PIE GOBBLERS WORRIED

Since a decision of the United States Supreme Court recently put an end to the more or less famous NRA, it has been amusing-or would be if it were not ludicrous-to read the reams of stuff about the Blue Eagle's inglorious end. The sobsisters and slobber-brothers are working overtime to think of new ways to regret the passing of a program entirely out of keeping with American ideals and practices. The pie gobblers are worried.

Ninety per cent of the "hooey"both long and loud-is actuated by those fortunate favorites who were rewarded with pleasant, easy jobs at nice, fat salaries. Their interest in the welfare of the country is negligible; a place at pie counter, with the taxpayers footing the bill, is their greatest concern. That, together with the politicians' insatiable desire to have something to point to as an "accomplishment," covers most of the blah concerning the old bird's demise.

Of course there are several variations on the doleful tune. One is the impending disaster about to overtake the country when union labor goes on strike in protest against scrapping the NRA. Well, the writer is sympathetic toward the laborer and the unions, having at times held a card in one of the strongest trades crafts in the country, the International Typographical Union.

But labor, and especially organized labor, is often misled and hampered by agitators, out for "what there is in it." What kind of condition have we gotten into when a small group, comparatively speaking, as represented by the labor unions, can tell the vast majority what to do? And when this same group doesn't get everything it asks for, it threatens to "strike." This country has had while the other would place chief and will most likely continue to have NRA. When the "boys" have worked off their enthusiasm, accumulated through too much leisure, everything again settles down. If they become too obstreperous, there is a way to handle them without saddling a mischievious and hurtful-to the vast majority-program on the country.

at the outcome of the case and is satisfied to try to get along without the alleged benefits of the act.

Few people will challenge the proposition that the NRA was brought forth with good intentions. Good intentions alone, however, do not necessarily signify merit. In actual practice, some good was apparent, yet the detrimental features far outweighed the benefits.

GOOD BUSINESS PRACTICE

The committee of public utility executives cites a simple illustration of the value of diversity in carrying on business operations.

A farmer's five sons prepared to leave the old homestead and operate farms "on their own." The father arranged for the purchase of supplies and equipment for all five, as, by buying a large quantity at one time, he was able to get a lower price. He then furnished them with some working capital and sent them on

The father, having spent a lifetime in agricultural pursuits, knew the farmer's problems and methods. So, each week or so, he wrote each son, giving him essential advice and ing a few converts, who lack the information from the fruits of his long experience. At intervals he visited each son and gave him the advantage of first-hand assistance. One son settled in California, one in Oklahoma, one in Illinois, one in West Virginia, and the fifth in Ar-

For a time all sons prospered and were able to send back regular remittances to their father, in payment for the supplies he had bought to that effect. The interstate comand the aid he had rendered. Then merce commission, after 24 years of the boll weevil killed the cotton crop of the son in Arkansas, and he faced financial ruin.

However, the other four sons were still doing well, and still sending remittances. So the father dipped into his working capital and sent enough money to the son in Arkansas to carry him through until he could employing a million men, to play raise another crop. Had all the with. The railroads represent a tenth family settled in Arkansas, and produced but one crop, disaster would have struck the entire family.

Diversification, in this case, was obviously good business-it saved manufactured lumber. What a prosthe family from bankruptcy. And pective haul for the bureaucratdiversification of that nature is pre- at the expense of the taxpayer! cisely what utility holding companies achieve. PRACTICAL EDUCATION

An intelligent contribution to the current discussion regarding what is desirable in the way of present day education was made by Dr. John J Florida, who declared that the true citizen to serve as well as to live.

ANOTHER TOY FOR POLITICIANS

It seems that, in periods of stress, there should be demand for government ownership of basic industries. It is equally inevitable that, once the movement gets headway, the railroad industry should be looked upon acquisitively by the government ownership advocate. In consequence, various public men are, sincerely or otherwise, pointing out to the public the alleged benefits that government ownership of the railroads would bring the nation-and they are mak-actual facts. The American taxpayer ought to know just what federal ownership of the lines would mean-and why it is advocated. HURRAY, MR. MANN!

