Smaller Factories Get Boost -- Nelson Eliminates Bidding On Arms

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Production Chief Donald M. Nelson ordered the Army and Navy today to bring thousands more of the nation's 300,000 factories into war production by suspending competitive bidding on arms contracts.

because "under competitive bidding large concerns which already hold extensive war contracts are often able to underbid small manufacturers who are not doing any war work at all."

Under the original Army-Navy policy of dealing with larger firms, efforts to bring new plants into the picture had concentrated on encouraging contractors for the completed weapons to sub-contract "bits and pieces" to smaller plants and factories.

The Nelson decree, instead, will let smaller plants contract for the weapons themselves, specifically the more easily handled items.

J. C. Douglass Resigns From Ration Board

J. C. Douglass, Sr., chairman of the Howard County Ration Board since its appointment here in January, announced Wednesday that he had submitted his resignation from the board to County Judge W. S. Morrison and Mayor G. C. Dunham.

Mr. Douglass expressed regret at withdrawing from the service, but said he felt he was physically incapable of continuing.

His successor will be named by the civilian defense council, acting upon recommendations of the county judge and mayor, who head up the council. There was no indication as to when this would be done.

Tuesday the board passed on applications and issued certificates of purchase for tires and tubes close to quota limits for the week.

Mayor Urges Daily Prayer For Nation

A proclamation calling on the entire citizenship of Big Spring to join each day in a moment of prayer for the cause of our nation and for the men who carry the banners of that cause was issued Wednesday by Mayor Grover C. Dunham.

The proclamation, making the prayer observance a formal one, was in line with a program instituted by the local ministers association, members of which are conducting a daily prayer over KBBT. The period is at 6:59 each evening.

The moment of prayer is national in scope, and is being adopted daily by towns and cities throughout the country. The mayor's proclamation said:

Navy Blasts 16 Jap Planes Down

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — A task force of the United States Pacific fleet, driving deep into the hornet's nest of Japanese mandate islands, blasted 16 heavy enemy bombers out of the skies in a running fight that backed up today the navy's promise of aggressive action.

The engagement, for all its spectacular success, was hardly major in character, but it had a double significance that impressed the capital.

First: Prohibitive losses had been inflicted on the enemy—only two of 16 attacking bombers escaped—a fact which spoke volumes for the effectiveness of the fleet's anti-aircraft gunnery and its carrier-borne fighting planes. The bombers failed to score a hit and only two American planes were lost.

Second: Fleet task forces were ranging farther westward, evidently close to the well-fortified Japanese Caroline Islands, where lie such important enemy bases as Pohnpei, Truk, Yap and Felo.

The Navy communique last night did not indicate how deeply the task force penetrated this general area of the Pacific. It said merely that the action had taken place west of the Gilbert Islands—the Japanese mandates which a fleet task force raided with destructive results on Jan. 31. The Carolines are west and slightly north of the Gilberts.

It was apparent the task force had come within striking distance of a Japanese base, for the heavy bombers that attacked were land-based aircraft that can not operate from carriers.

The Navy was silent on the subject, but the task force evidently was carrying out a reconnaissance in some force with orders to inflict the maximum punishment on any enemy forces encountered.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, intimated Monday that such operations could be expected to increase, for he promised that the nation's naval forces would "take and make every opportunity to harass and damage the enemy," preliminary to an eventual grand offensive, when the time is ripe.

Besides the harassment and damage such task force sweeps cause to the enemy, they represent a constant threat that pins down sizeable Japanese protective forces—land, sea and air—in the mandate island area covering thousands of miles of ocean.

After the successful U. S. raid on bases in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, Tokyo sarcastically invited a task force to return to the "hornet's nest" in the mandates.

Whether it was the same task force that paid the return call was not specified in last night's communique. The force presumably operated from Hawaii, more than 2,000 miles distant.

Junk Piles In Big Spring Are Surveyed

Uncle Sam knows now just how much scrap metal he can get off Big Spring's "automobile graveyards"—or wrecking shop dump grounds.

The county USDA war board, headed by L. H. Thomas, has just completed a survey of the number of old automobiles—or portions thereof—now reposing on local dump grounds. A card was filled out on each dump ground, containing information as to owners name, amount of scrap on hand, etcetera, and this information forwarded to higher authorities.

There has been no official intimation of the fact, but it was thought safe to guess that if sale of the scrap lags to such extent that the manufacture of steel for arms is crippled, the government will use the information thus obtained to force sale of the scrap to mills.

The war board reported that with a single exception that cooperation of the junk dealers was good. Considerable junk is moving off the yards, it appeared, but Thomas asserted "there's a lot of junk here that hasn't been moved."

Meantime, farmers are lagging in their task of gathering scrap and steel off their places for sale to mills. Although much has been brought in, much more is available, Thomas reported.

MacArthur After Jap Navy Now

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Two enemy ships and several smaller vessels were destroyed in a sudden surprise attack by General Douglas MacArthur's small air force on Japanese installations and shipping in Subic Bay, north of Batavia, the war department announced today.

Large fires were started on the docks of Olongapo, former United States naval station in Subic Bay, and on Grande Island, a communications reported. Heavy explosions among enemy stores followed the fires.

One ship of 10,000 tons and another of 8,000 tons were destroyed, the department said, and also two motor launches of 100 tons each. Many smaller vessels were damaged.

Boy Scouts Get Awards

More than a score Boy Scouts received awards ranging from the fundamental tenderfoot badge to accoutrements at the regular monthly Court of Honor Tuesday evening in the district court room.

Attendance honors for the evening went to troop No. 7, W. C. Blankenship, chairman of the court, making the award. He also announced the district first aid contest held here March 19 and the council meet in Odessa on March 21. The scouters round-table was set for Friday at 8 p. m. in the chamber of commerce office.

