given by Dana F. Smith of Pasadena, Calif., a trustee of the fund, at Nixon's instigation, along with a list of the contributors.

Nixon's post-midnight announcement came just six hours before his special train was to have left for Seattle, with speech-making whistle stops along the way.

The California senator looked calm and more relaxed than he has in the hectic few days since the story of political expenses broke and slowly developed into a major campaign issue.

He has received a generally favorable reaction in speeches since then defending the donations by friends who backed his 1950 senatorial campaign.

There was some heckling in several places on the money issue, but this was outweighed by the heavy applause for his stand. His theme:

"The fund was never a secret. It was used to pay extra expenses of his Senate office — such as travel for political speeches, mailing and clerical help. He felt these were costs which should not be charged to the government.

In a Portland speech which drew a standing ovation Saturday night, the vice presidential nominee said it was a lie that he took the money for his personal use and he denied that it was illegal and unethical as charged.

"If that were true, let me say first of all that I should never have accepted the nomination for the vice presidency of the United States; and if it were true I would get off the ticket right away. But it is not true and I think you should know the facts.

"You will find that not one cent of the $18,000 or anything else from a constituent went into my personal pocket. It never has and it never will in the future."

MARKETS

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The stock market swung ahead today with railroads and radio-telegraph sectors showing the most part.

Throughout the list, gains ran from fractions to between 1/8 and 1/4. The bottom end of the range by far the most crowded.

The start of trading was relatively slow but the pace picked up rapidly and was marked by the movement of several large blocks.

In the railroad section, among the best performers were Santa Fe, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Nickel Plate.

The radio-telegraph group featured Zantox, Radio Corp., Admiral Corp. and Philco on the upside.

Analysis for several days have been stressing the importance of the electronic industry as a growth situation—meaning it has long-term future of expansion. On Friday, six out of the ten most active issues were in that group.

Also advancing were steels, metals, with the many chemicals, and some non-ferrous metals. Other major divisions were mixed at the worst.

Among higher stocks were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, United Gas Corp., Domestrol, Dow Chemical, Douglas Aircraft, and General Electric.

The market was not without sagging areas. Lower were Standard Oil (N.J.), Alcoa Chemical, American Tobacco, Studebaker, and United Aircraft.

Conservatives Score Gains In Swedish Voting

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Premier Tage Erlander's Socialist-Agrarian coalition government retained control of Sweden's lower parliamentary house today but opposition forces took six seats from the government bloc.

The Communists also got a setback in yesterday's parliamentary elections, losing three of their eight seats. Their voting strength dwindled 30 or so per cent in their traditional strongholds in North Sweden, where Sweden's border is closest to Russia, and up to 50 per cent in the central and southern section of the country.

The government won 136 of the 230 lower house seats on the basis of preliminary returns. Results by parties, including numerical votes and seats gained or lost:

Social Democrats 1,701,925 3 lost
Agrarians 402,995 3 lost
Liberals 894,396 2 gained
Conservatives 502,157 7 gained
Communists 185,182 3 lost

Final returns awaited the counting of some 200,000 mail ballots, but these were not expected to change the preliminary results materially.

The government's Liberal and Conservative opponents had hit hard at the economic difficulties of Sweden's common man, assailing particularly the regime's taxation and housing policies.

Erlander declared after the election results were announced that there would be no change in Sweden's foreign policy of armed neutrality. The Premier said that the Socialist-Agrarian coalition would continue in office and that the election result was "no vote of censure of the government, but he conceded that the results mean an "undisputable gain" for the opposition.

The vote represented a strong comeback by the Conservatives, who had lost 16 seats in 1948.

Earlier in the day, he attended church services at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection in New York.

He then lunched with Francis Cardinal Spellman and saw the museum, across the street from the Roman Catholic chancery, afterward.

A reporter asked whether Stevenson and Spellman discussed the governor's statement, last week, about possibility of an ambassador to the Vatican, if he is elected.

Stevenson, at a news conference said he did not believe he would make such a proposal on the ground that it is "highly incompatible" with feelings in the United States about the separation of church and state. He said, at the time, however, that he was aware of the advantage of having a special representative at the Vatican, because of its value as a collection point of information.

The governor said the subject did not come up yesterday while he was with Spellman.

Stevenson came to New York Saturday night after a speech in Richmond, Va., where he was given a roaring ovation by a non-segregated crowd of 4,500 which jammed the Richmond Mosque Auditorium.

He said, there, that he fully supports the Democratic platform in its stand on federal legislation for a fair employment practices commission. He said he would not speak one way in the South and another way elsewhere in the country on that issue.

James Hagerty, press secretary for the Republican presidential nominee, announced here yesterday that the general will make the 10-day trip by train, plane and automobile through 12 states.

Wisconsin, home state of Sen. Joseph P. McCarthy, whose Communists-in-government charges have aroused political controversy, is on the schedule.

The schedule announced by Hagerty lists Michigan, Oct. 1; Illinois, Oct. 2; Wisconsin, Oct. 3; Minnesota and North Dakota, Oct. 4; and travel to the Pacific Coast, Oct. 5.

He listed Washington State, Oct. 6, Oregon, Oct. 7; Northern California, Oct. 8; Central and Southern California and Nevada (by plane), Oct. 9; Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, Oct. 10.

The list of cities to be visited will be announced later.

Ulcer Is Left Alone Today In New Operation

By ALTON L. BLAKESEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—A new operation for ulcers doesn't touch your ulcer. The ulcer is left alone, to cure itself.

The operation removes 75 per cent of the stomach.

It takes away most of the upper part of the stomach, which is the part that produces the acid that causes ulcers. With the cause gone, the ulcer gets well by itself and new ulcers apparently will not get started.

The operation saves the bottom part of the stomach, with its valve that keeps food from being emptied out of the stomach too soon. The nerve regulating this valve also is saved.

Quick-emptying of the stomach can cause weakness, loss of weight, heart palpitations and other troubles. This kind of distress often follows ulcer surgery that removes all of the stomach, or the bottom part with its valve.

The new technique was described today to the opening of the American College of Surgeons' Clinical Congress by Drs. William D. Kelley, Snorri Halgrimsson, Richard Egdahl and Owen H. Wangenstein, of the University of Minnesota Medical School.

It works well in animals, so well that they don't get new ulcers even when given daily injections of histamine which ordinarily do cause ulcers in dogs and cats.

Forty-five humans have had the new ulcer operation and seem to be doing well, but it is still too early to tell how good the operation is, the doctors said.

The new operation is done only for ulcers of the duodenum, the first part of the intestine leading from the stomach. About eight out of nine peptic ulcers occur in the duodenum.

The technique was designed to save the stomach valve and its nerve to cure ulcers without letting food go through the stomach too fast.

Houston Plans To Fete Lovett Tuesday Night

HOUSTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, 57-year-old native of Huntsville and a Wall Street banker before he was named to the cabinet, will arrive here at 5:30 p.m. today by private plane from Washington.

He will be accompanied by a staff of high-ranking aides and will be met at the municipal airport by a delegation headed by Jesse H. Jones, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, and business and industrial leaders of the area.

The official party will spend the night here before going on to Huntsville tomorrow morning.

A general Walker County holiday has been called for the occasion. The county seat is to be decorated with flags and bunting and military units will move in on the city.

Included will be a battery which is to greet the defense chief with a 19-gun salute from the college campus upon his arrival.

Heading the delegation of state dignitaries to attend will be Gov. Allan Shivers. The governor is scheduled to dedicate the new half-million-dollar graphic arts building on the Sam Houston campus immediately after Lovett receives his degree.

