Shawcross Says Cards-On-Table Plan Won't Do

Debate Resumed On Russia's Arms Proposal

PARIS, Oct. 13. (AP) — The six neutral powers of the United Nations security council met tonight to consider Russia's answer to their proposal to end the Berlin blockade.

PARIS, Oct. 13. (AP) — Britain charged today that Russia's fifth column is sabotaging world reconstruction through Communist Parties in every country in the world.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, addressing the 58-nation political committee of the United Nations, declared Russia's offer to lay her cards on the table if a Soviet armaments proposal was adopted "won't do."

Resuming the debate on Russia's proposal for a one-third reduction in armaments within a year, Sir Hartley said Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky was trying to do away with the iron curtain by denying it existed.

The committee later adopted an Australian proposal to shift the whole disarmament question to a sub-committee. The sub-committee was directed to coordinate numerous proposals and amendments.

"What a tremendous contribution it would be to confidence in Europe if the Soviet countries would open the doors, lift the curtains, and let travelers from other countries get to know and make friends with the warm-hearted and generous people of Russia and to understand the great problems they have to face."

"One word from Russia: one little word—'stop'—would enable these troubled countries to put their own houses in order and to build themselves up in democratic peace and security—one little word—and it does not come."

This word, he said, would halt Communist sabotage of reconstruction and Communist attempts to create instability and chaos. He said Russia is trying to win "the fruits of war" without fighting.

He warned the Soviets not to expect Britain to adopt a policy of appeasement in an effort to reach agreement on control of atomic energy and reduction of armaments. Argentine sources said Russia's reply to efforts of lesser powers to end the Berlin blockade was received by Vishinsky from the Kremlin this afternoon.

The Kremlin's answer to compromise proposals by the six indirectly affected nations of the Security Council is to be delivered to Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia. The Argentine source said a dim hope now remaining for a compromise rested on the Russian answer. The three western powers have refused to bargain with Russia while the blockade remains.

Approval was expected soon by British, French and American delegates of a joint resolution calling for ending this crisis. See SABOTAGE, Pg. 13, Col. 3

MOTHER TALKS

Says Actress Treated Her Like Old Shoe

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13. (AP) — Veronica Lake "tossed her off like an old shoe" after achieving success in Hollywood, the actress' mother, Mrs. Constance Veronica Keane, declares.

Mrs. Keane, 47, explained yesterday why she is suing Miss Lake and the actress' husband, Producer Andre de Toth, for $500,000 support and $17,416 she claims is due her under a 1943 support agreement.

She contends her daughter earns $4,500 weekly. Mrs. Keane said she had not wanted to upset Veronica, who is expecting a third child within two weeks, but—

"She was a sweet girl once," said the mother. "But she has changed—as many do in Hollywood." Mrs. Keane declared that her daughter's respect and love changed to scorn and indifference.

"I have sold my car and furniture," she added, "and pawned my engagement ring. I have nothing. There was nothing else I could do."

Mrs. Keane produced what she said was a photostatic copy of a contract allegedly signed by Miss Lake in 1943, guaranteeing her mother and stepfather, the late H. Anthony Keane, $200 weekly "in consideration of their filial love and affection."

Miss Lake, who said such a document never existed, declared she had paid her mother $115 weekly. She said she cut the allowance because she was supporting her until her stepfather died in 1946.

Mrs. Keane told of sacrifices she said she and the family made to put Miss Lake through dramatic school and launch her film career.

Miss Lake's attorney, Oliver B. Schwab, said his client has not yet been served with the action and that probably nothing would be done about it until after the birth of her child.

Illini Give Dewey 'Wallace Welcome'

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY, Oct. 13. (AP) — Southern Illinois gave Gov. Thomas E. Dewey a "Wallace Welcome" of flying tomatoes and rotten eggs last night as he headed for Oklahoma with 13 speeches on his program.

Besides the flying groceries, Dewey was beset by a mishap at Beaucoup, Ill., where his special train backed up into a crowd of about 1,000 persons who had turned out to hear the nominee in an after-dark speech.

"That's the first lunatic I've had for an engineer," the Republican presidential candidate commented. "He probably should be shot at sunrise," Dewey added, "but we'll let him off this time since nobody was hurt."

At Mt. Vernon, Ill., in a southern Illinois sector generally regarded as friendly territory, Dewey was the target of two flying tomatoes. The candidate's security patrol said youngsters lobbed the vegetables from a nearby roof and promptly ran.

E. L. Biles, porter on the seventh car away from Dewey's, reported the train also was struck by one over-ripe tomato in Colorado two weeks ago, took no notice of the tomato-heaving incident. He did not learn immediately of the egg tossing.

Dewey, in his speeches, continued on his theme that only the Republican party can convince the "falling" in its search for peace. He urged that the American peacemakers and defeatism and despair by electing a Republican administration in November.

Gov. Dewey today asserted that the U. S. "in the interest of our national security" must increase its potential oil producing capacity. "Because of our present needs," the New York governor said in a speech prepared for delivery at Oklahoma City, "we have no reserve productive capacity today to help cushion the shock of any emergency."

"Our peacetime demands are actually so great that the United States has become a net importer of petroleum."

"I was backing so slow that anybody could have easily gotten out of the way. I gave the proper back up signals."

Railman Does Not Appreciate 'Lunatic' Quote

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 13. (AP) — Lee Tindle, railroad engineer, said today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey should not have called him a lunatic.

"He ought not to have said that, because he didn't know what it was all about," the railroadman said today of the incident yesterday at Beaucoup, Ill.

Tindle was engineer in charge of the Dewey train, which backed up while a group of people were around the rear end of it. "The engineer was not embittered toward the republican presidential candidate because of the "lunatic" statement.

"I think as much of Dewey as I did before and that's not very much," he declared. "It's all just a lot of hot air."

Tindle added: "If it hadn't been the Dewey special, nothing would have been said about it. As it was, it gave Mr. Dewey some more publicity."

"There were a lot of people standing on both sides of the track as I pulled up to put water in the second engine," said Tindle. "There was a lot of mist and smoke in the air, and I ran about eight or ten feet past the water tower. I began to back up very slowly."

"I was backing so slow that anybody could have easily gotten out of the way. I gave the proper back up signals."

Ranges and pastures deteriorated rapidly over the northern two-thirds of the state during all of September as the usual fall rains failed to materialize, the USDA said.

Sheep are going into the winter in fair flesh, and cattle were showing shrinkage in flesh except in the areas favored by showers.

Chest Drive Response Is Encouraging

Please read "Around the Rim" today for a story on one of the agencies supported by the Community Chest. — Ed

Workers response, as well as donor response, was extremely encouraging, Community Chest officials reported Wednesday.

Although there had been no tabulation on big gifts reported to noon Wednesday, most of those which had come in showed increases of 27 per cent or better. This was the difference between the amount raised last year and that asked this year.

Meantime, Dan Eddy, office manager for the Chest, said an additional 35 to 40 workers had been secured Wednesday.

The special gifts division under K. H. McGibbon and Champ Rainwater changed its time to Friday 10 a. m. for its start, but 15 workers have been signed to participate. They will contact 100 prospects, giving no man more than five cards.

Roy Reeder has some two score lined up for general solicitation and three new divisional chairmen were added Wednesday morning. His division goes into action Tuesday.

Everywhere there was confidence that the Chest would be able to reach its $37,000 quota quickly. Those who wish to utilize selective giving (that is designate their gifts) may do so. Agency quotas can be adjusted quickly to take cognizance of these.

WEST TEXANS NEED IT TOO

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 13. (AP) — Frederick W. Welve, fire chief from London, England, recalled London fires caused by World War II air raids as he looked at the Niagara River's rapids and falls and remarked: "How we could have used that water!"

Scout Ranch Trip Slated

A local delegation of some 20 persons is scheduled to leave Thursday morning for the Buffalo Trail Council Boy Scout Ranch in the Davis mountains, where they will attend note-burning ceremonies in observance of full payment of the ranch.

Invitations were extended to persons interested in Scout work throughout the council's 15-county area, and more than 200 are expected to attend. The visitors are to be guests at a barbecue to be held at the ranch immediately before the note-burning ceremonies.

Members of the local delegation who need transportation to the ranch have been asked to contact Walton S. Morrison or Dr. P. W. Malone.

CAP Lays Plans To Reorganize

Plans for re-organization of the Big Spring Civil Air Patrol unit were made at a meeting Tuesday night in the Settles hotel.

Application blanks have been ordered, and another meeting will be called as soon as the supply is delivered.

At the Tuesday night session, Dr. L. G. Groupe, San Angelo, explained procedures for re-organization, while W. D. Berry gave a report on past operations and equipment which will be available for use after the unit is re-organized. The local CAP unit went on inactive status soon after the end of the war.

Demos May Gain Three Governors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. (AP) — An even 100 candidates are running for the 32 governorships at stake in the November 2 elections.

At least four of the contests are attracting more than statewide interest. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan all now have Republican governors. But the Democrats say they have a good chance in the first three and mark Michigan as a "possible." Republicans say they will hold all four, but concede some are close races.

Republicans and Democrats now divide the nation's governorships 24 and 24. In all, 33 states are choosing governors this year, but Maine already has held its state election. Frederick G. Payne, a Republican, won.

The 33 offices to be filled are now held by 19 Republicans and 14 Democrats. Five Republican and 10 Democratic governors hold over this year.

The size of the presidential majorities in the various states may determine most gubernatorial winners. But this is not necessarily so in states where local issues and personalities predominate.

Only in Georgia have the Republicans retained from putting up a candidate.

