Civil Court Justices To Meet Here On Monday OUR CHARGES FILED AGAINST BISHOP CANNON

Charges Sent To Chairman Of The Bishop's College

Bishop Almsworth Says He Has Received No Word of the Complaints Being Filed.

BY UNITED PRESS

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 20—Charges against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Methodist Episcopal church, South, the nature of which has not been disclosed, have been filed with Bishop William N. Almsworth, Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the College of Bishops of the church. It was disclosed today by Costen J. Harrell, Richmond, Methodist minister.

Harrell said he and three other members of the church, Dr. J. H. Richmond, Dr. I. P. Marshall, Abingdon, Va., and Dr. Forrest Preston, Baltimore had investigated some of Cannon's activities and then dispatched their report to Bishop Almsworth.

Under rules of the church, it is customary for Bishop Almsworth to call a board of 12 bishops to investigate charges against Cannon. The board is empowered to suspend a bishop from his duties at the next general conference which he would attend.

Harrell said he would not be present at the conference. He said Cannon is a member of the board of trustees of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage.

There was a rumor prevalent today that the charges grew out of Cannon's activities following the clearing of similar charges against the recent Methodist conference at Dallas.

It was reported today the bishop was at sea, returning to America from Brazil with his bride.

Harrell is pastor of the Methodist church here. Cannon is a retired minister and president of a member of the board of trustees of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage.

Day died in a hospital at Cisco Friday evening and a federal investigation of the shooting has been completed. W. L. Zent, acting deputy prohibition administrator for the northern district of Texas, who conducted the probe, has declined to make a statement, but indicated that from statements of officers and accounts given by Hamilton, it was apparent Hamilton believed his life was in danger.

Filling Station Operators Meet Monday Night

A meeting of the managers and employees of the 34 filling stations in Eastland has been called for 8:00 o'clock Monday night at the chamber of commerce rooms.

The meeting was called by Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland chamber of commerce. Dr. Tanner mailed each station the following letter:

"One of the major activities of the Chamber of Commerce intends to put in effect this fall is a series of talks on modern methods of retailing to increase the volume of retailing in this section.

We have equipped ourselves with such literature as is available without great expense, such as United States Government publications, particularly those issued by the Department of Commerce, calling attention to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Just recently we subscribed for the Dartnell Corporation Service. They issue weekly letters telling of recent methods that have been successful in all parts of the country to increase retail sales.

The 35 filling stations in this City of Eastland make up one of the most important classes of retail merchandising.

We believe that in efficiency and service they compare favorably with any city of our size in the state. However, every wide awake merchant is ready and willing to listen to a suggestion carrying a new idea that might be applied to his particular problem that would result in improved service.

The Chamber of Commerce of Eastland being a tax supported body must of necessity pass on any information that they have available to all alike. Therefore, with a full realization that each manager has a sharp competitor in his neighbor, we are offering this service to you.

Hammett, thinking the man suited the description of one of the three men who robbed the filling station overtook and arrested him. The officer says he is acquainted with Armstrong.

Hammett also stated that he had received a message from an insurance company advising him that the small office safe into which Armstrong was driving when arrested is a stolen car and asked him to hold it for them.

A bullet wound received Wednesday night when his car was halted on a street at Cisco by John E. Hamilton, federal prohibition agent, proved fatal today to Virgil (Red) Day of Cisco. He died at 3:20 p. m. Friday.

Although an investigation of the shooting was completed this morning by federal administration authorities, Joe H. Jones, county attorney, said the state would continue in making a thorough probe of the affair. He indicated information collected would be submitted to an Eastland county grand jury which will meet September 29.

Believed Life In Danger Day is said to have gotten out of his car on the side opposite the officer when Hamilton ordered him to halt. Hamilton, with George F. Bryant, another federal agent, and county officers were engaged in dry law enforcement activities Wednesday. In the afternoon they raided a still near Nimrod, arresting three men in a house nearby. ### Will Be Held On Streets Of City Of Eastland

Exhibits Promise To Be Best Ever Shown In Eastland County.

Eastland county's annual free fall fair is just around the corner. The four day event for which the people of the entire county has looked forward to for the past 12 months, opens Wednesday with a program that has not been equaled by any fair or celebration in the county in many years. It ever. There will be something of interest for everyone.

As has been the custom for the past four or five years, the fair will be held downtown. Merchants' show-rooms will be used, where practicable, for exhibit booths and where these are not available booths will be built.

A meeting of the chairmen of the various committees having in charge the arrangements for the fair was held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Saturday morning. Milton Lawrence, general chairman, presided. Most of the chairmen were present.

While the program has not been completed it has been definitely arranged that there will be community plays, which will be put on by committees from rural communities; there will be chorus singing, old fiddling contests, boxing matches, in which a large number of boxers, some of them experienced, will take part; there will be a big parade, in which decorated cars and trucks from all over the county, will be entered; the Boy Scouts will have a program and there will be horse racing and a football game. There will be band concerts and saloons.