George Mclear, commissioner, conducted a contest and awards were presented by A. S. Darby, the Rev. O. L. Savage and Dr. W. E. Hardy, district chairman.

Earning second class awards were Durwood Carnett Jr., (troop 3), George O'Brien, Jr. (3), Jimmie Ray Smith (3), Tommy Martinez (7), Camilo Ramirez (7).

RAF Bombs Paris; French Are Angered

London Says More Blows Due Plans Helping Hitler

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—A Paris broadcast recorded today by Exchange Telegraph said that at least 1,500 people were killed and several hundred injured during last night's raid on the suburbs of Paris.

By The Associated Press British bombers smashing at war factories in the suburbs of German-occupied Paris were reported today to have inflicted a toll of 445 to 600 persons killed, more than 1,000 wounded and 200 houses destroyed in a two-hour attack described as a warning against further collaboration with Germany.

Authoritative London quarters said the assault, carried out last night in bright moonlight, was the first of many blows Britain would deliver against plants helping to equip Adolf Hitler's armies.

"As the Vichy wireless already has stated, no bombs were dropped on Paris itself," the British declared.

A London spokesman said the attack was directed against numerous plants in the famous Paris industrial belt, particularly the huge Renault Motor Works at Billancourt.

British sources said the Renault factory, which employed 30,000 workers in peacetime, had been operating 24 hours a day, manufacturing 40-man "invasion planes" for the Germans to be used in an eventual all-out assault against the British Isles.

Informed London quarters said the attack might indicate the end of the long continued allied attempts to coax Chief of State Philippe Petain's Vichy government away from a policy of collaboration with the reich.

Immediate speculation arose as to the Vichy government's reaction particularly whether Petain would now turn the still powerful French fleet over to Germany or even plunge France headlong into war against Britain.

While the British emphasized that the raid was aimed strictly at war factories, Marshal Petain issued this statement: "The bloody attack of the night of March 3-4, striking only at the enemy population, will arouse general indignation and take on the character of a national catastrophe."

The 85-year-old French chief of state decreed that the victims' funeral day would be a day of national mourning.

Dispatches from Vichy said at least 12 towns in the Paris suburbs had been bombed, with the heaviest blows falling upon the factory regions of Boulogne-Sur-Seine and Billancourt.

Meanwhile Premier Mussolini's high command declared for the first time that Italian submarines were operating with German U-boats off the United States coast. An Italian communique said fascist undersea raiders had sunk 27,204 tons of ships in the Atlantic.

On the Russian war front, a bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that German troops had "annihilated" red army forces attempting to break through Nazi siege lines at Sevastopol, in the Crimea.

The German high command again noted fierce Soviet attacks on the Donets (Ukraine) front, before Moscow and in the Leningrad sector, but declared they had been beaten off.

In Russia, Moscow's information bureau said, Soviet units have destroyed "about 50 centers of enemy resistance" on the Leningrad front.

Japanese Burma Drive Slowed

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Sharp allied aerial attacks have slowed the Japanese drive across Burma, a military commentator declared today. He said the Japanese were being held virtually at a standstill.

Java Invaders Gain After 3-Day Battle

Dutch Destroy Much Of Island's Booty

BANDOENG, Java, March 4 (AP)—The Japanese were acknowledged officially today to have made "some headway at some points" on Java, bringing to bear their numerical superiority—especially in planes—against an heroic defense which had held them in check since Sunday.

The enemy inroads indicated no radical change as yet in the situation in which the Dutch and their allies had shown sufficient power yesterday to press the invaders back in one sector.

The communique declared the resistance still was stubborn "and in offensive spirit" but the Dutch already had carried out "the principal destruction in Java" to prevent its rich resources from falling into enemy hands.

It gives no indication whether the new Japanese penetrations had been stopped nor any details either of their depth or direction.

The war bulletin reported heavy Dutch aerial blows against the enemy's airpower. Serious damage was inflicted on hangars at a Japanese-held airport and "a number of enemy bombers were machine-gunned," it said.

In a Japanese attempt to raid Bandoeng Monday, the communique said, the enemy lost four bombers and one fighter or bomber and was "so heavily punished that he gave up the attack."

The one-and-a-half-hour raid on this city yesterday, however, was acknowledged to have caused military as well as civilian damage, and to have set fire to "some grounded Dutch planes. Two Japanese bombers were shot down, the communique added.

Java's hopes of repelling the Japanese invasion apparently hung on the ability of its valiantly fighting defenders to erase or whittle down Japan's first landing force.

This final stronghold of the Indies was conceded to be in dire peril.

This was attested by a separate communique today disclosing that the flames of "scorched earth" already were consuming vital installations and material in the path of the invaders.

Such sacrifices already had been made in Batavia but this was the first indication that they were being made islandwide on Java as the invaders advanced.

It would seem advisable to stress the fact that no food supplies were being sent to the island.

Texans Object To General Gas Rationing

HOUSTON, March 4 (AP) — Executives of the Houston oil industry today greeted with little enthusiasm the views of oilmen in the east that gasoline rationing for the entire nation may come shortly.

The general expression was that unless it is an absolute necessity rationing should not be applied to areas where refineries can get gasoline to the public without weakening the nationwide transportation system which feeds oil and its products to vital non-producing and non-refining areas, such as the east coast and the Pacific northwest (Washington and Oregon).

But, it competent government agencies can prove the existence of a real necessity for nationwide rationing, then the oil industry and the public "ought to make any sacrifice needed to help the nation in the war effort," according to one executive.

