The young people of Eastland are invited to "Travel the World" in a reading program beginning July 1 and continuing through August 15.

Each child, grades two thru eight, with his own "suitcase," sets out, with his library card as his round trip ticket and books as his conveyance, to visit the many and interesting places of the world. The various colored travel stick ers from countries all over the world transform the suitcase into a record of his travels through the books he has read. Those finishing the reading program will receive a ribbon award.

The Library Committee of the Thursday Club announce plans to purchase about 50 new books in all grade levels to be used with the World Traveler Reading Program.

For the high school readers we have many books on your reading lists and since the High School Library is closed, the Public Library can help you with your summer reading.

For adults, we have new in the Library: "A Distant Trumpet" by Paul Horgan. In spirit this magnificent novel of American life is romantic; in substance, historical; and in scale, heroic. The mark of a master story-teller is visible in all aspects of the book and one closes it with the conviction that Paul Horgan has written a major American novel.
