START WORK ON STATION

After some delay caused by inability to obtain the desired face brick, construction was resumed the first of the week on a new home for the Garrison station. An attractive mat surface brick in tones of buff and tan were purchased and the material is on the site, at the north-east corner of the square.

It is hoped to have the building completed within two or three weeks.

Trucks Needed On Road Work

Information reached this office late today that the contractor on road improvement work east of Wheeler will want from 15 to 18 side-dump trucks on Monday, August 6, for gravel hauling. Trucks are to haul 2 1/2 yards of material and should be able to make $12 to $15 per day. Mr. Horton, the superintendent, will be in Wheeler Thursday or Friday of next week to complete arrangement for starting this work.

No trucks will be brought into Wheeler county, states the information, if a sufficient number can be obtained locally. Owners having dual wheel trucks in good condition, and who want a job on the road, should immediately contact the NRS office either in Wheeler or Shamrock.

Canning Plant Now In Full Operation

Remainder of Equipment Received Monday—Working Most of the Week

According to Mrs. C. B. Witt, supervisor, the remainder of the relief cannery equipment arrived Monday and has been installed. Following preliminary try-outs last week, the plant has been operating most of this week.

The supervisor requests all persons who have products they wish handled by the cannery to call at the plant and list the articles. The management much prefers to have the listing done as far ahead as possible and the information should be booked at least a week in advance. It is said that only through co-operation on the part of all concerned can a schedule be maintained that will prove satisfactory to all parties.

While those who have meats which they want canned are strongly advised to wait, if possible, until cooler weather, these products can be handled now. It is necessary for the producer to thoroughly cool the meat before delivery.

A hog was put through the plant early this week with satisfactory results.

County Administrator Veale points out certain facts about the labor situation at the cannery. It is not intended to afford situations for those out of work. All help is selected from the relief rolls registration, and no other labor is employed.

Below will be found some additional information relative to the toll scale in effect, and the kind of cans required for various products.

Toll Schedule Changes
A slight change in and one addition has been made to the minimum toll schedule for canning in co-operation with relief agencies from the information published in The Times two weeks ago.

Under Plan No. 1, wherein relief agency furnishes equipment, cans and labor, the producer furnishes the products, the following change is made: On unshelled beans or peas, relief receives 67 per cent, and the producer 33 per cent.

Plan No. 7 has been added. It provides: With relief furnishing relief cans, equipment and labor; producer furnishing: producer's cans and products. Relief to receive: vegetables, 40 per cent, meats, 30 per cent. Producer to receive: vegetables, 60 per cent; meats, 70 per cent.

Types of Tin Cans
The following list of products are recommended for canning in the type cans indicated.

Plain tin: Apples, apricots, asparagus (green), beans (with pork and tomato sauce), chicken and other meats, grapefruit, greens (including spinach), okra, onions, peaches, pears, vegetables (mixed).

County Club Women In Annual Outing Thurs.

Annual Encampment Attracts Large Group—Wheeler Club Stunt Places First

About 250 Home Demonstration club women of Wheeler county assembled at the Riley swimming pool, five miles south of this city, late Thursday afternoon, July 19, for their annual encampment.

After the ladies had all arrived and rested awhile, they played games, went swimming and visited until supper time, when they grouped by clubs and spread supper on the lawn.

When it began to grow dark, lights were fixed on the front porch for the stunts. Wheeler won first prize, $5.00, with a stunt that represented the average farm home 35 years ago. The Busy Bee club placed second and received $3.00 for presenting "Madame Princeton's Temple of Beauty." Davis took third, receiving $2.00, with "Mr. Doesn't Believe in Ghosts."

Others besides the winning stunts were: "Three Pantomimes," by Briscoe; "The Dress Contest," by Bethel; "Dr. Treat M. Rough," by Kelton; "A Chalk Talk," by Shamrock; "A Donkey Baseball Game," by Twitty and "A Quiet Morning in the County Agent's Office," by Allison. The women who went to short course portrayed a scene that actually happened on their trip. They named it "Our Most Embarrassing Moment During Short Course."

