

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WELCOMES NEW MEMBER - James Jay put the final touches on his completely renovated building and hosted an open house, Monday. One of his first acts was to join forces with the Eastland Chamber of Commerce. Certainly the new look of his beautiful building is an asset and a credit to our downtown area. The building will house RCG Leasing Inc., co-owned and managed by Mr. Jay. The leasing Company will lease medical equipment including, hospital beds, wheel chairs, invalid lifts, breathing machines, crutches, walkers and many other related items. The building will also have two other offices which are already rented. The Chamber of Commerce congratulates RCG Leasing and is honored to have them located in Eastland. James T. Wright, Manager of Chamber of Commerce is shown presenting Mr. Jay with his 1975 membership card.

SURE, AND it's Christmas time all round Eastland - town. The Telegram's first Santa letter arrived today from Billy Rodgers... Guess the first Christmas card honors go to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Taylor out at Taylor Center. And it's a handy card with a 1975 calendar, and on the back there's a record space for your spouse's various sizes, so you remember when you shop...And certainly, Eastland's shop windows are beautiful. You'll notice Bray's Dept. Store's pretty red, and over at Kendrick Music, the windows are regular ice palaces.

The U.S. Census Bureau has come up with some new figures on the nation's farm population. In April of 1973, it was estimated that there were 9.5 million people on American's farms, and this amounted to around 4.5 percent of the total population. In 1971 - 72, farmers made up 4.6 percent of total U.S. population. This, it is thought, is an indication that the decline of farm workers may have halted. Also, the Bureau reports that in 1973 only 1.9 percent of farm workers were unemployed, and this compared with a 5.3 percent unemployment rate for the rest of the nation's working force.

WARRENSBURG, NO., STAR - JOURNAL: "Speaking of advertising, we are reminded of the classic story of William Wrigley of chewing game fame. Wrigley was said to have been riding on a train with a friend (this was long ago) when the friend pointed to the frequent Wrigley gum signs along the right of way and adjacent highways. "Why do you spend all this money on advertising?" asked the friend. "Your business is established, your gum is famous and the competition is almost nonexistent." "Well," answered Wrigley, "how fast you think this train is going?" "Oh about 60 miles an hour," answered the puzzled friend. "Why?" "Don't you think that is fast enough?" Wrigley said. "Why don't you just take off the engine and save all that expense?" The friend had no comment."

GARNER, IOWA, LEADER: "If you have children ready to go to college... it would help if you are either rich or poor. If you are rich, you can find the money needed to pay rising tuition, board and room, and other costs without too much difficulty. If you are poor, government programs and student loans funds are available to help you finance the education. But if you are in between being rich and being poor, you might not have enough money to pay the bills out of your income yet you may be too affluent for your youngsters to qualify for aid programs. You're caught in the middle... Students who don't have adequate cash but who can't qualify as 'needy' have another avenue of opportunity that could be a distinct advantage over either affluence or poverty. This is to work part - time to supplement money from home, as many of their parents did. This formerly was a common practice. Working your way through college has its good effect. Thousands of successful businessmen and women will testify that what they learned while working off - campus was at least as valuable to them as what they learned in the classroom. Few of them feel that they were disadvantaged by having to work. Perhaps the strength of the middle class really lies in the fact that they have to work for what they get."

HILLSBORO, ORE., ARGUS: "Words can be confusing. For example, if you call a young lady a 'vision' she will consider it a compliment, but if you say she is a 'sight,' then watch out. Yet, basically they both have the same meaning. Now, let's take the case of productivity and production. There is an important difference. Production refers to the total quantity of goods produced, while productivity is often expressed as the measurement of output per man hour. Just as a football player, no matter how much skill he has, or how hard he works to keep in condition, needs good equipment to produce victories, increased productivity by business and industry is achieved by melding all factors - raw materials, labor, and capital costs - in the manufacturing of a product. A major result in the efficient use of capital funds is an increase in output per man hour with no increase or reduction of the physical work effort in the creating of products. A better appreciation of what productivity is all about is essential if we are to compete successfully in the market - places of the world."

BRIDGEPORT, ILL., LEADER: "State and national leaders would do well to inform their constituents of what we might expect. This information is available through study, research, concentration and thoughtful reflections. Efforts to replace items with available substitutes will ease the crisis. It is time to use all our creative knowledge and research capacity to fulfill the needs of a prosperous country, instead of spending so much time and money in getting elected."

