LIVESTOCK ON THE HIGHWAY

Livestock running at large in this county in violation of the law has caused the death of another human being. A Mexican laborer, returning home from work received injuries from which he died when the truck on which he was riding went into a ditch after striking a mule.

The law prohibiting livestock to run at large in this county is just as much a law as the law against theft, making or transporting intoxicating liquor, etc., and it seems to the Telegram that there should be a greater effort made to enforce it.

LETS USE THE COURTHOUSE FLOODLIGHTS

The Telegram suggests, if it is practical, that the color of the floodlights on the county courthouse be changed to some color other than white for the Christmas holidays.

"See Texas first; know what Texas manufactures; buy Texas products."

When the all-state council of the three regional chambers of commerce meets in Austin again this winter, it will have carefully-wrought plans for carrying into effect each of the three phases of its triple-pointed slogan.

This council meets at the only spot in Texas in which the areas of the three regional bodies overlap—the capital city.

Mrs. Helen Moore, legislator, is working 14 hours a day in the depressing and trying job of personally inspecting the insane asylums of Texas.

A newspaper correspondent states that the following notice has been posted 'round about an electric station in the north:

"Beware: To touch these wires is instant death. Anyone found doing so will be prosecuted."

Let's Make It a Real Thanksgiving!

Her report to the legislature will call for broad, generous and fair action, involving the expenditure of considerable money, to properly and adequately take care of the state's wards.

With so much constructive work to be done, and its attention so concentrated upon that work, the state board of education has not brushed into the future controversial issues of its control, possibly almost supreme, over the higher educational institutions of the state.

He received the news of his repulse sturdily, almost prudently. Practical his first words were in criticism of the man who had just snatched him away from death.

"Why did he wait so long," he complained. "Why didn't he do it sooner. So he just gave me a stay, huh? Not if I can't do something else." He was talking of Governor Moody.

Warden W. W. Wall stopped in front of the killer and said, "Jess, I've got your suit of dark blue and the left trouser leg had been split to the knee so that one of the electrodes could be fastened against his skin."

Lets all get together in everything we do, run the words of a song the Eastland Rotarians sing often at their weekly luncheon. The suggestion is not a bad one for the citizens of Eastland as a whole.

Storms, Floods Sweeping Over Several States

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—Flood conditions were threatened today in the southeastern states as rain which began to fall more than a week ago continued unabated. More than 10 inches of rain had fallen in Tallahassee, Fla., in 29 hours to last night, and there was no sign of letup. Streets in Tallahassee were flooded and country roads nearby rendered impassable.

Rivers were rising rapidly in Alabama, South Carolina and Georgia, and citizens in the river valleys were growing anxious today. Windstorms accompanied the rain in Alabama and Georgia, destroying houses in Mobile and Alton, Ala., and damaging many others. Three negroes were injured at Dawson, Ga., when their house collapsed.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 18.—The death toll in the tornado that swept through the delta section of Louisiana and Mississippi Saturday night stood at seven today. Four of the dead were negroes, killed in the collapse of their shacks.

Nearly 500 others were homeless and scores were being treated in hospitals and at emergency aid stations at outlying points in both states. Loss in livestock and other property may reach $500,000, it was estimated.

DENVER, Nov. 18.—Snow covered many sections of the Rocky Mountain region today and freezing or sub-freezing temperatures were general throughout the area.

Beginning with heavy rains, the precipitation turned to sleet and then in snow in parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. Traffic was crippled in many sections.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—While awaiting a storm which the weather bureau predicted might sweep in from Canada before the end of the week, Chicagoans enjoyed today weather that was almost spring like.

Reports from the north were that a severe sleet and snow storm centered in the Red river valley of Canada and that traffic was badly crippled.

The weather bureau predicted the Canadian storm might extend into the midwestern United States the later part of this week, but said warm weather probably would continue at least until after Wednesday.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 18.—One man was missing today while several were recovering from injuries and exposure as the result of Utah's first major storm of the winter season.

Last seen walking down a road into a heavy snowstorm four days ago, Allan Larson, 25, Fairview, was believed to have been a victim of the storm.

A search for Larson was in progress today. After a search the disabled National Park Airways, Inc., plane, forced down Sunday, was found between Syracuse and Layton late yesterday.

Primary highways were reported open and railroads running on schedule.

MEDFORD, Ore., Nov. 18.—After battling his way through a raging blizzard which laid 44 inches of snow on the mountains in 24 hours, Chief Forest Ranger William C. Godfrey, was rescued last night—just too late. He died in the arms of his rescuers.

Windstorms accompanied the rain in Alabama and Georgia, destroying houses in Mobile and Alton, Ala., and damaging many others. Three negroes were injured at Dawson, Ga., when their house collapsed.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 18.—The death toll in the tornado that swept through the delta section of Louisiana and Mississippi Saturday night stood at seven today. Four of the dead were negroes, killed in the collapse of their shacks.

DENVER, Nov. 18.—Snow covered many sections of the Rocky Mountain region today and freezing or sub-freezing temperatures were general throughout the area.

Here are two statements, both for and against the conference, and both made on the same day.

