Understand door prizes will be given.

WHAT'S A lime kiln? Don't know, but Dr. Ralph A. Smith of ACC says there have been many in this county. He writes:

Dear Editor: Would you please tell me if you know of any old lime kilns, or old lime kiln sites in your area, which I might visit, or about which I might collect information? Or could you refer me to any persons who would know? Your county once had many such kilns. I hope to write a Bicentennial story on these fast-disappearing, early-day institutions. Very little appears in print on this Texas subject. Older people are the best source on it. Even a very little bit of information could be a great deal of help to me.

Thank you very much,

ORGANIZE KITCHEN cabinet cleaning: Prior organization makes kitchen cabinet cleaning a breeze, says Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Pick a day with several uninterrupted hours available (?), or schedule one cabinet cleaning each day until all are finished", she advised.

Turn on a record to relieve the monotony, and prepare a bucket or dishpan of warm soap, another of clear water. Have a sponge or clean cloth handy and lining paper and scissors.

"Start with the bottom shelf - take everything out and place on the counter. Next, take everything from the second shelf and place on the now-empty first shelf. Continue moving the contents of each shelf to the shelf below.

"This method keeps stooping and bending to a minimum", she noted.

Now begin actual cleaning with the top shelf. Remove old lining paper and discard. Wash and rinse the shelf and cabinet walls thoroughly.

"Cut new lining paper to fit, and smooth it on the surface. Replace the contents from the shelf below, wiping cans and jars and discarding any unusable ones.

"Also, consider a little reorganization - put often-used supplies on the lower shelves, and items less frequently used on upper shelves.

"Finish each cabinet by washing and rinsing the doors, inside and out, particularly areas surrounding knobs and handles where finger marks collect", she advised.

Senior Citizen's Bazaar Huge Success

BY LOU PRANGE

All Eastland County has shown its appreciation for the skills, attitude, and heritage of its "superior citizens".

According to Judge Scott Bailey, the citizens of those "harvest" years held the Tenth Annual Senior Citizen's Bicentennial Bazaar in Eastland on October 2, 3, and 4.

Registration and the setting up of some 63 booths took place on Thursday afternoon, October 2, in the Victor Cornelius Building at 306 East Main, Eastland.

Presentation of awards for oldest man and woman resident of Eastland County and for the oldest man and woman exhibitor were made Friday morning.

Mrs. Minnie Williams of Valley View Lodge in Eastland, who will be 105 years old in December of this year, won the first contest among the women. She contended with Mrs. Georgia Henderson, 99, of Cisco; Mrs. Iva Buchan, 93, of Desdemona; Mrs. Harry Hall, 90, of Carbon; and Mrs. Myrtle Biles, also 90, SE of Eastland.

Mrs. Williams was present in person to accept the Certificate of Honor from the hands of Representative Joe Hanna of Breckenridge. For the past three years, Mrs. Williams has been eligible for the award of Oldest Woman Citizen in Eastland County. Modestly she says of the award that she has picked up personally the last two years, "I feel I deserve no credit for achieving my age." Certainly her cheerful attitude, sensible speech and dependable memory are venerable achievements for one of her age.

Mr. Joe Clements, age 103, of Cisco Nursing Center, was the second centenarian to win the contest for the oldest man of Eastland County. Proving that women live longer than men, the former blacksmith had only one opponent, a Mr. Mitchell of Ranger, who at about 90, was a decade behind. Mrs. Muri Stroebel, Administrator of Cisco Nursing Home, accepted the impressive certificate signed by Gov. Briscoe and other state and local dignitaries.

Oldest man and woman exhibitor of crafts both came from Cisco. Mr. Roy Maddox, 74, displayed a miniature horse-drawn covered wagon that doubles for a lamp. Unable to attend the ceremony, the 90 year old Mrs. Rachel Haynes, a former school teacher, nevertheless sent a handicraft to exhibit.

