Second Only To Utilities In Holding Volume

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 20.—That a bright spot in the current business situation is to be found in statistics reflecting the condition of the wholesale drug business was stressed by J. M. Penland of Dallas, president of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, in a speech delivered here Monday before the convention of that body. Despite discouraging developments in line with those of business generally, he directed attention to the fact that the Secretary of Commerce had reported the drug trade as rating second only to public utilities in the maintenance of volume and earnings for the year 1930 and the best information obtainable was indicative that the trade was holding its relative position during the first eight months of 1931. This he attributed largely to the work of the association with its resultant co-operation between the manufacturers and the wholesaler.

Readjustments Made The drug wholesaler, according to Mr. Penland, has been obliged by the drop in sales volume of from 10 to 15 per cent during each of the last two years to readjust and reorganize the conduct of his business and while some have been unable to bring operating costs down as quickly as sales have dropped, the statistical division of the association has been in a position to afford valuable assistance in the matter of critically studying expenditures. The importance of such assistance, he believes, enhanced by the probability that the present situation is not merely one of depression, but to some degree a more or less permanent readjustment in the levels of operations.

While decriing the custom of direct sales to large buyers at an excessive discount on the part of certain manufacturers, Mr. Penland concludes that this policy has to some extent proved harmful not only to the wholesaler, but also to the manufacturer. In this connection he stressed that manufacturers, who for years have recognized the service wholesaler as being of economic importance in the distribution of their products, have continued to prosper under the greatly depressed conditions of the last few years.

Credit Extensions Importance of extension of credit to the retail trade by the whole-aler is growing in the estimation of the manufacturer, he explained, and directed attention to the fact that, while a few years ago such credit extension represented approximately $50,000,000 per day, at the present time it exceeds $15,000,000 per day, and that the distributor, by reason of his close contact with the retailer, is in the best position to render this service.

The stability of the wholesale drug industry as well as the high character of the men engaged in it, Mr. Penland concludes, best is evidenced by the fact that there have been no failures among the members of the association.

Levy on Capone Property WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (UP)—The internal revenue bureau today ordered liens for $250,000 placed on all available property of Al Capone in Chicago and Florida for unpaid income taxes. The action prevents transfer of property but allows its use for bond if he escapes immediate imprisonment by appeal. The government claimed he still owes $1,000,000 in taxes.