Useful Service Doctor J. A. Kamphorne Bishop of Lichfield, addressing the Diocesan conference at Stafford, declared that the Lambeth conference had rendered useful service by making it clear that the prohibition religion was not one of mere prohibitions and taboos.

"We say," he continued, "that sex relationship is something beautiful and sacred. We want to rescue it from the cesspool of thought and conversation into which some of our modern writers have degraded it and reaffirm that the home is at the center of human well-being and that the foundation of the home is our Lord's principle and standard of marriage—that is, a life-long and indissoluble union 'for better or worse' of one man with one woman and the exclusion of all other on either side."

The Bishop said that the conference's resolutions stressed the need of self-control and unselfishness in married and unmarried alike.

Glory of Home Sex teaching and its influence on the young was discussed on the same day at a convention of the National Sunday School Union at Gloucester.

"I do not consider that overmuch sex teaching is good," declared C. S. Waterhouse, addressing the convention. "There is a danger of familiarity breeding flippancy. It is inadvisable that sex instruction be given indiscriminately."

The Rev. A. D. Belden, speaking on the moral and religious ideals of adolescence, said that love-making films were bad for the adolescent as destroying their innocence and prematurely arousing their passions.

"Calf-love," he said, "is nothing to be feared. It is almost always intensely pure and clean, and non-physical."

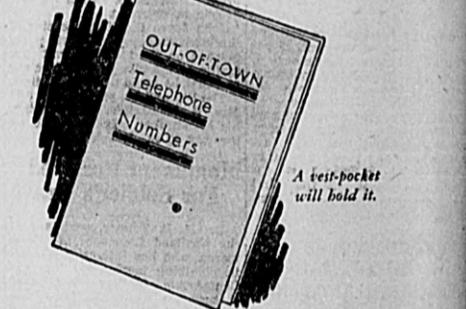

Ex-Candidate For Land Commissioner Commits Suicide AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 18.—The body of Jockie W. Burks, recent candidate for State Land Commissioner, was found late Monday afternoon at the east stairway of the state capitol. An empty bottle labelled carbolic acid was near. Jockie was hurried to a local hospital where he died last night. He had been a resident of Austin many years. He formerly was head of a division in the state comptroller's office but resigned to make an unsuccessful race for land commissioner.

British Still Arguing Over Birth Control

LONDON—When the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops announced the results of its discussions, particularly its lenient attitude towards birth control, it started a controversy which has raged ever since.

Hardly a day passes but some prominent churchman will praise, or denounce or explain the decisions.

How would you like to pick up your telephone and, almost as quickly as on a local call, get in touch with friends, relatives, business associates, a hundred . . . two hundred . . . miles away?

Would you like to know you could do this, not only in emergencies, but on ordinary social and business calls? . . . You can do it, in practically every case.*

It's easy. All you have to do is give the number of the out-of-town telephone you are calling. Knowing the number saves the operator the time of looking it up in the directory, and enables her in most cases to ring the telephone almost as quickly as if it were in your own town.

CHAPTER LVIII

Only Evelyn Parsons' nervous hands betrayed her. She clutched at her handkerchief but not a muscle of her face moved nor did the pitch of her voice change as she faced Mitchell and replied: "I didn't say it! Of course it's not true!"

"But Mrs. Parsons," Barney Shields cut in, "we were right here in this room. The night I came to dinner and Celia was away. Why— you must remember. You told me she was going to marry Jordan. You were sitting in that very chair and I was here."

"You certainly must have misunderstood me. I couldn't possibly have said such a thing."

John Mitchell interrupted. "I'd like to hear more about this," he said. "Suppose you tell me the whole story."

For the first time Evelyn Parsons looked startled. She flung her hand back. "But John—dear me! I tell you it's not true. Why I didn't even mention Jordan's name!"

The man and woman eyed each other. For the moment Shields was forgotten.

"There are several things I am in doubt," Mitchell said slowly. "So you didn't even mention Jordan's name! Shields must have misunderstood! Why didn't you tell me he'd been here to dinner? You assured me last night you'd never seen this young man."

He turned toward Barney. "When did you first meet Mrs. Parsons?"

"It was the day after I broke my arm. I came here to see Celia."

"And when was that?"

Like sparks from flint Evelyn's eyes flashed dangerously. "They're all lies!" she screamed before the youth could answer. "Lies! I won't be talked to this way!" She grabbed up a tiny green glass figurine and sent it smashing across the room. Then pointing at Barney she cried, "Make him get out of my home! Make him go!"

"Not until I've heard the last of this!" Mitchell insisted.

Furor completely overcame Evelyn's judgment. Tears of anger blinded her. The chair beside her crashed against the floor.

"Will you get out of here!" she screamed, stamping one foot and glaring at Shields. "WILL YOU?"

The young man drew back, horrified. He glanced toward Mitchell.

"We'll both go!" Mitchell said. "Come!"

The two men started toward the door. They had reached it before Evelyn Parsons had sufficient control of herself to realize what was happening. She gasped and sprang after them.

