

Allies Record Gains On Opposite Ends Of Front

Ko-Reds Rebuild For New Offense

TOKYO, Saturday, Sept. 9.—Allied troops hacked out slight gains at opposite ends of the rain-lashed Korean war front Friday against dangerous rebuilding Red forces.

Little fighting took place on the whole 120-mile battle-line. Americans surmised this meant a North Korean building during the lull for a new offensive smash.

A U. S. 8th Army spokesman said the Red drive by 50,000 men on Taegu, main allied base on the central front, had "petered out," probably from lack of supplies and sufficient manpower for the present.

The Reds had pushed to within seven miles of Taegu before the U. S. First Cavalry Division and South Koreans broke the back of their drive.

Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters summary early Saturday confirmed this general picture of the front. It said in the northern sector enemy pressure continued but had diminished while the defense front remained intact.

Near the east, it noted that allied forces continued to hold Yongchun and advanced against slight enemy resistance.

Headquarters warned of a possible new offensive either in the southwest or north or east.

The buildup seemed greatest on southern coastal approaches to Pusan port, chief allied base in Korea. In Masan post, 27 air miles west of Pusan, allied authorities ordered removal of all civilians not needed in the war effort.

This was a precautionary measure in the face of a reported offensive buildup in the west and threat of infiltration by Red agents ordered to stir up trouble among the 75,000 population.

Five thousand were evacuated from Masan in the first batch Friday.

Battle Mountain, a rugged peak about 12 miles northwest of Masan on the southwestern front, was retaken Friday by the U. S. 25th Infantry Division. It was the ninth time the peak changed hands.

American and South Korean troops gained a few yards near the east coast in their efforts to close a five-mile gap in their lines. AP Correspondent Bill Ross at the front reported the U. S. and South Korean troops opened separate attacks through the murky weather to try to close the gap.

At dusk the doughboys had made little progress. They were halted by rugged terrain plus the drenching rain which reduced air support to six sorties Friday.

Taegu, threatened by 50,000 of the 130,000 Reds on the battleline, appeared safe for now.

KOREAN WAR AT A GLANCE

League Asks Johnson Ouster

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Marine Corps League today demanded the ouster of Secretary of Defense Johnson, but defeated a similar proposal that Secretary of State Acheson be fired.

The Johnson resolution asked President Truman to replace the Defense Department chief "with a competent and far sighted statesman."

The organization of Marine veterans also adopted resolutions urging:

1. That the President "take immediate and drastic action to oust every known Communist sympathizer, leftist and fellow traveler from the State Department or any other department or government office where they may be found."
2. That Congress pass legislation providing for membership of the command of the Marine Corps on the joint chiefs of staff.

Cotton Crop Decline Is Forecast For Texas, U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Texas 1950 cotton crop was estimated at 2,775,000 bales today by the Agriculture Department. This was a decline of 225,000 bales from the Aug. 1 forecast.

A sharp decline also was forecast for the nation. Production was estimated at 9,820,000 bales, a drop of 426,000 bales from the forecast a month ago.

If the department's forecast is carried out, it will be the smallest production for Texas since 1946, when only 1,669,000 bales were harvested.

The Texas decline probably reflected poor growing conditions in some sections and heavy insect infestation.

Fears that production will be less than usual per acre and government acreage controls have been reflected in a price rise which saw sensitive futures contracts go above the 40-cent mark.

Four per cent of the Texas cotton acreage has been abandoned, the Agriculture Department reported, bringing acreage to 6,912,000. Production is forecast at 193 pounds per acre with the condition of the crop 70 per cent of normal.

The national figures compare with 16,700,000 bales grown last year and with a 1947-48 average of 11,599,000 bales.

Production is down from last year largely because of the effects of a government control program devised to prevent the accumulation of a burdensome surplus. But the government had not sought such a drop. Some farmers did not plant all they were intended to under the program.

Nevertheless, reserves from past crops assure ample supplies of most grades and staple lengths until the 1951 crop is harvested.

In addition, the government today restored strict controls on exports of cotton.

In a report accompanying the crop forecast, the census bureau said 863,633 bales of 1950-crop cotton had been ginned prior to Sept. 1 compared with 1,247,576 bales to the same date last year and 1,444,355 two years ago.

The department estimated the yield per acre at 25.4 pounds compared with 28.4 last year and 26.13 for the 10 year average.

Condition of the crop as of Sept. 1 was reported at 68 per cent of normal compared with 80 per cent a year ago and 76 per cent for the 10-year average.

The acreage for harvest was estimated at 74,829,000 acres compared with 72,290,000 acres last year.

The portion of the planted acreage abandoned was estimated at 3.2 per cent compared with 1.8 per cent last year.

TRUMAN 'CORRECTS MISTAKE'—President Truman (standing right) make a personal apology to members of the Marine Corps League at their annual convention in Washington saying that when he makes a "mistake, I try to correct it." He referred to his statements in a letter to a congressman that the Marines were merely the Navy police force and had a "propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's." (AP Wirephoto).

Regiment X Fought Unheralded Battle

By DON HUTH
Associated Press Staff

WITH U. S. 2ND DIVISION, Korea, Sept. 8.—A U. S. Army Second Division regiment has fought a little heralded but bitter and effective action that will stand as one of the highlights of the second battle of the Nakdong River bulge.

The regiment cannot be named now because of the Army ban on locating units smaller than a division.

Its story, which has been only sketchily told because communications with its sector are meager and difficult, begins the night of Aug. 31. The Reds, after a weird night torchlight demonstration on the west bank of the Nakdong, hit the Second Division line about 11 p.m. with elements of three infantry divisions and units of two mechanized divisions.

The regiment of this story, which shall be identified as Regiment X, west of Changnyong. An enemy regiment poured across the river. The attack was aimed at Changnyong and the man road leading through American positions.

Maj. Frank Mezar, whose wife is in Tuscaloosa, Ala., said: "The Reds came pouring over in waves. One wave would hit our line and then the next one came following right along. We gave them everything we had and they still kept coming. Some of the men fired until they ran out of ammunition before they withdrew."

The North Koreans swept over hill positions from which many Americans had to fight their way out.

"It was a proud and inspiring sight to see how these boys handled themselves," said Capt. Niles McIntyre, Salina, Kan. McIntyre, historian for the regiment, shouldered a gun when the Red surrounded its command post. He said he chalked up one Red in the fight.

McIntyre said he went out to see what he could do to help.

"There was a wounded man in a foxhole," he said, "I made my way to the man. He was hit pretty bad. I didn't have any first aid equipment with me. Then a voice in a nearby foxhole said, 'Do you need a first aid packet?' Someone threw one over."

"When I looked around to see who had given me the packet, I saw it was a lad who had been badly wounded, too. Blood was streaming down his face. He would wipe the blood from his eyes, fire a shot, wipe the blood away again. To think that that boy who was badly wounded would give his first aid packet to someone else made me realize how proud we should be of these men. It was one of the finest things I have ever seen."

The Reds pushed small harassing parties into Changnyong and for three days the city was infiltrated but never captured.

Regrouped and recovered from the initial assault by the Reds, Regiment X began its counterattack. Doughboys burned huts on the outskirts of Changnyong to flush out snipers. Air and artillery pounded enemy lines.

But it was the slogging doughboys of Company X who shoved the Reds off the hills and drove them back toward the river.

"Last Monday night the Communists tried another counterattack at night," Mezar said.

"The attack started about 10 p.m. and lasted until 5 a.m. They never let up. We had hooks all over this place. We stayed in position and really clobbered them."

Regiment X secured another objective yesterday—a high commanding ridge that left it only one more ridge to go before reaching the river less than two and a half miles away.

The attack began at 11 a.m. against heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire and without air support. Casualties from that first hour of fighting streamed back from the forward air station by the truckload. But the objective was secured within two hours.

The Reds were driven off the hills into a village on the west side of the newly captured position.

Regiment X is holding its positions after a tough week of fighting against a numerically superior enemy. Officers and men feel confident they can handle anything the Communists can throw.

US Takes Up Case Of Jet Scientist

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8 (AP)—With the perjury conviction of Dr. Sidney Weinbaum behind them, federal agents today take up the case of another jet propulsion scientist with an alleged Communist background.

Dr. Hsue-Shen Tsien, 40, alien Chinese specialist, is held without bond pending a deportation hearing by the U. S. Immigration Service which charges he is in this country illegally because of membership in a group that advocates overthrow of the government by force.

Russian-born Dr. Weinbaum, 52, was found guilty by a federal court jury yesterday of lying about his membership in the Communist Party.

Both scientists were engaged in jet research work at California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Weinbaum was removed from a government-sponsored secret laboratory at Caltech after a U. S. security check. Dr. Tsien has headed the Institute's Guggenheim jet propulsion center, dealing mostly in research for civilian and commercial use.

Caltech issued a statement that the school has "always had complete confidence in Dr. Tsien's integrity and loyalty."

Albert Del Guercio, assistant immigration director here, said Dr. Tsien was arrested under a section of the 1918 immigration act forbidding entry into the United States of a member of any organization seeking overthrow of the government by force or violence. Dr. Tsien was admitted for permanent residence as a professor in 1947, after having been here for many years previously on a student's visa.

Del Guercio said a hearing date for Dr. Tsien will be set soon.

Crystal Ball Can Forecast The Future

DETROIT, Sept. 8 (AP)—Just as the crystal ball said, Fortune Teller Hazel Spurlock must either start a 100-day jail term or pay a $90 fine.

She read the sentence in her own crystal ball yesterday after Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis practiced a bit of practical soothsaying.

For $5, it was charged, Mrs. Spurlock's clients all got back futures but for an extra $10 they got predictions of handsome husbands and families and fine homes.

Mrs. Spurlock's crystal ball was on the judge's desk. He fingered it, gazed into it for a while, then handed it back to the defendant, asking what she saw.

"It says 90 or 100 days," gasped Mrs. Spurlock.

"So be it," said the judge.

He had lettered the sentence on a piece of paper and pasted it on the ball.

VA Hospital Dedication Set For 2 p.m. Sunday; Gen. Gray Due Here Tomorrow

Thousands of West Texans are expected to gather here Sunday for dedication of the Veteran Administration hospital and to make a tour of the plant.

Gen. Carl R. Gray, chief of veterans' affairs, will dedicate the six million dollar plant in brief ceremonies set for 2 p.m. at the hospital's main building at Gregg and Park Road.

Immediately thereafter, visitors will be escorted on a tour of the building. Staff members and scores of volunteers will be at stations to assist visitors.

Manager of half a dozen other VA hospitals and several other dignitaries are expected here for the affair. Gen. Gray, who will arrive Saturday afternoon, will be honored at an appreciation dinner set for 7 p.m. Saturday in the Settles Ballroom.

Indications are that there will be a large number of out-of-town residents who will come here to view the magnificent structure Sunday.

While some wards with seriously ill patients will not be open to inspection, virtually all of the main building and its service auxiliary structures will be available to visitors.

