Phi Theta Kappa Tells of Trip to Carlsbad Cavern

By Mike Herrington

Phi Theta Kappa members of Ranger Junior College have returned from their visit to Carlsbad Caverns National Park in New Mexico under the sponsorship of Mrs. Marjorie Theberge.

For several of the group it was their first trip, but for others it was their third or fourth trip. All of the group were especially appreciative of the courtesy extended them by the park rangers...

The walk through the caverns, taking three and a half hours, covered a little less than four miles. At the lowest point, 829 feet below the surface, the lights went out for twenty seconds—a short eternity—to show the true cavern atmosphere of total darkness...

Impressions were varied, but the six girls and four boys making the trip made the following comments about the trip:

Sandi Taylor: Everything about the trip was enjoyable. Thanks to pretty weather, everything we planned to do turned out well. Our hotel was very nice, and we received very good service. The trip through the caverns was more interesting and informative than my two previous trips as we were placed at the front near the guide...

Mrs. Theberge: Every time I go to Carlsbad Caverns, I am impressed by the great size and beauty of the place. This time I appreciated especially the courtesy and special attention shown by the superintendent and the park rangers...

Nancy Kelley: I couldn't believe that such things as existed in the caverns could actually be there. It was unbelievable! Beth Key: Even though this was my second trip to Carlsbad Caverns, I was still impressed by their enormous size. They are very

The Medics and the Comets were established as initial leaders in the local Little League race Monday night when they snapped out opening game victories.

The Medics used a four run fourth inning to take a 7-5 victory and the Comets smashed home three big runs in the second frame to unseat the Bulldogs, 4-1.

It was one of the biggest opening nights in the League's series of successful seasons. President Robert Lawson pitched out the first ball after the Eastland High School band under the direction of Phil Hewitt had played several numbers and players and managers of the four teams had been introduced in the field.

After that it was all baseball.

Singing Cadets Final Music Week Program

Eastland Music Study Club will present their final special program during National Music Week Thursday at 10:15 a.m. in the high school auditorium.

The John Tarleton State College Singing Cadets, 16 in number, will give a special 30 minute program. They will be assisted by four vocal soloists.

Mrs. Robert Orr will play "Prelude," by Debussy, Phil Hewitt will render "Around the World," a special arrangement on the drums, and Mrs. Edna Stripe will play "Polonaise Opus No. 53" by Chopin, "The Cat and the Mouse" by Copland and "Malagena" by LeComa.

Mrs. Marene Johnson will be narrator. The public has been invited to attend.

Minor League action in the Little League will get underway tonight when the Lions play the Bulldogs and the Medics test the Comets. Minor League play begins at 6 p.m.

Walks ruined the Lions. Three Lion pitchers allowed the Medics just four hits, but 13 free bases were issued. The Lions pounded out seven hits and jumped to a 3-0 first inning lead only to be shaded in the final stanza.

Winning pitcher was Wayne Moore. He relieved starter Rhett Smith in the top of the fourth just in time to get the credit. The loser was Freddie Thomas. Larry Miller started for the Lions and Ronnie Hughes ended the game.

The Bulldog - Comet game was a pitchers' battle all the way. George Herrera hurled a two-hitter at the Dogs as only Mace's homer and Howard Maynard's last inning single spoiled a no-hitter. Mace went all the way for the Dogs and scattered four hits, three singles and a double. Steve Lund got a double and a single to lead the victors.

Thursday night the Bulldogs test the Medics and the Comets will take on the Lions. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Eastland Graduate to Do Navy Research Work

An Oklahoma State University bacteriology professor who graduated from Eastland High School in 1944 has been awarded a $10,589 contract by the Navy for research which someday may help curb the appetite of bacteria for jet fuels.

Dr. Norman Durham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Durham, 909 S. Seaman, Eastland, will use the funds from the Office of Naval Research to support a two-year study of how bacteria crack open the nucleuses of benzene compounds found in jet fuels and other combustible mixtures.

He'll also investigate the possibility of curbing the microbes' appetites by testing some of the benzene compounds the bacteria don't seem to find so tasty.

The Navy and other branches of the military are interested in controlling bacterial appetites for a number of reasons, Durham says.

First, the bacteria can cause the fuel to lose its combustibility if they split enough of the benzene atoms of nucleuses, and secondly their feasting produces by-products which clog filters and strainers in both aircraft and fuel storage facilities.

Durham says the bacteria themselves don't complicate aircraft performance or consume much fuel, but their by-products produce an effect somewhat "like pouring sugar in an auto's gas tank."

Part of the trouble the bacteria produce results from their ability to cause water and the kerosene-like liquids in jet fuels to mix to a certain degree.

It's hard to keep a certain amount of water from getting in storage tanks or in the planes themselves, so this can get to be a rather serious problem.

Many organisms consume benzene compounds, but Durham will study only the two groups of microbes which cause the most trouble.

Findings of the study could have applications in many areas where microorganisms are used to break down compounds, such as in sewage and petroleum products.

Durham joined the OSU staff in 1954 after receiving a PhD degree at the University of Texas in 1954, and an MS and BS at North Texas State in 1951 and 1949.

