Second 100 Years Begins For Eastland

The City of Eastland received official Bicentennial designation at its 100th Birthday party Wednesday.

City Bicentennial Chairman Emmett Lasater was notified this week by State Bicentennial Chairman Sam Kinch Sr. of Eastland's official designation

Emmett Lasater of Eastland will be installed as new Chamber of Commerce President at the Chamber's annual banquet, which will be held Jan. 23. Emmett is employed with Texas Electric Service Co. in Eastland and has worked closely with all Chamber projects the past several years while on the board of directors. He replaces Bruce Pipkin. YOU CAN'T SAY members of the Eastland County Bass Club aren't dedicated fishermen. Six of them showed up last Sunday morning at 6 a.m. in snow and 15 degrees cold for a scheduled fishing tournament. Two of the group, Eastland's Jim Golden and Cisco's Allen Fannin, had their boats and were all set.

After a few cups of coffee at the White Elephant Restaurant in Cisco, the group decided to postpone the tournament until next Sunday. Hopefully, the weather will be better.

In December, club members fished at Lake Leon in weather that never got above 35 degrees. A hardy lot, our fishermen!

The Chamber of Commerce Golden Deeds Awards Banquet will be Jan. 23, at 7:00 p.m. in the Siebert Elementary School. Decorations for the banquet are being provided by the Civic League and Garden Club.

Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office; by mail or from any of the following men: Joe Cauble, Otis Coleman, Wilbert Simmell, Don Nicholas or James Wright.

Mrs. Steve Church will provide the dinner music for the banquet. Presentations will be made by James Wright, Jay Staggs will be Master of Ceremonies. Invocation will be made by Carl Garrett.

Paul Williams Fund
The fund for Paul Williams, 29, who is a victim of glomerulonephritis, nephritis, or more commonly known as Bright's Disease, for one year and four months, was started last week at the Eastland National Bank.

City's application for national designation has been forwarded and is expected to be announced soon.

An official historical marker paying tribute to the Pioneers of Eastland was officially dedicated at the Birthday Party. Another highlight of the event was the first showing of a hand crocheted flag, made by Librarian Mrs. Trudy Cushman.

New Officers Elected EVFD
Members of the Eastland Volunteer Fire Department elected new officers at their first monthly meeting held Jan. 7.

Elected as chief was Jack Graham; first assistant chief, Johnny Grimes; second assistant chief, Steve Haines; secretary-treasurer, Ray Harbin; with Phillip Arther as his assistant; chaplain will be Jimmy McCoy; drill captain Ronnie White and Volunteer Mascot Russell White.

New officers are elected at the first meeting of each year. All members of the fire department would like to extend a special thanks to Jack Mace and Mike O'Dell who did an outstanding service in the offices in which they served.

Elections and roll changes for each of the three companies in the Volunteer Department will be available following the next meeting.

4 Felled By Lethal Fumes In Olden
A mother and daughter are dead and the father is in extremely critical condition at Eastland Memorial Hospital where another daughter is reported improving.

All were apparently felled by lethal fumes inhaled in their mobile home at Olden early Monday morning.

Ambulance sirens filled the air as attendants from both funeral homes made runs to the mobile home park.

A butane water heater was the apparent source of fumes. Mrs. Loretta Kay Smith, 31, and her daughter, Stephanie, were found dead in the mobile home. The husband, Ray Smith, 32, was in extremely critical condition and another daughter, Debbie, 10, was in critical condition but improving.

A brother of Mrs. Smith, Boyd Pylant of Waxahachie had come looking for Smith, who was absent from work at a bridge construction company.

Pylant broke down the door after finding the house locked, and found the four family members. The mother and younger daughter were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Buddy Rowch of Eastland. He ordered an autopsy on Mrs. Smith and Stephanie, to be performed at Parkland Hospital in Dallas.

Pylant found the father and older daughter unconscious in the living room and the mother and younger daughter dead in their beds.

The family had moved to Olden only two days ago from Waxahachie and reportedly had moved their new mobile home from Dallas.

The heater was burning Monday morning. Rowch said about a foot of vent pipe was missing. Outside temperatures dropped to 7 degrees early Monday.

Services are pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Smith was born Loretta Kay Pylant on April 27, 1943, in Snyder.

Survivors include her husband Ray; one daughter, Debbie of the home; her parents Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pylant of Snyder; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Etta Morris of Rayville, La.; two sisters, Mrs. Rena Ring of Odessa and Mrs. Darlene Amox of Snyder; and two brothers, Marshall Pylant of Vernon and Boyd of Waxahachie.

Services for Stephanie, born May 6, 1968, also are pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Joy Heltzel of Lancaster, Calif., and Mrs. Ophelia Rhimes of Breckenridge visited Mrs. Clyde Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Iley Monday after-noon.