A fifty dollar report from many a ten-dollar corporation is being required by the State of Texas every year, according to Gerald C. Mann, secretary of state, who says a lot of things are wrong with the franchise tax law and special taxes of one kind and another now being imposed.

How Mann came to break into print has not been divulged. Secretaries of State are supposed to take in the money and let somebody else do the talking, it has been assumed since time immemorial. Perhaps Jerry takes his job seriously and speaks right up and says his piece. Calling the turn correctly many a time on the gridiron may have given him wisdom for later days, who

What Would You Do In a Case Like This?

A man comes to your door. You answer his knock. You don't know him, and he can't identify himself as a representative of one of the established firms you've come to know and trust.

QUESTION: Would you open the door?

ANSWER: No. Not if you're like most of the women who keep house and buy things for themselves and their families in this community.

REASON: Experience has taught them that the greatest danger in admitting strangers is the danger of being sold something without a reputation.

RESULT: Women who know that a value is as much a matter of "known reputation" as it is of dollars and cents, buy through the advertisements in The Wheeler Times. They know they get double protection when they do this.

Opening Announcement of the Home-owned Wheeler Ice Plant

The management of the Crystal Ice Company, an enterprise financed, built and managed by Wheeler money and men, says production will begin this week. New, modern machinery has been installed in a new building where every facility has been provided to make an ample supply of pure, clean ice. The friendly interest and patronage of Wheeler and Wheeler county people is solicited for this new industry, not only because it is a Wheeler concern, but also because it is prepared to supply a quality product at the right price.

Efficient, prompt and courteous delivery service will be maintained throughout the City of Wheeler. Also dock service for town and country trade. Wholesale and retail.

> In addition to manufacturing and distributing ice, the plant includes ample cold storage facilities for all needs.

The Crystal Ice Company plant is located in a new structure adjoining the Tolliver Garage, on Highway 152, in the northeast part of town.

GOD AND HIS HIGH HATS

MRS. WOODBEE UMBLE-

The old man walked wearily, for see it was producing a superior race. the day now drawing to a close had been a hard one not only for him, Shem mustered up courage to ask his but more so for his loyal sons, who father again. "Father, you are sure their home. How soon the tools became dull and, even if gopher wood is light, to handle it all day long becomes arm-tiring and back breaking. Then, too, the mocking people tired his spirit so. He did not mind it for himself. He knew what he was about but his sons were such young men with no special experience of their own and had only his word for the whys and wherefores of the seemingly impossible task they were attempting.

Only that day his impetuous youngest son had flared up at the taunts of the thoughtless passersby about the silliness of their undertaking to build a three story box 175 yards long, 29 yards wide and over 50 feet high with only one window and one door and all those little cubby holes, when they could have been having such a good time with their friends. They had charged his preacher father with being crazy for saying they were to be destroyed by a rain, as if he could make any one believe the hills would ever be under water or if they were, their awkward-looking boat would be dashed to pieces against some tree or mountain.

It was such a task for only four workers but no one would think of helping them lest they be ridiculed dered if they repented of having and classed as crazy, too. Besides, they were angry at Noah for saying their daring to "high hat" Jehovah, their daughters should not marry the for how could anyone hope to do sons of Jehovah when anyone could that and get by with it?

To take the place of a trunk, dresser and table, covered with souvenirs, Jimmie made a writing desk out of a discarded victrola cabinet. She also made a dressing center by moving all the "dust catchers" and souvenirs from the table, built a drawer in it for cosmetics, put a mirror and a towel rack above and added a bowl and pitcher for washing facilities.

This table, the writing desk and the bed have all been refinished. The desk and table were sandpapered and varnished and the bed enameled. The floor has been stained and a new linoleum added to give ease in cleaning. After the new curtains were hung and bedspread added, Jimmie said, "I find that the $8.90 for improvements and the labor was well well spent.

The Allison Home Demonstration club met Tuesday, May 28, with Mrs. Lee Kiker and Mrs. Arvord Abernathy as hostesses. Roll call was answered with "Favorite Mothers of the Bible and Why."

Those on the program and their subjects were: Mrs. Dud McMillin, Coy, Mother as a Trainer of Future Citizens, and Mrs. Carl Owens, Influence of Mother in the Home. After the program a visit was made to the home of Audrey Kiker, club bedroom demonstrator. Each piece of furniture in the room is handmade, and the trip was well worth while.

