Registration for Summer Day Camp Slated Saturday

Saturday will be a big day for Eastland youngsters. That's the day registration will be held for Summer YMCA Day Camp.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Majestic Theatre. Parents of children are asked to accompany their children to the theatre. A Summer Program Preview of the camp will be explained. Then parents will adjourn to register for their youngsters in the lobby and while parents are registering, the youngsters will see a free movie and cartoons.

Phillip Hewett has again been chosen to head the camp. The camp will last three weeks this year, from June 26 to July 14 beginning at 8:30 a.m. and closing at 12:30 p.m.

The camp will be held at City Park with boys and girls ages six through 12 attending.

The Day Camp is under the supervision of Southwest Area Council of YMCAs with Hewett in charge of a group of carefully selected counselors.

Primary concern of the camp, Hewett explained, will be health and safety of each camper. All water activity will be under the supervision of a qualified swimming and water safety counselor. Accident insurance will be carried on each camper and the cost is included in the $10 fee charged for the camp.

The fee also covers costs of drinks, handcraft material and leadership. A registration fee of $2 is paid at the time of registration and the balance of $8 is due on the first day of camp.

Children should bring comfortable play clothing, sturdy shoes, bathing suits and towels. Supplies should be brought in sack or satchel clearly marked with camper's name. All campers must wear hats.

Special events this year will include a look-out, a trip to the zoo, sports events and a final day awards program.

A typical day at camp will go something like this: 8:30 a.m., entire group assembles for morning devotional. Afterwards children will break up into activity groups with counselors for swimming, archery, baseball, trampolining, volleyball, tennis and handicrafts. These groups rotate so that each camper gets to do what he likes best. This is followed by air rifle, rifle and craft classes. Group games are then played and the final event of the day is assembly and group singing.

Oasis Tile Is Introduced Here by Horton's Ceramics

The tile industry of America will be taking a long look at Eastland during the next two weeks. Horton Ceramics has announced the introduction of new Oasis Tile on a limited basis in the Eastland area.

Oasis Tile is the first tile made in the Southwest using the modern extrusion process. Most tile of this type is manufactured by the press process and the cost of manufacturing is much higher than the extrusion process.

The outside type tile is made for use in patios, porches, terraces, dens, game rooms and etc.

Oasis Tile will be introduced here at a price almost equal to production costs and less than 50 percent of the regular retail cost. It will be available only at Horton's Pottery Yard on Highway 80 east during the next two weeks.

Two colors will be made available immediately. They will be Sienna Earth and Primrose Pink. A third color, Buff or Suntan, will be introduced later. The tile will come in only one size at present, six inches by six inches, but later on will be available in nine inch by nine inch and 12" x 12" sizes as well.

Horton Ceramics, said his firm has been working on manufacture of Oasis Tile for the past year. The introduction is being made in Eastland so "... we can gain local acceptance before putting the tile on the market throughout the Southwest."

The tile is manufactured in the Horton plant on South Bassett using local labor and local raw materials. The clay used in the Primrose Pink tile comes from the George Fee ranch west of Eastland and the clay used in the Buff color comes from an area 10 miles south of Breckenridge.

Horton said the availability of raw materials in this area is the big factor which makes local production possible.

In the extrusion process the tile is forced under pressure into the desired shape and then cut at the proper length. The tile is then dried and afterwards goes into kilns for hardening at extreme temperatures.

Horton's will have the tile available in broken lots as well as perfect squares. The broken tiles are used widely for making patios and many persons prefer them to whole tiles. They will be available for just four cents per pound.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

AUSTIN—Accidents killed 93,000 Americans last year—including more than 5,200 Texans. How many of those people died because they were "accident prone?" There is no way of knowing, of course. "Accident prone" is a phrase coined by the experts—psychologists, industry men and others on the theory that many accidents result from the victims' emotional make-up.

Studies by agencies interested in health and safety have shown that relatively few people are responsible for a high percentage of accidents. Conclusion: a person who has had one accident is more likely to be involved in another one than a person who has had none at all.

State Health Department studies confirm this. For example:

An industrial firm tries to reduce accident rates among equipment operators by ordering a painstaking investigation into every mishap. Everything from shop environment to operator reaction time is checked.

The accidents continue despite an intensive educational campaign. But when the operators with bad records are transferred to other jobs, accidents involving heavy equipment fall to one-fifth of the former rate.

The transferred operators? They keep on having accidents on their new jobs and at home.

The experts have traced definite personality patterns among accident-prone people. Almost invariably they are impetuous, following impulses without deliberation or planning. Their decisiveness is, in reality, a drive for independence and self-reliance.

For the most part, investigators have found they have a history of neurotic traits in childhood. They simply reach a point, in their failure to handle an emotional situation, when an unpleasant happening becomes a physical and emotional necessity.

