BIG DOINGS coming up in Eastland as the result of Chamber Retail Trades Committee meeting this week: Look for a REALLY BIG Washington's Birthday Sale to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 20, 21, and 22. You'll be reading all about it in THE GOOD CAGE action this week at EHS gym when Gorman teams play in district playoff games: Monday night the Gorman girls will face a Rising Star team and Thursday Gorman boys will meet a Putnam girls team. We'll all want to get out to support these neighbors and see some good basketball action.

OUR TOWN AND county will be well represented at a State Board of Insurance Hearing in Austin Tuesday at which this county will join others in asking that it be re - designated out of the high risk tornado zone, which if approved, could lower extended coverage insurance rates by two - thirds. Some nine counties are presently included in the Northwest (high risk) zone, and it could be a substantial savings to get transferred to the Central Zone. Other counties joining in the request are Brown, Stephens, Young, Jones, Wise, Montague and Jack.

I'm sending in some old songs of yeterdays found in an old scrap book of my Father's and Mother's, Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Alford. I would love to see these in print. # Automobile Tires Are Good Buy

WASHINGTON, D.C .-- Compared to other goods and services, automobile tires have been a good buy for consumers over the last five years, according to federal government figures. The Bureau of Labor Statistics at the U.S. Department of Labor reports the Consumer Price Index for all goods and services rose 37.52% from November 1969 to November 1974. During the same period, the bureau's tire price index moved up only 9.96% or a little over a fourth as much. Often called the "cost of living index", the CPI is the statistical measure of changes in the price of goods and services bought by urban blue collar and clerical workers. It covers virtually everything people buy-food, clothing, homes, autos, household supplies, fuel, repair costs, fees, rents and lots

The failure rate in high speed and endurance testing of new passenger car tires dropped from 5.6% in fiscal year 1968 to 0.3% in fiscal year 1973, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation. Tires account for only a small fraction of the total cost of operating a car, the Federal Highway Administration has found. In a study last year, the agency estimated it cost 15.89 cents per mile to operate a 1974 standard size sedan over its projected 10 year life. Replace. . ment tires accounted for about one third of a penny a mile or $.0038. Repair and maintenance was almost 3 cents or $.0294. The other big items were depreciation and gasoline which have risen sharply since the

THE 1776 CLUB - - The 1776 Club with headquarters at the Library was formally adopted by the Thursday Afternoon Club as their Bicentennial project and had its birthday along with the City of Eastland on Jan. 15, 1975. To become a Bicentennial project of an organization, one must have authorization from the Bicentennial Commission which is headed by Emmett Lasater. The 1776 Club has a definite service for the community thru the Centennial Memorial Library. Memberships are sought by the 1776 Club and the money received will be used to purchase historical books and materials for the Library. From now thru 1776 it is hoped to gain $1,776. Memberships cost whatever one wishes to give. We already have 17 members and $82.00. On the east wall of the Library hangs the 1776 Club roster of names and amounts. # Unemployment Of Farm And Ranch Workers

BY VIOLA M. PAYNE Before I left El Paso last summer for the ranch country near Cisco I heard a woman news commentator report over a radio station: "Unemployment is higher among farm and ranch workers and other unskilled laborers ---

I scarcely heard the rest of the newscast, for this remark kept giving an irritating swat somewhere inside my brain. Unskilled indeed! Shades of Mitchell and Scurry Counties and everywhere else in rural Texas and New Mexico where I had ever lived or visited!

The tragedy of such a concept was that it had come from some supposedly higher source than the apartment-oriented announcer, who had merely read it from a sheaf of copy. But such bland acceptance of this sentence could only indicate a vast gap of understanding between he city dweller and the special breed of people who depend on the land for their living. And it's a far cry from wealthy ones, who merely live on the land, to those who join forces with nature for their existence. But at least this remark made me think about the qualities necessary for ranch life. Sometime in the future if most people are forced from the land by economic condition, the whole nation (and part of the world) will have to seek for farmers qualities and skills in order to have food to eat and clothing to