E.C.T. To Meet 7 P.M. Thursday

A meeting of the entire membership of Eastland Civic Theatre will be held at 7 p.m. today (Thursday) at Bell Hurst Theatre, Dan Childress, president of the organization has announced.

A first for ECT, a Dessert Theatre presentation of two one-act plays will be planned at the meeting. Play sections will be discussed and committees for the many various aspects of production will be named at the meeting.

"This is the annual membership meeting held prior to the major production", Virginia Russell, director for the theatre explained. "For this reason, all past, present and prospective members are asked to come and have a say in this important planning session."

"This includes our members in Ranger, Cisco and Gorman", she added.

No casting for the plays has been done at this point, she said.

In addition to the numerous committees always necessary for production - stage management, design and carpentry, costumes, make-up, and publicity - this year a foods committee will be named.

The theatre, a unique accomplishment for this area, was organized in January, 1965. In February, 1966, it moved into its own theatre, renovated from a large chicken hatchery on the Bell Hurst estate east of Eastland. Design and carpenter work by members provided a raised stage, seating for 94, costume rooms and lobby.

Refreshments will be served at Thursday's meeting.

AUSTIN—The 64th Legislature whipped into action Tuesday (Jan. 14) faced with a heavy agenda which lawmakers must strain to complete by the June 2 adjournment deadline.
 Blessed with a revenue surplus estimated at well over the $1 billion mark, legislators may still have a hard time avoiding new taxes due to record spending demands.
 Most costly proposals of all deal with overhauling the public school finance formulas, regarded as a must job for the legislature this year.
 Price tag on school finance reform ranges up to $2.7 billion for the next two years. While a more-modest version probably will be adopted, any approach will take a big chunk of the available revenues.
 Election of the new House speaker—Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake—was the first major order of business for the session.
 Only 30 new members took the oath of office in the House, only four in the Senate.
 Gov. Dolph Briscoe is pushing for $394 million in emergency appropriations to raise state employees pay by 10 per cent immediately, provide stopgap school aid and increase retirement benefits.
 Matters which legislators will wrangle over during the next 140 days include constitutional revision, creation of a public utilities commission, election law reform, launching a presidential primary, environmental matters, prison and hospital reforms and property tax overhaul.

COMMISSION SPURNED—A Senate consumer affairs sub-committee balked (on a two-to-one tie vote) at recommending a statewide public utility commission.
 Sens. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth and Bill Meier of Euless voted against the proposal, while Sens. Ron Clower of Garland and Lloyd Doggett of Austin supported it.
 Clower and Doggett immediately pre-filed a bill to set up the commission, as Clower warned the committee vote demonstrates stormy days ahead in the legislature over the issue.

APPOINTMENTS—Governor Briscoe named State Rep. John H. Poerner of Hondo executive director of the Committee on Aging effective February 28.
 Other recent appointments by Briscoe include Norman L. Utter of Corpus Christi as 214th district judge, Gerald Alton of Lufkin as 159th district attorney and Herman Smith of Hurst as chairman of a special advisory council on housing.
 Dorothy Davidson was named to head the new Texas Education Agency department of general education as an associate commissioner.

INQUIRY SET—Atty. Gen. John Hill announced he will ask District Judge James R. Meyers of Austin to convene a court of inquiry, probably next summer, into the 1974 Huntsville prison siege.
 Hill delayed plans for the inquiry until after trials on criminal charges resulting from the July-August hostage seizure and shootout led by onetime narcotics kingpin Fred Gomez Carrasco.
 One of Carrasco's confederates is set for trial next month, and trial of others accused of smuggling guns into the prison is expected to follow. Hill said judges strongly urged him not to call the court of inquiry until the trials have been completed.
 The Attorney General said it is doubtful the probe can begin in Meyers' court before mid-summer.

COURTS SPEAK—The Texas Supreme Court held parents of a Brewster County youth shot to death while allegedly stealing a battery from a car have a right to trial of a wrongful death suit against the man who killed him.
 The Third Court of Civil Appeals held a woman whose only surviving son was killed in a Hays County car-train collision is entitled to $5,850 damages. A jury verdict had held the 75-year-old woman should recover $25,000.

REVISION PROPOSED—Two formal proposals for further efforts at constitutional revision have been prepared for legislative consideration.
 Outgoing House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. announced a bill will be sponsored to provide for a 72-delegate constitutional convention to convene April 5, 1976.
 Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado, meanwhile, pre-filed in the Senate a joint resolution proposing the 15,631-word product of the ill-fated 1974 constitutional convention be submitted to voters. Patman said his proposal will save time and money.
 The legislature sitting at a convention in 1974 failed by three votes to agree on a document for submission to voters.
 The issue of revision is expected to be a subject of major debate in the legislature this year.

