Adamor Really Got Himself A Ride

A Mexican "thumbed" a ride near Big Spring-and received one he won't forget.

His name Amador G. Barreroz, new is on the United States commissioner's docket at Abilene, on a charge of violation of federal selective service law.

Here is the account, as related Friday morning by officials: The Mexican was standing beside the highway Wednesday night, waiting to hitch-hike a ride.

Along came Burl Haynie, Texas highway patrolman of Big Spring, who picked up the hitch-hiker. Recognizing the Mexican as a man he had arrested about a year and a half ago. Haynie transferred him to Howard county jail. The Mexican was being sought by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for evading his local draft board at Colorado City.

FDR Emphatic With Veto Of Subsidy Bill "Legislation Is

Inflation Measure," President Chaims

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL .

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) -With "emphatic and vigorous dis-approval," President Roosevelt vetoed today an anti-subsidy bill sent to him by congress less than 24 hours earlier.

The bill, he said, "is an inflation measure, a high cost of living measure, a food shortage

The legislation proposed to end government subsidy pay-ments for food after June 30. In addition, it would extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation until June 30, 1945.

Mr. Roosevelt said that it, in effect, would reverse a congressional policy and repeal the economic stabilization act. He said no major warring na-tion had been able to stabilize living costs without subsidies and that he did not see how the wage line could be held if the bill be-Once that line breaks, he asserted, food costs will rise still further and all other costs will go up, including those of munitions and supplies for the armed forces. The chief executive told gress that the legislation would destroy the stabilization program "I cannot accept responsibility for its disastrous conse-quences." He said he hoped congress would not compel these consequences. The measure, Mr. Roosevelt declared, would boost the government's cost of food index at least seven per cent and raise the entire cost of living materially. Calling the roll on the added expense he said the housewife would encounter under the measure, he listed:

Ten cents à pound more for butter, nearly eight cents a more for cheese, an additional cent a quart for milk, an extra cent a loaf for bread, seven cents more for 10 pounds of flour, four cents a pound more for hamburger, four and onehalf cents for pork chops, six and one-half cents for sliced ham, three and one-half cents for chuck roast, and five cents round steak.

The legislation, he continued, would boost costs for the army and navy by "many billions." Furthermore, he said, not only would it cost every American family more to buy necessities, but it would cost more to run factories and farms.

"The weight of the increased burden," he said, "will fall on all of us, but most of all on the unorganized workers and others who live on small and relatively fixed incomes, among whom are most of

Crackup Presages Nazi Withdrawal From North Russia

By JAMES M. LONG LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Germans announced today the evacuation of Staraya Russa, their mightiest base between Leningrad and Smolensk, in a broadening crackup of defenses which seemed to presage the complete German abandonment of northern Russia.

The Red army triumphs south of Lake Ilmen came just a day after the Russians said they had completed the liquida-tion of the German Eighth army trapped around Korsun near the Dnieper bend, inflicting on the enemy his worst single disaster in Russia since Stalingrad.

Marshall Stalin announced that 52,000 had been killed and 11,000 captured from the ten divisions and a brigade. Another 21,900 had been killed in futile efforts break open the trap bringing total German losses around Korsun 84,900.

Berlin's account of the newest retreat toward the Baltic states reflected Hitler's growing manpower crisis. The Germans asserted that the retreat was necessary "to shorten the front and gain further opera-tional reserves." Moscow has not yet confirmed the victory. Actually, Staraya Russa — a bastion on the Lovat river — had been outflanked by Russian offensives west from captured Novgorod, north of Lake Ilmen, and south from Leningrad to within 27 miles of Pskov.

The evacuation of Staraya Russa gave the Russians control of all but the extreme western tip of Lake Ilmen and even there the rail junction of Shimsk seemed about ready to

The Germans countered Stalin's victory claim of last night with the assertion that a relief tank force had broken through to the trapped remnants of the German Eighth army in the middle "West of Cherkasy in bitter defense and attacks which lasted several days, connection with cut-off German fighting groups has been re-establish-ed," a Berlin broadcast said. The Nazis asserted that a corridor was cut through the ranks of the numerically superior Russians and said fighting was "fluctuating."

A mere 2,000 or 3,000 German officers escaped from the trap by plane, said a communique of the Soviet information bureau, which was broadcast by the Moscow radio.

Adolph Hitler had ordered the trapped troops to hold their positions at all costs, Moscow said, and gave "direct instructions to the encircled German officers and men to consmit suicide if their position became hopeless. Many did so, ac cording to the Soviet co

Another German dispate reaching Stockholm said a Nasi storm troop formation at Nar-va, nine miles inside northern Estonia, had thrown back a Russian attempt to cross the ice-covered Narova River be-fore the ancient city. The Russians were said to have prepared the attack with a five-hour artillery barrage.