Almost without exception, those who have viewed the interior, as well as the exterior, of the plant have rated it as perhaps the finest they have ever seen. Its sheer immensity is overwhelming. For instance, it is approximately 700 feet long, 150 feet wide, 100 feet (eight stories) high. It has 562 rooms, more than 1,100 windows, nine elevator units, and a current staff of 325 persons. Now there are 135 beds open, and by the end of the year virtually all the 250-bed capacity will be available. The hospital is of general medical and surgical type.

Charge Oil Field Worker In Rape Case

E. E. Mallonee Signs Statement Before District Attorney

Eugene Everett Mallonee, 27-year-old oil field worker charged with forcibly raping an 11-year-old girl here Monday, was denied bond by Justice of the Peace Oren Leonard after he waived examining trial this morning.

Mallonee is being held in county jail after being arrested by city police late Thursday. He signed a statement before District Attorney Elton Gilliland and four witnesses Thursday in which he said he picked the girl up near "a white building" Monday afternoon.

He said he drove his car with the girl to a road leading to Scenic mountain. In his statement, Mallonee said he "couldn't remember" what happened after that, but that he next remembered being downtown and returning to his home in Sand Springs.

Police Patrolman C. C. Aaron arrested Mallonee about 5:30 p.m. Thursday as he entered his car which had been parked in the 200 block of W 1st street all day. He left the machine there about 5 a.m. Thursday when he rode to work in another car to a point near Snyder, he told police.

Capt. E. W. York and Patrolman L. P. Trammell started a watch on the car Thursday morning when they noticed it fit the description given Monday by the attack victim. The police department had conducted an intensive search for the car since the incident was reported. Police Chief Pete Green said patrolmen checked approximately 40 cars which might have fit the description given by the girl.

City police had been working quietly on the case since Monday night when they first received the complaint.

In his statement, Mallonee said he had lived in several different places, naming Kansas and Colorado. He has lived in and around Spring for the past two years, he said, and more recently had lived at Sand Springs.

TO BACK UP CHARGES

Schoeppel To Get Witnesses Monday

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan.) demanded and was promised today the right to call his own witnesses in an effort to back up his charges of Communist infiltration into the Interior Department and the Alaskan statehood fight.

Schoeppel made the move at a public hearing of the Senate Interior Committee investigating his charges which Republican colleagues said privately seemed to be backfiring.

Randolph Feltus, a publicity man whom Schoeppel had denounced in a Senate speech Tuesday as an "agent for the Kremlin," angrily denied the charge again today and said the senator had raised a question of "guilt by association" that could "cut both ways."

Schoeppel had accused Feltus of working "for the Kremlin via Warsaw" at a time he was serving as publicity man for the Alaskan Statehood Committee. He based that charge on the fact Feltus also was on the payroll of the ambassador of Communist Poland as a public relations man, while working for the committee earlier this year.

Feltus testified today that while working for the Polish ambassador, he also wrote a letter in behalf of another client, which Schoeppel and 25 other Republican senators signed and sent to President Truman in 1948 demanding that the United States back Indonesia's fight with the Netherlands.

"Thus, Feltus said, Schoeppel had 'raised a question of guilt by association that could work both ways.'"

Angry he said he never has been a Communist, never has been an agent of the Kremlin, and doesn't even know any Russians.

Chapman vigorously denied Schoeppel's charges against him when he appeared yesterday. The secretary denied Schoeppel to repeat them where he would not be immune from suit for damages.

Two Lawmakers Asking Larger Marine Corps

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Two Democratic lawmakers, both former Marines, called on Congress today to increase greatly Marine Corps strength and give it equal representation on the joint chiefs of staff despite President Truman's wishes.

Reps. Mansfield (D-Mont) and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said they will introduce bills to:

- (1) Raise the basic strength of the Marines to 300,000 men;
- (2) Authorize four divisions and four air wings;
- (3) Create an assistant secretary of the Navy for the Marines; and
- (4) Place the Marines commandant on the joint chiefs of staff.

By mobilizing their reserves, the Marines are now building toward a maximum strength of about 200,000 men. They are represented on the joint chiefs only by a Navy man.

Mansfield and Douglas disclosed their plans as the rumor subsided over Mr. Truman's reference to the Marines as a "police force" with a "propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's."

At dusk the doughboys had made little progress. They were halted by rugged terrain plus the drenching rain which reduced air support to six sorties Friday.

Taegu, threatened by 50,000 of the 130,000 Reds on the battleline, appeared safe for now.

Forged Daily Worker Check May Backfire On Somebody

The prankster or person with malicious intent who made out a forged check to the Communist Daily Worker may find that the trick will backfire.

The matter has been referred to the FBI.

There was found on Main street in Big Spring today a check made out over a signature (obviously a forgery) of a prominent Big Spring citizen. It was drawn on the State National Bank, was dated September 1, 1950, and was made out to "Communist Daily Worker (Dallas Div.)." In the lower left hand corner was the notation, "Dues 9-1-50 to 1-1-51." The local man's name was typed, as was all the rest of the check, and then his name had been written in ink.

The check obviously had not gone through the mails, nor had it been negotiated. It could have been intended as a joke, or as an attempt to besmirch the local man's reputation.

Finder of the check turned it over to the local citizen, who had the incident referred to the FBI. It was his thought, he said, that if other similar checks were found around town, either with his name or other people's signatures, the

LATIN SUFFERS A SERIOUS SETBACK

Caesar, whose victories in Gaul have baffled Latin students here for nearly half a century, has suffered a serious setback.

Latin, as a high school subject, was ordered suspended, temporarily from the curriculum of the Big Spring high school last night. Board members took the action in the face of reports of repeated futile attempts to secure a qualified Latin teacher. Supt. W. C. Blankenship said that when E. M. Schneider, who taught the classes last year, resigned, a search was started for a successor. None has been found.

Of the 39 who had signed for the subject, none had to have it to graduate. Those with first year Latin can use it as an elective credit.

Hadacol Proves Real Blessing To Relieve Suffering From Stomach Disturbances caused by lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in their systems

Mrs. Hilton Shuff

Mrs. Shuff's son, Mark Wendell

Anyone only has to look at the happy expression on attractive Mrs. Shuff's face above to recognize the fact that she's a kind, loving thoughtful mother and takes keen interest in bringing up her little son. She lives at Route 1, Box 42, Ville Platte, La.

And what a handsome, husky-looking youngster her son, Mark Wendell, has turned out to be! Mrs. Shuff tells us that since taking the great HADACOL, he has so much more energy. Well that's the way a youngster should be, but Mark Wendell wasn't always in such healthy condition, due to lack of important Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin.

As Mrs. Shuff says: "My son Mark Wendell had been sick for quite some time. A lot of the time he could hardly hold anything on his stomach. He was very pale and weak. Then I started giving him HADACOL, and he improved so. He has gained weight, and I know he has more energy than a dozen wild Indians."

Adds Her Own Experience
Then Mrs. Shuff thoughtfully added her own interesting experience after taking HADACOL. "When you are a housewife on a farm you have lots of work to do. Not hard work but work that is tiring—especially when you don't feel well. At night I couldn't rest, and food, no matter what I ate, didn't agree with me. Then my sister told me about HADACOL. I took her advice and began taking it. I felt better since taking the third bottle. So far I've taken fifteen bottles of HADACOL. I eat anything I want to. I sleep well and my housework doesn't tire me at all. Anything I say about HADACOL would be an understatement. You can understand why our family is sold on it."

UNDER ONE SUPREME LEADER

Urge US To Press For Action On Joint West European Army

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter
WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 — The United States is being urged by some of its top advisers overseas to press for quick action on early formation of a joint army under a single supreme commander for defense of western Europe.

Diplomatic and administrative officials, getting ready for the foreign ministers conference opening in New York next week, have been told the matter is urgent in light of the military build-up in Communist East Germany.

Moreover, creation of a joint army is described as a condition for agreement by the West German government to provide a German military force and participate in a rearmament program. German participation probably could be expected under no other conditions, these advisers are reported to have told Washington.

Nevertheless, creation of an actual joint European army and, especially, selection of a commander for it may be several steps removed from next week's meeting of the big three foreign ministers.

In some quarters, especially military, it is suggested that what might emerge first, ahead of a supreme command, is some form of combined chiefs of staff with a chairman or similar head. This would be the unit to plan and get into eventual existence a joint army.

Until a combined Army actually does exist there will be no need for the western European powers and the United States to agree on selection of a commander. Recognizing that all this will need time, the advisers are recommending that meanwhile the United States provide a substantial increase in its present occupation force in Germany, with Britain and France doing likewise.

In the case of the United States, even that would take time and at this moment probably cannot be done at all. The U. S. now has in Germany one army division and a constabulary force. These combat-trained elements are part of an overall strength in Europe totaling about 97,000 men.

The United States now has committed a large part of its effective combat force to Korea. Left in the United States are only two or three divisions. They are needed for reserves in defense at home or for possible use in the Far East should the war there grow still more difficult.

This means that even if the United States decided immediately to send more support to Europe, new divisions would have to be trained and equipped. It takes from eight months to a year or more to start with raw recruits and polish them into a workable, combat infantry division of 17,000 men, equipped with small arms and artillery.

Calico Cat Very Popular

WEST NYACK, N. Y., Sept. 8 — If Marquise the calico cat could read, she'd be proud of those 5,500 postal cards flooding six New Jersey towns asking about her.

Marquise disappeared from a veterinarian's shop in Ridgewood, N. J., where she was being boarded while her owners, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richards of this town, were on vacation.

Figuring Marquise might be hazy about getting back to West Nyack, the Richards compiled a mailing list from the telephone directories of six towns adjacent to Ridgewood.

So now 5,500 families know there is a reward of $25 cash for the calico cat.

Congressmen Live Lives Of Recruits; Well, Almost Anyway

FORT DIX N. J., Sept. 8 — Three congressmen leaped out of bunks as reveille blew here this morning.

Reps. Hugh Addonizio and Peter Rodino of Newark and Rep. Charles Howell of Pennington, began a semi-official tour yesterday to study induction and training facilities.

The three New Jersey Democrats said they wanted to be treated just like inductees. So they donned fatigue uniforms, ate in the soldier's mess, and made their own beds.

However, they differed from inductees in that they had napkins at lunch, a sergeant brought their sheets and pillow-cases — and they can get out of the Army whenever they choose.

School District To Continue With Some Half-Day Sessions

Despite additional classrooms, the Big Spring Independent School district is due to continue with a heavy load of half-day sessions.

This was apparent on the basis of enrollment reports presented to the school board at its meeting Thursday evening.

As compared with the figures at the end of the first week a year ago, enrollment has jumped 23.5 per cent.

The total is 3,831 a numerical gain of 730 over a year ago. And the end is not in sight. Although high schools and eighth grade enrollment has stabilized, more elementary pupils are being received daily, Dean Bennett, elementary supervisor, advised the board.

W. C. Blankenship, superintendent said that the increase, greatest for a single year in more than 20 years, would necessitate the addition of more teachers. He and Bennett said that the implication was that more sections likely would have to go on half-day, but 16 classroom units were added.

Sup. Blankenship said that after reports are in today they will be analyzed closely with the view of contacting the state educational agency for possible financial relief.

