New Thrift Measure
Now Widely Adopted
A Weekly Dollar Dinner
Found Easy on Budget

HOUSEWIVES who have learned by experience that you can't have your cake-money and eat it, are being won over to the vogue for serving a thrift dinner one day of each week. Dietitians have devised some very delicious dinners which can be served at a cost of twenty-five cents per person. By the use of these menus, women have found that a guest dinner each week, can be nicely balanced in the budget, providing one day is set aside for the dollar dinner.

Don't Get the Wrong Idea
And don't think for a moment that this budget dinner need be an unattractive meal. Smart foods are not necessarily expensive ones, and by a little planning you can have a list of foods for these budget meals which will add a very dressed-up appearance to the dinner.

For example, flaked fish—canned tuna, salmon or any inexpensive canned fish—is very delicious and pleasing in appearance when creamed, served in patty shells and garnished with paprika and parsley.

Carrot boats made of fresh boiled carrots, scooped out and filled with canned spinach, and boasting a potato chip for a sail, add a jaunty nautical appearance to your dinner—and a wealth of vitamins.

Keep a Scrap Book
Keep a scrap book for bright ideas on budget foods. It's lots of fun and an endless saving in time when you are trying to con-jure up one of these meals in a hurry. Cut out pictures and recipes of foods that make your mouth water. Paste them in, and when you discover exactly how much they cost to serve, jot down the cost beside the recipe or picture. If one of your neighbors is a scrap-book fan, also, you will find it helpful to exchange your bright ideas.

Clip this menu, and add it to your Dollar Dinner Scrap Book:

Meat Loaf With Tomatoes 32¢
Creamed Potatoes 12¢
Radishes 5¢
Bread and Butter 8¢
Brandied Apricots with Lady Fingers 38¢
Iced Tea With Lemon 5¢

Meat Loaf with Tomatoes: Add one small finely chopped onion, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon sage and one-half cup dry bread crumbs to one pound chopped beef. Add one beaten egg. Mix well together and pile in a rounded mound in the center of a flat baking dish. Pour over one cup canned tomatoes and bake in a hot, 400 degree, oven for about forty-five minutes, basting occasionally with the tomatoes. Serves four.

Brandied Apricots with Lady Fingers: Chill the contents of a No. 2 1/2 can apricots well. Place four halves in each glass serving dish, pour over some syrup and add one tablespoon brandy to each. Let chill half an hour longer. Serve two lady fingers with each. Serves four.

Home Ec. Classes Show Big Increase

Enrollment Grows From 32 Last Year to 64—Third Year
Course Is Added

Sixty-four girls are now preparing themselves for future housewives by learning to cook, sew and can. Because of the limited facilities and space last year only 32 girls were allowed to take home economics courses.

An additional class of third year work has been given this year and 14 girls have enrolled. This class is making a study of furnishings and interior decorations with the purpose of selecting equipment for the home economics cottage.

The cottage is planned along the lines of a model home. There are six rooms, including the bath. The living room and dining room are combined. Adjoining the living room on one side is the sewing laboratory and on the opposite side is the cooking laboratory. The bedroom is of average size. All rooms are accessible from the entrance hall.

After it is completed the cottage will be dedicated to the future home makers, with a special program being arranged at this time. Plans are being made to have as special guests Miss Esther Sorensen, district supervisor of home making education and Miss Lillian Peek, state supervisor of home making education. This building is to be one of the best in this section of the state, according to Mrs. Gordon Whitener, instructor.

"The home economics students wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the special consideration and efforts of those instrumental in making it possible for Wheeler to have this model cottage," said Mrs. Whitener.

Boys Scrimmage On Lighted Field

In order to get accustomed to playing under lights, the Mustangs had a scrimmage game on the new lighted gridiron Thursday of last week. The boys were divided into two teams, the White Shirts and the Yellow Shirts. No admission was charged the crowd of approximately 150 people. Robert Mayne refereed the game.