The Germans said that the battle for Narva was growing more fierce every hour and that skies above the city glowed with fires started by the bombardment of hundreds of guns. The Germans were reported using Danish, Norwegian and Dutch SS formations in the defense of Narva.

One exception to the official silence regarding the report was the assertion, made last week by an unquotable government source, that Baruch was weighing the creation of an "office of economic adjust-ment," operating as an overall postwar policy - making agency but leaving actual management of the transition to existing federal agencies.

Baruch, it was said, had in mind William L. Clayton, assistant secretary of commerce and director of the Defense Supplies Corporation, as a possible candidate to head the agency.

The report has been awaited with some apprehension by officials of the wartime alphabetical agencies, each of which has its own plans for shifting its segment of the economy back into peacetime operation and each of which fears that Baruch's ideas might cause those plans to be scrapped.

The new report is expected to cover such questions as the government's settlement with war producers whose orders are canceled before completion; disposal of the hugh federal investment in plants and machinery; the sale of goods and equipment made for troops but left over at the war's end; the treatment of sub-contractors; the extent to which price and production controls should be continued after the war, and unit of the Texas State Guard was activated, and in that space of time the company has given the community, and, indeed the state, cause for nothing but pride.

The men and officers who go to make up this splendid organization doubtless feel at times that theirs is an unsung and prosaic task and one devoid of appreciation. Yetcin the face of proper expressions the Guardsmen have carried on with fidelity and efficiency befitting their position.

From the highest to the lowest there is nothing involved in TSG membership except a patriotic devotion to duty. The rawest recruit and the captain draw the same pay, which is nothing but satisfaction in having served effectively here at home.

These Guardsmen are charged with the internal security of our state while our national guard is away on foreign soil. Although most service necessarily may be rather in the realm of the ordinary, it is not inconceivable that soldiers in the state guard might be called upon to subject themselves to bodily harm or even give their lives der emergencies.

Meanwhile, we won't want to have to wait for an emergency to provoke us into expressing appreciation to our unit. We want Capt. H. L. Bohannon, Lieuts. Dale Thompson and Joe Pond and the men to know the community is thankful for what they have done and are doing.

The Saddest Drama

As sad as "killed in action" may be, it somehow falls short of the sorrow wrapt up in this little drama being unfolded here.

A mother in one of our rural communities is seeking to get to a hospital in a distant state to see her son, wounded in action overseas. She has been prepared for a shock for he was severely burned about the face, head and hands. One of the boy's eyes has been closed and his face disfigured. His hands are misshapen and stiff. Yet the lad's worry is not about himself, but about his mother.

One can only hope that the miracle of surgery will restore him in part. We can hope, too, that out of the unhappy comparison, our own burdens will be made to seem mere trifles.

"Fillet of sole" originally meant a portion of the flatfish known as sole served without bones. "Fillet" literally signifies "little thread." Now "fillet of sole" refers more to the manner of preparation and serving than it does to the species of fish

James M. Wayne, of Georgia, is believed to have been the only man ever appointed directly from the House of Representatives to the Supreme Court of the United States. He was appointed by President Jackson in 1835 and served on the court as an associate justice until his death in 1867.

The War Today

by DeWitt Mackenzie

Our salty skipper of the Pacific fleet, fighting Admiral Nimitz, after baiting the Mikado's navy for long weeks in an effort to draw it into battle, finally has reached into the great naval base of Truk-one of the world's most powerful strongholds-and slapped the Jap squarely across his toothy mouth. The most significant aspect of this daring action is that the United States finally has the strikpower to permit of such an operation. Just over two years ago the stab in the back at Pearl Harbor crippled America in the Pacific. Today our ships again are masters of the waves-a mighty achievement.

As this is written we lack details of what apparently started out as a major raid on Truk at dawn Wednesday. The attack was opened by hundreds of warplanes based on carriers. A big naval fleet supported the expedition.

Such a raid, if highly successful in shattering enemy defenses, might be followed by naval action. However, the original design of the expedition seems to have been to give Truk a merciless bomb-We have here, incidentally, a striking illustration of what can be done in the way of launching a huge aerial attack against an enemy from airplane Truk normally is an absolute power-house of warships, warplanes and land defenses. It's Japan's Pearl Harbor, for it was designed as the major base for both defensive and offensive operations in case of war with America.

Loss of Truk would be a catastrophe to the Mikado. It would leave a vast and fatal gap in his eastern defenses.