"John!" she moaned, "don't leave me! John, I beg of you—"

Her words were lost as John Mitchell pulled the door to behind him. He drew out a handkerchief, wiping his brow as they walked down the corridor. Neither of them spoke until they were in the downstairs entrance. Then the older man said:

"I want to talk to you, Shields. Come down to my home, will you?"

"I ought to drop in at the Apex office for a few minutes. After that I'll be glad to come. I haven't been working since my arm was broken up but I promised to see Wagner this morning."

"Suppose we stop on the way? That all right?"

Shields agreed. When they were stilled in Mitchell's car the lawyer leaned back and shaded his eyes with one hand. Barney respected a companion's silence and did not speak. He was surprised when Mitchell stepped out of the car before the Apex office.

"Don't mind if I come along with you, do you?" Mitchell asked.

"Not at all."

They entered the suite of rooms occupied by the photographic service and after a wait were admitted to the general manager's office. Mr. Wagner rose and shook hands cordially when Barney introduced Mitchell. Then for several moments the young man and superior discussed a photographic assignment.

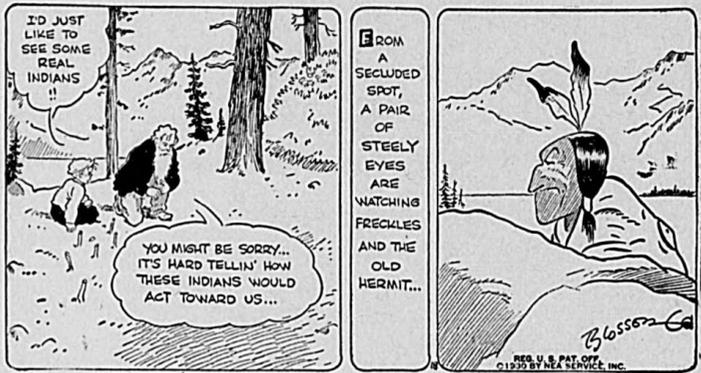

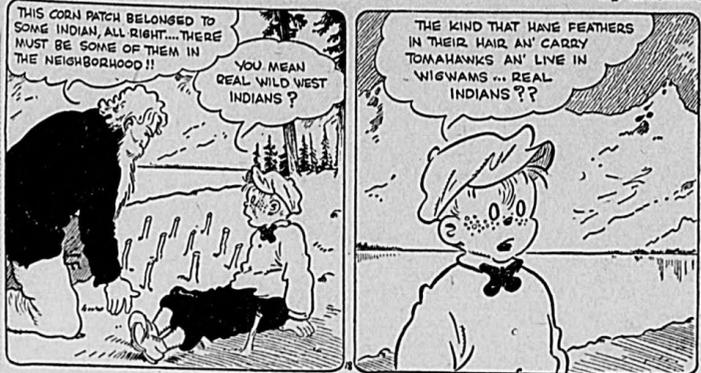

"How's the arm coming along?" Wagner asked after they had reached a decision.

"O. K. Doc says he'll take the lint off Saturday. I'll be on the Monday all right. Say—do you know Tracy's around?"

"I saw him half an hour ago," Shields turned apologetically toward Mitchell. "I hope you don't mind waiting just a minute longer."

Mr. Mitchell? I've finished."

Mitchell shook hands with Wagner. "I want to thank you," he said. "I'll remember what you've told me."

"Glad to have seen you. Hope you'll drop in again!"

As they stepped into the elevator Mitchell remarked to Shields: "I suppose I've never really appreciated the opportunities in this business of yours."

"Few people do. They see pictures in the newspapers and never bother to think how they got there. Wagner can tell you I know picturing the news is getting to be a bigger thing all the time."

When they reached the car Mitchell told the driver to take them to the Gramercy Square house. On the way he asked Barney about his acquaintance with Mrs. Parsons.

The young man flushed. "I didn't mean to start a row like that!" he said. "What was it all about? Say—that woman's a terror!"

"I can tell you about that later," Mitchell said quietly, "but I do want to know when you and Mrs. Parsons first met. It may have considerable bearing on the problem of locating Celia."

"Really? Well—the first time I ever saw her was the day after I broke my arm. Celia telephoned and asked me to come around. When I got to the apartment Mrs. Parsons was there and after we'd talked a while she drove me to the doctor's in her car."

"Do you remember the date?"

"Oh, I'm not much good at remembering dates but I know it was the day before Celia and I met you in the park."

"You say the day before?"

Barney nodded. "Yes, and it was a couple days later that I telephoned Celia and Mrs. Parsons told me she was out of town. She said she was lonely and asked me to come to dinner. Say—the way she looked that night. I never dreamed she could raise the roof as she did this morning! That was the time she told me Celia was engaged to marry Jordan. It sort of got me even though I didn't know anything about Jordan."

"Celia telephoned next day and—well, you see I thought everything was over and it would be better if we didn't see each other. We had an argument and when we happened to meet in the hotel that afternoon we argued again. If Celia isn't going to marry Jordan what did Mrs. Parsons want to tell me she was for?"

Mitchell had been listening closely. "I wish I knew, my boy," he said.

A sudden stop made Mitchell look outside. They had reached the house. Mitchell led the way to the library. He closed the door behind them and said: "Now then let's go over this whole thing!"