Mr. Roy V. Cartee, Project Coordinator for Senior Citizens in Cisco, Eastland and two other towns, presided at the awarding ceremony. Judge Scott Bailey, Chamber of Commerce Secretary James Wright, and Mayor H.V. O'Brien participated in introductions, welcoming words and expressions of appreciation.

Mrs. Janet Thomas, County Home Demonstration Agent, received thanks for her assistance in the bake sale and concessions sponsored by Eastland County Home Demonstration Clubs. It was not necessary to leave the Bazaar to get a delicious lunch, or for a good choice of food and desserts.

The Eastland Telegram presses were still responding to the merry music of the graceful Wrangler Belles of Cisco Junior College and TV fame as the paper went to bed. On Saturday, Oct. 3, more music was on the program for bazaar visitors. The Stephenville Senior Citizens Band was to provide Dixieland music. Instruments of this popular band include a few thumping pieces such as a rub board and other imaginative rhythm makers.

Jr. Varsity Takes Blanket

The Eastland Mavericks rested this week in preparation for their conference opener Friday with the Bluecats Friday, but their friends and neighbors were busy at it.

District 9-Aa took a shaking in the opening session Friday for the rest of the crew as the three C's took wins: Cisco over Breckenridge, 20-14; Clyde over Hamilton, 26-22; and Comanche 27 over Coleman 15.

Neighbor Ranger lost a close one to Early 14-13 and DeLeon crushed Cross Plains 55-0. Albany downed Merkel, 25-0.

In Thursday night football action the Eastland Junior Varsity v. the Blanket Varsity at Blanket and the score ended with Eastland 13 and Blanket 6. The seventh and eighth graders didn't have a game this week.

Mrs. Willard Thomas of Weatherford with a sampling of her original miniatures.

Artist To Present Program To Civic League Club

Mrs. Willard Thomas, an artist from Weatherford who produces beautiful and original miniatures from Nature's bounty, will present the program to the Eastland Civic League on October 8.

Mrs. Thomas can take a handful of flower blooms, a stem of native grass, a straw from her broom, and a seed pod or two and create one of her delightful miniatures.

What started as a hobby has become quite a lucrative venture for Wylene Thomas. She is constantly rebuilding her stock, searching for all kinds of natural treasures that most of us would overlook. Old dried toadstools, tree bark, moss, burr, and button clover, seed pods, grasses of all varieties, blossoms and weeds all find a place in her designs.

Velvet, burlap or linen scraps provide rich backgrounds for Mrs. Thomas' creations. She frames some of the miniatures for hanging, mounts others in sea shells, and places some under see-through domes for display. While her frames or domes are purchased, most other needed materials may be found around the house or pasture.

Very few tools are needed. White glue, toothpicks and a good pair of tweezers do well. Mrs. Thomas enjoys the change of seasons, for each comes with new natural marvels. Born a nature lover, she experiences relaxation and enjoyment as she gathers and works with Nature's bounty.

This program will follow the monthly luncheon and business meeting of the Eastland Civic League, to be held in the Woman's Club building on Oct. 8. Seating will begin at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon will begin at 12 noon. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Marcus O'Dell, 629-1395, by 5 p.m., Monday, Oct. 6.

Hostesses for the luncheon will be Loretta Bulgerin, Pat Alexander, Mildred Sherrill and Eula Cagle.

Services For Charles Mitchell Held Wed.

Charles L. (Charlie) Mitchell, 88, of Olden, died at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas following a brief illness. Services were Friday at the Bakker Funeral Home Chapel.

The Rev. Harold Meeker, pastor of the Olden Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Eastland Cemetery.

Born Nov. 17, 1886, in Little River in Bell County, he married Alberta Gaston August 15, 1921, in Baird.

He moved to Olden in 1920 and had lived there the last 50 years.

Mr. Mitchell was employed by Texas Electric Service Company from Feb. 26, 1930, to May 31, 1958, when he retired with 28 years service.

He was a member of the Olden Baptist Church. Survivors include a son, Boyce Whitmore of Kaufman; two daughters, Mrs. L.E. (Jeanne) Thomas of Dublin and Mrs. John (Ann) Hynes of Dallas; five grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and four great-great-grandchildren.

