C. U. CONNELLEE

Chas U. Connellee, affectionately known throughout Central and West Texas as the "father of Eastland," is dead and his body now rests in the Eastland cemetery, which is located on ground once owned by Connellee and years ago given to the city as a burial ground. Fifty-six years ago as a young man just out of college, Charlie Connellee with a few friends, came to Texas from Kentucky, his native state. Connellee located on the site now occupied by the city of Eastland, building his one-room log cabin home on the plot of ground now occupied by the magnificent Hotel Connellee, and laid out and established the town. Later he gave this old home site for the hotel. For more than a half century he was engaged in the upbuilding of his town, county and state, taking much interest in every progressive movement.

It was said by Dr. Geo. W. Shearer, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Eastland, in his address at the funeral Wednesday, that there is scarcely a church site in the city of Eastland the deed to which does not show the signature of C. U. Connellee. He also donated the site on which Eastland county's new courthouse stands.

Some years ago when the Connellee Theatre was being erected in Eastland at the cost of thousands of dollars, Mr. Connellee asked the writer to go with him to inspect the building. Standing on the unfinished floor of the balcony of this building and with tears streaming down either cheek, Mr. Connellee said, "I have been here a long time, I love this town and country; I have many friends here and they have children and grandchildren; and although I am sure I'll never realize a dime profit of this building, I am going to build it for my friends, their children and my children! Senator Joseph W. Bailey, a warm personal friend of Connellee and with whom Connellee was interested in the breeding of fine horses, a number of which were winning champions on both American and European tracks, came to Eastland and delivered the address dedicating the theatre, which, at that time an possibly is yet, the largest and best equipped theatre between Fort Worth and El Paso.

Connellee Park, south of Eastland, was donated for many years by Connellee to the citizens of Eastland for a public playground. He told the writer that he discontinued the practice of allowing the park to be used by the public only because so many disrespected him and damaged his property.

Last summer when the old ex-Texas Rangers held their state meeting in Eastland, Mr. Connellee, although a sick man and unable to get about without help, took a big hand in entertaining these old Indian fighters, who, like Connellee, had fought the Indians back when the line of civilization was moving westward and had reached this section. He took his car and accompanied Stuart N. Lake, representative of the Saturday Evening Post, to old Fort Griffin, some forty or fifty miles northwest of Eastland, in order that Lake might gather there data for a series of articles he was preparing for publication in the Saturday Evening Post.

At the County Democratic convention in Eastland, last summer Mr. Connellee, in his feeble condition, stood on the floor of the convention and delivered an address in which he re-visited the history of the Democratic party of the county, and made the statement that he had attended every democratic convention held in the county since the organization of the county.

On a large ranch Mr. Connellee owns near San Angelo, is a camp for boys and girls, which he has maintained for some years for the benefit of the boys and girls of West Texas.

To Mr. Connellee, as a member of the commission appointed to locate and establish a state sanitarium for tuberculosis sufferers, is due much of the credit for the high type of buildings, equipment, etc. to be found at the Carlisbad Sanitarium.

Charlie Connellee is dead, but in Eastland and all over Texas, his adopted state, are monuments to him that will endure for many years to come.

WHO IS TO BLAME FOR LIVESTOCK ON HIGHWAY?

The Telegram is interested in awakening everyone, in any way responsible for livestock running on the public highways of the county, to the great danger livestock on the roads is to human life. Of course automobiles, trucks, etc. are often wrecked, but these losses cannot be compared with the suffering caused when people, many of whom are innocent children, are cut, torn and bruised, and when in numerous cases human lives are snuffed out.

Mch has been said about people owning livestock keeping them off the highways. But there is another side to the question. Recently a person who has stock in pastures along the highways, called the Telegram's attention to the fact that it very often was not the fault of the owners of the stock that they were on the highways, but the fault of people who, without authority, opened and left open gates, cut wire fences, pulled up fence posts, etc. in order to get in and out of pastures, thus allowing stock to get out and onto the highways.

