Uncle Sam Is A Maker of Medicine

Prohibition Commr. J. M. Doan has placed an order with the distillers for the making of 2,000,000 gallons of medicine whiskey. Is whiskey a medicine or is it a thrill maker? Old tanks who were reformed by Dr. Volstead insist that the kick is the thing. There are others who say that medicinal liquor is good for man or beast. There are wise men who say that a water wagon never throws a rider.

Seventeen Die In California From the Heat

Five Infants Are Included in the List of Dead.

EL CENTRO, Calif., July 26.—Unprecedented heat and humidity has oppressed this section of California for many days has resulted in the deaths of 17 persons, according to figures compiled here today.

The death list includes five infants, a number of aged persons, and eight members of the ill-fated Enrique Armentas party which was stranded in the desert near the break Beale Wells.

Towns reporting deaths from the torrid conditions are El Centro, Brawley, Calexico, Holtville, Westmoreland and Meber.

The average temperature for 24 hours during most days recently has been around 95 degrees, with the humidity averaging about 45 degrees.

Negro Suspects Elude Officers

Pair Escape at Odessa After Attack on Officer and Another.

ODESSA, Tex., July 26.—Two negroes, probably convicts, who escaped officers yesterday and injured two white men in the escape, were thought to be still at large in the rough ranchlands near here.

The two blacks attracted attention here yesterday as suspicious characters by hanging around the country club swimming pool. They were reported and officers went to get them. The negroes were driving a new Chevrolet coupe.

The officers got in the car and ordered the blacks to drive to town, but the negroes knocked City Marshal Ely Jones off the car while it was running at a high rate of speed. Then they ran the car into a ditch, brushing E. V. Johnson, swimming pool manager, off against a barbed wire fence.

Sheriff Reeder Webb, in a car behind the negroes, opened fire when he saw them trying to escape. He stopped the car but the blacks escaped into the open country.

The automobile the two were driving, supposedly stolen, bore an Oklahoma license. Johnson was severely cut by the barbed wires but was not in a serious condition today.

Snook Takes Interest In His Trial

Attorneys Hint That Drug Administered By Victim Played Part in Murder Case.

COURT ROOM, COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—Dr. James Howard Snook, former Ohio State university professor accused of the murder of Theora Hix, today began cooperating actively with attorneys conducting his defense.

He came into court armed with a sheaf of newspapers, removed his coat, sat down with his lawyers and went to work as if he were one of them and not the defendant.

He carefully studied the list of jurors, took their identities and made notations for future use. His lawyers seemed to give weight to his whispered words.

"I know little about court procedure," he told newspapermen.

Snook told court attendants he felt the newspapers were not giving him an "even break."

The day's session began with 11 temporary jurors passed. Mrs. Louis Rogers was quickly disqualified as was Jay R. Rawyer a railroad man. Russell Ober, an engineer, whose wife had seven sisters, was excused for bias.

Intimations that writers of crank letters are at work entered the questioning.

"Have you received any letters or phone calls about this case?" Joe Collisson a retired druggist, was asked.

The state's attorneys objected. "If it were shown that Miss Hix in search of knowledge of medicine experimented with drugs and administered drugs to the defendant, would it prejudice you?" the defense asked Collisson.

This was the day's first reference to the defense theory that drugs were responsible for the alleged murder, upon which much stress was placed yesterday.

The audience was eager for a thrill and order had to be called by bailiffs, so excitedly did the spectators receive Collisson's declaration that he considered the alleged intimacies of Miss Hix and Dr. Snook their affair and "none of my business."

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—The loyal support of his wife and his mother today brought new spirit to Dr. James Howard Snook on trial accused of the murder of Theora Hix.

He sat throughout the morning at his counsel table, working over notes in transcript, holding whispered conferences and perspiring over the jury list with all the vigor of a barrister.

It was learned Mrs. Snook had given renewed evidence of her loyalty within the last 36 hours.

Additionally his 73-year old mother, Mary Snook of Lebanon, O., arrived in Columbus and made new spirit to her son in the county jail. She will remain in Columbus throughout the trial.

The effect upon Snook of this renewed support of those nearest to him clearly was seen.

Snook's mother is a tall straight, aristocratic woman.

"I would like to be beside him all the time," she said, "but I can't. Maybe I can do something to cheer Helen."

Helen is Snook's wife.

There were no hysterics when she greeted her son at the jail and her chat with him was cheery. She gave him the news from home and they even found time to talk of her new dress.

There was one discordant note, however, in the chorus of support for Dr. Snook. It came from his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. D. Marple. Mrs. Snook was formerly Helen Marple and the family is of prominence and dignity here.

"He is right where he belongs and I hope he stays there," Mrs. Marple said today. "Our daughter's attitude is her own business and we won't interfere, but we cannot allow her to be treated as if she were a criminal."

"Mrs. S.," he said, "wait any sympathy for me."

Negro Dies In Electric Chair

Convicted of Attack on White Woman, Black Protested Innocence to Last.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 26.—Last minute efforts to obtain clemency having failed, Willie Gray, 20-year-old negro was electrocuted at the state penitentiary here today for an attack on Mrs. Vada Roberts of Greenville last October.

Gray protested his innocence to the last, and spoke at length on the kindness he had received from officers of the prison.

The negro was pronounced dead at 12:20 a. m. after three shots of current were sent through his body.

Freedom of Dress Apostle Declares World Is 'Narrow'

NORMAN, Ok., July 26.—The propriety of a collegian's expression of his idea of tolerable summer attire was being considered today by a group of stern disciplinarians of the University of Oklahoma who prided themselves on immaculate frock coats, ascot ties and starched shirt fronts.

It all happened when Paul Partridge, senior student, living near Tulsa, became pajama-clad and attempted to enjoy a breakfast in the university cafeteria, comfortably clad in the clinging folds of purple-hued pajamas.