Of the 100 candidates all told, minor parties are running 37. Henry Wallace's Progressives have entries in 12 states—Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

The Progressives have two women on the ballot, Mrs. Irma C. Otto in New Hampshire, and Miss

FOOT AND MOUTH FIGHT

Inoculation May Break Up Disease

DENVER, Oct. 13. (AP) — A huge inoculation program may break the cycle of foot-and-mouth disease in North American cattle.

That is the hope expressed in an interview by the United States and Mexican chiefs of the international commission for eradication of the disease.

Handling the plan are: Oscar Flores of Mexico City, Mexican Undersecretary of Agriculture, and Harry H. Johnson, special assistant to the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.

They will give detailed accounts of the program, which started Oct. 3, at the convention of the U. S. Livestock Sanitary Association, opening here today.

Flores and Johnson would not say vaccine will cure animals of the disease. But it presents the "only scientific approach to the problem" and is "past the theory stage," they added.

The infected area in Mexico now covers 13 states, Flores said. Estimates of livestock infected range from 7,500,000 (M) to 12 million head.

Animals from uninfected areas are being taken at the rate of 5,000 head a month to infected areas. Virus of the disease is injected in them and recovered for preparing vaccine after the animals become ill and are slain.

Laboratories in Mexico City are making 1 million doses of vaccine a month. In the next 18 months, 50 million doses will be administered to infected animals. Each will be inoculated at least twice for "double protection" at six-month intervals.

Flores termed the program "the most gigantic ever undertaken."

OBJECT LESSON FOR HUMANS

Cattle Herd Near A-Bomb Blast Still Shows Effects

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Oct. 13. (AP) — A herd of cattle which was near the first atomic bomb explosion in New Mexico in July, 1945, still shows visible effects of the blast's radioactive rays.

The cattle, herefords, now numbering 58, are here at Oak Ridge on a 3,000-acre farm for atomic studies. The project is jointly conducted by the University of Tennessee agricultural and Experimental Station and the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

This herd was overlooked when the Alamogordo area known as Trinity was cleared before the July 16 bomb. The cattle were miles away where hills protected them from the flash of heat, the blast and the radioactive rays of the explosion.

But desert dust, blasted up by the bomb, rose with the atomic column and floated with the atomic cloud. This dust was radioactive. The cloud drifted over the herd, and a light rain fell, peppering them with dust and probably other radioactive particles.

The cattle were discovered by an airplane two days later and placed under observation. After a few days, the hair on their backs turned white in long bands of varying widths. Afterward most of this hair fell out. Later the hair grew again on some, but not all of the animals. When new hair came in, it was not the original red color, but mostly gray.

On some there were permanent bald streaks, and other developed sores on their backs. After healing, some developed thick, deep scars. The radioactive rays that cause these injuries can also cause cancer. No malignancies have appeared, but the cattle will be watched, because cancers due to radioactivity may take years to develop.

NEW FIRE STATION — Work on this new structure at 18th and Main streets is expected to begin in approximately two weeks. City commissioners Tuesday awarded the contract to Baker Willis of Midland on a bid of $27,482.73. The drawing was made by Puckett and French, local architects, who prepared plans and specifications for the projects.

MAY START IN TWO WEEKS

Midland Contractor Is Awarded Fire Station Bid

Baker Willis, Midland, was awarded a contract Tuesday for construction of a fire station at the intersection of 18th and Main streets.

His bid of $27,482.73 was the lowest figure submitted to city commissioners by five contractors.

Willis, who was present when bids were opened, said he expected to start actual work on the project in about two weeks. Orders were placed for major materials immediately after the contract was awarded, and he indicated that most other materials would be purchased here. He also hopes to obtain labor here for work on the structure.

Next lowest bid was submitted by B. F. Horne and Co. of Abilene, with a figure of $27,970. Other bids were received from Jones Construction Co., Big Spring, $34,516; Dunlap Construction Co., Abilene, $35,700; Suggs Construction Co., Big Spring, $38,688.80.

Following the contract award, commissioners passed an ordinance authorizing issuance of $40,000 in fire station warrants, which already had been approved. Warrants not required for construction of the building and for architect's fees will be cancelled as soon as the project is completed.

The building will include facilities for six firemen and two pieces of fire fighting mechanical equipment, which commissioners hope will meet eventual needs in the south part of the city. One fire truck and three men will be stationed at the new building immediately after it is completed.

Exterior walls of the building will be buff colored brick, similar to that used in the city hall.

The fire sub-station has been listed on permanent improvement plans for several years, but heretofore it has been crowded from the priority list by demands of other projects. The fire station warrant issue was adopted to insure construction in advance of completion of the Veterans Administration hospital, which is expected to increase needs for fire safety in the south part of town.

KASENKINA STORY

Teacher Reveals How Soviets Live When Transplanted To A U. S. Estate

(Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part, strictly prohibited.)

In today's article, Mrs. Kasenkina reveals how Soviet citizens behave when transplanted to a millionaire's estate. The tale of what happened at Glen Cove, the scandal that found their way into the press, her mortification over the conditions there and of how a thief was trapped.)

INSTALLMENT 17 By OKSANA S. KASENKINA Edited by Isaac Don Levine The little Soviet America in which I lived was mirrored in its various phases at the Glen Cove estate on Long Island of the late J. P. Morgan, the international banker. The place had been acquired shortly before my arrival in the United States as a rest home for Soviet representatives. Within three months it became a source of humiliating news throughout America when the neighbors raised a scandal over the ugly behavior of the visitors to their shores. I was inside Glen Cove during that affair.

Although I had landed in New York in the middle of June, I found that the Soviet school had not completed its courses because of a shortage of teachers. Final examinations were scheduled for July 15, to be followed by graduation exercises for a class of six high school students. Altogether the school at that time had some 100 pupils in all grades.

Late in July I was overjoyed to learn that a group of us teachers would be sent to Glen Cove where the children of Soviet officials were in camp. I looked forward to the opportunity, as I was anxious to be in the country to study the flora and the insects of America.

No sooner had we arrived at the great fenced-in estate on Long Island than we were met by the woman in charge of the children's camp who announced:

"You'll have to take care of a group of little girls" she told us. "Are there no nursemaids here?" I asked.

"No," was the blunt answer. I protested that I was a specialist in natural science, that I had planned to conduct seminars in nature study for my students, and start collections of plants and insects.

"No, no," the manager retorted. "forget your plans. We have quite a few tots to take care of, and that's what we brought you here for."

The room in the impressive mansion which I was to share with another teacher would have been ideal for rest. But adjoining it were two dormitory rooms in which 14 little girls were quartered. These were our wards, and the two of us had to serve both as nursemaids and chambermaids to them, from washing their hair to cleaning their bathrooms.

The mothers of the little girls were having the time of their lives, coming and going and disporting themselves on the beach where another luxurious house in the neighborhood had been rented by the Soviet authorities to accommodate all the staffs. I had occasion to tell these mothers what I thought of them:

"You idling aristocrats, you should be ashamed to turn us teachers into nursemaids for your children!" I told them to their faces.

We were warned to stay on the grounds which, to be sure, were ample enough.

"It's best not to go outside the boundaries," was the unmistakable hint given us. My observations mortified me. The famous flower gardens were dying of neglect, the vegetable gardens were unwatered and untended. Poison ivy was spreading everywhere. Wherever I went for a walk, I came upon empty bottles, dirty cartons and boxes. Garbage littered the grounds.

With dismay I asked myself: "How can our government send such people to represent Russia abroad? And why is it that our top diplomats, from Gromyko down, who spend their week ends here, tolerate such a disgrace?"

Soon enough the American press discovered the scandalous state of affairs within our domain. Neighbors complained of the pollution of the nearby waters and of the mud-bath. One of our teachers, a fat woman, came running to me full of excitement. She had been at the beach, the press photographers had descended upon it, and she bragged: "You'll see, my picture will be in the papers tomorrow."

The papers made the most of another picture, showing an attractive girl from the Amtorg who had been snapped by the photographers in Eve's costume. There were immediate repercussions. The girl lost her job in America and was hustled back to Soviet Russia within a matter of days. A public scandal is something which the uncouth Soviet aristocracy cannot abide. The president of the Amtorg himself was recalled, we heard, because of the incident.

There was no help in our little Soviet America to look after the small children and no attendants to take care of the grounds, but of spies and watchdogs there was no shortage. When I sneaked out with another teacher to go shopping in the village five-and-ten cent store, she looked around and hurried me, "Poskoreye — make it quick!" At the estate itself, when I retired of an evening to work on my specimens, I would find young Communist stalwarts snooping around.

This perennial vigilance, however, did not extend to theft. I was warned upon my arrival at Glen Cove by one of the teachers not to keep more than a few dollars with me. We had no key for the door of our room. Daily there was an uproar about missing valuables, now it was a wristwatch, now it was cash which had been stolen. Everybody was suspicious of all the others. I rebelled at the indignity of our status, for teachers were looked down upon as an inferior caste.

At our 87th Street school in New York I was plagued with the same vice. There were so many cases in my classes of money and things vanishing from coat pockets and purses that I determined to root out the evil. Several of the students who had become attached to me joined me in a plan to trap the thief. One of the boys hid inside the fireplace when everybody went out for callisthenics. Sure enough, the thief appeared and was caught in the act. She was the daughter of a ranking Amtorg official.

This was the beginning of the hounding campaign against me. The father of the culprit threatened me with dire punishment. I was taken to task by our Communist supervisor for exceeding my duties in certain subjects! When I argued that I regarded moral education as part of my task, he burst out:

"Since when are teachers supposed to be investigators?" After this I was ostracized by the Communists within the Soviet colony. They treated me like a pariah and my loneliness grew deeper than ever.

