Immortal March Of Men Of Marseilles Depicted In Film

The immortal march of the Men of Marseilles is one of the most dramatic bits of history, and now the Universal all-sound musical romance "Captain of the Guard," which is now being screened at the Lyric Theatre, this heroic march is shown in all of its gripping immensity.

It was this handful of non-descript heroes which turned the tide of battle in the Revolution from defeat to victory for the revolutionists, and the manner in which they fought and won is depicted with startling realism in the picture. Only 500 soldiers, they marched from their home, Marseilles, in the South of France, clear to Paris, arriving just in the nick of time to hurl themselves into the fray.

Written by Houston Branch and directed by John Robertson, "Captain of the Guard" is a dramatic cross-cut at the beginning of the French Revolution. Sam de Grasse, James Marcus, Lionel Belmont, Stuart Holmes, Evelyn Hall, Claude Fleming, George Hackathorn are in the notable cast.

Sterling Talks In West Texas

Stops on the route will be made at Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Fort Worth.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Aug. 12.—Ross Sterling of Houston carried his campaign for the democratic nomination for governor deeper into the territory that supported Clint Small in the July primary today when he moved on Memphis where he is scheduled to speak tonight.

His reception here last night was cordial despite hecklers who attempted to turn the meeting to a Ferguson rally during the early moments of the program.

At the outset of the meeting, before Sterling had commenced speaking several Ferguson partisans attempted a demonstration which was subdued by the lashing tongue of Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman. When Sterling took the platform he had possession of the meeting without further interruptions from hecklers who hampered early speakers.

A Ferguson supporter hurled a handful of money upon the platform when Sen. Woodward during his introductory speech, sought to quiet the man and shouted "some of your relatives probably were pardoned by Ma."

"Stand him on his head and you couldn't shake a dollar out of his pockets," declared Woodward. The Ferguson partisan retorted with "I'll call you" and hurled a handful of nickels, dimes and quarters upon the platform.

demonstration was over quickly and Senator Woodward proceeded with his denunciation of the Ferguson record.

When Sterling rose to speak he was greeted with a prolonged wave of cheering. He hammered at Ferguson's record while governor and said, "Jim says they burned the school house to get me out of the second grade."

"Well, they didn't, but I want to say it would be better to burn the capital than to send Jim Ferguson back there."

"Prox government," Sterling continued, "means that Ferguson could tell his wife where to sign on the dotted line and he would be beyond the law. You couldn't put the governor on the stand to testify against him even, because she is his wife."

He dwelt briefly on the state-wide bond issue for the construction of highways and other issues of the campaign but in the main concentrated his attack against "Fergusonism."

Ferguson Speaks At Dallas Meet

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 12.—For the second time during the current political furore, farmer Jim Ferguson preached the gospel of two governments for the price of one to a Dallas congregation last night.

Liberally mingling with the metropolitan politician fans were the commoners from miles about to whom the twice-governor has catered in his nearly two decades of Texas activity.

The midway at Fair Park, state exposition grounds, was thronged with a crowd as it has not been known since the annual fair last fall. An introductory speaker said the audience must be measured in acres instead of uncounted thousands.

The impeached governor showed the strain of promoting his wife's candidacy which was denied him by the Supreme Court, and his husky wife failed to stir the crowd to the anticipated pitch.

"Fergusonism," he said, "is a curse that has made Texas a disgrace to the world. It has ruined our country and our people."

"The real Jim Ferguson I have known since childhood," he said, "has no more interest in the common people than a hog has in a rockpile or a bee course."

"His whole life," the letter continued, "has been centered in 'me and my wife, Ma,' and those who can be induced to kick in."

He took time to lament his inherent generosity which caused him to aid in a big way "God's three most ungrateful creatures on the earth," he claimed.

His own efforts to keep the present campaign clean had gone for naught, he said, since the opposition had insisted in dragging slime and slander into the race, and he could not retaliate in kind.