But Partridge's enactment of an idea aroused along with admiring glances from scores of co-eds, a storm of protest from official Spoonerland and the ultimatum from Mrs. C. E. Green, cafeteria manager, that he leave.

As for Partridge, the male apostle of freedom in dress, he remarked that the world is not as broad minded as it appeared to be.

"Take the girls for instance," explained Partridge. "I've seen many of them at classes with much less than I had when I merely attempted the half luxury of having breakfast in bedroom clothes."

WICHITA, Kas., July 26.—Three masked bandits held up the Peoples State bank in the heart of the city this afternoon and escaped, with an unknown amount of loot.

Two tellers, one woman, and W. H. Purdy, a customer, were locked in the vault. The bandits scooped up all cash in sight and fled. No trace of the bandits has been picked up by police an hour afterward.

GEORGETOWN, Tex., July 26.—Arguments to the jury were expected to begin today when the sanity hearing for Harry J. Leahy, condemned murderer of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis, opened in district court. There were a few more witnesses to be called.

Twenty witnesses were examined by state and defense lawyers yesterday. Of this number only one, his sister, testified that the defendant was insane. All the rest, who professed to have known the defendant for periods ranging from a few months to fifteen or twenty years, declared that in their opinion he was of sound mind and knew the consequences of murder.

Much of the testimony throughout the day was in the same vein and became monotonous at times. The crowd, however, did not thin out and the room was packed all day. Leahy continued to stare across the table as unconcernedly as though his life was not at stake. If he is found to be sane he will be electrocuted at Huntsville prison on August 2.

With several more witnesses to be called, arguments to be given by attorneys and the judge's charge to the jury, a verdict is not expected in the case until late Saturday.

GEORGETOWN, Tex., July 26.—Two state witnesses and one defense witness testified today in the sanity hearing for Harry J. Leahy, condemned to death for the murder of J. A. Ramsey, Mathis physician.

The first testimony of the day was by defense witness James A. Harley, San Antonio adjutant general, who claimed he had known Leahy for four years and that during his recent conversation with Leahy the defendant had not seemed to realize the enormity of his crime or the consequences thereof.

"I think the man is mentally off," Harley replied when asked his personal opinion of the defendant's condition.

The two state witnesses who testified today were Lee Whaley of Georgetown and Sheriff Lowe of Williamson county.

Expect Verdict In Leahy Case Late Saturday

Argument Before Jury to Start Today; If Found Sane Defendant Must Die Aug. 2.

GEORGETOWN, Tex., July 26.—Arguments to the jury were expected to begin today when the sanity hearing for Harry J. Leahy, condemned murderer of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis, opened in district court. There were a few more witnesses to be called.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 26.—The St. Louis-Robin endurance plane soared on today, unaltered in the longest flight on record, and at 11:17 a. m. C. S. T. marked up its 31st hour with as much apparent ease as it did the first.

Some of the finest weather of the past two weeks—which have been exceptionally calm—favored Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine as they guided their "golden goose" through cloudless skies.

It's a "golden goose" to the two men as every day they keep aloft means approximately $3,000 to them in extra flying awards.

Meanwhile, plans were under way at Lambert-St. Louis field for reception of Jackson's aerially-returned plane, reported on route by air from their home at Fairbault, Minn. O'Brine's parents arrived here by motor several days ago.

AKRON, O., July 26.—The Graf Zeppelin, famed German dirigible, will start its around-the-world trip from Friedrichshafen sometime during the first ten days of August, according to word received today from Germany by Dr. Karl Arstein, vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 26.—With a heavy wind and rain storm looming over Houston, authority was given the "Billion Dollar City" to fly away from the storm, despite the fact that its barrage had run down.

Permission was granted by John W. Baretta of San Antonio, state governor of the National Aeronautical association, after a talk with headquarters in Washington.

An observation plane, carrying two persons not in any way connected with the endurance flight, and taking the ground log book with them, must accompany the endurance ship in its flight away from the airport, however.

Plans now are being made to send another ship up, in case the storm continues to brew over the Gulf coast area, giving Joe Glass and G. L. Loomis an opportunity to fly above the clouds.

A previous ruling of the flight officials said that the plane must remain within sight of the airport at all times after the barograph ran down, supposedly around 10 a. m., today.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 26.—The duration test of the monoplane "Minnesota," went into its 91st hour shortly after noon today as pilots Owen Haugland and Capt. P. Crichton toured Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa.

NORFOLK IN TALKIES

NEW YORK, July 26.—J. Frank Norcher, Hale Center, Texas, rancher by occupation and man hunter by choice, is about to make his bow before a "talkie" camera.

The diminutive Texan whose gyrability cost him $30,000 ten years ago when he was floored by a group of confidence men headed by the notorious Joe Furey, and who declared a vengeance on crooks which led him to capture 82 men single-handed, arrived here yesterday.

THREE SHIPS IN RACE FOR THE PRIZE

The St. Louis Robin Is Setting Mark for Others to Shoot At, and Is Setting It High.

With the St. Louis-Robin, piloted by Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, setting the pace at St. Louis, at least three planes were in the air this afternoon endeavoring to make or break new records for endurance and sustained flight.

Houston the "Billion Dollar City," piloted by Joe Glass and G. L. Loomis, an even one hundred hours behind the St. Louis-Robin reported everything going good except the weather.

Owen Haugland, who is having his third or fourth try at a record for sustained flight, has passed his 31st hour in the air and with his co-pilot Capt. P. L. Crichton, is flying over Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa this afternoon in an effort to remain aloft until he knows what record he will have to break.

Reaching for Wickersham's Scalp

Some Teams Just Can't Seem to Work Together in Double Harness!

