RANGER OIL MAN INSTANTLY KILLED WOMAN SHOTS DESPERATE PRISONER TO DEATH

Delivery Frustrated By Jailer's Wife

John Duncan Shoots Mexican Prisoner Through Heart After He Slugged Her Husband.

PECOS, Tex., July 15.—Heroic action on the part of Mrs. John Duncan, wife of the eyes county jailer, frustrated an attempted wholesale jail delivery of Reeves county prisoners during the night which culminated in the killing of Willie Hernandez and the escape of E. Aguilera who had received the death penalty for murder.

Mrs. Duncan shot Hernandez through the heart as he leaped over the stairs and in company with her husband fought several desperate criminals who had helped arrive.

Mrs. Duncan had gone into the jail for some property when she was snatched by Hernandez who pulled the lever of the door and six prisoners made a rush for him. Yelling to his wife on the floor he tried to fight back but was overpowered and beaten badly.

Mrs. Duncan had her revolver pointed on the stairs as the group of prisoners rushed down. Hernandez as he leaped over and held the other prisoners back. Aguilera, taking advantage of the excitement, slipped through a door and outside.

Hernandez, known as "Willie the Bull," was given the death penalty a year ago, for the murder of Paddock, whose body was found in the ruins of his burned gas station north of Pecos. This act was reversed and on second life sentence was inflicted on him.

Hernandez was finally pardoned. He was again received death penalty for the killing of "Dak," a deputy sheriff, in a county last spring. It was reported he headed for the Mexican border after his escape.

Boy Confesses To Stabbing His Nurse To Death

BUTLER, N. J., July 15.—Harry Woolsey, Jr., 14 year old son of a wealthy Jersey City paint manufacturer, confessed today, police said, to killing his nurse, Miss Anna Miller, 23, while they were on a hike Sunday afternoon.

The boy, described as mentally abnormal, stabbed the young woman seven times with a hunting knife, it was said, after a quarrel over "different little things." Nothing was known of the killing until Miss Miller's body was discovered yesterday afternoon, lodged between two large rocks in a desolate, inaccessible spot near Green Pond.

Woolsey, who had been wandering over the countryside since the killing, spent the last few coins he carried in his pocket at a lunch wagon in Dover and walked into the police station there last night asking for a place to sleep. He was curled up quietly sleeping in a vacant cell when the police received a telephone call asking them to keep a sharp lookout for him.

Although he had given an assumed name, the boy confessed he was the killer of Miss Miller when they confronted him, police said.

BANDITS GET $50,000 FROM WILMER BANK

One Bandit and Three Women Shot in Battle Between Raiders and Citizens.

WILMAR, Minn., July 15.—Shooting their way out of town after a sensational $50,000 hold up of the Bank of Wilmar, six in all, the bandits fled in the direction of the Twin Cities shortly before noon today.

At least two women were wounded by stray bullets fired from sub-machine guns carried by the raiders and one woman was thought to have been hit by police bullets, when officers shot it out with the raiders.

The wounded: Mrs. Emil Johnson, shot in back and arm, condition critical; Mrs. Thomas D. Gibson, her daughter, wounded in body.

Stopping in front of the bank, four or five of the men, black masks over their faces and automatics and sub-machine guns in their hands entered the bank.

More than a dozen employees were at work and a dozen customers were in the building. Barking out commands to "stick 'em up," the raiders lined the people up on the floor.

They entered the open vault and rifled it of currency and negotiable bonds valued at more than $50,000.

Commanding the clerks and customers to remain quiet, the gunmen fled from the building.

As the bandit car roared up to the bank, a crowd of people quickly gathered and held a crowd at bay with a sub-machine gun. A sixth sat at the wheel of the bandit car.

By the time the robbery was complete, citizens had secured firearms and were ready to halt the flight of the raiders. They opened fire on the gunmen as they rushed out of the building.

One raider was hit and dropped to the ground. A companion picked him up and put him in the car, leaving a trail of blood behind.

War Orphans Aided By Same Man Will Wed

Kansas City Realty Dealers' Wards Meet at Reunion and Fall in Love.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15.—In 1918, Toby Brenner, Kansas City real estate dealer, adopted Adolf Lorber, 10-year-old French war orphan of Lyons, France. Until the youth was 16, Brenner sent him a monthly allowance.

A year after the first adoption, the Kansas City man adopted another orphan, Natalie Lichtenorf, 10-year-old girl of the Austrian city of Chernowitz, later a part of Roumania. Brenner sent this second orphan a monthly allowance until she was 16.

After the two orphans became self-supporting, letters between them and their godfather became less frequent.

Recently Brenner received a letter signed by both of his "foster" children.

They had met at a reunion of former war orphans at Chernowitz, danced together and exchanged addresses.

Each told the other of the deaths of their parents during the war.

"My godfather," the girl added, "is Toby Brenner of Kansas City."

"What," exclaimed the French youth, "He's my godfather too?"

Their father they had never seen induced a continuance of their friendship, and ultimately their engagement.

The letter to Brenner announced their forthcoming marriage.

Lorber is employed as a bookkeeper in a Lyons silk store, Natalie works in a department store in Chernowitz.

Lions Initiate A New Member

H. C. Davis, local manager of the United Dry Goods Company, was initiated as a member of the Eastland Lions club today at the club's regular weekly meeting and luncheon.

Due to the fact that many of the club members were out of the city on vacations the program was short. A. G. Gary entertained the Lions with several harmonica numbers.

President W. S. Poe presided over the meeting. He announced the standing committees for the club.

Lion Condeley spoke of the Boy Scout annual engagement which opens Wednesday at Camp Martin near Mason, and gave the Lions many interesting facts concerning the camp.

Horace Condeley and Frank Crowell were named by President Poe to work on a committee in charge of the program for next week's meeting.

Queen Of Hearts Muchly-Married Daughter of Congressman Discards Three Diamonds and Weds for Fourth Time.

By NEA Service.
Here is Mrs. Jean Bankhead Hoyt-Hoyt Butt Lee, daughter of Congressman Bankhead of Alabama, and the three men who have been her husbands in four marriages—one of them twice.

RENO, Nev., July 15.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce—she of the penchant for used marriage certificates—has a rival for the throne of queen of hearts in the matrimonial game.

By recent acquisition of her fourth husband in two years, Jean Bankhead Hoyt-Hoyt Butt Lee, daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead, of Alabama, has equaled vivacious Peggy's record.

The much-married and often divorced Jean received her first divorce from Mottion Hoyt, son of former Governor Henry M. Hoyt, of Pennsylvania, 10 years ago.

After several years of wedded life they decided to dissolve the partnership and Hoyt took the train for Reno, while his wife went to London to visit her actress sister, Tallulah Bankhead. They were divorced in April, 1928.

But it was only a few months later that they agreed that it was all a misdeal and were married again. Then, of all places, they went to Reno to make a happy home, within walking distance of the divorce court.

Mrs. Hoyt didn't like the far west, however, and her husband did, so it wasn't long until their second marriage went into the discard.

About this time, Mrs. Hoyt met W. Lawson Butt, Nevada University football star, and fell in love with him. They were married, but this romance also ended in the divorce courts after a few months.