Result: an "accident." But while admitting that such a thing as accident proneness exists, Texas health officials still prefer to stress environmental hazards and biological conditions such as fatigue, temporary stress-produced inattention, impaired vision or hearing or underlying disease as the major culprit in accidents.

Too much emphasis on accident proneness, they felt, tends to obscure the need for correcting defects in industrial equipment, slum housing, inefficient traffic systems and inadequate playgrounds. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Rat Control Is A Major Farm Problem

Figures from a study made at Iowa State College show again the magnitude of the problem caused by rats on farms. There is reason to believe, according to this information, that the rat population of the world now exceeds the human population, which is estimated at almost 2 1/2 billion.

One pair of rats could have 1,500 descendants in a single year if all lived, according to the information. In three years it would be possible for a single pair to have 350 million descendants.

Some time ago, it was estimated that rats annually destroy as much food as some 200,000 average farms can produce. About half the rat population in this country is on farms. Some estimates indicate that rats cost the average farmer about $80 per year. Each rat will eat an estimated 40 pounds of grain annually, contaminating twice that much more in the process.

This is a good season of the year to wage all-out war on rats. Of the several means for killing rats, baits have proved the most effective. One good rat control program is the one developed by the Ralston Purina Co. which has been used extensively on farms with good success. It includes a cereal base bait and a powder to be mixed with water. When these two baits are used together the rats and mice may eat the poisoned cereal, then lap up poisoned water close by. The baits contain a deadly anti-coagulant, pival, or its water soluble form, pivalyn, which causes painless death to the rodents by internal bleeding.

Rats are cunning pests. Old fashioned baits often cause them to become "bait shy" and avoid the poison. This modern control is odorless and tasteless. Consequently it invites the rats back for sufficient helpings to do the job.

YOU CAN'T ENFORCE A BET

Is a bet with a friend, with witnesses present, a valid contract upon which you can collect in court? Can you force a person to pay off a bet that he made with you?

Jim was the town's most loyal supporter of the Marysville baseball team, even though the team was having a disappointing season. Tom, a supporter of Johnstown, a rival team, offered to bet Jim a sizable sum of money that Johnstown would beat Marysville.

Jim was quick to accept and asked several bystanders if they would be witness to the bet. That weekend Marysville won, but Tom refused to pay. Jim claimed that the bet amounted to a valid and binding contract. He wanted to bring a lawsuit against Tom to collect the money that he felt Tom legally owed him. However, he was advised that he did not have a case.

The bet that they made was a gambling contract, and as such was illegal. Where both parties assert rights founded on a contract which is illegal and void, the court will refuse to enforce it, leaving the parties just where they placed themselves, and as they were before coming into court. The court has said that they owe it to public justice and to their own integrity to refuse to enforce contracts essentially violating morality or public policy. It is a judicial duty always to turn a claimant upon such a contract out of court regardless of how the character of the contract is made to appear.

In this case, even though Jim could prove that he had made a contract with Tom, and regardless of the number of witnesses Jim could call into court to swear to the terms of the contract, the contract itself was an illegal purpose, gambling, and as such the courts will refuse to enforce it.

The courts will allow great freedom to people in the making of agreements between themselves, but they draw the line when the agreement made is illegal. The courts will not aid people in breaking the law.

ON DISPLAY at the Ranger National Guard Armory Saturday, May 20, will be this 8-inch howitzer, a medium range artillery weapon with a range of more than 18,000 yards, nearly 11 miles. Its 230 pound round can deliver a variety of projectiles ranging from high explosive to smoke, depending upon the requirements of the fire mission. The 8-inch howitzer is towed to its firing position by a 10-ton truck and can be ready to fire within 30 minutes after arrival at the position. A self-propelled version of the 8-inch is mounted on a tracked vehicle and can move into a position and be ready to fire within one minute after arrival.

IMPALA CONVERTIBLE
Here's top-down going at its breezy best. And, like all five Chevy Impalas, it's available with Super Sport features* that set it apart from anything else on the road.
*Optional at extra cost, as a complete kit.

Sports car spice never came in so many varieties...Chevrolet!

Maybe you're a fellow with more or less normal driving habits who's looking for a change of pace. Or maybe you're a red-hot sports car buff. Either way, you'll find the fastest relief for that tantalizing itch in your driving foot at your Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center. He's got cars that run the sporting gamut like no others—nimble Corvair Monzas (2- or 4-door), charged-up Impala Super Sports (in five different body styles) and the kingpin of production sports cars, the Corvette. You can take your choice without chasing all over town. They're all stablemates under the same roof!

CHEVY CORVAIR
MONZA CLUB COUPE

Nestle behind the wheel in one of those bucket front seats and see what Corvair's rear-engine design has done for driving. Steering that responds to the subtlest hint. Braking that brings you to precise even-keel stops. Traction that clings like a cocklebur.

CORVETTE
It's the goinest machine in America. Pure-bred sports car performance—the likes of which only the most elite (and expensive) foreign-built jobs could claim before Corvette began stealing their thunder in open competition.