Chmn. George W. Wickersham of the Hoover law enforcement commission has many bitter critics trailing him. They are reaching for his scalp. They demand his resignation. They say he is a rank vet.

Chmn. Wickersham is an outspoken individual. He gave great offense to the drys while addressing the students of William and Mary college before his appointment by Pres. Hoover; he made use of the following language:

"The policy of the Jones law which seems to compel observance of prohibition law by more rigorous penalties, probably will defeat itself through the consequences it entails. It requires the prosecution by indictment and not by information in every case. This will mean one of two things, either a very large increase in the number of special judges or the continued embarrassment of civil litigants in the delays caused by the welling tide of criminal indictments and trial under the prohibition act."

Wickersham has been president of the American Bar association. He is a former attorney general of the United States. He knows his own mind and he speaks it. He further offended the drys in an address before the Berkley Divinity school commencement at New Haven, on June 4, when he linked the church and crime or else militant preachers of the dry cause insisted that he linked the church and crime when he said:

"It is of course common knowledge that the ministry, which a century ago disputed with the bar the primacy in education, has fallen to the rear and can no longer pretend to intellectual leadership in any branch of human knowledge. The church formerly exercised a restraining influence upon the lawless tendencies of certain elements of the community. Perhaps it still does to some extent, but no one can fail to realize that its authority has been greatly weakened if not destroyed."

Chmn. Wickersham's plan was not accepted by the national convention of governors. He advanced the proposal that the 48 states should make large appropriations annually for the enforcement of the pro laws, leaving it to the federal authority to enforce the Volstead and the Jones acts against the importation of intoxicants from foreign countries, as well as to the arrest and punishment of so-called higher-ups who are said to be responsible for the Canadian inflow of liquor as well as the inflow from Mexico, South American nations and European countries.

Those who are close to him say that Chmn. Wickersham will not resign, that he will not muzzle his tongue, that he intends to go all and not half the road and then the commission in the distant future will submit its findings, through the president, to the American congress.

Mexicans Facing Deportation
Under the new immigration regulation thousands of Mexican laborers in the lower Rio Grande valley, who are apparently there illegally, are subject to deportation because they do not know how to legalize their interests. This is the viewpoint of Sec. J. E. Bell of the San Benito Chamber of Commerce. His theory is that some of them do not have funds to hire attorneys or to do anything else that is necessary to legalize their interests.

Now Mexican labor must be saved for the valley work and Sec. Bell advocates a valley immigration bureau, which will give information and service free to the Mexican of the lower country.

Rep. Box is swinging around the circle in Texas. He is for deportation regardless. Valley wealth makers need seasonal labor. They should get busy and back to a finish the program outlined by Sec. Bell. If the Mexicans are legally here then they should not be deported. If they are ignorant of their rights then they should be taught their rights by employers of labor in the Rio Grande sections of the commonwealth. If they are illegally here they should be deported. Law is law.

HOT SHOT

Dr. Arthur S. Granger at the recent meeting of the national convention of the American Medical association. He advanced the theory that no cure is known for high blood pressure. There is only one way out of it; make an excitable patient stop worrying or to displace an excitable nature by a calm one. If the patient inherited nerves, then he is a victim at the very beginning of high blood pressure. Let it go at that.

Motor Vehicle Death Rate
Automobile figured in approximately one of every four accidental deaths in the United States during 1928. There were 300,000 cases in which Americans met sudden end and 27,500 were caused by automobile accidents. Automobile accidents for the most part were caused by reckless or inefficient drivers. Why not license drivers in Texas? All drivers are licensed in the New England states. A driver in that section of the American republic knows the value of a license. He knows when a license is forfeited for a traffic violation he is out of a job.

Reprieved Ten Times, May Yet Get Freedom

AUSTIN, July 26.—Already reprieved ten times when within a short distance of the electric chair, Juan Flores may yet get free. He is sentenced now to die on July 30, but a new effort to save his life was instituted today by Attorney William Schlessinger of San Antonio, former member of the Texas Legislature. Schlessinger laid the case before Governor Moody.

Flores was convicted of killing Manuel Fernandez in San Antonio. The first day set for Flores to die was March 16, 1928. Successive reprieves have been granted to permit search for another person now believed to have stabbed Fernandez. A woman who identified Flores at his trial has since said she thought she was mistaken.

Hoodlums Resent Close of Dog Race

CHICAGO, July 26.—All of Cook county's big horse racing tracks were being guarded today against possible bombings, incendiarism or other vandalism.

Threats of reprisal against the horse racing operators had come from hoodlums angered over the closing of the dog racing plants, the state attorney's office reported. Shutdown of the Hawthorne dog track was regarded as a bitter blow to the vice-interests.

"It netted Al Capone $500,000 a year," said Pat Rocks, chief investigator for the state's attorney.

MARKETS

BY UNITED PRESS
NEW YORK, July 26.—Expectation of showery weather throughout the central cotton belt resulted in a scarcity of contracts on the local exchange in the early dealings today and futures advanced to net gains of from 4 to 14 points.

Scattered buying was in evidence for the account of Wall Street and trade interests and there was some selling by Liverpool and spot houses. New Orleans advices indicated a strong position in that market. Sentiment around the local ring was mixed and there was a disposition to await private reports on the crop.

Wall Street
NEW YORK, July 26.—Confusing movements were noted in all sections of the stock exchange list today. Trading was relatively quiet in the general list with a few shares singled out for attention. American Telephone and Telegraph made another spectacular display reaching a new record at 273 where it was up 6 1/2 points for the day and up nearly 80 points from the low of the year. The stock later lost part of its gain in profit-taking.

Bethlehem Steel responded readily to its earnings statement for the first half showing net of 9.38 a share, compared with $2.51 for the same period of 1928. Action of Bethlehem in raising the dividend rate from $4 to $6 annually inspired rather heavy buying in U. S. Steel which reached 208 3/8. It lost part of this in the late afternoon.