He sat down at his desk, eyeing the young man. "Look here," he demanded, "have you had anything to eat this morning?"

"I really didn't think about it but I'm not hungry—" Barney began.

Mitchell rang a bell. The butler

The two men started toward the door. They had reached it before Evelyn Parsons had sufficient control of herself to realize what was happening. She gasped and sprang after them.

"John!" she moaned, "don't leave me! John, I beg of you—"

Her words were lost as John Mitchell pulled the door to behind him. He drew out a handkerchief, wiping his brow as they walked down the corridor. Neither of them spoke until they were in the downstairs entrance. Then the older man said:

"I want to talk to you, Shields. Come down to my home, will you?"

"I ought to drop in at the Apex office for a few minutes. After that I'll be glad to come. I haven't been working since my arm was broken up but I promised to see Wagner this morning."

"Suppose we stop on the way? That all right?"

Shields agreed. When they were stilled in Mitchell's car the lawyer leaned back and shaded his eyes with one hand. Barney respected a companion's silence and did not speak. He was surprised when Mitchell stepped out of the car before the Apex office.

"Don't mind if I come along with you, do you?" Mitchell asked.

"Not at all."

They entered the suite of rooms occupied by the photographic service and after a wait were admitted to the general manager's office. Mr. Wagner rose and shook hands cordially when Barney introduced Mitchell. Then for several moments the young man and superior discussed a photographic assignment.

"How's the arm coming along?" Wagner asked after they had reached a decision.

"O. K. Doc says he'll take the lint off Saturday. I'll be on the Monday all right. Say—do you know Tracy's around?"

"I saw him half an hour ago," Shields turned apologetically toward Mitchell. "I hope you don't mind waiting just a minute longer."

Only wealthy people can afford cheap oil, says lubrication expert

One kind of oil is as good as another in the car here. It's actual service that makes the difference.

Cheap oil is never worth the price it pays. For it leads you into thinking you are getting proper lubrication for your sewing machine, lawn mower, washer, electric fan, vacuum cleaner and other sensitive equipment—when you are not.

You want to get the best possible service from your household equipment. 3-in-One is the oil to use. This recognized leader is a scientific blend of high grade anti-rust, mineral and vegetable oils. It contains properties not possessed by ordinary oil. It cleans, protects as well as lubricates. Don't take a chance. Insist on the reliable 3-in-One. At good stores everywhere, in 15¢ and 50¢ cans. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" and insist on every package.

"Bring a tray with coffee and toast and eggs," Mitchell ordered, "as soon as you can have it ready."

"Yes, sir. I'll bring it at once." The butler departed.

At four o'clock the following afternoon slanting rays of sunshine were making patterns of light and shadow on the lawn surrounding Lisi Duncan's Long Island home. No one was playing tennis but a girl in a brief, blue frock sat on a bench at the side of the court.

The girl did not move. She sat with one foot tucked under her, both hands clasped on one knee.

From the distance came a low whistle. The girl jumped up and hurried to meet the young man approaching from the house.

"I didn't expect you so soon, Tod," she said.

Jordan slipped an arm around her. "Thought you might like a little drive. How about it?"

The girl nodded. "I would."

They turned and walked to the drive at the side of the house. Jordan's black roadster was parked there. The girl was stepping into the car when she paused.

"I ought to tell Lisi," she began but Jordan stopped her.

"No need. We'll be back in no time."

The girl sat down. Jordan took the wheel and they left the drive for the main highway. The car's speed increased.

Suddenly Jordan spoke: "This time, Celia," he said, "you're going to marry me whether you want to or not!"

"The Public Appreciates"

Says
EMIL E. FUCHS
President Boston National League Baseball Club
Former Deputy Attorney General of the State of New York

"The trend of modern industry is towards taking the public into its confidence. That is why I know you are wise to state frankly to the public the facts of the use of the Ultra Violet Ray in Toasting the LUCKY STRIKE. I have found the public appreciates confidence."

Emil E. Fuchs

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Emil E. Fuchs to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Fuchs appears on this page.

Strikes And Unrest Spread Through Spain

MADRID, Nov. 18.—Strikes and labor unrest spread throughout Spain today.

Rioting in Barcelona became so violent that military commanders were reported ready to proclaim a state of siege, and in other cities workers were joining the strike movement started by laborers here over the week-end.

While the capital appeared to be returning to normal, the situation in Barcelona and the other centers grew steadily more acute. More than 250 men were arrested in the former city during a night of fighting between strikers and civil guards.

The extent of the trouble at other points in the country was reflected in the following reports:

Seville—Students declared a 24-hour strike.

Ciudad Real—Miners went on strike in Cuenca and Puerto Llanos.

Malaga—Labor crisis acute; officials considering opening public works as relief measure.

Mieres—Metal workers struck, demanding higher wages and better conditions.

Antequera—Several arrests in strike disorders.

So She Brought Home an Elephant

NEA San Francisco Bureau
When Leona and Marlon Edding left their home town of Allida, Ill., to go and see the world, they wanted to bring back an interesting souvenir. They succeeded, too, bringing back a baby elephant from Allahabad, India. Here's Marlon, photographed with the pet as the liner Chichibu Maru entered San Francisco harbor.