This executive said it was his private opinion that the office of the petroleum co-ordinator would not ration gasoline except in those areas where it was necessary because of dwindling supply and lack of transportation to replenish it. He pointed out that there now is a surplus of oil and refined products in Texas because of the transportation shortage.

Dutch Again Shift Indies Commanders

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich has been entrusted with a "special mission" and has been succeeded as commander of the Netherlands Indies naval forces by acting Rear Admiral J. J. A. Van Stavoren, the Netherlands government announced today.

More U.S. Troops Land In Ireland

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN NORTHERN IRELAND, March 4 (AP)—Thousands more cheering, husky United States fighting men have arrived in a northern Irish port to augment the force that has been in Ulster for more than a month. It was announced today.

Details of the landing of the fleet of transports and supply ships were withheld until the soldiers, their guns and their other fighting equipment had been centered to the selected spots throughout the six northern Irish counties and the ships had left.

Compared with the ceremonial landing of the AEP's part of the World War last month, the latest arrival was a routine job carried out with typical army and navy clockwork precision.

Like the first contingent, most of the latest arrivals are midwesterners who had been in training in southern army camps for a year. But there are some representatives of every part of the country.

They came in full field equipment and with their guns ready. The white-haired troop commander was a colonel from the middle west, a veteran of artillery campaigning in the first World War and five years commander of the same unit, which was with the Rainbow Division.

First ashore from the first shipload, the colonel saluted Maj. Gen. Russell F. Harris, U. S. commander in Northern Ireland, and said "glad to be here, sir."

Meanwhile his soldiers lined the rails, observing and tending American cigarettes to the pier to start scrambles among the dockworkers.

The honor of being first man in the ranks to land was given to Master Sergeant Dorrance Mann, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who served in the first World War with the colonel commanding this contingent.

Delinquencies By Juveniles Mount Here

Prospects Thursday were that the city would secure the services of a probation officer to meet a wave of juvenile delinquency that has mounted to alarming proportions.

Already there were approximately 80 cases on file and police brought in three others in connection with theft and burglary cases.

B. J. McDaniel, city manager, said he did not know whether the city could carry the load alone, but he indicated that matters had reached a point where special action was imperative.

After being reduced to a minimum over a period of years, the delinquency problem suddenly got out of hand last autumn and has continued to remain at a high pitch since the first of the year.

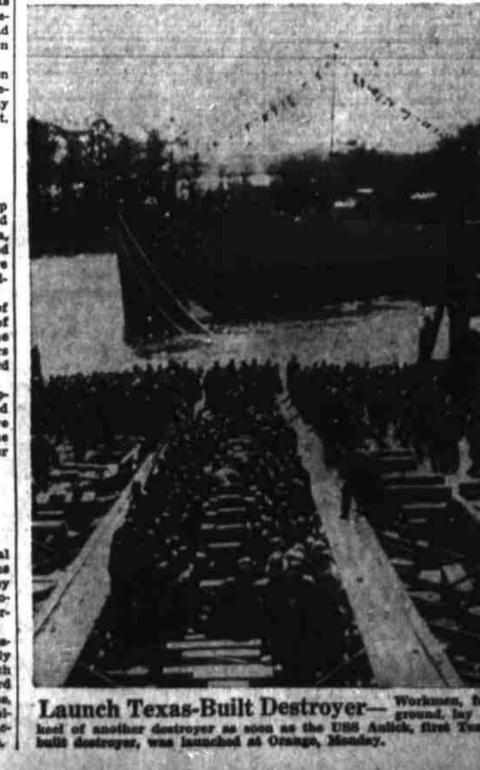

Truck Production Ordered Stopped

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — The war production board today ordered a halt to the production of trucks of any size immediately upon exhaustion of supplies of fabricated or partially fabricated materials which were in manufacturers' hands on February 25.

Direct military and lend-lease orders for trucks or troop carriers were exempted from the stock order.

Rev. O'Brien Named To Baptist Board

DALLAS, March 4 (AP) — The Baptist General Convention's executive board yesterday countermanded a previous order that would have disallowed Baptist Bible chairs at state colleges and universities at the end of this school year.

Garden City Boys Sell Calves At Average Of 20.80 Cts.

Kenneth Cox Entry Named As Champion

By JOE PICKLE
GARDEN CITY, March 4—Twenty-four club boy calves averaged 20.80 cents a pound in auction here Tuesday afternoon as a climax to the fifth annual Glasscock county livestock show.

The grand champ-on calf, fed by Kenneth Cox and bred by Glen Brunson, brought $5 cents at the hands of Colorado City Cotton Oil Mill.

Seventy-five cents brought down the grand champion lamb and Big Spring Lions club, which made the show its regular meeting, placed the bid. Leonard Hanson led out the lamb, also top of the show herd class.

More than 1,000 persons were on hand to see the show and partake of a big mutton barbecue. The crowd was perhaps the largest ever at the show and certainly the largest ever to attend the sale following.

Heavyweight calves placed as follows: Kenneth Cox, Basil Keathley, Jr., Horace Underwood (next two places), Belton Cox, Jay Cunningham, Robert Lawson, James Richard Currie, Buster Cox, Jerry Currie, Edd Bedell and Cecil Dosier. Edd Bedell's calf was reserve champion. Horace Underwood rated first with two calves fed by one boy and Kenneth Cox and James Richard Currie followed in order. First Aberdeen-Angus fed out in the county was exhibited by Buster Cox, feeder. It was of Pat Jackson breeding.

In the cross bred lamb class, which had 28 entries as compared to four a year ago, winners placed this way: Leonard Hanson, Lester Ratliff, Lester Ratliff, Fern Cox, Fern Cox, Robert Lawson, Fern Cox, Ed Bedell, Edd Bedell, Jack McDaniel. Fine wool lambs, packing first and second, followed by Harry Calverley, Leonard Bryans (two places), Robert Lawson, Leonard Bryans, Harry Calverley, Harry Calverley (two places). There were 49 in this class compared to 19 last year. Lawson's sheep was reserve champion.