General Electric made a new high at 273 1/4 up to 1-4; Westinghouse rose 3-4 to 293 after copper shares took on renewed life at higher prices late in the session. At the same time a long list of other issues declined from fractions to more than 3 points.

Officers Arrest Man They Find Operating Still

Sheriff Foster and Deputies Surprised Gerald Green, Near Nimrod Last Night.

Sheriff Virge Foster and members of his staff last night arrested Gerald Green, whom they surprised about 11 o'clock while he was operating a whiskey still in a pasture on what is known as the Old Moss farm, five miles west of Nimrod. The still was hidden in a dense thicket and the officers had Green surrounded before he was aware of their presence in the vicinity.

Green was brought to Eastland where charges of manufacturing liquor, possessing a still and possessing liquor were lodged against him in Justice of the Peace Jim Steele's court. He was placed in the county jail pending the making of bonds on the charges.

The officers secured a barrel partially filled with whiskey and destroyed 2,000 or 3,000 pounds of mash. The still was also destroyed.

Burro Is Back on Job After 500-Foot Fall

EUGENE, Ore., July 26.—A member of the burro family put a bluish on the reputation of that species of pack animal as far as sure-footedness is concerned when he fell five hundred feet over a precipice in the Cascade mountain recently.

The little animal set a new record for hardhood, however. DeW Wright, packer and guide, told the story when he came into town here recently. While traveling a narrow trail the burro slipped and fell over the edge of the cliff for an almost sheer drop of 500 feet. Then he rolled another 500 and lodged in a clump of trees on the mountainside.

When released from the limbs between which he was jammed, the tough little beast leaped to his feet. The next day he was back in the pack train and carrying his accustomed load.

Twenty-Five Cent Investment To Pay A Million

CLEVELAND, O., July 26.—Robert Gordon, 24, former taxi driver, out of work for three weeks, was offered one million dollars today for land which he won on a raffle ticket costing 25 cents in San Antonio, Tex., three years ago.

"A fellow named Sanders came up yesterday morning and offered me a million dollars for the three acres I own down there," Gordon explained today. "He said they struck oil on my property. And I told him to stop kidding me. It took him a long time to convince me. Out of work and now worth a million dollars. Gosh, what a break."

Three years ago while a student at the aviation school at the Brooks-Kelly field at San Antonio, Tex., Gordon attended an auto show.

"They had a raffle and I bought a ticket, and won three acres out near Paris, Tex. The land was all barren, just a couple of weeds sticking out. But they started building out near here so I thought I would hold on to it figuring I'd have a chance for a quarter," Gordon related. "So I paid $75 to have the land surveyed."

Gordon plans to leave tomorrow night with Sanders to go to the scene of the gusher. "I want to see what they are offering me a million dollars for," Gordon explained.

So excited has Gordon been over the news that he could not remember the name of the firm Sanders was representing.

While Having A Nightmare Boy Tells of Holdup

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 26.—Cecil Flutey's nightmare went down in the annals of detective work here today.

And because Flutey suffered such violent somnambulism, police held an inquiring confession and Cecil was in jail.

For many hours last night police patrols sought to solve a series of curb holdups.

Then suspicious attendants at Independence sanitarium revealed a youth had been taken there suffering mysterious wounds.

Detectives learned Flutey had taken the youth to the sanitarium. Approaching Flutey's home, they were startled by shouts from a bedroom.

Flutey was having his nightmare. The sleuths came nearer. Flutey screamed details of a shooting, blood, the wounding of his pal.

Detectives shook him, took him to jail and had him repeat the story revealing Flutey, 17, clerk, and Leonard Rollett, 21, his pal, were principals of the holdups stopped when they attempted to rob C. E. Healey, member of a bankers' patrol.

Healey had opened fire and wounded Rollett dangerously.

BEAUTIFUL ENTERTAINMENT FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

The marriage of Miss Argye Mary McCannies to Preston Briggs set for 11 o'clock this morning, has given occasion for some pretty affairs, arranged by the members of the family, and also by Mrs. Wayne Jones, and Miss Faye Blankenship who entertained with a formal announcement breakfast at 7 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Jones. Beautiful flowers graced the room and a low silver bowl filled with a colorful cluster of garden blooms centered the breakfast table, laid in glistening damask and with places indicated by hand painted bride cards bearing the guests' name. The menu of iced canteloupe had second course of breakfast plate, compose of buttered toast, and creamed chicken in pastry cups; fried pineapple slices with cottage cheese balls and coffee. The colors, green and white, of the pretty affair were noted also in the big array of the beautiful shower of linens. Each gift was wrapped in these delicate tones, and the entire trayful was presented to the bride-to-be as the "dessert" of the breakfast.

The delightful morning was enjoyed by the honoree, Miss McCannies, Mrs. Fred Maxey, Mrs. Turner Collie, Miss Vera Hearn, Miss Jessie Lee Ligon, Mrs. H. A. McCannies, the mother of the bride-to-be, her sister, Miss Dorothy McCannies and hostesses, Miss Faye Blankenship and Mrs. Wayne Jones.

MISS KATHLEEN STOWE SE EL PASO TENDERED PRETTY AFFAIRS

Miss Mary Pearl Judkins and her mother, Mrs. Frank Judkins of 910 South Bassett street, have been hostess to Kathleen Stowe of El Paso who was the honoree of several affairs Tuesday and Wednesday, the last days of her Eastland stay, as her visit here was interrupted by several days spent in Dallas in company with Miss Judkins, during their visit in the home of Miss Stowe's brother, a physician in that city.

Miss Stowe, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Stowe of El Paso, is a student in University of college of mines of that city and has been an intimate friend of Miss Judkins the past two or three years.