The starting line-up for the White Shirts was as follows: c. Tucker; lg. Connor; lt. Shipman; le. Page; rg. Passons; rt. Clifford Tillman; re. Maxwell; qb. Weeks; hb. Pendleton; hb. Norman; fb. Ford.

The starting line-up for the Yellow Shirts was as follows: c. Deering; lg. Sherwood; lt. Newkirk; le. Whitener; rg. Sims; rt. Bob Tillman; re. Alton Weeks; qb. Pace; hb. Cain; hb. Tate; fb. Young.

The score was 6 to 0 in favor of the White Shirts. The count was made in the last play of the first half, when W. J. Ford caught a pass from a rebound. The extra point was not gained.

PEP SQUAD WILL DRESS IN COWGIRL COSTUMES

Pep Squad girls are to dress as cowgirls this year to carry out the cowboy motif in connection with the Mustang football squad.

The suits will consist of black-Indian-head slacks with gold buttons, black cowboy hats and gold rayon shirts.

The $15.65 received from sponsoring the show, "Girl of the Limberlost," on Aug. 26-27 will partially pay for these costumes.

There are approximately 30 girls in the Pep Squad. They will do stunts at the different games played here.

"The girls are also planning to attend out of town games," stated Miss Frances Clark, sponsor. Geraldine Lewis, Lavell Jaco and Martha Alice Wiley are Pep Squad leaders.

P.-T. A. Sponsors Faculty Reception

The Parent-Teachers association sponsored a reception for the teachers last Friday night in what used to be the high school auditorium. Mrs. E. W. Carter, president, addressed those present concerning the program for the coming year.

Mrs. W. I. Joss introduced Mrs. Carter and the Rev. Taft Holloway, who sang "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Old Faithful." Rev. Holloway was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. O. McCrohan.

Misses Annie Mae Green, Helen Green and Anna Mae Puett presided at the punch bowl.

The teachers present were: Miss Lois Kirby, Miss Frances Clark, Miss Ruth Ewing, Miss Winona Adams, Robert Mayne, Principal C. B. Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gilmore, Mrs. C. J. Meek, Mrs. Gordon Whitener, Mrs. C. C. Crowder, Mrs. Lloyd Davidson, Mrs. Allen Smith, Mrs. John Hood, Miss Rose Bowden, Coach Bob Clark, Mrs. G. O. McCrohan and Mrs. Gordon Phillips. The only teacher not present was Miss Bernie Addison.

The ushers were Orveta Puett, Irene Hunt, Jonnie Lewis, Ferrol Ficke, Willie Dee Lawrence and Martha Alice Wiley.

FOURTH BUS FOR SCHOOL PURCHASED BY TRUSTEES

In order to accommodate more students, the board of trustees purchased, Friday, another International bus similar to the three previously bought.

The body is 14 feet and of steel construction. The imitation leather seats all face the front.

T. Newkirk, local truck driver, will drive this bus which will accommodate pupils in the outskirts of Wheeler district. Students must live as far as two miles from school before they will be allowed to ride on the bus. It is expected to arrive Monday, week.

Elizabeth Joss and Helen Gilmore visited school Tuesday afternoon.

Betty Finsterwald and Annie Mae Green visited school Monday afternoon.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN CLASS ROOM LOCATIONS

Many changes have been made in location of class rooms this year. The grammar grades are meeting in three buildings.

The first, second and third grades occupy the grammar school building, with each grade divided into two sections. The fourth grade is in the Legion hall and the fifth, sixth and seventh grades are in the high school building.

The high school students are having difficulty in finding their classrooms, as only two classes are meeting in the rooms that they occupied last term. The home economics classes have been meeting in the science laboratory, but they expect to use the home economics cottage as soon as it is completed.

Progress Made On Building Projects

Work has been progressing rapidly on the various school building projects, some of which are completed. Officials expect the remaining improvements to be finished by late fall.

