County Red Cross Chapter Organizing

Conferees Favor Including Organization In Community Chest

Organization of the Howard County chapter of the American Red Cross for the coming year was to be completed this afternoon at a meeting of local board members and Miss Mary Parr, field representative from national headquarters.

This morning members of last year's board still in the city and several others expressed themselves as favoring organization of the chapter for another year, with membership as an organization, in the Community Chest, sharing in its funds upon the same basis as last year.

By this plan each donor to the Community Chest will become a member of the Red Cross. All funds allotted to the Red Cross will be kept in the local chapter's treasury except 30 cents per donor, irrespective of the amount of his gift to the chest, which goes into the national Red Cross treasury for disaster relief work and other activities.

Miss Parr expressed the opinion that, since local relief is being handled through the Salvation Army the principal need for a well-organized Red Cross chapter is to have a unit that can be called upon at any time to handle any emergency work.

Those attending this meeting's meeting were Miss Parr, Mrs. W. A. Earnest, Mrs. Joyce Fisher, Miss Nell Hatch, Robert T. Piner, George Gentry, Dr. C. K. Bivings, J. V. Bush, Wendell Bedichek.

A nominating committee consisting of Miss Parr, J. V. Bush and Wendell Bedichek was to report at another meeting at 5 p. m. today, when officers and directors were to be named.

A graduate, registered nurse with three young children to support seeks employment. She has good local references. In addition to her experience as a nurse she has had bookkeeping experience. Call the Herald if you know of a place where she can obtain employment.

We expect to announce in tomorrow's edition how and where results of the World Series will be available here. Arrangements are being made to furnish a play-by-play report, as has been done the past two years by The Herald.

West Texans, remembering long drawn-out suits filed by the state, seeking title to dry creek beds near oil production, and the spectacular fight in the legislature that ended in passing the river bed bill over the governor's veto, are naturally a little skittish of the measure defeated by the special session the other day, which would have allowed the state to drill in the Sabine river bed in East Texas.

Even the Sabine, with plenty of water in it, is not a navigable stream in fact, but if the state could produce a lot of oil and use the proceeds to pay off indebtedness reduction in the state tax rate ought to be made possible.

Dry Worker Is Termed A 'Racketeer'

Dr. Wilson Snaps Back At Legion Members In Statement

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29. (AP)—Charges that he is a "professional racketeer like Al Capone" failed to daunt Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church in his attack upon the American Legion's prohibition referendum resolution and national wet leaders.

"Let anyone call me anything and I won't care," said Dr. Wilson. "I maintain that the American Legion's recent convention in Detroit was a drunken orgy and that the anti-prohibition resolution was passed by soldiers who dranked their own uniforms by insulting wet leaders."

"Dr. Wilson's opinion means not a thing," answered Dr. Neal Williams, of Excelsior Springs, chairman of the legion resolutions committee.

"Dr. Wilson and Al Capone are pretty much alike—both professional racketeers. Capone's racket is liquor. Wilson's racket is reform. Both are collecting," said Williams.

"I'm a propagandist for prohibition," continued the denominational leader. "Our government employed propagandists during the war to further cause of the allies. That's what I'm doing for the drys."

SEEKS PRESIDENCY

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Sept. 29. (AP)—General Manuel Perez Trevino, leader of the National Revolutionary Party of Mexico and popularly acclaimed as the next president of Mexico, has arrived at his Hacienda Candelaria, 35 miles south of Piedras Negras, accompanied by a party of Mexican congressmen and political leaders. That his trip was not entirely one of pleasure, but was for business also, is shown by his arrival of 32 pure-bred Jersey milk cows at the local railroad station, destined for his farm.

Local Legion Holds Off Beer, Bonus Action

Election Of Officers Set For Meeting Next Monday

The William Franklin Martin Post of the American Legion, in its meeting last night refused to take any stand on the bonus or beer question.

"We have not been asked by the State Commander for a stand on either of these questions, and until we receive such a request I do not feel that we need worry either as individuals or as a Post concerning the two issues," Commander Croft said.

The Legion, while of the opinion that the bonus question is of more importance than the beer referendum, and being anxious to reach a more satisfactory agreement in regard to the bonus went on record as letting both questions drop until such a time when an official request should be made of the local post for its opinion.

Several matters of business were brought before the members but no final action was reached during the meeting. A nominating committee will be appointed during the week by the Post Commander to announce the nominees for the different offices of the Post at its meeting next Monday night.

Carl Hornsfield brought up the question of a donation from the Legion to aid the Scout council in winding up its finances for the year. The Post went on record as favoring this move and a committee will canvass the Post members during the next week in an effort to raise the money required.

The Legion will sponsor an Armistice Day dance at the Casino Nov. 11.

Carl Cromwell Leaves Heritage Of Accomplishments As Bequest To Vast West Texas Oil Country

By SAM ASHBURN

A poet once wrote something about having warmed both hands at the fire of life, and that the first having sunk, he was ready to depart.

Carl Cromwell, dashing oil man who died dramatically Sunday in a fatal auto crash near his home town of Sheffield, Pa., kept his hands at all times over the hottest part of the flames of activity. He traveled as much if not more, than any man in Texas, thought nothing of driving all night and appearing at his office at the conclusion of the drive ready for business. The fires of life were burning bright for him when Gabriel blew his trumpet and the "Big Swede" answered as readily as he came to the beckoning hand of a friend in a hotel lobby.

He lived intensely, played the same way, laughed at misfortunes and went it one better by making good fortune replace it.

Hosts of friends in San Angelo yesterday mourned the passing of the "big fellow," built of smiles, determination and optimism. The creator of the oil industry in West Texas, he took a personal interest in seeing its development continued. A conservative, who made millions, he spent these millions liberally, aiding first one and then another in the drilling of wildcats in many AUSTIN, Sept. 29. (AP)—W. P. Poage, Senate sponsor of the bill passed yesterday allotting one of four cents gasoline tax to counting and road districts to retire highway bonds, said he believed Governor Sterling would be forced to sign the bill to save the highway department's share of the tax. Other were expecting a veto.

Poage said the bill passed in the regular session replacing the gasoline tax statute failed to allocate receipts, and the constitution provides that all receipts not allocated shall go to the general fund. Thus the answer bill is necessary if the highway department gets anything, he declared. The attorney general was asked to rule on the question.

Drilling For Oil By State Being Urged

Sterling Says State Might Get Twenty Million Barrels; Bill Defeated

AUSTIN, Sept. 29. (AP)—It appeared likely that the legislature's failure to pass a bill permitting the state to drill for wells in the bed of the Sabine river, in the East Texas oil field, might lead Governor Sterling to call a third special session immediately. The adjournment for the present session is scheduled for six p. m.

Governor Sterling, on his return from Houston today said he had information that the state could get 20,000,000 barrels by drilling in the river. It was indicated that the major companies might settle without the state actually drilling. Groups of legislators gathered in the governor's office to discuss the situation. Some suggested that the adjournment resolution be reconsidered. Others argued that such a thing would be impossible because the house would lack a quorum, as many of the members were on their way home.