The Telegram does not know who is responsible for the livestock running at large, but it is a fact that the highways are often lined with such stock and no one would argue that livestock on the highway is not a menace to life, especially in face of the numerous cases in this immediate section where lives have been lost on that account.

OUT OUR WAY

By The Political Analyst One of the sights of the state capitol is when a group of state rangers forms suddenly and silently on the north steps, each in boots and tall hat. . . . This is a moment of tensest among the men who wonder what has taken before they march with determined tread over to the lunch stand and order three cups of coffee.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON — Senator J. Boonboom McWhorter foresees the day when Al Capone may come to Washington and organize the political racket. He has not definitely committed himself in favor of the idea, but believes it has great possibilities.

The situation here is as chaotic as ever was the beer racket in Chicago, before Capone took charge, the senator points out, and that the country needs more than anything else is a firm guiding hand. The legislative system is going to be all jumbled up and beyond control of the administration and pressing national problems appear to be pressing harder than ever before.

"Mr. Capone's record as a big business man fitted to cope with the most difficult situations is quite impressive," says McWhorter. "He has taken over control of a great city and has demonstrated his abilities in handling the 'prohibition' problem which everyone else thought was insoluble. Lately he has been applying himself to unemployment relief.

"During Mr. Capone's brilliant career he has demonstrated time and again that he is bigger than the federal, state, county and municipal governments.

Solves Prohibition Problem — "When Mr. Capone, burning with the spirit of public service, decided to solve the prohibition problem for Chicago he faced a herculean task. He had no report from the Wickersham committee to guide him. Too many persons were committing wholesale violations of the prohibition laws. Mr. Capone wasn't worrying about the retail violations, but careful study had convinced him that the wholesale violations ought to be carried out under a central authority.

BARBS

The old-timers who said the world was flat may not have been so much in error at that. Who knows but what there was a depression in those times, too?

If you don't think it takes a lot of pluck to prepare a Thanksgiving dinner, try feathering a turkey a few days hence.

Some fellows who planned to bag big game this season may find they are occupied keeping the wolf away from the door.

A halfback, says the office sage, is always sure to get a rise out of the stands in the long run.

Something should be said in favor of the son of the former Crown Prince of Germany who is in this country looking for a job. He might have come here on a lecture tour. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

tricted, Texas will elect three congressmen-at-large, and it would be simply handing Mr. Ferguson the $10,000 job.

"For congress or the United States senate, Mr. Ferguson could have his name on the ballot, since these are federal offices, the pay coming from the federal treasury."

"So he began one of the most spectacular programs of big business mergers which our age has seen. 'Merge or submerge!' demanded Mr. Capone and that was the way it worked out. Today no city in the world boasts such a well organized, systematized prohibition racket as Chicago. Mr. Capone not only demonstrated his capacity to settle the prohibition problem but also showed himself an outstanding expert on mergers, which is another one of our great issues.

"Lately Mr. Capone has been telling the California fruit industry to keep its grape vine concentrates out of Chicago and that probably will get away with that. Mr. Capone believes in protection for home industries.

Aids Unemployed — "Of course, there have been some killings in the course of Mr. Capone's solution of Chicago's prohibition problem, but the nature of the attendant circumstances and the status of the victims have been such as to cause relatively small protest. On the other hand, the government's prohibition men have frequently aroused adverse criticism by their killings.

"Now Mr. Capone has tackled unemployment and reports from Chicago indicate that he has done more to alleviate distress than any other person or group. Mr. Capone's restaurant serves bigger and better meals than any soup line in the country. "Please understand that I am not encouraging any attempt to nominate Mr. Capone as the candidate of a third party in 1932. Mr. Capone has accomplished more as a private citizen than most public officials have achieved and I understand that he is a modest, retiring individual to whom the limelight is distasteful."

This is the season for fly-by-night organizations with high-sounding names to be formed to agitate for or against legislation. . . . and usually in the interest merely of creating a salaried job as executive secretary or legislative chairman for someone who organizes the outfit and collects the money from business which wants either to secure legislation or to be let alone by the legislature.