SALES TAXES REPORTED—Texas cities received more than $62 million in municipal sales and use tax allocations for the last reported quarter.
 Of the total, Houston received $12.5 million, Dallas, $7.8 million, San Antonio, $3.9 million, Fort Worth $2.6 million; and Austin and El Paso, $1.9 million each during the quarter.
 New Comptroller Bob Bullock resumed release of the data without charge to news media. The comptroller's office last year discontinued distribution of the reports.

WATER REPORTS ACCEPTED—Governor Briscoe accepted a short-range action program for guiding water development submitted him by a 32-member task force.
 At the same time, he emphasized need to find a way to bring water to deficit areas from outside the state.
 The program calls for $1.7 billion worth of projects

AG OPINIONS—Jurisdiction over minors 14-17 years old for fish and game law violations is in juvenile courts, Attorney General Hill held.
 Where minors are taken into court, they must be released promptly to parents on promise to bring them to court on request.
 In another opinion, Hill said the State General Land Office may pay for operation and maintenance of its airplane and two automobiles from the travel item of the current appropriations act.

SHORT SNORTS
 State and city sales taxes apply to gold and silver bullion purchased or delivered in Texas, Comptroller Bob Bullock held.

Texas wheat farmers may harvest a record crop of 117 million bushels in 1975, according to Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Cigarette stamp revenues increased more than a million dollars—to $20.8 million—last month over December 1973.

Wildcat oil drilling increased by 42 wells in 1974 over 1973, but wildcat gas well drilling declined slightly.

Disaster designation has been requested for Castro, Floyd and Hale counties due to prolonged drought and adverse weather conditions.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible
Dear friends, God the Father chose you long ago and knew you would become his children. And the Holy Spirit has been at work in your hearts, cleansing you with the blood of Jesus Christ and making you to please him. May God bless you richly and grant you increasing freedom from all anxiety and fear. All honor to God, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; for it is his boundless mercy that has given us the privilege of being born again, so that we are now members of God's own family. Now we live in the hope of eternal life because Christ rose again from the dead.

Salads High In Essential Vitamins

COLLEGE STATION - - A refreshing green salad makes a good change from holiday fare, one foods and nutrition specialist noted this week.

"Salads are a pleasant way of getting essential vitamins and minerals. They're easy to prepare and help save on the food budget," Marilyn Haggard, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Also, leftover meats added to an ordinary salad made it even fancier and more nutritious, she reminded.

The specialist pointed out that in selecting salad greens, consumers should remember these guidelines.

- Choose only crisp, tender greens.

- Remove wilted or bruised sections immediately.

- Wash greens thoroughly in lukewarm water, drain in salad basket, on a wire rack or paper towel, or dry them in a soft towel.

- Store in a vegetable crisper or plastic bag in refrigerator.

- Store watercress and parsley in a covered jar to prevent bruising.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A little girl was asked, "Why do you pray?" "Because God hears me," she answered. "How do you know?" asked the man. "I feel it in my heart," she explained.

There was a gentleman who wanted to make sure God heard him. So he exclaimed in Psalm 119:169, "Let my cry come before Thee, O Lord." He meant, "Let nothing hinder my prayer from being heard."

Disobedience is a hindrance. What we do off our knees is as important as what we do on our knees. Our living has a direct bearing on God's giving. "We get whatever we ask for," says the Bible, "Because we are obeying Him." Doubt is a hindrance. "If you pray for bread and bring no basket to carry it," said D.L. Moody, "you prove the doubting spirit which may be the only hindrance to the gift you ask." "You can pray for anything, and if you believe you have it, it's yours," promised our Lord.

Delinquency is a hindrance. Heaven is deaf when we are delinquent. "If I regard iniquity in my heart," said the Psalmist, "the Lord will not hear me."

Pointing to a man of God, a doctor said, "There goes a man who can get anything he wants from God." Is that true of us?

HOW'S YOUR HEARING?

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

WHAT AM I?

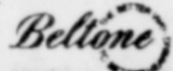

Often I am unrecognized - particularly in the very young.

I make the elderly suffer. So much, they may cut themselves off from family and friends... and they know the heartbreak of loneliness.

I rob more than 22 million Americans of much that is good. I undermine their confidence and eay away their social life.

I am equally hard on the rich and poor. I cause trouble on the job and in the home. Yet, few of those I attack do anything to fight me, because no one wants to admit I exist. I am a hearing problem.

Early detection is important. We'll be happy to give you a free electronic hearing test. Just call or stop in.

Pecan Short Course

Jan. 20-21

Pecan orchard establishment and pecan production will be taught in a two day short course January 20 and 21 in Cisco.