To be successful at ranch and farm life, a person must first be a philosopher. Whether it be self-taught or not, the rancher must have come to terms with the Universe and his place in its patterns and rhythms. He must be emotionally stable enough to withstand times of drouth, depression, discouragement, and insecurity, knowing that these will pass away. He must feel the great cycles of life inherent in the land, and desire to preserve this land by his proper management. This is a spiritual experience, and during this experience the rancher or farmer must withstand periods of intense loneliness and alienation. He must also resist the devaluation upon him from outside--the ideas that he is somehow not as useful to society as a lawyer, teacher, or even a destitute old writer--and Farming and ranching are important to the economy of Eastland County, our State and Nation. Many of our citizens are dependent directly or indirectly upon agriculture for their livelihood. All our people benefit from the productive efficiency of modern agriculture.

Farmers and ranchers have learned to promote their industry through organization of families united for the purpose of analyzing their problems and formulating solutions to those problems.

Therefore, I, Scott Bailey, County Judge of Eastland County, do hereby designate February 10 -15, 1975, as FARM BUREAU WEEK in Eastland County, and urge our citizens to give due recognition to this observance honoring the Eastland County Farm Bureau.

In Official recognition thereof, I hereby affix my signature this 4th day of February, 1975.

by a bull, pulling a calf, fighting a grass fire, being thrown from a horse, or coping with Govern-ment meddling. He must be a devoted husband, or he will lose his cook. He must know how to train his children properly, or they will wreck his ranch and his reputation. He should be able to give an impromptu sermon when the minister doesn't show up for the rural church. Yet he must be enough of a policeman to protect himself and his own property, for he has scant other earthly protection. This requires a knowledge of firearms.

In the middle of this it helps to be an architect, carpenter, painter and landscaper. Knowledge of the training and breaking of horses is very useful. And the rancher must know the habits of poisonous reptiles, including first aid for snake bites. In fact, he must know first aid for everything. And somewhere, in all this maze, he should retain an active sense of humor! Then too, the rancher must understand how to forecast his own weather. He does this by sight and feel and smell--by the subtle shading of clouds and atmosphere, and by the behavior of living things on his land. The Weather Bureau does the best it can, but in Western Texas the rancher knows that in the final analysis he must depend on himself.

During my years of ranch life I have found ranch people with many of these attributes and skills. (The only problem with one man having all these characteristics is that he might get sent to Washington, where most of these qualities are so sorely needed.)

In return for their efforts. ranch people only ask for simple material things, some privacy, and most importantly -- to remain free spirits. Perhaps they will never win glittering recognition or academic honors. But the welfare of our whole nation, and its food and fiber, pivots upon what happens to this very skilled 5% of the population.

To Meet Feb. 13

Home grown fruit and vegetables will be the topic of a meeting planned for home gardeners next Thursday, Feb. 13. The meeting which is being planned by the County Extension Agents and the Program building committee will be held at the Eastland County Farm Bureau building on Highway 80 East in Eastland. It will begin at 2:00 p.m. and is open to everyone interested in gardening and fruit trees announces agents Janet Thomas and DeMarquis Gordon.

Dr. John Larsen, Extension Vegetable Specialist, will dis-cuss vegetable varieties, site selection and soil management. Fruit tree varieties and management will be discussed by Dr. Earl Puls, Extension Horticulturist.

Because of rising cost of food more and more families are planning gardens and planting fruit trees the agents report. A large amount of garden space is not always required for vegetables which can be grown in small areas. Mini-gardens are very popular and only require small areas, clay pots, buckets, wooden boxes, or wire baskets for a family to have fresh vege-

Christie realizes that people want business to hear what they have to say and business should be accountable to the people. This attitude is exemplified in an article from "Austin People in which Christie states, "Business--and the insurance industry is no exception--has been talking too much to itself about its needs and too little about people and their expectations.

One of his most controversial ideas has been the work the Board has undertaken toward an alternate health delivery system for Texans under the Health Maintenance Organization concept.

Christie will probably serve another two years as the chairman of the State Insurance Board and then his future is an open question. COLLEGE STATION 'Know why when you buy" is a good motto to remember when trying to stretch the food budget this year, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt suggested this week.

"Have a basic plan and keep informed about the foods on the shopping list", the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, said.