Robot, Silent 30 Years, Is To Talk, Listen, Repeat In Public

CHICAGO (INS)—After thirty years of silence a robot, which went out of use in 1900, will make a public appearance here, talk and listen, repeat and record messages imparted to it.

The robot which was invented by Valdemar Paulsen, a Dane in the employ of the State Telegraph company in Copenhagen, has been presented to the Museum of Science and Industry, founded by Julius Rosenwald, and will demonstrate that it can not only talk but receive and retain a message.

Presentation of the robot, which is called Paulsen's telegraphophone, was made by William Durbiller of New York after it was revived by a German company.

Use of this almost human instrument will enable a man to leave his office in charge of his robot secretary.

Suppose a Mr. Jones, while expecting an urgent call from a Mr. Smith, suddenly is called away from his office. When Mr. Smith calls, the robot secretary will say: "Mr. Jones is out, but if you will stand by, I will record your message on my steel wire."

Then the robot switches from its reproducing setup (the words that Mr. Jones spoke before he left the office) to a recording device. When Mr. Jones returns to his office, he merely switches on the reproducing device, and the message is repeated to him. The robot consists of a wire placed between the plates of an electro-magnet in the telephone circuit, and the sound is recorded electro-magnetically upon the steel wire. By repeating the operation, the sound record is reproduced.

Because of the great expense of the robot and the competition with the phonographs and the telephone, the telegraphophone was not a commercial success. In Germany at the present time, however, the robot is used for recording important telephone conversations by means of modern amplifying instruments to produce messages for large crowds.

The robot will be demonstrated at the museum just as Paulsen displayed it at Copenhagen. Visitors will have the opportunity of speaking to it and hearing their own words reproduced.

28 Murals At Field Museum Depict Life In Prehistoric Ages

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. (INS)—Twenty-eight large mural paintings depicting life on earth in prehistoric ages have just been completed at the Field Museum of Natural History here.

The paintings portray a period of about one and one-half billion years, Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum, said. The murals are the gift of Earnest R. Braham, Chicago architect, who provided a $125,000 fund for the purpose of illustrating historical geology. Charles E. Knight of New York, one of the foremost painters in the field of paleontological restorations, had charge of the work.

Of the three final paintings, one depicts the primitive hoofed animals known as Uintatheres and the four-toed horse called Orohippus which lived approximately 55,000,000 years ago.

Another shows flying reptiles, primitive birds and small dinosaurs of 175,000,000 years ago. The third illustrates the primitive African reptiles of the Permian age, some 215,000,000 years back.

Other subjects illustrated in the series are the cooling earth before life began, the beginning of the lowest orders of life, a sea beach of Ordovician time, a coral reef which existed in Silurian time on the site of Chicago, North American reptiles of Permian time, a Devonian forest, large flying and marine reptiles of the Jurassic age, swimming reptiles, armored dinosaurs, planting dinosaurs, horned and carnivorous dinosaurs, egg-laying dinosaurs, duck-billed and created dinosaurs, titanosaurs, primitive whales, early camels, early elephants and rhinoceroses, giant kangaroos and wombats, New Zealand moas, South American ground sloths and armadillos, saber-toothed tigers and vultures, mastodons, cave bears, mammoth and woolly rhinoceroses and the great Irish deer.

The restorations on canvas show how prehistoric creatures are believed to have appeared when living as indicated by careful scientific studies of fossils.

In the work the artist has had the advice of Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, curator of geology at the museum, and also scientists of other institutions. The series of paintings represents one of the most elaborate and extensive attempts to reconstruct the prehistoric world.

With the aid of two hooks, one of which snagged the fish's tail, Lewis Allen of Hamilton, Missouri, landed a 50-pound catfish.

A POPULAR STYLE

7288. This is a splendid model for an informal afternoon or Sunday night dress. As pictured it was developed in printed silk in brown and white tones. Grand Jury Probes Shooting Of Woman At Abilene Apartment

ABILENE, Sept. 29.—The 42nd court grand jury started an investigation of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Leslie Wilcoxson, after the body was re-impaneled Monday morning by Judge M. B. Long, who charged the jury to investigate, among other matters since its discharge two weeks ago, "a murder case which will be submitted by state's attorneys."

Mrs. Wilcoxson, 26, former beauty shop operator, died in a hospital here Tuesday night, from bullet wounds received early that afternoon as she stood in the hallway outside her apartment. Mrs. A. R. Franklin, wife of an Abilene plumbing contractor is under $6,000 bond on a charge of murder in connection with the affair. She surrendered to officers a short time after the shooting, telephoning the sheriff's office, "I have shot a woman and want to give up."

Following an inquest into the death of Mrs. Wilcoxson, Justice Carl P. Hulseby returned a coroner's verdict of "death by gunshot wounds, from a pistol in the hands of Mrs. A. R. Franklin." Court Charges Jury "I don't believe murder cases ought to be tried in the grand jury room," Judge Long said to the jury. "Your concern is to find if a person was killed and who did the killing."

Two sisters of Mrs. Wilcoxson, Mrs. Joe Ludon and Miss Nita Allen of Big Spring, were among those sitting outside the grand jury chamber this morning apparently awaiting a summons to appear.

Judge Long charged the jury to investigate any other matters that may have become before the courts since the body's discharge. He said there were some burglary cases to be considered.

George L. Minter is foreman of the grand jury. Other members are Booth Warren, J. D. Hamilton, J. A. Farr, H. R. Roberts, G. W. Brewster, W. C. Neill, T. C. Richardson, J. L. Kincaid, F. L. Graham, T. J. Key and Ted Bigham.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Neece are the parents of a nine-pound boy.

Quality and Service

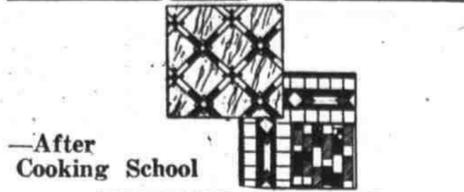

are the two main factors that we have built our business upon. Sacrificing quality for price means sacrificing the life of your clothes to make a "cheap price" possible. Our prices have always been as low as quality work will allow.

Mrs. Dougan, of the Herald Cooking School, explains daily the advantages of sending your clothes to a laundry that does the highest quality work.

Pensioning Ministers

WHAT to do with or for the aged and infirm minister of the gospel—that self-sacrificing soldier of the cross whose sacrifices are only too often rewarded with neglect and callous forgetfulness—has been a problem with which practically every denomination has referred to him as "the forgotten man," and that is a most apt descriptive phrase.