George, Lee Kiker, Abernathy, Lee George, Reba Lowry, W. B. Wileman, Ray Brown, Hamilton, Beene, Keiper, L. McMillin, Warren, Simpson, Peeples, F. D. Smith, Owens, J. Levitt, L. "As sure my son as I am that Jehovah lives. He talked with me and told me all creation was to be estroyed. I am not afraid to finish what I have begun."

The sons exchanged looks over their father's bowed head in which they pledged their loyalty right or wrong but before many months they were to know how true and clear their father's vision was. God took notice of the worship, as He does in every case when man is sincere, and God blessed Noah and his sons and made a covenant with them and gave them a task.

PRODUCTION OF CLEAN MILK AND CREAM

—Ву-BYRON A. BASSEL State Dept. of Agriculture

The first factor to be considered n the production of high quality milk and cream, is the physical condition of the cow itself. The cow should be examined periodically and if any physical defects such as swelling or imflammation of the udder is noted, a veterinarian should be consulted at once, because these signs may be forerunners or indications of serious diseases in the cow, which might be spread to the others in the

The next important step to be considered is the condition of the cow, as far as cleanliness is concerned. All long hairs which might hold dirt should be kept well trimmed, and, before milking, the cows should be brushed with a stiff brush, especially the belly, flanks and thighs. Then the udder should be well cleaned with a damp rag and dried thorough-

With the cow in this condition the milker should then wash and dry his hands thoroughly. The milk should be drawn from the cow into a small top milk pail, because the use of this pail which is 75 per cent covered means that there is 75 per cent less chance for contamination of the milk from falling dust, dirt hair, etc.

Of course the barn in which the milking is done should be kept just as clean as possible, trash and dirt should not be allowed to collect on the floor, because this affords just that much more chance of contaminating and ruining your milk. The walls and ceiling should be kept brushed off and clean so that there will be no chance of falling dirt getting into the milk. The barn should be well lighted and ventilated. Roughage should not be fed be fore milking, because the air will become filled with dust which will settle in the milk or in the milk pail. Also, feed should not be stored in the loft above where the milking is done, because of the danger of feed dropping into the milk.

While on the subject of feed it would be well to mention the consideration which should be given feeding, in order to avoid off flavors in the milk and consequently in the cream. All highly flavored feeds such as turnips, silage, wild onions, damona, Texas, visited Thursday in bitter weed, etc., should be avoided entirely if possible, because their panied them to church at Shamrock particular flavors will be carried over into the milk. If these highly flavored feeds must be used, they should be fed immediately after milking and never before, because by doing this the possibility of their avoided.

Some explanation is due as to why all of these precautions in producing ance of keeping dirt or any form of contamination from the milk and cream, is that this dirt, etc., carries with it many germs, or bacteria, which cause the milk and cream to decompose in one way or another. This decomposition may be evidenced by souring, which is a natural proweek with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. cess, ropiness, off flavors and odors, and many other conditions.

When any of these occur you have Maldon Walker and Charley Davis bring you a low price; therefore, to insure the highest possible price, it is necessary that attention be paid have company from Mangum, Okla. to the items about which we have this week. Willie Merriott made a business been talking, namely: the physical in which the cow is prepared for milking, the cleanliness of the milkfeed which is given the cow.

The Best Man Wins The name of Jack Holt has always stood for the best type of entertainment for movie fans. This is particularly true in "The Best Man Wins" where Jack for the first time wins the girl. Ordinarily, you will recall, he has given the girl to the other fellow in such pictures as Flight and Dirigible. It is needless to say that Jack always plays the part of a real he-man, and that he is appreciated by the patrons of the Rogue is a foregone conclusion from the way they turn out to see him. He is ably assisted in Best Man Wins by Edmund Lowe, Bela Lugosi and Florence Rice. This is a death-defying drama of Hell's harbor where men are men. It will be shown at the Rogue Friday and Saturday in ddition to the last chapter of the Red Rider. And a comedy for the kids.