One thing that will be featured at this year's fair that has been omitted heretofore, is a midway, which will be well lighted. On this midway will be arranged the concessions for all kinds of amusement, such as dancing, etc.

The exhibits of agricultural products, garden truck, women's work, art, relics, Boy Scout work, etc., promises to be greater this year than ever before. While the drought has hampered the farmers very seriously, the exhibits shown at the series of 12 community fairs just held over the county, were exceptionally good and it is from these that many of the exhibits for the county fair were obtained.

This year the fair committee is arranging a sufficient number of seats to accommodate those who wish to see and hear the programs, which will be presented at night. Loudspeakers have been arranged so that the programs may be heard from all parts of the public square.

BACK TO HOUSES.

Small towns have never got away from individual homes. Big towns have been running more and more to tenements for the poor and apartment houses and hotels for the better-to-do. But the tide is turning.

According to Harry E. Freund, director of the American Research Foundation, skyscraper apartments and massed tenements will begin to disappear from our cities within 10 years. This is shown by a broad survey of building tendencies.

Already city concentration has stopped; cities are thinning out. The gains in our big cities are shown in the last census to be made almost entirely in outlying residential centers. And in such centers the characteristic home is a house with a yard around it.

This development is largely the result of better transportation. But the main cause is the deep desire of the typical American to own his own home. "If he can build a modest residence in a suburb and still have all the advantages of city living, he is certain to desert the city."

In the smaller cities and the larger towns and villages the problem is simple. They have never succumbed to the metropolis crowding. They have remained communities of single homes. All they have to do, as a rule, is to take advantage of the situation by building modern homes and modernizing the old ones a little.

BRITISH PEACE PROPHET.

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, addressing the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in behalf of his government, talked like an American.

"Security and disarmament," he said, "are closely interlocked, and nothing can make our people truly safe from war until a treaty of general disarmament has been made. Security is impossible if competitive military preparations continue as they are going on today. After all, there is none of us who in his heart does not know that of all security measures disarmament is in itself the most important."

Such statements enrage the militarists and navalists back home in England, just as similar statements by American spokesmen always enrage our own militarists and navalists. War boards, generals and admirals cannot keep themselves free from professional bias and tradition. Armament manufacturers are still influenced by economic interest. Political demagogues and journalistic jingoes still rant.

They may relish the old arguments and sound the old war cries. But the man in the street, the woman in the home, the business man in the office, and even the statesman in place of power, are more than ever disposed to agree with Secretary Henderson.

WAR REMEDY.

Recalling how free speech was curbed during the war, in all the belligerent countries, so that it is only lately that we are learning the truth about that conflict, Heywood Brown observes:

"Of spilled blood much has been said. It is better, perhaps, to direct attention to days which are ahead of us. Suppose the clock were to be pushed ahead a full 13 years. Just what the state of the republic may be then no man knows. The best we can do is to organize the thought of all men and women into a fealty to free speech, into a determination that, whatever the circumstances, no one shall be denied the right to be heard."

There is something more fundamental in this suggestion than may appear at first thought. Wars are started mostly by lies or half-truths, repeated until they are believed. If both sides were heard, if every color and shade of opinion were fully presented, would public opinion ever demand war, or governments dare to start it? Not often, at any rate.

It may be that the best preventive of war is simply free speech—a freedom of opinion and utterance not merely tolerated but encouraged. We are far from that ideal today.

IGNORANCE PREFERRED.

American juries, nearly everybody agrees, have a low average of ability. It is one of the main things wrong with our courts. But there is a powerful cause of this condition which is not commonly realized.

Who is to blame? The lawyers, more than anybody else, according to some critics. A leading newspaper says: "Too many trial lawyers regard intelligence and integrity in veniorem as serious disqualifications. The presiding judges should possess the power to curb clever but unscrupulous lawyers who seek to get rid of fit jurors."

It seems a curious situation, when one considers the oath taken by every lawyer and remembers that he is supposed to be not a mere servant of his client but an "officer of the court."

NERVES.

"Nervousness," writes a physician, "is most likely to occur among those who are brought up in idleness and luxury. Persons who earn their daily bread and have wholesome work are better off in this respect."

Nerves belong to the city rather than the country, to brain workers rather than hand workers, to the idle rather than the industrious.

The greatest need of city populations is wholesome physical exercise to strengthen the body, rest the mind, bring pleasant weariness and refreshing sleep. Such exercise should be available to all who need it. And Tom Thumb golf isn't a complete substitute.

LAUGHING AT $750.

The story goes that the young actress who won publicity by being too broke to pay a taxi bill of $3.50 is in that financial depression because she won't accept a job at the miserable weekly stipend of $750. "She belittled that amount with a laugh," wrote an incredulous reporter.

Now $750 a week is quite a bit of money in the eyes of many of this actress's fellow citizens, and one might think offhand that she couldn't possibly be worth that much. On second thought, however, one comes to the conclusion that anyone who can belittle with a laugh such a tidy wage has histrionic ability beyond the average. An alert producer would recognize her worth and raise the offer to $750.95.