BACKGROUND ON BERLIN

Too Much Good Will In 1944 And Too Little In 1948 Cause World Headache

The Western Powers say the Berlin blockade is a threat to peace. Soviet Russia says there is no blockade, and it's all a matter for the foreign ministers council to settle. This is a look into the background of the Berlin situation while the United Nations Security Council, over Russian protests, seeks a solution. Later stories this week will tell how Berliners are living and describe the ideological warfare in Berlin.

BERLIN Oct. 13 (AP)—This rubble heap city of three million has become the world's No. 1 headache through too much goodwill in 1944 and too little in 1948.

The United States and Britain had too much good-will and trust in future international relations in 1944.

The Soviet Union's lack of good-will in carrying out international agreements brings a crisis over Berlin in 1948.

How did it happen? It began around a conference table in London in 1944. At the table was the European Advisory Commission set up by Russia, the United States and Great Britain.

Victory was in the air. Soviet armies were advancing on Germany from the east. The Western Powers had smashed into France and stood on the German borders. Allied air bombs shook the Reich from end to end. Berlin was not the least of the targets.

Russia, the United States and Britain were united with a common aim—to smash Germany. The watchword was co-operation.

The men around the table set up lines for the occupation in Germany without too much trouble.

Then it became a question of which city should be the seat of government for the victorious powers. The Russians wanted Berlin—which was deep in their assigned zone.

Declares Airlift Hands Communism Greatest Licking

DETROIT, Oct. 13 (AP)—Murray D. Van Wagoner, military governor of Bavaria, says communism has been handed the "greatest licking of its life."

The airlift against the Russian blockade in Germany did, it Wagoner said in a speech here last night.

The former governor of Michigan, addressing a Knights of Columbus banquet, said Russia's failure to blockade Berlin was the western democracies' "greatest triumph."

"That has been a great prestige builder for us," Van Wagoner said. "Russian propaganda has backfired."

War is not imminent, he said, adding:

"Russia doesn't want a hot war... just a cold war which we are recognizing for exactly what it is. They want to win a war without fighting it."

Van Wagoner said currency reform was the "biggest thing" to happen in Germany's economy since the war. He also said Americans were making gains in "selling democracy" to the Germans.

Sergeant's Story Of Running Guards Denied By Russians

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—An American sergeant who reported he had driven his car through the Soviet land blockade of Berlin, was accused by the Russian-controlled press today of "spreading a fantasy."

Staff Sgt. Ralph M. Felling, Jr., formerly of McCook, Neb., said Monday he had driven his new car at 90 miles an hour from Helmstedt through Russian road barriers into Berlin.

Felling said he got past Russian road guards by using "some psychology and candy bars." American military police at the Berlin end of the highway confirmed that he had passed through the Russian zone.

Soviet road guards denied the incident ever happened. The Russian-licensed newspapers said.

BBC Correspondent Reported Kidnapped By Greek Guerrillas

ATHENS, Oct. 13 (AP)—Greek authorities said today guerrillas have kidnapped BBC correspondent Kenneth Matthews from a hotel in the northeastern Peloponnese.

Police at Argos said Matthews and a woman, identified as Anne Michael, were abducted by a small band Sunday, but the woman was released after a few minutes. They said military detachments have been dispatched to pursue the rebels.

The British Broadcasting Company said in London it had no direct word from Matthews who has been in Greece since March, 1946.

Postmasters Meet Into Second Day

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 13 (AP)—The second day of the 45th convention of the National League of District Postmasters got under way here today.

Yesterday E. A. Meeks, secretary of the group, urged postmasters to refrain from political activity and retain their civil service status.

"Oil Progress Day" ... is every day!

SUPPLYING YOU with the most oil products possible is only part of the job of the oil industry. The research that helps you get the most out of record-breaking oil supplies is another important job. Rival petroleum firms spend over 100 million dollars in scientific oil research every year.

You can see the result in almost any field from the increased efficiency of your car's engine powered by new and better fuels to major advancements in chemistry, medicine, farming and manufacturing.

Crop freezing is now overcome by an artificial fog... harmful insects are destroyed... rust is prevented... clothes are waterproofed... new medicines developed... industrial production increased... all with the help of oil and its by-products.

October 14th is National "Oil Progress Day." But to a nation moving forward with oil, Oil Progress Day is every day in the year.

SCHOOLBOY PATROL — The schoolboy safety patrol is now on duty at Big Spring schools under sponsorship of the junior chamber of commerce. It all started when the JayCees invited patrol captains from each school to a luncheon to learn details about the patrol. In turn they went back to their schools and recruited and instructed others with the results shown below. Cleveland Postal Workers Will Be Given A Hearing

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13 (AP)—Fifteen or more Cleveland post office employees who took loyalty oaths required by the government will be given hearings here on charges they belong to the Communist Party.

Cleveland Postmaster Guy R. Lucas said today the number to be interrogated was "15 or more, but less than 40." There are about 4,200 postal workers in the city. "If they are guilty, we don't want them," Lucas declared. "If they are innocent, we should like to see them cleared."

The hearings will be under the direction of a postal inspector and will be closed.

Arizona Priest Continues Fight For Scorpion Serum

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 13 (AP)—Importation of the serum for hospital use. Dr. Veldee earlier had pledged the support of his agency in a campaign to remove present restrictions that prohibit the serum's importation.

Several weeks ago a youngster, gripped with the nearly always-fatal convulsions that follow the scorpion sting, was saved through the use of the serum which secretly had been brought across the Mexican border. Since then, several cases have been treated with the serum. Father Emmett said the serum's effect is noticeable immediately.

Efforts have been made to get the serum manufacturer, the MYN Laboratories of Mexico City, to seek an import license. This has failed, he said, probably because the manufacturer is disinterested due to the limited market.

H-SU DORMITORY TO BE DEDICATED U. S. Oil Industry Pays Tribute To Judge Hunter

ABILENE, Oct. 13 (AP)—The nation's oil industry today pays tribute here to the late Judge J. C. Hunter, Sr., often honored as the champion of the independent oil operator.

On the eve of National Oil Progress Day, independent operators and heads of far flung major companies join to dedicate a three-story girls dormitory at Hardin-Simmons University to the memory of a man who dedicated his life to betterment of West Texas. It was Judge Hunter—banker, industrialist, oil producer, and civic leader—who mapped the initial plans for the university's post-war building program.

But death in November, 1945, prevented his seeing his plans accomplished. As a member of the university's board of trustees, he had devoted 16 years to developing and expanding the Abilene institution.

Shortly after the war his friends within the oil industry formed the J. C. Hunter Memorial Fund.

Only last month were details of the fund revealed with the announcement that its contributors were retiring a bank loan on the brick dormitory.

Principal speakers at the dedication were to be George A. Hill, Jr., Houston, president of the Houston Oil Company, and Eugene Holman, president of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Other speakers were to include William R. Boyd, Jr., New York City, president of the American Petroleum Institute; Frank Porter, Oklahoma City, president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association; Fred W. Shield, San Antonio, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, and V. C. Perini, Jr., Abilene, president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association. Members of the memorial fund committee; still receiving contributions are B. A. Hardy, Shreveport; J. S. Birdwell, Wichita Falls; Charles F. Roeser, Fort Worth; Jake L. Hamon, Dallas; Arch Rowan, Fort Worth; Harry S. Moss, Dallas; Ralph Zook, Bradford, Penn.; Russell Brown, Tulsa; Frank Buttram, Oklahoma City; W. M. Mr. Allen Gets A Rise From Some Behind The Give-Aways

Fred Allen, the wry radio comic, has the network executives screaming "tain't so."

The pruned-faced wit turned his caustic chatter toward the give-aways a fortnight ago and forthwith bonded his listeners in the amount of $5,000 against any loss they might incur through listening to his program if called by one of the something-for-nothing programs.

That caused a few network officials and their minions to clear their throats in protest to this heresy from a veteran of radio. Tolerance and complacency faded when Allen and his wife, Portland Hoffa, intimated that the networks tip off recipients of their telephone calls in advance of the program. This brought vigorous screams of denial from ABC. No doubt NBC, CBS and Mutual will sally forth with their white statements.

We wouldn't know if there are advance tip-offs. We don't care. We doubt that Mr. Allen really cares. He is probably more interested in the listening audience to his own audience and with his great publicity build up the last two weeks, he's accomplished his immediate objective.

His "arsade" against the give-aways, however, deserves more success than that. Matters have reached such a pretty pass that programs must offer big bribes for listening. It doesn't stop there by any means. Magazine and newspaper ads carry displays proclaiming bribes for purchasing products. Even organizations have gone daffy over raffles and give-away programs mimicking the radio shows. The whole thing is out of hand and positively insane.

Somewhere There Is A Bottom To More For Less Theories

The United Mine Workers have concluded a rather eventful convention. If anyone ever doubted that John L. Lewis was as popular within his own ballcock as he is unpopular in some circles, the convention ought to dispel that notion. His miners raised his salary from $25,000 to $50,000 per annum and in the same step kicked dues upward by about double to amount to $4 per member per month. This would amount to a mere million bucks more a month.

All of this leads to the suspicion that the UMWA is going to be better fortified financially when it next goes to bat on its contract negotiations. Among other things the scale committee has proposed a shorter work week at higher pay, and there is ever reason to believe that the UMWA will demand an increase in the 20 cents per ton royalty which goes into the miners' welfare fund.

It may be that miners are entitled to a shorter work week. Their occupation is peculiarly hazardous. But somewhere there is a minimum point and experience would indicate that 40 hours per week is not far off that pace. Beyond a certain number of hours, a worker loses efficiency. But up to that point his labor is productive. To slice under that level just to be slicing is simply to imperil the total productivity. Again we say that the miners might be able to produce more coal in 35 hours per week than they do at 40 hours, but unless they can, they may find that shorter hours penalize their welfare fund, for its total production drops off, so does their welfare take. There was a time (and there is still for numbers of workers) when hours were not justly restrained by employers, but there is now a need for sober reconsideration of the philosophy of more for less and replacing it with a theory of more for more.