In preparation for the football season a lighted field has been added to the school equipment. The field is enclosed by a fence, contributed by the business men of Wheeler. After the fence had been paid for by subscription, enough money was left to purchase lumber for bleachers. The grandstand when completed will seat approximately 400 people.

According to Mrs. Gordon Whitener, home economics instructor, the sewing room of the home ec. cottage will be ready for occupation by the end of the week. The kitchen of the cottage will be complete when the furnishings have been installed.

C. C. Robison, contractor for the gymnasium, believes the building will be finished by November.

Seniors Elect Two New Class Officers

Members of the senior class elected two new officers Wednesday at 12 o'clock. Laney Mae Tillman was chosen vice president and Dorothy Burgess, secretary-treasurer. Lowery Deering is class president and Miss Bernie Addison is sponsor. Organization will be completed some time soon.

Journalism Class Grows

Because of a larger number of students enrolled in the journalism class, the Corral staff hopes to publish a more interesting and a better prepared paper this year.

Election of editors and their assistants will not take place until after four or five weeks work. The 13 students now enrolled are: Evelyn Balch, Rutha Mae Conner, Beatrice Miller, Marvin Montgomery, James Passons, Orveta Puett, Helen Sanders, Estelle Scott, Laney Mae Tillman, Dawn Weatherly, Martha Alice Wiley, Capitola Wilson and Florene Wright.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand to witness the opening game. Grandstands have been erected and will seat approximately 400 people.

"Miami is going to be plenty tough," states Coach Bob Clark, after seeing the Warriors scrimmage Le-fors Tuesday night, "but I believe we can beat them."

The football boys will be out to win in order to avenge the 6 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Warriors last year. Both teams average 165 pounds and are considered evenly matched.

The Mustangs' starting lineup will see:

THE CORRAL

WHY HOME ECONOMICS III?

An opportunity to develop the cultural and homemaking side of the future wives of America, experience in interior decoration and the more intricate phases of sewing; all of these are included in the study of home economics III.

It has often been said that a woman can have no greater profession in life than that of making a home. Would she not, after having taken the advanced home ec. course, be better prepared to meet the problems that arise in her household?

The third year class offers a preparatory training for would-be interior decorators. Also afternoon or evening gowns will be made.

Home economics is designed to develop refined and competent housekeepers that will be a valuable asset to the community. Girls enrolled for the home making part of the curriculum this year are especially fortunate. They will assist in planning decorations and furnishings for the new cottage. Then they will learn by experience how to manage a model house.

The advantages of having a home economics III in Wheeler high school should be realized and appreciated to the fullest extent.—B. M. A.

SIGNPOSTS OF PROGRESS

The Wheeler school students of 1935-36 have many advantages not enjoyed by students of other years. In fact the enrollment for this year is more than 70 above that of the preceding session.

Three new school buses have been obtained for the purpose of bringing the students from Porter Flat, Sweetwater, Locust Grove and Pleasant Hill here to school. Another bus has been ordered to accommodate pupils who find it uncomfortable standing or trying to sit in the same seat with someone else.

The faculty has also increased. Last year there were only 13 teachers and this year there are 21. Among the new subjects now offered are public school music, home economics III, taught in the new cottage now under construction, and physical education for boys.

The P.-T. A. has added several new members to its roll and has planned a larger program for the year.

Last year Wheeler was one of the few schools of its size in the Panhandle not possessing a gymnasium. The building for physical education now under construction is planned to be the largest in the county.

The most popular high school improvement (right now anyway) seems to be the lighted football field. The Mustangs have something to be proud of now and the citizens of the Wheeler school district expect a victorious year for them.

To the school board and voters who put over the bond issue for improvements, much praise and credit is due. With an increase in enrollment, faculty, courses, Parent-Teacher association membership and building and transportation accommodation, the Wheeler school should now be launching the most successful year of its history.—M. A. W.

