Also pictured, left to right, are three Phlebotomists from the Carter Blood Center in Fort Worth, who administered the drive - - Debbie LaBoon, Connie Eversole, and Debbie Ignacio. "A...newspaper ad placed by Mobil Oil Corporation is a real grabber," according to a publication of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, "At the top is a picture of a portion of a crowd at a sporting event. The headline reads, 'This many Americans didn't die in January and February, thanks to the 55 mph speed limit. The ad copy goes on to say that 1,880 fewer people were killed on the nation's highways in the first two months of 1974 than in 1973. There were 40,000 fewer disabling injuries this year than in January and February of last year. The National Safety Council says that most of the reduction is due to the reduced speed limits, although there was admittedly less traffic this year. Maybe the 'energy crisis' has accomplished something positive after all. Too bad we couldn't do it with common sense first."

"People no longer believe that massive federal spending will necessarily solve all social ills instantaneously. We all hoped that perhaps it would. But it did not. People got their hopes up, and then their hopes were dashed, when program after program costing millions upon millions came up short - - for the people. If there is a questioning running through this country, as some have suggested, it stems from those whose promises cost so much and produced so - Mr. Donald Rumsfeld, former director, Cost of Living

In the words of the Public Service Company of Colorado, "The electric utility industry will continue to be the biggest spender in the next few years in the drive to bring existing American industrial facilities up to pollution control standards, according to an estimate made by McGraw - Hill Publications Company.

"Higher prices for new gas would have a minimal and gradual impact on consumers...the wellhead cost represents a fairly small fraction of the burner tip price which, of course, also includes the expense for pipeline transportation and local districution. Hence, the ultimate future consumer price would not be proportional to a higher wellhead price. As a simple analogy, if the price of vermouth sould double tomorrow, it does not follow that a martini is going to cost twice as much." - - Mr. F. Donald Hart, president, American Gas Association.

As the Burlington Northern railroad notes, total grain export this year is expected to be less than last year's 3.46 billion bushels, but the extend is uncertain. Export demand is down at present and producers in early harvest areas are tending to hold this year's crop in amounts far above normal. The current down - turn in export is creating concern that a sudden shift to heavy movement in the months ahead may condense demands for cars and place a heavy burden on supply at the peak of the harvest.

"Life's perhaps the only riddle that we shrink from giving up." -

Hene Carrington Speaks

COLLEGE STATION-

'People keep their feelings about death and dying to themselves because of fear. uncertainty and a feeling of helplessness." Ilene Carrington, Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System, said.

She pointed out that even when a family member or close friend is critically ill, there is often an attempt to keep the news from the patient.

'Most critically ill patients know they are dying by the change in attitude and actions of those around them. The family avoids discussion of death in an attempt to protect the individual.

The patient may not have an opportunity to express feelings or to grieve for what he is losing. At a time when he has a tremendous need to be loved and wanted, the individual may be excluded by his loved ones in their own grief and desire to spare him from knowing he's dying", she noted.

tely understand how the dying person really feels or what he's experiencing. The specialist noted that Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross's study of patient reactions does provide some insight as to how the dying feel, and can help prepare families for this even

Families can never comple-

'Family should not be misled by these angry outbursts and withdraw-this is the time when their support and presence are desperately needed.

A third stage is a bargaining period. The patient still refuses to accept his illness and seeks to postpone his death. Most bargains are silently made and kept secret. They may be the result of guilt or regrets for past failure or neglect. Listening to the individual is important during this time, she continued.

After the bargaining, the individual may become more depressed and withdrawn. The person may fear the unknown or e may grieve for the loss of health, independence and separation from family.

The individual also realizes he'll soon suffer great losses. During this stage, love and emotional support from the family are important. The individual needs the opportunity to grieve and to know he is cared for by those he loves.'

Finally, most patients accept their impending deaths, if they are able to work through the other stages. There may be an extreme narrowing of interests and friends as the quiet presence of a few becomes sufficient. Here is where the family needs the support of friends and one another.

When one is dying, the importance of sharing feelings cannot be too strongly stressed. Being open and non-judgmental of ones family can reduce guilt and anger. Sharing this intimate experience can help provide greater acceptance and understanding of the process of dying", she said.

The number of long distance calls made in Texas has increased from 9.6 million made in 1925 to more than 439 million in 1973. Long distance calls in the Bell System increased 11 per cent in 1973 over 1972.

Environmental Excellence Technology Is Here

BRECKENRIDGE -"Technology for environmental excellence is here, if the people want it." a Dallas civil engineering executive told members of the Central West Texas Water Utilities District at the Breckenridge U.M.C.A. Monday evening.

Robert E. Hogan of Dallas, executive vice president of Henningson, Durham Richardson, Inc. of Texas said that "Texas communities are generally ahead of their counterparts in neighboring Southwestern states with regard to the planning and construction of waste water treatment facilities.

Hogan described plans for a new waste water pollution control plant in Lewisville, Texas, which will be one of the first in the U.S. to use pure oxygen for waste water treatment

"The facility," Hogan states, 'will surpass the extreme quality standards set by the Texas WaterQuality Board and the Environmental Protection Agency

Outlining the steps required for a town to obtain a 75 percent grant program for major waste water improvements, by the Environmental Protection Agency, Hogan listed a facility plan, enfironmental assessment, infiltration inflow study, and industrial user charge plan.