Hiding Place Tickets

"The Hiding Place" will be shown at the Majestic Theatre beginning October 15, with two shows nightly. Advanced tickets are on sale and may be purchased in the lobby of the Eastland National Bank during regular banking hours for $2.25. This film is produced World-wide Film Association

Many people have felt that the truck would be primarily for rural areas, but when most take a closer look at the problems involved in the truck which will be replaced, they see the need of a truck with a large volume of water to help in the controlling of fast spreading structural fires in a quick period of time.

Sure the department needs contributions from everyone who could use the services of a fire department, whether they live in the city or in rural areas. Because some day a car or home or some type of property you own may catch on fire and the sound of a well-equipped fire truck and people to help will be one of the best sounds you will ever hear.

The fire department went out on a limb for the people of Eastland County. Please don't let the limb break off.

If just 80 people would give $10 each, we will reach our goal.

The Eastland Volunteer Fire Department Thanks You!!

Do You Remember

BY HERMAN DEMPSEY

There was the time when people had never heard of a farming implement called a combine. A small grain combine is a machine that is designed to cut the grain, convey it into the machine where the grain and stalks are separated. The grain is augered into a container fastened high enough so that grain trucks can pass under it and receive the grain to be hauled to graineries. This motor-driven machine can be operated by one man. The straw is scattered over the field as operation proceeds.

The harvest of small grain in prior years was quite different. The horse-drawn machine used then was called a binder or by some as a grain harvester. This machine was drawn by two teams of mules or horses. The power for operation of the machine was provided by lugged wheels carrying the machine. The operation of the machine was transferred from the lugged wheels by means of chains to geared wheels operating the different functions of the machine. The cycle bar cut the grain which was pushed back on a conveyer by a puddle reel that revolved while the machine was in motion. The grain and stalks were conveyed into a compartment where it was compressed and automatically tied into a bundle by binding twine. The bundles were set up in shocks with the grain heads in the top of the shock. This was done by men following along behind the machine. These rows of grain shocks remained until the threshing machine came thru the country when the grain and straw would be separated. The grain was put in burlap bags as it came from the thresher, then hauled to the grainery by wagon pulled by horses. The straw was blown from the machine into a straw stack where cows could eat it as hay in the winter.

The binder was pulled by two teams that were hooked up, one in front of the other. The driver generally rode a horse in the back team and was to guide and maintain control of both teams. The operator of the machine had a seat on the back side where he could observe all the operations. Due to the heavy demand on the horse and mule teams pulling these machines, some farmers used mules that had not been completely trained to the harness. One farmer with just this type of mule used it in his team. Everything went fine until an odd noise was made by the machine and the young mule started running, which excited the others. The driver tried to keep them running in a circle until he could regain control. In so doing the cycle bar of the binder hit a telephone post. A lot of repair was necessary to the machine but the driver regained control.

Could It Happen Again?

In The Kitchen With Dinah

Ladies: Are you competing with the television set for your husband's attention? The glorious game of football is back in our homes once again. Stop trying to compete with these professional showmen, and find a way to make him realize that you are around the house, too. It makes little difference how much you complain, the TV will still be on. So, formulate your own "game plan".

Haven't you heard the old saying, "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach"? Well, let's make this the basis of our strategy.

First, go to the kitchen and prepare a few appetizers. We suggest possibly:

1. Various assortments of cheeses and crackers.
2. Bacon rolled oysters (Wrap 1/2 slice of bacon around an oyster bit. Secure with a toothpick and broil on both sides until brown. Serve with ketchup or hot sauce.
3. Nachos (Doritos with a piece of cheese on top. Broil until cheese melts and top off with a slice of olive or Jalapeno pepper.
4. Hot roasted nuts.
5. Popcorn with lots of butter.

Now, the attack! Make sure you have started the "grid-iron king" out with a light lunch. (Everyone knows you can't play ball on a full stomach). Place the appetizers where he can smell the aroma, but can't reach them without getting up. He will have to leave the game long enough to fill his plate. This is your opportunity to begin a conversation and divert his attention from the game.