Tomorrow night will be Houston's turn to honor Lovett. He is to be guest at a big banquet and will be introduced by Jesse H. Jones before delivering an address.

40 Catholics Face Bulgarian Trial On Spy Charges

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio today said 40 Bulgarian Catholics, including 28 priests, will be tried in Sofia soon on charges of treason and spying for France and the Vatican.

As members of an organization engaged in "criminal hostile activity," it was charged, the Catholics tried "to weaken and overthrow the system of the people's democracy in Bulgaria by means of a military coup d'etat, terrorist activities and foreign military intervention."

The indictment, as broadcast by the Soviet radio, accused the church group of working "in close contact with representatives of French intelligence and with the Bulgarians" and receiving "generous subsidies" from both.

When the 40 jailed Catholics go before the Sofia District People's Court, they will face charges also of "setting up armed groups on Bulgarian territory, collecting and conveying to foreign intelligence constitution state secrets and using churches for hiding outlawed guilty of grave crimes."

Probers Ask Why Without Any Exams

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators said today they are asking the Internal Revenue Bureau to explain why most of the top jobs in a big reorganization are being filled without competitive civil service examinations.

The bureau has called for competitive tests — open to anyone who wants to apply — on only 25 of the 175 new positions to be filled in a shakeup approved by Congress after a rash of scandals in the bureau.

More than 80 per cent of the posts, paying from $9,600 to $13,800 a year, are being filled from within the service itself by direct appointment by Secretary of Treasury Snyder and Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap.

Jury Empaneling Hits Snag In Starr Co. Vote Checkup

RIO GRANDE CITY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Empaneling of a grand jury which will be presented charges of election irregularities in Starr County ran into a snag today on the order of names on the panel.

Judge Sam Reams had empaneled 2 men for the 16-man jury when it was disclosed that the order of names was not the same as that given by the grand jury commission.

A halt was called and a hearing began on what should be done.

Dist. Atty. Homer Dean of Alice said it was customary for the judge to take the list prepared by the commission and go down the line. The names on the list given the judge today by the clerk were in different order from the commission's.

Dean said last night he would prosecute "to the fullest extent of the law" anyone indicted by the jury on charges of election irregularities.

He said last night he would prosecute "to the fullest extent of the law" anyone indicted by the jury which was to convene at 10 a.m. in its fall session.

Meanwhile, Asst. Atty. Gen. Willis Gresham was due here about noon and said last night he would make a study of the record. Atty. Gen. Price Daniel assigned Gresham to the case after an affidavit was signed by two Starr County citizens charging irregularities in the July 26 primary.

The affidavit alleged fraud in races for district judge and district attorney of the 79th Judicial District and for state representative of the 79th District, composed of Starr, Brooks, Jim Wells, Duval and Jim Hogg counties.

SITE OF SERVICES IS TRANSFERRED

Evangelist Lester Roloff announced at noon that the rain had made it inadvisable to hold revival services in the tent at 16th and Nolan Streets tonight. Services will begin instead at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

ranges in Oklahoma and Arkansas. The cool weather and rain brought summer to a welcome end a few hours before it bows out officially at 8:24 p.m. Monday.

Agriculture and soil conservation experts have labeled it the hottest driest, most costly summer on record. Texans who don't qualify as experts settled for just calling it the most miserable they've seen.

Rain started early Monday in Nolan, Howard, Scurry, Fisher and Mitchell counties and kept falling slowly and steadily—the way the farmers like it.

Sweetwater ranchers figured thankfully that they had received two inches of rain, and more was bound to come. Snyder had over an inch and an inch and a half was measured unofficially in Fisher County.

An inch and a half of rain was reported at Seminole and up to an inch between Big Spring and Lamesa. Half an inch or better was reported west of Lamesa. Midland had a slow drizzle all morning, and thundershowers were predicted into Tuesday.

Lubbock in the South Plains, reported nearly an inch of rain. Light showers had been reported earlier at Fort Worth, Dalhart, Mineral Wells, Childress, and Wichita Falls. Showers fell on the coast, too, at Houston and Galveston.

Temperatures slid into the 50s across most of Northwest Texas late Sunday night and early Monday, and into the low 60s in much of North and East Texas.

The cool front blew into Sweetwater on a windstorm Sunday night. The temperature in that West Texas ranching center hovered between 55 and 60 degrees Monday.

Record Is Intact As Moisture Falls

Monday's rain maintained an unbroken record of moisture everywhere. Lester Roloff, evangelist, has pitched his tent.

"When we had special session of prayer for rain the other morning," he said, "I told the folks we would have rain before the meeting was over. I knew the Lord would really send a rain."

Roloff said that once at Corpus Christi a severe drought was broken during the progress of one of his tent meetings. Similarly, a tenacious drought was snuffed while a meeting was going on at San Antonio.

Highway Patrol Has Merry Chase And Little To Show

Jack Taylor and Amos Johnson, local highway patrolmen, had a merry chase early Sunday morning. And they have nothing to show for it except a parked automobile, a pistol and two cases of beer.

While patrolling the Lamesa Highway, they saw a car speeding down the road and started chasing it. The car turned off the highway on the Knott road.

The two highway patrolmen chased the car into a dead end road and they saw a man jump out and start running. They trailed him on foot to a farm house, where the farmer said a Negro had stopped and asked directions to the highway.

Returning to the car, they found a pistol and two cases of beer. Officers do not believe the car was stolen, as it was traced to a Lamesa man. They still do not know why the Negro fled.

No charges have been filed.

Burglar Fails To Take $20 In Cash Register
Burglars may have wanted only a drink when they broke into Cecil's Liquor Store, 419 East Third, Sunday night.

Although the cash register was opened, about $20 in cash was not molested. Proprietor said some liquor may have been taken.

Police said the building was entered through a side door which was forced.

Youth Is Injured In Car-Cycle Incident
Thomas E. Roberts, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Kuykendall, 307 E. 10th, suffered minor injuries in a car-motorcycle accident near his home Sunday.

He was given first aid treatment at Big Spring Hospital where he was taken in an Eberley ambulance.

Police said a car driven by Joseph J. Gasprek of 601 Abrams and a motorcycle ridden by Leon Byrd, 621 Ridgeless, were involved in the mishap.