Judges for the stunts were Miss Ruby Adams, home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Hughes, secretary of the chamber of commerce, both of Pampa. Both ladies declared: "These are the best stunts we have ever seen Wheeler county present."

Mrs. C. B. Witt, chairman of the county council, called a business meeting immediately after the stunts were completed.

Around 11:30 all visitors left the camp grounds and the women made their beds and retired for the night.

The sun woke most of the campers next morning, although some had their breakfast at sunrise. Breakfast consisted of fruit, bread, coffee and bacon cooked over the camp fires.

While some of the members were tired and weary when they left next morning at 8:30, none were sorry they attended, and many declared it had been the most enjoyable encampment they had attended in years.

AMARILLO ATTORNEY SPEAKS FOR McDONALD

W. J. Flesher, former district attorney of Amarillo, spoke to the citizens of Wheeler last Saturday afternoon in the interest of C. C. McDonald in his race for governor. Flesher and McDonald roomed together at college while students in the North Texas Teachers college at Denton.

Flesher discussed the different planks in the platform on which McDonald seeks election. He stressed the home ownership plan, repeal of ad valorem taxes for state purposes, and the taxation of property now escaping taxation. He especially stressed the plank dealing with old age pensions, education, and repeal of prohibition.

YEAKLEY IN SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT HAY HOLLOW

Rev. Flavil R. Yeakley of Wheeler, closed a very successful series of meetings at Hay Hollow Sunday night, with large and attentive audiences reported throughout the week. That people lay aside partisan spirit and make a united effort in Christian service was stressed at these services. The result was manifest in harmonious and concerted work for advancement of Christianity.

During the meetings six people accepted the gospel teachings and were baptized at the Tyson Jeffus lake Sunday afternoon.

Sunday was a great day in Hay Hollow religious circles. Three services were held during the day. A basket dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Edmund Kirby son, J. E., Jr., left early Monday on a vacation trip. They will visit each of their mothers at Colorado, Texas, while they are gone. Mrs. Kirby's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bond, and daughter, Mary Jo, who have been guests at the Kirby home for several weeks, accompanied them.

4-H Boys and Girls Encampment Friday

Members Enjoy Delightful Program—Twitty Boys Win First in "Stunt" Contest

Friday evening, July 20 at 4 o'clock about 250 4-H boys and girls met at the John Cornelius home for their annual club encampment. After rambling over the grounds for nearly an hour, the boys and girls assembled at the sound of a whistle to play active games, under the leadership of Len Gott and Floyd Seggo, 4-H council president.

At 6 o'clock supper was spread. After supper everyone seated themselves in a semi-circle in front of the porch, which was lighted, for the stunts.

Ten stunts were given by different clubs, one by ex-club members, and one by the boys and girls who attended short course last summer. The Twitty boys won first place with "An Advantage for Help," and received $2.50 as an award. Mobeetie placed second with "Burying Old Man Cotton," and received $1.50. Third prize, which was $1.00, went to Allison who gave "Tar Baby."

Other stunts were "Farm Help," by Lela; "Dr. Quack," by Wheeler; "A Morning in the County Agent's Office," by ex-club members; "Santa Claus," by Briscoe girls; "The Supreme Sacrifice," by Plainview; "The Trials of a Farm Agent," by Briscoe boys; "Joining a Club," by Twitty girls.

Judges for the stunts were Superintendent and Mrs. J. L. Gilmore of Wheeler, and Mrs. Jewell Lyle of Lyle & Lyle Insurance company, Shamrock.

After the stunts the boys and girls played games until 12:00 o'clock. Then they assembled on opposite side of the house and made their beds. Jake Tarter, farm agent, blew a whistle twice; first for everyone to go to bed, the second time for the entire camp to be silent until morning.

Next morning the party assembled in groups and fried eggs and bacon over camp fires.

After breakfast Floyd Seggo, council president, called a meeting. Exie Creekmore led the group as they gave the club motto and pledge. Miss Viola Jones, home demonstration agent, gave directions concerning short course to those who plan to attend this year. Edith Ashley gave a talk on "Writing a News Story."

Following this meeting the entire camp sang, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and adjourned until the encampment next year.