Another object for sympathy is the man whose car is old enough to turn in on a new one, but runs so well that he can't bear to part with it.

THE BILLION-DOLLAR CITY.

New York's budget for next year is expected to surpass $600,000,000. That is $30,000,000 more than the present year's budget. Every year it grows, and "with leaps and bounds" is a mild expression for it. The time is in sight when the government of one city will cost $1,000,000,000 a year, as much as the national government did only three decades ago.

It would not be anything to deplore, either, if the metropolis got the worth of its money. But everybody knows it comes far short of that. Graft, inefficiency and folly probably take one-third.

No wonder living is high in New York. No wonder taxes are burdensome. But somehow New Yorkers on the whole don't seem to care. They're even proud of their high cost of government. It's another proof of bigness.

Speaking of Dr. E. L. Fiske's three human outlets, intoxication work and love, didn't we once read a book by Dr. Richard Cabot on what men live by, and didn't that doctor say they lived by four things, work, play, love and religion?

Al Capone's dog-racing racket in Kansas City has been "killed by public indignation." But nothing like that seems to kill his rackets in Chicago.

Include in List of Meanest Men the fellow who, from his pleasant summer home, sends postcards to friends telling them how hot, uncomfortable and mosquito-y it is.

Now we've got a candidate for the World Court, and soon we'll be just aching to try a case there.

The drought loss is estimated at $1,000,000,000, the cost of our new naval program. And there hadn't been any weather conference, either.

"Well, I did it!" were Lindbergh's first words when he flew to Paris. "I weel make it, be Jovel!" was the first English sentence spoken by Coste.

Moody Declares Against Return To Local Option

BY UNITED PRESS

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20.—Without mentioning Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York, whom he admires, Governor Dan Moody today declared unalterable opposition to a return of liquor regulation to the states without a federal jurisdiction such as was conferred by the eighteenth amendment. Roosevelt recently suggested return of the liquor regulation to state local option.

"State rights are not violated by the eighteenth amendment," said Governor Moody, who was one of the leaders of the dry forces at the last Democratic national convention. "The constitution specifically provided that the states could accord the federal government such powers as they wished. That was done in passing the eighteenth amendment. The states gave the right and their rights are not infringed. The plan is one in strict accordance with the views of Thomas Jefferson. There is nothing in his writing in opposition to such a restoration of power."

Practically, Governor Moody, asserted that attempts to enforce prohibition by state regulation alone would be difficult.

Evening Dress

That subtle mystery which is so much a part of the new feminine charm is featured in Patou's new evening dress of white georgette which has an embroidered design worked out in crystal beads under-lined in gold thread.

The only discordant note was adopted a resolution favoring an elective highway commission. It was tabled after a minority report drew many recruits.

Tarrant Sheriff Goes To Get The 'Torch' Slayers

BY UNITED PRESS

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20.—"Red" Wright, Tarrant county's flying sheriff, left here last night for Little Rock after an airplane trip to Austin to get requisitions on the governor of Arkansas for three men indicted as slayers of Roy Hawthorne, Hawthorne's charred body was found near Fort Worth on July 26.

WOMEN of all ages and types now realize that they must take at least a few minutes daily to care for their skins. The clever young business woman has learned that a good skin is absolutely necessary in an office or a store. . . . The capable home-maker realizes that although she does take care of a big house and several children, the world will not excuse her for lapses in personal beauty care. . . . Even school girls understand that their skins need something more than just an occasional dab of powder now and then. . . . And have you noticed at any large gathering of women, how the representative ones invariably show the happy results of a thorough regimen of skin care? . . . Fortunately, we have been able to put aside any thought that face creams and lotions are luxuries. Thanks to science and business skill, every woman today can afford to use the finest preparations on her skin without even the tiniest feeling of guilt about the cost. And the trained experience of beauty experts now is available to save purchase of any but the exact preparations required for each particular case. . . . Every day, I know, this writer answers a great many letters from women who want to know how to treat their skins properly at home; and I am always glad to give my readers, without charge, the full benefit of my many years experience with all sorts of beauty problems.

Acting on a warrant naming a man other than the defendant, an officer seized Rose and the latter smashed a package with the remark, "now you haven't got any evidence against me." The defense motion was to suppress the evidence on the contention the officer saw no act to permit a search of Rose or Rose's property without a specific warrant.

FAMILY MENU

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

APPLES are plentiful in many sections of the country this fall and the housewife will find the purchase of half a bushel a good investment. It is always economical to buy in quantity rather than in small lots, and apples can be used in so many ways that there is no danger of waste.

Apples may be scattered all through the menu and every member of the family can eat them and enjoy them in some form or other. Baked or steamed apples are one of the first solid foods a baby eats and these same baked apples will be relished by the elders for breakfast with cereal and cream.