One of the smaller denominations
—to wit, the Episcopal church—has, happily, done something more than talk. Fourteen years ago it established a pension fund for retired clergymen. The initial fund, raised by subscription, was set at $5,000, 600, but the amount actually raised was $3,700,000 greater than the quota set. Today the fund contains $28,000,000, and in the last fourteen years the rate of pension paid to beneficiaries has climbed from the original $600 a year minimum, to $1,000 a year. That, considering that it is larger probably than the average minister's salary in active work, is a handsome compensation indeed.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Lago Goldstein Academy of Medicine
DIZZINESS

The equilibrium or postural balance of the body is maintained by an intricate mechanism.
As long as it is normal we are unconscious of its operations. But when it fails, a variety of distressing conditions, including vertigo or dizziness, may result.
The nervous center for equilibrium is located in that portion of the brain known as the cerebellum.
To this center are brought sensations from the eyes, skin, muscles and joints, and from a pair of special organs located within the skull and called the labyrinth.
These sensations, so to say, tell the brain the relative positions of the body and its various parts.
The brain (cerebellum) then sends forth impulses to the musculature of the body to maintain balance in various body positions.
Thus vertigo may result from disease in any of the parts from which sensations go to the center of equilibrium.
Dizziness may be due to defective vision, or abuse of the eyes. A quick change while walking from a hard to a soft surface may produce vertigo.
More frequently, however, dizziness is associated with and arises out of disease of the ears and the labyrinth.
Sometimes wax in the external ear canal will cause dizziness. An acute or chronic infection of the middle ear may have the same effect.
One form of dizziness is of neurotic origin, due to a variety of emotional states.
Anemia, constipation and gastric disturbances may have vertigo associated with them.
During an attack of vertigo the patient should be put to bed with the head slightly elevated. Hot water bottles may be placed at his feet. He should be warned against abrupt movements, and quick rotation of the head.
Stimulants and tobacco should be allowed in moderation only.

Gregg County To Build Courthouse

LONGVIEW, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP)— Construction work will be started shortly after the first of the year on Gregg county's new $200,000 courthouse-jail. Tentative plans already have been approved by the commissioners' court.
Five stories in height, the new courthouse will have a modern jail on the top floor.
The edifice will be constructed in exterior finish of light-colored face brick trimmed in stone and terra cotta to match.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—It's a far cry
from the job of an army field clerk to consul-general, but that likable, unobtrusive, unassuming young man known at the state department as "Bill" Beck has made it.

At the close of the world war
William Hopkins Beck was in London at American headquarters serving as a clerk. He had no thought then of asking the foreign service his career.

BURDEN-LIGHTENER

Robert Lansing, secretary of state in the Wilson administration, was attracted to Beck during the peace conference. He sought him for the state department as special assistant to the secretary.
Beck accepted and began a period of service that has brought him into intimate contact with every secretary of state since.
When Lansing went out, Bainbridge Colby kept Beck. Charles Evans Hughes selected him as his secretary. Frank B. Kellogg thought so much of him that he elevated him to the post of assistant to the secretary of the state.
And Henry Stimson made Beck his executive assistant—the fifth secretary under whom Beck has served as right-hand man.

WORK PLUS TACT

He handled the bulk of the secretary's correspondence. At a moment's notice from the chief he could have every head of the state department in the office of the secretary.
Beck has the reputation of never forgetting a name. He may have been introduced to a person only once, but the next time he sees him the chances are he will call him by his first name, if possible.
And the manner in which he greeted one is assurance, to that person at least, that Beck considers him of importance.

Chapter 7 "MARRY ME TODAY"

FREDDY was waiting in the living room, a teddy figure in front of the fireplace. He threw away a cigarette when he saw her, and spoke her name, "Sam!"
"Freddy!" Sam's eyes were bright, but she pushed him away strongly with both hands when he tried to take her in his arms.
"No!" she whispered warningly.
"Not here, Martha—" Martha Givens thrust her head through the butler's pantry door.
"Miss Sherrill," she began, her eyes inquisitive, "there's a gentleman—"
"It's all right," said Sam calmly, waving her away.
Freddy turned to the door. "Let's go somewhere we can talk."
Sam followed him, without question. The overgrown driveway twisted away up the hill, and they followed it silently until they came to the deserted, brooding house at the top.
In a far corner of a broad wooden veranda Freddy halted and turned to her. "Well," he said grimly, "how about this? She won't come up here, will she?"
"No, Freddy," Sam smiled and shook her head.
After a time he gently tipped back her chin and looked into her eyes. "Well?" he inquired softly.
Sam did not want to talk, being happy once more, and at peace. She sighed and murmured: "You shouldn't have come, Freddy."
He laughed. "Why not?"
"It's just that I can't do any-good. It will make us both more unhappy than we were before."
"I don't agree," he said. "I think it will do all the good in the world."
"Why?" said Freddy slowly, distinctly, "before I leave here you are going to tell me that you'll marry me; and that you'll do it today. You may not know it, but you and I are taking the six o'clock train for New York. We'll be married as soon as we get there, and after that—" He grinned. "After that, who cares what happens?" Sam sighed. "What would I give," she said, "if I only could!"
Freddy talked. He talked swiftly, urgently, and with passionate earnestness. He was particularly convincing concerning the obligations of love.
Sam did not listen. She merely put her head on the rough tweed of his shoulder and wondered why she was so unreasonably happy.
Finally he seemed to sense her inattention. He stopped talking, abruptly, and once more tipped back her chin. "Tell me something," he commanded gently, looking straight into her eyes. "Tell me that you'll marry me—today."
Sam, returning his gaze, was conscious of a swift ebbing of her powers of resistance. "I can't, Freddy,"
she said hopelessly.
"Tell me," Freddy repeated his command calmly, never taking his eyes from hers. "Tell me that you'll marry me, Sam dear, today."
"No!" Her eyes filled with tears and her breath was almost piteous.
"I—I can't!"
They looked at each other for a long moment. Then, wearily, Sam surrendered. "What I meant to say, Freddy," she corrected hereafter in a small, tired voice, "was yes, I will."
It was almost five o'clock when Sam returned to the stable for the last time. She had been furiously busy ever since Freddy had left for the city, and there still remained a great many things to be done in the thirty minutes before she must leave for the train.
There were two notes to be written; one to Fourth one to Peak Abbott. She must speak to Martha about the men's dinner.
In the midst of her swift dressing Sam had a moment of realized that she would not be in her own room again for a long time.
She must not allow herself to think of Fourth, she decided, nor of Peak Abbott. In thirty short minutes she would be free. No more responsibilities.
She gave her close-fitting blue felt hat a final decisive pat and ran down the stairs to interview Martha.
Martha was not in the kitchen,
nor did she answer when Sam called her name. Sam had called again, when she noticed an envelope bearing her name on the white kitchen table.
The note inside was not from Martha, but from Nelson Aldersea.
"Dear Sam," Nelson had written in scrawling pencil, "I'm afraid
this is going to be a shock to you, no matter how I put it, so I'll try to get it over as soon as possible.
The fact is that Martha and I love each other, and that we can't stand going on this way any longer.
Consequently, by the time you read this letter she and I will be married, and that will be that."
"Now please don't take it too hard, and for heaven's sake try to square me with Fourth. I know he'll hit the ceiling, but he'll have to get over it the best way he can."
"Being absolutely broke I've had to borrow from what you had in your bureau drawer. I promise I'll send it back to you, every cent."
"Be good and try to forgive me.
I'll write soon."
Sam read the letter three times, and then turned and went slowly up to her own room. She went to her drawer, where she found that only one of the fifty-dollar bills remained in the handkerchief case.
She seated herself in a little chair
beside the window.
For twenty minutes there was absolute silence in the stable. Sam did not move. At the end of that time she got to her feet, took off her traveling clothes, put on a gingham house dress and went down to the kitchen.
She noticed that it was exactly six o'clock. The train for New York would just now be pulling out of the Broad Street station.