Despite Advances Of Man, Polar Region Remains Same

By ELTON C. FAY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—What is the Arctic like, where the United States has chosen to build great air bases for its perimeter defenses?
 Now that the fiercest of his jet fighters and strategic bombers have come, it is a strange mixture of the old, unchanging far North and the new ways of man from a temperature zone of glaciers millions of years old and airless runways in which the concrete is barely hardened.
 It is a place where planes take off from the huge and busy air base at Thule to wing northward to the pole in a few hours flying time. And it is a place where just across a bay from the air base lives Odaq, the Eskimo who went with Peary to the north pole in 1909.
 Newsmen who visited Thule went to call on Odaq at his house in the little Eskimo village. He came out to greet them, a very old man, wearing white polar bear pants. On his shirt was the Danish government's decoration (equivalent to the U. S. Distinguished Service Medal) for being with the first man to reach the pole.
 While a jet plane warmed up to screaming crescendo across the bay, Odaq remembered some of the things about the famous first trip 43 years ago.
 Did he see much game while on the long trek from the Eskimo village of Etah, just north of Thule, to the pole? Through an interpreter he answered:
 "A little. Some seals."
 Then he placed his foot down in front of him, to show an imprint, and spoke.
 "Also polar bear tracks, but no polar bears."
 When did he see Rear Adm. Robert E. Peary last?
 Odaq couldn't put the answer in dates. He thought. He pointed to the north and spoke (the pole); to the northwest (Etah, where Peary left); to the south (where Peary went).
 The interview was over. Odaq shook hands gravely with his visitors. He turned and made his way back into the house where he lives alone. And the jet fighter whistled down the runway and into the air to cover, in the space of an hour, the miles it had taken Odaq weeks to trudge behind a dog sled so very long ago.
 And what did the airman in the jet plane see as he climbed above the aluminum buildings and great runways and radio towers of the military city in the Arctic?
 For a moment he must have sighted below from the Eskimo village with its sled dogs roaming among the sod houses and the skin hunting boats upturned on racks.
 Then he was out over the Arctic as Odaq had seen it with Peary, as it existed then, a thousand, ten thousand, a million years ago. The military buildings had made only a tiny dot of atomic age civilization, lost in the vastness.
 For a little way there may have been overcast and the land beneath was the cold white of snow and dull grey of rocks and mountains. But then followed sun and a brilliant blue Arctic sky and off to the side the coast of Greenland and the blinding white of the ice cap reaching to the horizon and beyond.
 Below were the canyon-like fjords in deep blue and purple shadow, penetrating to the edge of the ice cap, down under the wing, a bay where icebergs are spawning from the edge of a glacier to float, white and emerald green, on the grey Arctic water.
 Now a strait is underneath . . . open water for a little way . . . then floating ice like great plates and saucers . . . here the edge of the solid ice field, its surface laced with the black "leads" of open water where there are cracks or serrated by the wandering lines of the pressure ridges.
 It is fantastic, magnificent scenery. And it also is dangerous to the airman, this Arctic.
 The cliffs that gleam in reflection in the mirror ice as the sun shines on them are also there when sudden, fierce Arctic storms close down. The fiercer lives because he has radar to see for him in the murk, instruments to tell him his location, an engine to pull him up rapidly to safety above the peaks and glaciers.
 If the engine falters and quits or the home field is smothered by blinding fog or storm, he can't fly on a dozen or so miles to the next town's airport, like he does in the United States. His alternate field may be 600, 700, 800 miles away.
 He can try to reach it. If he can't he looks for a reasonably smooth place on the ice field or the ice cap to come down and land, wheels up, skidding along on the belly of the plane to a stop. How to have a winning TELEPHONE PERSONALITY
 by EMILY POST

We're often judged by the way we use telephone service. Good telephone technique and good telephone manners are important to a winning personality . . . and help you get the most from your telephone service.

One of my newspaper readers writes, "Nothing annoys me as much as hurrying to answer a ringing phone, only to find there is no one on the other end."

I think all of us feel that way. And there are two good rules to follow if we want to avoid this frustrating experience. When you make a call, allow the person you are calling at least a full minute to get to the phone. And when your own phone rings, answer as promptly as you can. In the long run, those two simple rules will save everyone's time and temper.

Many people ask me, "In a telephone conversation, who should end the call?"

Since a telephone call is like paying a friendly visit, the same good manners should apply. A host doesn't ask the guest to leave. In the case of a telephone call it is up to the caller—not the "host"—to end the conversation. Generally speaking, you are safe if you simply say what you called to say, then end your conversation politely.

An acquaintance asks, "Mrs. Post, won't you please say something about children who hang onto busy party lines by the hour?"

This is a touchy subject, for, of course, children are part of the family, and definitely have a right to share in the use of the telephone. But forgetful teenagers who hold endless conversations over the phone should be reminded that no calls can reach you while they are monopolizing the line.

ent to the U. S. Distinguished Service Medal) for being with the first man to reach the pole.
 While a jet plane warmed up to screaming crescendo across the bay, Odaq remembered some of the things about the famous first trip 43 years ago.
 Did he see much game while on the long trek from the Eskimo village of Etah, just north of Thule, to the pole? Through an interpreter he answered:
 "A little. Some seals."
 Then he placed his foot down in front of him, to show an imprint, and spoke.
 "Also polar bear tracks, but no polar bears."
 When did he see Rear Adm. Robert E. Peary last?
 Odaq couldn't put the answer in dates. He thought. He pointed to the north and spoke (the pole); to the northwest (Etah, where Peary left); to the south (where Peary went).
 The interview was over. Odaq shook hands gravely with his visitors. He turned and made his way back into the house where he lives alone. And the jet fighter whistled down the runway and into the air to cover, in the space of an hour, the miles it had taken Odaq weeks to trudge behind a dog sled so very long ago.
 And what did the airman in the jet plane see as he climbed above the aluminum buildings and great runways and radio towers of the military city in the Arctic?
 For a moment he must have sighted below from the Eskimo village with its sled dogs roaming among the sod houses and the skin hunting boats upturned on racks.
 Then he was out over the Arctic as Odaq had seen it with Peary, as it existed then, a thousand, ten thousand, a million years ago. The military buildings had made only a tiny dot of atomic age civilization, lost in the vastness.
 For a little way there may have been overcast and the land beneath was the cold white of snow and dull grey of rocks and mountains. But then followed sun and a brilliant blue Arctic sky and off to the side the coast of Greenland and the blinding white of the ice cap reaching to the horizon and beyond.
 Below were the canyon-like fjords in deep blue and purple shadow, penetrating to the edge of the ice cap, down under the wing, a bay where icebergs are spawning from the edge of a glacier to float, white and emerald green, on the grey Arctic water.
 Now a strait is underneath . . . open water for a little way . . . then floating ice like great plates and saucers . . . here the edge of the solid ice field, its surface laced with the black "leads" of open water where there are cracks or serrated by the wandering lines of the pressure ridges.
 It is fantastic, magnificent scenery. And it also is dangerous to the airman, this Arctic.
 The cliffs that gleam in reflection in the mirror ice as the sun shines on them are also there when sudden, fierce Arctic storms close down. The fiercer lives because he has radar to see for him in the murk, instruments to tell him his location, an engine to pull him up rapidly to safety above the peaks and glaciers.
 If the engine falters and quits or the home field is smothered by blinding fog or storm, he can't fly on a dozen or so miles to the next town's airport, like he does in the United States. His alternate field may be 600, 700, 800 miles away.
 He can try to reach it. If he can't he looks for a reasonably smooth place on the ice field or the ice cap to come down and land, wheels up, skidding along on the belly of the plane to a stop. He has the clothing, the emergency "survival equipment" to live until search planes find him and rescue comes. His chances now are good.

Ancient Autos Are Heading For Capitol
 STROUBSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Thirty ancient automobiles, led by a 1904 Oldsmobile that wheezes and sputters and rattles with the best of them, continue their journey to Washington today for the 50th anniversary of the American Automobile Association.
 The old-time cars, the youngest being a 1925 Willis Ste. Chair, chugged into this Pocono Mountain community yesterday from New York. On the road from here to Harrisburg, Pa., the drivers hope to join some 200 other antique autos—headed to the nation's capital from Boston; Springfield, Mass.; Hartford, Conn.; Pittsburgh and Cleveland.
 The tour is a revival of the early-century Glidden Tours promoted by the New England Industries Charles Glidden to convince horse-and-buggy drivers the auto was here to stay.