And now the former Jean Bankhead is making another bid for marital happiness with Howard Lee, the famous polo star, to whom she was married on July 1—at Reno.

Meteorite In Field Museum

CHICAGO, July 15.—The largest meteorite ever known to have hurtled earthward has been presented to the Field Museum of Natural History here, by its president, Stanley Field.

This 745-pound stone fell to earth on February 17 this year at 4:05 in the morning on a farm at Paragould, Arkansas, and penetrated nine feet of hard clay.

The meteor, from which the stone became detached, attracted attention in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas because of its bright light. Witnesses believe it to be an airplane going down in flames.

It burst with detonations which awakened nearly everyone in Paragould and stampeded livestock. The largest stone previously seen to fall from a meteor weighs 100 pounds less than the one at the Field Museum. This fell at Knyahinya, Hungary, on June 9, 1866, to a depth of 11 feet, and now is exhibited at the Vienna Museum.

Raiding Parson Loses Clothing In Still Raid

Irate Couple Tear Suit From Preacher After Seizure of Plant.

PANA, Ill., July 15.—Prohibition zeal of the Rev. A. A. Van Horn of Fancher, recently cost him the clothing he wore when his garments were torn to shreds by an irate couple, owners of an alleged still, discovered in their home near here by raiders, led by the minister.

Failing to find Frank Pouley and his wife, neighbors, in their home after he had led deputy sheriffs to it, Van Horn started out in search for them and finally met them as they were walking toward their house.

When Van Horn told them what had happened and admitted he had "turned them in," they became angry and attacked him.

Before the deputies could come to his assistance they had torn off practically all his clothing.

The raiders confiscated what they said was a 30-gallon still, together with a quantity of mash. Polay was later sentenced to six months at the Vandalia State Farm by Shelby County Judge W. C. Kelley.

Ferguson Denies Charges Made By Governor Moody

BROWNWOOD, Tex., July 15.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson today denied the accusation of Gov. Dan Moody that he was trying to place a block of his followers in the Texas legislature and in other departments of the state.

"I am not concerned in any election," he said, "at present all my endeavors are being spent for the election of my wife, and I am confident that it will be a great success."

"Poor old Dan Moody is just worrying about the election of Sterling and that crowd," Ferguson opined, "and I am confident that it will be a great success."

In a statement made at Dallas Monday, Moody said that if Ferguson succeeded in naming a group of legislators, the next governor would be placed in an awkward position.

Bandits Get Large Sum In Bank Raid

WOODLAWN, Ala., July 15.—The American National Bank here was robbed of $27,000 here today by two bandits who forced C. L. Porter, teller, to open vaults.

After entering the institution with a bookkeeper, the bandits forced patrons and bank employees flat on the floor while they obtained the money.

Low Prices Of Wheat Causes Hoover Anxiety

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 15.—Sliding wheat prices, carrying increased political importance the future down they go, are being watched with anxiety by President Hoover and senators and congressmen up for reelection.

Inability to "peg" the market or to meet the situation with any immediate action is felt by administration leaders.

The President, according to his closest farm adviser, feels there is nothing he can do except to rely upon the federal farm board policies already established. He does not intend to take a hand in the situation personally at this time, nothing being planned beyond a conference with Chairman Alexander Legge of the board when he returns here next Monday.

Administration officials feel the market drop is the natural consequence of overproduction, particularly in the southwestern wheat growing area. They frown upon the suggestion of Senator Capper, Repn., Kansas, that the board buy 100,000,000 more bushels to augment the 60,000,000 bushels purchased before the recent decline.

Insufficient facilities to store such an enormous quantity of grain, as well as the knowledge that it would have to be destroyed to benefit the market, make such an undertaking inadvisable, they contend.

Capper has made an engagement to see the President about the matter today, but it was indicated he will be referred to Legge.

The farm board chairman is now in the hot seat, preaching curtailment of acreage as the solution of the problem. However, he has met with caustic criticism from some quarters, particularly from Governor Clyde Reed of Kansas.

The political effects of Legge's visit may be seen in the Kansas primaries Aug. 5, when Reed runs for re-nomination and Senator Henry Allen, friend of the President and sponsor for his policies, seeks the Republican senatorial nomination. Allen is opposed by several other candidates.

Capper is running for re-nomination without opposition, but he sides with Reed.

The administration group here is standing four-square behind Legge as it did when he recently was criticized by grain dealers, headed by Julius Barnes, intimate of Mr. Hoover.

Legge has not expressed himself on the Capper plan, but Samuel R. McKelvie, a member of the board, who is understood to share Legge's views, declared last night he would not consider the sweeping purchase of more grain in consonance with the policies of the board. Any stabilization operations must show a reasonable prospect of permanent benefit, McKelvie said.

Father Confides In Daughter His Plan of Suicide

CENTERVILLE, Iowa, July 15.—John Miller, deep in despair because of financial and domestic difficulties, took his 13-year old daughter in his arms and told her she was going to lose her father.

The middle-aged farmer confided in his young daughter his plans for suicide and left her keeping his desires for funeral arrangements.

Anxious lest his plans be frustrated, Miller cautioned his daughter repeatedly to tell no one what she was hearing until the night had passed. With that, the little girl was sent to the home of a neighbor and true to her promise she kept her grim secret until the morning, when she asked the neighbor to return with her to her father's farm.

Miller was dead, a victim of strychnine and lye poison.

"Papa said he didn't want a showy funeral," the little girl said.

Miss Francis Kelley of Waco arrived today for a visit with her cousin, Miss Mary Sue Rumph. Mrs. W. C. and children are visiting in Eastland.

T. J. Alworth's Neck Broken By Wire Line Blow

Were Spooling Line When Accident Occurred. Injured Man Rushed to Hospital But Was Dead When the Hospital Was Reached.

T. J. Alworth, 27, Ranger oil operator, was almost instantly killed early last night when a wire line, which was being spooled, struck him breaking his neck. The accident happened at 8:15 last night at a drilling well 19 miles north of Ranger on the E. G. Moore lease.

Alworth and Harry Atwood, also of Ranger, were working on the well in which they were both interested. They were spooling a wire line when they were both struck by the line. Atwood fortunately was not injured although his shirt was ripped from his back.

Atwood placed Alworth in a car and drove rapidly to Ranger, hoping to reach a hospital and medical aid in time to save the injured man's life, but when he got to Ranger it was found that Alworth had died almost instantly following the blow.

Alworth was a graduate of the Ranger High School and also was a graduate of the University of Oklahoma. He was unmarried.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Alworth of Ranger, and five brothers and two sisters survive him. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed this afternoon.

Goldsborough Has Fractured Skull

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 15.—Frank Goldsborough, 19 year old aviator, suffered a skull fracture when the airplane he was piloting crashed into a tree in dense woods south of Woodford yesterday, examination by physicians at Putnam Memorial Hospital here disclosed today.

Drs. J. B. Lane, John Trotter and J. C. Armstrong reported his condition was critical. No other bones were broken, although the youth's legs had been pinned in the wreckage.

Mrs. Gertrude Goldsborough, mother of the injured pilot, went to the hospital shortly after his arrival.

The young flier was removed later to the operating room of the Bennington hospital. Doctors J. C. Armstrong and John Trotter decided to operate on his skull.