Many irresistible desserts have apples as their basis. Simple and easy to prepare, they are as healthful as they are popular. The combination of meats, particularly pork, with apples, is excellent. Nearly all salads—fruit, vegetable or meat—find apples an appetizing addition.

Following are three unusual recipes for apples. The first, pork chops baked with apples, is suitable for a hearty luncheon dish or a light meat course for dinner. The salad and dessert both are delicious and can be used for company menus if desired.

Pork Chops Baked With Apples

Four thick pork chops, 1-4 teaspoon powdered sage, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tart apples, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups hot water, 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar.

Wipe chops with damp cloth and sprinkle with sage and salt. Brown on both sides and remove to baking dish. On each chop place half an apple which has been pared and cored and the cavity filled with brown sugar. Mix flour, pepper and cinnamon and stir into fat in frying pan. Cook and stir until flour is slightly browned and slowly add water, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add raisins and lemon juice. Pour over chops and bake one hour in a moderate oven, basting several times with the sauce. Serve from baking dish.

Apple Salad

Four apples, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 cup boiling water, grated rind and juice of lemon, 1-3 cup shredded coconut, 2 tablespoons chopped nuts, mayonnaise.

Pare and remove cores from apples. Make a syrup of sugar, water, grated rind and juice of lemon and add fruit. Cover and cook over a low fire until apples are tender but not broken. Baste frequently with syrup. The apples should absorb most of the syrup by the time they are done. Roll apples in coconut, coating them evenly and thickly. Fill cavities with raisins and nuts mixed with enough mayonnaise to make slightly moist. Put under flame of broiler to lightly and quickly brown coconut. Chill and serve on a bed of lettuce with a spoonful of mayonnaise on each.

Daily Menu

BREAKFAST — Orange juice, cereal cooled with figs, cream, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Cream of tomato soup, croutons, celery and cheese sandwiches, apple meringue, milk, tea.

DINNER — Baked haddock with oyster sauce, baked sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, pineapple and cheese salad, golden glow pudding, milk, coffee.

Apple Meringue

Four apples, 1-2 cup stewed dates, 1-2 cup nut meats, 2 egg whites, 1-3 cup sugar, few grains salt.

Pare apples and cut in halves. Remove cores and fill cavities with about half the sugar. Place in buttered baking dish, cover and bake until half done. In the meantime beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in remaining sugar and fold in stewed fruit and finely chopped nuts. Cover apples with mixture and continue baking in a slow oven until meringue is firm to the touch. It will take about 40 minutes. Chill and serve with or without a garnish of whipped cream.

Little hope has been held by hospital attaches in McAllen for Randall's recovery.

The youth disappeared from a garage in the rear of a mortuary where he worked Thursday night. He was missed Friday morning and a search begun. A Mexican face as quickly as it had appeared. She slipped around the table, kissed her mother's cheek and laughed.

"All right! Your pride and joy will stay right here beside you. When Barney comes I'll tell him the party's off!"

There was a great deal to be done to get the apartment in order for company. The dishes were carried from the table. Celia washed and wiped them while Mrs. Rogers bustled about with a dust cloth, setting furniture at different angles, converting the dining room back into a living room.

"It's after seven!" her daughter reminded her presently.

"That's all right. I'm almost through, now. You'd better start dressing."

"Do you think Mr. Mitchell will stay very long?" Celia paused in the doorway to inquire.

"I don't know."

"Isn't it funny you never mentioned him before?" the girl persisted.

"Oh—I guess I just didn't happen to. Go on, Celia. Get ready."

The girl had just slipped the rose frock over her head when Mrs. Rogers raised the lid of the old trunk and began fumbling through the upper tray. She drew out her jewel box.

"Here—Celia, I want you to wear this."

It was the little gold locket. Celia had never seen her mother wear the trinket nor had Margaret Rogers ever offered it to her daughter before. The locket hung on a narrow black ribbon and Margaret tied it about the girl's throat.

Celia turned to catch a view in the mirror. She felt her mother's arms flung suddenly about her.

"Darling—we've been happy together—haven't we?" Margaret murmured brokenly.

"Why, of course! Of course we have."

"So many things other girls have that you've missed," the mother went on. "But you'll have them too, Celia!"

The girl drew away, eyeing her mother curiously. It was odd for Margaret Rogers to show such emotion.

"Here—let me help you dress," the girl said. She began to undo fasteners of her mother's gown.

Five minutes later a shrill whistle came from downstairs.

"That's Bgney," Celia said. "I'll run down and tell him I can't come."

She had not attempted the new coiffure. The brown curls framed the girl's face as usual. The bright dress added color to her cheeks and her eyes were shining as she hurried down the stairs.

"Hello, Barney."

The young man's greeting was words. Margaret Rogers sat with her back toward the door. The man nodded his head as if in agreement to what had been said.

Celia was trembling. She could not take her eyes from the man's face. Who was John Mitchell? What had he come for?

She conquered her fear and stepped forward.