Who can ever forget the warm glow of a winter fire upon the hearth or the lonesome sigh of the wind on a crisp, moonlit night? The official arrival of Winter this December 22 will bring back many such familiar sights, from icicles and skiers to Christmas decorations and children clamoring for a steaming hot cup of cocoa and cookies. It will be a time to retreat indoors with books and television, a time to re-evaluate yet another passing year in terms of what we have accomplished - or have not, as the case may be. Hopefully, we, the American people, will be able to face the new season with confidence and the knowledge that problems of energy scarcity, inflation, community improvement and the like can be solved if each of us will but dedicate himself to the task. "United we stand, divided we fall" has never been a more appropriate rallying cry.

FULLEN MOTOR CO.
Laugh A Day

A mother carefully poured out six glasses of soda pop from a large, one-calorie bottle for her children and their friends. One of her sons watched each glass being filled. As she finished the last glass, he looked up and with a puzzled expression asked "I wonder who got the calorie?"

Public Invited To Attend 22nd Annual County Pecan Show

Pecans in all forms will be on display at the Eastland County courthouse Friday and Saturday, December 6 and 7.

They will be displayed in both the natural state and in baked goods reports County Extension Agents De Gordon and Arleen Atkins.

These items will also be sold to those who wish to buy. Growers will have pecans to sell through out the show. Both shelled and unshelled pecans will be sold as the displays are taken down.

The event will be the twenty-second annual Eastland

County Pecan Show and Bake Show. Sponsored by the Eastland Chamber of Commerce and the Eastland County Pecan Growers Association, this year, the show will be held in the first floor lobby of the Courthouse.

James Wright, Chamber of Commerce Manager, says visitors will see some of the best quality pecans in Texas as well as prize pecan pies, cakes, candies, nut bread and cookies. These items will also be sold when the show is over.

A third feature will be a display of centerpieces using pecans in various forms.

Wright stated that parking meters will be sacked Friday and Saturday for the big event. He encourages everyone in the county and surrounding areas to come and see the Pecan Show Friday and Saturday.

The Home Demonstration Club members will operate a concession where coffee and food will be sold.

Plaques will be given for the Champion In-Shell pecans, the Champion Shelling pecans, the Champion Native pecans and rosettes will be awarded to Reserve Champions.

Ribbons will be awarded to the first, second and third place entries of each variety. In addition ribbons will be given for the largest pecans and the smallest pecans.

Dan Childress, president of the county pecan growers association, estimates that about 200 entries of top quality pecans representing over 40 different varieties will be on display. Each entry must consist of at least 40 pecans.

They must have been grown in 1974 by the person entering the pecans in the show. All entries of pecans must be entered by 5:00 p.m. Thursday.

The Pecan Bake Show will feature five youth and adult divisions: pies, cakes, candy, nut bread, and cookies. All entries must contain pecans in the ingredients. Entries of candy and cookies must have at least eight pieces to be accepted by the judging committee.

The baked goods and centerpieces must be entered and in place by 11:00 a.m. on Friday, December 6, when the judging will begin.

Judging for the pecan show will be done Friday afternoon by Dr. Arlie Powell, Texas A&M University Extension Horticulturist and Mr. Tom Denman, Horticulturist from Stephenville.

Members of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce will help process pecan entries for the pecan show.

Visitors are welcome to attend the show at any time.

The agents said that Saturday morning would be an excellent time to see the displays since all the judging will be complete and ribbons will be displayed with the winners.

Community Resource Questionnaire To Assist Personnel

As part of the Eastland School program, the Community Resource Questionnaire appearing below is being published to find interested community personnel to assist teachers in furthering the education program at the three Eastland schools.

The Questionnaire is designed to assist personnel with location of community residents interested in assisting and sharing their experiences with students. Eastland administrators are attempting to pool the resources of community residents to supplement class presentation and special programs based on the conviction the Eastland Independent School District has a vast supply of talent that could enhance the education of its students.

If you have a special skill, hobby, travel experience, profession, or vocation, slide show or any other types of activities which you would be willing to share with Eastland school children please fill out the questionnaire and return to Ray Pruitt, Superintendent, Eastland I.S.D., Box 31, Eastland, Texas, 76448, as soon as possible.