Piano to Be Bought for Gym by P.-T. A

Purchase of a piano to go in the new gymnasium was assured at the first meeting of the Parent-Teacher association, held at 3:15, Tuesday afternoon in the music room of the high school building. Three other recommendations of the executive committee passed upon by the association were holding an all-day institute here on Sept. 28, buying medals for the first grade through the high school for literary activities, and meeting on the first Tuesday of each month.

Mrs. G. O. McCrohan had charge of the program, which followed the business meeting. Robert Mayne sang two vocal numbers, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Macushla." Mrs. J. M. Porter described her early school days when students were graded according to how far they could spell in the blue back speller and Miss Rose Bowden told of present day methods of dealing with beginners.

"The Teacher I Liked Least" was humorously discussed by the Rev. Taft Holloway. Supt. J. L. Gilmore told qualifications of "The Teacher I Liked Most." After a poem on school teachers read by Mrs. W. I. Joss, the group adjourned.

Mrs. E. W. Carter is president of the Parent-Teachers for this year; Mrs. Lloyd Davidson, secretary; Mrs. J. M. Porter, parliamentarian, and Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, treasurer. Other members of the executive committee are the following chairmen: Program, Mrs. G. O. McCrohan; publicity, Miss Ruth Ewing; membership, Mrs. R. E. Brazil; hospitality, Mrs. Joss; publications, Mrs. Lee Guthrie. Mr. Gilmore is also a member.

B. Turner is working at the R. D. Underwood Produce, and Fay Ficke is employed at the Title Abstract office.

Those staying at home are: Charicle Gilman, Zinna Mae Holley, Florene Guynes, Wilton Callan, Rutha Belle Farris and Travis Jones. Nettie Vee Jamison, who was married to Derwood Lewis during the summer, is living at 500 Northwest Street, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Sport Slants

By a Mustang

Well! Well! It has started again. I don't mean the mumps or the small pox; I mean football. Dear old football, my favorite game.

Football has hit Wheeler full in the face this year. Everybody is all excited and as the old country boys say, "all hoped up" over the coming season. And why shouldn't they be, with a new lighted football field with regular old genuine grass growing on it? Then there is a seven-foot fence running around the whole dang thing. It surely does look "up town," too.

Now, about the Pep Squad. Some of the girls want to be Bell Hops while the rest want to be cowgirls. If you want my opinion I wouldn't want any Hell Hops—(pardon me) Bell Hops around where there were only Mustangs. Now I am asking you, is that justice? Bell Hops yelling for Mustangs! I choose cowgirls and I would give them gum so they could make plenty of noise.

I have had the privilege of watching the Mustangs work out several times and they look plenty good to me. Those two boys from Briscoe, Lewis Cain and Swede Pace are surely fast. Both can run like greyhounds and they tackle hard. And, too, there is that Magic City boy, Ray Norman by name. He is another good backfield man that is new around these parts. There are two big boys in the line that are also new to most people in Wheeler. Sims and Clark, and they are both excellent.

Come on, Mustangs, wallop the Warriors!

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS VISIT IN VARIOUS PLACES

Among the various high school students who took vacations during the summer are Jack Tate, Bonnie Adams, H. E., jr., and Nerine Young, Aline Buchanan, Estelle Scott, Lavell Jaco, W. J. Ford, Lowery Deering, James Passons, Herbert White-ner, Jonnie Lewis, Irene Hunt, Adell Hampton, Scotty Risner, Caroline McBee, O. D. Connor, Ray Norman and Martha Jane Shipman.

Jack visited relatives in Taloga and Muskogee, Okla. Bonnie accompanied her parents and little brother on a tour to Milwaukee and Chicago, where they visited W. W. Adams' brother and sister. H. E., jr., and Nerine made a two weeks auto tour to McKinney and Dallas to see relatives.