Lester Ratliff showed the best pen of three cross bred lambs, packing Fern Cox, Edd Bedell and J. L. McDaniel. Best three fine wool lambs were Robert Lawson, Leonard Bryans, Harry Love Calverley and Durwood Ratliff. Anita and Olive D. Calverley, girl club girls, had lambs in the show.

In horse classes Roy C. Davis had the best filly foaled in 1940 and Bud Hanson the best 40 horse for Palomino. Marshall Copk had the top Palomino '41 foal and Hanson's horse then won grand champion of the Palomino class with Roy Davis second. Ray Highwater showed a fine Palomino, but not for judging.

Temple Foster, Sterling City, won the foal of 1941 quarter horse '41 foals and went on to take the grand championship for all horses with the same animal. Son Powell had 40 horse foal winner. Clyde Reynolds won the half-thoroughbred fillies and Stanley Bogard the half-thoroughbred horse class. Of the latter division, the Bogard horse was the top.

Jack Perry, youngster, showed the champion breeding Hereford cow in competition with adults while Charlie Williams had the champion bull. Fock Haley had champion dairy cow and also showed some milking Shorthorns, first in the county. They were good for both milk and beef.

In the sale, Big Spring bidders were easily the heaviest buyers, with Midland representatives ranking second and the Colorado City Cotton Oil Mill coming next.

Lack Of Quorum Forces Delay Of Caprock Cooperative Meet

Failure to obtain a quorum forced postponement of the Caprock Electric Cooperative's annual membership meeting Tuesday afternoon, but those persons present heard a portion of the program planned for the day.

Charter of the cooperative provides that no business may be transacted at a membership meeting unless five per cent of the members are present in person and 15 per cent are represented by proxy or present in person. Since only 18 persons were present, and half a dozen proxies on hand, out of a membership of more than 450, those members present voted to adjourn until 2 p. m. March 21. Redoubled efforts to obtain a good representation of the membership will be made at that time.

William D. Scoates, regional operations engineer for REA, spoke briefly. He explained that present priority regulations limit extensions of the line to 1,000-foot segments, and limits the number of these which may be made each month.

Longer extensions may be made only by special permission when it is definitely shown that the extension of electricity to a farm will markedly increase food production.

"Your cooperative is in good shape," Scoates reported. "Some building up of your income will be necessary by time your mortgage payments hit their peak, but progress so far has been satisfactory."

James T. Brooks, attorney for the cooperative, lauded the board of directors for tireless and unceasing work for the organization. Turning then to the bigger problem of winning the war, Judge Brooks asserted that "patience is necessary in this war." He pointed to the fact that we were not sufficiently prepared in advance, that long distances must be covered before the enemy can be met.

Entertainment opening the program included a duet by Perry and Billy Jean Walker of Center Point, with Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser at the piano; a solo by Twila Phillips of Moore; a solo by Ramona Faye Barber of Moore with Mrs. Doyle Turney at the piano; a piano solo by Mrs. Turney; a solo by Mary Anna Whitaker of Midway; and a stunt by a group of Moore students.

Farm Bureau Leader Will Speak Here

J. Walter Hammond of Tye, Taylor county, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, will be principal speaker at a district meeting of that organization in Big Spring Thursday.

The meeting will be held at the Settles hotel, beginning at 10 a. m. war time.

Problems of farmers in war time will be discussed by those present. It is thought likely that ideas advanced by the farmers present will contribute toward a shaping of policies by the bureau and the American Farm Bureau federation, which in turn has strong influence on legislators in Washington.

The meeting is one of a series being held throughout the state.

Ceremony Marks Coronation Of Coahoma Queen

COAHOMA, March 4.—A patriotic program with the "then and now" theme marked the coronation of Virginia Satterfield, senior student, as "first lady" of Coahoma high school, in ceremonies conducted at the gymnasium.

Miss Satterfield was named from a group of class favorites who appeared in the costume of first ladies of the land. These were:

Darline Tindol, appearing as Dolly Madison and escorted by Ned Hale; Ritzey Read, sophomore, representing Martha Washington and escorted by Eddie Gene Mann; Jodelle Hale, junior, appearing as Mary Todd Lincoln and escorted by Johnnie Stroder.

Miss Satterfield representing Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and her escort was Eddie J. Carpenter. The queen was presented with a bouquet of red tulleman roses by Supt. George Boswell. Against a half-circle background, Jean Priddy stood as a symbolic Status of Liberty, and before her the favorites were presented.

Numbers on the "then and now" program included a style show; songs by Ann Mullins; old and modern dances by Emma Lee Turner, Dorothy Hardy, Rubilee Wheat, Alice Faye Darsey, Earline Reid and Lenora Foster; the "Gettysburg Address" by J. W. Warren; and music by the rhythm band, a group of high school girls and Elmo White, with Mrs. Fred Beckham, Velma Ruth Woodson and Harry Smith Echols. Florida Tourney Attracts Full Field Of Golf Aces

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4 (AP)—The lustre of $5,000 prize money and the necessity of grooming their game for even fiercer future fare brought practically the nation's entire cast of "name" golf pros into action today in the annual St. Petersburg club.

At least four well-known players who have not made the winter circuit—national open champion Craig Wood, Squire Gens Sarazen, Billy Burke and Ben Loviny—were in the field of approximately 100 golfers that teed off this morning.

Several other stars like Ben Hogan, the current big money winner, gave up their plans for a rest and came here at almost the last moment.