It will be impossible to call upon each person to assist in the Community Resource Project immediately, but you can be assured that your name and information will be available to teachers in the event your assistance would supplement the regular "teacher lecture school" textbook" type program at the

From The Living Bible

But as for you, speak up for the right living that goes along with true Christianity. Teach the older men to be serious and unruffled; they must be sensible, knowing and believing the truth and doing everything with love and patience. Teach the older women to be quiet and respectful in everything they do. They must not go around speaking evil of others and must not be heavy drinkers, but they should be teachers of goodness.

Indians And Bicentennial

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The Navajo Nation of Arizona is making a major effort to improve communications and the exchange of information among the almost 800,000 American Indians in the United States.

In Denver, there are plans to build a complex for Indian people and families from reservations who seek to make a life in that city's urban community.

The Smithsonian Institution is preparing a 20 volume set summarizing the prehistory and changing cultures of all Indian groups north of Mexico, which will become the standard reference on North American Indian history and anthropology.

From ambitious, multi-million dollar projects of the Navajo Nation to the display of Indian arts and crafts by the Candelaria Indian Council in Oxnard, Calif., the descendants of the original American settlers are taking full part in the nation's Bicentennial.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) has to date officially designated seven Indian communities as Bicentennial Communities, entitling them to use the national Bicentennial symbol in their projects and programs.

In addition to the Navajo Nation of Arizona, the Bicentennial Communities are: The St. Francis Sioux Indian Mission in South Dakota, the Seminole Nation of Oklahoma, the Li-Si-We-Nai Community and the Potawatomi Indians of Oklahoma, the Winnebago tribe of Nebraska, and the Chitimacha Reservation in Louisiana.

The Navajo Nation of Arizona has one of the most significant Bicentennial programs of any of the over 1,500 communities in the country which have been officially recognized.

In addition to the effort to improve communications among Indians, a Navajo Irrigation Project will provide water for cultivating 110,000 acres of otherwise arid land. Other projects include a $2.5 million Navajo Heritage Center, a trade center where arts and crafts of all tribes can be shown and sold, a Navajo Land Outdoor Theater, and an amphitheater in Canyon de Chelly National Monument on the Reservation.

The St. Francis Sioux Mission in South Dakota will commemorate the history of the mission by honoring Christian Sioux leaders, as well as the founding Jesuits and Franciscan Sisters. Projects include a published history, a pageant, a pow wow and an Indian feast.

The Seminole Nation of Oklahoma is planning a museum and library to house priceless objects of the cultural heritage of their ancestors, written materials and recordings of the language, legends and folk tales of Seminole history.

The 110th annual Winnebago Pow Wow will highlight the deeds of Little Priest, a 19th century patriot. Other Bicentennial efforts by the 2,800 members of the Winnebago Tribe include a conversation and ecology program to preserve and improve timberland areas of the reservation and expansion of a library into full-fledged learning center.

Other examples illustrate the widespread efforts by and for native Americans as part of the nation's Bicentennial.

Thief River Falls, Minnesota, will unveil a statue of a major Indian landowner in conjunction with a Pow Wow staged by the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians.

Tuolumne County, Calif., will reconstruct an assembly house of the California Miwok Indians.

A 44-foot steel sculpture of a Plains Indian will mark the historic camp ground of the Wichita Tribe in Wichita, Kansas. The surrounding area will be made into a park with bike trails.

The Phoenix Symphony will perform for Indian audiences throughout the State during 1975, featuring music with Indian themes.

In North Dakota, a Plains Indian studies curriculum is being developed for use in all primary and secondary schools.

In New York City, there will be an exhibit reviewing the American Indian from 1876 to 1976.

Across the land, Americans will discover more than 2,000 years of cultural heritage and traditions as they commemorate 200 years of independence during the Bicentennial.

Europeans will also have an opportunity to learn of the cultural heritage of the American Indian. The ARBA recently designated as an official Bicentennial project, "Two Thousand Years of American Indian Art", a major exhibit comprised of 600 to 700 art objects to be presented in cooperation with the Arts Council of Great Britain in September and October 1976.

Consumer Alert

AUSTIN -- Bicycles turn up frequently on Christmas gift lists for children -- and for adults, too, these days.

