Senior Activities (By Bessie Mae Ficke)

Miss Winona Adams, the class ponsor, gave the seniors a farewell banquet at the Methodist church basement Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Coy Hix, class president, acted as toastmaster. He called on each member of the class to make a talk.

The table was beautifully decorated in the class colors, pink and green. Four freshmen, Bonnie Adams, Ella Pearl Starkey, Ferrol Ficke, and Louise Craig, served. The menu. which included two courses, consisted of peas. potatoes, radishes, meat lcaf, apple and carrot salad, bread, and fruit ice cream with vanilla wafers.

Those present were Miss Adams, Willie Mae Hollabaugh, J. C. Turner, Thelma Bradstreet, A. B. Turner, Lorene Roper, Dewey Vice, Velma Pillars, C. L. Balch, Bessie May Ficke, John May, Doraeen Woods, Earl Farris, Anna Mae Puett, John Ficke, Elizabeth Joss, Billy McCarrol, Inez Shipman, Joe Field Meek, Augusta Guynes, Coy Hix, Florene Callans, Raymond Creekmore, Ruth Dill, Chris McClain, Marguerite Ficke, Walter Adams, Mary Eunice Noah, and Exie Creekmore.

After the graduation exercises last Friday night the senior class went to the home of their sponsor, Miss Winona Adams, in order that they might have their last senior party. Some outdoor games were played but the class spent most of their time telling one another what wonderful times they had enjoyed together and how sorry they would be to separate. Those who attended the party were Augusta Guynes, Florene Callans, Coy Hix, Raymond Creekmore, Ruth Dill, Chris McClain, Marguerite Ficke, Walter Adams, Mary Eunice Noah, Exie Creekmore, Inez Shipman, Joe Field Meek, Billy McCarrol, Anna Mae Puett, John May, Doraeen Woods, Earl Farris, Bessie May Ficke, Loveta McFalls, Thelma Bradstreet, Velma Pillars, C. Plans Nearing Completion for Big A. Two-Day Wheeler County Festival Event

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the twoday Old Settlers Picnic and Reunion, A. R. Schulze, who is moving equipto be held at Wheeler on Thursday and Friday, June 28 and 29, announced this week that plans for the event are practically complete.

Many interesting free numbers are listed among the attractions. These include, to date, the following:

Horse races, in which substantial purses will be offered; a hog calling contest.

Band concerts by the Shamrock Municipal band; public speaking, which will present some orators of note.

Huge fireworks display, including one of the most extensive offerings of the kind ever seen in this region. Grand parade of floats, billed for 10 o'clock Friday morning, June 29, with prizes aggregating $100. A number of out-of-town entries are er.

expected in this event. Other free entertainment features will probably be added later.

In the list of charge affairs, at which only a nominal sum will be asked, are noted a donkey ball game between two colored teams from Shamrock; an old fiddlers contest with prizes totaling $25.00; public dances both nights, and a baseball game. Promoters hope to arrange a three-day baseball series; a game to be played one day of the picnic, another on Saturday, and complete the series on Sunday afternoon. The American Legion, sponsoring the two-day festival, is determined to make the affair an outstanding event in Wheeler county for 1934. The committee, headed by R. H. Forrester and ably assisted by Dr. H. E. Nicholson, Jim Risner, Claude Cox and Norwood McPherson, is greatly encouraged by the interest aroused both bitcd to large crowds for eight conlocally and throughout the territory surrounding Wheeler.

R. Schulze, Former Kansan, Comes Well Recommended -Much Encouragement

Wheeler is soon to have a new bakery in full operation, according to ment into the Clay building, just east of the First National bank. Schulze, who was formerly located at Leoti, Kans., is making haste to get into production at an early date, hoping to start baking by Monday of next week.

The new baker comes well recommended and has already met with considerable encouragement from Wheeler folks who believe a home institution of this kind is a real asset to the town. Although the industry is not large, it furnishes some employment and should occupy a place in community affairs. A big advantage is found in that it will no longer be necessary to send all bakery products money out of town, to build up some other place at the expense of Wheel-

SHRINE CLUB PRESENTS ORANGE BROTHERS CIRCUS

Orange Bros. circus, which exhibits in Wheeler for an afternoon and night performance Saturday, June 9, while new in this territory is not a new venture in the circus world. It is established and has created a reputation for being honorably conducted and for presenting clean meritorious entertainment. Featuring a circus program that is high class and outstanding.