Hogan had been ill since the close of the New Orleans open ten days ago and had decided to stay out of this tough 72-hole test which Sammy Snead has won twice in the last three years. But yesterday just before the entries closed he made his appearance at the club and shot a one-under par practice round that was duplicated under adverse conditions only by Snead, Sarazen and Henry Picard.

Wood has not played a tournament since he finished sixth in the $10,000 Miami open in December and Picard has played in only the last three of the seven shows held since the first of the year.

Aside from the purse, the St. Petersburg open drew its full complement of stars because it is a national warm-up for next week's invitational four-ball tournament at Miami and for the Augusta masters championship, the most highly regarded prizes of the spring.

Crystal Wins City Championship With Second Win Over Carnett's

Late Rally By Cafe Men Nets 32-28 Victory

Crystal Cafe stood today as the kingfish of city league basketball, thanks to a mighty last-half comeback Tuesday evening against Carnett Sporting Goods.

Crystal tumbled Carnett's by a 32-28 count for the second successive evening to win the city fast league play-off and the title, but it was not until after Carnett had at one time built up an 11 point lead.

Carnett opened up with a scoring spurt to take a first quarter lead of 7-3 and then grew red hot to take a 17-6 advantage at the half. Crystal aces could not get close to the basket while Carnett cagers couldn't miss.

But there must have been some sort of half time pep talk, for in the third quarter, Asbury sank three field goals, Hunt two and Lyles one to help boost the Crystal total to 19 points. However, Crystal had forged ahead to 22 points.

Hunt and Heusel dropped two more field goals each and Lyles one in the last while the best Carrol, Dawson and Chapman could do for Carnett was one each. And that was the ball game.

Cagle Hunt, who led the league in scoring, also proved high point man for the evening with 11 points. This also made him high for the play-off series.

In a preliminary game, the girls Hornets measured the Yellow Jackets in a nip and tuck battle, 21-17. Gregory scored six points, G. Gregory 11 points, and Robertson five points for the winners. Scoring for the Jackets showed 12 points by Todd, two by King and seven by Harlan. Other Hornet players were Brigance, Anderson and Heusel (Crystal star) who filled in at guard for both sides. Smith, Redding, and Bell were other Yellow Jackets. Bobby Asbury became "Bobby Jean" to break into the game.

Favorite Ousted From Tourney At El Paso

EL PASO, March 4 (AP)—The New Mexico School of Mines eliminated Culver-Stodden of Canton, Mo., pre-tournament favorite, 42 to 30 in the Southwestern basketball tournament here last night.

The Miners barely led, 19 to 18, at half-time but increased their margin steadily in the final session.

Another favorite, New Mexico State Teachers of Silver City, was upset, 33 to 41, by George Foyette of the California State College of Los Angeles. The Californians were ahead, 32 to 18, at half-time.

New Mexico A. and M.'s scrappy five threw a sensational comeback to oust the Kansas Wesleyans, 40 to 36, after the Kansas team had led, 20 to 15, at the half.

The Texas College of Mines eliminated the 8th Cavalry of Fort Bliss, 53 to 43, in the other game of the night.

The semi-finals will be played tonight with the New Mexico Aggies matched against the New Mexico Miners and George Peppardina playing the Texas School of Mines.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH ELLESTON, JR.
NEW YORK, March 4—The promoting fraternity must take back seats for a few months while the American Bowling Congress is in action. No other event can produce such astronomical figures.

Nearly $175,000 was laid on the line to get ready for the 72 day-and-night affair and the pins alone cost $98,000.

Van Meter (la.) high school (Bob Feller's little mammy) with an enrollment of 96, has produced a girls' basketball team that has won 19 straight games. The Giants really are Giants this spring.

Eleven men in the Miami camp weigh more than 190, and they go up as far as Johnny Mize's 230. Stanley (Coach) Woodward of the N. Y. Herald Tribune comes up with the idea that N. Y. U. should adopt the football Giants as their team and go back to the good old days when the Violets were represented by professionals.

Today's guest star—Dennis Brown, Mount Clemens (Mich.) Daily Monitor: "Bargain counter: Al Sabath's $700 wonder mace. Sabath is showing his mace and 10 prices. It'll probably be a month of Sabbaths before he wins another race."

Jacobs beachcombing—Angelo De Sanza, the kid who got a decision over Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson at St. Nick's Monday, took Terry Young as his prize because he thought that one his father and uncle both used during their ring days. He's a cousin of Lulu Costantino.

Jack Kearns, one-time manager of Jack Dempsey and more recently a fight promoter, is selling fire extinguishers in Chicago. Publisher Nat Fleischer of the Ring magazine can't understand why he gets letters from Army camps saying they can't buy his magazine on the post newsstands. He sends out 7,500 copies monthly for free distribution to service men.

Tokle-ish subject—When ski jumper Torger Tokle went to Niagara, Wis., to practice for last Sunday's record-breaking jump at Iron Mountain, so many kids played hockey to see him that they closed the schools rather than hold classes with only half the pupils present.

Shorts and shells—The Oakland, Calif., ball club has a reverse-English battery of catcher Joe Glenn, who began as a pitcher, and pitcher Charley Buttrel, who started behind the plate. And Cliff Dapper, the Dodger rookie, used to be half of the nifty Hollywood battery of Gay and Dapper. Those high school footballers seen on Carolina college campuses lately are regarded as "insurance." If the Southern conference lifts the freshman ban, they'll have had the benefit of spring practice and will be ready to go with the varsity next fall.

Apple production in the United States has been decreasing during the past thirty years, according to the department of commerce.

Rice Cagers Will Represent Texas In Natl. Tourney

DALLAS, March 4 (AP)—Texas teams to play in national college basketball tournaments this month have all been named.