There is not a school building from the wards through high school but what has felt the impact of the sharp increase. White elementary enrollment reached 2,610 through Thursday, a gain of 510. Eighth grade enrollment had gained 69 in reaching 289, and high school enrollment had jumped 79 in aggregating 747. Lakeview (Negro) school had 175, an increase of 72.

Blankenship noted that the big increase in Kate Morrison and Lakeview schools might be attributed in part to the lateness of the cotton harvest. A year ago harvest of the crop was getting in full swing. It likely will be October before the 1950 harvest hits its stride. If some of the children in these schools take to the fields, as they have in the past, some of the immediate pressure on these two school may be relieved.

Elsewhere the problem promised no easing. Under immediate consideration was the possibility of revising the airport school as available there.

Resignation of Mrs. Lilla Mae Baird, who is returning to her home in Kennedy, was accepted. The board elected 10 other elementary teachers. They were S. D. Beeman, Robert D. Clark, Mrs. Mary Arnold, Hefley, Laurie Dudley, Mrs. Marjorie Morris, Mrs. Blanche James, Mrs. Fay D. Baird, Hazel Louise Melton, Mrs. Grace B. Hubbard, Earl Penner, Clark and Penner were given physical education assignments in addition.

Offer of the Big Spring Insurance association to place school insurance, so that all agencies with a history of five or more years in business here will share, was offered. The placement, it was understood, was to be made to those qualifying regardless of association membership. The association will advise that the board annually on status and adequacy of insurance.

The board authorized Supt. Blankenship to join with a committee of patrons in presenting to the city bus concern the need for a morning and afternoon bus schedule for youngsters from the Edwards Heights and Park Hill areas to College Heights school. Vernon Baird presented the request.

Matter of bids on a pick-up truck were referred to Business Manager Pat Murphy. The board and the city are to talk over possibility of one-way traffic on Shepherd's Lane, the street on the west side of High school and Central Ward. Murphy reported on renovations and repairs to the school plants during the summer. Maintenance staff did the work and material cost was $7,985, including $2,496 at Central and $1,408 at Kate Morrison.

HIS MOTHER IS A BEAUTY CONTEST WINNER—Mrs. Irma Hamilton gets a hug from her son Ronald, five, after she won the title of Mrs. South Florida and the right to go to Atlantic City to compete in next week's Mrs. America finals. County Hereford Program Seems Better Than Ever

Howard County Hereford Breeders have pushed their program for ward another step during the past year, which probably means that they will offer the best group of animals in the association's history at their annual sale next Feb. 12.

That was the consensus of those who made the annual tour of inspection Thursday.

"Members of this association are constantly on the alert and they seldom pass up opportunities to improve their herds," declared Henry Elder of Fort Worth, secretary of the Texas Hereford Association.

"Today I believe we are seeing better cattle than we saw on previous tours in this area," Elder observed.

At every stop the touring group found cattle in excellent flesh, and in most cases breeders already were preparing their consignments for the winter sale.

After a swing to the west and southwest Thursday morning, including stops at the Charlie Creighton, O. H. McAlister and Cauble Hereford farms, a barbecue was served at the Leland Wallace farm northeast of Big Spring. During the afternoon, the group inspected herds of C. A. Walker, Sam Buchanan, R. E. Martin, Clay Buchanan and L. J. Davidson.

Several visitors from the South Plains Hereford Association and from the Sweetwater area made the tour. Members of the Howard Association were to make a tour of the South Plains herds today.

She Obliging Calls In Police

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 8. (AP)—A man walked into Mrs. Fred Murphy's store Tuesday and robbed $25.

Yesterday he returned and apologized. He said, "call the police, I'll wait for them."

Mrs. Murphy accommodated him. Police identified the man as John Leonard Holt, 43, of Memphis. They charged him with robbery.

14 Children Killed

UDINE, Italy, Sept. 8. (AP)—Fourteen children were killed and 56 hurt when a trailer truck taking them on an outing plunged down a mountainside near here yesterday. The children were between the ages of six and 12.

Baseball Broadcast Ban Not A Gracious Treatment Of Fans

There ought to be some give-and-take in baseball circles, the same as any place else. The matter of accommodating followers with broadcasts of baseball games got pretty well fouled up throughout the Longhorn baseball league at the start of this season, and it took some expression from fans before this was straightened out. Comes now a "ruling" from some quarter that home broadcast of the Longhorn league playoffs will not be permitted. On top of that, another decision that not even "foreign" broadcasts can be made from Odessa. This seems a sort of ungracious way to treat the same people who are appealed to throughout the season to support the ball clubs, to ante up for players' funds and to pitch in for player's nights one after the other. It is understandable that baseball clubs want to get as many people as they can into the parks, but it has never yet been established with any certainty that broadcasts keep the fans away. Certainly, when a broadcast could originate from out of town there is little argument against providing this informational service to the supporters who have been loyal through the season. Baseball occupies a unique place in that it seems to be the public's business. That being true, the public ought not to be shut out when the race comes to a climax. This is not to place the blame on the management of the Big Spring baseball club alone. There seems to be strong resistance to broadcasts in Odessa in particular. The league as a whole must have taken some action. The Longhorn press is Hal Savley, and may be reached in care of the Reporter-News, phone 7271. Abilene, in case of contact with him is desired. And Al Aton and Pat Stacey of the local club undoubtedly are available for discussion of this matter.

One-Fifth Increase In School Enrollment Presents Problems

If you had five in your family and suddenly there were six, what would you do? Probably you would think in terms of putting two in one bed. As soon as possible, you might plan on adding an extra room to meet the increase. There is an analogy with the situation that confronts the Big Spring school system. Not since the crest of the boom of the late '20s brought an increase of about 1,000 youngsters to the Big Spring district has there been anything like the increase in enrollment which has flooded the various plants this autumn. Tabulations at the end of the first day of regular school showed an increase of 536 over the end of the first week last year. This figured out at 18 per cent with prospects that by the end of this week the gain over the comparable date a year ago will be about 20 per cent. During last year we got around to a too-long delayed classroom program, adding 16 units. Under ideal conditions, this would provide for 400 youngsters. It permitted, theoretically, a reduction of 32 of the 43 sections on half day sessions. By the same token, 550 new students would erase the 16 new classroom advantage and leave us six in the hole. Actually, the situation has not worsened to that extent, but the figures do give you some idea as to why, even with a substantial amount of new classrooms, we will be obliged to keep a large number of half-day classes. It also points to the necessity of considering at the earliest time the possibility of one or more elementary schools. We never catch up, but then that's a penalty of being a vigorously growing community.

Happy Holler Hall Is One Spot UN Correspondents Cherish

By DON WHITEHEAD
For Hal Boyle
KOREA. — IT WILL BE A SAD DAY for United Nations news correspondents if the North Korean Reds ever capture Happy Holler Hall. We have come to love this old clapnet of a building. It has housed us for weeks. It's the main base for most of our journeys to the front. The rain slants through its broken windows. The bathroom facilities are crude, to say the least. And the fleas are with us to stay, despite DDT and other bug-killing wonders of modern science. But it's home for the reporters of many nations. The warmth of friendship within its walls will be a memory that cannot be erased—even by the Reds.

ASSOCIATED PRESS COLUMNIST AND Correspondent Hal Boyle gave Happy Holler Hall its name soon after we moved into the rambling, two-story frame building. The war was new then. A few of us punched old grads from World War II put coats in one room, promptly labeled the "Sheep Room." There we separated the sheep from the goats. The goats were bann'd to the outer darkness of other rooms. Rules for the "Sheep Room" were simple. Sleep in for goats. And if you don't like the bleating, get out. Then Frank Coniff of the New York Journal American — an old sheep from World War II — had an inspiration. He proposed an "Apology Hour" from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. daily. This has become the period for apologizing for all the insults of the past night. This is the hour of penitence when wounded feelings must be soothed and outraged pride restored. It should be a national institution—this apology hour.

IN PAST WEEKS A FORMER PRIME minister's son has been insulted in Happy Holler Hall. In turn, he has insulted some of his colleagues. Distinguished British and American Journalists have buried angry words at each other—but apology hour has never failed to restore calm in Happy Holler Hall. In a room with curtained windows, typewriters are pounded throughout the day and night. Correspondents shout over the telephone, dictating stories to Tokyo, while their competitors lounge nearby with ears

GOP Hopes Truman Crack At Marines Will Help Them In Coming Election

WASHINGTON — President Truman, a short-tempered man who has been forced to control an immense irritation of late with people of real importance, has let fly at an obscure Congressman who annoyed him and has wounded the United States Marines. The ensuing fireworks are lighting up the Washington sky. Prominent in the foreground are smiling Republicans who hope that the Truman crack about the Marines having "a better propaganda machine than Stalin's" will constitute a "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" incident to take into the elections only nine weeks away. The Marines themselves are really mad and justly so. Army Veteran Truman has always been opposed to the suggestion put forward by Rep. Gordon McDonough, California Republican, that he grant Representation to the Marine Corps on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. So have the heads of the services, including the Navy, but Marine admirers are nothing daunted; they trot it out regularly. In addition to his vexation over this reiteration from the armchair strategist, the President has doubtless been irked by the insistence of Chairman Vinson of House Armed Service that four divisions of Marines should be raised forthwith. This would more than double their present authorized strength and shatter the old rule that the Marine Corps is 20 per cent of the Navy. It is unfair to blame this on the Marines. In fact, Admiral Sherman, chief of naval operations, warned Mr. Vinson he could not support that proposal, and Marine General Gates has also frowned on it. Mr. Vinson took it to the White House last week just the same, when he and Chairman Tydings of Senate Armed Services conferred with the President of defense needs. General Bradley, Collins and Vandenberg and Admiral Sherman have warmly praised the President for not telling them how to run the war. Virtuously abstaining himself from interference, Mr. Truman seems to feel others should copy his example. Certainly it was Mr. Truman, the irked commander-in-chief, and not Mr. Truman, the politician, who penned the reply to Representative McDonough.

Tobey Finds Out Friends May Forget --But Not Enemies At Election Time

WASHINGTON — At a recent cocktail party, a tall, handsome guest with a slight drawl and polished manner, stepped up to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. "We are really going to get that colleague of yours from New Hampshire," he said. "When the Republican primary is over your friend Tobey isn't going to know what hit him." And he went on to tell at some length about his plans to defeat Tobey. Sen. Smith's friend was Roger Whiteford, a top Washington attorney; while the senator to whom he referred was GOP veteran Charles Tobey, now fighting for his life in the New Hampshire primaries. Behind this cocktail conversation was something which is axiomatic in politics—namely, "your friends may forget you at election time, but your enemies never."