The Bicycle Institute of America estimates that there are about twice as many bikes as families in the country today. In 1972 alone, more than 12 million new bikes were bought.

So bikes are undoubtedly popular consumer items. Since they are also relatively expensive items, consumers should shop carefully to get the best machine for the money -- and that means the machine best suited to the rider and the type of riding he or she will do.

Such a machine will probably also be the safest, too, since many bike injuries result from problems occurring with a bike unsuited to its rider. Other causes of injury are loss of control, mechanical and structural problems, entanglement, slipping from pedals, and collisions.

More than 400,000 persons suffered bicycle-related injuries serious enough to need hospital emergency room treatment last year, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The Commission is developing safety standards for bicycles to eliminate many of the injuries caused by mechanical or structural failures. The new regulations will set strict performance and construction standards for brakes, wheels, steering system, and frame. They will require reflectors on front, back, sides, and pedals to make bikes visible at night, and also will require elimination of uncovered sharp edges and jutting parts.

These new standards aren't expected to go into effect for several more months. In the meantime, however, if you're bike-shopping for Christmas, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division recommends avoiding possible dissatisfaction, repair problems, and even danger, by looking for these points when choosing a bicycle:

If you're buying for a child, get a bike that fits his current size. Don't select a larger one, thinking he will grow into it. A bike that's too big will be hard to handle and could contribute to accidents.

A bike should suit the rider and the purpose. A youngster who has never owned a bike before may need a more basic model than an adult who has biked frequently for years. Likewise, a bike that will be used mostly for jaunts to the park can be less complex than one used for cross-country competition.

Make sure the bike is the correct size. First check to see that the seat post extends the recommended two inches. Have the rider stand over the bike seat and rotate the crank so one pedal is all the way down. If the bike fits, the rider's leg should be straight when the heel is resting on the pedal.

Check brakes carefully for fast, easy stopping. If the bike is for a youngster, and it has caliper hand brakes, make sure the child has the strength and hand size it takes to operate them easily.

Check the entire frame of the bike for sharp points and edges and for any protruding bolts or other structural problems.

Inspect pedals. Plastic ones may be slippery. Rubber-tread pedals or metal ones with serrated edges or toe straps are usually safer.

If the bike doesn't come with headlights, taillights, and all the reflectors recommended by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, consider purchasing them, along with extra reflective trim for fenders, handlebars, chainguards, and wheels, to be certain the bike will be recognizable in the dark.

If the bike is for a child under 12, the safest choice may be a single speed model with pedal operated brakes. In most cases, a three-speed bike with pedal brakes is the most elaborate model a child should have, according to bike safety experts. Five or 10-speed models are relatively complicated for a child to operate and may cause more concentration on gear shifting than on traffic. A three or five-speed model may be all an adult needs, too, after considering how the bike will be used.

If you know little about bikes, choose a reputable dealer who has a variety of models for comparison, who can help you make a decision, and who can service the bike after the sale.

Consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau if you have a consumer problem about a bike purchase or service under a warranty.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

Lord Moynihan of England, a famous physician, was asked if he objected to many observers at an operation. "Well," he said, "it is like this: there are just three people in the theatre when I operate - the patient and myself." "But that is only two," remarked a friend. "Who is the other?" "The Lord," answered the surgeon.

A celebrated singer felt the same way. He declared in Psalm 119:151, "Thou art near, O Lord."

The Lord is near to guide us. Many today are asking, "Where are we going?" But we ought to ask, "Whom are we following?" We are safe only in following someone who loves us. The Lord loves us, and what His infallible wisdom knows to be the best for us. His power can produce for us. Why follow anyone but Him?

The Lord is near to guard us. He walks ahead of His own, and His Angel encamps round about His own. Nothing and no one, not even the Devil, can touch us unless He gives permission. And everything He permits to happen to us is working for our good.

When loneliness or fear disturbs you, remember to say, "Thou art near, Lord."

Study Made Of CBS TV News

A landmark study by the Institute for American Strategy has found that "partial and slanted reporting by CBS-TV News has had the effect of narrowing the parameters of public debate" on critical national defense issues.

The findings were released today in a 209 page book called TV And National Defense: An Analysis of CBS News, 1972-73, which reports the results of a two-year-long study of CBS-TV Evening News, specials and relevant portions of CBS "60 Minutes".