If you are unsuccessful in your attempt to win his attentions, drop back and punt. Fill yourself a plate, kick off your shoes, and enjoy the game.

Until Next Time

- o Its turning circle is one of the shortest in the world.

- o It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- o It is well insulated against noise.
- o It is protected by 17 anti-corrosion methods.

Other Chevrolet values for 1976.

Vega

Built to take it. Vega for 1976: An extensive anti-corrosion program. New hydraulic valve lifters, for quieter engine performance. A new torque-arm rear suspension. And Vega offers a tough Dura-Built 140-cu.-in. 4-cyl. engine guarantee.

Impala

One of America's most popular full-size cars. That's the result of giving America good value for the dollar. This year, the Impala series includes the new value of the thrifty Impala S—Chevrolet's lowest priced full-size car.

Nova/Concours

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it. And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.

Chevette

Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for the average family, makes Chevette a size whose time has come.

There's much more to see at your Chevy dealer's. Caprice, Monza, Monte Carlo, Camaro, Corvette, Chevrolet wagons—something for everyone in 1976.

Chevrolet Come In Oct. 2.

Introduction To Fine Tuning

Eastland Music Study Club met Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, October 1st, in the lovely, interesting home of Mrs. Virginia Russell at Bell Hurst Ranch for their beginning of the new club year 1975-1976 "Our Centennial Year".

New President, Mrs. C.L. Choral Director Mrs. Frost and pianist Mrs. Russell, led the group in singing "Bicentennial Hymn of the Month 'Lonesome Valley'"--White Spiritual arranged by Eusebia

H. Hunkins. Mrs. Russell then gave the study of subject for the year.

Jonnie Cogdell To Participate In Coronation Ceremonies

Miss Jonnie Carol Cogdell of Floydada, Texas, will participate as royalty in the Coronation and parade pageantry of Queen Nannette Oge of the Texas Rose Festival in Tyler from October 15th through the 19th. Miss Cogdell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Cogdell of Floydada, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.M. McCain of Eastland.

Miss Cogdell will be the duchess of West Texas. She is attending Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Virginia, where she is sophomore class treasurer, on the Dean's List, and senator to student government association.

She attended Camp Waldemar for eight years, and was voted Ideal Girl her senior year. She was very active in Floydada High School. She was high school cheer leader four years, voted Miss Floydada Outstanding Student, and head cheer leader her senior year. She was valedictorian of the class of 1974.

She will be wearing a beautiful gown designed to portray her role in the Coronation, a glamorous pageant presenting the theme "Fragrances". The various eras of world history will be unveiled in costume and song.

She will be honoree at a number of teas, dances and other social activities. She will ride on a rose-adorned float in the mammoth Rose Festival Parade at 10 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 18.

The five days of festivities feature a Rose Show in which tens of thousands of blooms are displayed, a more than three-mile-long parade, tours of a selected group of rose fields, Queen's Tea, art shows, dances, and many other festivities.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

Faith more than the fine arts and fighting has changed the trends of the centuries for the better.

Peter's sermon on the day of Pentecost wrote more history than all of the struggles of Caesar. The conversion of Paul on the Damascus road changed the destiny of the world more than any conquest of the people of power.

Historian J.W. Bradley recorded, "In an age when skepticism was dominating the intellectual life, and when the slave trade was poisoning the economic life, John Wesley saved the Anglo-Saxon civilization from moral and spiritual collapse."

He continued, "Had there been no Wesley and no revival, it is more than doubtful if there would have been a British Commonwealth of Nations. They would have likely perished as did the old classic civilizations of Greece and Rome through moral decay."

We are in trouble today - socially, economically, militarily and spiritually. Believingly, we need to make the plea of Psalm 138:7 our personal prayer: "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou wilt revive me."

58 Adults Enrolled For G.E.D. Tests

National 4-H Week

COLLEGE STATION - 4-H boys and girls throughout Texas and the nation will join in a salute to America's Bicentennial celebration during National 4-H Week, Oct. 5-11.