Most shoppers look for bargains--but deciding whether a bargain is really a good buy involves consideration.

"Price is involved, but so are quality, food value, and family preference. Perhaps the most important single consideration is family preference. If a family won't eat a certain food, it's useless to buy", Mrs. Clyatt

The 64th Legislature is now in full swing. At this point, the bills are all referred to the committee that has to do with the subject matter. With each committee having to give 5 days notice for public hearings. progress is slow in the beginning, but as more and more bills are introduced, the pace builds up pretty fast.

As a normal course, we have over 3,000 bills introduced, and this year will be no exception. Many bills wil not get out of committees.

Besides legislation that is going on, the insurance commission is having a hearing the 11th of February to hear testimony of transferring Montague, Stephens, Jack and Eastland counties from the North-northwest to the Central-Inland areas for extended coverage insurance rating. The Central-Inland area has a much cheaper rate for this type of coverage than the North--Northwest has. When our area has a loss at the present time, it is spread among 11/2 million people. When the Central-Inland has a loss, it is spread among 61/2 million people.

Family Planning Is Now Giving Immuniazations

Family Planning has been given the vaccine for immuniazations by the Texas State Health Department. Immunizations will be given to children, two months on up on Feb. 13, 1975, from 1:00 to 2:00. The Family Planning Clinic is located at 805 W. Main, behind Taylor Center. For information please call 629-8067

In setting rates, the insurance board looks over the premiums paid in and the losses paid out. Thus, it is a simple matter to understand: the more people you have in a rating area, the cheaper the insurance should

In 1972, I worked with the insurance commission and was successful in getting the extended coverage insurance in our District reduced by 10%. At this same time, I was able to get them to begin to get statistics of our counties separate from the North-North-

Before, if a hail did a million dollars worth of damage in Lubbock, it was just shown as being in the rating area. So eventually, with the losses shown or not shown in Jack, Montague, Stephens, or Eastland, we can talk with an experience record to back up any payment. This will be a very important hearing to us all.

Do You Remember When?

The people in the communities worked together for the good of all the people. During grain harvesting times when the thrashing machine, powered by a steam fueled tractor, came through the community, all the farmers worked together to get in the harvest. They furnished what they called a "bundle wagon" that hauled the grain bundles from the shocks in the field to the thrashing machine. Grain hauling wagons hauled the grain from the thrasher to the grainery on the farm.

The thrasher would go from one farm to another until all was finished in the community. The thrasher owner took grain for his pay for thrashing. The help needed, went along with biscuits.

the machine from place to place. This was called swapping work, you help me and I will help you, sort of arrangement. The women folk got together at the home where the thrashing crew would be at lunch to provide the generous helpings of food required by these crews. Since these times generally came along during July, there was always plenty of corn on the cob, green beans, Irish potatoes, okra and other fresh vegetables from the garden. Then the frying chickens which had been hatched early in the spring by hens sitting on the eggs, were ready by this time so that fried chicken and plenty of cream gravy could be prepared bundle wagons and grain on the wood burning cook stove hauling wagons along with the with plenty of homemade hot on the wood burning cook stove

MRS. WORD KINDERGARTEN

The boys and girls in Kindergarten have been working very hard this week. We are learning about winter birds and have been coloring different birds each day. We are going to make a book with these pictures when we finish coloring all of them. One day when it was very cold outside each boy and girl got to make a pair of mittens and decorate them the way they wanted.

Kirsten March and Alan Crowe have been sick but we are glad they are feeling better and are back at school. Denna Finley and Pat Hammon have also been absent. We will be glad when they come back to school.

Our leaders have been Becky Bullock, Kalynn Ables, Vicki Wright, Diana Williams, Lisa Tyson, Clyde Wilson, John Kidd, David Johnson, Andy Fambrough, and Shane Bowles.

The American Peanut—tomorrow, the world?

by Herb Kinnear and John Hosemann

The American peanut is out to win new friends and help feed the world. Like the soybean, the peanut plays a dual role both as an oilseed and as a rich source of protein. In the edible food market, peanut butter, snack foods, etc. compete directly with the higher priced protein foods-eggs, hamburger, cheese and steak.