Worry-Of-The-Month Club Provides A New Service

NEW YORK, (U)—HAVE YOU HAD A fresh worry lately?

Or are you one of those impossible people who go through life, day after day worrying about the same old stale worries.

Don't you realize that in the fresh bright world of today you can't go around wringing your brow over the problems that befuddled your ancestors?

It isn't enough anymore just to worry about food, clothing and shelter, and keeping your children out of jail.

Rid your mind of those old, tiresome motheaten worries. Surprise your acquaintances by springing a sensational worry on them. Watch their eyes widen in respect.

How can you do this? You just join the Worry-Of-The-Month Club.

The average man is too preoccupied with the problems of daily living to think up impressive new worries. He is in a worry rut. But every man has within him tremendous possibilities for worry—he can become a worry giant.

THIS IS WHAT THE BOYLE WORRY-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB undertakes to do. Every four weeks our board of experts looks over the world situation and picks out a tantalizing worry most people never thought of. We will send you this worry on a trial basis—without obligation. If you like it, you keep it and fret about it for a month.

The following month we will send you another worry. If you take four of our worries in a row, we will send you a free bonus worry—as long as the supply lasts.

One of the best features of the Boyle Worry-Of-The-Month Club is that we guarantee to send you a worry that you as an individual positively can do nothing about. We believe that is the only kind of a worry that brings enduring satisfaction.

One of our most popular worries last year was this:

"Do you know that at any moment the globe may tip its axis a few degrees, and everybody in the world be frozen like an ice cream cone?"

NOW THERE IS A GOOD SIMPLE honest worry for a hostess to spring on her guests at a cocktail party. The more they drink the more they will think about this worry. It will take their minds off any personal worries they have been fretting over their time with.

Our current worry-of-the-month is lifted bodily from an ad in the book section of the New York Times:

"Shall weeds inherit the earth?—A question to ponder without delay."

Well, there you are. Never thought of that did you? But, year after year, weeds have been growing up all around you in a green and devilish plot to destroy mankind. You thought you could take chlorophyll or leave it alone, did you? Forget it. Start worrying today about weeds. Tomorrow may be too late.

And join up now with the Boyle Worry-Of-The-Month Club. Our goal: To supply a care for the fellow who says he doesn't have a care in the world. It's the warrior who wins.

Old-Style GOP Obliteration Assures Dewey Nomination

(Copyrighted by New York Herald Tribune Syndicate, 1948.)

CHICAGO—When the Republicans were beaten in 1932, it was six years before the dead stump of the party began putting out such vigorous new shoots as Thomas E. Dewey, Harold Stassen and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. It was sixteen years before the new growth pretty well covered the party's Harding-Coolidge-Hoover era deadwood. And it is precisely this obliteration of the old-style Republicanism that now virtually assures Dewey's election to the Presidency.

If the situation here in Illinois is any test, the Democrats will not have so long to wait for their comeback. Even now, in their moment of disaster, they have found new men with new ideas. Adlai Stevenson and Paul Douglas, to nominate for the Governorship and Senatorship. Stevenson and Douglas may well be beaten. Yet they constitute a startling contrast, none the less, to the tired old party hacks the Republicans kept on trotting out for so long after the Hoover debacle in 1932.

It is further interesting to note that while Paul Douglas's work in Illinois established his claim to the Senatorial nomination, the selection of Stevenson for the Governorship was suggested from Washington, by the most eminent of the surviving New Dealers. Ed Kelly, the retired satrap of the Cook County Democratic machine, has long admired Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. And it can now be disclosed that Justice Douglas proposed the nomination of Stevenson, whom he had come to know and like during Stevenson's service in Washington.

All this is a pretty fair cry from the behavior of the great Democratic city machines in the past. Even as recently as 1944, Ed Kelly himself was one of the Northern bosses who blocked his friend, Justice Douglas, for the Vice-Presidency and forced the choice of Harry S. Truman because he was politically regular. If you talk to Jake Arvey, Kelly's successor as Cook County leader, the apparent anomaly is rapidly explained. Arvey is no political goo-goo, but he is an intelligent, energetic and capable organization man. And he is trying to rebuild the old Cook County machine, from foundation upward, on an entirely new pattern.

Three Famous Sons Flabbergast Cop Who Caught Them Speeding

(Copyright by Bell Syndicate, 1948.)

WASHINGTON —Chief Justice Fred B. Vinson is 'not going to Moscow and his name, therefore, will not become a by-word with the Russian people. Down in Virginia, however, his name is so well known that it caused a Virginia traffic cop to rub his eyes.

Among the students at Washington and Lee university happen to be the grandson of a late famous Virginia senator, the great grandson of a famed civil war hero, and the son of a chief justice. All three were riding together near Lexington, Va., when arrested for speeding.

The policeman, proceeding to book them asked their names. "Robert E. Lee IV," replied the first student. It happened that he was telling the truth. The traffic cop looked up quizzically, but wrote the name down, then asked for the next name.

"Carter Glass III," was the reply. The cop wrote down the name, then queried the third student. "What's yours?"

"Fred M. Vinson, Jr.," replied young Vinson.

"Then my name's Napoleon," exclaimed the flustered cop, and let all three boys go.

Note—Mrs. Vinson, wife of the chief justice, suggested to her son that after graduating at Washington and Lee he might want to take his law degree at Yale. A Yale degree, the intimated, might give him a better springboard into the legal fraternity. Replied her son: "Little Old Center college (Kentucky) was good enough for dad, wasn't it?"

Most readers of this column, judging by the mail, heartily disapprove of Congressman J. Parnell Thomas's system of salary kickbacks from clerks and stenographers. However, one or two readers have asked why I singled out Chairman Thomas.

The answer is that Thomas was not singled out. For many years this column has exposed kickbacks and nepotism among congressmen wherever they existed and regardless of political party. Thomas got no worse treatment than the others. It merely happens that his record seems to be worse than the others.

The first congressman in this column exposed for salary kickbacks was Rep. Richard Kleberg of Texas, of the famed King ranch, largest cattle ranch in the world. Kleberg was a democrat. The people of Texas promptly rose up and removed him from office.

Another congressman exposed for kickbacks was Rep. Ed Rowe of Akron, Ohio, republican, who required his secretary, Miss Margaret Nelson, to kick back around $12 a month out of her $212 salary to pay certain of Rowe's expenses. The voters of Ohio promptly saw to it that Rowe did not go back to Washington.

Contrary to some people's opinion most congressmen have clean honest records when it comes to kickbacks. Only a small minority practice it. The salaries received by their clerks and stenographers are paid by the U. S. government, not by the congressmen, and the clerks and stenographers are entitled to the full amount. Most of them earn it.

unethical practices. TAXPAYERS' MONEY GOES UP IN SMOKE

The brass hats have kept it hushed up, but the Air Force wasted thousands of dollars taking worthless movies of the Bikini atomic-bomb tests. For some unexplained reason, the job was turned over to inexperienced officers who fancied themselves moviemakers.

Brig. Gen. Paul Cullen, then a colonel, had charge of the air force camera crews at Bikini. His masterpiece was a glorified, technical, training film called "Able Baker Day," which he sent over to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to be edited. But even after the Hollywood experts added their touches the picture was such a flop and so hostile to the Army and Navy that it couldn't be shown.

Instead of the top brass ordered all the extra prints burned, and only two copies kept for the files. Since Cullen had gone ahead and ordered 48 prints, this made an expensive bonfire—paid for out of the taxpayers' pocket. Cost of the film alone that went up in smoke: $86,000.

Since the atomic energy commission had called upon all the armed services to cooperate in filming the Bikini explosions, the Navy was working on a similar picture at the same time Cullen was making "Able Baker Day." But Cullen was in such a hurry to finish the Air Force picture first and scoop the Navy that he sent an Air Force technical adviser under the pretense of helping the Navy, though with secret instructions to obstruct and delay the Navy picture.

The Air Force also made another $50,000 Technicolor extravaganza of Bikini, called "Phantom Wings." It was produced by Maj. James L. Gaylor whose total photographic background up to that time, had been as a personnel officer.

And here is how the Air Force has rewarded the two officers who wasted so much of the taxpayers' money: Cullen was promoted from colonel to brigadier general, and Gaylor—in spite of his first flop—was placed in charge of filming the recent super-secret tests at Eniwetok for the atomic energy commission. He was supposed to have finished 34 films by October 1; so far, has delivered only five.

Note—The air inspector general is now investigating these cases.

Star Adds Postscript To The Kinsey Report

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Esther Williams adds a postscript to the Kinsey report—if you want to stay married, stay sexy.

The curvy bathing beauty isn't muscling in on Beatrice Fairfax and Dorothy Dix. Confidentially, she shrinks from posing as an oracle on anything but swimming (unlike some stars who expound on everything from reformation to free silver.)

Esther is approaching her third wedding anniversary and that makes her an expert in these parts, even if it is her second try. So, between dance rehearsals for "Neptune's Daughter," I queried her on how to stay married.

"A girl should treat her husband like a date," she advised. "She shouldn't treat him like an old shoe or—worse yet—a brother."

Just because the chase is over, she continued, don't neglect your allure.

"I don't mean you have to get a lot of black lace underthings. I think crisp, white clothes are as attractive as anything."

"In fact, you don't have to put out a lot of money for expensive clothes to look your best. The important thing is to look neat. Some inexpensive but attractive house coats will help a lot."