Despite the importance of the base, there's no indication thus far that the Japanese fleet has come out to answer Nimitz's challenge and defend this Truk is supposed to be as close to invulnerable as any base in the world. It isn't just one island, but comprises some 245 islands and its lagoon is forty miles in diameter. It has unlimited facilities for a naval fleet, and on land can support a big army and air force.

There is a reef across the mouth of Truk's huge harbor, and this affords natural protection against invasion by water. Certainly any attack would have to be spear-headed by heavy aerial bombardment. Undoubtedly the base is defended with much heavy artillery, and this would be a terrific menace to any naval force.

Because of this, the assumption is that our naval fleet staging the present raid, stood well off from Truk so to be out of range of the land guns. A sally of the Jap fleet for battle, however, would be a gladsome event.

WASHINGTON - The first rumble of that snowball which in going to hit Congress March 15 already is being heard and Congress is uncomfortable, if not downright scared. So is the

The snowball is, of course, the gathering avalanche of protests against the complicated income tax forms. A number of Congressmen already have staggering files of letters from constituents who have examined the tax forms and can make neither coad nor tails of them. Representative Doughton, of South Carolina, chairman of the House ways and means committee that shapes all the tax bills. has come out with the declaration that he considers his sole objective in office now the business of simplifying the returns.

At least three bills in preparation are designed to make income tax paying merely a painless process of dishing out the dough on paydays. But nothing can be done to cure the March 15 headache this year-a collective headache that is going to have to be endured by nearly 40,000,000 persons.

So serious does the Treasury consider the situation that Secretary Morgenthau already has taken the floor to inform the public that simplifications are on the oway and to promise it won't happen again. The Treasury drew up the forms, but the fault lies in the muddle of tax laws passed by Congress.

The greatest headache will come to those persons earning more than $3,000 a year for they will have to fill out the long forms of four closely packed pages of questions, answers and figures. And there will be three forms of tax to compute-the Victory tax, the normal tax and surtax.

The ideal thing, and one some of the lawmakers are hoping to do, is eliminate returns alto-gether at least for wage earners. How much burden this would place on employers has not yet been determined and it may not be possible for that reason. The alternative would be a simple year-end declaration of income earned, and taxes paid

The Victory tax probably will be abolished altogether. It was lanned originally to catch some 10,000,000 lower bracket taxpayers who otherwise wouldn't have paid anything, but it brings Excitement Makes Guinea Blue?

By GEORGE STIMPSON Many people believe that fright or excitement of any kind causes the flesh of the guinea fowl to turn blue. For this reason some poultrymen used to shoot off the heads of these fowls while they are feeding instead of catching them and chopping off their heads as they do to the case of other barnyard fowls, such as ducks, geese and chickens

The meat of the guinea fowl, especially the pearl variety, is naturally darker than that of other common fowls, and this fact probably gave rise to the notion that the darkness is caused by fright at the time of

Those experienced in preparing guinea fowls for the market on a large scale report that there is no more difference in the color of the flesh is different individuals of this species than there is in the different individuals of other fowls.

There is, however, a slight basis for the popular belief that fright or excitement affects the color of flesh, and it is not improbable that the effect of fright on the flesh is more noticeable in some fowls than in others,

No animal or bird bleeds well if it is killed in an excited or over-heated eondition.

It has been observed that the beef from animals not properly bled does not keep as well as beef from animals properly Guinea fowls, like other birds, should be bled by removing the h ad or severing the vein in the roof of the mouth and allowing the bird to hang head down-Their flesh is tender, fine in

FLIGHTGOULOVE by JOHN & FLEMING PLOIS EBY Footbures

Laughter echoed from Marek's office as Julie opened the door. The spacious sun-filled outer office was empty. Marek's secretary was leaning against the jamb of the open doorway into Merek's private office, joining in the fun. Marek appeared instantly.

"Hello, darling!" he hailed Julie as he came over to her. "We're reading a new re-write of one of your scenes that's really terrific!" Then his gaze deepened. He said in a lower voice, "You're dazzling today."

"Thank you," Julie went with him into his office that was ringing now with fresh laughter. Max Burnette stopped pantomining the scene to wave. Mady Ordson called "Hellol" from the divan. A fat man was sunk in a leather chair, his pipe chattering between his teeth as he read lines from the script in his hand.

Marek roared "Quiet! Julie this is Dwane Harvey, who did

It was like being in a stratosphere too rarified for normal functioning. Where the air was not for breathing, but to mirror and reflect. She was aware of little beyond herself - sitting here in this great paneled office with its water colors of Paris and its windows looking out onto the enormous studio patio, herself surrounded by these people hired to draft and erect the tangible structure on which could be displayed that mysterious, compelling essence of glamour sheh ad somehow distilled within herself.
