MAN MUST YIELD

The drouth in the Northwest, coming as it does in a year when the rival parties are preparing once more to "do something for the farmer," is a timely little reminder that the old proverb is still true. Man proposes, but God disposes.

We can make plans, arrange finances, and erect protective walls until we are blue in the face, but in the end Nature has the last word.
Whether the farmers of a given territory are to have a good or a bad year depends, in the last analysis, on mysterious forces which we cannot control and which we only begin to understand.

A great deal has been written about the extreme aridity of the last few years in the Northwest. We have very properly been reminded that our use of our soil has been unwise and improvident, that we have removed our forest cover too fast, and that we have given erosion a helping hand by faulty methods of cultivation.

But the wind, as a writer in ancient Palestine remarked, bloweth where it listeth; and if it blows dry and hot, week after week and month after month, with never a rain cloud to ride on its crest, the people underneath it are going to suffer, whether they have farmed their land wisely or foolishly.

And perhaps it is not altogether a bad thing for us to rediscover this old truth. It may take a little of the twentieth century cockiness out of us.

We have a habit of talking these days as if our destinies were entirely in our own hands. We see the millennium just over the skyline, and although we may differ violently about the way to get there, we are pretty well convinced that a way does exist and that we can find it if we just hunt hard enough.

We may be right but underneath all his modern science and invention, man is fundamentally what he was in the days of Abraham; a lonely and rather helpless creature bent down beneath a high sky through whose blue emptiness his vision cannot pierce.

He takes what the world lets him take and no more; and now and then Nature smites him with a tornado, or shrugs her shoulders in an earthquake, or bakes and parches him with a long drouth, to remind him of that little fact.

When such things happen, our modern civilization can pick up the pieces and repair the damage faster than the civilization of our forefathers.

But it can do no more than they could do to keep the damage from being done. Like them, we are here on sufferance.—Wichita Falls Record News.

George Benson of the Ford community was in town several days ago and reported that the weather at his farm was somewhat HOT. He said he was planting some popcorn and stopped work to go to the house for a drink and upon returning to his work, discovered that a lot of the corn in the grain hopper of his planter had popped. He brought some popped corn to town to prove his statement.—Hereford Brand.

One thing about this prairie country, styles never cut in on our personal liberty far enough to make us wear ties, Sox or hats. Some of the women wear shorts, but the men folks are trying to maintain that bashful attitude of the pioneer cow hand.—Donley County Leader.

Two more Pampa stores were added to the list of places burglarized this week. Exactly one week from the time the J. C. Penney company store was robbed of $650, $240 was taken from the Cretney drug store and $200 from the United Dry Goods Stores, Inc. All three places are located on North Cuyler, and in each case, no merchandise was found missing.—Pampa Press.

Lefors citizens and students were shocked and deeply grieved when word was received here Wednesday of the death of Jason Morgan who succumbed after an appendix operation in an Austin hospital July 1.
Morgan taught in the Lefors school for the past two years, being junior

A manhunt centering in Motley county with officers from a dozen West Texas counties converging in the area around Matador was the sensation of the plains Tuesday, when Luke Trammell, escaped retrieve prison farm convict and a companion, was crowded so closely in his mad dash westward that he abandoned two cars in twelve hours but finally managed to elude the ring thrown around him and escape into Oklahoma by way of the Buck Creek bridge.—Floyd County Hesperian.

While swimming in the Anderson tank, in company with several others last Saturday evening about dark, Mrs. Jack Cantrell was bitten by a water moccasin snake. She was rushed to town where she received treatment by a physician. While the wound is very painful and her hand is badly swollen, she is improving and thought to be on the road to permanent recovery.—Tulia Herald.

C. C. Jones, football coach of the Canyon high school for the past four years, was elected to succeed J. L.
Kerby as head coach of the Clarendon high school Bronchos at a meeting of the school board recently. Jones, who has an impressive record with the Canyon Eagles, said in a telephone conversation with R. E. Drennan that he would accept the terms offered, and would be in Clarendon to sign the contract this week.—

All shelterbelt work in Hall county was brought to a close last week, following failure of Congress to appropriate $1,000,000 for continuation of the work throughout the United States, and the seedling trees set out by the shelterbelt crews in this country will be left for the individual farmers to care for. Instead of the large appropriation asked for, Congress granted $175,000 to be used for liquidation of the shelterbelt project over all the United States. Liquidation of the work will require about a month.—Memphis Democrat.