This brought us to one of Esther's pet topics: the selection of a bathing suit.

"Most women buy bathing suits without even trying them on," she declared. "That's silly. Because if a girl is unmarried, her boy friend gets to see what her figure is really like when she wears a bathing suit."

"And a married woman should look her best when she goes on vacation. Because that's the one time of the year when her husband has time to look at her and say to himself, 'Is this what I married?'"

Cooking ranks high on the list of essentials, Esther added. (Yes, she can cook, too.)

Girl Scouts Helping Teach Social Graces, Citizenship

(This is another account of the activities supported by the Community Chest . . .)

You won't find the Girl Scout program in Big Spring in a column of statistics. Instead you are most apt to find it huddled around a pile of dry grass, leaves and sticks with a Brownie puffing at a tiny spark; or along the trail while girls tip toe to get a better view of a mocking bird; or in the kitchen where young women pick up the homey arts.

That's why it's not sufficient to say that there are more than 300 Girl Scouts in 26 troops in Big Spring, or that there are Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors in the program.

It's a combination of the two—girls and activities. That 300 figure could be expanded with more adult leadership and with better facilities.

There are many things the Girl Scout does including hikes, nature hikes, fire building, cooking out-of-doors, downtown observation hikes, learning fundamentals of first aid and assembling a small first aid kit; making something out of nothing like little purses and bracelets and belts out of leather scraps.

And there's folk dancing and skits, the latter being one of the favorites of girls who love to plan and present their own plays. There's singing; visitation of the shut-ins; learning the basic social graces—how to meet guests at home, how to prepare and serve for them, how to observe simple, good manners.

These and others go into turning the leisure time of girls into constructive channels with the ultimate goal of making girls into good citizens when they become tomorrow's women. That is why they are taught in projects and in skits and in dittos to share, to participate, to help and to be considerate. Since women have taken their place in every realm of activity it is no longer prudent to indoctrinate only the men in responsibilities of citizenship. The women are equal partners in society now.

Ideally, the program calls for small groups with an adult leader for eight to 10 girls. This means more personal attention and closer association with an interested adult.

Each year the Girl Scouts stage a day camp at the city park, spending a week concentrating on games, recreation and activities. Hundreds of Big Spring people recall also the colorful, gay May Day festival the Girl Scouts presented with their folk dances that touch all areas of the globe.

Leaders and girls feel that they could do a more effective job if their but on Lancaster street were put in useable condition. Toward this goal $500 has been raised. Needed also are funds for carrying on the program and in supporting professional workers whose job it is to train leaders and to make sure that girls everywhere have an opportunity to be Girl Scouts.—MILDRED YOUNG

France Is Now Barometer To Measure Red Storm

THE ULYSSEAN MARSHALL PLAN NO sooner gets free of one danger than it is beset by another, a fresh threat being the Communist-led French strikes which Premier Henri Queuille warns are assuming the character of a rebellion.

Those are grave words to come from the leader of a major government.

Acting under cover of the smoke-screen provided by the Red blockade of western Berlin, the Bolsheviks have organized and got under way this new offensive which is further disrupting the already chaotic French economy. Minister of the Interior Jules Moch charges that the strikes are engineered by the Cominform.

The Cominform is the successor to the Comintern, the general staff for world revolution which Moscow "abolished" in 1943 because of fierce objection to it by the Democracies. The Cominform apparently began organizing the present upheaval last July, and French fifth columnists have laid the ground-work for the sabotage methodically.

FRENCH INDUSTRY IS BEING DEALT a force blow by the coal strike that already has cost the recovery program 1 million tons of fuel which is worth its weight in pearls. A railway strike is beginning to get a grip on the throat of national transportation.

Thus two vital elements of the French life-stream—fuel and transportation—are endangered. Without them the country would be helpless.

Obviously this new assault is aimed at the European Recovery Program. However, that is far from being the whole story, for dependent on that program is the military defense of western Europe against further Communist aggression.

France is the key continental nation in the new western European alliance comprising Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg. With France hamstrung, the alliance would be weakened to the point of near impotence. If the powerful Communist party of Italy should at the same time make good its boast of being able to take over control of that strategic country, the Russians would be in a powerful position, both politically and militarily.

THE FRENCH PICTURE FITS IN PERFECTLY with the battle of Berlin. The "neutral" countries in the United Nations security council have been running themselves ragged in an effort to mediate between the Muscovites and the western Democracies. Thus far the sphinx of Moscow has kept the mediators fishing for an indication of how Russia regards the western offer to let the Berlin case go back to the foreign ministers' council—provided the Communists first lift the starvation blockade of the German capital.

This being the case, it's a fair guess that Moscow has been deliberately stalling to see how the French strikes progress. Should things worsen in France, we may be sure the Russians will capitalize the situation and become more exacting in their demands. So for the time being France is a barometer by which to tell how the storm goes.

Appropos of this thought, Britain Monday issued a white paper blaming the breakdown in the Berlin crisis on a Russian desire to undermine the recovery of western Europe. This paper declared:

"The Soviet government has no intention of reaching agreement save on its own terms."

American Jazz Returning To Land Where It Was Born

By JERRY KORN

For JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON, (U)—AMERICAN JAZZ is returning to America.

For years, Europeans have been so much more interested than Americans in this peculiarly American music that there still are many jazz records which can be found only overseas.

Since the war, the number of jazz collectors in this country has increased by thousands. But there still are so few that unless you are a collector, or know one, you may not know what jazz—"hot" jazz—is.

Paul Whiteman, once known as "The King of Jazz," gets scarcely a tumble from the jazz collector. Whiteman's large orchestra played arranged music. Jazz is not arranged.

Irving Berlin, often called a jazz composer, fares no better with the collector. Jazz isn't written. It's played. What's more, it's played most often by small groups of musicians who pride themselves on their ability to play with restraint.

THEY USE NO WRITTEN MUSIC. Instead, they memorize melodies—frequently popular melodies—then use them as a starting point for creations of their own. Until a few seconds before each note is played, no one, including the musician, knows what it's going to be.

A jazz band usually—not always—is made up of just seven or eight instruments: A trumpet (sometimes two), a trombone, clarinet, piano, guitar or banjo, bull fiddle or tuba, and drums. Sometimes a saxophone is added. Sometimes one of the others is omitted.

Hot jazz generally is played this way: The trumpet plays the melody through, just as it was written, while the others make up a suitable background. Then most of the instruments fade out and let a single member improvise a solo. Finally, all seven or eight improvise at once, the trumpet leading the way.

For years jazz was played by Negro musicians in New Orleans—and no place else. Then traveling jazz bands—Negro and white—began drifting into Chicago, where they first made records on a fairly large scale.

IT WAS THESE RECORDS WHICH caught the ear of European musicians and music lovers. But strangely, no one paid much attention to them in this country until years later.

Meanwhile American record companies took the metal plates (called matrices) from which jazz records could be stamped and shipped them to France and England where the jazz market was brisk.

Sometimes the companies did that without ever printing the records in this country.

The surge in American collecting started—slowly—around 1936, when a French book—Hughes Panassié's "Le Jazz Hot"—was translated into English and published here.

For years, the most important reference work on American jazz has been Frenchman Charles Delaunay's "Discography," which also had to be translated for its American editions.

(This work lists musicians, dates and other information about thousands of jazz records—information Delaunay gathered years after the records had been made, by painstaking correspondence with American musicians, collectors and record companies.)

MANY RECORDS, LONG AGO DROPPED from the market, have become valuable. An American collector recently offered $200 for one record made during the 20's by the now-famous King Oliver Band. (Oliver died in the 30's, almost penniless.)

Meanwhile, the growth of collecting in this country has encouraged record companies to re-issue many of the important old jazz records.

Vast Lakes Of Oil Have Been Pumped From Pools In Howard

Vast lakes of oil have been pumped from the eight pools which lie in or extend into Howard county.

Through 1948 these pools had yielded 148,546,217 barrels of oil. This is approximately six times the combined capacity of the city's Moss Creek and Powell Creek lakes.

Today there are more than 1,500 wells in those oil pools—a remarkable increase from the wildcat test which touched off commercial production in the Chalk area in April of 1926. Together, they have a combined allowable of 21,000 barrels per day.

Perhaps nowhere in West Texas is there a greater panorama of pay, for oil is produced here from seven distinct limes and possible production has been indicated from an eight. The fertile Howard-Glasscock pool, one of the oldest in the Permian Basin and which has given up 122,778,489 barrels of oil, produces from the Yates, the Seven Rivers, Grayburg, San Andres, Clear Fork and one deep exploration there tested strong shows in the Strawn of the Pennsylvanian series. An Iatan-East Howard extension gets into the Wichita and the new Vealmoor pool has hit prolific pay from the Canyon of the Pennsylvanian.

An even 100 producers combine to get the yield from the Iatan-East Howard, the Howard-Glasscock, the Iatan-East Howard (North), Snyder, Moore, Morita, Vincent and Vealmoor pools. They also carry on an extensive program of development, exploration as well as production.

Here are some interesting figures on oil production in this immediate area:

Cosden Slates 'Open House'

Ever see a refinery at work? Well, you'll have a chance Thursday when Cosden Petroleum Corp. stages a sort of "open house" affair in two conducted tours.

There will be two for the general public. In both instances, visitors are asked to gather outside the headquarters building. The morning conducted tour starts at 10 o'clock, the afternoon one at 3 o'clock.

In addition, Howard County Junior College students will go through the plant to see it in operation at 11 a. m. and it is possible that a group of high school seniors will be privileged to go on a conducted tour during the day.