The Eastland County Pecan Growers' Association and the Agricultural Extension Service will conduct the short course for everyone interested in pecan production. Both sessions will begin at 2:30 p.m. and will be held in the Agriculture building at Cisco Junior College. The agriculture building is located across Highway 6 from the main campus of the college north of Cisco. Each session will conclude at 4:30 p.m.

County Agent De Gordon said four specialists will teach the short course. On Monday afternoon James Denton Jr., Area Economist-Management, will discuss the cost of establishing an orchard and the cost of growing the trees to the age of production. Dr. Earl Puls, Area Horticulturist, will discuss selection of varieties, methods of establishment, care of young trees, fertilizing, weed control, pruning and irri-

NEW HR-10 allows self-employed to save more dollars for retirement TAX-FREE!

What a break the 1974 Pension Reform Act gives to self-employed persons for their retirement! Now you can put aside as much as 15% of your annual earned income, up to $7,500, and deduct all of it for Federal Income Tax purposes. What's more, John Hancock has the insured plans to help you provide for your own retirement.

And if your self-employed income is low, you can still deduct a minimum of $750 tax-free each year, even if that exceeds 15% of your self-employed income.

On Tuesday afternoon Dr. Cliff Hoelscher, Area Entomologist, will speak on insect control in young and producing orchards. Dr. Thomas Lee, Area Plant Pathologist, will discuss disease control in pecan orchards.

Gordon said the short course will be of particular interest to people who are considering establishing an orchard or expanding an orchard, but it will also be helpful to growers who are now producing pecans.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my thanks to the Eastland Hospital Staff, for the many kindnesses shown my close friend. Also my thanks to Dr. Treadwell and Garrett for all they did for her during her illness.

I sincerely appreciate the kind words expressed by Rev. Haston Brewer also.

All of the cards and flowers sent by her many friends were deeply appreciated.

Second 100 Begins

BY JOE GRAY

This week Eastland celebrates its 100th birthday and Carl Garrett tells me that within six months this town will be holding the largest homecoming ever held by a small town of this size to celebrate both a birthday and a renewal of old acquaintances.

Our Town has certainly undergone a lot of changes in the first 100 years. I can only wonder what the second hundred will hold.

A century ago this was strictly a frontier community whose citizens suffered all of the hardships of frontier life and the risks involved. Later the economic complexion of the community changed to that of an agricultural economy based primarily on cotton. This in turn changed to an oil boom time economy with the easy fortunes gained and easily lost in the great gamble of expectations of oil riches.

This has in turn declined over the years back to an agricultural economy based primarily on the peanut, which is now the cash crop along with the raising of livestock in our area.

Some severe critics of our area hold that Eastland has seen its best days, that the oil boom has come and gone and there is nothing we can do about it.

The oil boom did bring a lot of people here who did not stay long, but most of them were adventurers who were looking for an opportunity. If they found it they developed into good, substantial citizens; if they didn't, they moved to another place.

In looking over the downtown part of our Town the one thing I notice probably more than anything else in the way of change is the absence of the old Charlotte Hotel building.

The Charlotte was the leading hotel during the time of the oil boom and all of those wondrous out-of-town oil men who came to make a fortune. There has been many a big deal consummated in the hallways, in the rooms, and in the lobby of that hotel.

As I understand it, Judge Hill built the hotel because he was dissatisfied with hotel conditions in Eastland around the period of 1910, 1911, or 1912. He was the district judge and he was having some trouble in finding good accommodations for furnishing suitable meals to the jury, so he built a hotel himself and named it for his daughter Charlotte.

There are several old pictures of the downtown section around town. Perhaps the most easily available one is the one in Charlie Williams shoe shop. That picture was made while both of the bank buildings were being built and their state of incompleteness are easily noticed in the photo hanging in his place of business.

The old Corner Drug store building was being redone at that time too. This building, I understand, is the oldest building in downtown Eastland.

Looking at it from the south, one can easily see that the original building was rock, not brick, with which it is trimmed on the outward surface.

Having just passed the season where one watched the championship game of all of professional football on the television tube, I am reminded of some of the World Series in baseball we used to anxiously await in the days before television, or for that matter, before radios were in every home.

A fellow by the name of Maurice Rubin used to operate a news stand in a small section of the Connellee Theater building, at the south corner of the building. During the World Series of each year, back in those days, he would have the Western Union Company install a play-by-play report system that was widely used by that company at that time to give a "picture" of the ballgame. A screen was set up with a baseball diamond showing on the screen and images of ball players at their respective bases. As each play came over the wire the images were placed in the exact position to show the result of that play. Maurice used coke cases as supports and set up a system of boards for seats until he had a seating capacity of perhaps a hundred people to "watch" a ballgame.