WHEELER BASEBALL CLUB HUMBLES CANADIAN NINE

The proud Canadian baseball team's winning streak of six straight games was brought to a close Sunday, when the Wheeler horseshide tossers took the winning end of a 12-11 score on the local diamond. A first-class game, with some real thrills, delighted the fans present.

Next Sunday the Wheeler club goes to Skellytown for a game.

Sisters Give Slumber Party

Misses Ruth and Lula Barr entertained with a slumber party at the grove near the Barr home in the west part of town, Friday night.

Those attending were Martha Alice Wiley, Beatrice Miller, Irene Hunt, Orveta Puett, Ferril Ficke, LaVell Jaco, Elizabeth McCasland, Louise Veale and Melba Wiley. Mrs. Barr was chaperone.

The guests enjoyed a picnic supper and a camp fire breakfast.

No Beer Sales on Election Day

That it might help some one to avoid a law violation, County Attorney Clyde Fillmore calls attention to the following statute:

"It shall be unlawful for any person in all counties or subdivisions thereof wherein the sale of beer as defined by this act is authorized to be sold, to sell beer on the day of any general primary election or general election held in this state, between the hours of 7 o'clock a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. on that day."

Penalties for violations of this law range from a fine of $25 to $500 and by imprisonment up to one year in the county jail, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

THREAT STIRRED WHEELER MONDAY

Mild excitement prevailed here Monday, when the city was threatened with the possibility of rain, which dwindled away to only a light shower. Hopes were raised by a favorable cloud formation in the northwest. It faded away or carried its moisture, if any, to some locality where fewer "wife beaters" live or where the inhabitants "pay the preacher" better than in Wheeler.

Election Party For Wheeler

Mentioned at some length in The Times last week, attention is again called to the election "party" which will be given on the court house lawn in Wheeler Saturday afternoon and night.

Final arrangements have been made by R. D. Holt and Clyde Fillmore, heading the committee, to get county, district and state returns with the utmost speed and accuracy.

Many people, from all over the county, are expected to spend the evening in Wheeler, listening to the returns as they are announced, and checking the progress of this or that favorite candidate. Wheeler extends a hearty welcome to everyone to come to its election party Saturday.

FAREWELL SERMONS AT LOCAL CHURCH SUNDAY

Rev. Flavil R. Yeakley, pastor of the Church of Christ in this city, who expects to leave Wheeler in the near future, will preach two farewell sermons Sunday, one at the morning hour and the other in the evening. The young pastor plans to locate near a town possessing advanced college facilities, of which he hopes to avail himself.

Yeakley has been pastor of the local church nearly two years, moving here from McLean in the fall of 1932. Under his leadership the church has made substantial progress, both spiritually and physically. The congregation has shown much devotion to service and a spirit of co-operation.

Several improvements have been made to the church building, including construction of a basement to provide more room for Sunday school classes. This project was sponsored and financed by the class taught by Viola Jones.

Rev. Yeakley has taken an active part in community affairs during his residence here and has made a host of friends besides his own congregation who will regret his departure; but will wish him well in his future undertakings. He will be missed by the Boy Scout organization, in which he has been a leader, offering valuable assistance and encouragement to the members of that group.

Members of the church are urged to attend Sunday's services and an invitation is extended to the general public not attending services elsewhere.

WORLEY BOOSTER GROUP VISITS WHEELER MONDAY

A small fleet of autos, carrying boosters for Eugene Worley, candidate for representative of the 122nd district, visited Wheeler Monday forenoon. The group was headed by a band, which offered several selections on the west court house steps. A crowd gathered quickly to hear Worley's backers present his qualifications for the office and ask support of the voters.

The booster party devoted two days to a canvass of the district in behalf of the young Wheeler county man, recounting his fitness for the position of representative. It is reported that their efforts met with a favorable reception and Worley should make a fine showing at the polls Saturday.

CANDIDATE QUILT AT AUCTION

The ladies of Circle No. 2 of the Methodist church have completed a quilt with all the names of Wheeler county candidates embroidered on it. The quilt is on display at McIlhenny's dry goods store. It will be sold at auction here Saturday night.