SAM
BY FREEMAN LINCOLN

SYNOPSIS: When Sam Sherrill, lovely stepdaughter of the poor but aristocratic Fourth Aldersea, refuses to marry Freddy Munson, he leaves her in a rage, saying he is going west. Sam loves Freddy, but needs money too much to marry him. Peak Abbott, wealthy young owner of the Express, for which Sam and Freddy work, also proposes to Sam. She is considering his suggestion that a businesslike marriage would benefit them both. The most pressing of her financial worries is settled when Aldersea provides the money for mortgage interest, which he has borrowed from Mrs. Frye, his best customer in his bookelling ventures. Aldersea passionately cares for social position. Sam keeps from him the knowledge that her half-brother, Nelson, is going out with their maid, Martha Givens. While Sam wonders whether Freddy is in Chicago she sees a taxi in front of the stable where the family now lives, near the former mansion.

"Dear Sam," Nelson had written in scrawling pencil, "I'm afraid this is going to be a shock to you, no matter how I put it, so I'll try to get it over as soon as possible. The fact is that Martha and I love each other, and that we can't stand going on this way any longer. Consequently, by the time you read this letter she and I will be married, and that will be that."
"Now please don't take it too hard, and for heaven's sake try to square me with Fourth. I know he'll hit the ceiling, but he'll have to get over it the best way he can."
"Being absolutely broke I've had to borrow from what you had in your bureau drawer. I promise I'll send it back to you, every cent."
"Be good and try to forgive me. I'll write soon."
Sam read the letter three times, and then turned and went slowly up to her own room. She went to her drawer, where she found that only one of the fifty-dollar bills remained in the handkerchief case. She seated herself in a little chair beside the window.
For twenty minutes there was absolute silence in the stable. Sam did not move. At the end of that time she got to her feet, took off her traveling clothes, put on aingham house dress and went down to the kitchen.
She noticed that it was exactly six o'clock. The train for New York would just now be pulling out of the Broad Street station.

F. G. Oxsheer, 81, Succumbs In Ft. Worth

Pioneer Cattleman Buried Tuesday Morning; Had Ranch Near Here

Cattlemen the West over were surprised and shocked to hear this morning the news of the unexpected passing of F. G. Oxsheer, of Fort Worth, pioneer cattleman of this section of the country, who died at his home Monday afternoon of an acute kidney attack. Mrs. Mabel Quinn, his daughter, went down last week to be with him.

Mr. Oxsheer, who was 81 years old, had been identified with the cattle business for almost sixty years. Although he has made his home in Fort Worth for the last half period he made yearly visits to this city to keep in touch with his ranch.

At his death his ranch holdings consist of about 10 sections in Howard and Glasscock counties, adjoining the ranch of L. S. McDowell. This is only a remnant of his former holdings, when land owned by him extended to and beyond Stanton. He had also an extensive ranch near Fort Stockton.

He was known as a breeder of fine cattle and kept his ranches stocked with excellent commercial and registered cattle. He was among the pioneers of the ranching activity which helped in building the breed of native cattle into good beef cattle.

Mr. Oxsheer was born Nov. 9, 1849, in Milan county, the son of W. W. Oxsheer, of Cameron, a representative in the Texas legislature for many years. He married Miss Mary Beal, of Milan county, in 1873. He made his home in Colorado City until he moved to Fort Worth, thirty-six years ago.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning at his home on Pennsylvania Avenue in Fort Worth, with Dr. George W. Truett, of Dallas, officiating, assisted by the Rev. W. R. White, pastor of the Broadway Baptist Church, Fort Worth, of which Mr. Oxsheer was a deacon.

Only one of his three sons survive him, Drennan Oxsheer, formerly of Big Spring and now of Springer, N. M. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Mabel Quinn, of this city; Mrs. Hugh Scarborough and Mrs. Ira McDonough, of Fort Worth; also five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

His wife who has been an invalid for more than a year, also survives him.

Lonely Ladies And Housing 2 London Posers

"Lonesome ladies!" Apparently there are many of them in London. In fact, says one letter to the editor of a London newspaper, "there seems to be an epidemic of lonely women—if one may judge from the number of times the same type of complaint is mentioned in our popular press."

The papers are full of letters of good advice on what lonely women can do in London to be less lonely. But none of that advice which ranges from doing charitable work to joining "Get-Acquainted-Clubs" seems to be very satisfactory, for the complaints continue.

There are two reasons why there are more lonely women in London than in probably any other capital of the world. One reason, of course, is that there are two million more women than men in England, and that English girls flock to the metropolis in the same way as the girls of other countries do.

But in London the situation is aggravated by the rigid segregation of the sexes. Believe it or not, there are hundreds of homes "For Women Only" which dot the London landscape. They are occupied by working girls and professional women, first, because they are cheaper than ordinary lodgings of the same quality; second, because nothing else is to be had.

But how they hate them! As a counterpart, there are numerous "Bachelor Flats" in London "For Men Only." No woman's foot is permitted within the confines of the house.

Not all living in "Bachelor Flats" are bachelors, of course. Many have just fled to them to escape the women folks. Why? To answer that question is a delicate proposition. Secretary Simson may have inadvertently revealed one reason for it. Asked whether he thought the recent London conference on Germany's ill would last very long, he said: "I cannot imagine Frenchmen being able to stand English cooking very long."

French cooking is supposed to be good. Any real solution of this mystery involves the question, of course, as to whether the average English woman is or is not a good housekeeper.

Braver men than I am have answered that question with a flat "No!" One of them was George Jean Nathan, the critic. It's alright. He's back safe in America.

Mysterious Cabinet Lives a Double Life

By MARGERY TAYLOR, Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine. Written for Herald.

Crafty designs are inspired particularly by the small apartment. There is the dining problem, for instance, where there is no dining room. The latest answer is the "cabinet dinette," and we forgive it its name because of its service. Between meals, it is a charming maple or mahogany pier cabinet, with open shelves below, and may be used as a desk or telephone stand. But, with one pull, the front drops and there is a gate leg supporting a table for two or three, while the shelves are ready for the china.

The furniture designers are not satisfied with changing the styles of traditional tables and chairs and other large pieces, but they small accessories which adds to comfort is re-designed for new grace and usefulness. And if they discover something which ought to be but isn't, they immediately serve up a new creation.

Among living room accessories, the newest card tables have become real furniture, although easily collapsed and hidden. The latest magazine rack, so necessary for a literary but not a literary air, owes its lines to a music rack designed by one other than Thomas Jefferson. It moves around on casters.

