

Donkeys Arrive For Baseball Game Tonight

The donkeys arrived in town Monday and it is hoped that players will be rounded up in time for tonight's donkey baseball game between the Ups and the Downs, James Wright, chairman, said this morning.

Wright said that after one look at the donkeys, most of the members of the Lions Club immediately started making up excuses of why they couldn't play.

"We will field two teams if we have to go out and roundup the players," Wright said.

Tickets will be on sale at the gate tonight at 7:30 at Firemen's Field.

Sales Office Is Opened Here by Shelter Company

A branch sales office of Big State Emergency Shelter Co. of America has been opened in Eastland.

The office, located in room 406 of the Petroleum Building, has been opened by Warren Alexander and Earl Parks.

The firm will sell Escoa brand emergency shelters. The shelters have been approved by the Civil Defense office in Region 5 as Class A shelters.

William C. Davis Jr., engineer with the Civil Defense office, said the shelter will provide a protection factor of slightly greater than 1.0-00 fallout protection factor. He said chances of survival without serious illness in a Class A shelter are considered to be excellent even under heavy fallout.

The shelters feature built-in features such as bunks, storage room, radio, lighting, wind vent and sleeping facilities.

Welfare Officer Gets Mentioned By Commissioner

The question of does Eastland County need a welfare officer came up briefly at the Eastland County Commissioners Court meeting Monday.

Commissioner B. M. Bennett of Gorman suggested that an officer might be needed since charity costs keep going up and up.

Commissioner Carl Lamb of Cisco said he didn't believe the county could "... take at least $3,000 to get a qualified man."

The question was dropped.

James D. Alexander Named On FHA Eastland County Credit Committee

Appointment of James D. Alexander as a member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee was announced this week by H. P. Cole, the agency's county supervisor serving Eastland County.

Two other members make up the three-member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers' needs. The other two members are Frank H. Park, Carbon, and Duward B. Warren, Gorman. Warren will serve as committee chairman during the next, or 1961, fiscal year.

Each member is appointed for a three-year term. Alexander succeeds Charles D. Ballew whose three-year term expired this year.

Modern Army's Surveillance Drone Completes Second Successful Flight...

Designed for missions of greater speed and longer endurance than previous propeller-driven surveillance drones, it will carry electronic surveillance equipment to provide Army commanders with continuous information about the enemy and his movements. The USD-5 was designed and built by Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corporation under an Army Signal Corps contract.

Teachers Attend Reading Study

Seven Eastland teachers were among the 105 teachers from 32 school systems in Texas who attended the Reading Workshop held in Dublin Thursday and Friday.

Attending the meeting from here were Mrs. Charles Marshall, Mrs. Marjorie Young, Mrs. Oma Mae Hughes, Mrs. Eugene Green, Mrs. Homer Smith, J. B. Turner and Mrs. Francis Cooper.

Mrs. Gladys Allen, a primary teacher in the Sulphur Springs schools, Lew Adams, Arlington, and Jim Hatchett, San Antonio, were in charge of the course, and presented the teaching of reading from a successful phonetic approach, entitled, "Phonetic Keys to Reading" published by the Economy Company of Oklahoma City.

This new program is used widely, not only in Texas, but throughout the United States by school systems interested in helping pupils improve their reading and spelling. Briefly, the reading program developed in Phonetic Keys to Reading is based on the assumption that the pupil should have a knowledge of the letters of the alphabet and the 44 basic sounds of these letters before he is taught words by sight or memory. In addition to this auditory training, the child also learns a few powerful phonetic principals before pre-primers are introduced. Thus, at the very beginning, a first grader is given a basis and a means of attacking words independently without being told by the teacher, memorizing or guessing. This is accomplished by giving the pupil a knowledge of the long and short vowels, the consonants, and a few consonant blends. Next, wide use is made of experience charts and simple stories, and applying the phonetic "tools" he has learned.

After the pupil completes the first two books of "Phonetic Keys to Reading" he is not dependent upon a controlled or memorized vocabulary, or his teacher, and is able to read well from any series of readers. This solid foundation is expanded and continued in a systematic manner in grades two, three and four. Many schools throughout the nation report that the entire curriculum is accelerated because of the excellent results in reading.

In the comprehensive course, Mrs. Allen discussed thoroughly the mechanics of the successful phonetic approach to teaching reading, proper pronunciation, and articulation of the English language, including comprehension and word attack skills, vowel sounds, consonants, consonant blends and digraphs, suffixes, prefixes, syllables, compound words, contractions, blending sounds, and other important reading and comprehension skills.

Buster Graham Completes Army Training Course

Specialist Four Robert L. (Buster) Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Graham of Eastland, was graduated from the III Corps NCO Academy at Fort Hood, Texas, on July 30.