Cecil Carrol, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bradfute of Briscoe, died Tuesday night following a long illness. Interment was in the Wheeler cemetery Wednesday.

Baptist Evangelist Doesn't Mince Words

Rev. John Williams Declares the Gospel in Plain, Yet Forceful, Terms

Evangelist John W. Williams of Hobbs, N. Mex., who is holding a revival meeting at the local Baptist church, preached his first sermon of the series Monday evening. His message was on "Prayer."

The Rev. Williams does not mince words, but preaches a positive Gospel. Among the many things he said in his first message was the following: "We claim to believe the Word of God, but we are a bunch of infidels (doubters)."

"We do not believe the Book or we would pray more. A god of wood or stone would be good enough for many people, for they do not expect an answer to their prayers."

The speaker referred to the recent move of the government to slaughter ten million cattle, and other like movements of destruction as "a waste and a slap at God," for which we will pay in heavy toll in the long run.

The evangelist also spoke on prayer Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, bringing a strong message at each service. Crowds at the revival are growing in numbers and increased interest is evidenced. The music is good, and is conducted by local talent.

Among the subjects to be used are: Friday evening, "Sin"; Saturday evening, "Found Out"; Sunday morning, "Give God a Chance," and Sunday evening, "Four Questions from God."

Other subjects for next week will include: "Why Many People Are Lost," "Repentance," "Faith," "The Man Who Laughed at Difficulties," "Heroes and Cowards," "Who is the Biggest Fool," and "Every Man's Need of a Refuge."

Rev. Williams is building a great church in Hobbs, having put on a building program in the midst of the depression, doubling the floor space.

He preaches to capacity crowds in his home church, and the citizens of Wheeler should profit by his plain, easily understood but forceful messages at the Baptist church.

A cordial invitation is extended the general public to come and hear Rev. Williams and those not affiliated with some church or those who are unsaved are urged to attend the meetings.

Masonic Examiner Coming Aug. 3rd

Word was received this week by officers of the local Masonic lodge that W. S. Tate of Hamilton, Texas, a member of the committee on works, will be in Wheeler, Friday, August 3, for the purpose of holding a certificate examination. The session will begin at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and will probably continue over to the next day.

A class of ten Masons are planning to take the examination. Two are from Miami, three from Mobeetie and the remaining five belong to the Wheeler lodge. All Wheeler Masons will be at liberty to listen in on the proceedings and are invited to do so, according to Harry J. Garrison, master of Wheeler lodge No. 1099.

It is said that a visitation of so distinguished a Mason is no little distinction for this city, since certificate examinations are usually held only in considerably larger places.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

We hear much of the forgotten man, and there has recently been quite a bit published in the dailies concerning the poor negro who is going to be barred from the Democratic primaries.

Has it ever occurred to you that there are several hundred people in Wheeler county who are eligible to vote except they do not have a poll tax receipt? These might be some of the "forgotten men" who are being found. Some of them are mighty poor, some have had misfortune, and some have just gotten out of the habit of voting. If they had the opportunity to vote they might not scratch their ballot the way you and I would have them do it.

But it should not be forgotten that after the primaries are over, the election results all tabulated and winners declared, there still remains approximately 15 per cent of the voting population who had no voice in the election.

UNTAXED AMERICAN A MYTH

Here is a statement by Dr. William Bennett Munro of the executive counsel of the California Institute of Technology, that should be firmly implanted in the mind of every American:

"The untaxed American is a myth. No one who occupies property, owns a car, smokes tobacco, drinks beer, goes to the theatre, eats three meals a day, rides on a street car or goes through the other motions of daily life gets by untaxed. Yet there are people who think themselves non-taxpayers when at least ten per cent of their earnings go for taxes. They are victims of the great American delusion. Of itself government earns no money. Every dollar that it gets for its support must come from someone who does the earning. To do this it must tax production, all production, which means that both producer and consumer share in paying the bills."

Dr. Munro might have added that it is the consumer who invariably bears the greater share of the burden—our industries, much as they would like to, have no magic means of conjuring money from air. Every expense of operation, whether it be materials, labor, rent or taxes, must be included in the cost of the finished product. The buyer always pays. And today, with the cost of all forms of government soaring, he pays more in taxes for each dollar he earns than he ever did before.

