Actually you have a chance to do yourself a double favor. You can redeem the coupon and gain a big discount on some piece of merchandise and at the same time get your certificate in the drawing.

And if you don't have a certificate you can still win the $50. All you have to do is be in Eastland Friday night and walk around the square. You are almost sure to receive one of the 250 certificates to be given away then. Quickly redeem it and it will be placed in the drawing.

Out our way there is no news except that about our nice Christmas party last Monday night. Thanks to Munsingwear, Mike George and the Lone Cedar Country Club management, we enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner and fellowship afterward.

Mrs. Faye Hull sketched lovely Christmas scene in colored chalk. Mrs. Juanita Smith sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Faye did a pantomime of "All I Want for Christmas."

Buster Nelson of the Paris plant Emceed for Mike George, who was a little late due to illness in the family.

An enjoyable time was had by all who attended. Music was furnished by the Kinser family from Gorman way.

Production Credit Movement Observes 27th Anniversary

In 1933 American agriculture was deep in the clutches of the nation's longest and most severe economic depression and one of the worst and most widespread droughts on record. Many of the nation's farmers and ranchers were being forced out of business because there simply was no place he could go to receive sufficient financial aid to continue operations in the face of the continued plagues of depression and drought.

It was during this dark and critical period of distress that the Farm Credit Act of 1933—its provision to establish and adequate source of agricultural credit—the Production Credit Association, was born.

Today, 27 years later, the Production Credit Associations are thriving and integral portions of the business life of America, with more than 600 associations providing short and intermediate-term agricultural credit for farmers, ranchers and dairymen across the United States.

The 36 associations which serve all 254 Texas counties are prime examples of how the farmers and ranchers of America have provided for and by themselves a source of agricultural credit. Beginning with a handful of members and an infinitesimal amount of capital, the associations today are healthy, progressive financial institutions, owned and operated in integrity by their borrower-stockholders.

Although the federal government—out of necessity—provided initial loan funds when the associations were organized, the initial concept was to place the operation in each association in the hands of the local farmers and ranchers themselves, and for each association to become home-owned and operated at the earliest time possible.

It actually took the 36 associations in Texas only 16 short years to retire all federal capital. In 1949, each association had repaid in full all government money from assets accumulated during the intervening years through solid growth, astute management and the innate desire of the Texas farmer and rancher to guide his own financial destinies.

Since that humble and somewhat shaky beginning in December 1933, the 36 PCA organizations in Texas have provided more than $2.8 billion in agricultural credit. Today, more than 30,000 Texas farmers, ranchers and dairymen are Production Credit stockholders.

The Texas associations are currently involved in the purchase of all stock in the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, the discount agency for the 36 associations. The FICB each month sells debentures on the commercial money market to provide loan funds or the associations.

"Because our association is owned and operated by farmers and ranchers in this area," explained W. M. Irwin, general manager of the Stephenville PCA, "We have an intimate acquaintance with the problems, needs and conditions in our area. We have only one purpose for being in business and that is to provide adequate financial credit for the farmers, ranchers and dairymen in our area. It has been a distinct privilege and pleasure to provide this service for the past 27 years, and we look forward to providing these services as specialists in agricultural credit in the future."

The Stephenville PCA serves an area composed of Eastland, Erath, Hamilton, Comanche, Hood, Somervell, Johnson, Parker, Tarrant and Wise counties. Central office is in Stephenville and field offices are located in Eastland, Comanche, Deatur, Fort Worth and Burnham.

Moore About-

Just a thought. Hope it shows you down over the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Cyrus Miller sent us a recent copy of "Chili Chatter," a booklet put out by the Austex company, which told the life story of Oren Gresham Mead.

Mead, an Eastland High graduate, has been a U. S. Government inspector at the Austex plant for almost 20 years.

The article traced the entire history of Mead, but we will just borrow the parts which chiefly concern Eastland. Here they are:

"Oren attended and was graduated from Eastland High School and thoroughly enjoyed it. The four years spent there made it seem more like home than any of the other places he lived. He worked during these years, doing odd jobs in a bakery, and a 'grunt' (a line-man's helper, in case you are as uninformed as we were) for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. He also had a construction job on a power unit."

December Is Busy Month for Tiny Tot Kindergarten Class

The month of December has been a very busy time for the members of the Tiny Tot Kindergarten class. The month was spent making and decorating Christmas trees along with many other activities.

Teachers, Mrs. Howard Upchurch, Mrs. A. E. Cushman and Mrs. Fern Sagave, have reported great progress made by the children over the past three months. It is reported that they have settled down to being "little big people."

Others attending were Suzanne Cooper, John Lee Graham, John Frost, Janet Gues, Maria Guess, Marilyn Pierson, Nanette Williams, Tessa Pool and Shirley Ford.

During the month Mr. Savage showed home movies of a professional Santa Claus riding in a large old-fashioned sleigh drawn by a real white team, who visited Otis and Yvonne Green in Wisconsin. Also, skiing down Mt. St. Helens.

Kathy Ables and Jerry Beth Verhiesel celebrated their fourth birthday Tuesday with refreshments of gay Christmas cookies and candy canes served on Santa napkins. Favors were Santa boots. Fruit punch was served by Mrs. Ables and Mrs. Lee.

Others attending were Suzanne Cooper, John Lee Graham, John Frost, Janet Gues, Maria Guess, Marilyn Pierson, Nanette Williams, Tessa Pool and Shirley Ford.

MRS. BAIRD'S BAKERY in Abilene displays a child's version of Santa Claus in a huge display on the front lawn of the bakery.

Mrs. Baird's Bakery Holds Open House

For the twelfth consecutive year, Mrs. Baird's Bakery in Abilene has captured a child's vision of Santa Claus with a huge display on the front lawn of the bakery.

The "eight tiny reindeer" and Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer, seem to be moving in flight over a snow-covered hill. Old Santa, himself, is seated in his sleigh, with a stairway up to the sleigh for the children to walk up and talk with Santa.

Santa invites all the children to come see him from 6:00 to 9:00 P.M., every day until Christmas Eve.

Parents and children are also invited to attend Mrs. Baird's Open House which includes a tour through the bakery and hot and cold bread for everyone.

Mrs. Baird's Bakery is located at South 27th and Palm Street in Abilene.

Buffet Supper Is Hosted Sunday by Bill Collingses

Mr. and Mrs. Bill J. Collingses, 209 S. Oaklawn, hosted a buffet supper for choir members and their guests following the First Christian Church's Cantata Sunday evening.

From a table covered in red linen with a centerpiece carrying out the words "NOEL" and bearing red tapers, the group served themselves baked ham, smoked sausage, relishes, dips, applesauce, cake, fruit cake, cookies and candies. Coffee and cakes were served throughout the evening.

As they gathered about the tree and sang carols, Miss Kin Collingses, presented each choir member a gift. Members of the choir are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Vornor, Mr. and Mrs. Eldress Gattis, Misses Gracie Tankersley, Marsha Heckendorn, Marilyn Huckabay, Mavis, Varge Daniel, Curti Young, Ruthella Lightfoot, Ray Heckendorn and Messrs.