St. Louis Fliers Nearing Record

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 12.—The little red and yellow monoplane which Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine are piloting today, was nearer a new world's endurance flight record, edged toward the Hunter brothers mark of 553 hours in the air today.

The present record will be equalled if the fliers are still in the air at 8:55 a. m., tomorrow, and a new record hup up in the plane remains aloft one hour longer, 9:55.

At 2:11 A. M. C. S. T. the sturdy six cylinder Curtiss-Challenger motor had been roaring away 523 hours, and neither man nor motor showed signs of faltering.

Before night closed in Jackson met over their radiating engine seat that the engine sounded fit as a fiddle but "it gets warm now and then and we have to take it up higher and cool it off."

He took time to lament his inherent generosity which caused him to aid in a big way "God's three most ungrateful creatures on the earth," he claimed.

Not in the Fielding

WOULD the secret be hidden in the fielding averages? No, not there, for the Phils as a team are not bad fielders.

It is a team of sluggers. Led by Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul, to both of whom the average of .400 is just a whole lot of fun, the club leads the league in the department of pitcher, punishment.

Can the pitchers be so terrific that a team which leads all others in batting and fielding respectively is doomed to spend the season in the cellar?

They pile up lots of runs in one game, but the other team makes lots of runs, too, and they lose. The next day they make three runs and the enemy makes four or five.

Burt Bears Up IN the face of perverse fortune, Burt Shotton is bearing up nobly like the true gentleman that he is.

From the figures, it begins to appear that only the pitchers can be blamed. Yet they simply cannot be that rotten. In two recent games the team made 30 great hits and lost both games.

The team has been playing heads up ball. And meeting with the toughest kind of breaks a ball team ever fell heir to. In one

Thousands of automobiles visited the field during the day.

Fireworks arrived for a celebration planned tomorrow night if the smoke up in the vicinity of the field, and police guards were necessary to keep crowds in hand.

As the record was approached, the private venture began to be bettered financially. Last week O'Brine tried to sell his car to secure additional funds for fuel and salaries of the ground crew.

A gasoline company supplying fuel for the plane offered $100 today for each hour aloft over the present record, up to 70 hours.

Made at 7:30 a. m., Capt. William Brewster and P. V. Chaffee safely and five of heavy oil into the endurance plane. Breakfast, cooked by the pilots, was eaten also.

The 118th refueling contact was made at 7:30 a. m., Capt. William Brewster and P. V. Chaffee safely and five of heavy oil into the endurance plane.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Dan Romer, Hollywood scenario writer and former New York newspaper man, meets Anne Winter, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to seek extra work. He takes a deep interest in her. Dan is not very satisfied with what he is doing. Anne is just a beginner.

Anne gets extra work at Grand United studios. She goes to live with two other extras, Mona Morrison and Eva Harley. The latter is a bitter individual, possibly because of her failure to get much work, and from her Dan learns a lot about the problems of the vast army of extras.

Garry Sloan, famous director, has noticed Anne Winter. He gives her a "bit" in a picture. Dan, not liking Sloan, although he has not actually met him, is a bit apprehensive that Anne may find him too interesting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XII
 The casting director at Grand United had telephoned Anne Winter that he wanted to see her. The call had come during a day when Anne was doing extra work in a picture at First National, and it was Eva Harley who gave her the message that evening.

Anne said, "Really, Eva?" in such a tone of unbelief that the older girl laughed and put an arm around her. "You know I wouldn't fool you, darling," she said. "You'd better ease down and rest, Anne," Eva added, seeing the other's face suddenly turn pale and sensing that she might be attaching unwarranted significance to a telephone call that might prove to be little more than routine. Eva could have told her not to let her nerves run too high.

Anne said, "I wonder what he wants?" and stretched out a little wearily on a sofa. "Do you know, Eva? Where's Mona?" "Maybe he has a bit for you," Eva answered. "Maybe it's something better, even; but I wouldn't count on it. Mona's working some place in Poverty Row," she added, referring to a group of small independent studios. "Someone over there is making a quickie; they'll probably work her half the night."

