G. R. Nance Dies of Heart Attack Monday

G. R. (Pete) Nance, 54, prominent Cisco resident for about 30 years, died of a heart attack in an ambulance near Coleman about 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Mr. Nance had gone to Santa Anna for conferences with public school officials when stricken and the ambulance was summoned. Mr. Nance was a public accountant and operated his own business with offices in Cisco.

Born Oct. 5, 1906 at DeLeon, Mr. Nance grew up at Rising Star and moved to Winters where he finished high school. He attended McMurry College, and moved to Cisco in 1930.

He was associated with his father, S. H. Nance, in the Ford dealership in Cisco until 1939 when he joined the old Cisco Gas Co. as local manager. He remained with that firm until it was purchased by Lone Star Gas Co. in 1955. At that time he opened his own business as a public accountant.

Mr. Nance was associated with his brother-in-law, John Speir of Cisco, in the operation of drive-in restaurants in Cisco, Eastland and DeLeon. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Rotary Club in Cisco. He had been a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist Church for some 25 years, and he had served for many years as the church treasurer.

At the time of his death he was serving as treasurer for the Cisco district of the Methodist church.

Mr. Nance was president of the board of trustees of the Cisco Public Schools during the depression years and played a prominent role in a bond refinancing program which put the school system on its financial feet. He served as the first president of the board of regents of Cisco Junior College, resigning about a year ago due to the pressure of business.

Mr. Nance's death came as a shock as he had been in apparent good health. He suffered a mild heart attack about two years ago. Two weeks ago he underwent a physical checkup but the test results were satisfactory.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Wylie Funeral Home of Cisco.

Surviving are his wife and one daughter, Patsy Nance of Cisco; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nance of Cisco; and three sisters, Mrs. John Speir of Cisco, Mrs. Ford Taylor of San Angelo and Mrs. Hartman McCall of Midland.

Governor Appeals To Every Citizen In Safety Campaign

Governor Price Daniel said today he believed the annual state-wide campaign to save lives in Christmas - New Year's holiday traffic would reach the greatest number of drivers in many years and expressed the hope that "more drivers will do more to save their own lives and the lives of their fellow-citizens than ever before."

The Governor said he had mailed 11,000 letters containing more than 50,000 pieces of safety material to provide local traffic safety councils, law enforcement agencies, citizen support groups, newspapers, radio and TV stations and others "with a picture of this continuing tragedy which has been taking more than 2,000 lives a year for over a dozen years and which has already exacted a toll of more than 2,000 lives this year."

Governor Daniel said the holiday traffic safety campaign, planned and carried out through the cooperation efforts of a number of State agencies and cooperating citizens organizations, was "designed once again with a single objective in mind — to save lives on Texas highways. We want to keep holiday traffic deaths below the prediction of the Department of Public Safety, as we have during the past three Christmases."

The Governor said traffic safety workers throughout Texas would be "striving to hold the death toll for the 10-day holiday period at the lowest level in recent Texas history. The smallest number of deaths recorded for any 10 day to 12-day year and holiday since 1950 was 97 in 1959, but I believe the determination of those Texans dedicated to traffic safety this year may hold the death list at a record low level."

Governor Daniel said he had been particularly encouraged by the "Statewide cooperation of ministers, pastors and church congregations in observance of 'Safety Sunday' on Dec. 11. I have had reports from many parts of Texas indicating that our stress on the religious aspects of traffic safety, particularly related to the Christmas season, has caught the attention of church people of all faiths and has received more acceptance at the local level than ever before. This is especially encouraging and, I believe, will do much to influence the individual driver concerning his own moral responsibility to avoid involvement in death or injury to his fellow Texas."

The Governor said it would be "practically impossible for any Texas automobile driver to escape the traffic safety campaign, this holiday," because of widespread cooperation of all mass communication media in the State.

More than 700 outdoor posters are beginning to appear on Texas highways, bearing the Governor's personal message, "Don't let a Collision Spoil Your Holiday." The posters were contributed by (Continued On Page Four)

MARIE BONEY SAYS

New Orleans Faces Unhappy Christmas

By MARIE BONEY

People celebrate Christmas in various ways, but have you wondered about the families in New Orleans? Can't you just see inside their homes on Christmas Eve? The family has gathered around for Grandpa to read the Bible—Luke 2—and even the youngest child listens quietly as the familiar story unfolds.

Don't you hope one of the children says, "Of course, Jesus was white," in a very matter-of-fact tone, as though Christ wouldn't dare not be a white child?