If these indirect taxes were paid directly, there would be a howl of anguish from one end of the country to another. Taxpayers in all walks of life would band together to demand more efficient and less expensive government. And a similar result will follow when the people learn that indirect taxes can be as expensive as direct taxes—even more expensive, as heavier levies can be exacted without the public knowing it. In brief, when the actual facts concerning taxation are known, there may be a change from the intolerable conditions of the present.

THEY LEVY BUT DON'T PAY

I have before me at this time a certified copy of the list of members of the Texas legislature of a few years ago, and the last one was possibly a little different, and the list was checked in the comptroller's office officially, and forty members paid no tax of any kind. Forty legislative paupers, most of them young lawyers, "tax reformin'," "court reformin'," and votin' on appropriations of millions for the great corporation, the sovereign state of Texas. —Wichita Banner.

SPEED AND YOUR POCKETBOOK

Excessive pressure on the accelerator has sent thousands of automobile passengers, drivers, and pedestrians hurtling to destruction, and is responsible for more than half of the 30,000 deaths and 850,000 injuries annually, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Thus far, humanitarian considerations apparently have not impressed drivers as reason for exercising greater care in regard to speed. However, recent investigations of Clarence P. Taylor of the Massachusetts Motor Vehicle department, constitute a serious challenge to the average driver's pocketbook, and may therefore bear greater weight.

It is vastly more expensive, Taylor found, to operate an automobile at speeds in excess of 30 miles per hour. The faster a car goes beyond that rate, the more gas it consumes per mile—at 75 miles per hour over twice as much gasoline is required to go the same distance as at 20 miles per hour. In addition, wear and tear on the tires and on the car mechanism itself is greatly increased, so that a motor vehicle habitually driven at high speeds wears out much quicker than a car driven at moderate speeds. The subject of "safe speeds" is everywhere controversial, but it is agreed that conditions on the highway must govern acceleration. It is frequently as dangerous to drive slowly on an express highway as it is to speed through congested districts. Speeds in excess of 45 miles per hour, it is said, are almost always in the danger zone.

Drivers should moderate speeds to suit conditions on the highways. Money will be saved in gasoline consumption, repair bills, taxes and insurance costs—and, above all, lives will be saved.

Construction and operation of a canning plant in Donley county has been approved by the relief commission. This plant will be operated by relief labor, and the canned goods will be stored for distribution to persons on the relief rolls during the winter months. No definite date has been set for the opening of this plant, but it is likely that it will be opened as soon as the district Home Demonstration arrives to supervise the installation of equipment.—Donley County Leader.

Unanimous approval of the BCD plan to have a formal dedication of the new federal building was given by twelve representative business and professional men of Pampa at a meeting held Wednesday morning in the committee room of the BCD in the city hall building. Congressman Marvin Jones has been invited to attend the affair, which has been tentatively set for August 8. Two trips to neighboring towns inviting them to attend the dedication will be made by motorcades of 50 cars on the two days preceding the affair, it has been planned.—Pampa Advocate.

The pastors of the Wheeler churches are carrying a quarter page advertisement each week in their home paper. These advertisements are along moral lines and make interesting reading. Church leaders are agreed that advertising will advance the cause of religion, and they are able to reach a much larger audience through the columns of the local paper than any other way. This will apply to any community.—McLean News.

The Panhandle Herald, the oldest business institution in Panhandle, was 47 years old July 22. It was on July 22, 1887, that the late H. H. Brooks established The Herald, which has been continuously published since that date, and with the exception of the Clarendon News, is the oldest newspaper in the Panhandle.—Panhandle Herald.

That the state highway department at Austin has confidence in the people of Donley county was proven this week when they advertised for bids on Highway 5 work in the county, before the tax payers have signified whether or not they will agree to the county commissioners plan for the issuance of warrants and the re-payment of the $15,000 loaned this county by the department.—Clarendon News.

Equipment received this week to be used in the canning factory includes 42,000 cans, six 25 quart cookers and two automatic sealers. The building is being put in condition, has been painted inside and the water connected. Administrator Newton announces that the plant will probably be in operation inside of two weeks.—Canadian Record.