For the bedroom, especially, new conveniences are being created every day. The closet must now have a suitcase rack, and a step stool to help reach the top shelf.

York in one. And the black and white symphony of dark grounds and bright corners on its buildings give it a beautiful and distinctive touch of its own.

But the inside of many of the apartments—flat is the word here—does not correspond with the outside. Do you know what a geyser is? In a London flat it is a gas stove for hot water.

Most flats of reasonable rent have only geysers. Running hot and cold water is a luxury that is specially advertised and charged accordingly. The geysers erupt hot water at short notice. They practically never explode—except when left burning too long.

Next to the geyser, in the bathroom, is the kitchen stove. The rest of the flat equipment is accordingly. A two by four arrangement that may have satisfied standards when Queen Victoria was a young girl.

The main recommendation given is that Lord-Se-and-so and Lady This-and-that lived there once. The price is fixed according to the rank of the once-upon-a-time tenant.

For in London it's the address that counts, not the quarters, themselves. Result No. 1: Pleasant home life is difficult in London. Result No. 2: The men flock to their clubs where it is comfy and companionable. Which also explains why England is the land of clubs.

Results No. 3: There are many lonely women in London. It has been said that one of the best things that could happen in London could be to tear down a good part of its present domestic housing equipment.

It would be good business because the rents charged at present would make modern apartment houses profitable.

Light airplane clubs of Africa are developing a profitable business of carrying people to and from the Rhodesian Colonies and Portuguese East Africa.

Breakfast Table Performs As A Quick Change Artist.

A silent valet (coat and trousers rack) for the man, and a small serving stand for the woman are welcomed for utility, at least. And even the lowly shoe-shining kit is now transferred into a maple or mahogany footstool.

Those who never liked the looks of umbrella racks may be converted by the iron rack in a Directoire design, with crossed arrow ends. It is so different from some of the contraptions which have spoiled halls that it may even become a real decorative "unit," combined with an egerie (whatnot to your grandmother), designed to match, hung about it.

Health Expert Gives Advice To Business Girls

As a health hint of no little importance to our modern business girls I offer the suggestion—"Look to your luncheon."

In the busy work-a-day world a vast army of young women, actively engaged in business or professional capacities of almost every character, regards the daily luncheon with either a complete indifference or a too hearty enthusiasm.

For some, luncheon is merely a necessary evil, an interruption of schedule which deserves nothing more than toleration. Consequently for these women luncheon is a hurried affair to be eaten while standing at the drug store counter or in a nearby cafeteria and in a minimum of time.

The traditional sandwich and coffee combination has become their standardized noon-day meal and there is little to suggest that proper food selection, balanced rations, thorough mastication or any of the other laws of hygienic eating habits have any real meaning whatsoever.

Other women look forward to the luncheon hour as a pleasant break in the day's monotony and make of it too great an event, eating far more than is good for them. Neither of these extreme attitudes is desirable. The luncheon hour should offer a period of relaxation from business affairs and the meal should be selected wisely with a view towards making it a health factor that will have a great deal of influence on the general well being.

There is no need for a monotonous diet. A fresh vegetable plate, a fresh fruit salad, vegetable salad, a plate of soup with fresh fruit for dessert, are luncheon suggestions that give one sufficient nourishment without overloading the stomach and causing the languid feeling that all too frequently follows a hearty midday meal. Many women find that a bowl of milk and crackers is enough, especially since the principal meal is usually eaten in the evening.

It is well known that all food must be eaten slowly if we are to expect thorough digestion of it. Eat in as pleasant and quiet an atmosphere as possible, without hurrying, and make your luncheon hour add to your health instead of detracting from it.

Frozen "Dead," Man Relates His Odd Experience

WHEATON, Ill., Sept. 29. (INS)—The late Sir Reginald Rankin, credited with having been "frozen into unconsciousness and recovered," has at least one equal in this world, Olenius Olson, a merchant-tailor here.

Sir Reginald who died Sept. 10 at Brynawar, England, only recovered from one "death" while the Wheaton man has two to his credit.

Olson's second experience with death was during the winter of 1880 when he was 18. At that time he started out with a party from his farm home in Wernand province, Sweden, to Christiania, Norway, to sell some farm products.

The temperature dropped to 30 degrees below zero, and the members of the party were forced to walk in order to keep from freezing to death, according to Olson. In recalling this "death" Olson said that the last he remembered was that he clung to the sled thinking it an awful dream but believing that he would wake up beside a warm fire.

The next morning he regained consciousness beside a warm fire. His companions were cutting his frozen clothing from his body and he was stiff as a board. Olson recalls how his companions rubbed him with snow and how his body ached every time he was touched.

Olson said he recovered without losing a finger or toe two months after his "death."

The first "death" was three years before when he was pulled from a lake and revived by artificial respiration.

Duval Corporation Gets Largest Well In Months At Laredo

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 29 (AP)—The largest oil producer of the past eight months in the Laredo district was brought in when the Duval Oil Corporation No. 4-Bishop-Duval Land Company was completed.

The well, which is producing a flowing well making 1,400 barrels of oil per day. This producer was brought in on Survey 135 of Duval county in the Schoolfield and O'Brien field at a depth of 2,324 feet after top of the sand had been encountered at 2,328 feet.

The latest producer is one location to the west of the company's No. 2 producer and is 1,675 feet from the west line and 330 feet north of the center of Survey 135. There are a number of good producers in the S. & O. field, but this is the largest that has been brought in since after the beginning of the new year.

A location for No. 5 will be made within a short time and drilling operations gotten underway in the shortest time possible.

The deepest test ever drilled in Southwest Texas and the Laredo district, the Humble Oil and Refining Company No. 50 Koller, in the Koller field of Duval county, was abandoned at the depth of 7,725 feet. During the progress of the drilling in this deepest of tests a number of sands were encountered and tested below the 2,000-foot depth, but none of them gave indications of making sufficient oil or gas to justify setting casing.

San Angelo Appeals For Cotton Pickers

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 29 (AP)—Cotton pickers are wanted in West Texas. Between 1,000 and 2,000 are needed alone in the neighboring county of Runnels where farmers are to gather from 30,000 to 40,000 bales of cotton, now open in the field. C. W. Lehmanberg, county agent, said, "San Angelo police are unable to fill the demand in Tom Green county, transient's protesting that the pay of 20 to 40 cents a hundred is too low. Few Mexicans have come in search of work as in former seasons and with one of the largest crops for the last several years in Runnels county, farmers are finding it difficult to find enough help."

Cotton has burst open during the last several days at a rapid rate because of the extremely dry, warm weather, making it practically impossible for the farm families to gather their own crops as had been planned by many.

WOOL ADVANCE 8 CENTS. SAN BENITO, Texas, Sept. 29 (AP)—With the first carload of fall wool already in San Angelo, Sol Mayer, president of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, says advances on the fall clip will not exceed 8 cents a pound. He believes the less fall wool shorn this fall the better the condition of the ranchman. The advance will not be set definitely until the fall wool is all in the warehouses.