Wednesday morning, a delightful bridge at the residence of the hostess with luncheon afterwards in the private dining room on the second floor of the Cornellee ushered in several social events for the day honoring Miss Stowe. For bridge Mrs. Judkins received the guests at the door and they were then presented to Miss Judkins and honoree, Miss Stowe, assisted in receiving by Miss Wilma Lambert and her house guest, Miss Bobbie Williams of Granbury. Iced punch was served by Miss Thelma Snelling from a bowl massed in roses and placed on a lace covered low stand banked in flowers. The house was decorated throughout with American Beauties in green

FORMER BUICK DEALER IS NOW AIDE TO HOOVER

Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri is new Secretary of Agriculture

President Hoover's recent appointment of former Gov. Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri as Secretary of Agriculture, brings for the first time a man from the automobile industry to the cabinet of the nation's chief executive. Secretary Hyde has long been a Buick dealer at Trenton, Mo.

The appointee has established a remarkable record both in political circles and as a business man. Coming, as he does, from the very heart of the automobile industry through his long association with problems confronting tillers of the soil, is especially qualified to meet the responsibilities connected with this highly important cabinet post.

Being the owner of three large farms in Missouri, Mr. Hyde has a first hand knowledge of the farm problem. The work confronting the new secretary will be largely of an administrative nature, and his automobile business experience will be of inestimable value in dealing with the ramifications of the farm question, because it, too, is essentially a business problem.

As a lawyer he administered to the farmer's legal needs; as a merchantiser of Buick cars his dealings with them brought him into even closer touch with their financial and domestic problems as governor of Missouri he became the champion of their cause—and now as a member of President Hoover's cabinet he is to become instrumental in solving one of the most difficult situations confronting the American nation.

Secretary Hyde is an intensely active man. When he practiced law he was eminently successful. Law has always been his central activity, but as time went by he became increasingly interested in the automotive world as a dealer in Buick Motor cars. He has made a remarkable success of his automobile business, which he retained during his tenure of office as governor and in which he still has an interest.

WONDERFUL DEMONSTRATION OF "ESTHER" UNDER AUSPICES CLASS IN EVANGELISM

The demonstration for the Bible lesson "Esther," conducted by Mrs. Tom Harrel, yesterday afternoon for the Church of Christ had an attendance of about 30 children and several teachers, the latter having classes in recitation of the Lord's Prayer, the 23rd Psalm, the Ten Commandments, the Beatitudes, and the books of the Bible. Of his course, the only child who had finished the studies, Elizabeth Ann Harrell, was assigned the second course which includes the memorizing of the divisions of the books of the Bible and the names of the writer of each book. Also, the meaning of "Anointment."

The demonstration table was built up in facsimile of the kingdom of Ahasuerus who controlled Babylonia, the Medes, the Persians, Palestine, all of Asia Minor and part of Africa. In fact, what was called "the world" at that time. The geography was scaled and explained to the eager children and the palace of this emperor or king in Shushan, where this city was his headquarters, was shown and the interior demonstrated. The king was on his throne dressed in all his gorgeous colorings, and the attendants about him were historically displayed. The speaker described the feast Ahasuerus gave in honor of the princess of his court and the flow of wine which they drank in great quantities. The king became drunk and demanded that his queen, Vashti, appear before him, that all might see her and envy him. But it was an unheard thing for a woman to unveil herself to public gaze, and Vashti refused. Her fate is known; she was expelled from the kingdom. Some months later the king rallied from his debauch and realized that he had no queen. He demanded that the most beautiful girl of the whole kingdom be brought before him. This resulted in a regular "bathing girl revue" though they didn't call it that in those times. Among these, Esther, who was the niece of Mordecai, the Jew, made her appearance. The king did not know Esther was a Jewess. He fell in love with her and made her his queen. The story of her influence and work in behalf of her people is "another story." The demonstrations will be continued and that of next Thursday afternoon will delve into the rich history of ancient Bible lore. All children invited.

Who Does Your Washing?

It is quite safe to say that the average housewife in Eastland has a real dislike for wash day. It means not only disagreeable work, but it takes up precious time, and when it's all over she's entirely worn out.

And mother isn't the only one who dreads wash day. She bears the brunt of it—it's the real ogre of her week—but wash day meals have become a tradition.

Even with improved equipment, wash day means an entire day in the housewife's week. The average home can't have all the equipment wash day requires, and what is lacking in equipment must be made up in hard work.

Our laundries on the other hand, wash hundreds of clothes every day in the week. They can install the best and most modern equipment because their business is washing clothes.

Eastland women are coming to depend more and more upon the laundry for their weekly washing. It means a great saving in both time and disposition.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MOLLY BURNHAM and JACK WELLS seems fated to quarrel. Molly is a reporter, and headed for a career. Jack is draftsman in an architect's office, and getting news at all.

quarrel when Molly goes to work and reads Jack the copy of a play, to be called "Death of Delphine Darrows." The play founded on the actual death of the mysterious death of a woman named BERNICE BRAD-
RD. A man named Barrows was tried for the Bradford woman's death, and Molly covered the trial. Barrows was acquitted, and later, RED FLYNN, a police reporter, discovered some sensational facts which he and Molly decide to use for the plot of a crime play.

Molly is very happy and excited, and confidently expects to be a successful playwright. But Jack is jealous and old-fashioned. He protests that he does not like to have her write filth and muck. Molly has changed a great deal, she reflects, during the few months that have elapsed since her graduation from college. Her dearest friends, in college days, were FEA NELNOTTE and RUTH WOODS, both of whom were recently married before commencement. Jack infinitely preferred the old friendships to Molly's new ones.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIV

The week-end in New York consisted of two days of wretchedness. Molly had expected praise and encouragement from Jack. And she received instead disparagement and censure. He disapproved every line of her work. He was a faithful of Red Flynn. And hated, he admitted, the ways of all newspaper men.