The evidence was truly shocking. It showed that one of the nation's most influential corporations had resorted to political fixing and bribery to get an anti-trust case called off. And had it not been for the persistent sleuthing of Sen. Tobey, the facts probably would still be buried. Now 10 years later, it appears from Roger Whiteford's conversation with Sen. Smith that the chickens hatched by Sen. Tobey's fearless perseverance are coming home to roost. For the opposition against him in the New Hampshire primary is such that he may lose. DEFEATED PAULEY Tobey was the one Republican who led the fight against confirmation of Truman's close pal, big oilman Ed Pauley, to be under-Secretary of the Navy at a time when Truman was at the peak of his popularity. Most Republicans did not relish bucking the President then, but Tobey forced Pauley to withdraw his name for the Navy post, and Pauley promptly vowed to "get" the man who defeated him—at the next election. Tobey also stood up against one of the most powerful industrial concerns in his home state, Textron, which owns some 20 textile mills in New England. Staging one of its biggest voting areas, Manchester, Textron had powerful friends, and the probe was not popular. As a result of his fight, however, it was discovered that the family of Textron's president, Royal Little, had made heavy personal profits that should have gone to the stockholders. A profit of $700,000 for the Little family was made on buying and selling the Newmarket Mill at Lowell, Mass., with another large personal profit on the Suncook Mill in New Hampshire. These were profits that should have gone into dividends, not to

There Are Good Reasons For Laws Governing Most Things

Nowadays a person must possess a license before engaging in most activities, except a few like criticizing the government or the town baseball team. But in most cases regulatory measures appear to be substantiated by good reasons. Most hunters and outdoor sportmen know that game laws are essential if birds and wild game are to be available continuously. At the same time, probably few of them resent the fact the licenses, or stamps, are required in addition to regulated seasons for hunting. Many requirements for licenses have been added during recent years, but it has been our observation that a definite need usually crops up before anything is done about regulation. That even goes for drivers' licenses. We have a vivid memory of some happenings before Texas got around to providing a drivers' license law. For one thing we drove an automobile ourselves with some regularity at the ripe old age of 10 years and made a 600-mile trip under the wheel of a motor vehicle at 11.

A couple of cronies had bigger feats to boast about, however. The two of them managed to "catch on" as truck drivers when a railroad in the neighborhood began a huge excavation project. They two were brothers, one aged 14, the other 11. At that time few people had heard of chauffeur's licenses and nobody even dreamed of operators licenses such as those required today for mere passenger cars. If you had the nerve to try it, you were a driver. The two brothers proceeded to make themselves some spending money hauling dirt in a ponderous dump truck. The elder manned the wheel and manipulated the accelerator while maintaining a half-sitting, half-standing position. His younger brother sat flat upon floor board in front of the helmman, with his back braced against the seat. Upon receiving verbal instructions from his older brother, the one on the floor applied the brakes. They worked it with precision, and the employer never realized that more than one person was in the truck. WACIL McNAIR

The Nation Today—James Marlow

Hawaii, Alaska Loom Larger In American Defense Plans

WASHINGTON — EVERY TWO years when there's a new Congress, I write a piece about Alaska and Hawaii. There's never any attempt at prophecy in it. (There's none in this, either.) Every two years the story says that Hawaii and Alaska, which have been trying to get statehood for themselves, are still trying. And then the story explains that maybe this session of Congress will be the time when they get it—maybe. Then they don't get it. Then when there's a new Congress, and there's talk about Hawaii and Alaska, I do another piece. Last March I did such a piece because the House had passed bills to let Hawaii and Alaska become states. BUT IT POINTED OUT THAT THIS would mean nothing unless the Senate also approved. Somehow, the Senate never got around to it, as usual. But since last March something has happened: Our relations with Russia have gone even further down hill than they were then. Hawaii and Alaska loom ever larger as important parts of this country's outer defenses. Since they're so important, there's been renewed talk to let them come in as states. And Wednesday President Truman nudged the Senate to do something. Senator Lucas of Illinois, top man among the Senate Democrats, said maybe the Senate will act before going home this month. So here once again is the story on Hawaii and Alaska, just in case the Senate lets them become the 49th and 50th states: The U. S. bought Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000 but didn't allow it to become a territory until 1912.

fish, and coffee. In both territories the people have voted for statehood. Congressional committees have made trips to the territories and investigated the problem of giving them statehood. AND STATEHOOD FOR BOTH WAS promised by the Democratic and Republican parties in their party platforms. And the President wants it done. Although pressure to get these two territories admitted as states began in a real way in the middle 1930's, first real action came in 1947 when the House voted to admit Hawaii. The Senate never has voted. The House this year voted again for Hawaii and, for the first time, for Alaska, too. So far the Senate still hasn't acted. Some of the congressmen opposed to statehood argue this way: Alaska and Hawaii, if admitted, would have two senators each, since every state has two senators. And, because of its 540,000 population, Hawaii would be entitled to two representatives in the House. Alaska, because it has only 100,000 population, would have one representative in the House. IN THEIR LOCAL ELECTIONS ABOUT 100,000 of the 540,000 Hawaiians vote and about 20,000 of Alaska's 100,000 population vote. This would give Alaska two senators representing only 20,000 voters. Whereas states with millions of voters are allowed only two senators. But the people in Alaska and Hawaii argue this way: They've already been kept too long in the status of territories. They're both mature in running their own affairs. But Congress, because they are only territories, really runs them and makes laws for them. But, unlike the people in states, the people in Alaska and Hawaii have no voice in the laws made for them. And, although they have to pay federal taxes, they don't get the full benefit from federal laws that states get. They can't vote in a national election. A territory can elect its own legislature but the President appoints the governor. In addition to all this, the Hawaiians and Alaskans argue that statehood would strengthen this country's position in the Pacific.

THE U. S. ANNEXED HAWAII, THEN a republic, in 1898 and made it a territory in 1900. Alaska is twice the size of Texas which has 385,000 square miles. It has a population of 100,000 people, more than many of the present states had when they were admitted to the union. Hawaii has a population of 850,000. About 85 per cent of those people are American citizens. Hawaii, made up of seven islands, has an area of 8,400 square miles. Alaska's chief industries are fishing, furs, mining, lumber. Hawaii's are sugar, pineapple, cattle, dairy products, truck crops, Result: The stockholders won a bonanza, and Tobey won a potent enemy. TOBEY'S LAST BATTLE Charles Tobey, now 70 years old, has been campaigning with the vigor of a man aged 50. But he has been fighting almost singlehanded, while his opponent, a young former secretary of Sen. Styles Bridges, appears to be well-beeled with campaign funds.

Affairs Of The World—DeWitt MacKenzie

Germany Must Be Rearmed For Successful European Defense

ONE OF THE CERTAINTIES OF these dangerous days is that any successful defense of western Europe against a Red advance must be based on the hotly controversial rearmament of western Germany. That's a bitter pill for those who not so long ago swore that the instigator of two world wars should not again be allowed to reararm. However, it has to be swallowed. Another general war not only would involve this keystone of Europe but probably would begin in this central zone where communism and Democracy face each other across and imaginary barrier. THEREFORE IT'S ENCOURAGING TO hear John J. McCloy, U. S. high commissioner for Germany, say after a conference with President Truman that "the Germans should be enabled, if they want to, to defend their own country." And Secretary of State Acheson followed this up with the statement that it is highly desirable to find an appropriate way for Germany to aid the defense of western Europe. With the institution of certain safeguards this should work out satisfactorily. I base that supposition on the belief that military aggression is not an inherent characteristic of the German people as a whole. The aggression by the Reich has sprung mainly from one special group of the population—the Prussians. Prussianism long has been the curse of Europe. It started World War I, and was primarily responsible for the second global conflict. HITLER LOUDLY BOASTED THAT though he was Austrian by birth he was Prussian in spirit. His Nazi creed of conquest was based on Prussianism, and he had the willing support of the Prussian war lords in launching his effort to conquer the world. It is true, however, that many Germanic people are susceptible to regimentation. The Prussians took advantage of that; Hitler took advantage of it. Acceptance of these conclusions as correct immediately raises a vital corollary: If Germany is allowed to reararm for self-defense and for participation in the defense of western Europe with the democracies, she must be safeguarded against any form of dictatorship, since totalitarianism might again impose the regimentation which would lead to aggression. WESTERN GERMANY TODAY IS threatened, in greater or less degree, by two totalitarian ideologies. One is the communism which is straining every nerve to get a grip on the people. The other is the nazism under which Hitler led the nation into a war of conquest. Communism, of course, has been a long-standing threat but the crusade was carried on underground with characteristic Red tenacity in Hitler's time, and is being waged openly now. As for the Fuehrer's Nazi ideology, you'd think the Germans would have had their fill of it by this time. But the fact remains that nazism still has a fascinating lot of folks in the Reich. Thus if Germany is permitted to reararm for the common good of the western Europe to which she belongs, totalitarianism must be eliminated. That is a course already being pursued by the occupation powers and it must be intensified. The adherence of a strengthened western Germany is vital to the security of Democratic Europe.

John Mark Became Good Church Member

Scripture—Mark 14:51-52; Acts 12:12, 25; 13:4-5 13; 15:36-40 Colossians 4:10; 1 Timothy 4:11; Philimon 24; 1 Peter 5:13.

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

The story of John whose surname was Mark is one of a man who was possibly lukewarm in the faith, at first, and faltered on a certain mission, angering Paul. But he "made good," and became a trusted member of the early church circle, as Peter, having once done wrong, became its leader.

In his own book Mark tells of an odd incident at the time of Jesus' arrest that is not mentioned in any of the other books of the New Testament.

The apostles all forsook the Master and fled, but one young man followed Him dressed in a loose cloak. The young man took hold of his garment, and he left it with them and fled, naked. Some students of the Bible think that this man was Mark.

The next mention of Mark is in Acts, when Peter, released from prison by an angel, knocked at the door of the house of "Mary the mother of John whose surname was Mark." She evidently was a widow and well-off, and her home was a gathering point for the disciples.

Paul and Barnabas, you may remember, were sent from Antioch by the brethren there to Jerusalem, to help those at the mother church who were in need. When they returned, Mark was with them. Mark was with them, also, when they were preaching in the synagogues at Salamis. He seems not to have been a preacher and teacher, but he acted as a helper to the leaders—doing everything to assist their work.

Now, Mark failed the others. It is possible that he was homesick, and tired of traveling about from town to town. At any rate, he left the company at Perga in Pamphylia, and went home to Jerusalem.

We are not told when John rejoined them again, but he did and at Antioch, we are told, Paul suggested to Barnabas that they visit the other cities where they had established churches, Barnabas agreed, and wanted to take Mark with them. Paul objected, and the two men had words about the matter—a sharp disagreement—which ended when Barnabas took Mark and sailed for Cyprus, and Paul chose Silas and went through Syria and Cilicia confirming the churches.

Barnabas was a kinsman of Mark's, and possibly understood the young man better than Paul, whose missionary spirit ruled him completely. Paul did not retain his enmity against Mark, however. When he was in prison, near the end of his life, he wrote to the Christians that "Aristarchus my fellow-prisoner saluted you, and Marcus, sister's son to Barnabas."

Again, Paul writing to Timothy, says, "Only Luke is with me. Take Mark and bring him with thee for he is profitable to me for the ministry." In his imprisonment and hearing his execution before Nero, Paul wanted the young Mark to come and minister to him.

Again, writing to Philemon, he says, "Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow-laborers," so Mark most certainly had made good in Paul's eyes.