The author of this book, which is based on the IAS research, is Dr. Ernest W. Lefever, Senior Fellow in Foreign Policy Studies at the Brookings Institution.

John M. Fisher, President of the Institute for American Strategy, said that the study showed that CBS News had clearly violated the Federal Communications Commission's Fairness Doctrine, the Television Code of the National Association of Broadcasters and the Code of Ethics of the Radio-Television News Directors Association.

He said that CBS-TV News was selected for the study because it has the largest audience and the largest number of affiliated stations.

In its comprehensive analysis the Institute's staff had the assistance of two broadly based teams of scholars.

One group of eight academicians served as news transcript analysts. Another group of eight distinguished scholars served as an Independent Review Panel to evaluate and to improve the methodology and the manuscript.

The FCC's Fairness Doctrine, against which the study measured CBS News performance, requires that the broadcast media must serve "the paramount right of the public in a free society to be informed and to have presented to it for acceptance or rejection the different attitudes and viewpoints concerning these vital and often controversial issues which are held by the various groups which make up the community."

Using six different methods of content analysis, the study reached the following primary conclusions:

(1) "CBS national security news was so spotty and lopsided that it failed to provide the essential facts for understanding U.S. defense and military issues, the Soviet definition of detente or the forward surge in Soviet military might."

(2) "CBS News was an active advocate...of a position that implied or called for a lesser commitment to American allies and lower defense expenditures."

(3) "CBS News failed to seek out actively all opposing views" on defense issues, particularly those calling for a stronger policy.

(4) CBS News "almost totally neglected" the views of millions of citizens calling for a stronger defense and "failed to provide a reasonable opportunity for the presentation and discussion of related national security views."

(5) CBS Vietnam War coverage was found to be "strongly and persistently critical of U.S. policy and of our South Vietnam allies and was mildly favorable to North Vietnam."

Thus, in an analysis of recurring themes in CBS Evening News during 1972, the study found that 83.33% of the themes in stories about South Vietnam were critical of our ally. On the other hand, it found that 57.32% of the themes in stories about North Vietnam were favorable to our enemy.

"Overwhelming attention" was given to problems within and criticisms of the military". During 1972 and 1973 nearly two-thirds (66.1%) of the stories on U.S. military affairs were unfavorable to the military whereas only 13% were favorable.

Mr. Fisher said that in 1972 CBS News did give reasonable coverage (35.03%) to administration viewpoints; a much larger coverage (61.42%) to critics who advocated a reduction in defense and foreign policy commitments; but almost no coverage (3.73%) to those who advocated a stronger defense and foreign policy.

Thus, on the vital subject of U.S. vs. Soviet military posture, substantial air time was given by CBS in 1972 to those who advocated reduction of the U.S. defense budget. But none-not even one second-to those who advocated U.S. superiority over the Soviets.

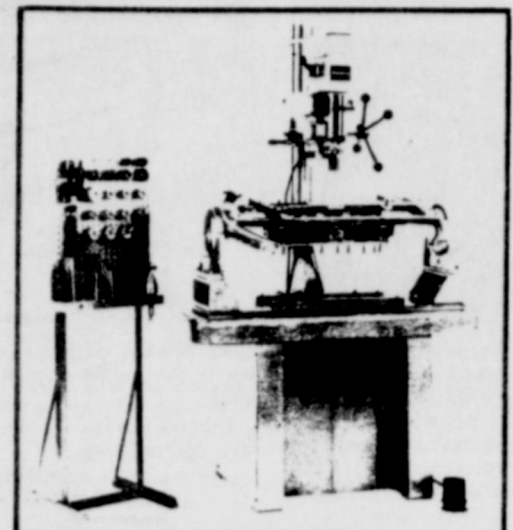

In contrast, the study reports an Opinion Research Corporation poll which found in 1972 that over two-thirds (68%) of the American people were in favor of a U.S. "policy of military superiority over Russia."

Mr. Fisher said that "The omission of this and other viewpoints held by a majority of the American people violates all the rules of fair play, reduces the parameters of debate, and is a denial of the democratic process."

Mr. Fisher called for CBS-TV News (1) to begin providing fair and balanced coverage of national security news and viewpoints and (2) to provide compensatory coverage for the viewpoints neglected in the past.