"Don't turn Christmas into a time of tragedy. This is the gist of a message of caution by State Fire Insurance Commr. J. W. DeVese. He pointed out that with firecrackers and lighted trees, Christmas is a time of unusual hazard for fire and explosions. . . . For the sake of keeping fingers whole, and eyes open, of saving lives, as well as avoiding the useless waste of property in fires, Mr. DeVese pleads for exceptional caution against fires during the holiday season.

Whether Texas is too old-fashioned like it or not, birth-control is a subject that is cropping into public and semi-official discussion in the state and from an official direction.

It is said here that Dr. C. M. Rosser, widely known physician, a member of the state board of health discussed the subject in an open manner.

Mr. John D. Claybrook, secretary of public health education of the state, is going to speak before a women's meeting in Corpus Christi Her subject is "race betterment, and while this is a rather broad and unscientific subject, it is a reminder that the job was never finished.

Markets

Final Stocks NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Another stream of persistent selling broke the stock market 1 to 4 points today in dull turnover.

Losses were heavy in the railroad division despite recommendations for aid of the carriers by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mercantile shares broke on November sales declines. Squabbles in congress added to the uncertainty and brought out considerable unloading in the afternoon.

Steel shares reacted all along the line. The group was sold on fears of government interference in almost unanimous price advance. Various senators took up a resolution in congress added to the uncertainty and brought out considerable unloading in the afternoon.

Utilities were down 1 to nearly 4 points with American Telephone the heaviest loser. Oils held fairly well as did Copper. Leading industrials were down.

see, it happens that I saw you, Miss Beale and another young man come into the Stuart House dining room about half-past one today, just when I was thinking of lunch for myself. "The mysterious 'other young man' was Clive's brother, Ralph Hammond," Polly Beale cut in brusquely. "Your decision to lunch with your fiancée and his brother was quite a sudden one!" Dundee asked courteously. "Just when did you change your mind about Mrs. Selim's luncheon party at Breakaway Inn, Miss Beale?" The tall girl threw up her manfully cropped chestnut head. "There is nothing at all sinister or even queer about it, Mr. Dundee! I was on my way to the luncheon, when I decided to drive past Nita's house, on the chance that she might like me to drive her over."

"I see," Dundee agreed. "And you sent your brother, Mr. Hammond?" "He was the natural one to send," Clive Hammond retorted. "Small job. All he had to do was to get together an estimate on additional furnace lines and radiators, electric wiring, plumbing, plastering, etc." "Go on, Miss Beale," Dundee directed.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

leave things like this. . . . Mr. Drake, you have said you walked over from the Country Club. You must have approached the house from the driveway side, the side of the house which contains Mrs. Selim's bedroom. . . . Is that right? "More or less, except that I skirted the house rather widely and arrived from the road, stepping upon the front porch, and walking directly into the hall. I saw no one outside or near the house when I arrived," Drake answered, with less than his usual nastiness. "And saw no one running away across the meadows?" Dundee pressed.

"No one at all," Drake retorted. "I wish to God I could truthfully say that I saw a gunman, with a mask and an smoking revolver, skulking through the wildflowers, but the absolute truth is that I saw no one." "Thank you, Mr. Drake. . . . Now—Mr. Sprague, of New York Sprague's nervously twitching face reddened darkly. "I—I took a bus. I have no car of my own. I got off the bus on Sheridan road, at the entrance to Primerose Meadows."

"I see. And you walked the quarter of a mile to this house?" Sprague's hand fumbled with his cravat. "—of course I did!" "I see. . . . Now, Miss Raymond," Dundee pounced unexpectedly, so that the red-haired girl went very white beneath her freckles, "you observed Mr. Sprague toiling down the rutty road, hot and weary, but romantic in the sunset?" Mrs. Drake let out a nervous giggle, then clapped her hand over her mouth.

"I—I wasn't looking that way," Janet Raymond stammered. "I—I just went out on the porch for a breath of fresh air."

"And you were COMPLETELY surprised when Mr. Sprague came walking up the flagstone path?" Dundee persisted, for he knew she was lying, knew that she had stationed herself there to watch for Sprague.