Peter adds his testimony in favor of Mark, when he writes "to tell the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia," that "the church that is at Babylon elected together with you, saluted you; and so doth Marcus my son." Peter must have had a warm affection for Mark to mention him as his "son." Mark might have been a former pupil of Peter's.

Writing of Mark, the late Dr. Harrington C. Lees has this striking passage concerning the book which bears his name: "The briefest and clearest and the first of the Gospel stories was written by Mark the run-away, who came back and fought a good fight and finished his course—not a great man, but the prop of great men and invaluable to those who serve the Church of Christ has reckoned beyond price."

UN Spraying Korea Reds With News

TOKYO, Sept. 8 (AP)—United Nations forces are spraying Red Korean areas with "The Parachute News." It is a Korean language pamphlet that tells of UN progress in resisting Communist aggression. Parachute News No. 11 says the North Koreans have lost the ground they won in their "biggest and perhaps last Communist offensive." This is one of six items in the leaflet dropped in villages and refugees behind UN lines. The leaflet carries a masthead design which includes both the Republic of Korea and UN flags.

MAY INVITE RED UN To Talk Over Manchuria Raid

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Staff

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 8.—The United Nations Security Council will discuss Monday Russia's demand that a Communist Chinese representative be invited to sit in during debate on Red Chinese accusations against the United States. The charges are that the U. S. is guilty of aggression against Formosa. The council's consent yesterday to consider such an invitation was just after he took a beating on his effort to get the council to condemn "barbaric" U. S. Air Force bombing in Korea. The council voted yesterday, 7-3 to take up the question of Red Chinese participation in that debate at its next session, The United States abstained in line with its policy of letting other UN members decide the question of Red China's representation at Lake Success.

The vote in favor of the Russian proposal followed a 9-1 defeat of a Soviet resolution denouncing United States air action in Korea as a violation of the rules of warfare, Yugoslavia abstained. Council consideration of Malik's proposal to invite Red China for the Manchuria-Formosa debate does not directly affect the Peiping government's chances of supplanting the Chinese Nationalist representatives in the U. N., but it creates a situation filled with international and domestic political dynamite for the American administration. A U. S. vote against the proposal might be interpreted as an attempt to muzzle the Peiping accusers. A U. S. vote for it might be viewed as a softening in America's opposition to the Chinese Communists.

Faces Trial In Rape Of Four Daughters

MONTREAL, Sept. 8 (AP)—Leopold Bergeron, 42-year-old groom for the city's mounted police, today faced trial, charged with the rape of four of his daughters, incest with two others and indecent assault on the seventh. The daughters, who range in age from 12 to 21, all appeared at the preliminary inquiry yesterday before Judge T. A. Fontaine in criminal court.

The House that CONVICTION BUILT

When many people have the same conviction about a thing, they usually get together. They become members of a party, or a society, or a congregation.

Every Sunday in the churches of our community many people get together. They have the same conviction about God—they worship together.

When they worship, they offer thanks, they ask help. They sing to express their happiness. They listen to enrich their minds with the truth that comes from God. And before they bow their heads to receive final benediction, they give such gifts as they can to their Lord's work.

All of us have need for worship—it is a part of human nature and the divine will of God. So for your greatest benefit and happiness, choose a Church in this community—attend its services and join in its work. Make it YOUR CHURCH.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Tension Increases In Miss America Pageant Preliminary Contest Today

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8. — Misses South Dakota and Alabama have been added to the preliminary contest winners in the Miss American Pageant. That means that in their respective groups — of 18 girls each — they scored the largest number of points toward getting into the Saturday night finals. Fifteen of the 54 girls will compete Saturday night for the title of Miss America 1951. Irene O'Connor of Burbank, 8, D., a 20-year-old black-haired junior from the University of South Dakota, outpointed 17 others in last night's talent contest with a dramatic rendition of the dedication of the white armor, a scene from the play "Joan of Lorraine." She wore a medieval-type white gown that extended from her throat to her ankles. She stands 5 feet, 7 inches, weighs 123 pounds, and has a 36-inch bust and 25-inch waist.

Dallas Fades As Padres Win

By WILBUR MARTIN AP STAFF

Dallas' chances of slipping past an Antonio into the Texas League playoff get slimmer by the day. Last night the Eagles took it on the chin from Fort Worth, 7-3, while San Antonio jumped on Shreveport, 8-2. That gave the Missions a two and one-half game edge in Dallas with the season's end looming up Monday.

Tonight, Tulsa is at Dallas; Fort Worth and Oklahoma City play a doubleheader at Oklahoma City; San Antonio and Beaumont must finish one tie game and play a regular scheduled tilt, while Houston entertains Shreveport.

Dallas touched Pat McLothin for 13 hits, but left 15 men stranded in base as Fort Worth scored one run in the first inning and broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth. The Cats were never headed after this.

Beaumont dumped Houston, 6-3, while Oklahoma City licked Tulsa, 4-6, in other games last night.

Bob Marquis' two run homer in the seventh helped Beaumont keep its two one half game edge over second place Fort Worth.

San Antonio spoiled Shreveport's last home game with its decisive victory.

A six-run rally in the seventh inning won for Oklahoma City. Buck Frierson got two singles this inning and one of them drove in two runs.

Shut-In Pupil Attends School In Flesh Now

LITTLE FALLS, N. J., Sept. 8. — Nine-year-old Bobby Filippello, first shut-in pupil in the East to go to school by telephone, went to school in the flesh yesterday.

Bobby, who suffered from asthma from infancy had a special teacher in his home until last year when he got a special two-way loud-speaker connecting his bedroom with the classroom.

Publicity about the telephone set led to his parents' hearing of a clinic in Louisiana, and after a visit there this summer Bobby was cured.

Tallahula Bankhead Sued In Settled

CINCINNATI, Sept. 8. — A $1 million suit brought by Actress Tallahula Bankhead against the Procter & Gamble Co. has been settled for $5,000, the company said yesterday.

Miss Bankhead had sued the company because of use of the name Tallahula in a radio jingle about a shampoo.

Forsan Buffaloes Launch '50 Grid Season Tonight

Mustangs Face Problems In Line This Season

DALLAS, Sept. 8. — Southern Methodist University — off the spot as Southwest Conference favorite — has more than 60 eager gridders to try for their third championship in four years.

The Mustangs are in an entirely different position from a year ago when they were seeking their third consecutive title. This season the Ponies will be after revenge, for they won only two of their six component with such veteran backs as Kyle Rote, who led the conference in rushing, punting and touchdowns scored last year. Johnny Champion, the fleet little back who caught six passes in the Notre Dame game; Pat Knight, a bruising fullback; H. N. Russell, Jr., a smart quarterback and a good pass receiver; Henry Stollenwerck, who led the sophomore ball carriers last year; Fred Benner, the passing specialist who completed 47 throws for six touchdowns last season; and Gene Roberts, who lettered in 1948 but was out all of last year with injuries suffered in a car accident.

To help these lettermen the Mustangs have some promising first year backs in Bill Forester; Benton Mussewhite; Val Joe Walker; Sam Stollenwerck; Gene G. I. H.; Ken Duke and others. In addition, Bill Richards, who devoted most of his time to defensive duties last season, may be used on offense some this year.

Coaches Rusty Russell, J. M. Keaton and Herman Cowley have several defense problems. Last season more points — 204 — were scored against the Mustangs than in any other year in history except 1916.

One of the defensive problems is at end. Ben White, who played only 67 minutes all last year, is the only letterman at the position and he may be used at halfback on defense. Pat Knight, a fullback on offense, can be used at right end on defense. Players battling for starting positions include Bill Sullivan; Bill Rippey; Dave Powell; Harry Dean; Jimmy Hawn; Bob Hooks; Leland Mayo; Sonny Payne and Jim Mabey.

At guard the Ponies also have only one letterman — Herschel Forester, but squadman the Robb and newcomers David Riley, Paul Turk, Ralph Hendrickson, Pat Collier, Jimmie Thompson and Louis Droad offer plenty of help.

Lack of experienced material at key positions will keep the Mustangs from using the two-plateau system. Practically every man will be trained for both offensive and defensive duty.

Russell says he is not in a position to pick a starting lineup after such a short time of practice. Best guess on the offensive backfield would be Rote, Knight, Champion and Russell.

Rote, Russell, Champion and Ben White are all excellent punters. Rote is expected to do considerable passing, but Roberts, Champion, Benner, and Sam Stollenwerck have shown to good advantage as passers.

FORSAN, Sept. 8. — Forsan's untested Buffaloes open their 1950 grid season tonight, clashing with a strong team from Southland on Buff field.

The game starts at 8 p. m. It will be a sort of "baptism of fire" for Coach Frank Honeycutt's inexperienced team. All the Buffs this year are youngsters, and several will be playing for the first time tonight.

Probable starting lineup for the Buffaloes will be Kesting Thorpe at center, Dan Hayhurst at right end, Jimmy Green at left end, James Suttles at quarterback, Bob Creelman at left half, and Bob Baker at right half.

Certain to see considerable action in the season's opener will be James Caudle, back; Willard Miller, end; and Jimmy Shouls, back. Officials will be Chesney McDonald, of ACC and Louis Hueval, Brenham college.

Next Friday the Buffs tangle with Mertzon on the Forsan field.

Pampa Romps On Berger

By The Associated Press

There's a chance third place Lamesa and fourth place Lubbock will swap places before the end of the West Texas-New Mexico League Monday, but this news doesn't mean much to second division clubs.

Pampa, Albuquerque, Lamesa and Lubbock are thinking of that Shaughnessy playoff.

Last night Pampa beat Berger twice, 2-1, 11-8. Roy Parker won his 27th game in the first tilt.

Lubbock split with Amarillo, winning the first, 3-2, but dropping the second, 11-3.

Clovis came from behind with five runs in the ninth to nick Lamesa, while Albuquerque banged out 27 hits for a 20-5 decision over Abilene.

Broncs Wind Up Home Season

Last home game of the 1950 baseball season will be played by the Big Spring Broncs when they clash with the Roswell Rockets in an 8:15 p. m. engagement at Bronc park tonight.

Holders of season boxes here who want to retain them for the Longhorn League playoffs may do so by coming to Aton, Bronc business manager, by next Monday noon. The Broncs clinched a berth in the playoffs Wednesday night when they won over Midland. Playoffs start Monday tilt.

The Broncs move to Roswell tomorrow night and will wind up the 1950 season against the Rockets there Sunday.

It is estimated that about 10 per cent of the cost of an automobile is the price of the steel which goes into it.

Best Known Fan In Texas League Likes To Razz Umps, Players

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Staff

DALLAS, Sept. 8. — The best known and in most cases, the most-feared voice in the Texas League, is that of Boyd Orr.

Orr is a tall, thin individual who looks like a strong breeze would lay him low but whose leather lungs can emit a sound that grates down to your toes.

Operating on the theory that no umpire ever was any good, Orr has made a career of producing razzberries from the stands. He's been threatened by ball players and umpires but in almost 30 years of giving them the Bronx cheer, nothing has come of it.

You can hear the raucous sound of that most unusual voice from the top of the stands to the last seat in the bleachers. You can even hear it over the radio. The announcer quite often pauses and calls your attention to it.