A Thanksgiving Sermon

BY REV. RUDY FAMBROUGH

"And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: And they lifted up their voices, and said, 'Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.' And when he saw them he said unto them, 'Go, shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, and fell down on his face at His feet, giving Him thanks; and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, 'Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger. And he said unto him, 'Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole.' Luke 17:11-19 KJV

There were two boys caught in a field with an angry Billy Goat. They ran for the fence and the first boy made it over safely but the second boy caught his pants in the barb wire. With the goat approaching for a hit the boy bowed his head to pray the words his dad used many times: "Lord, make me thankful for that which I am about to receive!"

We need to be thankful in all things, good or bad, blessing or curse, because we use the bad for good and the good He can make better.

Leprosy is a dread disease that has been recorded as a blight to man from antiquity. The very mention of the word strikes fear into the heart of humanity. The twisted body, distorted by the rages of the disease, the stubby fingers and toeless feet tear at our heartstrings. Leprosy brings horrible pictures to mind.

The physician, Luke, records the story of ten such men. These men were drawn together by their common misery. They were driven from their homes, from their families, from the city where they lived, into a life of being alone, alienated from society. Leprosy had its effects on these men, physically, psychologically, materially. They could not hold a job to support their families. They could not fellowship with anyone, save somebody with leprosy. Added to this was the degrading duty of warning anyone who approached with the cry of "Unclean! Unclean! Stay away!"

It was such a day as today, perhaps, when Jesus came near their village on His way to Jerusalem. Perhaps they had heard of Jesus and his healing miracles. They cried out as he went past them: "Lord, have mercy on us." Their cry for mercy did not go unheeded, as always the cry to God for mercy has never gone unheeded. God always hears and always answers. It may not be the answer we desired, however!

Jesus spoke "Go show yourselves to the priests." He commanded them and his command called for obedience as does all the commands that Christ has given in his Word. In Leviticus 14 there is given the laws concerning lepers. It was the law that a man who had any skin rash or eruption was to report to the priest for inspection of the rash. The priest then made the pronouncement that cast him from society. Like-wise when the time came that a cure was effected, the man was to return to the priest for his pronouncement of cleansing.

As these men obeyed the command of Jesus and went to the priest they were made whole. (If we have faith in Jesus and obey His commands we are always rewarded by God's healing and blessing. The healing of the Spirit comes to us as we act in faith and obey Christ's commandments.)

The priest said "This is a miracle! I remember you guys and you really had a case of severe leprosy but now you are whole, you are cured." What a miracle! Miracles seem to be discredited today. I heard of an ultra-liberal professor at one of our seminaries who tried to discount and explain the miracles in the Old Testament. As he was explaining the crossing of the Red sea by Moses, he said that it was really not the Red sea but the Reed sea and the water was only two or three inches deep at the most. One of the students jumped up and exclaimed, "This is the greatest miracle that I have ever heard of! Imagine, Pharaoh and all his army, horses, and chariots drowning in two inches of water!"

And these ten men went each into his own place, back to the job, back to the farm, back to the family, except for one. This minority of one said there is something that I must do first. He looked at his body, his hands, his feet, and said "I must go to Jesus!"

Then he comes to Jesus, falls at His feet and GIVES THANKS. He probably said "I have no life but the life that you have given me. I was cast out of society, diseased, looked down upon, but you restored me, you made me whole again! Thank you Lord!"

Jesus said "Were there not ten lepers?" "Yes, Lord, there were 10 of us!" "Well where are they?" The Samaritan says "Well, I guess they just forgot to say thank you but I know they appreciate it." Jesus told him to "Go thy way" and the Bible says he was made whole, in body and soul.

At this Thanksgiving season we would look at this event and we should see the ingratitude of these nine Jews. Is there anything worse? There were ten hopeless desperate men and Jesus made them whole again but they did not so much as thank Him.

Paul in the first chapter of the book of Romans talks about the wrath of God toward unregenerate man: "Neither were they thankful to God who made them, who created all the earth and put man in it along with all the blessings of it." The beginning of degeneration in the individual or a nation occurs when there is no thankfulness in the heart.

Ingratitude is a common frailty of modern man. I read of a lifeguard who had saved over one hundred people from drowning. When asked how many had returned to thank him he replied "Only two."

Why are we so ungrateful? Why does ingratitude so many times occupy our hearts when thankfulness should reign? What keeps us from being thankful?