Mrs. Gertrude Goldsborough, his mother, was allowed to see him shortly after his arrival at the hospital. While physicians prepared to operate, she was in the waiting room.

JOB HOLDERS AND JOB SEEKERS
 Bascom N. Timmons, an unusually well informed Washington correspondent, forwarded the nomination of Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of the southern district of Texas as judge of the fifth circuit court. Furthermore he says the nomination is to go to the senate for confirmation within a few days. T. M. Kennerly, republican candidate for United States senator from Texas in 1928, will be nominated to succeed Hutcheson in the Texas district court. Judge Hutcheson is a democrat, he is a former mayor of Houston, he was appointed to the federal bench by Woodrow Wilson, and he was backed for the place by Sen. Tom Connally and many of the leading members of the Texas bar. T. M. Kennerly is a leading lawyer of Houston, he is close to the Creager throne and, in his race for a seat in the senate in 1928 he received 129,930 votes.

Let us forget, M. H. Thomas of Dallas, Hoover republican elector, received 367,036 while Floyd Fletcher, Smith democrat, received 341,032. In other words, the republicans and Hoover democrats had a majority of 26,000 over the Smith electors in that remarkable contest. Sen. Thomas B. Love in all his campaign speeches tells of the 300,000 Texas democrats who voted for the Hoover and Curtis electors. Well, the record shows that 237,126 democrats cast their ballots for Hoover and Curtis. This includes the remnants of the ku klux klan who would not vote for a Catholic for president; a vast number of business men who would not vote for the national standard bearers of the democratic party for the reason that they believed republican Harding-Coolidge prosperity would be continuous with Hoover in the White House. Indeed, it included many voters who believed that the republicans are more capable of conducting the national government and national affairs than the followers of Jefferson.

In this very colorless campaign Sen. Love is making a gallant fight to round up the 237,136, but Earle B. Mayfield is a claimant for a large share of voters, and there are one or two fellow contenders in the field who are hopeful of getting a large share of it on primary election day. Given above are the figures of the election of 1928 away down here in Texas. In 1929, there were thousands who paid poll taxes who did not pay them for the election of 1930. That campaign was a frightful orgy of religious and racial intolerance, pro and anti prohibition frenzy which was the aftermath of ten years of bitterness in many states of the union. It appears to be absent to a great extent from this campaign which is drawing to a close in Texas. Religious and racial fires burn out. They may leave the embers behind them, but that is all.

Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina and Florida returned to the democratic fold since the election of 1928. Bishop James Cannon, a very devout and successful church politician, led the fight of the Hoover democrats and republicans in Virginia in 1929. It was significant that the Cannon ticket was buried by a majority of 75,000, the largest ever rolled up by the democrats of Virginia. In Kentucky the democrats regained all lost ground. In North Carolina they snuffed out the political life of Sen. F. M. Simmons, one of the ablest of American senators who had powerful forces behind him, and this in a total vote as great as that cast for the presidential nominees in North Carolina in 1928. In Alabama, according to newspaper correspondents, Sen. J. T. Hefflin, with a long congressional record behind him, will be relegated to private life in November of this year.

There are economic issues to the fore. There is a deep depression everywhere. It concerns the vital interests of the people. It speaks of shelter and raiment and food. Now what will the total primary vote be this year? Where will the 237,000 who voted Hoover and Curtis in 1928 land in Texas in July 1930? The ballot is the thing and the July balloting will tell the story of the preliminaries. Will there be a bolt this year? If so, who will lead the bolt? And how far will the leader get?

TEXAS CAR OF PROGRESS PUSHING ALONG
 Texas car of progress is pushing along. William C. Edwards writes in his Public Service News that work on the $1,000,000 22-story Cower Petroleum building has been started in Dallas, and the $1,730,000 31-story National building will start Aug. 1. Construction is under way on the 18-story Dallas Power and Light building and the Republic bank annex, while the $1,250,000 federal building will be ready for occupancy by early fall.

The total cost of $8,887,541 is involved in the Mountain Creek project of the Dallas Power and Light company recently approved by the Dallas city commission. A lake of 4500 acres will be impounded to furnish water for a giant generating station, first unit of which will be of 35,000 kilowatt capacity.

The natural gas furnished much of the electric current generated by Texas power plants is shown by figures from the United States geological survey report for 1929. Of gas alone, Texas utility plants used 38,364,918 cubic feet last year. They used 617,523 barrels of fuel oil, 677,384 short tons of coal, fuel being used for the generation of 2,781,972 of the 2,801,316 total, and water power generating the remaining 19,344 kilowatt hours.

Then, additional communities in Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky will be served by Texas gas when a 1250-mile pipeline from the Panhandle is completed. Contracts have been let for the work. Before the discovery of gas in Texas consumption of natural gas in the oil fields of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois was very great. Then the supply was exhausted. Some day the supply will be exhausted away down here in Texas and then there will be another problem for the people to tackle and the songsters will be singing "You Never Miss the Water Until the Well Runs Dry."

ANOTHER CABINET OFFICE DEMANDED
 Another cabinet post has been demanded, this time by the United States Good Road Association in annual convention at Oklahoma City. That is, the association adopted a resolution demanding the creation of a cabinet post to be called secretary of highways and another resolution calling for a further increase in federal aid for good roads.

Oklahoma has a highway commissioner, Lev Wentz, who is a multimillionaire and a sure-enough straight shooter. He appeared before the Good Roads convention and denounced the mixing of politics with road building. He said highway improvements could be only as efficient as the men operating the highway departments and charged that political appointments were hampering the progress of road building in the state of the federal union.

Another important resolution was adopted when the convention went on record as advocating that ten per cent of the annual federal aid appropriation for highways should be used solely on roads traveled by rural and star mail routes, of which there are 43,000 representing 1,930,000 miles in the nation at present.

Lew Wentz is well known in Texas. He is better known in Oklahoma. He made his millions in Oklahoma and is doing his best to make Oklahoma proud of its highways.

PINCHOT AS AN INDEPENDENT
 Gifford Pinchot has started the politicians and voters in Pennsylvania by announcing his candidacy for the office of governor on an independent ticket. This to prepare for an emergency should the supreme court of Pennsylvania give a favorable decision to Francis Shunk Brown who was a rival contender for the nomination. Brown challenged the legality for the ballots used in Luzerne county, the third most populous county in the state. Under the election laws of Pennsylvania "mutilated ballots are invalid and cannot be counted." The Luzerne county ballots used in that county to be perforated with a set of figures on the margin such as are used in cancelling bank checks. Pinchot leaders said this was done "to detect counterfeit ballots that might be stuffed into boxes in the interest of some candidate in the county."

Brown's supporters have taken an appeal to the state supreme court. If the supreme court should decide the ballots are illegal the Luzerne votes would be thrown out and Brown would be in the lead for the republican nomination. Pinchot carried Luzerne county over Brown by 26,000 plurality and carried the entire state by 20,000 plurality. In this statement Reformer Pinchot said that "the attempt of certain public utilities and gang politicians under the leadership of Gen. W. W. Atterbury to steal the governorship is too raw to be tolerated." Gen. Atterbury is president of the Pennsylvania railroad and republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania.