Back in the days when there was a lot of cotton ginned in Eastland County, going to watch the gin operate was a fascinating sight for a lot of us little boys.

All of the gins then were powered by steam and once in a while the operator would let a little boy pull the cord that attached to the steam whistle which seemed to be something almost every steam engine had on it. There was nothing that was more exciting to a little boy than a good tug on the cord that set off a steam whistle.

Although it is a little hard to realize now, this county used to gin upwards of 40,000 bales of cotton annually. That means that cotton was the prime cash crop and just about everybody farming were cotton farmers. By the turn of the century, Eastland County had settled up until the census of 1910 gave this county about the same population that it now had. But the difference is that in 1910, Eastland and Ranger both were less than 1,000 people. The only town in the county of over 1,000 was Cisco, and at that time there was at least one family on each quarter section of land. Every cross-roads was a store and some of the communities that have died down that used to hum with activity are Romney, Flatwood, Okra, - Scranton, Alameda, and Kokomo to name a few. Scranton even had a boarding school and was a very lively community in the cotton production days of Eastland County history.

However, with the oil boom, there was a burst of railroad building. The Cisco and North-eastern RR built north from Cisco to Breckenridge on to Throckmorton. The Wichita Falls and Southern line commonly known as the Jack Hamond road ran through Ranger north to Breckenridge on to Wichita Falls, and south to Desdemona and Dublin.

And the Eastland, Wichita Falls and Gulf, which was not as long a railroad as its name would indicate, although it was as wide as any of them, operated north out of Eastland to Breck-walker in Stephens County and south to Mangum, where it connected with the Texas Central (known in railroad slang as the "tincan" because of its initials TC). This line was pioneered by the Ringling interests, the same people who operated the nationally-famous circus and thus its nickname of Ringling.

The Texas Central, which was a part of the MKT System also had a line that extended from DeLeon to Rising Star and Cross Plains. This line was built to get Rising Star cotton to market that had previously been hauled by wagon teams all of the way from Rising Star to Cisco. A trip over this 20 miles then was just about an all-day job.

All of these short-line railroads were taken up during the Depression and that is one reason one sees to this day a lot of fence posts made out of old railroad ties. Then after the completion of Whitney Dam, the MKT System discontinued the Texas Central that ran from Waco to Gorman, Carbon and Cisco. All of the gravel used in Whitney Dam came from an open quarry just outside of Carbon.

Civic minded citizens of Gorman, however, bought that part of this line that ran from Dublin and its connection with the Santa Fe to insure rail service for the peanut crop at Gorman.

This left the county served by only one railroad, the one that was the original in our area, the transcontinental Texas and - Pacific. Transcontinental, in that it made connections east at West at El Paso, St. Louis and New Orleans, with other lines that extended on to both coasts of Our Land.

All and all, as one looks back on the history of Our County, the first hundred years have brought a lot of changes. I am thinking that the next hundred years also will bring a lot of changes, and the unhappy thing about it is, that most of us won't be able to be around when the next hundred is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. H.L. King Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H.L. King were honored Saturday evening, Jan. 11, 1975, with a surprise Reception for their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary. The party was hosted by their sons and wives, Mr. and Mrs. Bob King of Eastland, and Dr. and Mrs. Doug King of Shreveport, La. The reception was held at the Lone Cedar Country Club, Eastland.

The decorations carried out the Golden Anniversary theme, using assorted gold, yellow, and champagne colors. A three-tiered cake was served by Mrs. Odell Grubb of Midland, Texas, sister of Mrs. King. Presiding over the refreshment table were the King's grandchildren, Vicki, Robert, Leighann, Elizabeth and Billy.

Do You Remember When?

BY H.L. DUNCAN

On some Sunday afternoons, the grown-up boys of the community gathered at pre-arranged locations for entertainment by riding calves, unbroken mules and bulls. This might have been the beginning of the present day rodeo.

On a certain one of these afternoons, the more aggressive of the boys decided they would get Marvin out to ride with them. Marvin was that type of boy who wanted to make music on the pump organ, fiddle or banjo. However, he left he must prove he could compete with other boys in the group. He accepted their challenge and would show them he could do anything they could do even if he did not have a horse of his own nor did he want one. He was not to know the one-horn steer, the boys had picked for him made it a habit to kick high enough on the sides to catch the spurs on the rider's boots and pull them off, leaving the rider only his hold of the stirringle to stay on his back. After one of the boys loaned Marvin his boots and spurs, they put him aboard the steer and turned him loose. Sure enough the steer promptly removed the kid's boots which left him hanging on for dear life. Marvin was able to turn loose and hit the soft ground as the steer jumped the fence.