First, our mental outlook keeps us from being thankful. If your mood is negative all the time, if you see only the faults of everyone and everything, then it will be hard to give thanks for everything. How easy it is to tune our ears to the discords of life and fail to hear the beautiful music that is being played. We look around and see the many things that are wrong with our church, our community, our nation and we fail to see the many more things that are right and are a blessing. Brooding over the negative and having a negative mental outlook hinders our thanksgiving.

Secondly, Pride keeps us from being thankful. Paul in Romans One again says that the people did not give thanks, they were stiff-necked, arrogant, proud. They thought they had made the breaks, they created the good fortune themselves. Don't we possess that attitude today? Haven't you heard that saying "Can't keep a good man down" or "I am a self-made man", or "I made the breaks."

Look at this Samaritan. There is nothing arrogant about him. There is nothing swaggering about him. He doesn't say "Man I had will-power to pull myself through" or "I just have the talent to be at the right place at the right time." No, he comes to Jesus with humility. That's H-U-M-I-L-I-T-Y. He says "Lord I love it all to you, you did it, you healed me!"

Pride can keep us from giving thanks, make us conceited and make us over-confident in ourselves. We then begin to think that we have made the breaks, we brought good things into our lives instead of realizing that God is the giver of every good and perfect gift.

The third thing that keeps us from being thankful is JEALOUSY. We can be happy and say that God has really blessed us. That is, until we see somebody else whom God has blessed more. Then we cease to be thankful for our blessings and envy robs us of our gratitude. We tend to be happy with a Chevy until our neighbor gets a Lincoln. This is the way we live in America always trying to keep up with the Joneses. This causes us to fail to see the blessings we have already. We must, in order to be thankful, be able to say how wonderfully God has blessed someone else without any jealousy and envy on our part.

This is a hard adjustment of life but we have to learn to live and be content with what we have. Paul said "I am resolved in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." This is the key, the secret to a happy thankful life. Sometimes we are rich, sometimes we are poor; sometimes we are sick, sometimes we are well, sometimes we are sick but we must recognize that in it all is the blessing and Goodness of God and I am content in it.

Once there was a mountain boy who lived in a cabin high upon a mountain. Every morning he would look out across the valley to another mountain and there upon it was the most beautiful house of gold. He looked behind him at his shack with dirty windows and unpainted siding, wishing that he could live in the golden house across the valley. One day he decided to go down the mountain and across the valley to the house of gold. When he climbed the mountain he could find nothing but an old house with dirty windows and faded siding. A boy like himself came out of the cabin and the mountain boy asked him where the house of gold on this mountain was located. The boy answered him and pointed to the mountain from which the boy came. He said that was the mountain with the house of gold. He saw it every evening. He pointed right to the other boy's house. We look across the valley, always wanting, always wishing that we had what we see there. But when we get it we discover that we are no different than we were before! We are already living in the house with the golden windows.

So we look at the 10th man, the minority of one, the better Samaritan. Let us take him as our example. Let us say thank you to our Lord and to those who have blessed us. Let us join this minority of one at the feet of Jesus. Thank you Lord, I have no life but the life that you have given me. All good things have come to me because of you. I acknowledge you and the giver of every good and perfect gift.

Go on down the list: Thank you Lord for my country, for my job, for my home, for my family, for the material blessings of life. Thank you Lord for the blessings that we have as Christians: For grace, for forgiveness, Christian love, for the access of prayer, for your acceptance of us as we are, and for a church in which we can worship in freedom.

We have talked of positive things but also we should be thankful in all things. I Thessalonians 5:18 says "In everything give thanks for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." Now, I am going to ask you to do something that will be very hard to do. Thank God for the difficulties of the past. How, thank Him for the difficulties of the present. And the hardest part, thank Him for the troubles and difficulties of the future.

EASTLAND MANOR NEWS

Social activities for the month of November have come to a very prosperous close. Games of Bingo and Dominoes were played every Tuesday and Friday. Fifteen games of Bingo were played. The winner of each game received a prize.