FBI Files Checked By Justice Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional investigators take a look at hitherto secret FBI files today to determine whether they warrant an expanded probe of the Justice Department that might lead to testimony from Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark.
 Representatives of a House judiciary subcommittee will get a series of documents which Clark, as attorney general, allegedly ordered the FBI to turn over to the Justice Department in 1947 and kept for two years.
 The documents concern the 1946 Kansas City vote fraud case on which the FBI conducted a preliminary investigation. The case has arisen several times in the subcommittee's investigation.
 Chairman Chief (D-Ky) and Rep. Keating of New York, the ranking Republican, said in a joint statement they would determine, after studying the documents, whether to switch to a full-scale probe of the department's part in the case.
 If so, Chief Counsel Robert Collier told newsmen he would call "all necessary witnesses." Presumably this would include an invitation for testimony from Clark.
 Meanwhile, the subcommittee will continue open hearings tomorrow with T. Lamar Caudle who was fired as assistant attorney general last November, continuing to describe various aspects of the department's operations.
 Caudle has testified that he ordered the preliminary FBI investigation in Kansas City, then recommended that it go further. He said hindsight has now convinced him he should have continued the probe.
 Rep. Bakewell (R-Mo.), a member of the committee, announced Friday FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had told him that Clark ordered the files sent to his office while Hoover was on vacation. The head G-man got them back in 1949 after Clark was appointed to the Supreme Court.
 Chief and Keating said they immediately asked for and received permission from Atty. Gen. McGranery to inspect the files, consisting largely of interoffice FBI memoranda and a summary of Clark's order.
 The Kansas City case arose from the 1946 Democratic primary in which Enos Axtell, with President Truman's backing, defeated Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo.). Axtell lost in the general election.
 Subcommittee officials said they could not tell, until studying the documents, whether there was anything unusual about Clark's order.

N. Y. Times Sees Close Race For The Presidency

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The New York Times said today that reports from its correspondents throughout the country "indicate a close contest for the presidency."
 The newspaper said its reports were received before "there was opportunity to get full reaction to the disclosure that Sen. Richard M. Nixon, Republican vice presidential candidate, had used an $18,235 trust fund, contributed by a group in California, to help pay his expenses as United States senator."
 The Times drew its conclusions in the first of a series of surveys on the progress made by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee.
 Regarding the Nixon incident, the Times said:
 "Such reaction as was received was distinctly unfavorable and regarded as likely to hurt the chance of election of both General Eisenhower and Senator Nixon, if the latter continued on the Republican ticket."
 The Times said the GOP had obtained "apparently good results in some sections" with use of the issues of "the mess in Washington" and "time for a change."
 And, it added, there are indications that the "Democratic slogans 'We never had it so good' and 'Don't let 'em take it away' have been effective among many voters."
 The Times also said:
 "The farm vote, which helped elect President Truman in 1948, seems at present to be undecided. There is no sign that labor is shifting from the Democratic candidates, who also seem likely to get a good majority of the Negro vote in northern states."
 "The Democratic revolt in the South seems to be formidable, but the number of electoral vote sites will bring General Eisenhower appears to be in doubt at present."

Congress Patronage Plums Are Good Ones

WASHINGTON (AP) The Republicans gain control of Congress in the November elections, there are going to be new faces outside the Senate and House doors as well as inside the chambers.
 Fact is, there'll be lots of new people all over Capitol Hill.
 The reason: patronage.
 Many of the jobs on the hill—doorman, pages, police—are patronage.
 And the party in power gets them.
 Whichever party has a majority in the House or Senate controls the patronage on that side.
 One Capitol veteran familiar with the system told a reporter:
 "If the Republicans gain a majority in the House, I look for at least a 75 per cent turnover. It won't be quite as drastic on the Senate side."
 Take the House:
 There are some pretty well-paying patronage jobs approaching $9,000 a year. The journal clerk, tally clerk and bill clerk get close to this. There are probably the juiciest patronage plums.
 The Capitol police draw $2,900. There are 73 on the House and 87 on the Senate side. They work around the clock in three shifts.
 The pages, in their white shirts and blue serge trousers get $2,700. Pretty good for youngsters.
 Patronage is doled out by a three-man committee, named by the speaker. Right now Rep. Francis Walter of Pennsylvania is chairman. The others are Reps. Brooks Hays of Arkansas and Harry Shepard of California.
 Each member of the majority party is entitled to patronage. But seniority counts heavily and some members have several positions at their disposal.
 Some prefer one of the better

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

News Coverage Of Candidates Means Digging Below Surfaces

WASHINGTON — Governor Stevenson complained recently about a one-party press and the fact that 75 per cent of the newspapers are against the Democrats.

but unquestionably influence was used.

When, over a period of years, a column has unearthed the extra-curricular activities of Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, the events which helped send John Maragon to jail, the income-tax finagling of Internal Revenue Official Dan Bollich, the Egyptian cotton leaks which led to the indictment of Clovis Walker, etc., naturally it accumulates into a big stockpile of political ammunition.

The general called personally on Charles Oliphant, who later resigned under fire as a result of income-tax exposes by this columnist and the King committee.

However, this is not only a reporter's job but it so happens that my score-sheet contains quite a few Republicans, such as the kickbacks that resulted in jail sentences for Congressmen Parnell Thomas of New Jersey and Walter Brehm of Ohio; also the lobbying of Sen. Owen Brewster which led to his defeat; the $10,000 Lustron fee of Senator McCarthy and the tax finagling of Senate Republican Leader Styles Bridges of New Hampshire.

Oliphant, who had rolled out the red carpet at the Treasury, took advantage of a tax loophole to give General Eisenhower a prompt ruling in the affirmative.

In fulfilling this reporter's obligation, however, I personally shall do my best to be fair to both sides, and do equal digging regarding both parties and candidates.

As a result, Gen. Omar Bradley, who wrote his memoirs last year, also made a lot of money. But he had to pay most of it to Uncle Sam in taxes.

The "Eisenhower amendment" to the 1950 tax law specifically provides that a person selling a book or other artistic work must be taxed the full rate, rather than the bargain, 25 per cent, capital-gains rate.

The influence used by Neal Roach was when he served as a paid employee of the Democratic National Committee in Washington and used that position to write a letter to the Veterans Administration to get it to change a ruling by which the Builders' Control Service could not charge a commission of 1-1/2 per cent for securing loans on housing projects.

There was nothing illegal about this.

Builders' Control Service functioned in connection with several big housing projects, one of them at Victorville, Calif. It secured loans for these projects, and paid out the money on behalf of the bank or owner to the contractor as the work progressed. Both the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration ruled that this commission could not be charged to the cost of the project.

We Can Lose Despite A Majority But We Can Also Score Victory

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

There is no doubt that many of the problems facing us today are odd ones. Where simple solutions seem possible, there is always something that makes these solutions either impossible or just plain complicated.

don't quite advocate throwing the bums out.

Consequently, we must explore complications and find out why they exist. Further study may also reveal the fact that complications actually prove of value in our efforts to attain a certain goal.

My answer must give the complicated side of things. In reality, though we lose by solidly outvoting Russia, I firmly believe we have scored a victory in a propaganda sense.

Thus, we come to the United Nations and its problem regarding the veto power in Security Council affairs.

Japan is one of the more vital areas in the world to Western powers as we ready our defenses against possible Russian attacks.

Last week Soviet Russia vetoed admission of Japan to the UN when the matter came before the 11-nation Security Council. Actually, Russia merely said "No," all by herself as 10 nations voted to admit Japan. In effect, however, this may vote constitutes a veto.

There is no doubt in the minds of strategists that to lose Japan would mean loss of a far wider area in the Pacific, perhaps including vital links in the Aleutian Islands and certainly the loss of important South-east Asia raw materials.

After the absurd stand by Jakob Malik, Russia's envoy to the UN, America's Delegate Warren Austin remarked that the only answer to such tactics was to scrap the veto power.

Recognizing that Japan sought admission, the fact that it was denied entrance to the UN by Russia means a considerable change of heart by many Japanese who were neutral in the East-West cold war. Furthermore, it more firmly aligns pro-western elements to our side.