Grandpa stirs uneasily and it's the mother who has to tell the child that Jesus was the Son of God, but His mother and her husband were Jewish.

Jewish, echoes the child in stark unbelief. Not the mother of Christ! Why, a Jew is the same as a Negro.

"No, no, not the same, son," answers the father. "Where did you get that idea?"

"Mother said so."

"I never said that," the mother tells the family.

"Yes, you did, Mother. The other morning when the Foreman child went to school, you screamed it again and again: 'Nigger lover, nigger lover, nigger lover, Jew; we hate niggers, we hate you!'"

Now what will the parents tell this child? He's been jerked from school because he is good to go into a building containing children of a different race. Is he also too good to worship Christ? Will they explain that there are several races of people—and each race is different? If so, will they also explain that to Christ all men are equal?

Will these parents who have hurled stones at fellow parents all week gather around the piano and sing Peace on earth, Good will to men?

It is very frightening, is it not, to see how these supposedly civilized people can turn into screaming mobs. It is beyond comprehension. The recurrent theme seems to be that each parent fears that attending an integrated school will lead his child into an inter racial marriage. Are we to understand then that any white child in New Orleans would be acceptable as a son or daughter-in-law? Nonsense. Any town holds many types of people and certain types are unacceptable as friends and potential relatives for reasons having absolutely nothing to do with their race or religion.

As most people, I am strongly opposed to federal aid to and interference with education, I am opposed to strikes and sit-in demonstrations by Negroes. However, fear is stronger than opposition and I am honestly afraid of these in New Orleans who yell and hurl stones. Prejudice blinds over a period of time.

My family lived for two years in deep East Texas where a colored lady came in to clean and iron for us. She talked freely to all of us. The first time I saw her children with her in a grocery store, I started talking to them. The mother turned in pure anger and ordered me to stay away from them. Too shocked to even answer, I turned and left.

At home the following day, she said, "I was sorry to talk to you like that but it's whites like you cause trouble for my children. You talk to them and the next white girl they see, they talk to her and get slapped down. Maybe worse. I have to train them young."

"That's ridiculous. Who would slap down kids the size of yours?"

She wouldn't answer me, so I began questioning the other kids at high school. These questions led to a story straight from a horror magazine. About 10 years before, a white man had taken a whip and beaten an eight-year-old Negro boy until he almost bled to death in front of the local movie. The boy had been reared on a farm owned by the man. One night the man's 16-year-old daughter and her date left the show and she gave the child a white left of her popcorn. Taking the sack, he spilled its contents on her skirt and reached quickly to brush the popcorn off.

Her parents heard about it before she got home. The man's punishment for the deed? None. He was a white man, free to do as he pleased with the child of his tenant farmer.

And the man? Mr. Murdoch, Old, white-haired Mr. Murdoch, who lived just across our door way. That same Mr. Murdoch was so proud that his grand children were coming to visit; urged his wife to bake cookies so he could sit out in the front and give them to the children who passed. That same Mr. Murdoch who whittled rock-shovel and whistles for my four boys.

Sure that it couldn't be true. I asked the visiting teacher. Yes, it was true, but "wasn't" really a violent man with colored people. She, however, had told him the man meant no harm. To that I took all the blame. "I knew better than to talk to Negro children," she said, "but it seemed to throw away popcorn when standing there."

From that moment on, I was deathly afraid of Mr. Murdoch. I'd enter my last cookie in Murdoch's kitchen. When a child brought home another cake, I was deeply relieved that Murdoch hadn't carved it.

This fear was considered reasonable by all the adults I knew. Not one of them would admit that a man capable of such violence to half killed children was potentially dangerous to all children. They said of him, "he wouldn't hurt anyone."

What about that child who was a Negro. The way a white man treats a Negro is no key to his character.

However, teenagers are bred unto themselves. Not at all prejudice-free children, they are not yet hate-filled adults. In a town where whites were clearly outnumbered, most high school students professed good will to all. Since they are now parents themselves, I hope they haven't changed drastically since we were in school.

For I hope that on Christmas Eve, no one I know personally has to explain to a wide-eyed child (Continued On Page Four) that it is perfectly all right for mother and daddy to scream hatred and sing peace. I've grown older and Mr. Murdock is long since dead, but still hatred terrifies me. An insidious thing, it controls those who yield to it; it twists minds. If people hate those who are different, what will happen if they decide we, too, are different? Are not Negroes, Chinese, Jews, Catholics, Baptists, white Americans, and British agnostics all different? If we hate, are we to hate all others? Or do we hate only every third group? Or could we gather unto ourselves part of the love of Christ and carry it into the new year?
