BEST NEWS we know is to report that everybody's friend, Wyndle Armstrong is improving satisfactorily and is looking forward to being back with his many friends downtown. It's a fact, he's sure been missed.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM some 44 counties are due in Eastland on March 11, for the Zone Six Beautify Texas Council meeting when Top state speakers will be on hand to share ideas and recommendations for helping keep Texas' record for beautification best in the nation. Event will begin with a coffee at the Women's Club at 10 a. m. and a special luncheon at Lone Cedar Country Club.

CB RADIOS IN EMERGENCIES - Citizen band radio fans can save lives using their radios. Yet many operators do not know about code 10 - 33 and channel 9, two valuable aids for getting help in emergencies, the Texas Medical Association says.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) says channel 9 is to be used exclusively for obtaining aid. This channel, which usually is not very busy, is intended mainly for use during serious emergencies. However, the FCC says it does not have to be a life-or-death situation. One veteran operator says car trouble on the freeway would be a legitimate reason to use channel 9. Many law enforcement agencies and some CB clubs monitor this channel continuously.

Announcing a code 10 - 33 should get attention on any of the 23 CB channels, including channel 19, the most commonly used channel. A 10 - 33 notifies listeners there is serious trouble, usually a medical emergency.

An emergency call might go like this: "Break 19 for a 10 - 33." (The caller is asking to interrupt a conversation to tell about an emergency.)

"Go ahead, break." (Phrases are limited only by operators' imaginations but must will acknowledge a break some way after the first or second request.)

"There's a bad wreck two miles north..."

Law enforcement officials often monitor channel 19 and may hear the call directly. However, most officers currently only receive and cannot transmit on their CBs. So a caller does not know if a "smokey" has heard the message. To make sure the call reaches the proper people, a caller can ask a listener to "10 - 5" it. This is a request to relay a message, usually until it reaches a town where a listener can telephone authorities. Often a message will be relayed through several operators before it reaches its destination. A caller also can ask for a base station (stronger and more powerful than a vehicle unit) to relay a message.

Some operators say they prefer transmitting emergency messages on channel 19 because more people listen to it than channel 9. Numerous "smokeys," "county mounties" (sheriffs), "bulls," "bears," "Tijuana taxis" (local lawmen), "local PDs" (police departments), "THPs" (Texas Highway Patrol), and "super troopers" - just a few of the names for law enforcers (usually in cars) - often listen in. Many doctors also have CB sets.

One problem transmitting emergencies on channel 19 is the large number of inexperienced operators who do not know codes like 10 - 33. Someone needing help should feel free to say whatever is necessary to be understood. Rudeness or profanity usually creates an uproar of answers from listeners. Profanity on the air also is illegal. But simple, straightforward communication will get the job done. Codes like 10 - 33 and 10 - 5 just help speed communication in critical situations.

Eastland's Stake In Nuclear Quandary

If all the words now being written, spoken and compiled on the energy crisis could be instantly turned into fuel, perhaps there'd be an end to the energy crisis.

Library, clipping services and individual files of energy material surely must be bulging because of the vast amount of stories being written on the subject, just about from every point of view: petroleum reserves, solar energy, and perhaps the biggest question mark of all - nuclear energy.

Texans in general, and Eastland Countians in particular, have a more - than - general interest in the subject of nuclear fuel.

Not long ago, there was a big flurry of nuclear power plant talk nationally, now there seems to be a slowing down. With the slowdown of new nuclear plant construction consideration, there in turn appears to be a slowing down of thinking about private industry getting into the uranium enrichment business, now done exclusively by the federal government at the Portsmouth, Paducah and Oak Ridge diffusion plants.

Still locked in Congress, and part of President Ford's original energy bill, is that matter of permitting private industry to get into the uranium diffusion business.

Voters in California will vote in June (for the second time) on a proposed moratorium which would, if passed, curtail the further construction of nuclear power plants in that state. The results there apparently are being awaited and will undoubtedly have great influence across the nation.

Closer to home, the state of Texas appears to be moving toward a slow - down on nuclear power plants.

By 1981, Texas will have, at the very most, two nuclear reactors generating electricity for the public, by the mid - 1980's, four at the most.

Of the eight nuclear - fueled generating units at four sites, for which Texas utility companies have announced plans since 1973, only four units are still on the track. Two have been postponed indefinitely and two others deferred until around the end of the decade.