Orr is considered quite a moral builder for the local ball club. He's prided so much that he has had a season pass for 15 years. Boyd doesn't vent his spleen on the visiting club and the umpires all the time either. He gives the local club the razzberries every time he thinks the boys aren't hustling or are playing dumb baseball.

But it's the umpires that suffer most.

His favorite appellations are "Idiot," "Iron-head," "Knuckle-head." He never, however, uses profanity.

Orr developed that piercing voice, that sounds like the wind whistling through the trees in the river-bottom, when he was an amateur ball player. He can yell all afternoon and night without getting a sore throat or becoming

Clovis Clouts Lamesans 9-8

CLOVIS, Sept. 8. — A two-run single by Jess Jacinto, which capped a five-run ninth inning, gave the Clovis Pioneers a 9-8 victory over the Lamesa Lobos here Thursday night.

Lamesa led, 8-4, going into that last round but the Pioneers were not to be denied. The home club had gone to the fore, 4-0, in the fifth but the booming bats of the Lobos awakened in the sixth and they had moved out ahead by the seventh.

Glen Selbo appeared to put victory out of reach when he homered for Lamesa in the ninth.

Vince Speranza labored on the mound for Lamesa and was touched for a total of 19 hits.

Kroll Fires 64 In Links Show

READING, Pa., Sept. 8. — Thirty-one-year-old Ted Kroll, a 12-year veteran of the golfing wars but always an also-ran, was the man to beat today as the nation's leading golfers began play in the second round of the $15,000 Reading Open.

The 6,456-yard Berkshire Country Club layout is a putter's paradise and if Kroll can control his putter today as well as he did yesterday, he'll be far enough ahead by nightfall that he'll be well-nigh impossible to catch.

Kroll posted a record-equaling 64 over the par 72 course yesterday.

Sammy Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was four strokes off the pace at 68 and fourth place. He was deadlocked with Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Jim Ferrler of San Francisco as well as Doug Ford, from Briarcliff, N. Y.

Trailing Ted were a pair of habitual also-rans, Iann Teal of Jacksonville, Fla., who fashioned a 66, and Jimmy Clark of Hamilton Beach, Calif., who came home with 67.

Oakland Wins

OMAHA, Sept. 8. — Oakland, Calif., today held its second consecutive American Legion junior baseball championship.

Oakland blasted St. Louis for an 11-0 victory and the championship last night.

BIG FACTOR—Wes Westrum (above), 27-year-old Minnesotan, has been a sparkplug in the surge of the New York Giants this season. He spent part of last season with Jersey City.

Softball Meet Begins Monday

AUSTIN, Sept. 8. — Thirteen teams were on the entry list today for next week's 18th annual ASA National Softball Tournament here.

Others were expected before Sunday's entry deadline.

The tournament will open with a double header Monday night and run through Saturday night Sept. 16.

Entries have been officially filed for Briggs Beautyware of Detroit, Pueblo VFW of Colorado, Portland's Friberg Electric of Oregon, Phillips 66 of Oklahoma, Trenton Athletic Club of Baltimore, Clearwater's Bombers of Florida, Aurora's Stephens-Adams nine of Illinois, the Stratford Cardinals of Connecticut and Grumman Aircraft of Long Island.

Also the defending world champions, Tip-Top Tailors of Toronto, Canada, Mexico City's Club Chaultepec, Hawaii's Hickman Field, and host team Nixon-Clay of Austin.

The Hickman Field fliers arrived here early this week to get used to Austin's climate and work out before the tournament. They have 32 victories out of 34 games this year.

FIGHT TONIGHT

Saddler Predicts KO In Pep Imbroglia

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. — Sandy Saddler boldly predicts, "I'm going to catch him and knock him out."

Featherweight Champion Willie Pep declares confidently, "I'll win."

Tonight in Yankee Stadium, these two great 126-pounders will get their chance to back up their words in their third and rubber bout for the world title.

For this 15-round encore, a bumper turnout of between 30,000 and 40,000 fans is expected to contribute to a record gate for "little men"—featherweights down.

The mark of $134,416 was set in 1929 when France's Eugene Criqui and Johnny Dundee fought for the featherweight title at the Polo Grounds.

Tonight's show may do $250,000. There will be no radio or television broadcasts. The weatherman predicts fair skies. If he is right the last day ticket sale could be tremendous.

Once again the odds favor Saddler. The bookmakers have established the 24-year-old, hard-bitten Harlem Negro as the 5 to 8 choice to recapture the crown from the canny, 28-year-old champion.

But the odds may change when the expected floor of Pep money from Hartford, Bridgeport and other Connecticut points shows up for the Hartford Hurricane between the 11 a. m. (EST) weigh-in and fight time at 9 p. m. (EST).

Slasher Sandy was the 5-7 favorite in their second clash 19 months ago. Pep won that 15-round thriller and took back his title.

Three and a half months before, Sandy pulled one of the ring's major upsets by knocking out Wiley Willie in the fourth round.

If the gate hits the $250,000 mark, Willie will get about $85,000 on his 45 per cent of the net. Saddler at 15 per cent, could earn $28,000.

Both fighters have gone undefeated since their last meeting. Willie has won 18 in a row and has a total record of 152 wins, two losses and one draw. Saddler has won 23 in a row. His record shows 113 victories six losses and two draws.

Trippi, Walker Duel In Dixie

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 8. — Charlie Trippi and Doak Walker, two unmatched greats of college gridiron, meet for the first time in a pro exhibition game tomorrow.

Trippi formerly of Georgia, is in the backfield of the Chicago Cardinals. Walker, former SMU hero, plays with the Detroit Lions.

Their battle may overshadow the team battle.

Proceeds of the game go to the children's hospital.

Atlanta Wins

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 8. — The Atlanta Crackers, picked for a second division berth in a pre-season poll of league sports writers last night won the Southern Association pennant.

Going into a doubleheader, Atlanta was leading the Birmingham Barons by six games. After losing the opener to Little Rock, 7-0, the Crackers came back to take the afterpiece, 8-1, and the pennant was theirs.

Samuel F. B. Morse, credited with inventing the telegraph, was eating his invention.

Pace Setting Tigers Eye Torrid Bossox

Gold Hose Win 20 Of 23 Tilts

AP Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers are back on top in the pulse-pounding American League pennant race today but they had one eye cocked on Steve O'Neill's Boston Red Sox, moving up fast on the outside.

Boston, which has just defeated the New York Yankees in two straight games, is the hottest team in the league. The millionaires have won 20 of their last 23 games, including 18 of 19 in their own Fenway Park.

Their two victories over the Yanks knocked the New Yorkers out of the lead and restored Detroit to the top by the skippy margin of two percentage points. The sporting Sox are third, a game and a half behind.

The situation at a glance:

TEAM	W	L	Pct.	GB
Detroit	82	83	.531	—
New York	83	49	.525	—
Boston	75	51	.597	1 1/2
Cleveland	80	54	.597	4

Creating almost as much furor as the Red Sox are the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League chase. The Brooks have knocked off the league-leading Philadelphia Phils three straight times in the Quaker City to move to within 4 1/2 games of Eddie Sawyer's reeling Phils kids.

The big question facing the Red Sox is: Can they keep up their terrific pace on the road? Or will they fall off as in the last two seasons? They hit the rails after a week end series with the Philadelphia Athletics, whom they've beaten eight straight at Boston.

Boston's road record is 33-32 compared to 49-19 in their own ballpark.

The Red Sox road record against contenders is pretty sad. They have won only two of seven in Cleveland, three of six in New York and four of nine in Detroit.

The Sox and Yanks are idle today while the Tigers take on the six-place White Sox in Chicago. The Sox outslugged the Yanks, 10-8, while the Tigers battled the Cleveland Indians to a slambang 13-13 10-inning tie that was halted by darkness.

The Red Sox pounded four Yankee pitchers for 12 hits with big Walt Dropo leading the way. Dropo drove home five runs on a double and his 31st and 32nd home runs.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox made his first appearance since he was injured in the all-star game and received a tremendous ovation. Ted, pinch hitting in the fifth, was intentionally walked.

The Tigers waged an uphill battle to tie the Indians. The Indians jumped on Art Houtteman for seven runs in the first inning.

Detroit came right back and disposed of Feller in their half with four runs and squared matters at 7-7 at the end of the fifth.

The Indians entered the eighth leading, 11-9, but Hoot Evers socked a two-run homer to send the game into overtime.

Larry Doby clouted a two-run homer for Cleveland in the top of the 10th but the Tigers came right back to tie on a fly ball and pinch-hitter Charley Keller's single. Evers pounded two triples, a double and single in addition to his homer.

In other American League games Dick Starr pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia downed Washington, 4-2.

A brilliant relief stint by Ralph Branca in the eighth and ninth featured Brooklyn's 3-2 conquest over the Phils in a night game at Philadelphia.

Branca relieved winner Carl Erskine in the eighth inning after Richie Ashburn tripled to begin the frame and promptly struck out Willie Jones and Del Ennis and got Jack Mayo to foul out. He nailed the Phils in order in the ninth. Ennis homered to account for both Philadelphia runs.

The third-place Boston Braves also gained ground by stopping the New York Giants, 6-4.

Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh, 6-4. Ralph Kiner slugged his 43rd homer for the Pirates.

Bob Rush pitched Chicago to a 4-2 victory over the Cards at St. Louis.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

If Jimmy McClure turns into another John King, that fabulous ball player who loathes left-handers, don't blame him.

Jimmy, a workaholic himself, has twice come within a whisper of throwing no-hit games in the Longhorn league this year and, on each occasion, it was a southpaw who 'did him in.'

McClure was one out away from a double-o performance here one night last June when Pat Stasey stepped up to the dish and rapped the first pitch into short left field for a single.

On Labor Day, McClure came down to the seventh and final inning against Sweetwater and Bob Rose poled a one-baser to spoil his bid.

Left-handed hurlers usually have the advantage while pitching to southpaw swingers but, in some instances, they get too careful in trying to get the ball over the plate without putting too much stuff on it.

That is what happened when Tony Iglesias pitched that home run ball to Leo Eastham in the first game of Monday night's double header in the local park.

Ray Vasquez's trouble is a sinus infection, rather than front throat, according to the word sent along from the Bronx' front office.

Even if Ray should get back in time for the playoffs (in event the Bronx make them), he'll be 'out of condition because of his enforced idleness.

CHANGED STANCE MAY HURT MONCHAK

Al Monchak, the Odessa skipper, has changed his batting stance, which may be one reason for his batting slump. He was hitting only .308 in the latest averages.

Al used to face the pitcher with his feet together. Now, he bats with an open stance.

JITTERY JOE BERRY SHOULD KNOW BETTER

Jittery Joe Berry, the Vernon skipper, reportedly has asked other managers of the league to let him use either Mike Bellone of Midland or Fred Haller of Sweetwater in the playoffs, now that his Billy Windham is laid up with an injury and stands no chance of getting in the Shaughnessy.

Joe may be trying to pull a fast one. Big Spring was hurt when Potato Pascual was called up by Washington and now Vasquez has gone on the shelf.