Though marriages in Iowa dropped 5.9 per cent in 1930 and divorces decreased only 1.5, there still were 4.8 marriages to each divorce.

Photography Now the Best Witness for Police at a Trial

By JAMES C. KINKAID International News Service Special Correspondent

CLEVELAND—Photography has become the policeman's best witness at a trial.

A photograph tells ten pages of testimony. It is a positive witness that cannot be cross-examined nor questioned directly. It stands on its own merits and is strong before any jury.

Like most other inventions photography was slow in becoming adapted to policing. It was hard to make people believe it could be used successfully. The old "rogue's gallery" was not effective—how could anything with photography in it aid police?

The Bertillon system, however, with its fingerprinting and minute physical description of the criminal did more than anything else to establish photography as a real assistance to police in the eyes of the public.

Few people know that instead of including only fingerprints and photographs of the criminal, a Bertillon description includes the color of his eyes, his hair, his skin, scars on all parts of the body, beard, and measurements of all parts of the anatomy.

Today, photography is used in taking pictures of the scene of a crime, of criminals, of fingerprints on bullets in ballistic tests and for numerous other purposes. When brought into court, any of these pictures will stand up as evidence.

In the case of a picture of the scene of a crime, it is necessary to bring into court only the police officer who took the photograph. In the case of a fingerprint it is necessary to have two witnesses. One is the officer who took the photograph at the scene and the second is the officer who took the print and compared it.

In ballistic tests, it is only necessary to bring in the man who tested the bullet. If the markings can be shown to be the same, it is considered proof that the bullets compared were fired from the same gun.

In many cases, convictions have been obtained through photography that otherwise might have been lost making it an absolute necessity that every police department be equipped with good equipment for the taking of pictures and an efficient photographer.

CO-OP TO HANDLE 2,000 SAN ANGELO, Tex., Sept. 29 (AP)—The Texas Cotton Co-operative Association will handle 2,000 bales in this county during the season, according to E. A. Nettleton, Texas representative. The advance made on the cotton is $24 to $27 a bale, about $2.50 less than the farmers have been getting outright. Only four bales have been sold here by the association.

Game Preserve In Country Club Grounds Planned At Pecos

PECOS, Texas, Sept. 29 (AP)—With the view of creating a game preserve at the club grounds, the Pecos country club has posted all its grounds from hunting and permitted neighboring landowners to do likewise. It is believed that this protection will cause quail to thrive on the grounds, located five miles west of Pecos.

666 LIQUID OR TABLETS Relieves a Headache or Neuralgia in 30 minutes, checks a Cold the first day, and checks Malaria in three days. 666 SALVE FOR BABY'S COLD

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 28 (AP)—The moose clip is expected to be a bit lighter than first was predicted in Texas, being estimated now between 7,500,000 and 8,000,000 pounds. Menair continues to dribble in to the warehouses. Some 500,000 pounds have been bought in the state.

None were more downcast yesterday than the men who had worked with Cromwell and the thousands of drillers and tool dressers over the state gave silent prayers for the welfare of the soul of the Big Swede.

This And That

By Mark

Speaking of the Abilene-Mustang game we have heard that the last time a Mustang galloped over the Eagle's goal was when Ben Daniela, Big Spring Yearling director, ambled across 'way back in 1917.

The long unbroken string of goose eggs is due to end when the Mustangs of '21 tote the old pig's epidemics beyond the final chalk mark Friday p. m. Hicks, Baugh, Sheridan and Co., will do that very thing when Mayhew brings his Behemoths to the Mustang corral.

A game between the self-styled State Champs and the press crowned district 4 winner should be worth going distances to see. If the Mustangs come through the fray without injuries they will be in a fair shape to deal lots of misery to all conference teams.

According to the Midland oracle, R. C. Hankins, the Dogs did not look the best in the world in their tussle with the border eleven. From the nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, etc., spread over the sport section of Hank's sheet on Sunday, we gather the Barrymen were just a wee bit out of condition.

Coaches Christie and Brown had their brigades hard at it yesterday. The Steer mentors are bringing the boys along slowly, a fact which promises a real club when the conference season opens.

It is true that it has been so long since Big Spring had a winner it may take a little longer for the idea to penetrate that the '31 edition of the Steers is a real championship threat, and we feel that the town will be right there when the idea does soak in.

Rumblings from the west would indicate that "Sherlock" Barry is on the job. It would seem that the Steers, McCamey, Angelo and a couple of other district 4 teams are due to lose about half their first string material.

This week will find all Southwest Conference teams in action. Texas U. will lead the parade with its inter-sectional battle with Missouri at Austin. The Longhorns will send the Missourians back with the small end of the score.

Numerous request for the S.M.U. schedule result in the following: Oct. 3 Simmons at Dallas.

West Texas has had many heroes, but the decades will come and go and come again before another gallant such as Carl Cromwell, today among the immortals, sweeps down the road or wishes through the air in obedience to the divine command that West Texas shall go forward and its people be happy.

It's refreshing to find that sport writers over the state find in district 4 only two teams. Sweetwater and San Angelo. The Steers will show a few of the sport scribblers just how little they think of their opinion before the season is well under way.

For the first time in the history of theatres in the fashionable West End of London, children were barred from seeing a play passed by the censor when "The Life Machine," a new play, was presented there.

Stanton Quarter To Be Out Of Big Spring Game From Injuries

When the Stanton Buffaloes invade Steer territory Friday they will be missing the services of Elbert Sales, flashy quarterback. Sales suffered an injured knee in the Roscoe encounter and will watch the Steer frons from the sidelines.

The Hydemans beat a team superior to the one of last season, which won the bi-district title in a walk. In two games this season the Buffs downed Roscoe 32-0 and then stepped out to take the number of the Colorado Wolves 25-7.

The lineup this year finds: Metcalf (195) at center; Hogue (148) and Rubanks (196) at guards, Hawes (162) and Maggart (210), tackle, Anderson (187) to blocker (158) ends, Wilson (180) quarter, Kelley (152) and Epley (195), halves, with Bloomer (160), at full.

The game Friday will be the best of the season-to-day and some real football will be shown as the fans who make their way to Steer Stadium around 3:45 in afternoon.

Bowling Notes

The Main street club took the number of the Beaty Laundry last night with a margin of 42 pins. Porter rolled 219 to take high for a single game, and 578 to book high total for the night's play.

Home Town

This is a good time for state officials to use any fair method of raising funds without hiking taxes. Existing conditions in business of all types has centered public attention on tax relief.

Taxes have been going down the past three years in Howard county. In some counties they have not been reduced. Of course, if the rate was but a nickel per $100 some would continue to believe taxes were going to break them, but nevertheless there is no getting around the fact that the taxation system in Texas must be revised.

It looks to us like the bill allotting one cent per gallon of the state gasoline tax to road districts and counties for retiring road bonds is a good one. Of course it would reduce the amount of new construction of highways by the state and, consequently, cut off chances of hundreds of men for obtaining employment.

No doubt county officials throughout the state will favor this bill. When the proposition of voting bonds to retire county indebtedness for road building, as well as provide a connected system of roads, was submitted, most county officials opposed it.