Jon Voight and Burt Reynolds had a big job ahead of them filming Warner Bros. "Deliverance."

They had to up-stage the mighty Chattooga River, the white-water rapids tumbling out of the remote mountains of northern Georgia.

When studio location scouts returned after exploring the often treacherous river, they warned producer-director John Boorman that it was almost impossible to make a movie up there on the river, but Boorman, who directed "Point Blank" and "Hell in the Pacific," never flinched. He ordered heavy duty U.S. Navy under-water Demolition Team rafts, outfitted them for cameras and crews, hired some of the best boatmen in the country, trained his stars in shooting rapids, then set out to make "Deliverance."

All crewmembers were outfitted in black rubber wet-suits, knee and elbow pads and extra paddles. There was no way to get to the chosen locations except on the river itself. Getting to the destinations along the overgrown banks is impossible. Large snake populations, cottonmouths, rattlers and copperheads, make land travel even more dangerous than the river, charging its way down 40 or 50 miles of boulder strewn river bed.

The river almost won on points. It dashed Jon Voight's canoe to splinters twice and dumped him into the churning rapids dozens of times. It took Burt Reynolds and his co-stars Ronny Cox and Ned Beatty over numerous medium-sized falls unannounced.

Jagged rocks tore the bottoms out of at least six of the rugged rafts carrying sound-men, cameras and extremely valuable equipment. Many evenings found crewmen and equipment stranded along the riverbank waiting for the pick-up raft which made a sunset sweep of the river, picking up stragglers in time for a late dinner.

A stern warning was posted by the production office for all those who were lost along the riverbank. They were not to wander aimlessly, because the forests can swallow them up in no time. Plus a number of stills, for making moonshine whiskey, abound in the area and the owners of the illegal stills don't take kindly to strangers.

So despite stills, roaring rapids, and any number of other adversities, John Boorman brought Warner's "Deliverance" cast and crew down the river and back to the Burbank lot without a hitch.

"Deliverance," the motion picture version of James Dickey's best-selling novel, was written for the screen by Boorman and Dickey and filmed in Technicolor and Panavision. Late Show Friday. Regular Features Saturday and Sunday at the Majestic.

Texas Agricultural Extension Cash Receipts Down

COLLEGE STATION--The record books will show 1974 as a "not so good" agricultural year in Texas but there were some bright spots, according to current estimates of agricultural cash receipts by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Our estimates show that cash receipts from agriculture will be down about $900 million to $5.6 billion in 1974 compared to the record $6.5 billion in 1973," points out Charles Baker, Extension Service economist.

"The big drop, to nobody's surprise, is in total cash receipts from livestock. Here our estimated cash receipts total about $2.5 billion, down more than $1.1 billion from 1973. The drop in cash receipts from beef accounts for almost all of this decrease."

Cash receipts from poultry and poultry products are estimated down more than $100 million.

Baker's figures show more than $3 billion in total cash receipts from all crops, an increase of more than $200 million over 1973 totals. Feed grains-corn and sorghum-account for most of this increase.

THE MODERN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

A tribute to Drs. A - Alexander and B - Bulgerin for whom I used to work.

You'll have to bleed all over his rug
And he'll say "Oh, you've just got a bug.
Have you had it before?
Well you've got it again
Come back on Tuesday and We'll check it then.

"Did you break your leg?
Do you have an appointment?
I'll tell the nurse and She'll give you some ointment."

Oh doctor, I hurt right here and here
All over more than anywhere else.
I know you are busy, but in five minutes you can't get my pulse

Rx you say? Four times a day?
Will these pills cure my complaint?
Oh, how can I afford to take all of these?
When made of money I ain't?

But Doctor this is me that you're talking to
I want to be sure that you're right
I don't want to cash in just now
So check me with all of your might

You are going out the door?
You already through?
But doctor I just got here
I've been sitting out front, all morning it seems Reading books that were issued last year.

They'll tell you what you've got is going around.
Now it is time, you're time in line to have whatever it is
We had four yesterday with the same malady
That will be five dollars please

But I'll not complain, nor the doctors disdain
They are doing the best that they can
I just hope they know the score when I'm bleeding on the floor
For all we have to make doctors out of is man

But take my advice and try to be nice
When they stick the long needle in your torso
If you raise a big stink, it's not as you think
The next time it may be more

But I know them you see
From "A" unto "B"
That is the extent of my knowledge
I'm depending on them
My chances are slim
I hope that they've both been to college

Retail Grocers Joining Together In Helping

COLLEGE STATION--The food industry has been in the public eye during the past two years, and numerous issues have come to the forefront that directly affect food retailers. So the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the National Association of Retail Grocers of the U.S. are joining together to lend a helping hand.