Roswell is losing Russ Ways to the armed forces. Odessa must get along without both Wayne Batson and Manny Escobedo, out with miseries.

If the league grants the right, Pat Stasey of Our Town ought to feel free to petition the Pittsburgh Pirates for the use of, say, Bob Dillinger and have it okayed.

The University of Kentucky will send its basketball team to Canyon Dec. 1 to play the West Texas Teachers. It has been announced. The Buffaloes will also play host to the Oklahoma A & M Aggies on Dec. 4.

Golf Spectators Can Learn Lot About Game By Paying Attention

By JIM BECKER

AP STAFF

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. — What do spectators at golf tournaments get out of it besides sore feet and sunburn?

In most cases, practically nothing. The crowds that throng the courses when the big pros come out to play are made up almost exclusively of persons who play the game themselves. Nearly all of them have come out hoping to learn something that will improve their own game.

But, in most cases, they don't know what to look for, what to watch. Once in the presence of the top stars, they generally content themselves with "oohs" and "ahhs" of admiration for the great shots.

At the recent U. S. Open championship, some of the veterans of the tournament trail gave out with some tips for golf spectators.

Johnny Palmer, one of the top money winners on the circuit, says: "I think the week-end players who watch us could learn a lot just by paying close attention to the grips of the good players. The star places his hands on the club in a relaxed and comfortable position. He holds it with a finger and palm grip. There's never any of this getting your hands all twisted up and out of position that you see among ordinary golfers."

The veteran Gene Sarazen agrees: "The grip is the most important part of golf. All great players have been great grippers. If a tournament spectator could just learn to take a comfortable and relaxed grip, it would be worth his trip to the course."

Carry Liddlecoff, 1949 Open Champion, thinks there are some important things about putting a week-ender can learn from watch-Cary. "That when a good player lines up a putt, his first thought is of NOT three putting. He thinks mostly of speed of the putt. He doesn't want that ball too far past or too short of the hole. Only after he has carefully examined the putt from the angle of not three putting, does he start to worry about making it."

Herman Barron thinks concentration is the most important thing a duffer can learn from watching the stars.

"Watch the amount of concentration and the temperament of the better players," he advises. "They don't get ruffled when they made a bad shot. So many week-end players do, and then follow up with a whole string of bad ones. The pros go about their business. They don't let a bad shot bother them. This is the right, and to concentrate on each shot as it comes along."

A golfing star since 1933, Jimmy Hines has this plan for a fan:

"I would urge the individual to pick some good golfer about his own build, and then try to copy him. The fundamentals of the swing are the same for all golfers, of course, but if a fellow is fat and short or tall and thin, he must make adjustments. So pick out a player about your build, then watch his grip, stance and action through the ball."

Open champion Ben Hogan says a journey spectator can "absorb a lot of things if he keeps his eyes open. And most important of all he will get a mental picture of the correct swing. Then he should pay attention to the crispness with which the pros hit their shots."

So next time you're on a course where the big pros are playing, don't just tramp around in the wake of the mob. You may have a few strokes off your own game just by watching—if you know what to look for.

CANDIDATE—A prospect for All-America football honors this season is Ray Krouse, giant tackle for the University of Maryland, who rated the AP's second team in 1948. He stands 6-3, weighs 240.

Steeds Battered By Rockets, 16-7

Dean Franks, who makes a living out of beating Big Spring, came on to spell Sam Pillor and protect a Roswell lead as the Rockets whacked the Broncs, 16-7, before a crowd of around 1,000 fans here Thursday night.

Franks wasn't his usual stylish self but he didn't have to be. His mates combed the offerings of three Big Spring hurlers for 20 hits, including two home runs by that mighty man of sweat, Tom Tom Jordan, and one by Cotton Lindloff.

The round trippers were the 43rd and 44th of the season for Jordan. Lindloff now has ten.

Jorge Lopez crashed out his 20th four master of the season for Big Spring in the second frame while Manny Jimco and Gabe Castenada banged triples in the marathon contest.

Vince Amor, who started on the mound for Big Spring, failed to retire a man. Russ Ways opened with a single and Lindloff followed with his round tripper. Ed Kenna walked and Jordan boomed the first of his home runs.

Tony Iglesias came on to spell Amor but couldn't find the plate and checked the job to Jesus Uley after getting one out. In all, the Rockets made six runs in that round.

Uley held them scoreless until the fifth but they broke loose for a tally, in that stanza, added four more in the sixth, another in the seventh and wound up the night with a fur-run outburst in the ninth.

The Steeds collected 16 hits, three of which caromed off the bat of Lopez.

Despite the loss, the Cayuses maintained third place in the standings, fourth place Vernon having split a double bill to move within half a game of the locals.

RAMBLINGS—The game did not get started until 8:34 p. m., due to the fact that Bert Baez, the Broncs' four-year veteran, was called to home plate and honored with gifts. Fans contributed around $320 in cash and many fine merchandise prizes for the popular little Cuban. A Roswell glee club, headed by Manager Tom Jordan, descended upon the microphone to sing Baez a birthday greeting.

Burr Jackson, who opened in left field for Roswell, was thumbed out of the game by Umpire Bruce Averill for speaking his piece on a called strike. Jordan clubbed one of his homers over the left field fence, the other over left center.

In all, Big Tom drove in six runs.

Harlingen Loses To Brownsville

By The Associated Press

Corpus Christi and Brownsville squared series with Laredo and Harlingen respectively last night at one game each. Corpus Christi beat Laredo, 12-4, while Brownsville went 13 innings to nudge Harlingen, 5-4.

The teams switch playing sites tonight. They'll be at Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

Gesture! That's How Treasury Characterizes Reserve Policy

BY J. A. LIVINGSTON
Second of three Articles

WASHINGTON. — In December, Marriner S. Eccles, deposed chairman of the Federal Reserve Board let the long-smoldering feud over interest rates between the Treasury and the Reserve Board out of the bag—to the dismay of Thomas B. McCabe, his successor as Board chairman.

McCabe, a persuader by profession—he rose from salesman to the presidency of the Scott Paper Co.—was trying to soft-pedal the difference of opinion. He hoped to win over Secretary of the Treasury Snyder to the view that a rise in short-term interest rates was wisdom.

True, it would cost the Treasury more money to finance its debt but, to the Reserve Board, that was a small price in the larger design of economic affairs. Higher interest rates would serve as a psychological warning to bankers and business men that credit was going to be come tighter, that borrowing would be too easy. It might help stop the price-wage spiral.

Always McCabe reasoned with Snyder privately. But Eccles made his declaration in a public letter to Sen. Paul H. Douglas, who was holding hearings on the nation's monetary and credit policies. Eccles declared: "If the Treasury insists on a continuation of the present very low rates, the Federal Reserve becomes simply an engine of inflation. In making a cheap money market for the Treasury, we cannot avoid making it for everybody."

McCabe and Snyder pooh-poohed the difference in policy. Each testified that the Treasury and the Reserve Board were "cooperating." Which was true. Snyder was getting cooperation all right. The Board was giving him exactly what he wanted—support of the government bond market at low interest rates. As for McCabe, he hadn't lost faith in ultimate "cooperation," he'd sold tough customers before.

But he hadn't had Eccles' experience. He took the chairmanship in April 1948. He hadn't been through the the Treasury-Reserve Board rifts during and after the war. Snyder wasn't being pigheaded. Snyder was following policy as laid down by predecessors Morgenthau and Vinson.

After Germany surrendered, after war financing needs diminished, the Reserve Board notified Secretary Vinson that it intended to raise the preferential discount rate on government securities. Vinson asked Eccles to defer action. This preferential rate enabled banks to borrow from the Reserve on government holdings at a special discount. Vinson didn't want to give any sign that tighter money was in the offing. It might raise the Treasury's interest rate a little.

Eccles pressed him again in December. Vinson demurred. And when Eccles renewed the topic in March, Vinson sent a "long and strong letter reaffirming the Treasury's position." Eccles followed with an "equally strong and long letter" saying that the Reserve would eliminate the preferential rate, but would not permit the change to "disturb the securities markets." It was a fight over the commas and semicolons of finance, known only to the initiate—government finance experts and investment men in larger banks. But it set the pattern of the postwar struggle for exercise of power between the two institutions.

Persistently thereafter as credit expanded the prices rose, the Reserve Board urged the Treasury to let short-term interest rates rise. Here and there the Treasury yielded. But the Treasury argued against rocking the boat. It observed that the federal debt constituted more than 50 per cent of all the debt in the country, as against only 8 per cent in 1929 and 24 per cent in 1938. Unsettling the market in government issues and you disturb general confidence, rationalized the Treasury. But deep down, Snyder, like Vinson, Morgenthau, Andrew Mellon, and Salmon P. Chase, was worried about price. No Secretary of the Treasury wants to go down in history as the bloke who raised the cost of the government's credit.

The Reserve view was different. It is charged by Congress with the responsibility of controlling the money supply. During the war the money supply nearly tripled. After the war, borrowing increased rapidly. Prices rose. The Reserve had to rein in the banks, stop too-easy credit, or shirk its duty. And that posed then and poses now this complex problem in finance.

Nearly half the assets of commercial banks are in government bonds. Therefore, any time a bank needs funds to make loans, it can merely sell government to the Reserve, which stands ready to buy them. Such purchases supply new money to the market. The Reserve thus becomes an engine which pumps gasoline instead of water on a fire.

The Reserve hopes for three disinflationary developments from a higher interest rate on short-term U. S. securities:

1. Banks will be more inclined to hold U. S. short-term securities rather than sell them off to the Reserve each time there's a chance to make private loans or investments. That tends to slow up expansion of bank credit.

2. Banks will tend to switch from long-term U. S. bonds into short-term securities. This would bring down the price of long-term issues and, in turn, make them more attractive to private investors. That, in turn, would cut down private-investor money available for private business.

3. The threat of rising interest rates will be a restraint on borrowers in general.

The Treasury expresses doubt that the Reserve program can work. "It's just a gesture" is a common phrase at the Treasury, "a ¼ per cent or ½ percent hike in the interest rate isn't going to stop any one from borrowing. And the banks like it. They'll get a higher interest on their loans." But the members of the Board decided they had to make a gesture once the Korean war broke out, once the rise in prices and wages took another whirl. It was then or never.

Vegetables May Be Bigger With Use Of Sawdust

By ALTON L. BIAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
CHICAGO, Sept. 8 — Sawdust can be turned into synthetic topsoil to grow bigger, greener vegetables, Dr. Eduard Farber of Washington, D. C. said today.

Chemically treated, the sawdust becomes like humus, to nourish crops, he told the American Chemical Society.

Erosion robs the nation of millions of tons of precious topsoil annually. And lumbering piles up mountains of sawdust, estimated at 60 million tons a year, for which there are no great uses.

The new chemical process might help solve both problems, said Dr. Farber, of the Timber Engineering Co. Early tests with the sawdust topsoil have been promising, he said.

From 10 to 40 tons of converted sawdust were applied to an acre of soil. Seeds germinated sooner, and more of them germinated, he said.