"Mother—I hope I'm not late— tried to hurry—"

Margaret turned.

"Oh, Celia! I was wondering what had become of you. We have company."

The girl moved toward John Mitchell. He arose, bowed formally and held out his hand to her.

"How do you do?" he said slowly. "So you are Celia—"

The girl raised her eyes to Mitchell's cold, appraising glance.

"Celia," Margaret Rogers cut in in a voice that was a sob. "Darling—this is your father!"

SUPPLYING THE PRESENT--

Building for the future is a policy that has been forever dominant in our progress. There have been times when it was good individual business to curb progress and cut payrolls but realizing that a community suffers from this action we shouldered the burden and carried on. It has worked out to the advantage of all. From 1921 our plant has been a payroll contributor through every commercial channel. Practically all our employees have always been men with families which not only calls for a better scale of wages but distributes a greater buying power thereby creating a greater outlet for every industry.

A paramount issue with us satisfied customers . . . supplying them with nationally known lines of plumbing fixtures and efficient workmanship.

This has been our policy during the 10 years we have served Eastland and the surrounding community . . . it is this method of doing business that we give credit for our business having grown to its present size.

WE BELIEVE IN EASTLAND

Eastland's future is bright . . . she is making a gradual healthy growth . . . statistics show that she has issued building permits within the last few years many times that of other oilbelt cities. Eastland is sure to hold its place as the HUB OF THE OILBELT.

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE CO.

THE SILENT PARTNER OF PROGRESS

Few people realize the important part the Texas Electric Service Company has had and still has in the growth and development of Eastland, Eastland County, and West Texas. Not so many years ago—we all remember when—after the sun had sunk in the west our lighting system was the smelly, inefficient coal oil lamp, or in the case of some business houses, the artificial gas lights suspended from the ceiling. All that has gone.

The Texas Electric Service Company came here and built its magnificent plant on the banks of the Leon four miles east of Eastland. One of the largest power plants in all Texas it serves a section of the state as large as some empires. Besides the plant proper with its small city of company owned houses the company maintains a general office in the Texas State Bank building and a large and beautiful sales office on East Commerce street, all of these providing a payroll any city would be more than glad to have.

In the salesroom and downtown office are to be found all the electrical appliances that are making life worth while for so many millions of housewives.

From the tiniest light bulb through the range of useful and necessary appliances electric irons, sweepers, washing machines, refrigerators, ranges, even to the electric bed warming pad. The Texas Electric Service Company is the one who has brought these electrical servants to you at prices in reach of all.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

By The Political Analyst
AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20—Ludicrousness of the present method of writing party platforms in Texas is just beginning to make democratic "regulars" feel sheepish about the pomp and dignity with which platform-making has been invested.

That platform, instead of embodying fundamental demands of a people, instead of being the free expression of the whole people and the "mandate" of a party, has proven itself simply a version of some one man's campaign issues, or, similar than that, the whims of a single man at the biennial conventions.

The instance that may help put the present method of platform writing among the obsolete and extinct things of the past, happened at the Galveston convention. It was little more direct than has happened at many others.

A large committee, whose members fought for the honor and the privilege of being on it, drafted a document for adoption as a party platform, declaring the immutable, sovereign will of the majority of Texas democrats. Part of this was written in by one man—Sen. Thomas B. Love of Dallas.

Ross S. Sterling, the nominee for governor, did not like that part, so he convened the platform committee in a second session and had the platform rewritten.

The whole policy of writing a platform after public issues have been fought out and the party leaders nominated has long been found lacking.

This may be remedied in the plan to abolish the double primary system that in various forms will be before the legislature in January.

For one thing, the new system likely will provide for adoption by the people through delegates in early spring conventions of a platform to which the candidates themselves must conform, and upon which the campaign will be made.

In that case the platform would be used as a means of measuring the suitability of candidates, not as a means of giving endorsement to the successful candidate whether or not the things he advocated were favored by the majority.

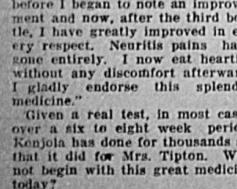

James E. Ferguson in 1925 wrote the platform when his wife was the nominee.

Abolishing the double primaries is intended to avert the situation that arose in the 1924 race, of pitting the two extreme end candidates in the second primary and forcing a choice between them, with at least one of the two largest factions disaffected, defeated and sore at the result.

And the party platform in the past has come along after such a result simply to "rub it in" on the defeated division.

New Medicine Ends Suffering Of Five Years

"I Was About To Give Up Hope Before I Found Konjola," Says This Lady.

MRS. ALLENE TIPTON

"For years I was troubled with neuritis and indigestion," said Mrs. Allene Tipton, 2311 Broadway San Antonio. "I used many medicines but none of them helped me like Konjola. The neuritis pains in my arms and chest were almost unbearable. After eating I was sure to suffer the cramping pains of indigestion. My stomach bloated with gas and my heart often palpitated wildly.

