THE COUNTRY EDITOR

The editor of the Tonganoxie, (Kans.) Mirror recently wrote in his weekly newspaper that for better than 20 years he has watched the world go by, through the windows of country-town print shops.

"The things one sees from this vantage point would fill many books, and what one writes in that time would fill an average library. Country editors rarely get rich, but they have a mighty interesting time."

Commenting on the Kansas editor's philosophy, the Kansas City Star assails one point by mentioning what the country editor does NOT print would fill several libraries. The comment goes on to say that residents of the smaller communities should love their country editors for what they do not write rather than for what they write. Country editors discard a lot of what they see and hear and print what is clean, decent and helpful-avoiding, as far as possible, utterances that tend to humiliate or wound the feelings of innocent relatives of those who occasionally transgress.

To Our Many Friends-

It is appropriate that we should pause in the year's busy work to observe with fitting reverence the anniversary of the Christ Child. And Happy New Year

Although the universe is filled with millions of stars, none can vie in fame with the star that guided the Three Wise Men of the East through the night to a tiny manger in Bethlehem. And just as it brought to the world a message of peace and goodwill, we want this greeting to carry to you and all our friends our appreciation and happiness your friendship has brought to us, and with it the wish that this Christmas season has brought you joy, health and happiness that will continue during the New Year.

And also a serious and sincere fact. The Wheeler Times takes this means to extend the season's greetings to its many customers and friends, and to wish for them a joyous holiday season to be followed by a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

While on this line of thought, it is entirely fitting to express due appreciation to advertisers and buyers of commercial printing for their nice patronage during the past year. This patronage has enabled The Times to give its readers, whose support and regard is highly prized, the very best paper possible under the circumstances; also to render a community service that has met with the approval of advertiser and reader alike.

Don't Tell Soul!

It's not exactly a secret, but The Wheeler Times is now two years old, having begun its third volume with the issue of Dec. 19, 1935. The news department didn't overlook the birthday event, but because of the rush and additional business of the holiday season-when lots of other good news stories were crowded out-mention of the birthday had to be omitted.

However, this opportunity is utilized to call attention to the fact that The Wheeler Times has existed for two years and is opening the third with excellent prospects. With the fine co-operation accorded, the paper expects to push forward to heights of greater community service during the years ahead.

For your approval Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 1-2, the Rogue presents "A Feather in Her Hat," featuring Pauline Lord and Louis Hayward. To some folks Pauline Lord may be just a name. To others she is a familiar personality, especially over the radio. She will be remembered for her great work in a picture called "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which was released last year. Her newest screen success, A Feather in Her Hat, promises to add new admirers to her list and new stars to her crown. Will you be one of the new friends of hers?