"Why don't you write something worth while, Molly?" he pleaded.

"What would you suggest?" she had inquired, frigidly polite.

But Jack was vague. "Oh, something nice," he floundered. "You used to write sweet little verses. And I bet you could write pretty stories for children. Then there are all the high class magazines. My gosh, Molly, you have to write for such a screaming newspaper."

"But I want to earn money, Jack," she had defended herself. "Poetry doesn't pay anything. Besides, I'm no poet. As for children's magazines—" She fluttered her white little hands despairingly. "I tell you, dear, a steady job on a newspaper is best. It assures an income, you see, and doesn't prohibit me from taking a fling at your high class magazines. Or even trying my hand at a play."

Jack groaned. "That play again! Of all the sordid, rotten themes you picked the darndest. If you want to write a play, why don't you write about something decent?"

"It doesn't pay," she informed him tartly.

"How about Peter Pan?"

"But that was ages ago, dear. Eugene O'Neill doesn't write fairy tales, nor Charles McArthur and Ben Hecht. Take the outstanding successes. Crime plays, or sex plays, all of them."

"So that's what you want to do?" he demanded disgreably.

"Write crime and sex?"

"I want to make money," she told him wearily. "to buy all the lovely things I dream about, and go all the lovely places I've read about."

"But it isn't only money that I want. I want to BE somebody. Not just little Molly Burnham who married that nice young man, Jack Wells..."

"Don't let me cramp your style," he injected bitterly.

And so they quarreled and bickered, and Jack never guessed that womanlike, Molly would have forsaken all her dreams of wealth and fame for a man who could dominate her. So he criticized and found fault, and adopted quite the wrong tactics, until Molly was glad when it was time to leave.

"It hasn't been a very nice week-end," she confessed penitently at parting, "and I feel as though it was pretty much my fault. I guess I'm awfully selfish. I love you with all my heart, Jack. But getting married, to cook pot roasts and darn socks and budget on $45 a week, doesn't sound half so romantic as it used to. I've had my taste of independence, and found it sweet. Do you hate me, darling, for being modern and hardboiled, and all the horrid things you abominate?"

"Hate you!" he cried. "Oh, Molly dear, if I were only good enough for you, and clever, and rich!"

She put her fingers to his lips. "Sh! Honey, we're BOTH going to knock 'em dead!"

In the morning Molly went directly from the train to the courthouse. As she approached the building she was conscious of a curious atmosphere of suppressed excitement. Plainclothes men lounged on the courthouse steps, while others, in uniform, kept curious pedestrians moving. In the corridor she met Slim Boynton.

"There's hell to pay," he told her grimly. "And if you don't get jailed for contempt of court, you are luckier than you deserve. One of the jury men got hold of a story you wrote. Of course they're supposed to look at the newspapers, but this bird did. And now he admits that he's all set to find Mandinello guilty. Attorneys for the defense have petitioned for a mistrial, and the judge is considering the evidence now. You'll probably be called to his chambers any minute. It's Wharton's fault. And now the whole outfit's liable to go to jail."

"Slim! You don't mean it?"

Molly experienced a dreadful sinking feeling, and her knees became suddenly weak.

"Sure I mean it. What do you think I am, a practical little jok-er? Ask any of the boys. Look in the courtroom there. Its empty isn't it? Wharton's been phoning all morning. Wants you to call him. They may take a chance, and send you up to Canada, until the thing blows over."

Molly was genuinely frightened. She had visions of going to jail, and wearing a striped dress like a woman she had interviewed in the house of correction.

A court officer approached her kindly.

"Judge Brewster wishes to see you, Miss Burnham."

"Oh, my lord, Slim! What will I do?"

"Well, you can't very well run, observed Slim. "Go ahead and take your medicine."

Judge Brewster, formidable in his black robes, received her gently, explaining the situation with legal preciseness. He would be obliged, he said, to declare a mistrial. The fault was not so much hers, as the juryman's. He had warned the jury not to read the papers. There had been, it would appear, a serious misdemeanor. A friend of the accused man had sent a newspaper containing a story of Molly's to this particular juryman. Certain passages of the story had been penciled.

"An unprejudiced person reading that article would undoubtedly be influenced against the defendant," declared the judge. "As a newspaper woman you have no right to be anything but impartial in what you write. It is a serious offense, and frequently merits a fine, or a jail sentence. In view however, of the evident conspiracy among Mandinello's friends, I am inclined to deal leniently with your own offense."

"Whoever it was who sent the paper containing your story to Juryman Flagler, communicated the fact to attorneys for the defense. They promptly demanded an investigation, and I have questioned Mr. Flagler. He admits having read the article, and declares that he is now predisposed to find the defendant guilty. In view of his sworn statement, I must call a mistrial."

The judge stopped speaking and Molly raised her flushed face to meet his judicial gaze, fixed sternly upon her.

"I'm fearfully sorry," she stammered. "There isn't anything I can say. I've no defense, no excuse."

He regarded her more kindly "Allow me to commend your chivalry, Miss Burnham. It transcends your indiscretion. It is uncommonly gallant when a person brought to accounting declines to transfer the responsibility for the offense. I have investigated the matter more deeply than I had indicated, and have learned that your city editor ordered the articles."

Molly shook her head. "I write my own stories," she insisted. "Mr. Wharton is not responsible."

Judge Brewster rose, and his black robes billowed solemnly about him.

"That is all," he said. "Except that I should advise you, Miss Burnham, for your own good, to be more careful in the future. Gunmen execute fearful reprisals."

Slim was waiting when Molly left the judge's chambers.

"It's all right," she said. "I'm not going to jail."