"The food industry must cope with new legislation as well as voluntary consumer and environmental programs, so a workshop has been planned at Texas A&M University to assist supermarket managers in confronting these changes and the economic problems facing all Americans," announces Dr. Bill Vastine, Extension Service economist in marketing and food distribution.

The workshop is set for January 26 - 30 in the Rudder Conference Center. The program will feature such topics as understanding consumer needs, store layout and design, time management, developing a sanitation program, and financial management considerations.

"Managing a supermarket under today's conditions requires a high degree of professionalism," points out Vastine. "The workshop is being planned for men and women who desire to increase their professional competency."

Speakers for the problem-oriented workshop will include

Dr. Ted Leed, University of Massachusetts; Dr. Bill Stringer and Dr. Clyde Cunningham, University of Missouri; Lewis F. Norwood, Jr., Extension Service, USDA; and Ken Wolf and Vastine, both with the Extension Service at Texas A&M.

The workshop is open to 50 participants. Registration information is available from Frank Register, Executive Director, NAEGUS, Suite 620, 2000 Spring Road, Oak Brook, Illinois 60521 or from Dr. Bill Vastine, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

Search Underway For Texas Rural Hero Of 1974

The search is underway for Texas' rural hero of 1974.

The Rural Heroism Award, sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, is presented annually to some deserving person who has performed an act of exceptional bravery during a time of crisis, according to Ben Bullard, Council vice president and assistant safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau.

All entries must be submitted by Feb. 15, to the Rural Heroism Award Committee, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, P.O. Box 489, Waco, Texas, 76703, according to Bullard.

The heroic act or deed must have occurred in Texas during 1974 and must be related to farming or ranching operations.

Nominations should include a written account of the incident and the names of all persons involved. Newspaper clippings and pictures should also accompany the nomination, if available.

The award will be presented March 2, at the annual meeting of the Texas Safety Association at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel in Houston.

Last year's winner was E.W. McMichael of Hooks in northeast Texas who attempted, in vain, to save the life of the pilot of a crop-dusting airplane which had crashed.

Commandant of Companies

Wm. M. Eastland, Capt. of LaGrange Company.

General Rafael Vasquez unexpectedly invaded San Antonio March 5, 1842. Again on September 11, 1842, General Adrian Woll made a surprise raid on the town, captured many prominent men who were attending District Court, and carried them as prisoners to Mexico.

President Houston, against his better judgment, was forced by public opinion to retaliate by sending an army into Mexico. At least the volunteers thought they were to invade Mexico. The volunteers elected Colonel Edward Burleson as their leader but President Houston would not approve of their choice, and on March 22, 1842, placed Colonel Alexander Somervall in command.

The Somervall expedition, as it was later called, reached the Rio Grande River on October 19, 1842. There for a reason known probably only to President Houston and Colonel Somervall, orders were issued by Acting Adjutant General John Hemphill for the troops to march to Gonzales and there be disbanded.

The men were surprised at such an order and the great majority of them were displeased. About one-half of them, although not in sympathy with the order, obeyed instructions and returned home. Three hundred and four, however, decided to disobey instructions and continued to march into Mexico. Captain Eastland and twenty-six men of his company favored the invasion. (For names and fates of these 26, see Wade's "The Dawson Men of Fayette County" pages 34 and 35).

An army was organized and the "Mier Expedition" began. William S. Fisher, who commanded a company at the Battle of San Jacinto, was elected commander of the expedition, and Eastland was elected captain of one of the companies. A fierce battle was fought at Mier, Mexico, not many miles from the Rio Grande River. On Christmas night, 1842, in which the Texas, though greatly outnumbered, were victorious. The Mexicans were reinforced on the following day and there was nothing left for them (the Texans) to do but surrender.

They were started on a march for prisons in Mexico, and on February 10, 1843, reached the hacienda Salado.

Here on February 11, 1843, they overpowered their guards and escaped to the mountains where eight of them died of starvation and but five made their way back to Texas: T.W. Cox, John Blackburn, William Oldham and Jno. Rufus Alexander, all of Fayette County.

The others were eventually recaptured and returned to Salado where orders were received from Santa Anna to execute every tenth man.

Black and white beans, seventeen of which were black, (A.J. Sowell, says in his book there were one hundred and fifty-nine white beans and seventeen black) were placed in an earthen jar from which each prisoner, blindfolded, was compelled to draw.

It was explained to them that those who drew black beans would be executed, and the others to remain as prisoners. Captain Eastland was the first man and only officer of the expedition to thus receive the death sentence.

On March 25, 1843, the seventeen unfortunates were led into a courtyard blindfolded and shot from the back. All were killed except J.L. Shepherd, who was not dangerously hurt but feigned death and during the night escaped. He was later recaptured and killed. The bodies of the other sixteen were thrown into a single trench and buried.