Aline visited her grandmother in Gateville during the summer. Estelle spent a month with her sister, Miss Louise Scott in Dallas. Lavell Jaco stayed for several weeks in Amarillo visiting various people. W. J. and Lowery spent several weeks in Lyman, Wyo., working and visiting Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ford. Miss Ann Ford who has been attending school in New York City spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ford.

James Passons and Herbert White-ner went to College Station and Galveston. Jonnie Lewis visited in Oklahoma City, and Clinton, Okla., for several weeks. Irene Hunt visited in Canyon, Pampa and Amarillo. Adell Hampton made a trip to Nashville, Tenn.

Scotty Risner visited his grand-made a tour of the south, west and east parts of Texas. Caroline McBee was in Wichita Falls, Oklahoma City and Cater, Tex.

Ray Norman traveled in parts of Texas and San Antonio. Jackie St. Clair visited relatives in McKinney and Fort Worth. Martha Jane Shipman visited friends in San Angelo, and Eden, Tex.

CAUGHT IN THE LASSO'S NOOSE

Wonder why the girls like to visit Aline since school has started. Could it be the new boarders?

Bob Tillman seems to like red haired freshman girls.

Capitola should make a good journalist. She was so intent on getting her first story Monday that she missed the school bus and had to ride home with the football boys.

Humor

"The modern girls says opportunity doesn't always knock on the door. He sometimes honks his horn." (Contributed by Rutha Mae Conner).

Mr. Mayne: "Why was Solomon the wisest man in the world?"

Wallace: "Because he had so many wives to advise him."

Miss Adams: "Albert, where was the elephant found?"

Albert: "The elephant, teacher," he said, "is such a large animal it is scarcely ever lost."

Girl: "Every time I look at you I think of a great man."

Boy friend: "You flatter me. Who is it?"

Girl: "Darwin."

CRITICISM

By MARIE WATERS

Criticism is a very good old English word. In its pure significance it implies careful weighing and balancing of all facts; fine, exact and authoritative judgment. However, by usage, or rather mis-usage, the word has become debased. Today its implications are not to take the measure, exactly, of something or someone, but rather to point out all the defects—and a good many people keep pretty busy telling what is wrong with everything and everyone else.

The unfortunate thing is that criticism is likely to bounce back and hit the one who hurls it. Blinded by its present effects the severe critic magnifies evil and belittles good until before long he has lost the ability to be satisfied or content with anything.

Criticism begins in early life. When a child decides she wants a different colored ribbon for her hair, or a brighter wagon, then it is beginning to compare its toys, manners and way of living with those of other children. A sign of intelligence, which if properly handled, may be developed into discrimination and tolerance. All too often it grows into what some women call "frankness" when she tells another why she shouldn't fix her hair like she does, and how to hold her husband, when she's just got her second divorce.

Affection tends to blind us to faults, particularly noticeable between mother and children, when often times a just criticism is necessary. Likewise hatred, jealousy and envy blind us to the good in others.

A loyalty, or love, that separates the fault from the one who faulted in such a way that the fault will be checked, is almost super-human. But we've been asking for perfection—of course we expect to find perfection blossoming in our neighbor's garden, our friends, our employers, our relatives—oh surely we haven't seen about ourselves! If we, as individuals, succeed in bringing forth the tiniest bud of perfection we must plant it in our own garden. And we'll be more likely to find it springing into blossoms.

If we'll stop doing so much destructive criticism and put out a little more constructive criticism, life's ugly, tawdry and dull things will be beautiful and bright.

To criticize where it's needed most—let's look into the mirror!

Harold Bell Wright's When a Man's a Man

George O'Brien, the cowboy supreme who looks the part, acts the part, and lives the part of the Honorable Patches in Harold Bell Wright's famous novel, "When a Man's a Man" will be on the screen at the Rogue theatre, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 13-14. If you have read this book you will not be difficult to be induced to come out and see the picture; to see George live the part of that famous character, the Honorable Patches. The story is one of the best read and most loved novels from the hand of that master writer, and you are assured a very pleasant evening's entertainment. Also a two reel comedy, "Songs of the College," and Tarzan in the next to the last chapter will be shown.