Orange Bros. chened their season this year in Dallas, where they exhisecutive days. Of course in the smaller cities, they, like all other shows of this character only exhibit one day, as all their performances are the same. There is no difference even in the afternoon or night perfornances and with their large seating capacity Orange Bros. figure that those desiring to see the circus can be taken care of in one day. However, during last season in many towns it became necessary for the circus to give several extra performances during the day to accomodate the crowds and extra performances are given where necessary as Orange Bros. do not disappoint. They fulfill every promise. With the reduced admission prices this circus has profited by volume of business rather than high prices.

OIL ACTIVITY IN COUNTY CONTINUES AT HIGH PITCH

Wheeler county received seven out 12 new locations for oil wells during the past week, which puts it in the lead again for the Panhandle area. Six of the seven locations were made in the western sector of the county. The other location is about a mile northeast of Shamrock.

The Locations

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES TO PREPARE BALLOTS MONDAY

Executive committees of the Democratic and Republican parties, in conformity with the law, will meet Monday to prepare the state and district ballots, since Monday, June 4, was the final date for such filings. County candidates have until June 16, to file their applications.

The first primary will be held July 28 and the two candidates with the largest number of votes, unless one obtains a majority, will run it off August 25.

State and district filings for this county include: Representative, John Purvear, Wellington; Eugene Worley, Shamrock; Philip Wolfe, Pampa. District attorney, Lewis M. Goodrich, re-election. District judge, W. R. Ewing, Pampa, re-election; R. H. Forrester, Wheeler.

THE COUNTY SEAT NEWSPAPER

Bailey Gave Talk Here Saturday

Makes Strong Plea for Votes in Campaign for Seat in U. S. Senate

Joseph W. Bailey, jr., congressman at large from Texas, who is seeking election to the United States senate, naid Wheeler a call Saturday morning. Despite the unfavorable hour for a political gathering, Bailey was greeted by a fair-sized audience. He delivered a splendid talk, explaining in detail his stand on the leading questions of the hour and elaborating on his platform.

Judging from comments heard after the talk, Bailey made a very favorable impression upon his hearers and materially strengthened his already popular standing with Wheeler counv voters.

Aided by loud-speaker equipment, the senatorial aspirant spoke from an improvised platform on the south side of the square. A. B. Crump, Democratic county chairman, presented to the audience Attorney D. O. Beene, who ably introduced Bailey in a short talk, during which the speaker paid tribute to the candidate's illustrious father, the late Joseph Weldon Bailey,

A few of the leading planks in Bailey's platform include the following

He will insist on strict economy in federal expenditures. He favors an adequate army and navy. He favors expansion of trade with Mexico. He opposes entangling alliances with European nations. He supported, during the present emergency, federal aid to permit the continuance of school terms and to pay teachers fair salaries.

He opposes the Ickes bill, which would allow the Texas oil industry to be controlled by out-of-state corporations. He favors an adjustment of the tariff so that foreign trade in cotton, wheat and other exportable products may be increased. He favors a lower rate of interest on federal money loaned to farmers.

He will not favor the re-enactment of the Bankhead bill or any other bill When completed the station proper regimenting farmers. He favors exwill be 20x30 feet in size, with a 24 pansion of the currency by immediate navment of adjusted service certifieates to veterans. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Houston of Wheeler, and Mr. Clarence E. Davis of Hedley were married Sunday, June 3, at 3 o'clock, in the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. T. M. Johnston of Wellington reading the beautiful ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and Mrs. T. M. Johnston.

Mrs. Davis has only lived in Wheeler a comparatively short time, but has made many friends. She attended grade school and two years of high school at Fayetteville, Ark., where she was a member of the Athenean Literary society. The family moved, to Wheeler in 1928, when she enrolled in the junior class, later moving to Wellington where she graduated in 1930. She was a member of the Wehise, Home Economics and B. B. B. clubs.