A sang that has threatened several wealthy Tulsans with extortion has ever made.

Mrs. Hurford, a maid and a caretaker of the country home eight miles east of here, said they were near Hurford at dusk Sunday when two armed men forced the sportsman in a motor car and drove away.

"We want you to come with us, George," Mrs. Hurford quoted the men as saying to her husband. She said Hurford was searched for weapons and thrown into the car. When she pleaded to accompany them, her life was threatened, Mrs. Hurford said.

She said telephone wires to the home had been cut when she attempted to call help.

Night Police Chief Nelson J. Moore said that several months ago he investigated a plot to kidnap the wealthy bookmaker. He said the extortionists were St. Louis gangsters.

Hurford was well known in racing quarters. He was widely known as a gambler. He is president of the Maze City Kennel Club, considered the largest dog racing track in the country.

Officials here did not conceal their surprise that the cases should have been transferred from Dallas without consultation.

"You sent Dallas the Brady case," Brooks was reminded.

"Not without consulting them. They wanted it," Brooks replied.

The situation here will be bad for witnesses and lawyers if the trials are held in January, it was pointed out. Austin then will have the inauguration crowd and the State legislature in session.

Minnesota's governor-elect is one of the youngest men ever chosen for that office, just 39 years old. He is Floyd Olson, shown above, who campaigned successfully as a member of the Farmer-Labor party.

It was alleged that he had visited an engraver whom he offered in sums for the counterfeiting of French coins. The engraver reported the incident to the police, and also was arrested.

Levine claimed that he was the victim of a plot to defame him, it was said at police headquarters. He visited an engraver to place an order for roulette counters, or chips, which he wished to use in a new casino in France, the police quoted him as saying.

Sherman Rioting Cases Not To Be Tried This Year

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 18.—Trial of the Sherman riot cases can scarcely be undertaken before January, Judge J. D. Moore of 98th district court here said upon being informed that the cases had been transferred to his court without consulting him or District Attorney Henry Brooks.

"There will be only one week of criminal docket at the December term of Judge Moore's court. It would be useless to begin the riot cases then," Judge Moore said. "There is really little prospect of a trial in January."

"I do not see the advantage of putting off cases we already have to try others," said District Attorney Brooks. "There are about 100 cases on the docket now awaiting trial."

Officials here did not conceal their surprise that the cases should have been transferred from Dallas without consultation.

"You sent Dallas the Brady case," Brooks was reminded.

"Not without consulting them. They wanted it," Brooks replied.

The situation here will be bad for witnesses and lawyers if the trials are held in January, it was pointed out. Austin then will have the inauguration crowd and the State legislature in session.

Superintendent Denies Reported Misappropriation

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 18.—A. W. Taber, superintendent of the state confederate home here, which was criticized by a report of the state auditor, late yesterday issued a statement. In it he said there never had been "an error made or the misappropriation of one cent of funds belonging to an inmate" with his knowledge or consent.

During his five years' tenure in the office, superintendent Taber said there has been an average of $3,000 monthly received from banks for inmates. Any errors that might have occurred, he said, was in trying to accommodate the veterans in caring for their funds.

"There has been money borrowed by persons working at the institution from the veterans without my knowledge or consent," said Taber, "and in every instance where the matter was reported to me, I immediately took steps to see that the amounts were refunded with as little delay as possible."

He said that so far as he knows every dollar ever used by anyone has been repaid and that there is money in bank to meet every veteran's claim.

Mavericks To Play Stripling Here Friday

The Eastland Mavericks, who have an off week in their schedule in the Oil Belt district, will play the Stripling High School of Fort Worth on the local gridiron next Friday afternoon.

The Stripling school, while low in the percentage column having lost four games in the district schedule, has a good team and had at each of its four games by a small margin.

The game has been scheduled to start at 3:00 o'clock Friday afternoon on the local field and a good contest is anticipated when the two teams clash.

Although the Mavericks have received the support they have deserved from the local fans, a fairly large crowd is anticipated when the game is called here. With a fair representation of fans to cheer the team on to a victory, the Mavericks should win the contest with the team from the large school.

Stripling High is in Fort Worth section of District 3, which is composed of five of the outstanding teams in the district, including Highland Park, North Side, Polytechnic, Central and Stripling.

Stripling held Polytechnic to a 0 to 0 victory recently and only last week Polytechnic and Highland Park played to a 7 to 7 tie. Highland Park is leading the division with three games won, none lost and only the Polytechnic team its perfect record.

Coach Schmidt himself has nothing to say about his plans for the offense against Baylor.

AUSTIN, Nov. 18.—Coach Clyde Littlefield's Longhorns of Texas University enjoyed a well-earned rest Monday afternoon. No opposition in the Longhorn's path for the pennant looms until Thanksgiving Day, when the Texas Aggies come here for the annual Turkey tilt.

In the tents of the mighty Steers are doing an easy win over the Farmers, partially exhausted by a desperate but futile effort throughout the season to break into the win column of the conference chart. The fray will not prove a pestime for the Longhorns, however, since a good running defense. Light drills will injure the football men for Littlefield's pupils the first part of this week.