If the election law of Pennsylvania declares "mutilated ballots are invalid and cannot be counted," Pinchot is in a bad way. Lawmakers made the law. A republican governor signed it. In all the 48 states mutilated ballots are rejected. Gifford Pinchot is a very able man, a very sincere man, and an outstanding advocate of honesty in politics as well as honesty in government, but isn't "the law the law" while its constitutionality remains unchanged?

MILLER AND THE PRISON LANDS
 Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, a candidate for the office of governor, addressing a Brownwood audience, said:

"I am unalterably opposed to selling the wonderful land which the state now owns and which, properly managed, will, in my judgment, prove not only self supporting but earn money for the upkeep of other state institutions. I see no reason why what I understand to be a potential oil field on one of these farms should not be developed and if, as many experts believe, oil is produced on it, IT WOULD SOLVE THE ECONOMIC SIDE OF THIS QUESTION WITHOUT BURDENING THE PEOPLE WITH TAXATION."

Prison lands are the property of the people of Texas. Scouts and geologists have said, and said it many times, that potential oil fields are included in the property of the people. If the prison lands could be made oil producing lands, why shouldn't the prison board do the drilling, bring in the wells, sell the oil and place the coin in the treasury of the state?

Where there is oil there is money—for someone.

Why not that "someone" the people who pay the freight? If the drill is the thing, then why not drill for the people? This is a reflection and not a recommendation. Why grow cotton in competition with the farmer on potential oil land? Just now the farmer is said to be downtrodden, tax-ridden, his pocketbook lean and his debts many. He is of the people. And as the people own the prison lands, why not make the most of it?

There are 11 candidates for governor. Eight are in evidence. Three may pick up a few primary votes. Why not as the eight candidates to come across and answer the question? If "the drill is the thing" why not drill to place the potential wealth in the pockets of the taxpayers? This would be a live political topic and interest those who are doing their level best to crawl out of the ditch.

Radio Dinner Bell of 1845 Is Given Credit

Physicist's Own Contraction Worked 50 Years Before Marconi's Success.
 CHICAGO, July 15.—Half a century before Marconi successfully sent words through the air, a college professor ceased his scientific labors at a signal from a crude wireless receiver, and hurried to his home for breakfast.

Professor Joseph Henry, a Princeton university physicist, in 1845, had established wireless communication between his home and the laboratory in which he spent much of his time—a distance of several hundred yards.

His wife had merely to turn the crank of a static machine, and the signal would appear on a magnetized compass at the professor's elbow.

This scientific fact is the claim of Dr. Karl T. Compton, recently installed president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who, speaking before the University of Chicago's Physics club, added that he recently had experimented with the original Henry apparatus at Princeton with success.

Mentioning the fact that physics has been the right hand assistant of electricity and other branches of scientific development, Dr. Compton spoke of a new gas radio tube—the thiotron—which it is believed, will revolutionize power transmission within 10 years by allowing power lines to carry 10 times as much direct voltage as alternating.

Clarence Saunders Tennessee Company Is Now Insolvent

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 15.—Clarence Saunders, chain grocery store owner and head of the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., a Tennessee corporation with 150 stores throughout the south, withdrew his denial of bankruptcy and admitted insolvency of the Tennessee company in federal court here today.

The statement of the chain store magnate, who once lost control of the Piggly Wiggly group because of an attempt to corner stock on Wall Street, came during a court hearing on a petition for receivership filed yesterday. The petition alleged he would be unable to pay a $500,000 obligation held by Chicago and New York bankers and due tomorrow.

Saunders indicated he would not attempt to retain control of the Tennessee corporation. He may go to California and operate the Pacific Coast units of his company, the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc.

His country home here, a show place, will be sold to satisfy creditors of the Tennessee company, he said.

Saunders said a slump in the volume of business done by the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., has embarrassed the company's credit.

"Pressure of a Chicago banking syndicate toward collecting $200,000 due tomorrow on a $450,000 loan has practically destroyed the company's credit," he said.

Two Spectators Fight at Young Austin Speaking

AUSTIN, Tex., July 15.—Distribution of cards at Woolridge Park, where James Young, candidate for governor, spoke last night, led to a disturbance that ended in one white-haired man swaining to the jaw of another.

The cards linked Young's candidacy with "Raskobism," Young was handed one of the cards just before he took the platform. It apparently irked him. He asserted his belief that they were distributed by "an infamous scoundrel" who does not make his own living.

"That's a contemptible lie," said a white haired man, rising in the audience.

"Sit down," yelled Young.

Young then tried to ignore the incident and go on, but a white haired supporter rushed at the other white haired man and struck him. An officer took the man who had been struck out the crowd. His assailant was undisturbed.

News From The State Capital

AUSTIN, Tex., July 15.—Roy L. Tennant member of the state board of control released a statement today urging that the state adopt a $50,000,000 bond issue to provide for needs of state eleemosynary institutions. "I have been waiting for some organization or some candidate for governor to take this up," said Tennant, "but regret that it has been overlooked." The expenditures, he says, are needed to care for tuberculars, to keep insane out of jail, to care for feeble-minded and orphans.

Members of the state board of education, meeting here today, condemned a rule of union high school district No. 54 of Navarro county that a school teacher may not marry during the term covered by her teaching contract, but sustained the ruling of state school superintendent S. M. Marrs, that an appeal from a teacher's dismissal on this grounds had been delayed too long.

A tie vote on the proposal was broken by chairman Nat. Washburn, who, after some deliberation, voted to sustain the superintendent. The attorney for Mary Holiday Bennett announced that they will carry the case to court. She had married the son of a school trustee and was dismissed.

Second campaign expense reports have been filed with the secretary of state by three candidates for governor. George Butte, candidate for the Republican nomination, reported no expenditures. James Young reported $6,531.75 expenditures and contributions totaling $2,400. Earle B. Mayfield in a personal report said he has expended $2,665.52 and Mark McGee, his campaign manager reported spending $3,858.79.

"Of course," he said, you know she's taken a studio a building near mine, and a bedroom, and a funny little ally just off the stairs, with ring and a sink. Before she she just told me that she going to be married. She explain, and somehow I like to ask her. She moved ings in and asked me to keep on them while she was There is no housekeeper in hiding, and she was going to me the key.
all, not to make it too long, ook the day she said she was and, not receiving the key, I found to inquire. The door studio was open, and it empty, so I went in. She t in there, but I looked h the door of the other little and there she stood. I n't to have looked, but I t help myself. She had her to me. In her hand she held a photograph, in a kind of ure frame.
y nodded, catching her e. "Mr. Steyne—I know! ve her the frame not long recognized it." Dumont went because she had shown it to the cafe—I suppose it he gave it to her. Well, she was looking at it, hold- ing it in her hand. Then she and her arms wide and he like that for a moment, and she clasped her hands to- gether and bowed her head. Then used the photograph—kissed r and over again. I don't ow I got away. I was but, thank Heaven, I did ay before she saw me. Now, I ask you, would she have like that if she didn't care ae chap?"