Since graduating she has assisted her father in the merchandise business with the exception of last year, when she attended W. T. S. T. C. at Canyon, where she took an active part in dramatics and was secretary of the Wesley Foundation clut. During her high school course she had two years of music, one of piano and one in glee club.

Mr. Davis has lived most of his life in Hedley, where he attended both grade and high schools, graduating in 1931. He was interested in athletics and the various activities of school life.

Mr. Davis is one of Hedley's prosperous young business men and is manager of the M. and M. Dry Goods store, where he has been employed as clerk for six years. The charming couple left immediately for Amarillo, Lubbock and Tulia, to spend a few days before going to their home at Hedley.

NEW ABSTRACT FIRM IN DOWN-TOWN OFFICE NOW

The Guarantee Astract & Title Co.,

Mrs. Ollie W. Beene, manager, has secured office space in the Moore building immediately west of The Times newspaper office, on the south side of the square. Mrs. Beene operated the abstract work at her home until a business district location could be obtained. The company claims one of the most complete set of little index books in Wheeler county.

Each year the circus breaks in some new territory in addition to playing their regular established route and this year is no exception. that is the reason they have included Wheeler for two performances Saturday, June 9.

LABOR SITUATION SERIOUS

Business, of late, has shown little change. Recently there was a drop from the spring highs, but this has been regained in a number of major lines. Main worry of great industrialists now cannot be shown in the indices-it is, simply, labor trouble.

That is proving very embarrassing to the Administration, inasmuch as the trouble stems largely from the NRA. When the NRA was set up it provided that labor should have the right to organize, that no worker be penalized for belonging to a union that collective bargaining be permitted. At that time, there had been no major strikes for many years, and no one thought any were coming. As a result, no special provision was made for settling them.

The automobile industry was first to be hit, with the tool and die makers strike which paralyzed production, at a time when demand for cars was highest in years. This strike was finally settled. after a fashion, by federal meditators-but there are plenty of rumblings beneath the surface still, and it may break out again.

Then shipping on the Pacific coast was tied up solid by a longshoremen's strike, in which other labor organizations, including truck drivers and riverboatmen, joined through sympathy. Main demands of the longshoremen are a closed shop and short er working week.

Then truckmen struck in the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolisplaced 6,200 striking drivers in picket lines-and caused a shortage of food, gasoline and other necessities. Union recognition, closed shop and wage adjustments were demanded.

Great fear is that the strikes will spread, will eventually result in a general industrial strike which could only be "arbitrated" through bloodshed and martial law. Most unbiased observers believe that both workers and employers have good points to present, but are frankly dubious as to whether arbitration efforts will get far. Local authorities are power less, and are looking to the federal government to solve the problem.

responsibility steps out. The seemngly bottomless purse of the treasury s always there to make up the deficits.

Able executives have occasionally been appointed as managers of government business enterprises-men who, in private business, would be successful and would produce profits and not losses. But under political iomination their hands are tied. Contant pressure is brought against them to do this or do that, for purely political reasons. And if the manager complains too loudly when that happens, he is liable to suddenly find himself without a job. Some day there will be a complete eport made on what government-inpusiness has cost the American taxpayer-and he had better be sitting lown when he looks at the total, inasmuch as it is more dangerous to faint standing up.

TELLING THE TRUTH

Iowa publishers have devised the following supplementary provisions of the code, which we hope General Johnson will hurry up and approve. Their adoption will mean millions to us small town publishers: For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he s as lazy as a government mule-$2.70. Referring to a deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community when we know that he will only be missed by the poker circle-$10.13. Referring to some gallivanting scandal monger female as an estimable lady when every business man in town would rather see the devil coming-$8.10.7 Sending a hypocritical old reprobate to heaven, when we know that hell is too good for him-$5.00. Referring to deeased merchants as "progressive itizens," when they never advertised in their life to help draw trade to own-$1.00.-Gazette, Stillwater,