Graham, an eight-inch howitzer gunner with the Cisco National Guard unit, Btry C, 3d Rkt-How Bn, 132d Artillery, was among 128 men of the 49th Armored Division selected to attend the two-week non-commissioned officer course which ended with the presentation of diplomas by Maj. Gen. John L. Thomas, Commanding General of the 49th Armored Division.

The accelerated course, designed for the National Guard, involved advance instruction in leadership, artillery tactics, methods of instruction and nuclear warfare.

Graham is a graduate of Eastland High School and Texas Technological College. He is presently employed by the Soil Conservation Service at Perryton.

Seven Arrests May End Local Fire Setting Ring

Six Eastland County young men and another from Stephens County have been arrested and charged with setting a series of grass fires which have caused heavy damage to pastureland and kept Eastland County firefighters busy for the past month.

Credit for breaking up the young fire bugs was given Constable Porter Woods of Eastland.

Woods, after some involved detective work, chased down a car driven by one of the suspects, and with the help of Eastland City Policeman Howard Bradford, made the arrest. The suspect confessed he was involved in the ring and implicated the other six.

Some 17 grass fires have plagued firemen and law enforcement officers in the past month east of Eastland near Farm to Market Road 470. Three of the suspects were arrested Friday and the other four were nabbed Saturday.

Four of the youths, two from Morton Valley, one from Ranger and one from Eastland were charged with setting the fires. The three others are juveniles and their names were not made available. One is from Eastland and two from Ranger.

The four charged with willfully burning pasture land will be bound over for action by the Eastland County grand jury. The juveniles will appear before County Judge John Hart.

During the past month fires in the area have caused heavy damage and only hard work by firemen has kept the damage confined to pastureland. At least one barn and one house caught fire but was put out before heavy damage resulted.

Woods said he began work on the case several weeks ago. He narrowed his suspects down to just a very few before finally cracking the case.

MARIE BONEY SAYS

Things Would be Strange Here If:

Wouldn't it be a strange world if:

... political delegates met in convention to select a candidate, instead of making formal a selection which has long since been made for them?

... your childhood-friends who come now to visit would tell something nice about you as a child, rather than the tales your children devour so eagerly? The day you sneaked Mother's scissors and really chopped off your hair, the way you deliberately caused your little brother to be spanked, the afternoon you cut school and paraded before your family, while you try in vain to discuss the weather: it rained a great deal in July this year, didn't it?

... becoming grandparents didn't create such a lack of memory. Suddenly your parents, and your mate's parents, can't remember they ever spanked you, or made you go to school when you didn't want to do such a thing. Never were you forced to pick up your own toys, but you were allowed to eat ice cream at any hour, travel with your grandparents, and neglect your homework.

... visitors to your home came when you've cleaned thoroughly, dressed the children and combed their hair, baked two pies, and finished the ironing? Of course, that's tantamount to hanging a quarantine sign across the front door. But people of all ages and sexes stream in the morning the floors and furniture are dust-coated, the beds are stripped so that to walk you are forced to leap over bundles of dirty linens; the children are in pajamas, hair tousled or stringing down their back; food from the defrosting refrigerator covers the kitchen and dining tables; the sewing machine is open and a partially-completed garment hangs down in folds on the toys your youngest has gotten out, then left for a candy bar he found on the table.

... the people who come then would realize it's a passing condition at your house? Can't you hear some of them after they leave? "Such utter confusion, my dear, and would you believe it, the baby was eating candy—how she expects those poor children to be well nourished..."

... that three-o'clock-in-the-morning telephone call was for you and not a wrong number?

... you could believe what you hear and see—both in commercials and conventions?

Fry May Become President of Stinnett Bank

E. C. Britain of Stinnett is chairman of the board, Fry is president and Gene Scott of Stinnett is vice president and cashier. Other projected directors are Maurice B. Bentley, C. W. Kirk and Frantz Ferguson, all of Stinnett; R. D. Lemon of Perryton and David M. Warren Jr. of Borger.

No date has been set for a hearing on the application.

Jaycees to Meet At 6:30 Tonight At W. Elephant

Time of the Eastland Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting tonight has been changed from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

He urged all Jaycees and all persons interested in the Junior C-C to attend the meeting at the White Elephant restaurant.

The Telegram Speaks

Eastland County Needs, and ... Can Afford Welfare Officer

(An Editorial)

Eastland County needs a welfare officer, and can well afford to pay one.

It is the opinion of the Telegram that the county cannot, in fact, afford not to hire an individual to study requests for county aid.

Our suggestion would be to make a full time employee out of the administrator of the surplus food program. We believe that J. J. Porter Sr. of Cisco has done a good job as administrator of the surplus food program. And we believe that Porter could do an equally good job as welfare officer. We feel that Porter is interested in persons who need help and we think he would accept the post at a reasonable increase in salary.