The real fact is a lot of them would like to see the state highway department lose jurisdiction over the location, choice of paving types and construction on state designated routes. Wouldn't that be fine?

You'd soon have dozens of expensive highways running out to dead ends, with no consideration for forming connected routes from one part of the state to the other. The paving would go to places in each county where the votes are.

If the present powers of the highway department had not been created by law there would be no such long stretches of paving as that on the Bankhead across Texas.

In this connection we take pleasure in pointing to the fact that the only major state commission that is elected instead of appointed is known to be the most inefficient in the state—the railroad commission.

While highway commission business is carried on in a business-like manner, with well-qualified engineers and other employees, the railroad commission—elected—fumbles around with all problems, appoints untrained and unqualified men, and they do not know the difference between a crown block and a gale valve.

We've got to be convinced that the short ballot would not be a blessing to the state. Why a good platform orator ought to be named to the railroad commission or the judiciary simply because he can get out among 'em and get votes, with out any consideration of his personal ability to fill the office he seeks, is beyond us.

Taxpaying Is Confusing This Season

BY RAYMOND BROOKS AUSTIN, Sept. 28.—Taxpaying with part of 1932 taxes required to be paid before part of 1931's is relatively confusing just now.

In general, following are the provisions as now fixed by the legislature: Payers have through next January 31 to pay the taxes that were due in 1931—the taxes that were postponed first from January 31 to October 15, 1931.

The past-due taxes of previous years can be paid without penalty or interest up through next January 31.

That deals with past taxes. Here are the provisions for the 1932 tax payments: The split-tax law makes the first half of 1932 taxes subject to payment from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31 of this year.

If this one-half is paid during October, then the payer is given an extension through next May 30 to pay the second half without accumulation of penalties or interest.

If the first half is not paid on or before Oct. 31, then the entire amount must be paid on or before Jan. 31, to escape penalties and interest.

These do not affect 1932 poll taxes. The poll taxes must be paid before Jan. 31, in order to qualify the payers to vote in city, county, district, state and national elections next year.

A property taxpayer who does not pay his poll tax on or before Jan. 21, still has to pay it later with property taxes, but does not thereby gain the right to vote.

The capitol corridor chatter: "Will Gov. Sterling resign?" at last has broken into print in a story by a press service correspondent who quotes it simply for what it is, gossip.

Gov. Sterling very likely has been disillusioned greatly about the glamor of the governor's office. He probably has felt the same heart-aches as many another official who wants to help his state at the obstacles and obstructions and dead weight in its way.

Another question he has given no remote intimation that he thinks of chucking the office during this term.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (UP)—At the expense of great time, energy, cash money and will power, we have succeeded in bringing together under one roof, so to speak, the opinions of the 14 losing managers of the American and National teams.

No sooner had horsehide quit raving against willow that we called out our crack carrier pigeons and dispatched them to the various managers. Around the right leg of each pigeon was tied the following message: Please let me have your reactions to the 1931 season stop also any statement you care to make regarding the 1932 campaign stop your answer will be kept absolutely private, stop fully appreciate your dislike of seeing your name in print stop.

Well, sir, we barely had time to make our daily trip to the pawn shop before the pigeons were back. As they flew through the window we grabbed 'em by a wing and pulled off the replies. Here they are in the order pulled:

Joe McCarthy, Yankees: We gave our best, and the other clubs knew they were in a fight. With a few breaks we might have landed on top. Watch us in 1932.

Walter Johnson, Senators: Watch us in 1932. We gave our best this year and the other clubs knew they were in a fight. With a few breaks we might just as well have landed on top.

John McGraw, Giants: Watch us in 1932.

Rogers Hornsby, Cubs: We did our best, and the other clubs knew they were in a fight. Watch us in 1932.

Binger Peckinpaugh, Indians; Buck Harris, Tigers; Shano Collins, Red Sox; Bill Killefer, Browns; Donie Bush, White Sox; Wilbert Robinson, Robins; Jewel Egan, Pirates; Bert Shotton, Phillies; Bill McKechnie, Braves; We gave our best this year and the other clubs knew they were in a fight. A few breaks and we might have landed on top. Watch us in 1932.

Juts a minute, folks. Here comes the pigeon we dispatched up to Dan Hawley of the Red Sox. And here's his answer: We'll be up there in 1932.

Lon had expressed as his dearest wish the hope Bill Killefer, Browns, would win the Babe Ruth for the championship. But when he went to bat in the third inning yesterday, obviously poised to drop a little bunt in front of the plate, that mean old pitcher threw the ball against Lou's bat so hard that the result was one of the longest home runs in years.

Enforcement - Not Repeal

WHO OPPOSES PROHIBITION?
There are four types of people who oppose prohibition.

In the first group are those who want its repeal for their appetites' sake, people who have hang-overs from other days, who want booze, and who are going to have it as long as they live, which will not be very long.

In the second class are those who oppose the Eighteenth Amendment for selfish reasons, politicians of certain loud-mouthed type who handle the herd when they are half drunk and also a few millionaires who would make money out of the return of the liquor traffic.

Then we have the crowd followers, who want to be on the bandwagon, who are especially numerous in this city where most of the population is not American but European and who, when the tide turns, will turn with it.

But the fourth class, in which we are especially interested, is composed of good, intelligent people who want to do what is right but have never had a satisfactory answer to the prohibition question. I have a lot of respect for them. They are the people to whom we must present the facts.

When fair-minded persons who either doubt or oppose the efficacy of the Eighteenth Amendment receive the facts, they will be converted to its followers just as Dr. Eliot, former president of Harvard; President Taft and Professor Fisher of Yale were convinced. Then the liquor problem will be settled as firmly as slavery is settled now.—Gilbert J. Raynor, Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHAT "SHORT MEMORIES?"

By Evangeline Booth

"I am convinced that there is no part of the United States that has not been improved by the Prohibition law.

"The year before the war broke out in Europe there were in Jersey City, 1,200 saloons across the bars of which on Saturday night $3,000 men could be seen squandering their week's wages.

"In doorways, on the sidewalk, in gutters, as the night wore on were to be seen helpless men and women. They were American workers and the money they had squandered was money needed for their poor families.

"How short are the memories people have! In what industrial center in America does anything of this sort happen today?

"Eighty per cent of that suffering among the families of the common laborers was wiped out by Prohibition.

"In less than a year you could have seen the difference."

—Citizens' Committee of 17,000 for Law Enforcement, Buffalo, N. Y.

A GOOD TWO-MINUTE SPEECH

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Pennsylvania governor, given two minutes in which to speak over the radio conceded enforcement was a "tough nut to crack," but she said: "Difficult as conditions may be and are today, they are not half—not one-hundredth—not one-thousandth part as 'tough' as they were when our mothers and grandmothers started the tiny ball of prohibition rolling many years ago." Mrs. Lucy W. Peabody said: "Time is on our side. Science is on our side. Wealth is on our side. The home is on our side. Mothers and children are on our side.