It would be a hard thing to do for in so doing Russian reaction would most likely result in its departure from that world body. As much as we would like to see such a departure, the action might cause far more trouble than it is worth at the present time.

So, in essence, we have won a victory by Russian veto. It's a poor victory, but one which is vital in the long run.

Although the Soviet vote against the 10 other veto votes is silly, since Russia can win her way regardless, we are thus faced with the problem of a simple matter being complicated.

My whole point, then, is not to quick-judge an action. This is very true when it comes to the UN where many people are inclined to consider this body a failure. Soviet stubbornness in the UN is there for all the world to see, out in the open, and the UN, by keeping it the open and from behind closed doors, performs a vital service in our efforts to gain peace.

You may properly inquire as to why I

Steel Men Angry At John L. Lewis As Coal Price Boost Raises Steel Cost

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—This is the season of viewing with alarm—both in the political and business worlds.

Early marriages are viewed with alarm by store executives as threatening the women's clothing industry. The fashion market used to draw heavily on college and other young women who set styles and bought lots of clothes.

for the shoe trade. Not that men go barefoot more, but they aren't as style conscious.

Always remembering that such beef may be very well founded, and unquestionably is a real worry to those involved, let's look at some of the things that are worrying various sectors of business life.

Merchants also view with alarm the rising operating costs and the customer indifference which combine to pinch store profits.

TORONTO, Canada (AP)—Out-of-date love affairs are John V. Branting's stock-in-trade. The 34-year-old Swede makes a living removing unwanted tattoo marks.

Remove Unwanted Tattoo Markings

Nothing, he points out, can be more embarrassing than having the name of last year's girl friend—or boy friend—tattooed on your arm.

He thinks his biggest job was the tattooed lady of a circus in Australia. She had herself covered with markings to get the job, then lost it when the circus went bankrupt.

Then there was the Australian man who had him remove the names of his girl friends inked on his arm—25 of them.

With armies of these flying robots under their command, a general in a dugout near Memphis and a general in a bunker near Minsk could play rival games of destruction on their enemy cities. Push a button—Moscow crumbles. Push another button—where is Washington?

If this be a dream, it is the dream of grownup children today to be able to do just that. And step by quickening step there is a growing ability to make that dream come true.

Heroin and responsibility in war threaten to go the way of medieval chivalry. For no man can build a heart into a machine, and the battling robot—will it ever be unleashed—will pick their victims with the same conscience shown by a tornado.

The few missiles tested so far by the U. S. Navy in the Korean laboratory are already old-fashioned and interim weapons. They're one-piloted battle planes—drones—fitted with a television eye and electronic brains. Escorting pilot planes, hovering out of range of ground gunfire, directed the drones visually to their targets.

Their big advantage: they merely enabled the exorting fliers to bomb enemy positions more accurately without risking being hit by anti-aircraft fire themselves.

This advantage would be nullified, of course, in a real all-out air battle as the escorting planes would be under attack from enemy fighters.

America has better weapons—still secret—than those drones, and the drone-bombings in Korea can be regarded only as an experimental expedient designed to test equipment and cut down our pilot losses.

Weapons at present are in a transitional stage, a compromise between those used in the last war and those foreseeable in the not-too-distant future. The drone of today probably bears as much resemblance to the drone of tomorrow as a World War I observation balloon does to a B-36 bomber.

The pattern of what lies ahead probably was given by the Germans in their siege of Britain in 1944 and 1945 with buzz bombs and V-2 rockets launched from the European mainland.

Put a television eye, an electric brain, and an atom bomb in it and you have his push-button warfare—and this nightmare goal does not seem impossible to a scientific generation that appears able to invent everything except peace.

'Time For A Change' Is Cited As Best Reason For Voting For GOP

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 22—The best argument to get people to vote Republican this year, in the opinion of persons interviewed throughout the country, is that "it's time for a change."

And what's the best argument to get them to vote Democratic? "The country has never been so prosperous as under the present Democratic party—so why take a chance on the G.O.P.?"

Results of this survey are particularly interesting in view of a recent statement by Gov. Adlai Stevenson. The Democratic nominee said that the biggest obstacle confronting the Democratic party is the Republican argument that a change of administration is needed.

The No. 2 argument for voting for Eisenhower, voters say, is his own personal qualities as a leader and as a man.

By contrast, Stevenson's qualities are mentioned by only a comparatively few voters as a reason for voting Democratic. This is no doubt a reflection of the fact that Stevenson is still not well-known to the public as a personality.

Throughout the country voters of all parties were asked: "If you were trying to convince a friend or acquaintance of yours to vote Republican this November, what do you think would be the BEST argument for you to use?"

The same question was also asked about voting Democratic.

Here are the public's ideas on the best argument for voting Republican:

G. O. P. ARGUMENTS

Time for a change 24%
Eisenhower's excellent qualities 11
Corruption, "mess" in Washington 6
Too much gov't spending, budget must be balanced 5
Republicans would reduce taxes 4
Less chance of war under G.O.P., could handle Korea better 4
Miscellaneous 10
Don't know or no argument 41

And here are the public's ideas on the best arguments for voting Democratic:

DEMOCRATIC ARGUMENTS

Prosperity, high standard of living 18%
Democrats are better for the people, better for working man 13
Democratic record is good 8
Democrats are experienced 4
Stevenson's excellent qualities 4
More social security, social welfare under Democrats 2
Shouldn't have military man in White House 2
Miscellaneous 5
Don't know or no argument 50

(Some persons gave more than one answer for the question.)

Independent voters in today's survey ranked the top G.O.P. arguments and the top Democratic arguments in the same way as all voters did.

Iroquois Power To Tennessee

Perhaps the most powerful American Indians of the past were the Iroquois. Instead of making up a single tribe, these Indians belonged to a number of tribes.

For a long time there were five tribes in the Iroquois group. These were the Mohawks, the Senecas, the Onondagas, the Cayugas and the Oneidas.

That period lasted a century and a half. People of the time often spoke of the Iroquois as "the Five Nations." After the Tuscarora tribe joined the league 230 years ago, it became a custom to speak of "the Six Nations."

The early homeland of the Iroquois was south and east of Lake Ontario, chiefly in the present state of New York. Later the Iroquois power spread far and wide reaching from the St. Lawrence River to the Tennessee River, from the state of Maine to the state of Indiana.

Iroquois long houses are famous, but before I describe them, I wish to make this statement: it would be wrong to suppose that all of these Indians lived in such homes. There were small houses, or cabins, in their villages, along with the big ones.

Whether a dwelling was large or small it was the custom to make a framework of poles and to cover it with bark. Many of the houses had rounded roofs, but others had slanted roofs. It appears that the Iroquois copied the slanted roofs from certain pioneer homes which they observed.

At any event, the idea of the long house was original with the Indians. The so-called "savagely Iroquois" were modern enough to build apartment houses!

A long house was likely to be from 50 to 100 feet long, or even more. The height usually was from 15 to 20 feet, and the width from 14 to 15 feet. Animal hides or sheets of bark divided the spaces for the various families living inside. Certain long houses were used as dwelling by 14 or 20 families.

Around each village was a fence made with tall, pointed stakes set close together. The fence helped to guard the village from a surprise attack.

YOUR COMMUNITY CHEST YMCA Programs Helpful To Youth

(This is the first of a series of articles to acquaint people with the agencies which receive their support from the Community Chest.—Ed.)

Were the YMCA to find it necessary to take refuge in figures, it might throw a 60,000 cumulative attendance item for last year's activities.