In the oil and meal markets, the American peanut must compete directly with the vast array of lower priced oils and meals such as soybeans, cottonseed, sunflowerseed, rapeseed, sesame, copra, linseed and palm-at home and abroad. A native of the tropics of Brazil, the peanut is a "natural" food for hungry people in food deficient countries.

Peanut products are inexpensive in relation to other sources of protein. USDA reports that the cost of one-third of a day's recommended protein from peanut butter (14 cents) was the cheapest among 19 meats and meat alternates studied during June, 1974.

Peanuts are especially high in B vitamins. Per pound, they contain more protein than sirioin steak and more carbohydrate than potatoes and one-third as much fat as a pound of butter.

There are three general types of peanuts grown in this country: the small round Spanish peanut, the larger and longer Virginia, and the Early Runner type having some characteristics of each of the other

U. S. peanut production is expected to have reached another record in 1974 at 3,763 million pounds, up 8% from 1973. Since acreage planted to the crop has remained relatively constant over the years due to a marketing quota program, increases in yields account for the consistent increases in peanut production. In 1974 an estimated 1.5 million acres will average 2,521 pounds per acre or 9% above the record high of 2,323 pounds set in 1973.

Georgia, the No. 1 peanut-producing state, is followed in volume by Texas, North Carolina, Alabama, Virginia, Oklahoma, Florida, South Carolina, New Mexico and Mississ-

Some American peanuts are large and have a fine flavor but contain less oil than the African peanut, for example. Up to now, most of the U. S. peanut exports have been for the oil market where competition with other oils is keen.

Now the push is on by U. S. peanut growers and their organizations to promote the edible use of the peanut overseas. For various reasons, people in countries like India have not consumed as much protein food, like the peanut, as they might if supplies were available at prices they could afford.

However, India, along with Africa, has made extensive use of peanut milk. This unusual food for babies was developed in the early 1940s by missionary to the Belgian Congo, Dora Armstrong, as a substitute for cow's milk.

In the U.S., more than half the processed peanut crop is made into peanut butter, which is celebrating its 85th anniversary this year. The balance of the peanuts grown in this country is sold as a snack food, cookie ingredient, candy filler, paste for shortening and infant and dietetic foods.

According to U. S. Department of Agriculture records, "While the South American Indians apparently made a peanut paste similar to peanut butter, it was not until 1890 that peanut butter was first made commercially. It was produced by a physician in St. Louis, Missouri, as a food for invalids . .

Traditionally, peanuts not sold for edible consumption here in our own country (an estimated one-third of the total U.S. peanut production) have been crushed for oil (for salad dressing and the like) or have been exported, mostly for crushing.

We've had to compete for sales in the world market against cheaper peanuts grown in Africa, India and China, as well as the long list of lower-priced oils and meals mentioned earlier.

Now the peanut picture is changing. Drought in some peanut-producing countries and increased populations have forced these nations to curtail exports to meet their own needs. These and other protein deficient countries might soon be looking to U.S. peanuts to fill their needs.

Already, the U.S. peanut industry, celebrating March as Peanut Month, has helped introduce peanut butter to Japan. Various formulas are being tested in the school lunch program there as well as in consum-

A team of U.S. growers and shellers recently found promising opportunities for selling more peanuts in Europe.

Peanut merchandising in this country is becoming more diversified. For example, unroasted, shelled peanuts are sold in distinctively labeled 4-pound burlap bags at the country store of Suiter Bros., Inc., at Garysburg, North Carolina. Many of these peanuts are grown by William A. Robinson, president of this concern, whose home farm is a few miles north in Virginia.

A considerable volume of peanuts is merchandised through a number of state Farm Bureaus, some through commodity exchange programs.

National promotion for the peanut is carried on by such groups as Peanut Associates of New York City, financed by the Alabama Peanut Producers Association and the Georgia Peanut Commission. President of the former group is James Earl Mobley of Shorterville, Alabama, who also serves as chairman of the peanut advisory committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

According to Kay H. McWatters, assistant food scientist at the University of Georgia, "The next two decades should witness tremendous progress in developing peanut protein as a world food.'

In the meantime, Mr. Peanut is ready, willing and able to supply more of the world's nutritional needs.