For those who are unable to get out to the plant three miles east of Big Spring on US 80, a rough idea of the course of petroleum from crude oil to finished products may be had by tracing the neon flow in a model refinery on display in the Empire Southern Gas company window. Cosden has arranged this unique display for convenience of downtown shoppers.

LABOR EXAMPLE

Local 826 Backs Its Oil Products

Oil Progress Day will find one group of employees just as eager to observe the occasion as management.

They will be found at Cosden's refinery where members of local No. 826 of the International Union of Operating Engineers serve in all the operating and maintenance divisions of the refinery, marketing and pipeline facilities.

What helps the oil business helps Cosden and what helps Cosden definitely is to their advantage, union officials and members reason.

That was why many listeners pricked their ears last summer on half a dozen or more occasions when the radio announcer reminded them that the baseball game broadcast was coming to them through courtesy of local 826. But they didn't get a message on the union's problems. Instead the announcer pinged into a sales talk on Cosden products. "They're good, said one employee. "We ought to know. We help make them, and we are proud to stand back of them."

The local encourages civic enterprise, individually and collectively. At the moment the union is committed to make the employee canvass at Cosden for the Community Chest. In the past it has assumed similar responsibility repeatedly.

Heading the union is Brandon Curry, stillman on the crude unit. Other officers are O. O. Craig, vice-president; J. W. Bennett, secretary; W. W. Moeser, treasurer; Earl Richey, business manager. On the workman's committee are C. H. Harrison, Garrett Patton, W. G. Simpson, Henry Covert, Roland Schwarzenbach.

The union and company together have established a pattern for harmonious relations. Since 1943, when the union assumed representation of operating and maintenance personnel, there has never been a grievance filed. Annual contracts have become more or less perfunctory in this air of understanding. Many industries would love to boast of the progress Cosden and its employees have made in human relations.

ONE WAY TO PAY TAXES IN FULL

TOKYO, Oct. 13. (AP)—Blacksmith Yonekichi Kudo, 60, received notice from the tax collector he was 6,500 yen in arrears.

Last night he took a hammer, killed his wife and six children while they slept, and set fire to the house.

The Judo took his own life with poison.

Geology Makes Oil Industry Progress

One field of progress in petroleum is that of geology.

Little more than a score of years ago drillers simply punched holes. When they hit pay, they measured the depth and if it was 1,500 feet, then it was simply "1,500 feet pay."

But geologists have put the microscope to samples and have classified various sands and limes which yield oil in West Texas. Thus they have been able to correlate information from wildcat wells on formation tops and to predict the behavior of production in one pool by its behavior in another area.

These names may be confusing to the lay observer, but they are based on geological ages. Most prolific in this territory is that of the Permian age, which gives this the name of the Permian Basin. There are several series, the first being the Ochoa, which in turn is broken down into formations or groups which are the Dewey Lake, Rustler, Salado and Castile.

Next comes the Guadalupe series with the Tansill, Yates, Seven Rivers, Queen, Grayburg, San Andres, San Angelo-Glorieta. These also are known as the Delaware Mountain groups. In the Leonard (Yeso) series, which follows next, are the Clear Fork, and the Wichita group. The Wolfcamp series produces from the Wolfcamp (Abo).

Mayor Proclaims Oil Progress Day

Thursday has been set aside in a proclamation by Mayor G. W. Dabney as Oil Progress Day.

In calling upon the community to recognize the special occasion, the mayor called attention to the "vital part that oil has not only contributed to our local economy but in largely powering out national defense."

Pointing out that Cosden's refinery and 100 producing companies employ hundreds of people in the city, the mayor observed that "They are solid citizens, shouldering their part of responsibility in community affairs. In recognition of the contribution of these people and the industry in which they are engaged, I do urge the people of Big Spring to observe Thursday as Oil Progress Day."

Rotarians Learn Of Oil's Role In Texas

One of every eight persons in Texas is engaged in the oil business, Carl Smith, Cosden Petroleum Corp. sales manager told the Rotary club Tuesday.

Smith was speaking in connection with a week of appreciation for the role oil plays in Texas and pointing up the Oil Progress Day observance Thursday.

Musical entertainment was furnished by Joyce Howard, vocalist, accompanied by Mary Louise Hendricks, head of the Howard County Junior College music department.

Visiting Rotarians were Luke McLeiland, Pampa, Glenn Dugan, Abilene, Lester Grant, Herb Fox and P. V. Thorsen, Midland.

Oil Progress Day

IS OCTOBER 14th

More than 34,000 individual companies are competing in oil production, refining, transportation and distribution to bring more oil to you—to fill the greatest demand for petroleum America has ever known.

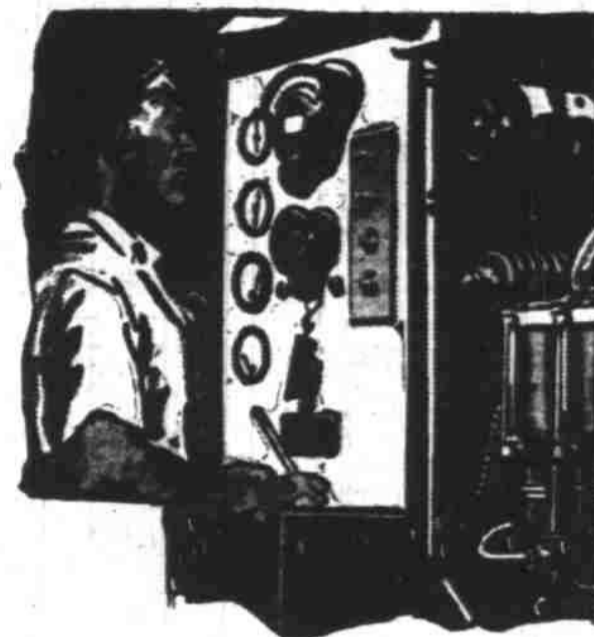

This great demand for petroleum products is being met.

Right now, they're supplying you with almost 250 million gallons of oil products every day. This is more oil than has ever been supplied before . . . more oil than was needed in the peak years of the war.

The demand for oil is constantly expanding because of the ever-increasing number of cars and trucks . . . farm tractors . . . planes, trains, ships and factories.

Today oil has become, too, a major source of raw materials for America's rapidly expanding chemical industry. From oil come synthetic rubber, fertilizer, industrial alcohols, commercial solvents. Through oil, an ample supply of raw material is assured for the mounting production of all kinds of plastic materials and synthetic textile fibres.

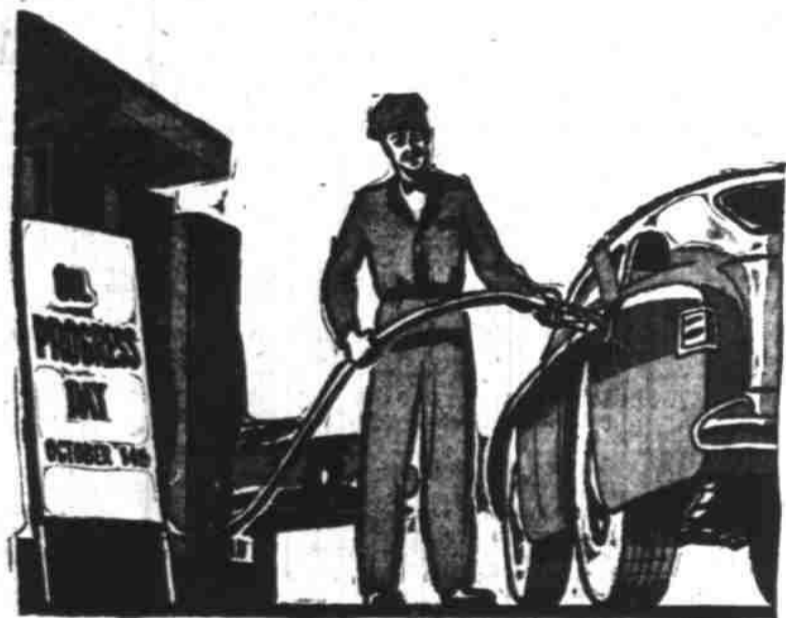

This great demand for petroleum products is being met. What's more, the industry is gearing itself to meet the even greater needs anticipated for tomorrow. This year you will receive more oil products than ever before. Oil is energy for America. Oil means more comfort, better living, greater convenience for you.

Behind the dealer, who supplies the Petroleum products to you, is a transportation system consisting of some 150,000 miles of pipeline, 400 tankers, 2,400 barges, 100,000 railroad tank cars and 100,000 trucks. Further behind the scenes are some 400 refineries engaged in turning crude oil into useful products. Supplying them are added thousands of producing companies which find oil and bring it to the ground. This year the producing companies are drilling 40,000 new wells, a new high record.

The American oil industry has progressed rapidly and in doing so it has contributed enormously to our standard of living. Under our system, it promises to continue to grow and to maintain its benefits to our nation, as a whole, and to the men and women and industry in every community in the land.

"PETROLEUM PROMOTES PROGRESS"

Cosden is proud of the approximately 400 local employees who help produce, purchase, transport, refine and market its products. The Cosden payroll amounts to approximately $1,250,000 per year. Each year the Cosden Petroleum Corporation processes about 6,000,000 barrels of West Texas crude oil. This is equivalent to more than 29,000 tank cars of petroleum products.

On this Oil Progress Day, we renew our pledge that through our quality products, our symbol, the Cosden Traffic Cop and our untiring efforts in the petroleum field, we will ever strive to achieve the very finest for our city, state and nation.

Steers To Enter Brownfield Tilt With Reshuffled Line

Don Williams, Lawrence Out

The Big Spring high school football Steers will enter the Brownfield game Friday night with a reshuffled lineup, and not especially because Coach Mule Stockton planned it that way.