The slippage of construction timetables in Texas is similar to what took place nationally in 1975, a bad year for nuclear power development.

Nationally, 27 units were cancelled or deferred. Only five reactors were ordered, compared to 27 in 1974 and 36 in the preceding year. Nine construction permits were issued in 1975.

At the end of the year, the Atomic Industrial Forum's (AIF) box score showed 56 reactor units licensed to operate, 69 under construction and 90 on order.

The nationwide slowdown results from the difficulty of financing plants at their rapidly - inflating costs and from what AIF called "sluggish over - all demand for electric energy."

At the same time, however, AIF found that the nuclear plants already in operation are producing power more economically than comparable plants fueled by oil or coal. The weighted average cost of power generation (including amortized capital costs) for 32 utility companies in the first three quarters of 1975 came to 12.50 mills for nuclear, 17.14 mills for coal and 33.38 mills for oil.

Fuel costs for the nuclear plants are typically much lower than for fossil - fired stations. AIF says the nuclear plants saved customers $1.3 billion in power costs and saved the nation 750 million gallons of oil or 40 million tons of coal in those nine months of 1975. (AIF is an association of businesses, labor unions and others interested in nuclear development.)

In Texas, two plants, each with twin reactors, are under construction. Texas Utilities Co. began work on its Comanche Peak station near Glen Rose a year ago. Its generating units are targeted to begin operation in 1980 and 1982. The South Texas nuclear plant in Matagorda County, a joint project of Houston Lighting & Power (HL&P), Central Power and Light of Corpus Christi, and the cities of Austin and San Antonio, was licensed last month. Some work on it had already commenced under an earlier limited authorization. Its first unit is scheduled for completion late in 1980 and its second two or three years later.

But Gulf States Utilities of Beaumont, which applied in mid - 1974 for a construction permit at its Blue Hills site in Newton County in Southeast Texas, now says the plant's two units will not be needed until 1989 and 1991. The plant had first been announced for 1980 - 82, then for 1985 - 87. The company's load has grown more slowly than expected and nuclear building costs have risen sharply, a company spokesman said last week.

High costs and licensing uncertainties were the reasons given last fall by HL&P for postponing indefinitely the plant it planned to build independently at Allen's Creek, west of Houston.

At that time, HL&P spokesman Craig McNeese said the company had seen the cost escalate to about $1.5 billion in the four years it had been preparing to build the plant. That plant was the same size as the 2.3 million kilowatt Comanche Peak station being built for the service area that includes Dallas and Fort Worth.

Gulf states now expects that construction cost at Blue Hills would be $900 to $1,000 per kilowatt, making that 1.8 million kilowatt plant cost more than $1.6 billion, company spokesman Jim Turner said last week.

The company is proceeding, however, with plans for its other nuclear project, the River Bend station near St. Francisville, La., and hopes to have its construction permit by this summer, he said. Load growth in the industrial area served by that plant justifies the construction.

THE WISHING MACHINE

"The Wishing Machine," which is part of the Paramount Family Matinee series, is a movie about the imaginations of children and how they may come to a greater appreciation and understanding of the real world by comparing the things they imagine with things they know.

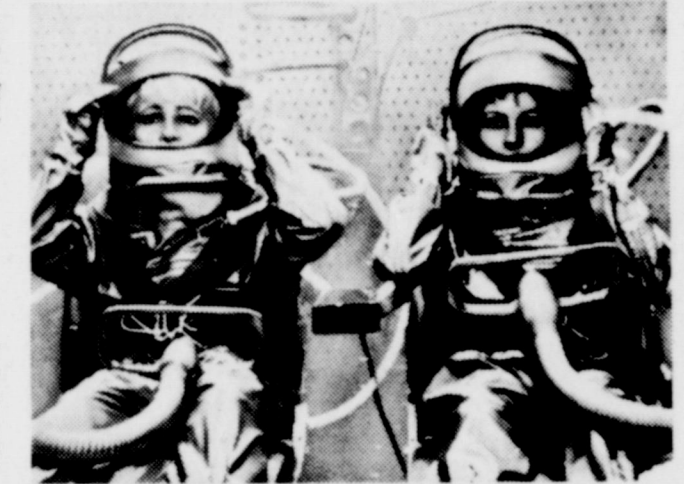

As the film begins, we see two young boys hurrying from exhibit to exhibit at a world's fair, snatching up every available piece of literature about the world of tomorrow. In their imaginations, every technical exhibit promises fantastic adventures. When they get home, they begin making machines of their own.