Anne hesitated. "You mean stage dancing?" "Tap-dancing." He nodded. "Tap-dancing."

Anne said, "Why, I've never really gone in for it, Mr. Bell. I suppose I can do a few steps; I studied for a while when I was a little girl."

and helped her up some steps, "that you've got the equipment that may carry you a long way. I hope I'm right." "I certainly hope you are," Anne said, looking up at him, and Bell, still holding her arm, followed her through a narrow door into the barn-like interior of the studio.

"There's a piano over here," he said, pointing the way. "Mr. Hurley will join you presently. I forgot to tell you that he plays the piano, so we won't need anyone else. Let's sit down for a minute; then you can duck into one of those dressing rooms and slip into your costume. It's pretty brief," he added smilingly, "but I have an idea it will be quite becoming."

She told the casting director: "You ask difficult questions, Mr. Bell. I sing a little for my own amusement, because I like it. I'm not at all sure that you would."

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 WASHINGTON—There may not be anything to the story, but reports are brought to your correspondent that emissaries from the White House have been to the British Embassy, unofficially sounding out the British ambassador on a proposal to establish a very exclusive Consolation Club.

Misery loves company and the Hoover, who—as Calvin Coolidge points out—is getting blamed for nearly everything unpleasant, would like to hold hands every Thursday night with another chronic victim of popular resentment, and that it has been very difficult for him to find someone to share his monopoly on hair shirts.

Sir Ronald Is Happy
 Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, is the most obvious available candidate for membership in the club. Of course if it were a couple of other fellows and they were still the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from "George V of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the Dominions Beyond the Sea, King, Emperor of India; Defender of the Faith," it would be just the same. It's the ambassadorship which is the most important and most conspicuous ambassadorship in Washington, which lets Sir Ronald in for that hair shirt.

There are many American citizens who do not think it is a good thing for a man to have a Scotch and soda, a gin and tonic or even a bottle of cold ale on such hot afternoons as prevail in Washington during the summer time, and it is the custom of quite a few of them to make their opinions known

11 BILLIONS INVESTED IN OIL IN U. S.

The words "oil industry" are used so glibly by practically everybody today that very few stop to think that "the industry" employs directly and indirectly some two million people, produces a billion barrels of crude oil a year, makes and sells refined products worth close to three billion dollars a year, and has total assets of over eleven billion dollars.

Director Hurley was waiting with Bell when she emerged from the dressing room. He got up from his chair at sight of her, cool appraisal in his eyes as they rested on her slender, curving figure. But his manner told her that he did not expect her to be conscious of bare legs and arms. He said, "How do you do, Miss Winter?" and he shook hands. And he turned to Bell and said, just as though Anne were a mile away instead of right there beside him: "She's a pretty girl, Harvey."

to above together with 30,000,000 barrels that would have been drawn from storage. Every barrel of foreign crude oil run to stills in the United States replaces crude oil produced in the United States and, to that extent, injures our own domestic oil industry.

Probably less than 50 of the big oil companies market half of the refined products sold at filling stations. The other 50 per cent is sold by tens of thousands of "marketers," most of whom own only one filling station, and very few of whom own a good-sized chain of stations.

Summed up in a few words, the crude oil of the United States is produced by about 16,000 companies, partnerships, and individuals, and it is refined in about 360 really active refineries owned by about 200 refining companies—and the finished products are sold at something like 300,000 retail outlets.

Major League

By UNITED PRESS

The National and American Leagues offered striking contrasts today as leaders in both loops began new series. The National, with Chicago, Brooklyn and New York all battling for the lead, was closer than the second, The American, with Philadelphia in front, had only the second place fight between New York and Washington to give it interest.

The National race was tightened yesterday when Brooklyn was beaten 7 to 6 by the St. Louis Cards and forced to yield first place to the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis, trailing by seven runs in the ninth, took advantage of two errors by Bissonette, Brooklyn first baseman, to score three runs.