With last week's issue the Miami Chief completed its 35th year. The Chief has been under the management of Haynes & Haynes, owners and publishers, for the past seven years. It is a bright, newsy publication, a credit to the town and an honor to its publishers.

That Collingsworth has made application to be included in the secondary drouth area of Texas, was announced today by Miss Katherine Boverie, relief administrator, who said that no definite answer had yet been received from state officials concerning the application. If the county is included in the secondary drouth division, as several counties in this section are, it will mean funds to carry on highway work and general improvements.—Wellington Leader.

MONROE MAKES STATEMENT

To the Voters of Wheeler County: "I am sure that most of you will agree with me that this has been one of the quietest, cleanest campaigns you have ever had in this county. "I have, personally and through the aid of my friends, pursued my campaign with vigor and fairness, having a high personal regard for my opponents, yet honestly believing in my heart that I could fulfill the duties of that important office as well or better than they. I do not mean to imply that they would not do their best, for I am sure they would. Yet I believe some persons have actual talent for the law, while others do not. I believe one may be a good bookkeeper, yet not make a good executive. "It is my belief that for a man to be in position to understand the different problems of the people in the various phases of life, he must—at some time in the past—have come in contact with the people. I have been on a farm, in the school room and in business all my life, where I have been forced to learn of the other man's business in order to know how to meet and serve him successfully. This, together with my knowledge of the law, and my natural latent ability will, I believe, enable me to conduct the county court and assist the commissioners in conducting the affairs of the county. "If you will honor me with your vote, I shall strive to be fair and honest with every man, regardless of where he lives or his station in life. If you believe that I am honest and sincere and that my ambitions are laudable, you will never help anyone who will appreciate your confidence and consideration more than I. "Sincerely yours, "A. MONROE," (Paid Political Adv.)

FLAME OF THE BORDER

By VINGIE E. ROE....

W.N.V. SERVICE

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Seeking death by throwing herself from the summit of Lone Mesa, to escape dishonor, at the hands of a drunken desperado, Sonya Savarin allows herself to be rescued by her suddenly sobered and repentant attacker. The girl is a self-appointed physician to the Navajo Indians, living on an Arizona sheep ranch with her brother Serge, his wife, Lia, and their small daughter, Baba. For a year she has been engaged to Rodney Blake, wealthy New Yorker, but her heart is with the friendless Navajos and she evades a wedding.

CHAPTER II—Sonya pulls Little Moon, wife of Two Fingers, a Navajo, through the crisis of an illness. Two Fingers is deeply grateful.

CHAPTER III—In the desert village, shopping, Sonya again meets the man whose advances she had repulsed on Lone Mesa. He tells her he bitterly regrets his action and has never had a minute's peace since that day. Sonya is affected, but unforgiving. She hears rumors of a Border bandit, "El Capitan Diablo," who crucifies his "double-crossers" and has a dire reputation as a despoiler and murderer, vaguely connecting him with her attacker.

CHAPTER IV—Sonya pays a visit to Little Moon and finds her well on her way to recovery. On her return she rides to the top of Lone Mesa. There she again comes upon the strange young man, but she no longer fears him. When he reiterates his sorrow over his misconduct she indicates forgiveness and assures him a man can always change for the better.

CHAPTER V—Befriending the wife of Hosteen Nez, a Navajo, she adds him to her circle of devoted friends. At a neighborhood dance she meets the mysterious stranger of the mesa and demands that he tell her his name. Finally he confides to her that his right name is Starr Stone, that his mother believes him dead, and that he goes by a different name in this region. He departs with a tall, fierce Navajo, with whom he is mysteriously associated.

"Tell me," she said slowly, "tell me again—where was he?"

The servant waved an airy old hand, fine of line and yellow as parchment.

"By a stream," he said vaguely, "to the south. Three nights ago. Well, I bid you good night, daughter. We must be getting on."

He bowed politely, and the burros patterned away.

Sonya stepped on the starter and bounced ahead.