The annual observance, with this year's theme of "4-H - '76 - Spirit of Tomorrow," is designed to accent the history, ideas and goals of the 4-H program, points out Dr. Don Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Many county groups are planning special events, service projects and recruitment drives during National 4-H Week," notes Stormer. "It's a special time when 4-H is recognized for its contributions to the growth and development of youth."

The 4-H program is active in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands as well as in more than 80 countries. It is administered by the Cooperative Extension Service, and Extension professionals play an active role in recruiting, training and assisting volunteer leaders who help with local 4-H activities.

According to Stormer, some 7.2 million youth between the ages of 9 and 19 are currently enrolled in 4-H, with more than 215,000 of these in Texas. More than 21,000 volunteer adult and youth leaders assist with local 4-H programs in the state.

"Although the majority of 4-H members still live on farms and in rural communities, 24 per cent now come from larger urban and suburban areas," notes the 4-H leader. "Well over half of Texas 4-Hers live on farms or in towns of over 100,000 population."

Texas 4-Hers participate in more than 60 educational project areas, with the most popular being food and nutrition, clothing and textiles, and horses and ponies.

"Since its beginning around the turn of the century, 4-H has offered practical learning and citizenship experiences to millions of young people," Stormer points out.

Sen. Tom Creighton Day Set Nov. 6, Mineral Wells

November 6 has been designated as "A Day For Tom Creighton" in honor of his 15 years of service to the people of the 22nd Senatorial District for the State of Texas. A casual "come as you are" barbecue will be held at the Downing Heliport facility of the Municipal Airport in Mineral Wells, Texas. The appreciation program begins at 5:30 p.m. An old fashioned Texas Barbecue dinner with all the trimmings will be served at 6:30 p.m. The program will feature the North Texas State University band and other musical groups. The event will be highlighted by a delegation of Sen. Creighton's colleagues from the Texas House and Senate, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. The senator's wife, Sue, and his three sons, Will, Kenny and Mark, who are all college students, will also attend.

The appreciation day is being held at the request of many of Tom Creighton's friends and associates throughout the 22nd Senatorial District. They wanted to have the opportunity, along with others in the community, to express their thanks to Sen. Creighton for the many things he has done throughout his term of public service. The district includes the counties of Hill, Bosque, Comanche, Erath, Somervell, Johnson, Hood, Eastland, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Parker, Young, Jack, Wise, Denton, Montague and Cooke.

Fred Eubanks, prominent area banker and Chairman of the Appreciation Day Committee, said of the event, "The dedicated effort of Tom Creighton has touched all our lives in many ways over the past 15 years. He has been instrumental in the growth of higher education through the three Senior and five Junior colleges in the district. His leadership in agricultural extension services and programs of pest control have benefited the diversified agricultural and livestock industry represented by the 17 counties. Support of hospital legislation and medical education has helped provide desperately needed health care. Farm to Market Road systems, soil and water conservation, recreational areas, adequate supplies of clean water—the list of this man's accomplishments in our behalf goes on and on. In the last session of the legislature alone he obtained passage of some 30 bills that directly affected the interest of the 22nd Senatorial District."

"Everyone is urged to come and participate in this day of good times and good food as we honor Tom Creighton for the job he's done."

Tickets for the event are $5.00 each, and are currently available at the First National Bank, City National Bank, Mineral Wells Savings and Loan Association, and Hamilton's Tire Service in Mineral Wells. Availability of tickets in other areas of the district will be announced soon.

Hay Show Winners Announced

R.D. Hart of Eastland and Glen Rocky of Baird produced the two top bales of hay for the Eastland County Hay Show Tuesday. Hart's bale of alfalfa hay tested 21.3 percent crude protein. A bale of coastal bermuda grass exhibited by Rocky tested 20.4 percent crude protein. Both men received blue ribbons for their hay in the third annual county hay show.

Dr. Neal Pratt, Extension Service forage specialist from Texas A&M University, judged the hay and discussed the hay quality with about 30 people who attended the meeting.