The boys invent a wishing machine which will make any single wish come true. They wish for a trip to the moon. The wishing machine grants them their wish, and we see them buckling on their space suits and climbing into the rocket. At the last moment of countdown, the rocket's voice restates their wish: a one-way trip to the moon. Terrified, they realize they had forgotten to wish for a round trip! The rocket makes a bargain with the boys. They can have a round trip if they return for blast-off bringing a gift more beautiful than the planet earth looks to a lonely astronaut coming home from space.

The boys run into many adventures and mishaps in the frantic search for beauty. They try to visit all the places and things they love best in case they never return to earth.

Finally, they dash back to the rocket with their beautiful gifts. But, in spite of their careful calculations, they miss the deadline by seconds. As the rocket blasts off to the moon, it sends the boys a parting message telling them where they could have found beauty with less time and effort.

At The Majestic Sat. & Sun. Mat. 2 p.m. Only

Gov. Dolph Briscoe Asked For Better Assistance To Livestock Owners

Governor Dolph Briscoe today asked Attorney General John Hill to look into one of the two possible areas of legal action to assist the livestock owners of Texas in their long-standing battle against predators.

The Governor further asked the Attorney General to see if Texas should join a Wyoming lawsuit or enter a suit on behalf of the State of Texas against the United States Department of Interior, Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Administration. This action was taken following a request by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association that the State of Texas enter into Wyoming lawsuit.

Dr. Percy R. Turner, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, explained that the State of Wyoming filed suit against the agencies listed in an effort to force them to fulfill their obligations in regard to predator control. The Predator Control Act of 1931 directed the Federal government to eliminate losses due to predatory animals.

The suit further charges that the Environmental Protection Administration acted improperly in banning chemical toxicants for predator control. The suit states proper hearings were not conducted nor were the proper economic and environmental impact statements filed to warrant the actions taken.

The Wyoming suit also alleges the Executive Order of February, 1972, which prohibited Federal employees from using chemical toxicants was invalid because it did not comply with existing regulations.

"With all the talk about food shortages and the need for finding replacements for fossil fuels, it seems senseless for the Federal government to prevent livestock owners from conducting an effective predator control program that can be used without endangering our environment," stated Turner.

To illustrate the losses due to predators, the Texas Crop & Livestock Reporting Service filed the following report. In 1974 Texas producers lost a total of 532,000 sheep and lambs from one cause or another. The same Service reported losses of 479,000 head in 1973. Of the total 1974 losses, 200,000 were grown sheep; 197,000 were lambs that died before they were marked; and 135,000 were lambs lost after marking.

The agency said predators accounted for most lamb losses—65 percent of those lost after marking and 57 percent of those lost before marking. Coyotes were blamed for 62 percent of the losses and marked lambs and 40 percent of unmarked lambs.

In grown sheep, predators were blamed for 32 percent of total losses, and coyotes were deemed responsible for 75 percent of losses due to predators. Disease and other known causes accounted for 43 percent of deaths and losses among grown sheep.

The full impact of these figures can best be understood by stating that the American Consumer lost over 20,000,000 pounds of red meat... 20,000,000 pounds of meat which rotted and decayed in Texas pastures because of unsound, unfounded rules enforced by uninformed individuals. This does not take into consideration the huge amounts of wool lost.

Turner states that similar information is not available on goats, but experience has shown ranchmen that

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen shook up the Texas presidential preference primary lineup a bit by withdrawing from the long list of major Democratic candidates for nomination.

He remains on the May 1 goat losses due to predators are greater than in sheep.

In pointing out the tremendous economic importance of the sheep and goat industry to the State of Texas, Turner emphasized that these industries contributed approximately 85 million dollars to the economy of the State in 1975. He further stated because of the excellent financial gain in the industry due to strong markets the industry could reasonably expect to double in size in the next ten years if the predator situation could be corrected.

It is a well-known fact that sheep and goats can make use of lands not suited for any other type of agricultural production and provide highly sought after products as well as a good return on the investment. Turner said the sheep and goat industry is deeply indebted to Governor Briscoe for his positive action in behalf of the livestock producers of Texas.

ballot in Texas, however, along with the five other Democratic candidates, and a major state party battle is brewing.

Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, the man Bentsen defeated in 1970, announced his support of uncommitted delegate slates in 18 senatorial districts.

Yarborough, in effect, gave the liberal slates in those districts a front man or a name to rally behind. The former senator said he is convinced most Texas Democrats are genuinely uncommitted, as early voting in party caucuses had indicated is the case in other states.

Other elements of the state party will be rallying behind delegates pledged to George Wallace, Fred Harris and Jimmy Carter. Another candidate, Ellen McCormack, will appear on the ballot in five districts.

Meanwhile, Bentsen is facing tougher opposition than many first figured from W. Philip Gramm, a young professor of economics (on leave) from Texas A&M University.

Highway Crisis

Transportation is facing a "real and serious" crisis, according to State Department of Highways and Transportation heads.

Highway building is caught in a squeeze between declining revenues and increased costs.

DHPT has a current backlog of construction and right of way projects totaling nearly $11 billion. DHPT will have about $1.9 billion in state and federal funds for construction over the next 20 years.

By 1980, according to DHPT Engineer-Director B.L. DeBerry, there will not be sufficient state dollars to match available federal dollars.

"Putting it another way," said DeBerry, "the program will be only one eighth as large as was possible at past funding levels."

A highway bidding February 25 will cover work in Houston, Plainview, Alice, Lampasas, Texas City, Lubbock, Waco, San Angelo, Vidor and Austin.

Drouth Threatens

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has warned vanishing subsoil moisture and dry winter winds are creating drouth conditions for half of Texas farmers and ranchers.

Much of the western portion of the state has not had rain since late summer, White said. Winter rains have not occurred.

White said the grain crop will be severely reduced without rain within the next few weeks.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court agreed to hear a dispute over accessibility of workmen's compensation records. Industrial Foundation of the South is suing for authority to take complete information of compensation claims from the Industrial Accident Board computer system.

The high court also agreed to hear arguments March 10 in a tax dispute over imported merchandise warehousing between Farmers Branch and Japanese manufacturers.

In another decision, the Supreme Court said a Dallas man has a right to sue a University of Texas health facilities for $60,000 because a negligent lab technician lost the man's eyeball (which had been removed for tests).

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals refused to reconsider its earlier order directing a new trial for Dallas man sentenced to death for murder.

The same court affirmed a five-year prison sentence for a Brownsville man accused of sexually abusing a nine-year-old girl.

Districts Drawn

A three-judge federal court settled a long controversy by drawing new single-member state House of Representatives districts for Jefferson and Nueces counties.

The court had a lot more trouble deciding how to divide Tarrant County into single-member legislative districts, however, and postponed its decision until February 17 on two plans before it for consideration.

Filing deadline for candidates has been extended until March 8.

Program Backlog

Veterans Land Board will go to the bond market the first week in April if conditions are favorable.

But this doesn't mean immediate reopening of the Veterans Land Program. Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong cautioned.

Armstrong said his staff will have to work through a backlog of 3,721 applications before any new applications can be accepted. New applications probably will not be taken before mid-summer. Applications were temporarily suspended December 31 because bond money for loans had been committed due to an unexpected flood of 1,700 applications in one month alone.

Short Snorts

Railway companies have been given permission to close stations in Stanton, San Saba and Victoria and to dismantle depots.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is reportedly four months behind schedule in filling more than 80 vacant appointments.

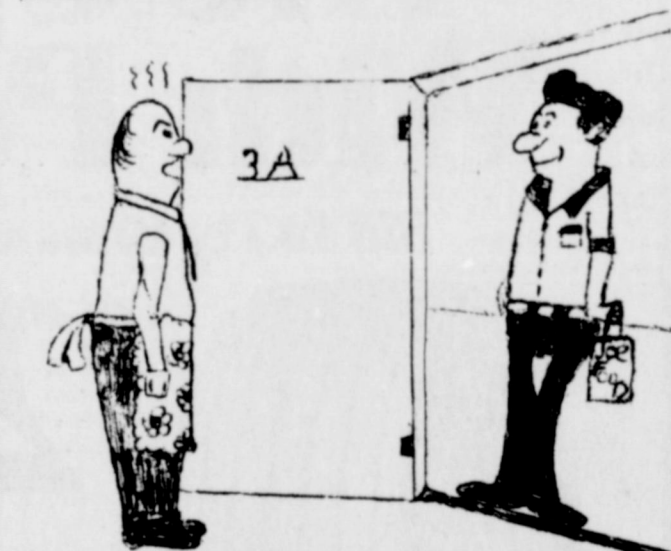

Texas Water Rights Commission has completed a report on diversions of public water in the Lower Guadalupe River Segment.