THE GREAT DISTINCTION

Ernest Haycox, successful young western author, has a lot of hard common sense along with the imagination that enables him to turn out entertaining fiction for national magazines. Here is a thought from an article by him in Spokes, weekly publication of the Portland, Oregon, Rotary Club:

"There is one highly important distinction between private business and public business Pr.ivate business is under the constant necessity of remaining solvent. Public business may magnificently disregard profit and loss. No private executive breathes who can turn out a defici year without going out on his ear. But a senator may sponsor a bill that costs the government half a billion dollars a year and be regarded as a great statesman because he hasn't lost us a whole billion." So now Sonya watched him, smiling a little in gentle sympathy, and recalled the stories of his goodness and his unbounded courage which she had heard. A strange little old man, filled with undying zeal his spirit a fire of evangel, like those amazing padres who had walked the West in an earlier day, he commanded the respect of all who came in contact with him-the gentle, mad old Servant of the Lord.

And presently Myra took them out in the sandy yard to sit about the doorway and rest with the dying day. After the manner of women in far places, she began to draw from him the news of the country.

The sun went down entirely, and the vast spread of the sandy levels clothed themselves in royal purple beyond a painter's dreams. The world was a lovely place, the Servant said in his soft old voice, fit footstool for the feet of God. There was no evil in it of itself. Only man made evil. Man, with his greed and his cruelty.

Reelzebub was abroad in the land -Beelzebub and his henchman. He had seen them with his own eyes, he the Servant of the Lord in humble places. They traveled together by night, and danger waited on them, death and danger and disaster. It had struck just across the Border in that stark form hung upon a cross. It was no common thief who rotted there in the windy sun, but one who had betraved his master. Beelzebub himself, that master, dark and cold and wicked as infernal fire. He was a power and a force not to be reckoned with or questioned. Though several hundred miles lay between the Border and this sheltered spot, still the finger of the Wicked One could reach even here. The old man had seen shadows. Many shadows. Chief of them the Master's blue-eyed henchman. No good stayed where the Blue-eyed One went by. He had heard of him across the Line last year, the tall one with bronzecolored hair who was always seen when disaster was to follow. A sign and a symbol of disaster, this tall one with the wild eyes. And he had seen him three days back riding down the trail to Red Rock canyon on a horse of solid gold. So did the Wicked One mount his followers. Well, it was growing late, and he was tired. The old were always tired.

sleep, if his friends permitted. He rose and bowed with a lean grace, vague remnant of some forgotten time, and went away toward the camp he had made with his packs and his weary burros, and Sonya Savarin sat still in every atom of her body with a strange stillness. It seemed as if a hushing hand had been laid upon her spirit, something cold and sinister come down upon her like a cloud. Evil seemed to fall with the night and the old man's words, and presently she shivered and wrapped her arms across each other as if to shut it out. Then she shook herself and listened to Myra, who was saying how mad the Servant was. A strange old creature. Gentle and kind and quite, quite mad, so Myra thought.

BRISCOE ECHOES

Sponsored by the Senior English class: Tommie Cates, Birdie Lee Helton, Joe Puryear, B. F. Crossland, Pauline Higdon, Harriet Alice Meadows, Pauline Evans and Tamsey V. Riley. This class is instructed by Mrs. Allen Smith.

Class Leader Chosen

The valedictorian and salutatorian for both the eleventh and seventh grades have been chosen.

Tamsey V. Riley has been named valedictorian for the senior class, with an average of 95, and Pauline Higdon has been selected as salutatorian with an average of 91.

Laverna Evans is valedictorian for the seventh grade, and Dorothy Rogers was given the salutatorian's place. Geraldine Wadsworth had a higher average than Dorothy, and was named salutatorian, but on account of illness she will be unable to attend, therefore Dorothy was given the place.

Final Exercises

The public speaking class of Briscoe, instructed by Miss Carmack, presented a three act comedy, "The Blue Bag," Friday, June 1. There were eleven characters in the play, each bringing to the audience many hearty laughs. The play was the "beginning of the end" of our current school term, as June 8, marks the termination of the year's work. The following events will mark the elos ing week of school:

June 3, Sunday-The baccalaureate service will be held in the high school auditorium.