ly said nothing. She sat with in one hand, the finger other drumming on the ta- dy, do you think he really for her?" Dumont went on, "my! Don't be a fool, Bas- I just occurred to me. You what kind of a girl Chummy ne of the world's very best, urred to me that it was just he she had found out that he care for her, and she had it up about not wanting to rried."
y looked at him with a thun- per face.
"Bastien, you're a perfect ion," she said angrily. "It must been a quarrel. They'll make when they come back. I wish didn't told me!"
en she got back to her rooms, t by her window with a very ttle face.
Kiss was wondering. Was it pos- that Chummy had guessed nothing? Had Alan been so ph, so wicked, as ever to let ee for a second that he did ee for her? No, of course didn't. It was impossible Chummy had guessed. That would be a calamity to con- st. But why, then, had she ad not to be married?
y had got proscenium boxes Bastien and Tony Leigh and real Steyne. She would have all the boxes if she had not checked.
y had a beautiful seat all for Chummy, of whom she heard nothing since the re- gion spots near from the coast y to Judy's long and ramb- account of her extraordinary- od fortune.
e came to the last day before first night. Judy's heart was sore. Chummy not to be that moment—she knew— that Chummy knew the truth! Chum- my knew that Alan and Judy had fought life together—all those poor, hard-working years! Years of slavery, yet they had been happy in a way. And had Chummy forgotten it all? Didn't she care a bit?

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Then, going home about six o'clock, Judy found Chummy waiting in her little sitting room. As usual, it was a bower of flowers. She knew what Chummy wanted; but she had said nothing. She loved them too much.
It was a gray day, and it had been drizzling, but Chummy's hair and her delicately tanned face seemed to make sunshine in the room. Judy flunk herself on her. "Oh, Chummy darling, what a bliss! I've been so miserable! I've been thinking you'd forgotten little Judy! I was hating the idea of tomorrow."
"I came back for it, Judy," the other girl said, when Judy finally released her not she could breathe. "I've got you a lovely seat," said Judy. "I don't care what happens, now that you're going to be there?"
In breathless haste she poured out the whole tale of her wonderful luck. So innocently modest was little Judy that you might easily have thought that her genius had nothing to do with it at all.
When she had finished, a silence fell. Something had to be said. They both knew it. They looked at each other. Judy's glance was fever bright; Chummy's was serene.
Judy nervsed herself. "And—Mr. Steyne?" she asked. "I don't know whether he's still in Paris," Chummy said quietly. "Tell me, Chummy—it was only a squabble, wasn't it?"
"What do you mean?" Chummy replied, with her grave smile. "I mean between you and Mr. Steyne, Chummy, from the first I knew it must be only a quarrel."
"You are wrong, Judy. It was never a quarrel. I couldn't quarrel with Alan—you know that. We were always such friends."
"Chummy, you seems years older! I'm sure there's something."
"There's nothing, Judy dear."
"And you don't know where Mr. Steyne is now?"
"No," Chummy was not looking at her friend. She spoke very slowly, as if choosing her words. "I have not heard from Alan, Judy. You see, it was better not, since we had parted. He saw it just as I did. He was very generous. He might have reproached me."
Chummy did turn her eyes on her friend then. An eager question flashed into them for an instant, like a bright flame. Her whole being seemed to glow with an intense and violent light. It was as if something were impending, something tremendous, so that she dared not breathe; but slowly she turned her eyes away again.
"I thought perhaps you might have heard from Alan, Judy," she said.
"I?"
Judy's voice was what it had never been in her life before—frightened.
"Yes, Judy dear," Chummy went on gently. "It seems strange that he had written to nobody. And you and he were friends, too."
"Yes," said Judy.
She looked at her friend. A blank silence fell. Judy knew in that moment—she knew—that Chummy knew the truth! Chummy knew that Alan and Judy known to everybody.

To him it was a night of wild torture and of wild delight. The artist in him reveled in it. The man loathed it. For the most part, while the program was going on, the artist carried the man away.
When the calls could no longer be taken, and the manager had announced Judy's complete exhaustion, Alan ran down the steps like a madman. He hung around the stage door. A big car was drawn up there. Alan knew whose it was. He was blind and mad with misery but he could not go away.
Presently a little person came out. He crouched in the shade, and breathed with relief. A crowd of men swept around it—the boys from the Cafe Turc. Gideon's bulky figure fought through them to Judy's side.
Then Alan heard her voice, gay and hoarse and half delirious. He caught a glimpse of the hand with many-colored shawl in which she was wrapped.
"No—no, Mr. Gideon! No, Tony and Michael! No, all of you! I'm tired out. Call me a cab. I'm going home alone to cry myself to sleep!"

New Theater To Open In Ranger About August 1

RANGER, Texas July 15—The Columbia—Ranger's new theater—will open about Aug. 1, states B. E. Garner, the owner.
Mr. Garner recently purchased the former theater building on Austin street and is spending a considerable amount in remodeling the building. When completed, it will be a highly attractive show-house, modern in all respects. The Columbia will be equipped for talking pictures. To make the acoustics as nearly perfect as possible, celotex will be placed, not loved each other; and that was why she had refused to marry him.

"Yes," said Judy again, in a very little voice. "Yes, he and I were friends, too."
They talked of other things after that, and presently Chummy went away. She was tired after her long journey, and she had her little home to set in order. Her little home, thought Judy—her little, lonely home!
She went away, this new Chummy, so much older but so much more beautiful.
The great night was in a great night. It was a stupendous, a blinding, success. It was silent with the silence of acute enjoyment; it was noisy with the noise of uncontainable enthusiasm. The house yelled and roared, and held its breath, and yelled and roared again.
Little Judy Grant was a great dancer—there was no doubt about that.
She was the whole program. There was a ballet, of course, and a very good one. She herself had only three people appearing with her, and they were mere adjuncts, though useful and appropriate ones. Her dances were danced alone.

Judy had three changes of scenes. First came a Greek scene, in which she did three different dances—a woodland dance, a girl playing ball, and a moonlight idyl to the music of Pan pipes.
The next was an elaboration of the Italian night, that she had danced at Alan Steyne's, and here she had on the stage a boy who played the guitar.
The third was a series of old English dances, which brought down the house. Judy, as Jack-in-the-Green, was simply irresistible, laughing out of her little green house of foliage. As an encore, she gave a child's dance in front of a Punch and Judy show.
The final curtain fell on an indescribable scene of enthusiasm.
Up to the back of the gallery, Alan Steyne had stood from the first moment the curtain went up. He had returned from Paris un-

WASHINGTON—No detective of fiction ever did more with questioned handwriting, typewriting, inks and watermarks in paper than Bert C. Farrar.
Farrar is the treasury's examiner of questioned documents and he has been studying the authenticity of signatures and paper for 30 years, often providing convincing proof which sent men to prison, set men free or decided disputes involving hundreds of thousands of dollars.
In an office in the treasury, surrounded by chemicals, magnifying glasses, enlarging cameras and samples of ink, typewriter type and paper, Farrar deals with forged endorsements, altered government checks, altered contracts, altered accounts in income tax cases and other questioned documents such as forged wills which are brought to him from the outside world. Last winter he traveled 25,000 miles, so much were his services in demand.
Exposed Faked Papers
When William Randolph Hearst published sensational documents purporting to link up American senators and the Mexican government with the Soviet Union, Farrar was asked by the Senate investigating committee to inspect the documents. He reported that they were obvious fakes.
"I had no interest in them," Farrar says. "They were such palpable forgeries."
Lately he has been making an intensive study of inks. Many new inks have appeared since the war, when scarcity of materials forced manufacturers to experiment with new methods. Farrar tears all the inks apart to discover how they are made and then becomes able to identify each one through reaction of various chemicals.