Rice Institute will represent the Southwest in the National Collegiate Regional tournament at Kansas City March 20 and 21.

Texas Wesleyan and East Texas State have been selected to go to the National Interscholastic, also at Kansas City, a week earlier, and Al Baggett, coach of West Texas State who is chairman of the selection committee, said he was inviting Texas Tech to be the third representative from this state.

Rice was chosen by J. W. St. Clair of Dallas, D. X. Bible of the University of Texas and Hub Quillan of Texas Christian University, who make up the selection committee for the NCAA in the southwestern area.

The Owls will play against teams from three other districts. The winner will meet the survivor of a similar elimination tournament at New Orleans.

Rice was co-chairman of the Southwest conference, Arkansas, which tied the Owls for the title, withdrew from consideration to the NCAA.

Texas Wesleyan is champion of the Texas conference. East Texas tied North Texas State for the title in the Lone Star conference and was picked through flip of a coin by the conference president.

Coach Bert Huffman said he and the Texas Tech team, runner-up to West Texas in the Border conference, were very anxious to accept the National Interscholastic bid. Athletic Council Chairman W. L. Stangel said "It is virtually certain the council will accept."

Editorial— Local Schools Need Your Cooperation In Census

Scholastic census time is here again, and with it the concurrent reminder of the fact that our local schools always need all the help they can get.

State aid of $22.50 per capita is granted school districts, on the basis of total scholastic registration. It stands to reason that the more complete the annual census, the more state revenue will be forthcoming to the local systems.

Cooperation by the public in the enumeration of every child between the ages of 6 and 18 becomes more than a mere formality. It is a civic responsibility to see that the local district gets all the state apportionment it is justly entitled to.

The fact that revenue from local taxation is limited, and that the Big Spring schools operate on too close a margin, is all the more reason that 100 per cent response to the school enumeration is essential. A district restricted in area, such as ours, is but which still carries probably an above-normal pupil load is one which counts heavily on revenues beyond those available from local property assessments. The state per capita apportionment is the answer, in Big Spring's case it is extremely important.

Teachers of the local system are spending the next two weeks in a door-to-door canvass. They will spend the two weeks following in a checkup in the effort to see that every child is included in the lists.

You are urged to give these enumerators every assistance, to see that every child of scholastic age in your own household is counted, as well as every child of your neighbor and in your block.

If you have reason to believe some eligible scholastic has been overlooked, you are requested to notify the school authorities.

This public assistance in the enumeration is a simple thing, but it is a vital thing to the operation of our educational system. Help all you can.

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter 33
Imprisoned

They must have climbed some 3,000 feet when Goodwin turned the car swiftly, crossed a creaking bridge, pulled to an abrupt stop.

For a moment Sharon couldn't see why. A moment later it was all too plain. Yawning not ten yards from where the car stood, lay a deep river canyon. A thousand feet below, a stream hurtled toward the ocean.

"Get out!"

Sharon opened the door, stepped away from the car. The motor was still running when Goodwin, too, slipped out from under the wheel. Then, Sharon's heart leapt to her throat, he released the brake. Gently at first, the car rolled toward the brink of that canyon. Then gathering momentum, it moved faster—faster—disappeared with a crashing underbrush.

Moments later she heard the crash. Splintering echoes banged against the canyon wall opposite. Drawn to the cliff's edge almost as if she were hypnotized, Sharon looked down, saw the shiny fragments of what had once been a handsome car. Completely demolished! There was hardly enough left of it to supply evidence it had once been a car.

Horror-stricken, Sharon turned to him. "Why did you do that?"

"Destroy evidence in case my pursuers get this far," he said calmly. "Maybe I should have sent you with it."

Sharon's blood drained from her cheeks. "Maybe."

"They'll think we were both in it. And they'll waste some precious time climbing down that ravine to search for our bodies." He smiled confidently. "You didn't really believe I could be caught, did you?"

"I think you can—and will be caught," she replied with bold confidence that collapsed inside her.

Goodwin's eyes narrowed. "Edda warned me that you were falling for Tom Stafford. I should have listened to her—before it was too late." He moved closer, menacingly. "If I am caught—neither of us will be alive."

"Even that would be preferable to your escaping," Sharon said bravely. The only thing she could hope for now was that the end would come quickly.

Goodwin laughed, a horrible sound that scraped Sharon's nerves like sandpaper against steel.

"Not desperate are you, Sharon?" he jeered, mocking her. "There was a time when a kiss from me would have thrilled you."

True enough, Sharon agreed silently. Adroitly, she stepped out of reach.

"That was yesterday," she said coolly, and instinctively preparing for flight, she glanced behind her. That way, the deep ravine dropped precipitously. As she looked, her glance snagged on a curve of road winding around the opposite wall of the canyon. Then her pulses raced. A car was rounding that distant curve! It passed so rapidly she couldn't be sure she'd actually seen it. Then another! And a third! Was that—could it possibly be—

Turning back to Goodwin, the grating pallor of his face told her it was Tom—and plenty of help! But, and her hopes fell back a little, they were still a long way off. They had at least 2,000 feet to climb, and innumerable chances to lose their way.

Goodwin seemed to think that too. "This way," he growled and caught her arm.

Hide-Out

Then, recrossing the bridge, he pushed her ahead of him, down the bank of the tiny mountain stream, along the stream bed. At least a quarter of a mile from the road, now, Goodwin stopped, put two fingers to his lips and whistled softly.

A moment later, like an echo, came an answering whistle. Amazed, Sharon saw that the stream fell down over rocks past a low, stone building.

"Another—hideout!" she gasped, thinking aloud.

Goodwin made the descent to the wide porch, pulling her after him. "Not entirely," he said. "My summer home—under normal circumstances."