Stockton has been beset with manpower problems for weeks but never was it more critical than it is at the present time. Kelly Lawrence is out indefinitely with an injured knee. He was being counted upon to man a post in the backfield.

Don Williams hit dry dock Monday when a second stringer threw a block at him and cut him down. Williams experienced a damaged knee and will be out all this week and maybe next.

Artis Davis has been a disappointment to Stockton and may not even be used against the Cubs. It is a near certainty he will not start.

Stock has moved two linemen, Paul Fortenberry and Billy Ban Pelt, into the secondary. They will probably go with Donnie Carter and either Cleone Russell, Jimmy Jennings or Kenneth Currie.

Carter suffered a shoulder bruise and, of course, will be favoring that injury Friday.

The Steer coach now has but two regular tackles, Dick Laswell and Lee Axtens, ready to function this week. If one or both of those get hurt—well, he doesn't like to think about that.

Ben Bondie will man Van Pelt's guard post while Billy Cunningham will be entrenched at the other guard position. The other regulars, Ends Cuts Grigsby and Aubrey Armistead and Center Kimbel Guthrie, are ready to go.

The Brownfield offensive is built around the veteran Bill Tankerly, a 170-pound half back who dealt out misery to the Steers last year and the season before.

The Steers have been taking new pointers on how to stop the big boy in practice this week.

Local Gridders Busy This Week

Three local football teams either than the varsity will be in action week.

The B string Shortorns, on their way to a successful season, entertain the Odessa reserves here at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Local fans who have been wondering what the 1949 edition of the Steers will look like can get a fair idea by watching the Shortorns in action.

The reserve team's attack is built around Carol Cannon and Robert Cobb, two hard running backs. Cannon has another season of eligibility left, Cobb at least two.

The Ninth Grade Dogies invade San Angelo Saturday for a 3 o'clock battle.

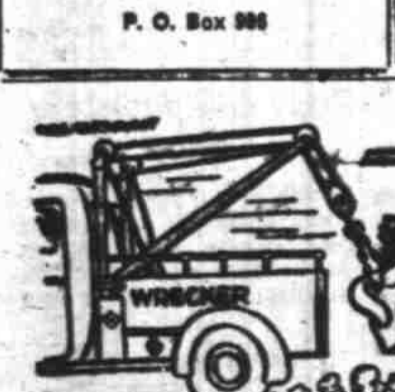

The Eighth Grade Yearlings clash with Midland's Eighth graders at Midland starting at 2:30 o'clock Thursday.

Nevada Remains No. One Team, Offensively

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—Notre Dame and Michigan, although their winning streaks are still intact, don't pack the punch they did in 1947—if figures are to be believed.

These two Midwestern powerhouses were tops last year in moving the football up and down the field, monopolizing team offensive honors among major college teams.

In the present campaign they have failed to get their steam up, according to statistics of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, and trail far back in every attacking department.

Little Nevada remains the Nation's No. 1 offensive team, leading both in forward passing and total yardage.

Army, meanwhile, has moved to the front in rushing with a display of land power reminiscent of the great West Point teams during and just after the last war.

Nevada—paced by Stan Heath, needle-threading passer, has rolled up an astounding total of 1,566 yards in whipping San Jose State, San Francisco and North Texas Teachers.

Against these concededly lower-drawer rivals, the Nevadans have averaged 522 yards a game. They are followed by Wyoming, Miami University of Ohio and Maryland, in that order, in total offense.

Nevada has racked up 788 yards in passing alone, completing 47 of 90 attempts for an average of 266 yards a game. Heath has thrown 32 of these and completed 43.

Tulsa is second in aerial gains with an average of 209.7 and the come William & Mary with 190.3 and West Virginia with 178. SMU ranks sixth with an 177.7 average.

Army rolled up 401 yards on the ground alone in lashing Illinois last Saturday, 26-21. Now for three games the Cadets have a total of 1,683 yards rushing—an average of 361 per contest.

Wyoming, last week's leader, dropped to second place with 1,043 for three games—an average of 347.7. Maryland (339) and Texas Mines (307.7) follow. Arkansas ranks ninth with an average of 269.3.

Michigan is 11th in passing offense and Notre Dame is 13th in rushing. It's their best showing.

Paul Stromberg of Furman is the individual punting leader with an average of 45.2 yards for 29 punts. Charis (Choo Choo) Justice of North Carolina has 44.3 for second.

ANOTHER SCORE FOR OUR SIDE

TOKYO, Oct. 13. (AP)—When Communist Kyuichi Tokuda showed up in the diet today in a new suit, members who are a bit shoddy admired him.

Tokuda was asked to stand for all to see the natty, double-breasted suit.

"From the Soviet Union?" one lawmaker asked.

"No," Tokuda blushed. "Friends in the United States."

Berlin Airlift Can Be Maintained, Say American Officials

BERLIN, Oct. 13. (AP)—American officials are confident United States and British efforts can fly an average of 6,000 tons a day into Berlin throughout the winter if the Soviet blockade persists.

The U. S. Air Corps said several hundred reserve pilots and engineers who volunteer will be assigned to the Berlin airlift after receiving special training at Great Falls, Mont.

British engineers announced plans to lengthen the runways at Gatow Air Base, their field in Berlin, from 1,500 to 2,000 yards, so that operations can be stopped up.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

If one looks hard enough, he can usually find a silver lining in any dark cloud that might blanket his future. So we've been told.

The football future here continues dark but it is not without hope. Central Ward issued a call to arms the other day and Prof. Adair, who is commissioned to handle the boys, made preparations to talk to about 50 boys. Instead, 150 showed up, all raring to play football.

The young fellows apparently are determined to do something about improving the fortunes of the varsity Steers, which have been at a low ebb for several years. Their increased interest should start paying dividends in a few years.

MUCH BETTER LONGHORN LEAGUE IN PROSPECT

The Longhorn baseball league season has been over little more than a month but already things are shaping up for a much bigger and better campaign in 1949.

Del Rio's directors relinquished their franchise to Ballinger, which had lost their's to Roswell, N. M. The circuit is now more compact, both financially and geographically. The metamorphosis from all indications, is still underway. Abilene and Lamesa may slip into the picture before April rolls around. If so, they could trade places with Roswell and Vernon, which could then apply for and no doubt obtain admittance in the WT-NM league.

OUR TOWN HUB OF LEAGUE, REGARDLESS OF MAKEUP

The physical makeup of the league, as it stands now, takes on the appearance of a six-pointed star with Big Spring as its hub. Whether it stands pat or undergoes another change, Our Town will continue to be in the geographical center and, for that reason, its teams will travel fewer miles than other league contingents.

Pat Stasey, the local baseballer who saw part of the Dixie Series, says George Wilson of the Birmingham was about the best prospect he saw play in the classics. The outfielder will probably be with the Boston Red Sox in 1949.

BIG SPRING BRONCOS HAD PICKOFF PLAY, TOO

The pickoff play worked so effectively by the Cleveland Indians against the Boston Braves in the recent World Series differed radically from the one employed by Stasey and Company here last season but it was no more devastating.

The Indians accomplished their's by having the pitcher and Shortstop Lou Boudreau, at a given signal, count to a certain number. Boudreau then would start to move toward second, arriving there at the same time the ball did.

The Broncos' play started with the catcher, who would flash a sign to the pitcher that the play was being set up. The second baseman would then move in, circle second base without attempting to take the throw and return to his normal position. The runner would usually think the play was off and take his lead off the keystone, only to have the shortstop slip in behind him and trap him off base. It worked on numerous occasions.

The play was suggested by Joe Cambria, the Washington scout.

Johnny Pesky, the Boston Red Sox's crackjack third sacker, fell short his bid for 200 hits the past season, the first time in his career he has failed to attain the figure. He picked up 190 safeties in 143 games.

Celia, a small dog, taking a midnight walk with her mistress, ran down a plank into the cellar excavation of a new building. She couldn't, or wouldn't, come out.

At six minutes before midnight the fire department was summoned. Three firemen descended. When they ascended it at 1 a.m. Celia remained in the cellar.

Fireman Charles Bogen had to get a physician out of bed to take care of a bite on his hand.

DEFENSE THINKS VERDICT 'FINE'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 13. (AP)—Oklahoma prohibits hard liquor, you know, and Lemuel Sutton, a Negro tavern owner, was charged with having whiskey.

In court he told a touching story. The jury thought he was guilty, but just wanted to fine him.

"Do we have to send him to jail?" the foreman asked the judge.

"Yes, if you find him guilty," explained Judge Glen C. Morris.

The jury thought this over for a while and came back into the court.

"Innocent," said the foreman.

BASEBALL JESTER

Casey Stengel Succeeds Harris As Yank Skipper

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—Fulfilled days are sure to be ahead for the New York Yankees with Charles Dillon Stengel, the inimitable Casey, as the new manager.

The 37-year-old Missourian (he derived his nickname from his Kansas City birthplace) joins the conservative Yankees with a reputation as a madcap maestro with a flare for comedy. But he also possesses keen, analytical mind and a comprehensive idea of the game.

He comes back to the big leagues after five years in the minors. Only last Sunday, he finished piloting the Oakland club to a Pacific Coast League pennant and playoff championship.

Stengel managed second divisions clubs in the majors, but has had great success in the minors. Casey led Milwaukee to an American Association flag in 1944.

His greatest forte is said to be developing young players. It was Stengel who first saw greatness in Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn and who developed Gene Bearden into a star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians.

Although Stengel was a big league outfielder 13 years, starred in three World Series and managed for nine years in the big time, he is best remembered for his laugh-provoking antics. There was the time Casey, objecting to playing in semi-darkness, produced a toy flash light to summon Fred Frankhouse, a pitcher, from the bullpen. Although the spectators rocked with laughter, Casey drew a $25 fine.