Others who received blue ribbons on their hay were Anton White--oats and vetch; Dr. L.R. Gohlke--coastal bermuda grass; H.L. King--coastal bermuda grass; Ratliff Feed Store--coastal bermuda grass; Bill Brown--coastal bermuda grass; Mrs. Waverly Massengale--coastal bermudagrass; Elvy Taylor--coastal bermuda grass; Morris Underwood--oats and vetch; Mac McWhorter--coastal bermuda grass.

Hart also received blue ribbon on a bale of oats and pea hay and a bale of triticale hay. Those receiving blue ribbons on sudan hybrids and other annual sorghums were K.F. Kirk, J.D. West, Mrs. Anton White, Billy Don Walton, J.L. McDaniel, and F.W. Rogers. The hay had to grade 85 or above to get a blue ribbon.

Exhibitors receiving red ribbons were Joe Ziehr--pea hay; R.D. Hart--oat hay; H.L. King--oat hay; Dr. L.R. Gohlke--Kline grass; Leo Williams--coastal bermuda grass; J.W. Ratliff--coastal; Hanging Tree Ranch--coastal; H.L. King--millet; Mrs. Waverly Massengale--sorghum; Don Duke--sorghum; Norman Richardson--sorghum; and Don Adair--sorghum.

Those receiving gold ribbons were Don Adair--oat hay; C&D Feed Store--coastal; John Kidd--coastal; Harold Reich--sorghum; Ralph Kizer--sorghum.

Dr. Pratt complimented the growers for producing very good quality hay. Nineteen out of 38 entries received a blue ribbon. He told the growers that stage of maturity and soil fertility were the most important factors in producing quality hay. Protein declines rapidly as the hay crop matures, so it becomes important to cut hay at the right maturity. Texture and leafiness are also very important. Small stems which are pliable and flexible are desired.

Pratt said a good ratio of more leaves to stem is important as leaves contain two to three times as many nutrients as stems.

VOCATION NOTES

(ED. NOTE: Local colleges and public schools are busy expanding vocational education programs and each has extensive lists of courses and programs which teach students skills which in most cases can be put to immediate use on jobs. Specific information about vocation training may be obtained directly from both Cisco Junior College and Ranger Junior College or from high school officials in all towns in the county. These articles by the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools deal directly with the vocational education programs and how they're helping people get and keep better jobs.)

Vocational education is on the increase, outpacing even colleges and universities in enrollment growth, according to U.S. Department of Education officials who say its emphasis on job market skills and a growing disenchantment with college among youth are contributing to this trend.

The swing in the direction of vocational education has been increasing steadily over the past decade. Between 1965 and 1974 enrollments in public vocational programs rose by 659%—over six times the increase for the traditional academic sector, according to Dr. William Pierce of the U.S. Office of Education.

Private vocational schools, too, have been experiencing high enrollments with a 12% increase last fall, according to a spokesman for the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools. As a comparison, college and university enrollments rose by 4%.

Seen as a permanent trend, Dr. Albert Riendieu of the U.S. Office of Education says by 1980 there is a good chance 60% of the students attending a community college will be enrolled in occupational programs.

"Jobs are at the root of the trend", he says, "Vocational education means bread and butter. Today, people are looking for education which leads to jobs. For example, college graduates have discovered there aren't enough jobs out there—now they're back in school taking welding, or auto repair, or any other job-oriented course."

In addition to increasing enrollments, Dr. Riendieu stated that the average age of vocational students is also increasing, from 21, 30 years ago, to 28 now. "What this means", he says, "is that a lot of people already employed want to change jobs. They are dissatisfied and are going to school after work to learn a specific skill."

Citing the energy crisis, Dr. Riendieu said many students are taking courses which would lead to immediate employment in an energy-related field, an active area of employment.

"Vocational students are more specific about what they want to do and what education they need," he added.

While vocational education is certainly not new—it has been around since before the Revolution when Benjamin Franklin owned and operated a printing school—it is gaining new attention in the wake of the worse unemployment in the post-war era.