"And—now?"

"A comfortable—retreat, shall we say?" he smiled sardonically. "It is so well concealed that even the most diligent search would pass it by. I think we'll be comfortable here indefinitely. Particularly as our hostess has no doubt anticipated our arrival."

Sharon stared at him. "Hostess?"

Goodwin nodded as the door opened. "The Countess, of course."

Edda, as cool as if she were greeting them at the door of her San Francisco apartment, smiled. "How unexpected a surprise, this is, Miss Doyle." Then, to Goodwin, "Something went wrong, did it?"

"Plenty. Shall we go in?"

Furnished simply, but attractively, in wicker and soft greens, the cottage was a summer dream-house. And so well concealed one could live here for weeks—months, maybe—and never be discovered.

Too amazed to be able to put all this together into a clear picture, Sharon just listened.

"Tell me what happened."

The Countess—or rather Edda Goodwin or Gottschalk or whatever her name was, Sharon remembered—had exchanged her elaborate dinner dress for smartly tailored slacks.

Goodwin's brief report of events confirmed Tom's version to the last detail. Confirmed, too, Sharon's belief concerning her own mortal peril. Goodwin would not speak so glibly of his part in the treacherous betrayal of his country if he were not sure that Sharon would never be in a position to act as witness against him!

The Countess, too, seemed to take that for granted. Right now, Sharon noticed, they spoke exactly as if she were not there.

"You were clever, darling, to have planned this way out in case something did misfire," Edda smiled sweetly. "But how did you happen to bring Miss Doyle with you?"

"Miss Doyle went over to the enemy, unfortunately, and then overestimated our credibility," Goodwin said, his manner of "charming cavalier" back in place. Sharon's lips curled at the too-smooth perfection of his manners and remembered the moment in the cabin when he had cursed her, knocked her to the floor.

"No, really?" The Countess looked at her now, brows raised.

"I found it—advantageous to bring her with me." He laughed quietly, as if enjoying some private little joke.

Sharon, with defiance born of sheer desperation, let her own temper have rein. "He means that he would be behind bars at this moment if he hadn't been cowardly enough to use me as a shield for his own body!"

"It doesn't sound as if Miss Doyle is going to be a very pleasant houseguest, darling," Edda dropped languidly into a deep chair. "Perhaps you had better show her to her room."

"I'd be delighted," Goodwin smiled, crossed the room, opened a small door. "Here you are, Miss Doyle. We hope you will be comfortable."

Cell

Wary, but helpless, Sharon crossed toward him slowly. Careful to keep her chin up, her trembling lips tight, Sharon stepped into the room. A small bedroom with but one window, she noticed immediately, and that facing out over the deep ravine.

She faced her pseudo-host and hostess. "I'm sure I shall be much more comfortable—in mind anyway—than either of you," she dared, tauntingly.

Then just as she closed the door, she noticed the heavy bolt. And knew she was a prisoner even before she heard Goodwin turn the key. Instantly, she knew the maddening frustration of being confinned to four narrow walls, powerless to do anything but wait.

The one window faced east and as she stood looking out across the ravine she saw the sun, that was to have announced such a glorious new day, pushing feeble pink rays up behind the mountain. The rain had stopped. The sky had cleared as quickly as if it had had no part in the drenching downpour that must have made it more difficult for Tom!

Tom! Had he been in one of those cars she had seen? And if he had been, was he able to follow that faint trail Goodwin had pursued? Goodwin seemed so confident of plenty of time to getaway.

She became aware that voices had lowered in the next room. Dropping to her knees, she pressed her ear against the keyhole shamelessly.

She heard Mr. Goodwin's voice, carefully softened. Then, the Countess murmured replies. They were speaking rapidly, excitedly. Only occasionally could she catch a word, sometimes a phrase. But by piecing them together, she began to pick up the trend of their discussion. Tom's men would follow the trail to the precipice, discover the wrecked car. They would go back then for ropes and tackle to haul out the car. They would search the ravine carefully. All this before they discovered they were on the wrong scent.

Sharon flattened against the door, strained to hear more. They would leave as soon as it was dark in the car the Countess had driven up and cached in an abandoned barn on the lower road.

"But what shall we do about her?"

It was the Countess who asked. During the silence which followed, Sharon felt exactly as if she were waiting for a sentence.

Goodwin spoke finally. "Have you any suggestion?"

"Leave her here—awake," the Countess laughed softly. "So fast asleep she won't waken for several hours. Wouldn't whoever owns this charming cabin be surprised to find a Goldilocks here?"

Sharon fled back to the window. She must get out of here. At once. Noiselessly she opened the window. But the ravine dropped away below too swiftly to risk escape that way.

Reluctantly, she closed the window, pressed her hot cheek against the cool pane. Was this going to be the end of the road for her, she wondered, almost resignedly. Was it hoping too much that Tom would find her—in time?

liked what he saw. "I'll be waiting for you when you get off tonight," he said.

Later, as Birdie explained it to the Judge, she and Joe saw a lot of each other. They went everywhere together and she was crazy about him. One day he piled her into his car and started for Philly, just to have a little fun, but on the way there a truck ran out of a side street and when they cleared all the wreckage away Joe was very dead.

Birdie got her old job back at the restaurant and was there just six weeks when another truck driver, named Larry, dropped in for some coffee. They chatted informally. Later, when it was time for her to go home he was waiting for her in his car. They took a long ride in the country. The next night

Man About Manhattan—
The Gal In New York
Jail Hasn't Seen Much

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—As the door of the jug clanked behind Birdie, a matron placed her hand upon her shoulder and said, "Don't worry, dearie. You're young. What do you know about life?"