DALLAS, Nov. 18.—Texas' own gridiron "ramblers," the Southern Methodist University Mustangs, returned to their own campus this morning, facing a light drill this afternoon and a nasty program for the remainder of the week, climaxed with the battle against the Rice Owls in Houston.

Weldon, who, jerked out of the Navy hit with an injury, is expected to be ready for service. Coach Ray Morrison a full crew to throw against the resurrected Owls.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 18.—Old man football was preparing to abdicate his Ozark throne here today, and surrender the scepter that rules fandom to basketball.

With their last conference game played and lost, the Fayetteville setting has changed from gridiron to court. The University of Arkansas-basketeers, five time champions of the southwest conference, will play a 23 game schedule, including a pre-season barnstorming tour of seven games during the Christmas holidays.

Southwestern Conference Tabs

WACO, Nov. 18.—With a conference victory over the Razorbacks Arkansas tucked away to their belt, the Golden Bears of Baylor University today prepared to engage another before the week ends.

Uppermost in the minds of the Bear mentors this week was the idea of a defense that could give Cy Leland. Several other tabs uncovered in the game at Fayetteville, where the Bears failed to get going until along in the fourth period, must be removed from their performance before Sunday.

Hundreds of students are planning to invade Fort Worth next Friday for the tilt with the Red Frogs.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 18.—Texas State University's Horned Lizards today showed that victors are also how to take defeat. With a loss to the Navy, the Horned Lizards will rely more than ever on Cy Leland in the coming fray.

PLEASANT GROVE WINS GREAT GAME

RANGER, Texas, November 18.—A crowd that comfortably filled most of the huge stands on the west side of Lillard field saw the Pleasant Grove (Jake Hamon) All-Stars defeat the Ranger All-Stars Sunday afternoon, 6 to 0, in a game for the Christmas cheer fund.

Ed T. Cox, fullback for the winners, was the chief ground gainer of the game. The former Simmons university and Eastland High school star made several splendid runs, with Harris also doing some slippery stepping on various occasions.

Sutton was the most elusive runner for the Ranger team. Charley Cooper at center did excellent defensive work.

The victorious team had quite a weight advantage over the Ranger All-Stars. Neal Day, at center, weighed 235, Bobby Garrett at tackle 250 and Cox at full over 200.

200. (These figures were estimated by the spectators.) However, Tom Yonker, the giant of the Ranger lineup, weighed well over 200 and there were several other big men on the club.

The crowd derived considerable amusement from bad snaphacks, the muddy condition of one end of the field and the completion of passes thrown by a member of one team squarely into the arms of an opposing player. Both teams obliged in this fashion.

By end runs, Cox placed the ball on the two-yard line and then plunged over in the first quarter for the lone touchdown. Pleasant Grove worked the ball to the five-yard line and was in a huddle to decide what play to try when the half ended. In the third quarter, Harris made a 45-yard punt return with Cox running interference.

Ranger took to the air, and with Swafford hurling the leather, put the ball on the Pleasant Grove 10-yard line but the huge Day jumped four feet in the air and intercepted a pass to end the danger.

Pleasant Grove threatened in the final quarter but Cox's pass over the goal line was incomplete.

Both teams made so many changes in the lineup, taking a man out and sending him back then taking him out again all in the same quarter that the scorer gave up in despair.

The Chestnut & Smith and the Ranger High school bands provided music. C. & S. had a pep squad in purple and white.

Interest Grows In High School Grid Contests

Texas high schools were today tightening the skins on their tom-toms of football warfare for the month-long occupancy of the Southwestern sport spotlight after the major conference crowns begin to accumulate dust.

Four of the eight interscholastic districts already have uncrowned champions which only the "mathematical possibility" can dethrone. In these and the remaining zones this week's games will build the situation down to a more comprehensive basis.

The "wise guys" will tell you that Amarillo, Corsicana, Tyler and Austin eleven are under the wire, and they will add that Breckenridge and Greenville will hold the judge's stand atmosphere and haven't far to gallop.

In the Dallas-Ft. Worth and Gulf districts things aren't on such an indicative footing.

Oak Cliff and Highland Park, leaders in the two brackets of the former territory will settle the argument in a play-off on Thanksgiving day. The Cliffites, State champions in 1924 and runners-up in '21 and '26, have an unblemished four-win record, while the Highlanders got a tie with Polytechnic (Fort Worth) last week.

Port Arthur and John Reagan (Houston) have the stage in district 7. The Yellowjackets mistook Beaumont's royal purple for green and went right through last week to chalk up their fifth victory without a defeat. Reagan has four wins to its credit, and is undefeated. The Bulldogs will have a try at Beaumont and Port Arthur, engages Jeff Davis this week. The two games should clear-up the atmosphere.

The Amarillo Golden Sandstorms rest on their seven successful weeks this week in District 1. It will take a miracle to displace the Sandies, and the fans are turning their interest to the Lubbock-Vernon skirmish Saturday. Other Saturday's games are Wichita Falls-Pampa, Electric-Quanah and Plainview-Childress.