Today, about six million Americans are enrolled in public or private vocational programs, attractive due to their emphasis on career preparation. Unlike the traditional "whole man" approach to education, i.e., learning a little about a lot, specialized private vocational schools shun the liberal arts for hard knowledge in a skill which is "salable" on the job market.

Attracting a whole new student clientele, typical students in a welding class today would include women who are seeking non-traditional, high-paying jobs; laid off workers who need retraining in another occupational area; high school graduates who don't want to go to college but want some sort of skill before entering the job market; or college grads who have spent months looking for jobs that aren't there.

Tom Neely, a 24-year old business management graduate from a big Michigan University, couldn't find a job after months of looking. In order to support himself and his wife, he had to wait tables. "One day I threw in the towel", he said, "and decided to get a skill which would enable me to open up my own business. Because of the need for good welders, I decided to make the six-month investment in more schooling. I'm going to start a welding shop when I'm through."

Women who want to join the work force after many years are also seeking vocational training. Joan Nettleman, of San Diego, California, was 50 when her children finally all left home, either for college or marriage. To keep busy, she enrolled in a medical assisting program since she always liked helping people. Now, happy in her new career, she enjoys talking to patients and feeling useful again.

They are able to innovate on demand and teach skills needed in an increasingly complex and finicky job market, where an estimated three new types of jobs are created for every one which becomes technologically extinct.

Hundreds of careers are taught in these private institutions—from auto repair to data processing, dietetics, fashion design, welding, X-ray technology and others. The Department of Labor lists over 800 careers in its "Occupational Outlook Handbook", a rich source of career information, which is available at most libraries.

However, vocational schools are sensitive to job market demands, adapting to new technological advances or opening career areas. For example, the energy crisis has created a need for welders to work on oil refineries, pipeline, and utility plants. As a result vocational schools have stepped up their training programs. One welding school in Tulsa, Okla., has had to add extra classes now scheduled from 8 a.m. to midnight.

Private vocational schools were also the first to lead in the development of paramedical programs after the multitude of federal health care programs such as Medicare was passed into law. While colleges and universities continued to supply physicians and nurses, the role of training auxiliary health workers fell to vocational schools. These schools now train a major portion of paramedics including emergency medical technicians, inhalation therapy technicians, nurses aides, operating room technicians, and many others. Today, responding to the need for skilled help in hospitals, clinics, nursing homes, and other health care facilities, over 80 accredited private schools offer paramedical training.

Since their focus is totally employment-oriented, private vocational schools teach courses only directly related to career goals. Thus, English literature and physical education are not part of the curriculum, while such courses as tool and die making, airframe mechanics, or heliarc welding are.

Also, high priority is given to "hands-on" training which is balanced with classroom lectures. Hands-on training puts the student in a real life work situation, either in a school shop or with a cooperating employer. For example, a paramedic student might spend classroom time working in a hospital. An auto repair student might work in a local shop.

The flexibility of private vocational schools enables them to provide a valuable link to the working world. They train people to fit into new niches that constantly unfold in our changing economy.

Information on vocational training may be obtained from a number of sources. The U.S. Office of Education publishes its "Directory of Post-Secondary Schools with Occupational Programs" which lists schools by occupational categories. Also, the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools offers a Directory of Accredited Schools without charge. Single copies may be obtained from NATTS, 2021 L Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036.

JUNIOR HIGH JOTTINGS

By Vance O'Brien
Do you have a child in school? If you do, ask him what happened at school last Friday. Ten to one they'll say, "Aw nothing, you gotta coke?"

Well, really, there's plenty going on in Eastland Junior High. Listen and I'll tell you part of it.

Mrs. Day's seventh grade English class has been doing both reading and spelling. We wrote a theme on the report cards we got Thursday.

Life Science is busy enough without daily tests. Coach Hughes classes have done an experiment in which a bug and plant are placed in a sealed bottled and the bug is supposed to stay alive. The classes are also studying "The Living Organism".