June 4 and 5-Final examinations will be in progress.

June 7, Thursday night-The seventh grade will have their graduation exercises.

June 8, Friday night-The eleventh grade graduation exercises will be held.

This is Briscoe's second year to have an eleventh grade, and plans are being made for the use of caps and gowns.

We, the seniors, welcome you to our final exercises.

SINGING SCHOOL

Singing school will begin at Briscoe June 11 and will last until June So he would find his blankets and 22. Joe E. Cooper of Davis will teach the school. About $25 was teach the school. About $25 was given last Sunday by the people of this community. He charges only $40 for conducting this school. Everyone is invited to attend this free singing school.

Party for Little Folks

Friday, June 1, the pupils from the first to the third grades, spon-sored by Miss Tamsey Riley, Miss Scott, and Miss Carmack, gave a party for the six year old pupils who will attend school here next year. Games were played and ice cream served. The party was held in the first and second grade building.

AN UNUSUAL WOMAN

Sometimes we have in our midst a person of unusual ability; but due to that strange trait, jealousy, or some other unknown force, we do not recognize that person's abilities. So to you, our readers, we present Mrs. Jack Vise of Briscoe, Texas.

In her own words we tind this Yes, I guess flowers are my hobby. I just fool with them at odd times. However, to hear her name the varieties she has, would make anyone's head, except an expert's, feel as if it were in a merry-go-round.

She has ten varieties of shrubs: Japanese barberry, bridal wreath, weigelia, bush honeysuckle, two varieties of lilacs, crepe myrtle, mock orange, althea, California privet hedge plants, and many more. Among her other plants we find hibiscus, babybreath, pinks, carnations, roses, bachelor buttons, twelve varieties of lily pond and all the "fixings," which come great.

constitute a real lily pool.

Something very unusual happened at her farm the past year. She had flowers blooming continuously for the entire year. Her roses bloomed until Christmas, then the crocus began blooming, next the tulips began to show their merry faces; they were followed by violets and roses. Cheer up, flower-lover, you can have flowers if you have courage, water, and plenty of strength.

Besides working with flowers, she is the 4-H club sponsor, secretary of the Missionary society, a member of the Eastern Star, and a Royal Neighbor.

When Mrs. Vise told me something of her life, she said: "I have worked twelve years in a print shop, have worked as bank cashier, and I have written insurance." So, you see, Mrs. Vise is one woman who has done much.

It would be unfair to speak of her work without mentioning her home work. She papered her home and finished the woodwork also. The Vises have converted a rolling slope into a beautiful lawn in just four years.

Now, readers, we introduce Mrs. perennial phlox, nine varieties of Vise in order that you may be inglads, four varieties of ferns, and spired to improve your nomes. We almost every type of bulb. She says, | are glad to contribute this article on too; that her geraniums grown from Mrs. Vise, for through the work of the seed have bloomed. She has a women like her our country has be-

"Good day, my daughter," said the old man, shaking hands with her. "I'm glad to be here, too. The road is long sometimes. I've come from Juniper Tank today."

"Whew!" whistled Myra, "That is a long trail, an' a hard one, especially for burros.'

"Oh, they do well, my little fellows. They're true servants of the Word, never complaining, always willing. Their reward is certain, I'm sure. If I weren't, I'd be unhappy: they are so patient, so gentle."

He looked at Myra anxiously with his faded old dark eyes.

"Sure," said the woman hastily, "sure they'll be rewarded. Just as sure as anything."

The Servant smiled relievedly. "I knew you'd understand. Mrs. Little," he said. "Some people don't. They smile when I tell them that. Now I'll go put un."

A little later they all sat down to a simple meal, and Sonya studied him with careful glances. She had heard so much about him.