"—yes, I was! He stopped and talked for awhile before we came in and joined Tracey and Lois in the dining room, where Tracey was mixing cocktails. . . . But," she flared suddenly, "I don't see why you have to badger all of us, when it MUST have been Lydia, the maid, who killed Nita, because—" "Oh, Janet! Shame on you!" Penny cried furiously. ### GAS WELL IS CAUSING INTEREST

It has been learned here that the Lone Star Gas company has brought in a very substantial gas well in the center of section 12, block 3, T. & P. railway survey in Palo Pinto county, on the H. Belding ranch. According to the information here, the well has a terrific pressure of approximately 1,350 pounds and is producing from the Ranger pay. This is an extension of three miles or more northeast of the Hart area near Brad.

The Lone Star has spent a large amount in that section this year, building compressor stations, preparatory to a market and has obtained numerous leases. This is the Lone Star's second well drilled this year, the new well being north and east of the first well and this is regarded as demonstrating that the structure from which big production can be expected lies northwest from the first well. Much interest among operators is centered on the location of Hart Bros., et al., in this southeast corner of section 3, same block and survey, on the Seaman ranch. Operators consider that the Hart well is now proved to be higher on this structure than either of the Lone Star wells and large production of oil or gas, or both, can be expected. Of late, much interest is being shown in gas, there being an inclination of oil operators to secure gas properties. A large gas area is now thoroughly established in western Palo Pinto county and a mild scramble for acreage around

Public Building Work Is Ordered In a New Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Additional funds to speed up public building construction as an aid to unemployment are provided in the first appropriation bill laid before the house today, the billion-dollar measure to care for post office and treasury departments for the next fiscal year. The appropriation committee provided an increase from $48,000,000 to $60,000,000 for public building work for next year. This amount, with a balance on Nov. 1 of $77,558,379 in existing appropriations makes a total of $132,558,379 available in the 20 months between now and June 30, 1932. The committee announced that if the program moves forward at a more rapid rate, additional funds will be asked at the next regular session to supplement these. To date, 535 projects totaling $368,000,000 have been authorized, with appropriations of $149,500,000. The bill which the house began to consider today carries appropriations of $1,083,553,943 of which $841,803,917 is for the post office department and $241,750,026 is for the treasury. The total is $86,906,095 below appropriations for last year and $20,726,410 below recommendations of the budget bureau, indicating that congress will attempt to practice rigid economy this year.

Judge Praises Man As He Is Given Sentence

FORT WORTH, Dec. 4.—Although he has a wonderful reputation according to the judge, J. B. Davis, Fort Worth oil promoter, was given two years in the penitentiary today by federal judge James C. Wilson for using the mails to defraud. Judge Wilson also sentenced Davis to five years in five other counts in the indictment, but put him on probation for that period. Immediately afterwards, Davis made a supersedeas bond of $5,000 pending his appeal to the U. S. circuit court. In passing the sentence, Judge Wilson told Davis that he had a wonderful reputation but that something had to be done about the mail fraud situation in Fort Worth. Davis was convicted by a jury Monday for his promotions in connection with Bell county lease. The government claimed he promoted $49,000 on the lease.

Little Progress Made In Alsup Case At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 4.—Trial of John Alsup, former Fort Worth policeman, on charges of murdering George Terrell, negro, during a "framed" robbery of the Polytechnic state bank proceeded slowly here today with the state witnesses on the stand. A. P. Boyd, Fort Worth barber, was on the stand for two hours. He swore that he, John Alsup and Earl Wilson former street car motorman, framed in order to obtain two of the $5000 rewards offered by the Texas Banker's association for dead bank handouts. Wilson and Will Zent, former San Angelo police chief, also testified.

death in a fire that destroyed the Famous Dry Goods store here during the night. Today she was resting in a Smithville hospital. Doctors said her condition was critical. A railroad employe, Bob Mayes, heard her cries for help and rescued her from the flames. The woman had attempted to put out a blaze which started in the rear of the building. Damage to the store was estimated at $29,000.