Multiplication is now centered on in Mrs. Petty's math. The classes also did a mathematical design on the front of their folders. This class is one of the two that got new desks, the other being Mrs. Day's.

Texas History has two slants - one being Coach Price and the other Coach Dallas. Coach Price is studying Texas grass and grain. Most of Coach Price's tests were very good too!

Coach Dallas is making a poster about Indians. The one team one on the history bee. This week was open for football in junior high. But the junior varsity won by 13 to 6. So now you'll know that junior high is not always doing nothing.

*Note--Scribes and correspondents from all areas of the west side of the hill, especially from the eighth grade, are welcome. Eighth graders pass them to me, and I'll pass them on, and we'll tell the Dogie tale.

Food Allergies Gives Several Warnings

COLLEGE STATION—Food allergies can have several warning signals—and causes, Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist, says.

Reactions such as headache, nausea, swelling, itching or burning indicate a possible food allergy, she noted.

"These 'sensitivities' may occur because the food substance (called an allergen) contains some protein. But some researchers believe that starches, fats and other chemicals may produce the reaction."

Mrs. Sweeten is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

"Although any food may produce reactions in some individuals, the most common offenders are eggs, milk, wheat, corn, chocolate, fish, potatoes, shellfish, tomatoes, and citrus fruit such as oranges, grapefruits or lemons", she said.

One cause of a food sensitivity may be eating too much of that particular item. This is why it's unwise to follow fad diets calling for an excess of any one food, Mrs. Sweeten reminded.

"And frequently people who 'just don't like' certain foods really may be allergic to them. Nature's protective effort may be misinterpreted as just a whim or fancy—such as the preschooler who refuses to drink his milk.

"Or a teenager may be fully aware that when he eats a chocolate he has a reaction such as a stomach ache, headache or bad skin condition.

"Any food giving mild symptoms should be placed on the suspect list", the specialist said.

If family members seem sensitive to certain foods, the family physician or a specialist in allergic disease, can identify the exact allergies and prescribe the proper treatment, she noted.

Because nutritional needs of an allergic person are the same as anyone else's, physicians usually recommend a diet based on the Four Food Groups—but individually modified to the person's allergies.

"Remember to read prepared food labels carefully to see that the offending substance isn't contained. Foods causing an allergic reaction should be omitted", she said.

For diets excluding wheat and milk, Mrs. Sweeten suggested these peanut butter cookies for snacking.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- 5 Dozen Cookies
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup soy flour
- 1/2 cup potato flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Grease baking sheets. Beat fat, peanut butter, sugar, vanilla and egg until creamy. Mix flours, baking soda, and salt thoroughly. Add to creamy mixture and beat well. Roll dough into balls, about 1 inch in diameter. Place about 2 inches apart on baking sheet.

Press balls down with fork to make crisscross design. Bake 15 minutes or until cookies are set, but not hard. Remove cookies from pan to rack. Cool.

And for people who have to exclude wheat and eggs, she suggested this Brown Bread.

BROWN BREAD

- 5 Loaves, about 10 slices each
- 1 1/2 cups soy flour
- 1 1/2 cups rye flour
- 1 cup cornmeal
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup raisins
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 1 cup mild molasses

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. (moderate). Grease five 16 ounce fruit or vegetable cans. Mix flours, cornmeal and sugar. Stir soda and salt into buttermilk. Add to flour mixture. Mix in molasses. Stir in raisins. Pour about 1 cup batter into each can. Bake 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove bread from can. Cool on wire rack. Wrap tightly. Store overnight in refrigerator before serving.

Your cost for electricity is below the national average.

And the gap is widening.

Today your electric bill is much lower than it would be in most other parts of the country. And while electricity costs are rising everywhere, your cost isn't rising as fast.

That's because Texas Electric is doing everything possible to keep the price of electricity down. For one thing, we're using the supplies of low-cost natural gas we acquired many years ago for fuel. And as our cost for gas goes up, we're building power plants to use cheaper lignite and nuclear fuels.

At Texas Electric, we're working to supply the electricity you need — at the lowest possible cost.