The Whole Town's Talking "The Whole Town is Talking" about Edward G. Robinson in a picture by the same name which comes to the Rogue Monday and Tuesday. This picture is one of the outstanding attractions of the year. It is ace high entertainment. If in doubt about the merits of this picture, then ask Jim Hyatt about it. He has seen the picture and knows whereof he speaks. Anyone who has seen it will recommend it very highly, and to miss it would be to miss another Night. Repeal and Prosperity

There is one thing certain. Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment has not brought prosperity back to the United States. It has not even been a factor of any appreciable consequence in bringing prosperity back. Those fellows who were made to believe that all the jobless would be able to find jobs almost immediately after repeal are surely becoming disillusioned by this time. Liquor distilleries cannot create wealth. The liquor traffic results only in a limited swapping of dollars from one pocket to another. And the liquor habit can only be classed as pure wastefulness.

SERIES I, NO. 19

The events in Europe culminating in the sale of Louisiana to the United States brought into the limelight so far as Texas was concerned a very famous personage, Manuel Alvarez de Faria Sanchez y Zaragosa de Godoy, "the Prince of the Peace," about whom Ashbel Smith, the diplomatic representative from Texas to England, France and Spain wrote:

"More than 30 years ago I met repeatedly in Paris a personage very noted in European history during the early years of the present century who said to me that his master. Charles IV, King of Spain, had bestowed upon him the Province of Texas to be an appendage of the house of Godoy. The king had also assigned to him the young women in the female asylums of Spain to go thither, together with 2,000 soldiers for the settlement and permanent inhabitation of this our present State of Texas. The soldiers were designated, the transports were being gotten in readiness to sail when the French invasion of Spain under Napoleon made the soldiers needed at home. The enterprise was arrested and the Spanish damsels were restored to their asylums."

Smith then added: doubting Godoy's narrative. The whole was a fitting incident in the history of the Spanish court during those horrible times."

His judment is borne out by documents that have been recently translated from the Bexar Archives in the library of the University of Texas; for on May 30, 1804, the king's councillor, Miguel Cayetuno, wrote to the viceroy, Don Jose Yturrigaray, saying:

"The field marshals, Don Antonio Sampec and Don Josef Navarro explain that the general-in-chief, the Prince of the Peace, has decided upon a new system of government for the interior provinces of North America and that since the paper they enclosed was a part of the plan, the execution of the undertaking might be undertaken immediately. The ing points:

"Under existing conditions, it is well to divide the command of the interior provinces into two distinct governments under the names of vinces. The first shall contain parts of Nuevo Leon and Santander situated between the Rio del Norte or Bravo and the Pillon River from the point where the last named river flows into the sea at Soto La Marina to its headquarters near Aldea de purposes Labordores. Texas Transients Eligible for CCC

Young Texans in transient camps in the state have been ruled eligible for enrollment in the Civilian Conservation Corps provided they can meet all other enrollment requirements, it was announced this week by Neal Guy, enrollment supervisor for Texas, following instructions received from the Department of Labor in Washington. "Heretofore, unattached transients have not been allowed to participate in the conservation program," said Guy, "but the new work program under the Relief Appropriation Act of 1935 is intended to provide employment for all those on public relief rolls. Therefore, if a young unattached Texas transient is a member of a relief roll family, he may become enrolled in the Conservation Corps. He must be enrolled in his home county, but is not sent home from the transient camp until AFTER all arrangements for his enrollment have been made.

The new ruling on transients coincides with another new provision that all members of the Civilian Conservation Corps must be members of relief roll families. In the past, as many relief boys as possible were en-Sunday dinner guests in the home of rolled first, after which boys from borderline families were enrolled to fill the quota. This latter group numbered approximately 20 per cent of the total enrollment. Under the new provision, for every boy enrolled, a family will be removed from the elief rolls, as the enrollee's salary s sent to his family.

Texas' quota for the next enrollnent, to take place between July 15 and August 31, is 12,780. This will mean the removal of the same numper of families from the relief rolls, affecting approximately 50,000 indi-

Enough boys will be enrolled at irst to fill the state's existing 55 Civilian Conservation camps, after which enrollment will be made as fast as the 43 new camps now under construction are completed. Approximately 7,000 will be sent to amps in neighboring states.