But Slim was in a dark mood. "Maybe you'll get shot," he hazarded. "Maybe you'd be better off in jail. They couldn't get at you if you were behind the bars."

"Oh, Slim, stop! You make my blood run cold. Have you phoned the office? Judge Brewster is declaring a mistrial."

"Sure, I gave them that 10 minutes ago. Wharton's up in the air. The publisher has been giving him the devil, I guess. And he says for you to keep out of the office until he sends for you. Wants the thing to blow over before you show up, I guess. Talk about getting all the breaks! You pull a gag you ought to get sent to jail for, and what do you rate? A vacation?"

Molly laughed, light-heartedly. The dreadful cloud had lifted. The dark fear was all dispelled. She felt happy and gay.

"I'll have a little dinner party tonight," she thought. "Not any of the crowd from the office. I'll ask Rita and Bob, and Ruth and Zip. It will be like old times to be with them again."

She telephoned from the courthouse, and reached Rita at Miss Mayhew's. Rita said that she and Bob would love to go. They had talked of dropping in that evening anyhow, it was such ages since they had seen Molly.

But Ruth said she didn't feel well. Besides, Zip was busy at the office, and sometimes he didn't get home until pretty late. It made things wretched, because they couldn't very well accept dinner invitations. Not that it made any difference, Ruth added. She didn't feel like going out, anyhow. She couldn't imagine what had come over her lately. Zip said she was like an old woman.

"You sound so unhappy, dear!" lamented Molly.

"Maybe you'd sound unhappy," replied Ruth reproachfully, "if you'd lost your little baby..." and Molly heard her sob before she hung up the receiver.

She felt as though she had been tactless and unsympathetic, and later that day she sent Ruth some flowers.

It was a very successful small dinner. Molly's china was mostly Italian, and so she planned an Italian meal.

They were sitting over their coffee when the bell rang. The finger that was ringing it pressed on the button, and held it maddeningly. Molly released the door, but the bell continued to ring. She called through the speaking tube. But still the bell rang with unceasing insistence.

"Something's up. I'll see who it is," offered Bob.

He was gone for several minutes, and hearing strange noises in the hall, the girls went to investigate. Bob was propelling a man up the stairs—a man who waved his arms about and was making dreadful sounds.

"It's Zip!" cried Rita.

"Zip? But Zip doesn't drink." Molly ran down to the landing. "What's the matter, Bob? What's the matter with Zip?" she demanded.

Bob was trying to quiet him. "Here Zip, that's no way to act. Get yourself in hand, can't you old man?"

"Is he drunk, Bob?"

Bob shook his head. Then Zip recognized Molly. He flung himself away from Bob, and threw his arms about her. He was crying like a child.

"Get him upstairs," Bob was saying. "The janitor thinks he's drunk."

LOOK FORWARD TO ENCAMPMENT

RANGER, Texas, July 26.—All guardsmen are urged to be out Friday night by Capt. Wayne C. Hickey for drill.

It is only 10 days until annual encampment at Los Palacios and much remains to be done to prepare for camp. Last year fifty guardsmen from Ranger attended and the company was commended. It is hoped this year to equal or surpass last year's record.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CATHOLIC CHURCH

JULY 25th, 1929. Mass at 8 a. m. This is the Tenth Sunday after Pentecost and the gospel read in the Mass today is taken from the Gospel of St. Luke VIII:9-14.

As at all times, there were people as we read in the gospel of today, who trusted in themselves as just and despised others—people who attributed the good qualities which they possessed, or thought that they possessed, to themselves, and not to God; who thought a great deal of their virtues and good works and looked with contempt on others. To this class belonged the Pharisees in particular, who, on account of their outward justice and zealous observance of their self-made ordinances, imagined themselves to be models of holiness, and scarcely condescended to look

Our divine Saviour raises his voice against these proud and conceited men, and shows in the parable of the Pharisee and the publican that God resists the proud and gives his grace to the humble. Let us examine then the prayer of the Pharisee who said: "O God, I give thanks that I am not as the rest of men", and the prayer of the publican who said: "O God, be merciful to me a sinner."

1ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday School at 9:45 morning worship 11 o'clock. Union service will be held at 8:15 on last Sunday night.

We have just closed one of the best revivals in many years this church has had during the past four years. The cooperation of other churches was appreciated very much and the spirit of the meeting was certainly very fine. Those who came into church will mean much to the work and we hope to be of help to them.

Sunday morning I am going to take as my subject what an 8 year old girl said to me at the close of the service Sunday night. It was a very touching incident and worthy of the consideration of all. I hope to have this little girl with others on the platform with me.

Come and let us face the issue as it really is. All are welcome.

Get Tough Is Advice, If You Want An 'It' Girl!

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—And, gentlemen, the way to win one of those "it" girls is to trot out the cave-man act.

The authority for that method is Harry Richman, New York stage actor and night club owner, who really ought to know since he is about to be wedded to Clara Bow, the original "it" girl of the screen.

"I got tough with her," he told the United Press in an exclusive interview today. "She was accustomed to being 'yessed' by everyone. Instead of saying 'yes,' I said what I pleased and I won the greatest little girl that ever lived. "The first time I telephoned her I asked her if I could come over that night.

"She said I couldn't, that she had been working hard in a picture and didn't feel well.

"I said, 'All right, I'll be over in ten minutes.'

"She said, 'No, you won't.'

"But I was over to her house in 10 minutes and 15 minutes later I persuaded her to marry me."

Richman, here to make one picture for United States, waved his hand by way of illustration and revealed thereon a beautiful gold slave bracelet.

Hopkins, who is 60 years old, expects to be adjudged a great nephew of Mark Hopkins, a "forty-niner," who died intestate at San Francisco in 1878. The local grocer estimated his share of the reputed $350,000,000 estate at $30,000,000.