Where he had come from, the country did not know, or where he made his habitat, or if he even had one. In rain and shine, summer's heat and winter's cold, he rode the lonely stretches on his tiny mounts, carrying his Bible and his first-aid kit. Many a life he had saved in emergency: many a difference he had patched up; Claude Cox home Thursday. many a bit of courage he had put in some failing heart. They called him far and wide the "Servant." shortened from "The Servant of the Lord," and he had no other name but that fantastic soubriquet. He was very old, and the rigors of his life had leaned him to the bone; its pitiless suns burned his wrinkled skin to the color of old leather. But there was in his face a flame that shamed the evil out of men beholding, hard, cynical as they might be.

He was known among the ranchers half satirically, half affectionately, as the "Holy Chuck-line Rider," since he had no money ever, and could not have spent it if he had. They put him up and fed his burros, and listened quiet(TO BE CONTINUED)

You will recall that from time to time since 1930, the Legislature has been suspending interest and penalties on Delinquent Taxes. Last May, the last measure of this kind was enacted, which provided a 2% penalty on all ad valorem taxes delinquent on February 1, 1933. (later they included the split tax payments which became de-linquent on July 1, 1933), if paid by December 30, 1933, and 4% penalty, if paid by March 31, 1934; and 6%, if paid by June 30, 1934. After this June 30, 1934, expiration date. the old law prescribing 10% penalties and 6% interest per year, will again be in force.

"This means that on and after July 1, 1934, this year, the penalty and interest you will be required to charge will not be 6%, but will include 6% interest per annum from the date it was first delinquent, plus 10% penalty. For example:

30% WILL BE ADDED TO 1930 DELINQUENT TAXES 24% WILL BE ADDED TO 1931 DELINQUENT TAXES 18% WILL BE ADDED TO 1932 DELINQUENT TAXES (A delinquent cost will also accrue in addition to the above) "With kindest regards, I am

OBITUARY

Ernest Glenn Bartram

Ernest Glenn Bartram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bartram of the Mobeetie community, was born Jan. 3, 1930, and died June 3, 1934, at the Wheeler hospital. He was operated on for appendicitis and lived but a short time following the ordeal.

Funeral services were held Sunday at Mobeetie, with interment in the cemetery at that place.

Relatives from a distance attending the funeral were: Mrs. Zeb Wilhite and son, Floyd, of Dodsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Gunter, Claude; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harrison, Panhandle; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mc. Gregor, and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Webb, Canadian.

Besides his parents, little Ernest Glenn is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Beck and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bartram; his greatgrandmother, Mrs. Pettie Beck, and a host of other relatives.

ly, these dark, hard-riding men of cattle camp and sheep camp, while he told them of their sins and the Hope of the World that never died. How much of it went in he never knew, since they are a silent lot, but it was not his job to know. That was to give the Word, that only.

So now Sonya watched him, smiling a little in gentle sympathy, and re called the stories of his goodness and his unbounded courage which she had heard. A strange little old man, filled with undying zeal, his spirit a fire of evangel, like those amazing padres who had walked the West in an earlier day, he commanded the respect of all who came in contact with him-the gentle, mad old Servant of the Lord.

And presently Myra took them out in the sandy yard to sit about the doorway and rest with the dving day. After the manner of women in far places, she began to draw from him the news of the country.

The sun went down entirely, and the vast spread of the sandy levels clothed themselves in royal purple beyond a painter's dreams. The world was a lovely place, the Servant said in his soft old voice, fit footstool for the feet of God. There was no evil in it of itself. Only man made evil. Man, with his greed and his cruelty. Beelzebub was abroad in the land -Beelzebub and his henchman. He had seen them with his own eyes, he the Servant of the Lord in humble places. They traveled together by night, and danger waited on them, death and danger and disaster. It had struck just across the Border in that stark form hung upon a cross. It was no common thief who rotted there in the windy sun, but one who had betrayed his master. Beelzebub himself, that master, dark and cold and wicked as infernal fire. He was a power and a force not to be reckoned with or questioned. Though several hundred miles lay between the Border and this sheltered spot, still the finger of the Wicked One could reach even here. The old man had seen shadows. Many shadows. Chief of them the Master's blue-eyed henchman. No good stayed where the Blue-eyed One went by. He had heard of him across the Line last year, the tall one with bronzecolored hair who was always seen when disaster was to follow. A sign and a symbol of disaster, this tall one with the wild eyes. And he had seen him three days back riding down the trail to Red Rock canyon on a horse of solid gold. So did the Wicked One mount his followers.