THE BATTLE CRY OF MODERATION!

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*"There is only one remedy for fat, and that is eat the right food... There are at least one hundred so-called obesity cures. None of these is permanent. All of these are injurious," says Vance Thompson, Ph.D., in his famous little book, "Eat and Grow Thin," published by E. P. Dutton & Company. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Sign-posts

IMAGINE YOURSELF on an unfamiliar highway at night in the country. You want to go to Allison. You come to a forked road. No signs! Which way? You turn left and come to a cross-road. No signs. You turn right. You come to a town. It proves to be Liberty. You go back to the left. A mile or so farther on you come to another cross-road. A sign pointing right says "Allison three miles."

But for that sign-post you might have traveled miles—spent hours, and come short of your destination.

Imagine yourself in need of hosiery, clothing, breakfast foods or anything else, and this newspaper without advertisements!

Advertisements are sign-posts. They are information. They save you from wandering aimlessly from store to store. They keep you advised of the newest products; of the latest values. They save you time, and put greater buying power in your dollars. They assure you of quality and service in merchandise, for only honest goods honestly advertised can stand the spotlight of publicity.

IN THE REALM of SPORT

WITH THE TEXAS LEAGUE

The Wichita Falls Spudders gained a stronger hold on the Texas League lead Monday, at the expense of George Payne, their ace last year, now in the ranks of the Houston Buffs. The Spudders took a 7 to 2 decision from the Buffs, gathering 16 safeties off Payne.

Waco gained undisputed possession of second place by defeating Shreveport in a night game, by a score of 3 to 1 at the Louisiana city.

Port Worth scored 7 runs in the first three innings against San Antonio and withstood Indian attacks to take the winning end of a 7 to 6 contest.

Beaumont, tail-end, took a slugfest from the Dallas Steers, 10 to 8.

Wesley Ferrell, bested Milt Gason in a hurling duel, turning in his 13th victory of the season to enable Cleveland to defeat Boston 3 to 2.

Three Yankee pitchers were unable to stop the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a doubleheader, New York losing 10 to 9, but Charley Ruffing evened the count by winning the second, 7 to 2.

Only one National League game was played yesterday, Brooklyn defeating Pittsburgh, 12 to 8. The victory gave the Robins 3 full games lead over the second place Chicago Cubs.

Yesterday's Hero

Glenn Wright of the Robins, who had a perfect day at bat with two home runs and two singles, driving in 7 runs and scoring 4 in Brooklyn's 22 to 8 victory over Pittsburgh.

Eastern League clubs are encountering unexpectedly stiff competition during their current invasion of the western clubs and although all four of the western clubs are definitely out of the pennant race, it is apparent that Chicago will be considerable to say about the fatal disposition of the flag.

Detroit's fifth place Tigers have upset the Washington Senators in three or four stars, the Senators defeating the Senators of first place, while the luckless Chicago White Sox have taken two out of five from the Yankees.

The Philadelphia Athletics are the only eastern club which has met with the expected success in the west.

Philadelphia had trouble beating St. Louis yesterday but nosed out a 9 to 7 victory after 11 innings. The Browns came from behind to tie the score in the eighth inning and again in the tenth but were stopped by Lefty Grove in the eleventh.

George Uhle and Ale Alexander starred in Detroit's 4 to 1 triumph over Washington. Uhle held the Senators to 8 scattered hits, while Alexander had a perfect day at bat with a double and three singles.

HAMON WINS OVER C. & S.

RANGER, Texas July 15.—Jake Hamon nine carried out its threat to even the season's standing with the Senators of first place, the visitors won Sunday's game, 3 to 6.

Black pitched for the winners. It was his slugging that spelled victory as he gathered 4 hits, 3 runs, a single and a base on balls.

Lemma of the visitors also made a home run and his teammate, Watson, made four hits.

For a local, Watson and Culom were the stars—Watson making a fine catch and a sensational throw for a double play.

A big crowd enjoyed the game.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring foods in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, fretful crying, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book, "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write the Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. You will have prescribed it for over 50 years.

Milk of Magnesia has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

"Hobo News" To List Routes Of Easiest Life

Tramps' Handbook Soon Will Be Available to Big Circulation.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 14.—The next issue of the "Hobo News" soon will be issued.

Jeremiah Boule, 56, weather-beaten and bronzed by many suns, is on a walking tour now, getting material. The latest stock market quotations won't be printed. Neither will the unemployment figures.

Boule, after all, has his public to please, and he is certain it isn't interested in stocks or work.

In the paper, however, will be included:

...What towns to avoid:

Towns where police are lenient.

Homes guarded by fierce dogs.

Homes where "and-outs" are freely given.

Harsh magistrates and bad jails.

All this, Boule insists, is of vital importance to his circulation. Although he has a college education and once occupied a comfortable position, this strange editor now is a hobo and argues he knows the pulse of his readers.

"In the olden days," he said, in explaining how the "Hobo News" was born, "tramps used to rely for their information on signs placed on gate posts and at the entrances to towns, by men who had gone before them."

"That was unsatisfactory, for after these signs would be rubbed out, and I was constantly getting complaints from men who had struck bad patches in consequence."

"As I went about, I used to gather information of all kinds and it struck me that it would be a good idea to pass it on in some way."

Boule said he found a friend who owned a printing shop and the "Hobo News" was born.

Schoolboys Of France At Grave Of Q. Roosevelt

Son of Former President Is Legendary Hero to Children.

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 14.—Schoolboys of France lined the grave of the president's son this morning to decorate the grave of Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt, an isolated tomb where the son of the former President of the United States fell in aerial combat 12 years ago today.

At the request of Mrs. Roosevelt, the grave of her youngest son never has been touched. The body lies where it was buried by the Germans in whose lines the boy fell, four days after bringing down his first German plane.

Unlike most American graves in France, the tomb of Roosevelt lies alone in a field, the mound fenced in by wooden railings which are just as American engineers built in 1918, to replace the boughs of trees which the Germans had erected to keep the grave inviolate.

The tomb is marked by two monuments, one a large field stone dragged there by the 302nd U. S. Engineers, who carved their own name on the memorial, with the added wording that here fell Quentin Roosevelt. There is also a white cross, just like over all other soldiers' graves, and on it his rank and squadron, the 95th, of the First Allied Pursuit group.

The white fence is kept painted, and the Roosevelt family has arranged for the grave to be constantly furnished with flowers.

There was a wreath carried out from Paris this morning, with no card, but known to be from the younglier's mother. The other flowers were gathered by school children, to whom the young American is already a legendary hero.

ROLLING PIN ON DISPLAY

MESA, Ariz., July 15.—Paul Bunyan himself, the Whataman of the Tall Timbers, would look twice at a rolling pin on display here as a souvenir of the completion recently of the Stewart Mountain Dam.