San Angelo has a habit of providing at least one upset a year in the Oil Belt District 2. Should that team choose Saturday to cavort in such a manner, Breckenridge, the opposition and uncontested leader, might find its "virtual district championship" vanishing. Abilene-Mineral Wells, Big Spring-Ranger and Sweetwater-Brownwood will furnish the secondary ballyhoo.

Waco did Corsicana a favor, notwithstanding the latter booted Waco from the race, by defeating Cleburne and leaving Corsicana holding the citadel in District 4. A lone game between Cleburne and Hillsboro is on this week's schedule.

Although Sherman has a 1,000 per cent standing along with Greenville, the latter team is claimed by District 5 scribbles to be far the stronger. Friday the Sherman eleven will have a try at McKinney side from Lou Kirn and one or two other young men who have some evidence of talent as ball players, the Navy hasn't a man in the way of gridiron warriors.

Soldiers, on the other hand, are a fine aggregation of experienced players. Major Sasse has developed a fine attack for them and a splendid defense. There are no standing stars on the team, but every man is capable, and there are a few reserves.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—BILL CORUM, New York sports columnist, has gone into the coal business. . . he mentioned in his column recently, shortly after returning from a race meeting, that he hadn't been doing very well by himself, and there was no coal in the cellar. . . a big butler and egg coal man called him up and offered to send him a load. . . Bill didn't want the load himself but he happened to know a poor family that did. . . so he took the load of coal. . . explaining to the coal man who it was for. . . whereupon the others started writing to the paper, offering to buy loads of coal for any families Bill should designate. . . Now Bill is up to his neck in coal. . . and tickled to death about it.

There Before
ATE a few of those Army boys ought to be good, it experiences for anything. Several have had big-time football before going to the Point. Thus Si Letzelter, who only 22 years old, has won letters for football. Three of the boys were put in at Martinsburg, O. high school, and three at the Tech.

At Tackle Jack Price attended Western Military and Naval Academy before going to West Point. He had two letters before reaching the Army. Ken left halfback, won a letter at Hartland, high school as a back after which he attended University of Illinois for three years, winning one letter as a quarterback. Spinner Herb, fullback, five years in high school at Ford, Mass., winning letters for football. Then he two years at Colgate, winning letters for football. Still the year is only 21 years old, and he won't be graduated at the Point until 1932.

Ken Kilday, another fullback, attended St. Mary's Academy in San Antonio, Texas, where he won football letters for two years of play. He transferred to St. Edwards, at Austin, where he played fullback for two years, winning his letter last year. Still, he's only 23 years old.

Ray Parham, a tackle, played football at Nashville, Ga., high school, after which he spent three years educating himself and winning football letters at Georgia State College. Ed Messinger played high school football at Kingston, N. Y., after which he spent two years at the Georgia Military Academy going down under the punts and turning in end runs.

Gets Two Shots
CAPTAIN POLLY HUMBER has been at West Point, off and on, since 1925. He started playing football at Georgia Military College, then he played for a while at North Georgia Agricultural College. In 1926 he was discharged from West Point for academic deficiency. He stayed out a year, brushed up on his school, where he brushed up on his math, and re-entered the academy in 1927, re-entering the year before he last year football letters at the Point.

The only point to all this probably is that if the Army doesn't have good football teams, it isn't because the lads never have seen a football before they reach West Point.

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 18.—Howard Payne, perennial grid champions of the Texas conference, was preparing today for a fray with the Texas Tech Matadors Wednesday afternoon. The Matador match is but a prelude to the all-important battle with Southwestern here Thanksgiving day.

By defeating Trinity University Nov. 21, the Southwestern Pirates would enter the Yellow Jacket game with an identical season's record, three wins and one tie in four starts. St. Edward's and Simmons University have already erased the last game from their conference slate.

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 18.—Long passes from Love to White accounted for most of the gains which netted the Bearcats of Sam Houston a 13 to 0 win over the North Texas Teachers here Monday. The Bearcats were forced to take to the air in the last quarter of a game featured by the two heaviest lines in the T.I.A.A.

DALLAS, Nov. 18.—Pat Brien and Tuffy McMullen today were victors in the six-star zrapallo card fought at Fair Park stock arena Monday night. In the most exciting number of the program, Joe Reno and Cyclone Mackey battled to an even decision.

Mackey copped the first fall with a leg split after 31 minutes of fast grappling. Reno won the second fall with a double Japanese teohold. He hung on to his heady grip for a full minute after the referee patted his back in token of victory. Mackey, disabled by the pressure, was unable to answer the bell for the last fall. The referee declared Reno forfeited his claim to a win by refusing to release his hold, and the match was declared a no contest.

Style Trend For Windows

Net curtains in a new Georgian period design here soften the formality of the over-draperies and reflect the gracious atmosphere of the room.

THE well-dressed window, like the well-dressed woman, keeps pace with style. And in style details make up the correct whole. In curtains these all-important points are design, color, mesh and arrangement. With these satisfactorily solved, the window becomes, literally, well-dressed.