"Yes'm," said Birdie, but inwardly she must have laughed. What did she know about life?

At eighteen Birdie was the mother of a two-year-old son, separated from her husband, slinging hash in a dockside restaurant. She earned $5 a week and tips.

One day a truck driver came in for some pie. They became confidential. "My name's Birdie," she told him. "What's yours?"

"Joe."

"I used to know a man named Joe. He's a rat. I married him."

Joe looked at her closely and

Hollywood Sights And Sounds— Resolved: Legs Due Oscars Too

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—All the Oscars are passed around, and the arts of the movie world have been glorified along with the sciences. And still, with all the fuss and furry, no Oscar has gone to recognize the greatest asset movies ever had.

I refer to the Leg. The simple, luscious, unadorned leg, the glowing symbol of what really pays off at the box-office.

The Leg is beneath the notice of so august a body as the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The academy knows there is a Leg or two around town, but it concerns itself with such frivolous non-essentials as Acting. Officially, if it designates a Leg by any name, it probably calls it a Limb.

That's why we need a second set of awards, bestowed by some group willing to recognize the facts of movie life—just as casting directors do when, interviewing a candidate, they say with high and impersonal abruptness, "Let's see your legs."

For while it is true that many an Actress gets along with the bare necessities of Leg-life, it is equally true that many a Leg gets along beautifully without Acting. If a girl has Legs and can act besides she's a Seventh Wonder.

But what of Betty Grable? What of Lana Turner? And Gene Tierney, and Dottie Lamour, and Rita Hayworth, Carole Landis, Dietrich? Are they to go Oscar-less simply because their contributions to the Art of the Cinema aren't entirely cerebral?

Take Betty Grable now,—and don't shove. I don't know a single critic who sees Betty as a future Helen Hayes or Kit Cornell, yet Betty sells tickets. Even in "Hot Spot," the picture in which Betty was supposed to Act, somebody thoughtfully inserted a swimming pool scene. That's pitchers. As things stand now, pitchers don't get Oscars. Pitchers ain't Art.

Can Dottie Lamour act? A great many people (the sort with academic minds, no doubt) have expressed doubt that she ever will. Most people just haven't thought about it. They just like Lamour in a sarong, Lamour in a song.

There've been rumors that Lana Turner could act. But the theaters didn't bother you with the rumors. They tacked up signs saying "Clark Kises Lana" and a mediocre film called "Honky Tonk" was in the money. There've been no acting rumors whatever about Gene Tierney, who is so young and tries so hard. Yet Gene's a star on the marquee. After "Son of Fury" she'll be a bigger star. She wears a sarong in that one.

Soda No Help In Biscuit Vitamins

NEW ORLEANS, March 4 (AP)—Hot southern biscuits made with soda may taste fine but they're far short in needed vitamin content.

Dr. William H. Sebrell, deputy assistant director for nutrition in the office of defense, health, welfare and related activities, told the New Orleans medical assembly the use of soda in making biscuits destroyed 30 per cent of the thiamin (vitamin B) content.

Ordinary bread toasting, he added, takes 15 to 20 per cent of the vitamin B element.

Body Identified As San Antonio Man

SAN ANTONIO, March 4 (AP) Detective Captain Fred Palmer said last night the body of a man found shot to death on a highway near Plano had been identified as that of Rudolph Canan of San Antonio.

The body was found by McKinney officers. A billfold that led to the identification was found by a small boy and turned over to the Collin county sheriff's department.

The wave of retail purchasing in January converted what is usually a dull month into one of extraordinary activity, says the department of commerce.

Salvation By Christ's Grace Sermon Topic

The central message of the New Testament is that of a risen Savior, the Rev. Elmer D. Hanson, San Angelo, who is leading in a revival meeting at the First Christian church, told those attending the growing meeting Tuesday evening.

Not only is stress laid on a risen Christ, but one with power to redeem the individual from sin. He quoted from Acts 4:11-12—"and in none other name is there salvation, for neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved."

"The church today is in danger of also setting at naught the teaching and the gospel of Christ and substituting lesser things for his great truth," said the Rev. Hanson. "It is difficult for men to believe other men are lost today. It is difficult to believe our loved ones are lost—and yet if they have not become obedient to Christ, they are lost."

Some seek to substitute moral codes for the gospel of salvation, but, said the evangelist, this is false and tragic reasoning. Similarly, it is disastrous to substitute education for the Gospel of Christ. In the final analysis, he said, time has come when "we must return to Christ and His teaching and realize that only in Him and through Him is there Salvation."

Services continue each day at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m., said the pastor, the Rev. Homer W. Halslip.

piles have been or will be destroyed," the announcement said. "Private persons should not destroy their personal belongings unless emphatically ordered to do so by proper authorities."

Military sources foresaw Japanese attempts to put reinforcements ashore as the probable next crucial test for the defenders of Java, the United Nations' last rampart before Australia.

Those that have landed on three points along this island's shore evidently have failed so far to score a decisive blow but the greater reserve of manpower, ships and warplanes lies with Japan.

Temporarily, at least, and in one sector, Java's fighting men have receded in a seemingly powerful counterattack. Having first held the Japanese to a standstill everywhere since Sunday, the first full day of the invasion, the Dutch and their allies were disclosed since to have pushed the enemy back seven miles in an offensive aimed at sweeping them into the sea.

If this were accomplished before the invaders could reorganize their battered convoys and move back to Java's shores with a second big expedition, they would lose a shock force gauged at from 60,000 to 80,000 first-line troops and 20 ships sunk or knocked out of action. And they still would have to start over again from scratch.

The danger, military men said, was in the capacity of the United Nations to police the seas against a formidable armada such as the Japanese would be expected to send and the question of mastery of the air over Java.