The Y, however, centers its case reaching around 500 juniors and teen agers in its regular programs, and a like number in special activities and summer program. To these may be added an imposing number of adults in small group activities. They are the ones that keep the YMCA building at 5th and Scurry almost in constant use.

Heart of the program is the Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi-Y programs for both seniors and juniors. This aims at extending Christian character in the home, school and community. If the number is relatively small, Grover Good, general Y secretary, points out that it is a quality group. So far this year the membership promises almost to double.

Besides these groups, the YMCA reaches many other youngsters through gym classes, tumbling, folk and tap dancing, volleyball, tennis, basketball, swimming, softball, golf, movies, handicraft, playground activities, games etc.

Then there are the special emphasis programs such as Youth in Government, wherein young people learn to prepare bills, introduce them and fight for them in their own legislature at Austin. Another is an inspirational and spiritual emphasis regional gathering. Still others are area and district meetings as well as the state conference for youth, and the summer leaders preparation camp at Pósum Kingdom.

To understand the make-up of the YMCA, you have to understand that it is a movement rather than an organization. The association here is somewhat in the role of a hen hovering over several chicks. For instances besides the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y groups, the YMCA provides a home for a public speaking club, camera club,

Two Brothers Vow To Care For Nine Brothers, Sisters

BORDENTOWN, N. J. (AP)—"We're going to do our best to keep the whole family together, raise them as best we can."

With those words two young brothers with families of their own made plans today to bury their parents who were killed in an auto accident and care for their nine younger orphaned brothers and sisters.

Grim and dry-eyed, Thomas Conger, at 21 the oldest of the family, and Benjamin, the next oldest at 20, made their vows near the quiet lane where their parents met death Saturday.

John Conger, 47, and his wife Loretta, 38, were killed in an auto accident. They left 11 children, ranging in age from 21 on down to 10 months.

Thomas and Benjamin both are married and live in their own homes not far from their parents' plain clapboard house. Benjamin has a small son.

Benjamin told a reporter he and Thomas would like to find a farmhouse large enough so they all could live together.

It would be cheaper, they said, adding that between them they earn only $108 a week and their father left little or no funds.

Youth Gains, But Loses In Wedding

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Richard Crouthamel was 21 years old yesterday. He also was married—and he lost his appendix.

Sept. 21—yesterday—is a day Dick and his bride of a day, Joy Atiyeh of Allentown, will long remember. The Middletown, Pa., youth suffered an appendicitis attack while rehearsing the marriage ceremony Friday night. The operation was completed early yesterday.

He came out of the ether and insisted on going through with the wedding—"I can't disappoint our friends."

With the assistance of a nurse, a stretcher, and a wheelchair he made the five-block trip from Sacred Heart Hospital to the First Presbyterian Church.

The honeymoon, says Richard, will start next week—"I'll be out of the hospital then."

Ex-Miss America Will Seek Divorce

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jacque Mercer, Miss America of 1949, has filed suit for divorce from William Oldenburger III of Mexico City. The couple announced their Aug. 23 marriage only 11 days ago.

Four months ago Jacque was divorced from her first husband, Douglas Cook.

Elated Coal Miners On The Job In North

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Northern soft coal miners, elated over a new contract which removes all threat of a strike and boosts daily wages to a new high, headed back to the pits today.

United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis completed the agreement Saturday night with Harry L. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Producers Association, just a few hours before the 170,000 miners were scheduled to go on strike.

The new pact gives the men a daily pay raise of $1.30, increasing wages to $18.25 a day.

It also requires operators to pay into the UMW welfare fund 40 cents for each ton of coal produced. Under the old pact operators were required to pay 30 cents.

Miners throughout the Northern soft coal fields cheered loud and long when they learned terms of the agreement. Many referred to

Test Shows No Adverse Reaction From Smoking

Liggett & Myers, the first tobacco company to offer smokers a premium quality cigarette, Chesterfield, in both regular and king size, has secured another first with the release of a report by a responsible consulting organization which reveals that the nose, ears, throat and accessory organs are not adversely affected by smoking Chesterfields. This report, the first of its kind ever published about a cigarette, gives the findings of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff.

The report states that early this year a group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day (45 per cent of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years—for an average of 10 years each). At the beginning and at the end of the six months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

This vital report about Chesterfield follows by only three months Liggett & Myers' unprecedented move in offering the first premium quality cigarette, Chesterfield, in both regular and king size.

According to published statements in newspapers and magazines all over the country, regular Chesterfields, as well as king-size, are enjoying phenomenal public acceptance.

U.S. Equipment Must Go To Spain For Use Of Bases

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Spanish Ambassador Jose Felix Lequerica declared today that current negotiations for American bases in Spain can be successful only if the United States gives Spain military equipment.

The ambassador indicated Spain wants the same kind of treatment given to other countries.

"In order to enter into such a long-range agreement and be willing to accept the consequences of such action," he said, "the parties currently negotiating must be closely and honestly associated in the common task of defending and helping each other."

"These negotiations can only be successful if the one party can receive, like others have received, assistance in the form of military equipment, without which, to embark on a venture of this kind would be like the Spanish poet said: 'to attack the lion with a stick.' Thus have similar questions always been treated."

The negotiations for bases have been going on between the two countries since April—in Madrid. The U. S. is seeking use of Spanish air and naval bases as part of the Western defense system against Russia.

New Home Of Growing Industry

To provide more adequately for the growing demand for its products, Cactus Paint Company has erected and occupied a new factory building east of the city on U. S. 80 just west of Cosden refinery. The windowed section at right will be the office, while the center section is largely for storage and that at left (where the familiar sign is) for the manufacturing machinery.

Sister Team Takes Over Colonial Shop

Assuming ownership and management of Colonial Beauty Shop this week are Idell Ward and Iva Jordan.

The sister team has purchased the shop from Christine Coughlin, former owner. Mrs. Ward, who has been a beauty operator at Colonial for the past four years, will manage the institution.

Both new and former owners have announced that Colonial Beauty Shop will be operated in the same efficient manner that has earned it a reputation as outstanding beauty center in Big Spring. "Head turning beauty" will continue to be the slogan of the shop.

The same skilled operators—Jimmie Holloman, Maude Cole and Inez George—will be on hand to provide Big Spring women the beauty service to which they've become accustomed.

Colonial Beauty Shop has been in its present location at 1211 Scurry for the past five years. The beauty center recently was remodeled and equipped with new fixtures and equipment. That includes new lighting, mirrors, driers and reception room furniture.

The shop has a private facial vestibule and a beauty operator, who specializes in facials and Par' or Herbex scalp treatments. Permanent waves, including the Rayette and Helen Curtis types, are offered, along with hair styling and cutting. A manicurist also is provided. The modern building is air conditioned for summer comfort and is equipped with automatic heating for the colder months ahead. It includes a gift counter which such items as ceramics, picture plates, copper and brass planters and costume jewelry are available. All purchases are gift-wrapped at the request of customers.

Music And Pianos Go Together

Now that you've determined on these music lessons for son or daughter, how about a thought to a piano?

You won't have to go any further than 1708 Gregg to find the answer.

For years Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adair have been placing the justly famous Baldwin pianos in homes, churches, schools and other places throughout a wide area of central West Texas. The fact that Baldwin is celebrating its centennial as a maker of superlative instruments is an evidence of its insistence on quality. Another proof, if any were needed, is in the fact that Baldwin customers in this area are satisfied customers.

If you're a beginner at this business, don't get the idea that Baldwin—because of a famous name—are all majestic concert grands. Baldwin is the maker of the Hamilton, piano, and the acoustic models which abound in the popular small spinnet and upright models. These will fit naturally into any living room or studio.