The rolling pin, which was used by the carpenter for making pie and bread for hundreds of hungry workmen, weighs some seven pounds and measures almost three feet in length, with a diameter of six inches.

The pin is fashioned of hard oak and its crevices are still jammed with durable dough which raises a lump in the throat of the spectator at a rolling pin on display here as a souvenir of the completion recently of the Stewart Mountain Dam.

Names On G. D. Mail Include Nearly Every Part Of Body

Clerk Jots Down 500 Freak Names

A human body could be built from the names of parts of the body borne by people who call for their mail at the general delivery window of the Dallas postoffice—a human body together with almost every other variation of entry in condition—and old as many people are, they could never be half as odd as their names.

This is the discovery of Miss Ollie Epps, general delivery clerk, who, to satisfy a fancy, jotted down 500 freak names as they came to her attention over the period of a few days through the letters which their owners called for at the window.

She started it by noticing the "freak" parts of the body which many people wear as names. She decided she'd just jot them down and see how much of the human physique she could build up, and to her surprise it was only a day or two before persons bearing names representative of virtually every part of the body, man or animal, appeared at the window.

Her list runs: "Head, Back, Arms, Shoulder, Finger, Hip, Bone, Horn, Beard, Hyde, Nail, Foot, Lip, Sides, Ham, Hair, Legg, Chin, Hart, Lightfoot, Boddy, Cheek, Bills, Nuckles, Gum."

That started her and she diagrammed 500 names into various classifications, such as "pertaining to water or earth," "plants or flowers," "animals and insects," "colors," "of value," "sounds or expressions," "belonging to the food family," "to eat or drink," "condition," "parts of buildings," "of the Bible," and "miscellaneous."

Men and women going through life as representatives of various physical movements were Messrs. and Mmes. Hopper, Walker, Skipper, Pratt, Galloway, Dancy, Buck, Trimble, Hall, Walkup, Rushing, Pace, Hank, Ketchum, Treadwell, Turns, Tripp, Goforth, Hopp, Hasen, Ruhl, Shook, Jump, Flite, Waltz, Hill, Russell, Chase and Gump.

People with names representative of water or air came to the window as follows: Waters, Waterfall, Rivers, Roundstream, Branch, Creek, Snow, Hank, Cloud, Frost, Galt, Galt, Daney, Buck, Flake, Shuck, Rainy, Rainy, Clay, Mudd, Rocke, Newland, Sweetland and Ground.

To show that the plant family was well represented, Mr. and Mrs. What, What, Cain, Blackwood, Redwood, Bigwood, Forest, Bryar, Moss, Cotton, Goodhedge, Sprout, Vines, Redd, Corn, Rose, Violets, Daisy, Lilly, Blossom, Zeni, Flowers, and even Mr. Magnolia and Mr. Hyacinth appeared.

The animal and insect folk were Mr. and Mrs. Lion, Beaver, Pigg, Hogz, Deer, Bare, Campbell, Wolfe, Stock, Rabbit, Coon, Collic, Fox, Grayhedge, Bull, Bulz, Fish, Bass, Dog, Trout, Gopher, Man, Pelows, Husband, Gend, Leopard, Broadbar, Kitts, Bowser, Shepp, Brimo, Rabb, Roach, Miller, Bee, Nat, Pappas and Buggy.

Of colors, besides the old names of Black, White, Green, Gray and Brown, there are Mr. Redd, Mr. Blue, Miss Orange, Mr. Pinky, Miss Brindle and Mr. Roan.

Messrs. Cash, Money, Nichol, Silver, Gold, Cost, Price, Halpenny, Opal, Pearl, Garnet, Jewell, Diamond and Brass come under the valuable classification. In Miss Epps "unpleasant" list we find men ## and women named Crooks, Coffin, Drown, Quarles, War, Swindle, Battles, Casloff, Hazard, Tramp, Jolly, Sinn, Outlaw, Lepper, Rash, Fears, Savaze, Fake, Robb, Gamble, Graves and Paine.

She lists names exemplifying sounds or expressions as Bray, Lells, Hiss, Chuck, Tswaale, Dogget, Dickens, Gee, Tutt, Shaw and Hussey.

She could go on almost forever, her list indicates, from Mr. Pison, Mr. Lightsinger, Miss Casebeer, Mr. Raabury, Mr. Parsageorge through almost every oddity in the language.

Yale Library Is Unusual

Executive Says Boer War Gave Idea to Founder of Institution.

By UNITED PRESS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 15.—The task of moving 1,582,000 volumes into the largest college library building in the world, Yale's new Sterling Memorial Library, has university librarians. "Hundreds of persons and a great fleet of trucks are expected to be employed in carrying the university's books, two blocks from the old library on the main campus to the new 'skyscraper library'."

Unusual architectural ideas are embodied in the Sterling Memorial. Rising the equivalent of 16 stories above the street, it is believed to be the tallest similar structure in America. With its various wings and two dormitories of harmonious design, it covers a large city block.

"For the first time in engineering history, bookshelves have been built into the framework of the building. The huge, box-like web of welded steel that forms the frame of the main structure also is the framework of the bookshelves. Previously shelves had been built up on the floors of the already-completed library building."

Yale's library outranks all college libraries of the United States, being exceeded in number of volumes only by the Congressional Library at Washington and the New York Public Library, according to World Almanac figures.

The building is expected to be virtually finished this fall. It is of the modernized Gothic design employed on many Yale buildings. The towering main block, superimposed by a tower, commands the campus scene.

EARLY TINTS IN MUSEUM

By UNITED PRESS

CHICAGO, July 15.—More than 15 centuries before the dawn of writing—25,000 years ago, to be exact—prehistoric man chronicled his loves, hates, fear and experiences on the walls of his cave in paints of ochre, according to Henry Field, assistant curator in charge of physical anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History.

Remarkable and realistic portrayals of ancient man's religion and the animals he used for food, still are to be found in caves in southern Europe. Specimens of this ancient art were obtained by the recent Field Archeological expedition to Europe.

It is possible that the half-naked bodies of the artists themselves were also painted," Field said, adding that many primitive peoples still tint their bodies.

The cave of Altamira in northern Spain, visited by the expedition, is considered to have the finest collection of prehistoric painting. Here the scientists found the ceiling vividly decorated with paintings of bison, deer, and wild boar done in red, yellow, black and white paints.

Commenting upon the colors employed by these early artists, Field said that red appeared to have ritualistic properties from as far back as Aurignacian times, and was in all probability, associated with a conception of blood as representing the symbol of life.

Credits Scouts With Starting "Shorts" Craze

Executive Says Boer War Gave Idea to Founder of Institution.

By UNITED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS, July 15.—Boy Scouts, not colorists, started the short-instead-of-long-pants craze, declared S. L. Norton, Indianapolis area Boy Scout executive.

Mr. Robert Baden-Powell, founder of our organization, got the idea in the Boer war," he said. "We adopted shorts in America at least as far back as 1918 and 850,000 scouts were wearing them before the college boys ever thought of it."

"The English and Irish scouts wore shorts for years before they were adopted in America. Some of the soldiers wore them in the World War and after all it is just going back to what our forefathers started—knee pants."

"It was a long time before the scout masters and executives could come around to the idea but they wouldn't wear long pants on hikes now," Norton said.