Heretofore glass curtains have been a difficult problem in carrying out the "period" room treatment. The fact that net curtains are hung straight against the pane stresses the design. If the motif is alien to the furnishings and wall-treatment, it spoils the unity of the room. It is "just something neutral," the room becomes commonplace.

Net curtains authentically styled to period interiors are now seen in the shops in a considerable variety of designs. The ever-popular Colonial interior, for instance, will be enhanced by curtains featuring historic motifs. A variety of such timely designs have appeared "roughly" in a natural color that simulates the unbleached tints associated with those early days. Or for the home in the English country house manner, there are designs in a new shade known as "pongee" to recreate the charm of Georgian days.

The new patterns seem sufficiently varied to meet all tastes and lighting requirements. Where wallpaper of pictorial interest is used, for instance, a more set pattern is required for contrast. For the room where daylight is precious, there are designs in light tracery. Still other patterns grow heavier in design toward the bottom so that an objectionable view may be concealed.

The usual mesh is ten point; that is to say, there are ten threads to the inch.

prominence in all collections. Tulle in light satin, and overblouses and lingerie tuck-ins in a wider variety of materials than is usual, attract much attention.

Lingerie blouses are given strong endorsement. Delicate pastel shades are chosen and the materials include dotted Swiss and sheer lawn. Stiffened chiffon is also noted and wool lace, which has been good here since its introduction in the early fall lines, is seen in several collections. The puff sleeves of white blouses embroidered in black, show beneath the three-quarter sleeves of fancy woolen suits at Bernard et Cie.

Among the houses to feature lingerie blouses is Martiat et Armand, who is showing pale green cotton and soft pink lawn blouses with black suits of marocain or woolsens. Wool lace in light colors is chosen for blouses to accompany wool crepe sports suits.

University Has Museum Material And No Building

By Raymond Brooks
University of Texas has museum material of incalculable value, and no place to put it.

A temporary place to house and display part of its huge history material is expected to be ready within a few months.

Two museums, one of natural history and one of art works are needed, and university authorities have begun to plan for at least one within 18 months to two years. That is for the use of the present library building, when the $1,000,000 library building is completed, for which plans are being devised by architects now.

Anthropology specimens will be placed in the upper floor of the new classroom structure now nearing construction. The old power house, now being remodeled, will not be used for this, as earlier reported but will be made into shops.

Definite decision as to use of the old library for a museum has not been reached, Compt. J. W. Calhoun said. Future use of the building will be decided when the new library is ready for use.

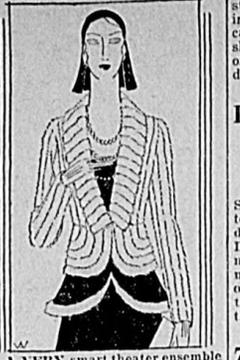

Plans likely will be approved and ready to go within six months he said and construction of the building will require a full year.

This promised the university partial natural history museum and probably one building devoted to geology and uses by the early summer of 1932.

Collections of botanical, forestry, anthropological, Mexican antiquities, Neolithic weapons, coins and medals, tools, zoological and paleontological specimens already are in possession of the university, awaiting a place where they may be put on display. Some are extremely rare. Some are housed in wooden sheds where there is danger of their being destroyed by fire. Practically all are irreplaceable.

The university also has a large collection of priceless paintings, rare textiles, and general art objects, gifts of Mrs. Miriam Litcher Stark and others. Some of these objects are at the university and others stored.

A VERY smart theater ensemble seen recently consisted of a fitted ermine jacket worn over a black tulle dress. The line of the shapely front of the coat was repeated in an ermine bordered pelum on the dress. A black bonnet was worn with the costume.

Four oil tests are underway in Red River county at present and arrangements have been completed for two more. Day and night crews are rushing the drilling of the Lloyd-Mace No. 1, six miles southeast of Annona, which lost a drill stem at a depth of about 860 feet. The well is to go to 3,500 feet unless pay sand is encountered earlier.

The Johnston Petroleum Syndicate well, 13 miles west of Clarksville, is down to 2,200 feet. The Buffington-Moore No. 1, two miles northwest of here, was spudded in late last week. Drilling is also underway on the Droppelman & Bundy well.

Women Should Learn Uses Of Magnesia

To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," this simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists.

Prepare a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglass full. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit.

Its antacid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild, but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during expectancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years.—Adv.

79-Year-Old Actor On Honeymoon With Young Bride

DALLAS, Nov. 18.—Charles A. Austin, the 79-year-old actor, who was here today of a honeymoon with his 29-year-old wife whom he married a few days ago in Great Bend, Kas., his home.

"I'm as young and spry as ever," said the trouper as he stepped from a new eight-cylinder coupe and introduced his bride.

"My wife is just a plain wholesome country girl," explained Uncle Charlie. "This trip to Dallas is her first visit to a big city. She is not a flapper and has never danced and run around with boys. Next year I'm going to take her around the world and there's nothing she might want for happiness that I won't give her."

The honeymoon will be continued at New Orleans and Havana and the two will spend the winter at Miami, Fla., near Sarasota, wintering grounds for the Ringling Brothers' Circus with which Austin was connected for many years before retiring to his Kansas farm in 1919.