Debs Riley living north of Perryton on the Texas-Oklahoma line, was the first man to deliver 1935 wheat to the Perryton market. Riley brought in a load last Friday that tested 60 pounds to the bushel. He was paid 89c, a premium of 5c per bushel, by the Perryton Wheat Growers. He reported that the field was averaging 15 bushels to the acre.—

The war isn't over on grasshoppers in this county, but victory is in sight.
The grasshoppers are being held in check by Hemphill county farmers.
They are poisoning the borders of cultivated areas and so far have not had to poison the entire cultivated fields, H. M. Cantrell, county agent, says. "Same old story," he declared, "a stitch in time saves nine."—Cana-Natural gas from the Panhandle field northwest of Pampa will reach the East next Tuesday to serve consumers in Detroit, Mich. Ceremonies will be held in Detroit on that day marking turning on of the gas in the city's main via the Texas pipeline.

The line, on which work was started last February, was constructed at a cost of approximately $8,000,000, it was stated.—Pampa News.

Dept. of Agriculture Buys 700 Cars Onions

Vegetables Taken by Commodities Purchase Section from Texas Growers

The commodities purchase section of the United States Department of Agriculture recently completed a purchase program of about 700 cars of onions bought from Texas producers for approximately $250,000, according to J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist.

Rosborough stated that the price paid was on a basis of U. S. No. 1 onions ranging from 45 to 55 cents per bushel. The onions will be distributed to relief agencies throughout the nation.

He went on to say, "There has been more onion planting this year than in any previous time of onion production in the state."

In mentioning some of the history of the onion crop, Rosborough said, "The growing of Bermuda onions in Texas started over 25 years ago in the southwestern part of the state near Laredo. Since that time, the growing of this crop has spread out until it involves about 33 Texas counties, usually shipping from six to eight million cars a year to eastern markets."

"Today the bulk of Bermuda onions used in the entire United States comes from Texas. With a normal crop, onions should bring about $2,500,000 a year into the hands of Texas growers."

"This year, because of increased acreage, prices dropped to as low as 30 cents per bushel. This price is below the cost of production," he concluded.

Interested Crowds Hear Douglass Talk

Candidate for State Senator Campaigns in Panhandle—Here Next Saturday

Large crowds have heard Curtis Douglass, candidate for state senator, speak during the past 10 days. Talks were made at Childress, Memphis, Hedley, Tulia, Dalhart and other cities last week. Crowds were unusually large for the Childress, Memphis and Tulia addresses.

Miami, Higgins and Canadian are on Douglass' schedule for this week. Wheeler, Shamrock and Wellington will be visited Saturday. Wednesday, July 14, McLean, Alanreed and Mobeetie will be visited.

Douglass will invade the lair of his opponent, Senator Clint Small, in an address at 8:30 p. m., Thursday, July 16, in Amarillo. The following day he will speak in Claude.

Saturday, July 18, Douglass will visit Clarendon, Estelline, Turkey and Quitaque.

Increased interest is being shown in the state senator's race, and Douglass is receiving more encouragement every day. As the serious issues of the race become known to the people of the 31st senatorial district, Douglass reports that the voters are telling him that it is time for a change at Austin.

As his opponent has been in the state senate eight years, many voters believe that the time has come for a change. Small's corporation record is sufficient to warrant his retirement, believe thousands of voters in the district.

In his addresses, Douglass is not giving hearsay information. He is giving information from the records, which cannot be denied. He is showing a connection between his opponent and the interests of this district. Wherever Douglass has spoken, the people have come up in numbers and pledged their support.

No political speaker ever had a more enthusiastic audience than greeted Douglass in his recent Childress address.

Centennial Spectacle Shows Pioneer Events

The most colorful and rugged exponent of homespun justice, Judge Roy Bean, known all over the world as "Law West of the Pecos," is one of the principal characters in the cast of the Cavalcade of Texas, now playing at the Texas Centennial exposition.