"I was about to give up in despair before I found Konjola. I had not completed the first bottle before I began to note an improvement and now, after the third bottle, I have greatly improved in every respect. Neuritis pains have gone entirely. I now eat heartily without any discomfort afterward. I gladly endorse this splendid medicine."

Given a real test, in most cases over a six to eight week period, Konjola has done for thousands all that it did for Mrs. Tipton. Why not begin with this great medicine today?

Konjola is sold in Eastland, Texas at Toombs and Richardson Drug Store.—Adv.

Parents Of Dead Aviatix Did Not Know Of Romance

By United Press
IRVING, Kas., Sept. 19—The parents of Ruth Alexander know nothing of her secret romance barred by a farewell note revealed by her death. Mrs. W. T. Blany, mother of the young woman flier, told the United Press here today.

Mrs. Blany said they had no knowledge of the purported marriage of their daughter to Robert A. Elliott, naval reserve pilot and former instructor of the girl who addressed a sealed note to him as "my husband, Bob" before she started her fatal flight to San Diego.

The mother said she knew nothing of the whereabouts of Elliott except that he was "somewhere in New York."

Mrs. Blany was hesitant in discussing the romance of her daughter and said "we have nothing to say at this time."

Two Killed In Filling Station Robbery Attempt

By United Press
SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 20—Bullets from the guns of a bandit and officer claimed two lives in a midnight attempt to hold up a filling station here.

The young robber, identified as Cecil Barnes, local automobile salesman, was shot dead by a policeman soon after he had mortally wounded J. G. Schyle, a customer at the station.

Barnes, with an unidentified companion, appeared at the establishment operated by Stewart W. Jack, son of the late federal judge George W. Jack, and held several persons at bay with a revolver.

Schyle entered to buy a battery. The bandit turned on him, they scuffled, and Schyle staggered to the door with a bullet in his body. He died at the Charity Hospital shortly thereafter.

Patrolman L. C. Smith was summoned by a negro assistant. As he entered and demanded Barnes to throw up his hands, the robber attempted to use his gun. Smith shot him dead.

The bandit's companion fled in an automobile and had not been apprehended early today.

Barnes has a wife and two children living at Camp Hill, La. Schyle was unmarried.

ENTERPRISE SHOWS STERN TO SHAMROCK

AGE FOUR Calls Death Unnecessary And Sleep Unnatural For Human Beings

By STEWART BROWN United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Sept. 20.—Convinced that death is unnatural, sleep is unnecessary, and that everybody can live to be as old as Methuselah, Park Hammar, 67, retired paint manufacturer and biologist of St. Louis, sailed for America today to begin his unusual back-to-nature experiments. Hammar hopes to find a married couple in the United States who will go through with an experiment designed to prove that the human race should walk on four limbs instead of two. If his quest in America is unsuccessful he will return to France within six weeks, he said. The couple who embark on Hammar's plan will sleep outstretched on logs for short periods several times a day, ultimately substituting rest periods for sleep. They will eat raw vegetables and fruit and spend the rest of their time swimming in order to regain the recumbent position which Hammar believes natural to man. They will wear no clothing. Hammar first tried to get an "ideal" Russian couple to carry out his experiments. He had hundreds of applicants, for he offered a good salary and expenses to the United States. The applicants also understood that they would share in Hammar's fortune after his death, if they made any headway in advancing his theory of immortality. "The rough purpose of my plan," Hammar said before proceeding to Cherbourg, "is to achieve a perfect balance of action and inaction, recomposition and decomposition in the human body. Once that is achieved, there is no reason why the human body should not live forever, or at least prolong its life. "Our way of living is gradual suicide. Our systems are clogged with poisons. In the biological experiment which I hope to carry out the first rule forbids the wearing of clothing, clothing acts as an insulator for the poisons of the body. We will eat only fruits and vegetables, sleep or rest on logs, and exercise in a swimming pool. "Swimming is the only natural and perfect exercise, the raw vegetables and fruits the true food for human beings. The method which I hope to test should not only develop our bodies, increase our health and contentment, but extend our span of life," Hammar said.

Biography Of Al Capone Is Now Off Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Among the new fall books which came from the publishers today was "The Biography of Al Capone, a Self-Made Man." Capone's career is unfolded in elaborate detail from the time, when, as an obscure hoodlum in the Five Points gang of New York, he journeyed westward to seek his fortune. In the end he is seen basking in the sunshine of his magnificent Florida estate, having lived to the age of 32—far past the life expectancy of the average gang leader. The biographer, Fred D. Pasley, a Chicago newspaper man, reveals among other things that Al is devoted to both Ritzlette and Il Trovatore, although Alida is his favorite; that he prides himself on his ability as a spaghetti chef; that government agents estimate his wealth at $20,000,000; that although his weight is excessive, he is agile as a panther when in action, and that when a fellow gangster dies, he lets his beard grow until after the funeral as a token of grief. On one occasion, when Al discovered a plot to put arsenic in his soup, he is quoted as saying: "If I had known what I was sending myself into in Chicago, I never would have left the Five Points outfit."