So, he was in the country again. He would be here, somewhere, sometime. Maybe tomorrow. Maybe next day. The winds that blew softly up from the south fanned her face with a perfumed breath; the little moon was fair as a maiden's brow; there were mystery and ecstasy in every shadow of the sage.

CHAPTER VII

Soul's Covenant.

But the morrow came and brought its flying trips to this hogan and that, and nothing happened but death and sorrow, and the sun went down and rose again on Sonya and her feverish work.

It was, at the end of another week, when the tide of life in her seemed at low ebb with all the monstrous labor and the strain of human suffering about that she came face to face with

Starr Stone once again. She had just ridden down the sounding aisle of Tall canyon to come out on the dusky levels, when she saw him. Un d'Oro stood like a statue against the great wall's lip, a dim and shining shape of gold, and the man in his saddle held his hat in his hand and looked at her steadily.

Sonya looked back, and such a light broke on her tired face as should have humbled any man. It humbled this one to the very dust, beholding.

"Starr Stone!" she cried softly in the silence. "Oh, Starr Stone! You have come back!"

"Oh, Starr Stone! You Have Come Back!"

"I'd come back from hell's edges," he said soberly. "Miss Savarin. I can't help myself."

"I don't want you to," she said swiftly. "Never. You must come to me—always."

She had stopped a few feet from him, and the man reined close beside her, laying a hand on hers, looking into her face as if he could not look deep enough. His blue eyes were dark again with the spreading pupils, his mouth grave.

"Of course you know," he said simply. "that I love you."

"Of course," she said.

"That I'm dust under your feet—nothing. Less than that. But I want you to know too that I love you as a better man could never love you. I don't love you—no. I worship you, could kiss the print of your little foot in the sand. You're a white angel on the stairs of heaven, and I'm a devil in the pit—and hell itself is in those separating miles, for me."

He stopped, his voice seeming to die in his throat with the weight of its confession, then went on with an effort:

"I come back to look at you because I can't stay away—and I forfeit my life every time. I want you to know that, as a proof, sort of."

"I don't need proof!" cried the girl wildly, "and I know that too! Have known it ever since the night of the dance when you followed—when you followed—"

"Yes—when I followed—and left you standing there in the open floor like the yellow dog I was—and am!"

"No! Because you had to! Because if you double-cross—"

"Hush! I'm here now. Let's talk for a little while as if we were two ordinary people, with nothing between us to prevent. You're workin' yourself to death," he said, searching her face with anxious eyes.

"It's nothing. My part in life. A good one, a great one."

"Maybe. But you're a woman, and so sweet, so beautiful, I'm afraid for you."

"Don't be. I won't die. Nothing could kill me—now."

"Why now?"

"Because," said the girl gravely, "I've got a fight ahead. A fight to take you from whatever holds you, and I'll do it. We've just begun—you and I, Starr Stone."

Her face was like a flower of the dusk, beautiful and dim, but filled with a stern courage, a white fire of the spirit. His hand on hers closed tightly. Slowly he leaned toward her and Sonya leaned to meet him, his eyes, his breast, his lips. In the darkening night she kissed him and knew she had never kissed a man before. What she had given Rod Blake was pale friendship compared to the tide of life which engulfed her now.

Then she drew back, pushed the hair from her forehead.

"Strange," she said, "what life does to us against our will, in spite of all we've ever known, ever desired, ever planned."

"God, yes!" he echoed, "ever known, ever planned!"

"But we can fight back!" she cried. "We don't need to sink under its blows!"

"To a certain point," he said. "Beyond that—no."

"Yes! As long as there's life! I know what the human soul is made of—its strength, its courage. Men—and women too—have done great things, against all odds, because of it. Strong men, strong women. Everyone falls. Only weaklings stay down. Anyone can get up if he wants to hard enough. If he has a reason. I'm your reason."

The man groaned audibly, an inarticulate word of despair.

Then he bent down and laid his cheek upon her hand and his, clasped on her pommel, a gesture of abasement, of humble love that came too late.

"If I had the world," he said thickly, "I'd give it all to be worthy to make you that."

He straightened in his saddle, gathered his rein.