Roy Bean, who followed the railroads into the Big Bend country in 1889, dropped off at a town named Vinagaron, renamed it Langtry and started to make history. He set up a saloon at Langtry and called it the Jersey Lily. Then he took over the task of administering justice in the lawless land.

His judicial rulings, which are still quoted wherever a group of barristers gather, and his humorous comments and decisions, which cause old timers to rock with laughter up and down the Rio Grande, went around the world before he died. Lily Langtry, for whom he named his saloon, carried on correspondence with the judge during the heyday of his career, and came to visit Langtry after Roy Bean's death.

The Big Bend country, a land which is still wildly beautiful, and the last frontier of the Old West, plays its own dramatic and colorful part in the story of the Cavalcade of Texas. Through the Davis Mountains the first of the Conquistadores, shipwrecked Cabeza de Vaca, trudged, naked and barefoot, in 1534. Across its rugged peaks the Conquistadore Coronado marched on his return from the fruitless search of Seven Golden Cities of the Cibola. Within the grandeur of these mountain ranges Texas history was born. The cast of the Cavalcade of Texas recreates the glory of the land west of the Pecos, beginning with Cabeza de Vaca and Coronado and closing with Roy Bean and his Jersey Lily saloon. The cavalcade, presented twice nightly on the largest stage in the world, has a cast of more than 300 people. One hundred animals, including oxen, burros, donkeys, cow ponies and longhorns, are used in the production which is the outstanding show at the Centennial.

"Sons of Mothers—Brothers of Maids"

C. C. MERRITT, Pastor, Church of Christ

There are always some precious truths that none of us seem to receive; or, if we received them, we were unable to retain. Is it possible that there are some to whom precious truths never make an appeal?

There are profane hearts that never seek expression in noble deeds nor to be clothed in the beauty of truth. To them villainess is kindness and corruption is purity.

There are yet others who seek for themselves the grandeur and nobler things and ways of expression, yet they seem to forget that they are made of the same "raw material" of their unholy brothers of flesh. If they could only think of themselves as having possessed or still possessing the possibilities of every crime their fellows commit, they would be better qualified to lift up the fallen into a better life.

Fifteen years ago I filed away the following words which I feel sure the readers of this corner will appreciate. The author is unknown to me.

"Brothers and Sons"

"On a dirty floor, at a slimy bar, In the anteroom of hell, I have seen them stand with a devil's leer—

I have heard the tales they tell. I have heard them brag of the brutish things; I have heard them boast of shame

"Till I longed again for the Jewish God— For the God who smote with flame.

And I wondered much if there lingered still Not a tender thought of a mother's kiss, Or a touch of a sister's hand, For we wander far and the years go by

And boyhood's vision fades; Yet we are the sons of the mothers of men And brothers of all the maids.

"And it isn't in the wilds alone That the souls of men forget; In the house of pride on the polished stair, Where the gilded ones are met, I have heard the tale that is often told,

On the dirty bar room floor, While the idle smile and lounge laughed, And the bestial asks for more;

For the thing we are is the thing we are— Not the thing in garments new And the coat that fits is the tailor's coat, But the man inside is you. It is such as I, it is such as you, That have made the jests and jades—Yet we are sons of the mothers of men, And brother to all the maids.

"Yes, the sons we are of a motherhood, Of a mother love divine; And I cannot slander this mother of yours, If I do not slander mine; Yes, the brothers are of a sisterhood of The sisters loved or lone; And you cannot slander the least and Say that the world shall spare your own.

For a woman's name and a woman's fame, They are sweet and frail as flowers; But the strength to shield and the arm To wield for the woman's name are ours.

Let the God-made man keep his God-made trust "Till his life's last twilight fades. For we are sons of the mothers of men, And brothers to all the maids."

Ex-Mrs. Bradford

Last week on Watch night we gave you William Powell and Myrna Loy in The Thin Man and you liked it immensely. This next Thursday we are giving you Ex-Mrs. Bradford with William Powell and Jean Arthur. It is a story with plenty of comedy relief combined with a very, very interesting mystery angle. It will hold your interest and satisfy your desire for more and better stories. Also, Leon Errol in a two reel comedy.