Texas business activity index jumped 11 per cent in December.

The December jobless rate of 5.8 per cent was two per cent below the national rate and down two-tenths of one per cent from the previous month.

Texas oil and gas wells produced 651,373,293,000 cubic feet of gas in November, a decrease of 7.79 per cent from field runs a year earlier.

Fifty Texas refineries processed 123,703,999 barrels of crude oil and/or hydrocarbon blends the same month—a slight increase over the previous November.

"The Fantasticks", currently in its 16th year in New York, was written by two Texans -- Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt. It is based on an old French romance, Rostand's "Les Romaniques". The plot is simple and eternal. A boy and girl fall in love but are separated by a wall which their seemingly hostile parents have put up. But the parents are not really feuding but are the best of friends and hope that their children will marry. To arouse the spirit of the young man, the parents even arrange a simulated attack and abduction of the girl in the moonlight.

However, as the show progresses it becomes evident that life is not all moonlight, and things sometimes look different under the harsh realities of sunlight.

"The Fantasticks" has received glowing reviews for the past 16 years. Two of the statements made about it have been: "It is a delight -- bewitching, bright, and tasteful", by John McClain of the New York Journal-American, and "The characters are figures in a legend, acted with an artlessness that Members of the Eastland Chapter of FFA join with over 485,000 other FFA members in the United States in celebrating National FFA week which starts February 21.

Throughout the week the state's 8,500 chapters are planning activities to support the theme, "A FUTURE FOR AMERICA".

National FFA Week always includes George Washington's birthday in observance of his leadership in promoting scientific farming practices. Washington is considered the patron saint of the FFA and has come to symbolize the FFA Treasurer.

Men who molded America came from the farms and plantations -- farmer-statesmen of the past like George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. Future Farmers today are inspired by these same heroes of our Nation and her agriculture. They are "A FUTURE FOR AMERICA".

The Eastland Chapter officers are: Clay Wheat President, Duke Johnson Vice President, Laura Johnson Secretary, Scott Kirkpatrick Treasurer, Ronnie Pinkerton Reporter, Jerry Boles Sentinel, John Hill Student Advisor, and Mark Pruitt Parliamentarian. Don Griffin and Charles Hutto are local teachers of vocational agriculture and advisors of the FFA Chapter.

Thoughts For Today

By Bobby Boudreaux

Ben Franklin said, "A good newspaper and Bible in every house, a good schoolhouse in every district, and a church in every neighborhood, all appreciated as they deserve, are the chief support of virtue, morality, civil liberty and religion."

Newspapers are published everywhere. Every individual person must determine his or her extent of appreciation. Nearly every home has a Bible. Too few are read; hence unappreciated by the many who own a Bible as a mere possession. Schools are in every district. They and their purposes simply cannot be appreciated when small but determined militant minorities successfully shackle the ideas and ideals of the majority of students and teachers. Churches are seen in every neighborhood. They cannot be appreciated when people absent themselves from devotional participation and refuse to change patterns of daily conduct.

Isn't it obvious that if virtue, morality, civil liberty and religion are to be supported, a lot more people will have to change their thinking, attitudes and actions? . . . .

Fire Chiefs From Eastland And Cisco Meet On Rural Fire

Fire chiefs from Eastland and Cisco Monday talked with Eastland County commissioners about rural residents taxing themselves to aid in their own fire protection.

C.W. Guthrie, Cisco fire chief, and Jack Graham, fire chief in Eastland, said they would look into the possibility of such an arrangement.

County Commissioners C.B. Dill of Cisco, L.P. Owen of Rising Star and Danny Wod of Eastland discussed with Guthrie and Graham whether or not enough interest could be raised to finance their rural fire departments.

The fire chiefs had appeared to appeal for the full $75 per month, which they said they had understood would be paid each rural firefighting unit in the county.

They said the payment had been cut to $50 per month and complained that the money would hardly pay for fuel with the increase in fire calls. Commissioners said they did not have enough money to pay $75 a month and declined to grant it.