THE OLD PROBLEM AGAIN

Vacation time is here again ever as it has been year after year sino full nine-month schools have bee in vogue in this republic.

With vacation comes the problem over and over again as to what shall the youngsters do with their time and in recent years this problem has been more vexing than usual on account of the low level of economic demand for labor in all lines, The problem is again presented h all its perplexities, and is worthy of the best thought. What to do? No simply, just how to spend the three months of time in lazy idleness and worse, because that sort of vacation brings its toll in character losses. and habits not easy to eradicate in after life.

What the young folk need to do s to busy themselves in some son. of occupation that will train then for useful work, whether or not it is gainful at the present. Such a vacation spent in some office, factory, store, ranch or farm may be the be ginning of a career and vocation that will prove of life-long benefit, even if not a dime is received for the ef

"The slug that killed Mason!"

There was a sudden moment of struck silence all over the crowded room. This was followed immediately by a rising buzz, as almost every man of all the great number in that room turned to speak low-toned to his neighbor.

Watching the stir about the coroner's table, Kentucky saw that Bob Elliot, owner of the 88, was looking at him curiously. Kentucky grinned faintly at Elliot as he worked a hole in the seam of his pocket with a thumbnail, and pressed the bullet through, so that it fell deep into the lining of his coat.

Over the buzz of confusion he heard the coroner almost shouting, "You sure it was there?"

Texas Road Boosters to Seek Federal Aid

Hines at Head of Delegation Plans Washington Trip in June-Allred Favors Idea

In a determined effort to obtain $100,000,000 for gap-closing on Texas highways before the Centennial and the opening of the Mexico City road, Harry Hines, new chairman of the State Highway commission, will head a delegation of Texas leaders to Washington in mid-June, he has announced. This is according to a news release this week by the Texas Good Roads association, with headquarters at Houston.

His hope is to impress the federal administration with the fact that the building of modern highways in Texas can provide more and better and quicker employment than weed-cutting, ditching or many of the former CWA activities. It can do this, he contends, with minimum waste or abuses, and the result will be useful, permanent, revenue-producing facilities.

Accompanying Chairman Hines to the capital will be the other commissioners, Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, Col. Ike Ashburn of the Texas Good roads association and envoys from many other groups.

Gov. James V. Allred favors utilization of road-building as a means of unemployment relief in Texas, and has wired his view to President Roosevelt

"Well over 90 per cent of the Texas road dollar goes to labor either on the job or in the factories, mills and pits behind it," Mr. Hines explained, "and this is why we hope to get some of the money from purely temporary relief projects shifted

"Texas should get over $50,000, 000 for roads and grade separations from appropriations already made, and we will ask for $40,000,000 more. We have the plans all ready for badly-needed roads that will exceed this amount, and we can get them under way swiftly."

The highway chairman explained that he has no thought of disturbing the many worthwhile city and community projects to be presented through PWA, but only random and unplanned work relief.

Better Housing Day, June 15, Publicized

eral Housing administration are attempting to make Better Housing Day, June 15, one of importance in rural communities. Although the farmers are busy in the fields at this sions of many localities are sponsor- Ruth Faye. ing programs for this occasion.

National Better Housing Day is being recognized throughout the her sister, Wanda Jean Clay of country. Well over 1,000 model Twitty, were Sunday dinner guests homes will be constructed following of his father, J. M. Burgess and Twitty, were Sunday dinner guests Mobeetie, are the parents of a ground-breaking to be held on that day. These model homes, in most cases, will be sold and financed through the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Plan of the Federal Housing administration.

In rural communities where model houses are not to be erected, other celebrations will be held in recognition of the better housing program. Some towns will be visited by demonstration trucks and exhibits held.

Demonstration trucks are touring the states of Oregon, Idaho and Washington to assist in creating interest in farm programs of the Federal Housing administration.

The trucks are sponsored by power companies and building and plumbing supply concerns, and the equipment carried in the cars is demonstrated at each place. One or more types of water systems are exhibited. Home lighting plants, plumbing fixtures and a model of a septic tank are generally carried.

Similar tours are being organized in other sections of the country to enable the residents of rural districts to see the sort of improvements which may be made to their proper-