Re-Hearing Of Goodwin Case Will Be Asked

TEXARKANA, Tex., Dec. 4.—Dave Goodwin, Bowie county slayer under death sentence, should be given a new trial even though a change of venue was not asked at his trial at New Boston last March on charges of killing Lloyd Elliot, said H. H. Taylor, one of Goodwin's attorneys, here today. Taylor is preparing to ask the court of criminal appeals for a re-hearing of Goodwin's appeal. The venue was sought at the original trial. Taylor cites from the record of Pearl Sorrel case from Cherokee county as described by the southwestern reporter. In reversing and remanding the case, the appeals court commented as follows: "Constitutional Article No. 1 guaranteeing accused a speedy public and an impartial jury means that the trial judge shall not put accused on trial in a county unless the circumstances and conditions of public sentiment are such that the judge feels able to give an absolute assurance that neither by accident nor design will any sentiment against the accused creep into the jury box except such as is alone raised by the testimony introduced at the trial." Taylor also says that an opinion of Judge P. J. Hurt in reversing the death sentence of Sam Massey, Cherokee county, bears out the contention.

Franklin Tells Sermon Why He Is A Christian

Wednesday evening at 7:30, at the Christian Church Dr. Franklin delivered a very interesting sermon on this subject, he said tomorrow night would be a sermon on this one. (How it could be).

There are three groups of people we are considering; first those who believe in Christianity; the atheist or pagans; the non-professors.

Christianity meets the demands for immortality and happiness. We like to think of the great beyond giving the best of us, to know each other and to be happy. Natural soul of immortality. Personal immortality. A life lived in companionship. The greatest ethics the world has ever known. Christianity furnishes a code of behavior such as no human or any other religion can devise. The beauty as portrayed in the Lord's supper and in baptism has never been surpassed by the cunning devise of man's paintings.

Christianity is satisfying. Buddhism and great many other religions of the world are not satisfying because people are continually turning from them unsatisfied. But very few ever give up faith in God because they are not satisfied. Theologians and philosophers of all ages have tried in vain to find satisfaction outside of Christ.

Christianity is reasonable. There is one way it may appear unreasonable, that is when in reason from man's viewpoint. How can we accept it as unreasonable, when so many of the greatest minds of all ages have believed in Christ and found by experience that it is the most reasonable code of ethics in the world.

Christianity meets the human needs. It beautifies life and character such as nothing else in the world will.

Paul could not have painted a more beautiful picture than this: "I have fought a good fight, I've kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of life," meets the human emotion, move one to love, (the core of it all) even his enemies, the sublimest emotion of all ages, of all peoples, of all religions. It also meets the human intellectual needs, just as some great mind has said after having written twenty-five books on the word of God, that he had just begun so it furnishes all the work for the most intellectual mind of the age. It meets the physical need too; forbidding the abuse of the body, such as some may do lashing the body or sleeping on sharp nails to bring the body in Bandit Suspect Is Not Identified By Bank Cashier. PALESTINE, Dec. 3—W. M. Brock, cashier of the Neches State Bank, last night failed to identify Lawrence Durham as one of the three men who robbed the bank of $2,615 two months ago. Several days ago Brock identified Durham but on viewing him the second time before the grand jury last night he failed to do so. Durham was arrested in Lufkin last month and held in Crockett until yesterday.

Fashion Sets About Turning Black Into White

By FRANCES PAGET Copyright, 1930, by Style Sources NEW YORK, Dec. 4—As the preference for black has been predominant this season, with black costumes, black fur trimmings, black accessories all sharing largely in fashionable favor, all white is expected to have revived interest for the tropical season. It is not only that the advance fabric plans emphasize white, variously, according to texture accenting pure white, cream white or oyster white, but that in the costume accoutrements such as millinery, footwear, gloves, etc., there is much early sun seasoned skins has been carried on till it no longer savors of novelty and it quite generally agreed that after all nothing is more flattering than white to the dusky tone of sunburn. There is early gossip of more of the white millinery fashion which was taken up last season. There is indication in both the men's and women's styles all white will be promoted in footwear, white gloves are accepted as the resort fashion. What bearing the newly reported Paris vogue for cream with black and cream as a substitute for "dead white" will have on resort fashions is at the moment difficult to state, but the consensus of opinion is that it will not have any material effect.