In 1848 Major Walter P. Lane, on a scouting expedition to San Louis Potosi, made a detour to Salado, had the remains of these gallant men exhumed and brought under escort of Captain John E. Dusenberry, of Harris County, to LaGrange, Texas, where on Sept. 18, 1848, they, with the remains of the thirty-five men who fell in the "Dawson Massacre", Sept. 18, 1842, were placed in a single stone vault on a hill overlooking the Colorado River and city.

Captain Eastland was married to Florence Yellowly who died in 1837. There were no children. Mrs. Arthur P. Smith states that Mrs. Eastland was buried on Mills Creek near Upton, Bastrop County.

"My father has many times pointed out the exact spot where she was buried, and stated that the grave washed away many years ago."

Eastland County, Texas, was named in honor of William Mosby Eastland.

New legislature date fixed Jan. 13, 1874, legislature canvassed returns, declared Coke and Hubbard elected, and on night of Jan. 15 Coke was inaugurated.

Davis however, continued to occupy governor's office—refusing to recognize the inauguration.

On Jan. 17, attorney general of U.S. wired Davis a third refusal of aid. "The President is of the opinion that your right to the office of governor at this time is at least so doubtful that he does not feel warranted in furnishing U.S. troops". Davis relented and Gov. Coke took possession of the office. Radical rule was at an end.

"Today for the first time since she emerged from the ruin and disaster of the great Civil War", said Gov. Coke in his inaugural address. "Texas sees Eastland, county seat of Eastland County, was laid out in 1875, by C.U. Connellee and named in honor of William M. Eastland, lieutenant during the Texas revolution, and captain during the Mexican War. The town was incorporated in 1897.

The settlement grew very slowly and until 1919 population was less than two thousand. During that year came the great oil boom and in a short time there were nearly 10,000 people living there. The 1920 census credits Eastland with a population of 9,368. It has since remained approximately at that figure.

Eastland, besides being an oil center, lies in an agricultural district, and products raised on territory surrounding it are cotton, corn, grain, wheat, oats, barley, peanuts, sweet potatoes and fruit. There also are large deposits of raw material for the manufacture of cement and brick in this territory, and having one of the largest gas fields, it possesses a super abundance of natural gas."

EASTLAND MEMO:

In the name Loggerhead Shrike, Loggerhead means: wood, block - like, or more stupid, and neither description has significance relative to this bird that resembles the Mockingbird. The Shrike part of the name means shriek, and this member of the Shrike family does not shriek. So the name, while ominous, is erroneous, and not appropriate. The Latin name Laniidae for this bird means butcher, which does accurately reveal his nature. The Shrike impales sparrows, mice and insects on thorns, pointed objects and barbed wire before eating them. There was a recent report here in Eastland of a shrike practicing his mayhem while being observed in his butcher trade, and finally eating his prey. During a controlled experiment, it was concluded that the Shrike impaled his food in order to more easily handle it while eating, rather than to save it for a leaner day. Mice and other large prey were hard for the bird to handle if they were not impaled. This conclusion is conjecture.

On close inspection, the Shrike is different from the mocker, being fatter, marked differently, having a different flight pattern, and being a poor singer, although he does a limited amount of mimicking. Male and female have a black mask, a real trade mark you cannot miss. Otherwise they have gray upper bodies with white patches, and white underparts. He has a hooked tipped bill, a big head, and a slim tail, further making this keen hunter different from a mockingbird, or catbird. A Shrike can see food from 75 yards and carries his frame in a dippy doodle flight directly to the spot in short order.

A hawk - like creature, the Shrike's courtship is not flamboyant. The mates build a twiggy nest in bush, or tree to accommodate 4 to 6 spotted eggs. Hatching in about 12 days, the babies are fed insects within hours, and these young birds take off from their nest in the third week, being almost as large as their parents. These partial migrants are in Texas to some degree year round, mostly in open country. There is little book suggestion or urging to attract the Loggerhead Shrike to your yard for either beauty or song, but "butcher bird" or not, the Shrike is a most interesting study into another aspect of Nature's ways.

Tours through the almost - complete Phase One addition of Eastland Memorial Hospital found everything quite satisfactory. The tours were hosted by the hospital staff, each assigned to his or her specific area of work to give each of the visitors a very informative outline of all the hospital facilities. Visitors look at the new intensive care addition. Approximately 400 people visited the hospital. (Photo by Steve Haines.

A person might think that a practical joker is lurking around the new portion of the hospital, but this is not the case. The wall is what is left of one of the old wings of the hospital and will be knocked out as soon as the newly completed emergency and other adjoining facilities can handle patients.