Chicago moved into first place by defeating the Boston Braves 4 to 2. Bud Teachout allowed but six hits and was given strong support at the plate. Rigger Stephenson, in four times up, got two doubles, a single and a walk.

The New York Giants were handed their first defeat in the current invasion of the west by Pittsburgh who took the last game of the series 8 to 5.

The Phillies were beaten by Cincinnati 4 to 2. Kolp pitched for Cincinnati and did not give up a hit until the sixth inning.

In the American League, Washington shaved a game off Philadelphia's ample lead and increased its margin over the third-place New York Yankees by turning back Cleveland 9 to 2.

Urban "Red" Faber limited Philadelphia to seven hits as the lively Chicago White Sox bumped the leaders 8 to 6.

The St. Louis Browns hit five home runs to catch the New York Yankees 10 to 5.

Danny MacFayden pitched a three-hitter game as the Boston Red Sox humbled Detroit 5 to 1.

Brooklyn's confidence was weakened by four consecutive defeats by the St. Louis Cardinals and the fact that they have won only 4 games in 16 starts against the Cubs. Previous to running about the Cards Brooklyn had experienced little trouble with clubs other than the Cubs, and at the start of the St. Louis engagement enjoyed a 3 1-2 game lead.

Four defeats at St. Louis while the Cubs were winning three from Boston, left the Robins tied with the Cubs in games won and lost, but with the Chicagoans holding a .001 point percentage advantage.

Standings as the teams started play today were:

W. L. Pet.
Chicago	65 44 .596
Brooklyn	66 45 .595

Yesterday's defeat at St. Louis indicated the Robins are becoming panic stricken. Poor base running and erratic fielding—features of the play of Brooklyn teams in past years which have been missing from the 1930 drive—gave the Cards the game. Meanwhile the Cubs have been playing their best ball of the season. Hack Wilson, inspiration of the Cubs attack, is clubbing the ball at a record clip and threatens to establish its true gait and four successive low hit pitching performances by Bob Osborn, Pat Malone, Charley Root and Bud Teachout have eliminated manager McCarthy's worries over his mound staff.

McCarthy planned to open the series with Guy Bush and Fred Blake and counted upon Bob Osborn and Root or Malone for the remaining games.

"Gusher" In The Egg Field

The shadows of the great oil derricks fell across the mesquite and the sage brush. Silhouetted against the dreamy clouds, they spoke of adventure for one at work close by. Pumping black gold from the bowels of the earth, they creaked on their job to do.

Here we found him... here where the spirit of the country spoke oil! He had caught the bigness of the derricks... it's black arm ever lifting skyward... its arm ever pumping oil from the hidden recesses of the earth... its shadows falling over lands that once were fallow... unproductive... Bell-Hurst Ranch, and W. K. Hyer, its general manager... in a maze of oil wells that flank Eastland, famous oil town of West Texas.

"It's chickens now," he was saying when we first found him. "Used to spend all my time with oil rigs, but now I've gone in for chickens. But I couldn't get away from the oil country."

"It's quality we're always working toward here at 'Bell-Hurst'," he was saying as he pointed out a 264-egg hen in one of the pens. "We trapnest, and for breeding purposes we don't keep anything under 200-egg hens. We're after egg production and to get that we must keep track of every egg... trapnesting... culling."

Out to Make Egg Records

"We were speaking of egg-making a while ago," he went on, "I had it today from our hens entered in the John Farleton College National Egg Laying Contest over at Stephenville, Texas. We have the first, second and fourth high hens in the contest at the present time. And we have here on the place, now, the high hen in that contest for 168-day average. She laid 152 eggs."

Hawaii Bug Man On Hunt

Seeks Oriental Parasites That Prey on Sugar Cane Pests.

By UNITED PRESS

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 12.—E. C. Pemberton, chief parasite hunter of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, is again bound on an expedition to the Orient to obtain parasites to prey on sugar pests.