Geo. White's Scandals of 1935

As soon as you have read the title of the above picture you are likely to say that you have seen that show, and that it was a good one. But you had better give it a second thought, because you must recall that a picture by this name was made in 1933, and also remember that this is the 1935 story. We can truthfully state that the 1935 Scandals is a better show than the 1933 story, and as such we sell it to the public on its own merits. Also, one of the best two reel comedies of the year, "She's My Lilly, I'm Her Willie."

SHE

The producer of King Kong brings to the screen another of his brain children in the creation of "SHE." It is taken from the story by H. Rider Haggard and revolves around the life of a mysterious SHE, a woman who lived to be 500 years old, a woman who was wicked and beautiful every one of the 500 years, a woman who bathed daily in a flame to keep her youth renewed, a woman who will chill your imagination as did the great King Kong. The picture is epic in proportion, is gigantic in spectacle, is colossal in grandeur, is absurd in realism, is fantastic even in imagination, is preposterous to the human mind, but is infallible when it comes to the point of whether you will see it or miss it. Coming to the Rogue, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 20-21.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bayless, Mr. and Mrs. Cleona Bayless and son, Bobby of Murchison, and Mrs. Geo. Barnett of Longview, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mitchell and

She

With Helen Gahagan, Randolph Scott, Helen Mack, Nigel Bruce.

THERE was a footstep at the door. SHE turned quickly and saw Tanya standing there.

"So you came," SHE demanded. "What gives you so much courage?"

"I couldn't sleep. I had to know how he is."

"He will wake from this dreaming sleep," SHE answered. "There is no need to fear. Look—and then leave."

Tanya walked up to the couch and looked at Leo.

"And if he loved you?" she asked.

"Why—we'd just live—and love—and die. Like everybody else."

"That inevitable end—and yet you hope. And for what—defeat? But I am not conquered. And with me he shall have victory and power and love forever. You have had your day with him. Go—before he wakes. He is not for you."

"Why are you afraid of me?" Tanya asked quietly.

"I fear nothing," SHE retorted. "What you see now is the shadow of an old fear. Once, long ago, a woman like you destroyed my happiness. The same thing will not happen twice."

Two huge guards entered the room and dragged Tanya out.

On the couch Leo stirred and opened his eyes, looked at SHE in wonder.

"I dreamed of a man," Leo said, "dead for centuries—and that you called me by his name."

"Dreams are only memories in the endless flow of time," SHE said, her face lighting up with hope.

"Who are you?" Leo asked in amazement.

SHE smiled enigmatically at him. He rose from the couch and stood near her. SHE walked up a short flight of steps to a great pool of clear water. "You do not remember?" SHE asked slowly.

"How can I remember things I've never seen?"

"Think back. This place—the same—and my voice uttering words you vowed to remember through endless time. Think!"

Leo moved closer to SHE, as if caught by some strange spell.

"Your voice," he said. "You—were the same."

"Look!" SHE ordered.

The water of the pool moved. A vapor arose off of it, and when the vapor disappeared Leo saw in the depths of the water a strange picture of a man dressed in the costume of the fifteenth century standing with a woman, young and beautiful.

"That one moment out of all the centuries," SHE said. "The one instant when I thought myself beloved."

"Who was the man?" Leo asked with a trembling voice.

"You do not know?"

"It can't be. I must be dreaming."

"You are awakening! You will remember. Come!"

SHE got up and walked to an ancient stairway. Leo followed, stumbling like a man in a daze.

AND as this was taking place in the forbidden room, Tanya was talking with Billali, the old man, in another room of the palace.

"Strange doors!" Billali growled, "open at once for this Englishman where I, who have served faithfully all my life, must beg for entrance." He looked at Tanya, who had slumped limply in a chair.