With this data compiled, he observed, "a local government may apply for plans and specifications money toward the construction grant.

Hogan is a past president of the Consulting Engineers Council of Texas and a national committee chairman of the American Consulting Engineers Council.

The speaker also presented a color motion picture, "Until Now," demonstrating the work of consulting engineering firms in solving today's water pollution problems.

J.C. Ash of Cisco is president of the Central West Texas Water Utilities Association

Other officers are Kenneth Epperson of Gordon, vice president; Robert Slampa, Gorman. secretary treasurer: and Alton Hughes Abilene, program chairman.

Licensee And Distribution Agreement

The Women's Apparel Division of Munsingwear, Inc. has announced the signing of a manufacturing licensee and distribution agreement with C. Itoh, Inc. of Osaka, Japan in conjunction with Renown Garment. Inc. of Tokyo.

All line of Vassarette women's apparel will be manufactured or exported for distribution in Japan on a direct export basis. This agreement follows 10 years of successful manufacturing and sales of Munsingwear men's and boys' sportswear in Japan and several years of Vassarette distribution in Japan on a direct export basis. With this new licensee program Vassarette expects considerable expansion into the licensed countries of all product line including foundations, sleepwear, daywear, and loungewear. The utilization of C. Itoh's wide distribution network will be of added advantage. Formal introduction of the new lines of Vassarette will be in November of 1974. Initial market testing results through the efforts of C. Itoh, Inc. and Renown Garment, Inc. have been excellent, according to Mr. Wayne Marque, General Manager of Vassarette. He further stated, "There is a need for quality branded intimate apparel in Japan, Korea and Taiwan and through our combined efforts we expect a most successful operation.

did nothing to deserve it, and though I am the most useless Christian there is, yet I was the one chosen for this special joy of telling the Gentiles the Glad News of the endless treasures available to them in Christ; and to explain to everyone that God is the Savior of the Gentiles too, just as he who made all things had secretly planned from the very beginning.

Something New And Creative For Pageant Of Peace

WASHINGTON, D.C.--It may be a bit early to be thinking of Christmas but already plans are under way here for something new and creative as an alternative for the Christmas Nativity Scene in the annual Pageant of Peace.

Recently, the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled to drop the traditional Nativity scene from the Pageant of Peace, citing excessive government entanglement with religion.

As a creative alternative, Senator Mark O. Hatfield along with a group of national celebrities and a handful of concerned Christians, recently formed the Christian Service Corps Council and areing among other things the live re-enactment of the Nativity Last April the National Park Service issued a permit to the Council for use of the Washington Monument grounds to stage the ful dress Christmas Nativity Pageant, complete with live animals and dignitaries to re-enact "as authentically as possible" the sequence of events of Christ's entry into history.

It is anticipated that as many as one million people will view the site in Washington and national television during the Christmas season.

The first year budget for the Pageant is $60,000 including camel rental, professionally produced soundtrack and lighting system, and the professional design and construction services.

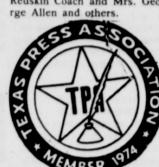

R obert Meyers, president of the Christian Service Corps (the Peach Corps of the Church), says the Pageant is being funded by the tax deductible donations from the people of the United Sates. "We want t return to the people the opportunity to present the and good will to all people' explained Meyers. "For this to happen it will be necessary to have Christmas NOW from Christian Americans.

Those who wish to help in launching the people's first annual Christmas Nativity Pageant may write to: Christian Service Corps Council, 1800 K Street NW Suite 631, Washington, D.C. 20006.

The Council under Senator Hatfield's leadership, includes such notables as Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boone, Mamie Eisenhower, David and Julie Eisenhower. Sargeant and Mrs. Shriver,

Washington Mayor Walter Washington and Mrs. Washington, Senator and Mrs. Howard Baker, Washington Redskin Coach and Mrs. Geo-

Home Demonstration Club members are busy preparing for the Senior Citizen's Fall Bazaar concessions this year. The Bazaar will be open to the public on Oct. 17 and 18 at the Rebekah Lodge in Eastland.

The Bazaar concessions will include stew, sandwiches, pies, cakes and many other goodies. Food will be on sale from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 17; and from 9 to 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 18.

The public is invited to come by and see the Bazaar, and have a delicious meal. All money from the concessions will be used to finance Home Demonstration Club projects and activities in the county.

Are you planning to enter the Senior Citizen's Bazaar? Preregistration forms are available from the Home Demonstration Office in the Courthouse or by calling 629-1729. If you are planning to enter the Bazaar it is not required that you pre-register your exhibits, but will be helpful to the Bazaar registration committee.

From all indications, this year's Bazaar will belarger than the 1973 Bazaar which had 68 senior citizens showing and selling their handmade articles. All proceeds from the sales goes to the owner, and last year's participants collected over $1,-300 in their sales.

The Bazaar is a county-wide project and everyone is invited to attend and participate.