Another time, Stengel was warned by Umpire Bill Klem to stop his heckling or he would be evicted. Klem called a strike on him, whereupon Casey bowed graciously, doffed his cap and out flew a pigeon.

Casey's first job in organized baseball was with his home town Kansas City club in 1910. He also played that year with Kankakee, Ill., and Maysville, Ky. He went two and a half years to a dental school but never got his diploma.

He joined the Dodgers in 1912. In 1918, Stengel was a Pirate, then entered the Navy. He left Pittsburgh at the end of the 1919 season because he had the temerity to ask Owner Barney Dreyfuss for a raise.

IN AP POLL

Alex Sarkisian Lineman Of Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—Alex Sarkisian, captain and center of Northwestern's undefeated team, was named the collegiate football lineman of the week today in the Associated Press' first poll of the season.

Sarkisian, a 215-pound senior, played the full 60 minutes against Minnesota. His work in stopping up the middle of the Northwestern forward wall played a major role in N.W.'s 19-16 victory over the Gophers.

The Northwestern captain was one of 29 linemen—usually the forgotten players on Saturday—from all parts of the country who drew high praise for their efforts up front.

Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvania's All-America center who has done everything but throw a forward pass this season; Dick Harris, of Texas; Dan Dworsky, of Michigan; John Perrik, of Cornell; Dick Woodard, of Iowa and Bob Fuchs, of Missouri, all received compliments on their play. All are centers.

Two tackles from the Southern Conference likewise received plaudits—Len Szafaryn, of North Carolina and Tom Salisbury, of Clemson. Szafaryn recovered two fumbles, one setting up the eventual winning touchdown against Wake Forest. On five occasions he broke up wedge in front of ball carrier on kickoff returns. Salisbury blocked Shorty McWilliams' punt in first period of game against Mississippi State, scooped up ball and scored first touchdown. He then contributed a superb defensive game.

All Hemstad, of the University of Washington, and Paul Burris, of Oklahoma, topped the guards. Hemstad, a 24-year-old married senior and veteran of 64 missions in the Army Air Corps during the war, made several spectacular tackles as the Huskies beat UCLA. Burris' play helped the Sooners whip Texas.

This week's nominations: Ends—Cassel, Cornell, Tomburino, Penn State, Grant, Minnesota, Huey, Michigan State, Armstrong, Dartmouth, Wimberly, Louisiana State, Valek, Illinois, Hageman, Northwestern.

Buffs To Play Hornets Friday

FORSAN, Oct. 13.—The Forsan Buffaloes face their most important game of the District Seven six-man football season here Friday night when the Merton Hornets come to town.

Both teams are unbeaten. In their District Seven tests, the Buffaloes have rolled up a total of 158 points to 14 for the opposition.

Against a common opponent—Rankin—the Merton team scored 61 points to 51 for Forsan. The Buffs defeated last year's champion, Sterling City, by a score of 36-7 several weeks ago and last time out mauled Courtney, 71-7.

Wayne Huestis, Dan Fairchild and Eldon Frater give Forsan a versatile attack.

Fine Weather Hits Most Of The Nation

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—Typical football weather hit most of the nation today—three days before the big week and games.

U. S. forecasters said scattered showers were in prospect for the Upper Lakes and North Florida.

"The rest of the country will be pretty fair—seasonal and typical football weather," they added cheerfully.

He comes back to the big leagues after five years in the minors. Only last Sunday, he finished piloting the Oakland club to a Pacific Coast League pennant and playoff championship.

Stengel managed second divisions clubs in the majors, but has had great success in the minors. Casey led Milwaukee to an American Association flag in 1944.

His greatest forte is said to be developing young players. It was Stengel who first saw greatness in Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn and who developed Gene Bearden into a star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians.

Although Stengel was a big league outfielder 13 years, starred in three World Series and managed for nine years in the big time, he is best remembered for his laugh-provoking antics. There was the time Casey, objecting to playing in semi-darkness, produced a toy flash light to summon Fred Frankhouse, a pitcher, from the bullpen. Although the spectators rocked with laughter, Casey drew a $25 fine.

Another time, Stengel was warned by Umpire Bill Klem to stop his heckling or he would be evicted. Klem called a strike on him, whereupon Casey bowed graciously, doffed his cap and out flew a pigeon.

Casey's first job in organized baseball was with his home town Kansas City club in 1910. He also played that year with Kankakee, Ill., and Maysville, Ky. He went two and a half years to a dental school but never got his diploma.

He joined the Dodgers in 1912. In 1918, Stengel was a Pirate, then entered the Navy. He left Pittsburgh at the end of the 1919 season because he had the temerity to ask Owner Barney Dreyfuss for a raise.

Alex Sarkisian Lineman Of Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—Alex Sarkisian, captain and center of Northwestern's undefeated team, was named the collegiate football lineman of the week today in the Associated Press' first poll of the season.

Sarkisian, a 215-pound senior, played the full 60 minutes against Minnesota. His work in stopping up the middle of the Northwestern forward wall played a major role in N.W.'s 19-16 victory over the Gophers.

The Northwestern captain was one of 29 linemen—usually the forgotten players on Saturday—from all parts of the country who drew high praise for their efforts up front.

Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvania's All-America center who has done everything but throw a forward pass this season; Dick Harris, of Texas; Dan Dworsky, of Michigan; John Perrik, of Cornell; Dick Woodard, of Iowa and Bob Fuchs, of Missouri, all received compliments on their play. All are centers.

Two tackles from the Southern Conference likewise received plaudits—Len Szafaryn, of North Carolina and Tom Salisbury, of Clemson. Szafaryn recovered two fumbles, one setting up the eventual winning touchdown against Wake Forest. On five occasions he broke up wedge in front of ball carrier on kickoff returns. Salisbury blocked Shorty McWilliams' punt in first period of game against Mississippi State, scooped up ball and scored first touchdown. He then contributed a superb defensive game.

All Hemstad, of the University of Washington, and Paul Burris, of Oklahoma, topped the guards. Hemstad, a 24-year-old married senior and veteran of 64 missions in the Army Air Corps during the war, made several spectacular tackles as the Huskies beat UCLA. Burris' play helped the Sooners whip Texas.

This week's nominations: Ends—Cassel, Cornell, Tomburino, Penn State, Grant, Minnesota, Huey, Michigan State, Armstrong, Dartmouth, Wimberly, Louisiana State, Valek, Illinois, Hageman, Northwestern.

Buffs To Play Hornets Friday

FORSAN, Oct. 13.—The Forsan Buffaloes face their most important game of the District Seven six-man football season here Friday night when the Merton Hornets come to town.

Both teams are unbeaten. In their District Seven tests, the Buffaloes have rolled up a total of 158 points to 14 for the opposition.

Against a common opponent—Rankin—the Merton team scored 61 points to 51 for Forsan. The Buffs defeated last year's champion, Sterling City, by a score of 36-7 several weeks ago and last time out mauled Courtney, 71-7.

Wayne Huestis, Dan Fairchild and Eldon Frater give Forsan a versatile attack.

Fine Weather Hits Most Of The Nation

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. (AP)—Typical football weather hit most of the nation today—three days before the big week and games.

U. S. forecasters said scattered showers were in prospect for the Upper Lakes and North Florida.

"The rest of the country will be pretty fair—seasonal and typical football weather," they added cheerfully.

Testimonies Are Conflicting In Molly O'Daniel White Case

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 13. (AP) — The divorce suit of Mrs. Molly O'Daniel White against her husband, Henry Ford White, is scheduled to go to an Ellis County jury here today.

White said he had $13,000 he thought he had put into the venture. He denied he was claiming any of the $70,000, but said he did not know what happened to his $13,000.

Mrs. White had testified previously she paid all the bills. She denied she had any partnership agreement with White.

White is contesting the divorce action.

Jurors must decide whether to grant Mrs. White a divorce, give her custody of one year old Henry White Jr., and allow her claim that three tracts of farm property in Ellis County were purchased by her with her separate funds from a divorce settlement with her first husband, Jack Wraither, wealthy oil man and Hollywood movie producer.

Much of the testimony yesterday dealt with her visit after midnight last Friday to a Dallas hotel room occupied by her husband, Mr. White had alleged in previous testimony that she and a private investigator found White and an unidentified woman in his room. She further claimed he struck her and threatened to take her life.

White, on cross examination, declared when Mrs. White entered his room a married couple and the other woman was present. He said the woman was highly respectable and had been a friend of his family 15 years. He further stated the married couple, whose names he gave, excused themselves and left the room because "Molly was irritated."

The question of whether White lived off money Mrs. White received in settlement from her first husband remained testimony.

White testified he had a partnership with Mrs. White.

Jesse Martin of Fort Worth, counsel for Mrs. White, asked: "She had $70,000. You had $13,000, and you were going into a partnership?"

Wednesday Rains Widely Separated

By The Associated Press

It was a long way between rains in Texas today. The only showers reported in the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a. m. were at Dalhart in the northwest corner of the Panhandle and Brownsville and Mission in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Brownsville had .18 inch, Mission .19 and Dalhart .01.

Skies were generally clear except in the lower valley, where there was fog this morning.

Temperatures remained moderate. Dalhart was the state's coolest point overnight with a low of 43 degrees. Lows elsewhere mostly were in the 50's and lower 60's. The highest reading yesterday—90—was shared by Alice and Prentiss.

Released On Bond

Earl Padilla was released from the county jail Tuesday after he posted $750 bond on an assault and attempt to murder charge.

Padilla allegedly was involved in a knife fight in the north west section of the city last weekend.