"Yet my hurt," Billali continued, "is small compared to yours. At the first sight of that other so beautiful, he forgot you. You mean nothing to him now."

"I never did," Tanya replied weakly.

"But you might have," Billali shot back. "We two, who hate alike, may devise a plan to satisfy us both."

"What do you mean?" Tanya demanded.

"I mean to rid myself of this man who is a danger to my power," Billali retorted. "And you, would be happy with him in the arms of another?"

"You think I would hurt him?"

"That is the law of love."

"Love?"

"The desire to possess," Billali said eagerly, "and if rejected—the desire to destroy. We must find a way—a secret way. You agree, my lady."

Tanya looked at him helplessly and answered: "On one condition. You'll do nothing without me."

"Of course," Billali agreed.

*****

UP in the forbidden room, Leo had followed SHE up the narrow stairs, the stones of which has been worn thin by the sandalled tread of ages.

"Do you wonder whose feet have worn away these stone steps," SHE asked. "Once this stair was new and level, but for generations I have passed this way each day." They got to the top of the stairs and walked into a darkened room. Leo gasped in amazement—and wonder—at what he saw. On a stone catafalque lay a body, its face identical in likeness to Leo.

"I see myself," Leo gasped.

"Swept by the tides of time back to my arms," SHE exclaimed.

"You think," Leo questioned slowly, "that centuries ago you were . . ."

"No, no! I am SHE whose life and youth endure. All through the years I have mourned here, where his body lay. Ages ago you came, John Vincey. But not alone. You rejected me. In my jealousy I killed you."

"But I am not John Vincey," Leo exclaimed.

"Take away my eyes, and still my ears would know the sound of your unforgotten voice."

"If I could only remember!" Leo cried.

"The woman that held your heart . . ."

"I have forgotten everything—but gratitude for my enduring youth. Then you shall come to the place of the flame with me. You alone shall share the secret."

How Wet was Texas, and Where? How Dry was the Panhandle? What to Do?

Do Our Daily Newspapers Give Us the News? Or Have They Been Bought Off by the Promise of Whiskey Advertisers to Such an Extent That It Will Be Necessary for the Dry Citizens of the State to Sponsor Newspapers to Get the Facts?

We have waited from day to day, expecting the Panhandle daily papers to make a summary of the election returns and give us the information asked for in the above heading. The people who pay for our newspapers and have made a fight for a sober and decent community in which to make their homes and rear their families, have a right to this information.

PANHANDLE COUNTIES FROM HARDEMAN NORTH INCLUSIVE. Table with columns: County, Wet, Dry, County, Wet, Dry. Lists counties from Oldham to Wheeler with their respective wet and dry vote counts.

Total votes cast, 31,153; Wet votes, 12,386; Dry votes, 18,767. Dry majority 6,381. Only six wet counties out of 34 counties; Six wet; 28 dry. Oldham county went wet by only 14 votes, 8 off and on would have made it dry.

Now we ask you frankly, can our daily newspapers, which ran full page advertisements for the hotels and whiskey people, say they truly represent the Panhandle of Texas? Should we as citizens support them with our advertising and subscriptions? Think it over; a newspaper lives off its advertisers, but it has to have the circulation to get the advertising.

From the above table, we see that our north Texas cities are not very wet. Texas north of Austin is dry; the county in which Waco is located went wet by less than 1,000 votes. Wichita county went wet by only 285 votes, yet Wilbarger county along side of it, went dry by 402 votes.

WHAT TO DO? Only 192,000 dries in Texas voted against repeal of the national amendment, yet 251,000 turn out to vote against repeal of our state amendment. When this issue is brought home to us as a county proposition, we will find many who will turn out and vote dry.

Our small town weekly papers who actually have the interest of the communities at heart have usually used their influence in trying to raise the morals of their communities. Few of our dailies can point with any degree of pride to their past records among us as a moral influence.