For those who are not yet ready to invest in a new instrument until the young student demonstrates a will to develop his or her talent, Adair Music has a fine assortment of used pianos.

Britain's "Tailor Of Taste" Dies Sunday

LEEDS, England (AP)—Sir Montague Burton, the "Tailor of Taste" who clothed one out of every four men in Britain, died here last night at the age of 67.

The clothing magnate collapsed and died as he was about to attend a dinner party commemorating the founding of his company, which operates more than 100 stores in Britain and is one of the world's largest tailoring houses.

Cactus Paint Company Now Is Operating From New Building

Now in its new building and in full scale operation, Cactus Paint Company is experiencing a brisk demand for its products.

Established customers, who may not have had occasion to call at Cactus Paint for some time will want to point eastward instead of westward. Cactus is now located on U.S. 80 east of the city and just west of Cosden refinery. Parking and loading space around the new structure is plentiful.

The fireproof building, designed and constructed by Cactus Paint

Company for its own manufacturing purposes, has been finished in a green color on the exterior. Light and matching color schemes are developed in the office and on the interior of the factory section. Greater storage space is provided and equipment is better arranged to facilitate orderly production.

Cactus grows in popularity, happily, has kept the force busy enough that getting straightened out is slow business at best. Later, Cactus plans on observing open use to permit the public to see this vigorous industry that produces paint products engineered especially for local climate and atmospheric conditions.

Although the demand for architectural (building) paints is steadily increasing, Cactus is experiencing an ever broadening market for its industrial paints. Oil, plant, equipment and other operators have found that besides being tougher and possessing greater fidelity of color and adhesiveness, Cactus Paint is by far the most economical. The factory makes various types of paints, including some formulated to resist great temperatures such as on boilers and stacks. More and more company car and truck fleets are using Cactus paints, which are available in almost any color, shade or tint you may specify. All Cactus paints are made to be impervious to gas fumes, however minute, which play hob with so many other paints.

Big Spring Tractor Offers Special Tractor Overhaul

The Big Spring Tractor Company, located on the Lamesa Highway, has initiated a special program allowing tractor overhaul jobs for one-third down payment.

Lloyd Wasson, manager, announced today that farmers desiring to have their tractors repaired could have 12 months to pay the other two-thirds of the cost.

A complete overhaul job will take from 12 to 14 hours, he said. The special program has been worked out to aid farmers who are short of cash because of crop failures.

Wasson, once a farmer himself, said that the farmers could get their tractors in shape for work on the next crop. He figures that the majority of farmers will be ready for repairs rather than for new equipment.

Wasson hastened to point out that he has a complete line of new Ford tractors for those who are interested. "We have a complete line of Dearborn farm equipment—parts or whole," he said.

Expert mechanics are on duty at all times, said Wasson. The company is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in case a farmer's tractor breaks down on the farm, mechanics will be sent out to make minor repairs.

The Big Spring Tractor Company is also distributor for Amalite oil and Firestone tires. Tires are on stock for passenger cars, tractors, and trucks.

Also in stock are the new Gustafson-Rohn grain drills which fit on Cultivators and one-way plows. The grain drill fits on the cultivator and sows grain for a cover crop as the farmer makes final plowing of cotton or feed. A small eight-hole grain drill fits on a one-way plow and can sow terraces and small fields.

Wasson also handles fertilizer distributors. The fertilizer tubes—like the grain tubes—are right behind the plow bits. As the bits cut between rows of the crop, fertilizer falls right behind.

Wasson has a six man staff on duty at the Big Spring Tractor Company. They include "Doc" Wilkinson, assistant manager; Jim Marshall, salesman and parts man; W. H. Booher, bookkeeper; Lewis Forgas, service manager; Walter Green, mechanic; and Marcus Lopez, helper.

In 1951 the average per capita consumption of butter was 23.5 pounds in Canada.

Dental Health Improved By Indianapolis Program

By DR. MARTHA M. ELIOT Chief, Children's Bureau, Federal Security Agency

"Be true to your teeth and they'll never be false."

This was one of the slogans which Indianapolis school children entered in a poster contest held in that Indiana city to emphasize the importance of good dental health.

The poster contest was one phase of a child dental health program which in the five years of its operation has produced encouraging results.

When volunteer members of the Indianapolis Dental Society made a survey which showed that 80 per cent of the city's school age children needed immediate dental care.

The Indianapolis Public Schools, Board of Health, and Dental Society together developed a program to reach not only the children in need of dental care, but also parents, so that through adequate dental care, the children could reach adulthood without being handicapped by early loss of teeth.

The most recent survey of the children's dental needs shows that the number who need immediate dental care has been reduced to 35 per cent.

The efforts which brought about these results were many-sided. One part of the program consisted of examining the children in at least the first and fifth grades. Parents of those who needed dental care were notified. When the child had seen a dentist, he brought a card back to school indicating that the work needed had been done.

Sixteen community clinics were set up in schools and centers to reach children whose parents could not afford the expense of adequate dental care. The clinics made more than 13,000 dental corrections in a single year through the services of members of the dental society, who left their practices for brief periods to staff the clinics.

The city's parent-teachers' council recommended that one meeting of each local group be devoted to dental health each year. The dental society set up a speakers' bureau to address these parent meetings. Sometimes dental health films were shown.

Films also were shown in classrooms, and dentists came in to talk to the children about proper foods and the care of their teeth. The dental health poster contest also stimulated the children's interest.

The Indiana State Health Department helped in providing service to children who did not fit easily into any regular dental program because of physical or mental handicaps.

The Dental Society has offered

Two Escaped Convicts Dead In Gun Battle; Policeman Killed

NEW YORK (AP)—Two escaped convicts were shot to death yesterday in a furious gun battle with police after leaving a trail of terror across part of Pennsylvania into New York City.

A detective was mortally wounded in the hall of submachine-gun and pistol fire.

The third member of a desperado trio was captured unhurt as 31 policemen blasted their way into the apartment where the fugitives were hiding with three Negro women.

Joseph Nolen, 26, and his brother Ballard, 22 — two gun-crazy bad men from Harlan County, Ky. — died in the roaring five minutes of close-range fire.

Detective Philip Lamonica, 45, shot three times in the chest, died in a hospital a short time later.

Detective Nicolas Cotter, 34, was seriously wounded.

Captured was Elmer Schuer, 21, of Chicago, who broke out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison with the Nolen brothers on Sept. 10. They had been serving long terms for bank robbery.

There was an ironical twist to the captures — the trio never intended to come to New York.

After their escape, they wanted to head for Scranton, Pa., but took a wrong road turn in a stolen car. When they found themselves headed for New York, they figured they might as well "lose themselves in the crowds of the big city," police said.

Schuer told police about the trio's movements.

Schuer admitted, police said, that the trio stole a dozen weapons from a Bronx gun store last Monday and looted a Bronx bank of $12,670 in a daring daylight holdup the next day.

A vast manhunt had been pressed for the three men since they escaped from Lewisburg. Terrorizing a large section of Pennsylvania, they held a family of seven captive for 19 hours while they hid in their home, stole money and at least three cars, and stabbed a private-duty policeman.

New York police, converging on a seventh-floor apartment in Uptown Manhattan shortly after Saturday midnight on a tip that the fugitives were holed up there, found the place barricaded.

The fugitives were in a trust with three Negro women, all of whom were seized and held as material witnesses. The apartment bore evidence of a drinking bout.

Police said an unidentified suitor of one of the women — Arlene Ball, 32 — gave the information that led to the desperadoes' hide-out.