It is interesting that records will show that most of the charity cases in Eastland County which are dealt with by the Commissioners Court are from Eastland, Cisco and Ranger. The people of the South part of the county, in Gorman, Rising Star, Desdemona and Carbon, seem to care for their own better than the citizens of the larger towns do.

We do not think it is fair to members of the Court to constantly be subjected to pleas for help from the very voters who put them in office. We think an appointed welfare officer could cut down the large county charity bill by checking up on cases and finding out the real need. Such an officer could say no without losing a handful of votes.

The Telegram urges a study of the situation by the Commissioners Court.

The moisture content of wood is the weight of the water in the wood. This weight is expressed as a percentage of the weight of the wood when dry. Thus, if a green piece of wood is said to have a moisture content of 75 per cent, it means that the water in the wood weighs 75 per cent as much as does the dry wood.

The moisture content of green wood is approximately the same as the moisture in the living trees. In some species of wood the moisture content is over 100 per cent. In other words, the weight of water in the wood is greater than the weight of the dry wood. Sapwood usually has a higher moisture content than heartwood.

When dry wood absorbs moisture, it swells. When wet wood is dried, it shrinks. The swelling of wood sometimes causes drawers and doors to stick in wet weather. Shrinkage of wood may open cracks in furniture and flooring. Exposed wood can be protected from moisture by treating with water repellents or by coating with a suitable finish. Wood used indoors should be installed dry and be kept dry to prevent swelling and shrinking.

Dry wood is stronger than green wood. That is the reason why so much importance is attached to the use of dry wood and the protection of wood from moisture.

RS TO TOR

Only a few short years ago, a group of us, under the leadership of Mrs. James Horton, set about to properly mark each house and street in Eastland. We worked very hard that hot summer to get the job done. Most of the citizens paid a dollar each to defray the cost of the signs. It was with a great deal of pride in our town that we volunteered our services and money. I have no suggestion to make in order to stop the vandalism—only to appeal to whom it may concern to have enough civic pride to stop this sort of thing. It shows a definite lack of something constructive to do. It would be a very fine about-face if the culprits would turn those signs back around where they belong.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tom Wilson

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Everyone who has any stature as a Texas writer must have at least one buried treasure experience. For example, O. Henry hunted for Spanish gold near Austin when he lived there in early manhood. And J. Frank Dobie has traversed remote regions where there are supposed to be great quantities of buried gold—a n d silver.

Not to be outdone, the great House also has his story of lost treasure.

Not long after I resigned—(I did, too, resign)—as editor of the Ranger Times to take a place on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, a letter arrived. The name of the writer was unknown to me but he said he knew me. The letter was mailed from Philadelphia. It was two pages long, single-spaced, and unfolded quite a narrative.

"You will, of course, recall Pete the Hermit who lived out from Ranger," the epistle began. (I could not remember anyone of such a name—in fact, I had never numbered a hermit among my circle of acquaintances.) The letter continued that the writer had, now and then, befriended Pete by giving him old magazines to read and a little money for smoking tobacco.

One day, going to visit the old man in his shack, the writer said, he found the hermit critically ill. Pete declared that he had hoarded a good deal of money and, as the younger man was the only one in Ranger who had ever befriended him, the hermit wanted him to have the gold. By this time every word was an effort for his breath was growing short but Pete described the location and his listener made notes. In a few minutes, the old man had died.

His "heir" could not immediately get away to dig up the treasure; then his father became seriously ill and he was summoned east. The father died and the son had to take over the operation of the business. That was some years before and he had never had time to return to Texas.

possibility that the landowner, not knowing anything about the matter, might fire at me as a trespasser, and those bullets would be real.

Still, the story could conceivably be true. One-third of $13,000 was a lot of money, especially as this was during the depression.

(Editor's Note—Did our hero seek the gold of Pete the Hermit? Read the concluding chapter of this exciting true adventure next week.)

... is a tragic reminder to those who are unfortunate in losing their worldly possessions without adequate insurance protection. Years of effort, savings and accomplishments may be wiped out in a single catastrophe. It could be only an explosion, a fire, a tornado, a collision, or something worse if we can imagine such a thing. It can happen anywhere, any time, to any one, without warning. Insurance will help in times of tragedy so why be unprepared?

Democratic nominee for President and 34 indicated they believed their county would favor the Republican nominee.

The next question concerned religion. Newsmen were asked if they believed Kennedy's religion would play a key part in the campaign. Thirty-two said it would and 16 said it would not.

The final question asked newsmen if their newspapers would support one of the candidates.
Eight said they would support Kennedy, 13 indicated plans to editorially favor Nixon and five editors said they were undecided.

Just for the record, our answers to the questions were: (1) We believe Nixon would carry the county
if a vote was taken today; (2)
We believe religion will be the number one factor in Eastland County; and (3) We have not yet decided if we will support either candidate.