TEN COLORS TO CHOOSE FROM

These panels come in a variety of ten colors based on layer after layer at Stran-Steel factory. Mr. Pierson chose a pre-engineered, pre-fabricated, pre - designed, economical 80 foot wide by 142 foot long building, giving ample clear span space for the AMF equipment used.

picturesque, and I enjoyed touring them although the walk was very tiring.

Mary Beth Cameron: I certainly enjoyed the trip to Carlsbad. The Caverns were magnificent in their size and beauty, no one should miss seeing them.

Mike Herrington: The trip with in itself was special for me because it was the first time that I had ever been out of Texas. The enormity and magnificence of the Caverns held me in awesome wonder at its creation some 60,000,000 years ago.

Brenda Roberts: The Caverns? Unbelievable, unforgettable, exciting, and amazing!

Nellie Sue Vinson: It was fabulous. I can't imagine anything like it. We had a fine time. It was the first time that I had seen it, and I think everyone should have the opportunity to visit the Caverns.

Fred Wendeborn: Simply fabulous! The trip as a whole is one of the best trips which I have ever made.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
 Dear Mr. Moore:
 On behalf of the Comanche Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America I take this means of thanking you for the splendid publicity you give the Boy Scouts of America in the Eastland Telegram.
 The excellent article and picture announcing the presentation of the three Eagle Scout Awards to Larry Goldston, Bill Garner and Bill Horn in the paper on April 27 on the front page (center) is a tremendous boost to the Scouting program and recognition to the Scouts. Just below it is the nice story of the Camp-O-Ral for the Scouts.
 In the Telegram of April 25 you published an interesting article announcing the Court of Honor and another story showing the Cub Scouts participation in the Scout Circus.
 We are most grateful for your contribution to the cause of Scouting and if you will also thank other folk of your staff we will appreciate it.
 These articles have been brought to our attention by William L. Garner, Scouting Commissioner in Eastland. We are placing these clippings in our 1961 year book.
 Sincerely,
 Joe O. Galbraith
 Scout Executive

Mrs. Jimmy Sandlin of Abilene and Miss Kathryn Sandlin of Carbon, granddaughters of the couple, assisted in serving. Mrs. Sandlin served a white tiered cake bearing decor of yellow roses. Miss Sandlin poured frosted punch. Mrs. D. D. Sandlin and Mrs. C. C. McCracken of Trinidad also assisted in serving.

The serving table was laid with a white linen cloth and bore appointments of silver and crystal. Arrangements of yellow mums were noted throughout the home. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were married in Cisco, Ga. on May 7, 1911. They have two daughters, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The Duns have been residents of Carbon for 14 years.

Hobo Party and Dinner Honors Eastland Seniors

Members of the senior class of Eastland High School were feted with a progressive dinner and Hobo party Thursday, April 27.

Senior mothers acted as hostesses for the party. The group assembled at the home of G. T. Pogue, 1302 S. Lamar, and proceeded to the home of Mrs. A. D. Taylor, 1209 S. Seaman, then to the home of Mrs. C. B. Chaney, 1009 S. Daugherty, and finally to the home of Mrs. Earnest Savage, 903 W. Plummer, chairman of the party.

Seniors then assembled at the home of Mrs. Thura Taylor, 308 S. Oak where they were served refreshments and took them to the lawn of the High School. All members of the senior class rode bicycles at the party.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A pesky little insect, capable of going for months without food, is a sour note in the otherwise sweet sympathy of a Texas Spring.

It's a soft-shelled tick, known scientifically as Ornithodoros turicata, transmitter of relapsing fever. This time of year they'll be out in force over most of Texas—at the very season when the natural human inclination is toward picnics and exploratory sojourns into the Great Outdoors.

State Health Department entomologists say the pernicious, fever-laden parasites can bite, feed, release their hold and drop to the ground without their human victims ever knowing they have provided them with a blood meal.

Many cases of relapsing fever undoubtedly occur in Texas without ever coming to official attention. Ticks pick up the germ while feeding on infected wild rodents, become infected themselves and then pass it on to humans during a feeding process.

Soft-shelled ticks are close relatives of the hard-shelled ticks which spread spotted fever, typhus, a type of encephalitis and other miseries.

Public health workers handle ticks with great caution to avoid being bitten and exposed to the fever they might be carrying. Specimens are kept in a specially constructed ticatorium where, if one escapes, it will fall into an oil bath and be killed.

State Health Department laboratory technicians over the years have added many refinements to diagnostic techniques relating to relapsing fever. The strange disease occurs all over the world, despite its being classified as a "tropical" disease.

The onset of relapsing fever is characterized by chills and fever lasting for 24 to 36 hours. Then, just as the victim begins feeling better, he'll be stricken again. Recurring attacks might persist for weeks, each one leaving the patient weak and languid.

Once successfully diagnosed, relapsing fever readily responds to modern treatment by a private physician.

Soft-shelled ticks usually inhabit caves and old buildings, while their hard-shelled counterparts stick to woods and fields. Both types are actually occupational hazards for ranchers and foresters and people in similar lines of work.

Soft-shelled ticks have been known to survive for seven months without food, so long vacancy of a vacation cottage is not insurance of freedom from ticks.

So go ahead, have fun outdoors this Spring. But use plenty of insect repellent on exposed skin and on clothing. (A weekly feature from the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)