Radford Home From Orient, Reports Curse Of Business Upward

ABILENE, Sept. 29.—J. M. Radford, away from American shores for nearly three months, returned Friday for a few hours stopover en route from San Francisco to New York City, where he goes on a short business trip. He will return home this week-end.

Mrs. Radford, who accompanied her husband on a tour of the Orient, including Hawaii, Japan and China, returned home this morning. The Radfords left Abilene last June 15, joining a tourist party in California, and were at sea for more than a month. The trip was for pleasure only.

Mr. Radford, reaching San Francisco September 15 and leaving immediately for New York to fill a series of appointments, took the southern route to avail himself of the opportunity of a few hours' conference with department heads of the J. M. Radford Grocery Company. He was handed a business chart covering activities of the 28 houses in the Radford organization and was gratified at what it revealed. The "curse" was definitely upward, showing an upward trend in business done beginning the week of September 7.

"The figures showed an increase of volume slightly more than 10 per cent over the same period for 1930, and the most gratifying factor was the evenness of increase, reflected in all parts of the territory which we serve," said O. E. Radford, vice-president of the company. "It made us feel that business is over the hump, and, with the curve continuing upward, we are optimistic that the increase will be uninterrupted."

REV. W. G. BAILEY
Speaker

The revival being conducted at the First Methodist Church by the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Bailey, assisted by Rev. B. L. Nance, of Phoenix, Arizona, a personal worker, and Mrs. Chas. Morris as choir director, has been drawing wonderful crowds, reports the pastor, and is growing in enthusiasm.

Tonight the sermon topic will be "The Guilt and Power of Sin." The topics for the following evenings will be, Wednesday, "The Wages of Sin"; Thursday, "Repentance"; Friday, "The Whole Life of Christ."

There will be no services on Saturday night. The Sunday morning topic will be "Influence."

The Rev. Mr. Bailey has been asked to conduct the funeral services for Carl G. Cromwell, at San Angelo, which have been set for Thursday at 3 o'clock, especially so that he could officiate and return in time to hold his evening service here.

There are no daytime services being held this week. Next week there will be morning services at 10 o'clock.

Suit Seeks $439,907 Of Cosden Oil Company

FORT WORTH, Sept. 29.—Cosden Oil Company and its receivers here, George N. Moore and Henry Zweifel, with nine other firms, were named defendants yesterday in a $439,907.21 Federal district court suit.

The suit was filed by the Credit Alliance Corporation of New York City, present holder of unpaid notes given for the construction three years ago of four gasoline cracking stills at Big Spring.

The stills were built for the Cosden Company at a total cost of $773,369 by the Graver Corporation, also a defendant, the petition of the plaintiffs set forth.

The Graver Corporation sold notes given by the Cosden Company to the complaining firm. Seven payments have been made by the Cosden Company on the debt, it was said.

The complaining firm asked that the court order the sale of the involved properties for the remainder of the indebtedness.

Other defendants in the suit are the Kinkler Koch Engineering Company, William Cameron Company, Fort Worth; A. M. Lockett & Co., Dallas; Kaw Still Construction Company, Kansas; Continental Supply Company, Ohio; R. V. Aycock Company, Dallas; Wyatt Metal and Boiler Works, and the H. P. Lientz Manufacturing Company.

Miss Rhodes Has Unique Record; She Has Managed 3,959 Weddings

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Outstripping even the record of DeWolf Hopper who has managed many weddings during his career, Miss Jessy Rhodes, the world's premier wedding manager, with a record of nearly 4,000 marriage parties behind her, stopped in San Francisco the other day.

To be exact, Miss Rhodes has managed 3,959 ceremonies for the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale and its sister chapel, the Wee Kirk Among the Heather.

Unique in a profession that is in itself unique, Miss Rhodes has directed 7915 persons down the aisle to the altar, until now the Church of the Flowers is perhaps even better known for weddings than New York's celebrated Little Church Around the Corner.

From her vast experience Miss Rhodes formed the conviction that most of the established wedding traditions are "all wrong."

"The bridegroom is not always nervous," she said. "In fact, the nervous bridegroom is rather the exception."

"Nor are brides superstitious about Friday. Parents of the bridal pair do not always weep and brides, scorning the admonition of the old rhyme about 'something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue' seldom wear anything old."

These are just a few of her deductions, made from the 17 weddings a week she has managed since taking up her work in 1925.

Although most weddings move smoothly and on time, those which are delayed, most frequently are held up through the forgetting of the marriage license or the loss of the bridal bouquet, she disclosed.

Changing etiquette through the years, is most noticed in the marriages of those who have been married before, Miss Rhodes said.

Formerly the second or succeeding marriages must be absolutely informal. But nowadays, while the bride who has been married before will have a simple wedding, she may have attendants.

In speaking of her many interesting experiences, Miss Rhodes told of the nervous bridegroom who announced in a clear voice, "With this wing I tres red."

She also told of the shortest wedding ceremony on record, related to her by a clergyman officiating at one of them.

"The ceremony, said to have been in vogue in Montana in pioneer days was simply the command, 'Arise. Grab hands. You're hitched!'"

"Those who ask for a short service would like that," Miss Rhodes remarked.

Jury Is Directed To Probe Bank Failure

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 29 (UP)—A grand jury in 42nd district court, re-panels today, was instructed by Judge Milburn S. Long to investigate the death of Mrs. Leslie Wilcoxson and to make a "sweeping investigation of the closing of the Abilene State bank."

Mrs. A. R. Franklin, wife of an Abilene plumbing contractor, is under $500 bond in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Wilcoxson. The shooting is said to have occurred when Mrs. Franklin went to Mrs. Wilcoxson's apartment looking for Franklin.

Judge Long indicated that auditors were ready to make reports on the Abilene State bank. He also charged the jurors to investigate the alleged circulation of untrue reports about Taylor county banks.

Tom Green Voters Seek Bond Election

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 29.—As the result of the voting of $175,000 in road bonds by Road District No. 2 in Coke County Saturday, the Tom Green County commissioners here will be petitioned Oct. 12 to submit a bond issue of $50,000, or whatever amount is required to pave 13 miles of State Highway No. 70 from a point six miles east of San Angelo on State Highway No. 30 northward to the Tom Green-Coke County line.

Bonds voted Saturday by Road District No. 2 in Coke County by 463 to 172, 29 more than the necessary two-thirds majority, will provide for paving State Highway No. 70 through the county via Bronte and Tennyson and seven miles on State Highway No. 158 from Bronte westward toward Robert Lee, the county seat. The issue will absorb $50,000 in bonds voted last Spring by the Tennyson precinct south of Bronte. A new bridge will be built over the Colorado River.

Voting of the bonds in Coke County met a condition laid down by the State Highway Department for designating State Highway No. 30 paralleling the Santa Fe Railroad (formerly the Orient) through Bronte and Tennyson. Robert Lee sought designation of the route leading south from that town to San Angelo. Voting of bonds by Tom Green County plus the work in Coke County will provide a hard surfaced road between San Angelo and Sweetwater.