Wealthy Publisher Suffocates During Apartment Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Courtland H. Young, wealthy magazine publisher, better known for his widely discussed divorce from Dorothy Campbell, beautiful showgirl, was suffocated today by smoke from a fire in his apartment.

The fire apparently started from a cigarette in the living room before Young retired and spread to the bedroom where the body was lying beside the bed. Young obtained a divorce from Miss Campbell, whom he married in 1920 when she was 16 and in the chorus of the Ziegfeld Follies. They had two children.

The publisher accused his wife of infidelity, of being a "jazz maniac," too fond of night clubs and a "high fast life," which kept her out too many nights. In her counter suit Mrs. Young asserted his mental cruelty was "unbearable," that he often came home "drunk" and that he failed to surround her with "protection."

Mexico To Crown New Kind of Champ

JUAREZ, Mex., Dec. 3—Juarez has decided to find a champion, after the American fashion. Hugo Bonogudi, saloon owner, thinks its time to find the best waiter and reward him—with a title and 100 pesos (about $50).

The contest will be one of endurance, speed and skill. All entrants will line up at a starting point with a glass of whiskey, a water chaser, a glass of beer and a bottle of beer balanced on a tray. The point, and Bonogudi really believes this contest has one, is to race through a charred course of 15 blocks arriving with the drinks intact.

Walters from 150 saloons will be allowed to enter. The event is set for Dec. 13. Bonogudi will handle the movie contracts for the winner.

McCANEY, Dec. 4—F. O. Senter, well known West Texas peace officer, has been named chief of police here.

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

VERY often cheap cuts of meat require so much fuel to cook them that no real saving is effected; the money saved on the meat must be spent for gas.

Chopped meat cleverly handled may be cooked quite as quickly as the more expensive steaks and chops. Beef, veal, lamb and pork can be chopped and used in many appetizing ways.

Chopped veal is made into small flat cakes, each cake bound by a strip of bacon to make veal patties. These can be braised over the fire or baked in a hot oven. Either method takes from 30 to 45 minutes to cook the meat.

Lamb or beef can be made into these same patties and cooked the same way, or broiled. Broiling requires even less time than the other methods.

Chopped meat can be combined with cracker or bread crumbs to make excellent meat loaves. Careful seasoning makes these loaves savory, and the crumbs act as a meat extender. Forty-five minutes to an hour will be needed to bake a loaf.

Potatoes Not Needed Chopped meat can be combined with a cereal to make nourishing dishes. Rice or macaroni can be used in a number of ways with chopped meat and vegetables or with chopped meat alone. Potatoes need not be included in the menu when a combination of this sort is served.

Tamale pie is an adaptation of the popular "hot tamale" of the southwest. Beef, veal or pork can be used in place of the chicken usually found in the real tamale.

Tamale Pie One pound lean meat, 2 1/2 cups meat stock, 1 1/2 cups tomato puree, 1 onion, 3-4 teaspoon chili powder, 1 cup canned pimientos, 1 cup cornmeal, 2 teaspoons salt. Put one tablespoon fat trimmed from meat in a frying pan and try out fat. Cut meat in two-inch squares and brown half of it in the fat. Put browned meat and uncooked meat in a kettle and add two and one-half cups boiling water. Simmer half an hour. Remove meat from stock and put through food chopper. Add enough boiling water to stock to make two and one-half cups. Put meat, stock, tomato puree, chopped onion and seasoning in a large kettle and bring to the boiling point. Stir in cornmeal which has been stirred to a smooth paste with cold water. Cook, stirring constantly for 20 minutes. Add pimientos cut in shreds. Turn into a well-buttered baking dish, cover with buttered paper and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve from baking dish.

Daily Menu BREAKFAST—Canned pineapple, cereal cooked with figs, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Casserole of vegetables, tomato jelly salad, whole wheat rolls, molasses pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Tamale pie, cauliflower in easy Hollandaise sauce, endive, French dressing, apple snow, milk, coffee.