He hopes to find natural enemies for the mealy-bug, grasshoppers and the borer.

On his last venture into the tropics Pemberton collected a species of cambal mosquito in New Guinea, which is being established here.

There are a number of localities in Malaya where mosquitoes, while present, are not considered pests, which has given entomologists the idea that there must be natural enemies which keep the mosquito in check.

The sugar cane grown in that part of the world is also reported to be fairly free from the borer attack, which leads to the hope that there may be new borer parasites in Malaya which might be transplanted in Hawaii.

Pemberton also will keep an eye out for termite parasites. He will rove over much of Malaya before returning to Hawaii.

Mother of Third Royal Heir

She'll be the mother of a new royal British prince or princess. And if the child expected by the Duchess of York, who is shown here in her most recent posed portrait, is a boy, he will be third in line for the throne after the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York. The Duchess already is the mother of the present third heir, the popular little Princess Elizabeth. She, however, would be displaced in the royal succession by the birth of a baby brother.

New Governor To Give Jobs

Sterling or Ferguson to Face Many Vacancies.

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—The next governor of Texas will have many appointive offices to fill. If Ross Sterling is elected he will have one more than would Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, for he will vacate a place on the state highway commission.

He will have the appointment both of his own successor and the successor of Cong. Johnson of Tyler, whose term expires in 1931.

D. K. Martin of San Antonio is generally expected to be offered one of the places of Sterling, if elected. Martin is a former state highway commissioner and was active on the Citizens' Committee of 31 which advocated a statewide road bond issue before the legislature.

If Mrs. Ferguson is elected and Sterling does not resign, he will remain chairman of the state highway commission until 1933.

Other appointments falling to the governor include the secretary of state. Both Mrs. Ferguson and Dan Moody appointed women to this office. Mrs. Emma Grigsby Meberg was named by Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Jane Y. McCullum by Moody.

The adjutant general, state labor commissioner, state tax commissioner, state reclamation engineer, state banking commissioner, state auditor and state service officer to look after claims of ex-service men all are governor's appointments.

All members of the state board of education fall to the governor's appointment. There will be one vacancy in the state insurance commission, the place now held by J. W. DeWeese. The term of R. B. Walthall already has expired on the state board of control, so Gov. Dan Moody is expected to fill that before the next governor takes office.

John F. Wallace of Teague, who had been mentioned for the place, apparently has disqualified himself by again seeking his post in the state legislature. Holding it would prevent his being appointed member of the board of contract until the term for which he was elected to the legislature expires.

On the board of regents of the University of Texas the terms of Marcellus Foster of Houston, Sam Neathery of Houston and H. J. Luther Stark of Orange expire. On the A. and M. board the terms of Raleigh White of Brady, W. A. Wurzbach of San Antonio and H. G. Schumacher of Houston expire in 1931.

Houston Harte of San Angelo and Thomas Johnson of Montgomery have terms on the board of Texas Technological college which expire in 1931.

Tom Ball of Houston, Henry Paulus of Yoakum and John E. Hill of Amarillo have expiring terms on the board of regents for the state teacher colleges, and the terms of C. U. Connelley of Eastland and R. H. Hoffman of Denton expire on the board of the College of Industrial Arts, or Texas Woman's College, as it has been renamed.

All the board for the North Texas Junior Agricultural college at Arlington have terms ending in 1931.

MOVE TO END SUPERSTITION

Connecticut Official Says One Accident Should Not Lead to Two More.

By UNITED PRESS

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 12.—The Connecticut Motor Vehicles Department has taken steps to kill the ancient superstition that any accident is the first of a series of three.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stockell believes this belief produces an adverse psychological effect upon the motorist, making him more liable to misadventure.

Statistics gathered by his department show, according to Stockell, that few operators are involved in a series of three accidents.

"The driver," said the Commissioner, "should become increasingly careful in operating and profit by the teachings and experience in the first misadventure. The argument for a second and third acci-