We had our monthly birthday party on Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. The residents having birthdays were Mack Eaves, Gertrude Davis, Mary McCoy, Lillie Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Garrett and daughters and Mrs. Mary Jo Fox and Mrs. Margaret Rose entertained with religious songs. Mrs. Burrows of Ranger and Mrs. Nettie Marshall of the home played the piano. Mr. Lyndell Garrett and family came every Tuesday night and held church services. The residents enjoyed joining in and singing religious song. Our musical for the month was by Mr. Bryan Houston. Mr. Joe Bowers and Mrs. Jessie McKinney. Cookies and punch were served by volunteers. On Nov. 21 the Mission Friends from the First Baptist Church came and sang songs for the residents and gave each resident fruit for Thanksgiving.

The Blue Bird campfire girls made 65 turkeys for tray favors on Thanksgiving Day. The Blue Birds made the turkeys out of Irish potatoes. The residents thought they were very pretty. We all enjoyed eating our traditional turkey on Thanksgiving Day. We are now looking forward to Christmas.

We are happy to have Mr. Barney Noble, Lola Sims, John and Mary Donawho, Annie Bond as new residents.

Dr. Garrett Speaks To Missionary Banquet

Perhaps the biggest bargain in the world is the medical-missionary serving up to 33,000 patients a year on a $15,000 budget.

That's the record set by Dr. Robert Garrett as the only doctor serving nine clinics, one hospital and one government-operated clinic in Rhodesia.

Now home on furlough and practicing in Eastland, Dr. Garrett was principal speaker Monday evening for the Missionary Banquet sponsored by the Baptist Men's Organization and Baptist Women's Missionary Service at the First Baptist Church.

Don Nicholas served as master of ceremonies and introduced the Rev. and Mrs. Rudy Fambrough who provided special music for the event. The Rev. Haston Brewer, pastor, introduced Dr. Garrett.

Noting that the Southern Baptist Convention will mark its 50th year of the Cooperative Program next year, Dr. Garrett pointed out that there are now missionaries in 81 countries around the world.

The Foreign Mission Board of the Convention receives 43.05 percent of its total budget from the Baptist Cooperative Program; 50.19 percent from the special emphasis Lottie Moon Christmas Missionary offering program; and a 6.7 percent from designated gifts.

"Missionary budgeting is a thing to behold," he said, explaining that there's always too many things that the missionary would like to see done, but funds are always short. It's a credit, he said, that Texas has more missionaries in the field, and also gives more to the mission work around the world.

Inflation hits missionary double hard, he said, explaining that it makes giving harder for the folks at home, and then when the money gets to the field, it buys less for the work. In Rhodesia the rate of exchange hurts too: When he and his family first went, $1.35 American bought one Rhodesian dollar. Today, it takes $1.75 for the same dollar.

To build a special emergency fund, the clinics charge a patient 25 cents (about a day's wages) for each case which generally averages four visits. One year Dr. Garrett's emergency fund of $2,000 was virtually wiped out when his area was hit by a measles epidemic and he bought needed medicines.

The hospital keeps the total cost for a hospital stay to $10 regardless of the stay. One year, Dr. Garrett planned to increase the patient fee to 50 cents to build up his emergency reserve again, but didn't because there was a complete crop failure and the people just couldn't pay. Naturally the patients are treated whether they gave the money or not.

The missionaries work together in the field in a common cause, and the work that's being done with the people is the best work in the world, he said, because we're not only working to minister to their physical needs, but we're also working to minister to their spiritual needs, and when you help a person find Christ, you've made him a completely new person.

Council Has Successful Year

Mark the Eastland High School Student Council a giant success after its first year of existence.

That's the official word from co-sponsor Mrs. Kenneth Payne and Council Officer Tom Morren, speaking for members of the Eastland Lions Club at noon Tuesday.

Marking the first Council for EHS, the organization is a governing body of students which has several purposes. Primarily it is intended to foster good relations between the students and faculty/administration. The speakers also explained that its purpose is to help generate school spirit; to get involved in worthwhile projects; and to lend a helping hand on projects.

It does not take away any authority at any level, they explained.

Jerry Boles is Council President.

Both Mrs. Payne and Student Morren told about the State Council Workshop attended by local sponsors and students in Denton this past summer and of the learning experience there.

Also coming in for top praise was the Council-sponsored 50's Days held at EHS recently which is remembered fondly by all who enjoyed it very much.

Jm Wright was program chairman and introduced the speakers. President Otis Coleman presided and Homer Smith will have the program next week.