"Leaves were bigger and greener, and the weights of produce like radishes, beets, onions, and tomatoes were greater."

The sawdust is treated with mineral acids, at temperatures well over the boiling point of water, but not hot enough to char the cellulose materials in the sawdust, he explained.

The sawdust "forms humus-like substances by loss of water and some side reactions. We need products which act like humus to improve our soils."

This is just one of new chemical treatments being developed to make economic use of sawdust and other wood wastes from lumbering, Dr. Farber said.

At the new rates STILL A REAL BARGAIN

5 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FIRST RATE INCREASE REQUESTED IN 22 YEARS

1. Big Spring will have modern dial telephone service within 24 months, if the new telephone rates are put into effect.
2. Rates established in 1928 don't cover 1950 costs. The telephone company is furnishing service in Big Spring at less than cost.
3. New rates are essential to help offset today's higher costs of handling your calls.
4. Even with the increase, telephone service still will be a bargain in terms of practically everything else you buy.
5. And when you look at what you get for what you pay, telephone service is actually worth far more today than the small increase needed to keep it growing in value.

On the telephone above, you see what the new prices requested for telephone service in Big Spring amount to for a full, 24-hours' service.

This would be the first increase in telephone rates here since 1928.

The increases are much less than the increases in prices of most other things you buy today. In fact, even at the new rates, telephone service would still take a smaller share of the average family's budget than before the war.

The few cents a day added to your bill will help to pay today's higher costs of handling your calls.

But those few cents are the necessary price of progress.

They are essential to help offset losses which the telephone company is experiencing in Big Spring—so we can move ahead with a $1,997,500 expansion program to bring dial telephone service to Big Spring.

AREA OIL NEWS More Slight Spraberry Shows Found In Howard Co. Wildcat

More slight shows of oil have been found in samples in the lower Spraberry of a northwest Howard wildcat, but so far drillstem tests have not developed any pay.

Standard No. 1-2 Griffin, on the northwest side of the Reinecke area-CNE SE 50-25, H&TC, flowed 35 barrels of heavily oil cut mud for three hours, then died.

Standard No. 1 Hecker, which is almost squarely on the Howard-Borden line, was completed for 825 barrels per day. The potential was based on flow of 412 1/2 barrels in 12 hours through half-inch choke.

Other Borden wildcat reports included Gulf No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, seven miles northwest of Gail, drilling at 7,738 in lime and shale.

Southwest Martin county's deep exploration, Gulf No. 1-E-B Glass, plugged to 11,765 to test the Pennsylvania.

The prospective Pennsylvania discovery in southeast Garza, York Standard, Fryer No. 1 Justice, being prepared to deepen from 7,492.

Plymouth has announced location for its No. 1-B TXL, a small Clear Fork discovery in southern Sterling.

Carter Grazing No. 1 Foster, a south Sterling discovery, drilled to 4,850 feet in hard lime with slight stains of oil in samples.

In southeast Lynn county, Magnolia No. 1 Caswell drilled to the 9,922 feet in lime and chert. The OCF No. 1 Garza was below 8,375 in black shale, and Houston No. 1 Howell, Pennsylvania prospector, shut down due to weather.

ANOTHER SHOW TONIGHT Kids Rodeo Gets Off To Fast Start

The first performance of the World's Championship Kid's rodeo got off to a speedy start last night and competition in 11 events was unreeled by 10:30 p. m.

Bobby Cathey, Coahoma, topped first place in the barrel riding, and Bill Bynum, Sterling City, placed first in the calf roping event for boys under 20.

Wanda Harper, Mason, won the girls' clover race, making the circuit in 20 seconds flat.

Ray Herring, Fluvanna, turned in the best time of the wild cow milking with 32.1 seconds.

Howard County 4-H club members are handling all details of arena operation. The junior rodeo is sponsored by the Big Spring Jaycees.

Bud Jackson, Pecos, is serving as announcer for the three-day rodeo. Jess Slaughter is arena director.

Complete results of last night's performance: Bareback riding - Bobby Cathey, Coahoma; Kenneth Wilson, Colorado City; Perry Walker, Big Spring; and Horace Rankin, Big Spring.

Barrel riding - Bobby Cathey, Coahoma; Kenneth Wilson, Colorado City; Perry Walker, Big Spring; and Horace Rankin, Big Spring.

Bull riding - Tom Montgomery, Ribbion, Pecos; Doug Jarman, Colorado City; Jimmy Bird, Post; Ronnie Hucklebee, Andrews; and Bob Russell, Fife, Time, 12 sec.

Hat Race - First heat, Jimmy Bird, Post, and Scooter Fries, Bander; second heat, G. W. Martin, Ackerly, and Jimmy Merrick, Ackerly; third heat, Perry Walker, Big Spring, and Marion Wilkerson, Garden City.

ADJOURNMENT PROBLEM Congress Leaders Differ On Window

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. President Truman may have to resolve an argument between Senate and House Democratic leaders about whether to keep Congress on a standby basis or wind up its affairs next week.

Rayburn's re-election is reassured. But Lucas, who has a campaign fight on his hands, doesn't agree.

Sen. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, said he will bring the subject up at next Monday's while House speaker Rayburn of Texas and his colleagues return from a long Labor-Day holiday.

Rayburn has made it plain he thinks it would be good for the country if Congress packs its bag and goes home until January, since President Truman has the right to call the lawmakers back in any emergency.

LEGAL NOTICE THE STATE OF TEXAS TO: Mrs. Mae Smith, URSERTING: You are commanded to appear and answer the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the 15th day of October, 1950.

Sen. Taft (R-O) who is spending a great deal of time campaigning in Ohio these days, told a reporter he thinks a recess of Congress to some agreed date - probably Nov. 15 - would be better than final adjournment.

Sen. Taft heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee. His views on that score are shared by Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader.

A couple of political side issues are wrapped up in the adjournment question. These involve House-approved bills for states' for Alaska and Hawaii and an anti-subversive measure already passed by the House.

Rescue Teams Seek To Free Trapped Miners

NEW CUMNOCK, Scotland, Sept. 8. (AP)—Rescue teams worked at top speed today to open an escape tunnel for 128 miners trapped 700 feet down and threatened with drowning in a river of mud.

The miners were entombed last night when a rain-soaked surface area the size of a football field sank into the workings of the Knockinnoch Castle colliery.

Rescuers tried all night and through the morning to clear dangerous gas fumes from an adjoining mine tunnel so they could cut separating them from their imprisoned co-workers.

The entombed men were in telephone communication with the pit head.

None was reported injured and telephone reports indicated they were getting enough air.

They telephoned that there was a six-inch gap between the mud and the roof of the tunnel.

Eight men escaped before the earth caved in late last night, two hours before the night shift was due to leave.

Relatives and friends of the trapped men gathered at the pit entrance, as rescue teams attempted to dig their way from a neighboring mine into the collapsed shaft.

One of the eight men who escaped said the group saw the sludge seeping toward them, then roar down.

"We had to run for our lives," he said. "We ran to the pit bottom and gave the alarm and then came right up."

Lubbock-Childress Rail Branch Losing

LUBBOCK, Sept. 8. (AP)—The Fort Worth and Denver Railroad says its Lubbock-Childress branch has been losing money since 1946. The firm entered statements to this effect in a railroad commission hearing yesterday. The railroad's application to abandon service on the line is being opposed by Lubbock, Plainview and other towns along the line and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Another hearing was slated for Plainview today.

SILVER STAR WINNER

Lord Got Me Out, Dallas Hero Says

DALLAS, Sept. 8. (AP)—"I think the Lord got me out of there alive because I stayed to help the other boy out."

With these simple words, a Dallas sergeant with the Army in Korea summed up the action which won him a Silver Star for bravery.

Sgt. William Sanderfer, whose wife and two daughters live here, told his story in a recent letter to his family. Sgt. Sanderfer has been cited for the Silver Star after he and other members of the 34th Infantry Regimental aid station were trapped by enemy artillery fire in Korea.

"I didn't do what I did for just the medal," he wrote. "I wasn't even thinking about a medal. Here is how it happened.

"We had our aid station set up in an old wooden school house, and about six o'clock that afternoon, the enemy started shooting artillery shells at the school house. There was a lot of GI's in the school yard and a lot of them were getting wounded.

"All of our aid men got scared and ran off. That only left the doctor, myself and our lieutenant there to take care of the wounded. I ran out into the yard and picked up a GI who had his leg blown off and one eye knocked out.

"Those shells were coming all around there, and I was really scared. I carried him back into the school and bandaged him the best I could and sent him back to the hospital.

"The doctor there at the aid station didn't have time to take care of that patient, so I had to do it all by myself. That fellow will live, but he will just have one leg and one eye. I was sure scared, but couldn't run off and leave him lying there because he would have bled to death in five minutes.

"I saved his life and it made me feel real proud. I think the Lord got me out of there alive because I stayed to help that other boy out."

ON THE GROUND IN KOREA

Soviets Chose Kind Of War They Wanted U.S. To Fight

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The United States now has fought more than 10 weeks of the kind of a war for which it was unprepared.

There have been weeks of defeats, retreats and finally flaming conflict along a changing line—150 miles back of where the shooting started.

Some of the most ferocious and biggest attacks by the North Korean Red enemy have come within recent days.

What happened?

North Korea may have been an obscure little country, geographically and politically, but take it from Gen. Joseph T. McNarney of the Defense Department:

"The North Korean forces were not undisciplined bandits, but well trained, well-led troops equipped with up-to-the-minute weapons from the Soviet arsenal."

The troops and the weapons they had when they jumped off on the boldest Communist aggression to date were the kind the United States didn't have. The U. S. had plans and weapons for war—but not the kind of war the Communists chose. The strategy makers of the Soviet world picked the kind of war and the place.

We were strong in the air and on the sea—and weakest on the ground. And so they chose the ground. They haven't even bothered to throw in air or naval support.

The United States at no time has been able to bring fully to bear its two great weapons, air and sea power. Nor has it chosen to apply atomic warfare. More than that, if the Communists elect to keep the war confined to Korea there is little prospect of major use of these weapons.

It isn't that American ground forces haven't fought hard and well, with what they have. The casualty lists alone prove that. The names of more than 6,000 United States fighting men are on it so far. The field commanders—the generals and the shavetail lieutenants—have shaped their tactics to the needs of each hour and have staved off defeat by an enemy superior in numbers and weapons.

Has the fault then been in the Pentagon where something called "strategic concepts" are made by the civilian and uniformed heads of the military?

Or does it go beyond that? To faulty intelligence about what Russia and her satellites were doing? To foreign spies? To hasten putting the new little Republic of South Korea on its feet and withdrawing the American military force? To a Congress or to the administration responsive to demand for unrestrained pacifism.

In the caustic debate the so-far unsuccessful war has stirred up in Congress and in political camps, practically everyone has been blamed—except the people. It is not popular to blame the people.

Economy alone doesn't account for the traditional attitude of the people toward national defense. They are willing to spend money. Witness any of the annual national budgets. But being Americans, they don't like wars. And being a race of gadgeteers, they long have hoped that machines instead of men could be made to fight them.