Shorts also were given the approval of the Indiana State Board of Health when the head, Dr. William King, said they exposed the body to more air and sunshine and therefore were healthier.

"People may not look so good in them but they should dress according to comfort instead of style anyway," he said.

VET KEEPS FIRE VIGIL

TUCSON, Ariz., July 15—Despite the disappearance years ago of warring Apache Indians who, from lofty Santa Catalina Mountain tops, scanned the desert for trace of slow moving wagon trains that they might attack and plunder, a day and night watch is still maintained from the heights of Mt. Bigelow, overlooking this desert city. The vigilance today is maintained by the "hermit of Bigelow," Charles Noll, 45 year old war veteran, who for the past seven years has swept the horizon in all directions; even into Mexico, for trace, not of speedy automobiles which roar along the state highways, but for forest fires which annually destroy millions of dollars worth of property in the United States. Noll came here from Wyoming seven years ago, broken in health. Today, he is again robust and happy. From his 60 foot tower atop the mountain, he sounds alarms which send fire fighters rushing to the scene of the conflagrations. To while away the time, Noll makes beaded novelties and mounts wild game which his rifle brings down. He has saved the government many thousands of dollars during his service as lookout.

Millions Spent By Business Men Dealing With Fake Agencies

NEW YORK, July 14—In the mistaken belief that they can buy their way into the news columns of reputable newspapers business executives are spending more than $1,000,000 a year, a recent announcement of the National Better Business Bureau reveals.

For a fee ranging from $100 to $1,000, depending on what the traffic will bear, some 20 odd firms styling themselves "Press Bureaus" or "Press Syndicates" or "Press Associations" offer to prepare and publish a short but favorable biography, illustrated with a photograph of the subject for distribution ranging upward to approximately 1,000 newspapers throughout the country. The solicitors represent that the newspapers will welcome the biographies, but based upon its survey of newspapers the National Better Business Bureau reports that the vast majority of the newspapers replying to the Bureau's inquiry, promptly consign these unsolicited and undesired biographies to the waste basket. Some newspapers report that they retain some of the "complimentary" biographies, in the belief that they are accurate as to dates and names and therefore useful for reference purposes.

The statement from the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., continues: "Although some of these 'write-up' concerns do not misrepresent their identity, others find it easier to get subscriptions by permitting their clients to believe that they represent one of the accredited press associations, such as the United Press, Associated Press and International News Service. These recognized agencies that furnish a wire service to the press exclusively do not panhandle executives for write-ups." "According to complaints to the Bureau a number of business men have contributed for a biography service believing that they were dealing with the U. P. A. P. or the I. N. S., and have been much chagrined to find out that these wire services never solicit nor accept money from individuals or corporations for biographical matter. When the needs of their service require biographical data they have ample facilities for obtaining it and forwarded it to their subscribers.

"Instances have been reported to the Bureau indicating that some of the so-called associations have threatened to publish uncomplimentary biographies if the subject refuses to subscribe for a favorable one. A prominent government official now representing the United States abroad has written to the Bureau stating that several years ago, following the occasion of his wife's being presented at the Court of St. James, he was deluged with offers to publish his photograph and biography, all of which he declined. When he refused, however, certain of the solicitors stated that they would go ahead with the biography and that it wouldn't be complimentary.

"Another form of the 'puff' or 'glory' sheet schemes is the publication of magazines containing complimentary write-ups exclusively. Here the scheme is worked by re-writing some news item that appeared in the press about some prominent firm or executive and then telephoning to the subject of the write-up to check on its accuracy. These publishers adopt a name similar to such legitimate publications as 'Nation's Business' or 'System Magazine.' When the telephone call is made the subject believes he is dealing with one of these reputable publications. The telephone solicitor then urges his prospect to take additional copies nation took the most drastic decline last week in more than a year, the Oil & Gas Journal reports today.

Further voluntary curtailment in face of adverse marketing conditions and impending crude price cuts, resulted in a net decrease of 68,853 barrels to a national daily average production of 2,541,430 barrels.

The flush pools of Oklahoma led in the decline, the state's total daily average production dropping 39,955 barrels to 615,185. Of this amount the Oklahoma city pool was of 22,145 barrels.

California fields increased, however. California's light oil daily average production increased 5,000 barrels to 521,500 but the heavy grades dropped 1,000 barrels to 87,000. Every California pool excepting Santa Fe Springs, which dropped 3,000 barrels to 113,000, increased.

Against this increase was a decline of the midcontinent area to 1,376,238 barrels. West Texas dropped 1,477 barrels to 804,501. The Panhandle dropped from 105,085 to 102,588; North Central from 139,673 to 134,018, and East Central Texas from 41,348 to 40,001 barrels.

Kansas declined from 131,235 to 127,770 barrels. North Louisiana light dropped from 34,920 to 34,300 barrels, while heavy grades rose 110 barrels to 5,230. Arkansas light dropped from 17,810 to 17,785, while heavy increased from 37,520 to 37,810. Gulf coast heavy dropped from 204,423 to 202,968 barrels. Southwestern Texas declined from 90,319 to 89,223 barrels.

The Rocky Mountain area, suffering natural decline from its recently discovered Hobbs, N. M., pool, declined 13,881 barrels to 85,461. Eastern fields dropped 1,000 barrels to 133,000.

FOR THIS REGULAR STOCK MOTOR OIL

CLOSE ON THE HEELS OF ITS ACCOMPLISHMENT AT INDIANAPOLIS MAY 30, CONOCO WINS 3RD, 4TH, AND 5TH PLACES AT ALTOONA AT BETTER THAN ONE HUNDRED MILES PER HOUR

OIL NEWS

AUSTIN, Tex., July 15—Only 401 new oil wells were brought in during June in Texas fields, making a decrease of 38 over the total for May. Total new producers for the first six months of this year is 2,295.

DAILY CRUDE AVERAGE HAS BIG DECLINE

TULSA, Okla., July 15—Daily average production of crude oil in the Frank Farmer, in a Miller Special, "placed" third with an average speed of 102.2 miles per hour. "Shorty" Cantlon, in a Miller-Schofield Special, was fourth with 101.5 miles per hour. "Speed" Gardner was fifth in a Miller Front Drive Special. All three used CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil in this convincing demonstration of the qualities of this regular "stock" motor oil. At Altoona, as at Indianapolis, this was the first time that a stock oil had placed so high in the finish of the race.

The story of the Altoona race cannot be told without reference to the accomplishment of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil at Indianapolis. For it was in that 100-mile classic that the stamina of this new oil was impressed on the racing fraternity. After observers had seen the oil at the close of the Indianapolis race; after they had observed its full body and good color as it came from Dave Evans' motor, the word went out that CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil had displayed the qualities necessary to solve the lubrication problems of racing motors. CONOCO had earned the respect of this most skeptical group—and earned it fairly.

In view of the Indianapolis results, it was only natural for a majority of the drivers at Altoona to choose CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil for America's fastest competitive race.

And as these cars whizzed around the boards at Altoona on June 14, CONOCO again proved its worth in a field previously dominated by castor blends—a field which other stock oils have repeatedly tried to enter without success! So chalk up another victory for CONOCO