Besides Hopkins, there are 59 other claimants to the "forty-niner's" wealth living in Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Oregon. North suit charges a young man who designated himself as Timothy Hopkins, adopted son of Mark, is now illegally enjoying the latter's wealth.

Hopkins — when his dream train comes in, if ever-said he planned to buy a mansion with hot and cold running water, electric lights and above all an electric, washing machine for "Mom" — his wife.

Others who claim to be great nephews of Mark Hopkins are: Mack Hopkins, Morrow, O.; Steve Hopkins, Wallins Creek, Ky.; brothers of the grocer: Henry Hopkins, Milton Ore.; Joe and George Hopkins, Crab Orchard, Ky., and A. A. Barbourville, Ky. Each claim $30,000,000.

Effect of the Lively Ball Upon Baseball Is Discussed

EDITOR'S Note: The following is the 2nd of a series of stories on the effect of the lively ball on the national game.

DALAS, Tex., July 26.—Something is aiding the batters to score more and longer hits these days but managers of teams in the Texas league are unable to agree on whether the cause is a lively baseball or inferior pitching.

Art Phelan, manager of the Shreveport club, holds the opinion that it's the ball.

"The lively ball is causing the big scores and long games," Phelan told the United Press. "It is causing the teams to carry extra players. A less lively ball would be a boon to the game."

On the other hand Pancho Snyder, pilot of the Ft. Worth Gats believes that poor pitching is more to blame than the widely condemned ball.

"I think less effective pitching is to blame for the great increase in hitting, more than the lively ball," he said. "Pitchers should be allowed to rub the ball with anything they wish as long as they don't discolor it, or roughen it in spots."

Pat Newman, leader of the San Antonio team is one of those who believe the ball is a handicap.

"The ball used at present is much too lively. The pitchers and infielders are working at a big disadvantage and mediocre players are getting lots of hits."

The pitchers should be allowed to use more oil balls," Jim Robertson of Beaumont said. "If they are forced to use a shiny one they can't get much stuff on their deliveries. I don't think the lively ball is hurting baseball."

stand the pounding to which it is subjected in an average game.

"Something should be done to cut down the liveliness of the balls and make them more durable," he said. "Manufacturers are overlooking durability in trying to make the balls speedy."

It's a scarcity of pitching talent in the opinion of Milton Stock, of the Dallas Steers.

"The cycle now favors the batter as it did the pitcher some years ago," he said. "We have a scarcity of young pitching talent."

Del Pratt, of Waco, was the only other manager with an opinion to express.

"Too much hitting and not enough pitching is having a bad effect on the game. Fans are growing tired of slugfests."

Gene Bailey, of Houston, made no comment either way.

Eastland Tailor Says Change In His Wife Is Nothing Short of Remarkable Since Taking Orgatone

"After seeing the good Orgatone has done my wife, I don't hesitate to say it's a wonderful medicine and I think everybody who is suffering ought to know about it," said H. Z. Mathews, residing at 1521 S. Bassett St., Eastland, Tex.

"Yes sir, Orgatone has made a different woman of her," he continued, "and we are so happy over her recovery that we can't stop talking about it. She suffered terribly for three long years with indigestion and finally got so weak and run down she could hardly get around to do her ordinary household work. She didn't have any appetite and what little food she ate would sour and cause gas to form that bloated her all up and made her feel miserable. This trouble was made her so nervous she couldn't get any sleep to do her any good and would get up in the morning feeling tired and all worn out. She had awful headaches too, and sometimes they were so severe and lasted so long I began to get real worried about her."

"We had been noticing where so many people right here in Eastland were getting relief from their troubles by taking Orgatone that we decided to try it, and it's the honest truth, the change it has made in her is nothing short of remarkable. Why, I've never seen anything to equal it. Her indigestion is nearly all gone and she don't ever have any more of those miserable spells from gas on her stomach. She has only taken one bottle but her nerves are as quiet and steady as can be and she sleeps sound all night and feels bright and fresh when morning comes and works around the house all day long without getting tired at all and she says she can almost feel herself getting stronger every day."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called patent remedy but a scientific treatment and is actively used by drug Co.

for the second time in a row, 10 to 3. Sixteen batters on the teams went to first base on balls yesterday.

Other games were postponed on account of rain.

Watching the Scoreboard.

Yesterday's hero: Hack Wilson gained this distinction for the second consecutive day when he clubbed two doubles and a home run to aid Chicago in its third straight victory over the New York Giants. The score was 8 to 5.

Wilson's homer, his third in two days, was not as effective as his second double which came in the eighth inning and drove in two runs. The victory increased Chicago's lead in the National league by a half game as the Pittsburgh Pirates were idle.

With Haines in form, St. Louis scored an easy victory over Philadelphia, 10 to 3. Two of the four hits Haines allowed were home runs.

Cincinnati opened a consistent attack against the Boston Braves and hammered out a 14 to 2 victory. Red Lucas went the whole route for Cincinnati, allowing nine hits.

The Philadelphia Athletics were hitting the ball on the nose and rolled up a 21 to 3 decision over Cleveland. Jimmy Foxx hit two homers for the winners and Mule Haas and Lefty Grove added one each.

Chicago took a 10 inning game from Washington, 3 to 1, using Walsh, McKain and Weiland on the mound to turn the trick. Fred Marberry pitched the whole game for the Senators.

Rain and wet grounds forced postponement of other games scheduled in the two majors.

After announcing that he would establish residence in Nevada in order to file a divorce suit against his colored wife, Leonard Kip Rhineland, scion of a rich and socially prominent New York family, dropped out of sight for some weeks. After reporters and cameramen had looked for him for days without success, he was finally located at Mount Charleston, Nev., an isolated spot about 40 miles from the Union Pacific railway's line at Las Vegas.