Steam Schooner Still Missing With All Aboard

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 19.—The strange disappearance of the steam schooner South Coast from the waters off Cape Blanco remained a mystery today. Rescue crews continued to cruise slowly over the ocean 30 miles south of here in search of some clue to the fate of the vessel and the 19 men who were aboard. Seamen at Bandon advanced the theory that the steamer foundered Wednesday on the reefs near the mouth of the Rogue river when it lost its bearings in a heavy fog. Reports along the coast from Cape Sebastian, south of Gold Beach to Crescent City, Calif., said that wreckage of the South Coast was being washed ashore. One lone hope remained to grieving friends and relatives of those aboard—two of the lifeboats had not yet been located and either one would be large enough to accommodate the entire crew.

Funeral Is Halted While Doctor Tries To Revive Corpse

CRANE, Mo., Sept. 19.—Two beads of perspiration halted a funeral for several hours yesterday. They were on the corpse. Mourners had reached the cemetery with the body of Mrs. Archie Dunnegan. The casket was opened in order that the mourners might have a last look at the deceased. Someone noticed a few drops of perspiration on Mrs. Dunnegan's forehead. While relatives fanned furiously, someone went for the doctor. When he arrived and found the body had not been embalmed he applied restorative measures for several hours. All efforts failing, he pronounced Mrs. Dunnegan dead a second time and the funeral ceremonies continued.

Mavericks Are Easy Winners Over Strawn Eleven

Second Team Is Eased Most of The Time On Friday

Shows Wonderful Improvement Since Game With Cross Plains One Week Ago.

Eastland Mavericks, who had a marked improvement over the team that played against Cross Plains a week before, had an easy scoring a 56 to 0 victory over Strawn High School team Saturday afternoon.

In the first quarter of play the Strawns walked through to four touchdowns without stopping, never falling to 40 yards were so close that they soon lost their nerve for the large crowd of fans gathered to witness the pre-season game to be played at the local aridron.

Maverick line showed wonderful improvement over the week and showed evidence of the training that Coach Gibson is giving his forward wall. Strawn was very much in evidence throughout the game and backfield clicked so perfectly the Mavericks were able to almost outwit.

Practically every one of the 41 members of the squad were thrown into the game and the regulars played for several minutes during the game. For the showers before the quarter had gotten well second string men were a more evenly matched with Strawn eleven, but the rookies had plenty of pep and had an abundance of handling the Strawn line. The rookies showed a so much concern and were several times for being out, but they showed up so in the game that Gibson pulled them to give the other chance for some experience in regular games.

The regulars stayed in the line and have amassed a record that would have topped the Strawn without much effort but each decided to let the second string teams have an opportunity to play.

The whole team worked so hard that it would be more than likely to pick out the stars of the game, though Clarke and in the backfield showed up against, going for long runs after time.

Regular line showed up well, the holes in the Strawn line could form an almost impenetrable wall when Strawn attempted to plunge through.

Well did the Mavericks look on Friday that many of the spectators had a good chance of seeing a good game of football under the floodlights Friday.

Liquor Racketeers Kill Dry Agent

BY UNITED PRESS
ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 20.—A determined war between federal prohibition authorities and New Jersey liquor racketeers appeared in progress today with one prohibition agent dead, killed by gunmen who interrupted a raid at the Rising Sun brewery.

It was the second time within the week that federal agents had been surprised and disarmed while raiding a brewery.

John G. Finiello, 44, of Philadelphia, was the agent killed. He was one of six raiders in the plant when 12 gunmen entered, apparently "tipped off" to the raid.

The gunmen, who entered from the offices, surrounded the leader of the raiding party, Robert Young of Pittsburgh. They disarmed him and using him as a shield, approached the boiler room where the other agents had rounded up about 20 brewery employees.

Powerless to use their own weapons without shooting Young, the agents submitted to be disarmed. "You fellows beat it," the gunmen told the prisoners, who immediately took advantage of the opportunity and fled.

Finiello, who had been in another room, heard the commotion and entered. One of the gunmen recognized him.

A fusillade of shots rang out and Finiello slumped to the floor with eight bullets in his body. Then the gunmen made good their escape.

A search of the brewery offices after the raid disclosed the existence of a complete list containing the names and description of all prohibition agents operating in the territory, together with a description of the automobiles they drove.

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Hints of possible disciplinary action against the Chicago board of trade were combined today with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde's charge that the Soviet Russian government was depressing the American wheat market by selling short in the Chicago pit.

Hyde last night telegraphed John A. Bunnell, president of the board of trade, that investigation has shown a subsidiary of the Soviet Amtorg Trading Company in the United States to be selling future delivery wheat contracts short in Chicago. The telegram asked what protection the exchange could give the American farmer against such activities. The subsidiary was identified as the all-Russian textile syndicate.