A burst of gunfire — including machine-gun blasts from at least one of the fugitives — met the police after they broke down a door of the apartment.

The Nolen brothers kept shooting until they fell dead. Schuer, hiding under the bed with a nude woman, fired several times but finally yelled: "I'm not going to shoot. I give up." The mattress was shredded by bullets. The two other women hid in the bathroom during the gunplay.

Schuer was booked on charges of homicide, felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapons) Law.

Truman Will Speak In Harlem October 11

NEW YORK (AP)—President Truman will make a return appearance in Harlem — center of New York's Negro population — on Saturday, Oct. 11, to deliver a major address on civil rights.

Truman's acceptance of an invitation by the International Ministers Alliance of Greater New York and Vicinity was announced yesterday.

The speech is scheduled for 1 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, in Dorrence Brooks Park, where the President delivered a civil rights address during the 1948 campaign. The alliance will present him with its sixth annual Franklin D. Roosevelt Award for "the greatest contribution to the cause of human rights."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 209 battle casualties in Korea. A new list (No. 645) reported 40 killed, 161 wounded, six missing and two injured.

72 HOURS OF HELLFIRE

Five 'Dead' Yanks Alive As UN Retakes Old Baldy Hill

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Five American soldiers—wounded, hungry and without a drop of water—lived through 72 hours of hellfire on the rugged Korean hill known as Old Baldy.

When their buddies from the 2nd Division retook the height Sunday after savage fighting with Chinese Reds, the five stopped playing dead and crawled or were carried from their battered bunker.

They had huddled in the dilapidated log and earth cave under the earthshaking pounding of Allied and Communist big guns.

Twelve men had crawled into the bunker Thursday evening when an assault force of Chinese swarmed over their positions. Seven died in the bunker or may have escaped.

The account of their ordeal was given by Cpl. Ed Berlin, front line reporter for the Pacific Stars and Stripes, who interviewed the men on the scene.

Time and again during the first night, Berlin said, Chinese soldiers threw grenades into the small enclosure. Just as often, a Red soldier would peer in and open up with spray of machine-gun bullets. The trapped men fired back at each intruder.

Then the men in the bunker lay behind the bodies of their dead fellows and kept still, hoping, hoping, hoping the Reds would think them dead too.

One of the survivors, a 22-year-old private first class from New York City, told Stars and Stripes: "We couldn't have lasted another day but we knew they wouldn't let Old Baldy go. We never lost hope and all of us prayed."

A big master sergeant from California said the men went without food the entire time although they had plenty of rations.

"We had no water so we were afraid to eat anything," he said. The sergeant also related how the Chinese thought everyone in the bunker was dead.

"Logs and stuff were piled in the doorway and after the last Chinese sprayed us with his burp gun they let us alone, except for their artillery and tanks. We must have gotten at least 150 direct or near hits."

The only food they touched during the 72 hours was a can of grapefruit juice and a couple of oranges. The men cared for their wounds as best they could. The private gave a lieutenant in the bunker a blood transfusion from a bottle.

During that first night, the private said, "The Reds came up to the bunker every five or 10 minutes. Each time one of them popped his head in the door we let him have it with our carbines. After that we kept quiet but were constantly being hit by either our own or the Chinese artillery and mortars and tanks. One shell came through the aperture (in the bunker), but luckily the strikes missed us."

"All of us were bloody and I think that's what saved us. We were afraid to fire because we might let them know we were alive. So we just got as low as we could behind the other bodies and sweated it out. We dozed once in awhile, but we couldn't sleep. No one lost his head. All of us were cool because we just knew the Second Div would retake Baldy."

"Sunday night we were sure the attack had finally started because we felt heavy artillery coming in and we heard small arms fire down the slope."

"After we got in the bunker we knew that Company 'K' had left the 'b' and now was coming back. About 6 o'clock Sunday some of our men got to us. We told them to come on in, but they were afraid the Chinese had hooked booby traps to us. They thought it was a trick.

"A few minutes later another group came by and they took us out. All of us were mighty happy. I can tell you."

"But we still remembered our company commander and the others who didn't make it."

Youth Is Bitten By Rattler At C-City

COLORADO CITY—Billy Earl Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simmons of 2140 Chestnut, Colorado City, was bitten by a small rattlesnake Sunday afternoon at 5:30.

Billy was helping his father with a freezer of ice cream in the back yard at the Simmons home and saw some of the younger children playing with the snake. He went over to shoot them away from the little reptile—it apparently resented the intrusion for it nipped him on the left forefinger.

The senior Simmons killed the baby rattler and noting that it had a rattle and a button, rushed him to the Root Memorial Hospital, two blocks away, where he was given treatment for snakebite and admitted.

Pastor Is Fired When Accused Of Theft Of $22,408

ROSEVILLE, Calif., Sept. 22 (AP)—The Rev. William C. McCalmont, accused of grand theft of $22,408 from an elderly couple, was fired Sunday.

"Pastoral relations between the Roseville Presbyterian Church and the Rev. William C. McCalmont have been dissolved," said a statement issued by the Rev. Hugh A. Huddleston, clerk of the Sacramento Presbytery. "The pulpit is declared vacant as of Sept. 21."

District Attorney Al B. Broeyer said the 35-year-old pastor and a Harry Daniels, 42, admitted posing as federal agents and frightening Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemos into giving up their life savings.

Kin To Local People Succumbs In Midland

Mrs. Gertrude Costello Barnett, 37, sister of Mrs. Fred Crosland and Mrs. Will Molen of Big Spring, died at 5:30 a. m. Sunday in a Midland hospital.

Funeral rites have been set for 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Ed Costello home at Gratorod, with the Busby Funeral Home of Mineral Wells in charge of arrangements.

Rayburn Opens Dallas Offices For Stevenson

By The Associated Press

Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham opened Stevenson-for-President state headquarters in Dallas' Adolphus Hotel Monday amid party claims that the Democrats were "in" again.

Democrats, in Texas as well as across the nation, were making capital of the Nixon expense fund revelation that has shaken the Republican Party in the last few days.

Most of the Democratic reaction was mirthful.

Meanwhile, Gen Gull of Pampa, state manager of the Eisenhower-Nixon Republican campaign in Texas, said General Eisenhower as of now has a 50-50 chance of carrying Texas.

Gull, former Republican Congressman from the Panhandle, is directing the GOP drive for votes in Texas. Both he and Rayburn said their respective parties would organize every county in Texas for their candidates.

"Reports which we are getting indicate a tremendous interest in favor of General Eisenhower and Senator Nixon," Gull said, "not only among Republicans—new and old—but also among Democrats and independent voters."

Gull said, however, that a lot of work still remains to be done in the six weeks remaining before Nov. 4's general election.

Rayburn has predicted flatly a Stevenson-Sparkman Democratic victory in Texas.

have gotten at least 150 direct or near hits."

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than two million major crimes will be committed this year, the FBI says in its semi-annual report.

For the first six months of 1952, the report estimated, the nation had 1,022,200 major crimes, a 6.4 per cent increase over the corresponding period a year ago.

A breakdown gave these average rates: One murder, manslaughter, rape or assault to kill every 4.6 minutes; one larceny every 26 seconds; one auto theft every 2.45 every 6.23 minutes; one rape every half-hour.

All these crimes except rape increased substantially during the first half of 1952 over the first half of 1951, the FBI said. Rape declined one-tenth of 1 per cent.

Arrests were more frequent among 18-year-olds during the first six months of 1952, the report said. The 23-year-old age group predominated in the 1951 period.

The report, issued yesterday, is based on data supplied by local police departments.