"Come," he said, "I mustn't keep you. Do you mind if I ride with you a bit? It's dark enough—no one will see you riding with a man whose head carries a price."

Once again the cold fear shot through Sonya as she turned and rode out across the desert at his side.

At a lift in the dark sage levels Starr Stone stopped and held out his hand.

"I have a reprieve," he said simply, "for a certain length of time. I'll be in this country for its duration. Do you mind if I keep—coming back—while it lasts?"

"Oh," the girl said with a sudden catch in her voice, "you break my heart! What is all this? What is it?"

"Life's mistake—its sins—and penalties," he answered lowly; "its grasping at straws, its compensations. May I come if I'm careful?"

"Come!" cried Sonya. "Any time, any place!"

And, wheeling Darkness, she rode swiftly away to hide the sobs that shook her.

Congress and the President government be properly administered when our congress is not in harmony with the president? Do all the members of congress always have the masses at heart? Does it too often work in discord with the president and his cabinet to bring the ends of justice to meet? A national government is larger but similar to city, county, or state government. It is a settled fact beyond question that no home can be kept and operated for the welfare of the entire family unless each member operates with the leader. No government can function for the benefit of its citizens unless the city strives to help, aid and assist the mayor or ruler. Likewise no government can prosper without the assistance of the commissioner their equal, in helping the judge dispense with county duties. In the same manner, no governor can fulfill his duties and obligations to his state unless he has the co-operation of the legislature or similar body.

These are true, it is still more true and becoming that the conduct of so great a country as this of upholding the right hand of our government. Why? If the voters of a nation see fit to elect a man to the burden of being their president they most certainly look to him as their guiding hand. It is certain that the one who gets the reprimand suffers the consequences in the form of any national grievance—not less. Congress is a representative body sent to the capital to uphold the claims of the people who elect them, so far as such claims are just and reasonable, and to cooperate with the president for the good of all the people.

Why a president, if he is not to lay plans and lead the way for the welfare of his government? Dictatorship? No. Emphatically no. Someone must lead. In time of depressive conditions and influences, a leader must be endowed with more authority and freedom of executive power than he is in time of peace and quietude. Congress can not be overlooked when the tide is calm, but when it begins to lash the topmost deck of our ship of state, it is then that a guiding hand must be applied.

Whether it was right or wrong, this policy of free-wheeling was applied in time of war. Is it not reasonable to apply the same method now? Is war on foreign land any more serious than poverty and starvation in a land of plenty? No. A crisis is a crisis regardless of its origin or when it occurs. We had one. We still feel the pain from its oppressive hand. Congress rightly gave the president power to fight it. I see no reason to take from him now.

Of all times for co-operation and sympathy it is after the fever leaves and the sick are gaining their strength and equilibrium. So it is with our government. Now is the most fitting time for the strong arm of congress to uphold the president. Our congress can not be looked upon as an efficient body unless they work hand in hand with our president now.

There is seldom reason to override a veto. Such would seldom happen if congressmen had lifetime jobs and were free from personal interests. More power to the loyal ones.

Again I assure you that no home or government can stand and prosper when divided.

E. F. RITCHEY ASKS VOTERS TO ELECT HIM AS DISTRICT ATTORNEY

TO THE VOTERS OF WHEELER COUNTY, TEXAS:

In order that the voters may know something of my qualifications for the office of district attorney, 31st Judicial District, I beg to submit the following. I have been actively engaged in the practice of law for the past twenty years, excepting the time I served in the World War, and during that time I have tried a large number of both civil and criminal cases. Many of the criminal cases have been important and hard fought cases, while a large number of the civil cases have involved considerable amount of property. A number of these cases have been appealed to the higher court.

In addition to the above, I held five terms of district court at Pampa, Texas, for Judge Clifford Braly, during his illness, and have acted as special judge a number of times at other places. So my experience is both that of a trial judge and a practitioner.

The office of district attorney is an important one and I believe I am the best qualified person for the position, both as a judge and a lawyer. If elected to this office, I will be of great benefit to the people of this county.

The press of business and limited time have prevented me seeing every voter, but I take this method of asking you for your support in this election.

Yours very truly,
E. F. RITCHEY.