Well, it was growing late, and he was tired. The old were always tired. So he would find his blankets and sleep, if his friends permitted.

He rose and bowed with a lean grace, vague remnant of some forgotten time, and went away toward the camp he had made with his packs and his weary burros, and Sonya Savarin sat still in every atom of her body with a strange stillness. It seemed as if a hushing hand had been laid upon her spirit, something cold and sinister come down upon her like a cloud. Evil seemed to fall with the night and the old man's words, and presently she shivered and wrapped her arms across each other as if to shut it out. Then she shook herself

"Well," the girl laughed, "I didn't, so that's that. And, Myra, I wish you could have seen his face. I never saw a drunken man get sober so fast in my life."

"What did he look like?" asked Myra curiously. "Was he a cowboy?" Sonya considered.

"Well, he was dressed like one, yet I wondered what outfit he could work for, since we're all sheep over there, you know. And he was good to look at. Tall and slim hipped, with the strangest long blue eves I ever saw. Odd eyes that could change in a second. They were fierce at first, like a hawk's, reckless and selfish. They made me furious just to look at them. And then, when he saw I was in dead earnest about-about-this thingthey turned perfectly terrible with anxiety, like a man's who sees a child dying and can't help, if you see what I mean, Well, anyway, it's ancient history, and I hope I never lay eyes on him again, the good-for-nothing. And now tell me about yourself. How's the ranch going?"

And Myra fell into the usual train of trivial happenings which had filled the recent months, as the afternoon wore away and the sun went down the west.

It was twilight when they came out into the ranch yard, and some one was coming into the round stockade corral where the big tanks shimmered with their sweet waters from the well under the windmill. This was a strange creature if ever there was one, that sat wearily on his little gray burro, leading another and hazing a third ahead of him-a thin, stooped figure in rusty black garments that bore about them something of the dignity of chancel and sacristy. A widebrimmed black hat sat squarely on the head of long white hair that fell

"Good day, my daughter," said the old man, shaking hands with her. "I'm glad to be here, too. The road is long sometimes. I've come from Juniper Tank today."

"Whew !" whistled Myra. "That is a long trail, an' a hard one, especially for burros."

"Oh, they do well, my little fellows. They're true servants of the Word, never complaining, always willing. Their reward is certain, I'm sure. If I weren't, I'd be unhappy: they are so patient, so gentle."

He looked at Myra anxiously with his faded old dark eyes.

"Sure," said the woman hastily, "sure they'll be rewarded. Just as sure as anything."

The Servant smiled relievedly. "I knew you'd understand, Mrs. Little," he said. "Some people don't. They smile when I tell them that. Now I'll go put up.'

A little later they all sat down to a simple meal, and Sonya studied him with careful glances. She had heard so much about him.

Where he had come from, the coun-Sam Savina, notorious Bortry did not know, or where he made had been found just across his habitat, or if he even had one. In Frande crucified, a grim Mexrain and shine, summer's heat and winter's cold, he rode the lonely hat the Servant of the Lord ing in to the Black Sheep stretches on his tiny mounts, carrying his Bible and his first-aid kit. Many night on one of his constant a life he had saved in emergency; many a difference he had patched up; st each other; the crucifixion many a bit of courage he had put in some failing heart. They called him far and wide the "Servant," shortened from "The Servant of the Lord." and he had no other name but that fantastic soubriquet. He was very old, and the rigors of his life had leaned him to the bone; its pitiless suns burned his wrinkled skin to the color of old leather. But there was in his face a flame that shamed the evil out of men beholding, hard, cynical as they might be.

> He was known among the ranchers half satirically, half affectionately, as the "Holy Chuck-line Rider," since he had no money ever, and could not have spent it if he "had. They put him up and fed his burros, and listened quiet-and listened to Myra, who was saying how mad the Servant was. A strange old creature. Gentle and kind and quite, quite mad, so Myra thought. (TO BE CONTINUED) (TO BE CONTINUE