The secretary told newspapermen the board of trade has cooperated in other matters and he hoped the board would act "peacefully and voluntarily" to guarantee a fair price for the American crop.

"It is perfectly obvious," Hyde said, "these sales are made without any intention of delivering the wheat because our 42 cents a bushel tariff would prevent it."

He said the all Russian textile 5,000,000 bushels short in the pit syndicate had admitted it had sold as Hyde made his telegram public, which slumped to new lows in Chicago, closing one and 3-8 to one and 5-8 cents a bushel off. Other grains also sagged.

September wheat is around 81 cents now just as large quantities of the 1930 crop is reaching the market. Wheat has declined about six cents a bushel in the past month.

Explaining the scope of department power over futures trading, Hyde said the grain futures act required satisfactory precautions against price manipulation before a license would be issued. He said however, the department's legal advisers believed there was no authority for rescinding a license if these precautions were not subsequently maintained. Hyde did not agree with this legal opinion but said it had not been submitted to Attorney General Mitchell for on Wednesday, October 1, when a luncheon at 1:00 o'clock will be given on the Connelley Hotel roof garden.

Sets 'Chute Record of 314 Jumps

Mrs. C. U. Connelley, general chairman for the luncheon, and her committee extend the league's invitation to its friends and members to attend. Reservations for the luncheon should be made with Mrs. Connelley over the phone.

An unusual program will be arranged with Mrs. Scott Key as speaker, who will have many incidents of her trip to the Orient. Mrs. Key is a facile and unusual speaker and is just back from scenes of interesting Oriental customs and life that, to the average American, seem to have a story-telling effect.

The president of the league, Mrs. M. E. Stallier, promises a full and helpful civic program of activity for the year and one in which she hopes the league members and their friends will take their usual part and achieve their fine results that have been their custom in the past.

Mrs. Stallier asks that all those interested in the league and the league's work, keep the luncheon date in mind and come prepared to give their bit in the way of suggestions for league activities at this time.

"Identification luncheon," the formal term for the opening of the Civic League year, will be developed along original and very interesting lines. The general chairman, Mrs. Connelley, stresses the fact that this will be the League premiere, as it were, of their club season, and expresses the hope that every woman interested would show her appreciation of the League's efforts along divergent civic activities and the many avenues in which the League's usefulness in Eastland civic affairs has always been expressed through cooperation, by attending the luncheon.

The Civic League is entering upon its thirteenth year, on Wednesday, October first. Every one of these years has brought some big benefit to Eastland. Has thrilled the little city with its annual Flower show. Has established a Better Babies Bureau, a free clinic for school children once a year. A "Summer Round-up" and also given substantial money prizes to children for several years in flower-garden contests. Has given trees and flowers to the public schools and last, but not least, has loyally supported every civic project launched in Eastland in which the league has been given an opportunity to take part.

The Civic League is the one organization in the woman's world that requires no fine education, no fine clothes, no fine talents, in the woman club member. The Civic League is the great expression of helpfulness. Every woman member can do something for her town, her home, her family, her children, in Civic League association.

"Cotton" Roads Being Tested By Commission

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 20.—Use of cotton fabric and cord in building automobile tires has led the Texas highway department to experiment in the use of cotton cloth as a material in the construction of roads.

Heavy canvas was used as a binder for tar surfacing on a stretch of the Gonzales-San Antonio highway, and the experiment is being studied closely by engineers to determine the value of the cloth in holding the road together.

If extensively adopted, it would provide a demand for a huge quantity of canvas that could be made from low-grade cotton.

Data on the road-building experiment has been collected by the national Cotton Textile Institute, New York, according to notice received by the highway commission. The cotton base highway has not yet been in use long enough to show whether the cloth will ma-

Mrs. Noah Beery Returns

Police at Los Angeles were asked to help search for Mrs. Marguerite Beery, wife of the famous movie star, Noah Beery, who was missing for more than a week. terially lengthen its life, Gibb Gilchrist, highway engineer, said.

Canvas was used on a tar and gravel surface dirt road. A light coat of tar was applied to the clean swept dirt roadway; then the canvas was laid directly upon the soft tar, with sand and fine crushed stone then spread on the canvas.

Highway engineers wanted to find out whether the cloth binder would hold the material in place, and prevent the crumpling off of edges of the roadway. Mr. Gilchrist said. The stretch in which the first time cotton material was used will be examined periodically and compared with other highway similar to it except for the absence of the canvas binder.

Joe E. Smith, et al vs. Cadmus Brown, Fisher.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 18.—It is easier to get a divorce in Oklahoma City and Tulsa than in Reno, Nev., the national divorce mecca, Judge Sam Hooker said today.
Groundless suits, heaped upon means of investigation, are cause of Oklahoma's high divorce rates granted to number marriages performed.

"The ratio of divorce to marriages in Oklahoma is one to six compared to one to six in Tulsa. In Oklahoma City the ratio is one to two. In Tulsa there almost as many divorces as marriages," Judge Hooker said.
