EASTLAND COUNTY FAIR COMMITTEE IS NAMED

WORK STARTS IMMEDIATELY ON PROGRAM

H. H. Johnson Named Chairman and J. M. Nunn Vice-Chairman of Committee in Charge.

Activities in connection with the annual Eastland county fair, which is to be held in Eastland on September 19, 20 and 21, were begun Wednesday afternoon when the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, in a joint meeting with the Eastland Retail Merchants' association, appointed H. H. Johnson as chairman and J. M. Nunn as vice-chairman of the county fair committee. K. B. Tanner was named secretary-treasurer of the committee.

Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce stated that it had been decided to hold the fair in the downtown district as it had been done so successfully the past two years. According to County Agent J. C. Patterson there will be ten, one and two day community fairs held in the county this fall, the first of these will be on September 4 and the last on September 16. The exhibits shown at these fairs will be brought to Eastland and placed on display at the county fair.

Witnesses Say Leahy Is Sane

GEORGETOWN, July 25.—Seven witnesses testified in the morning session today that Harry J. Leahy, defendant in a sanity hearing held in a sane mind and knows the consequences of murder and the difference between right and wrong.

The only witness for the defense was Mrs. J. R. Ullivan of Corpus Christi, Leahy's sister.

Mrs. Sullivan told of a long sickness of which Leahy was a victim, the illness having been some twenty years ago, during which Leahy was at times delirious and unconscious. She said that she noticed a change in his actions after he was held in jail and described the slazy state which was told of by defense witnesses yesterday.

The first state witness to testify was E. F. Harrell, warden of the state penitentiary at Huntsville, who said that although he had known Leahy since February, he had not noticed anything peculiar about his actions. He said the execution of prisoners in the death row could not be seen by other prisoners but that prisoners know when executions are in progress.

B. M. Taylor, accountant in the penitentiary, maintained that the defendant was of sane mind. He admitted he was in "deep water" however, when asked if he thought Leahy knew the consequences of his act.

Ranger Light Townsend, one of Leahy's present guards, testified that he had noticed no change in the defendant now in 1926 and that he failed to detect the "glassy stare" which had been testified to by five other witnesses.

H. E. Moore, secretary to the warden of the penitentiary, said his duty was to read letters going out from prisoners and that all of Leahy's "made good sense."

Marvin Johnson, state witness, testified he had known Leahy for 17 years and could notice no change in the actions of the condemned man now and when he first knew him, although he admitted he had not talked to Leahy since his last trial in 1927.

W. B. Gayle, district attorney from Beville, testified he had known Leahy since 1915 and considered him of sound mind and mentality.

NEWCASTLE, Penn., July 25.—John Seever, 40, Cleveland, shot and killed his wife and wounded another woman and her son while their automobile was being chased by state police on the Youngstown-Newcastle road near here today.

Mrs. Stella Seever, 66, died instantly. Mrs. Katherine Rogers, 40, is in a Newcastle hospital near death from five bullet wounds in her body and her son Walter, 10, is suffering from two wounds, one in the shoulder and the other in the arm.

Seever told newspapermen he is a bootlegger. He said he and the women had been drinking and had argued.

Chinese and Russians Mobilize as War Threat Looms

Russian and Chinese war lords and scenes like those that marked the mobilization of troops along the Manchurian frontier following the threat of hostilities, are pictured here. At upper left is General Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria and war lord of the Chinese republic. In the circle is General Dubenny, famous Russian cavalry leader, who was reported called from his vacation to direct military activities for the Soviet government. Above, Chinese troops are shown lined up for inspection and loading artillery into railway cars. Below are Russian soldiers on the march.

Wornout School Books Are Being Reconditioned

A Saving of More Than $2,200 to Rural School of County Is Effected.

During this week county superintendent, Miss Beulah Speer with the assistance of John Ralson of the State Text Book Rebinding company, is making a visit to practically every rural school in Eastland county for the purpose of gathering up all the worn out and disused text books. These books will be shipped to the State Department of Education at Austin for rebinding and reconditioning.

By the end of the week Miss Speer expects to have shipped approximately 4,500 books. These have been worn out by the schools in the past years and have no value in their present condition, but when remade they will be worth approximately $3,500. The State will have these books rebound for a loss of less than $200 thereby making a saving of more than $2,200. Rebinding of books is being carried on by the state department all over the state and is resulting in a large saving in supplying books to the school children of Texas, it is stated. At the same time the condition of the books used is improved and it instills into the child a trait of good citizenship to save and care for public property.

The money saved by the state by rebinding text books reverts back into the available school fund and is apportioned to the schools to pay teachers' salaries and general cost of running. The cost of supplying books has been less than $1 per capita during the past three years, and has been largely responsible for the state apportionment being at the highest mark in history at the present time.

Local Young Folks Have A Car Mishap

An automobile accident, which came near resulting seriously to a number of Eastland young folks, occurred at the crossing of South Seaman and Hill street last night shortly after 9 o'clock, when the cars occupied by Dee High and wife and driven by Mr. High and that occupied by Jim Tindall, Truett Fulcher, Misses Dorothy and Marie Knight, all of Eastland and Ray Fulcher of Waco, and driven by Truett Fulcher, came together.

Young Fulcher and Tindall were taken to the Payne-Carter hospital following the accident where they were treated for minor cuts and bruises and then sent to their homes.

Negro Found Beaten Almost to Death

DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—Nearly beaten to death by a white assailant, Arthur Jones, 36-year old negro chauffeur was treated at emergency hospital here today. Physicians said his skull was fractured and jaw possibly broken.

Police summoned to the scene raided the place and found 10 gallons of whiskey according to reports. Several men were said to have been arrested, among them the man who assaulted Jones.

Zigzag Desert Trail Reveals Thirst Tragedy

Bodies of Seven Victims of the Sun's Pitiless Rays Found on Scorching Sands.

EL CENTRO, Cal., July 25.—A tragedy of thirst was revealed here today by deputy sheriffs who followed a zigzag trail of footprints from an automobile found stranded in the desert near Niland until they came upon the bodies of six of its occupants sprawled face downward in the sand.

A seventh passenger was not made of the stern stuff which had driven his companions over miles of sage brush covered wasteland. His body was found beneath the automobile where he had crawled to escape a temperature of more than 105 degrees.

A telephone report from the deputies today gave few details of the search. The sheriff's office held out hope that one survivor of the ill-fated party might be found alive as it was said the deputies still were following the wavering track of one pair of feet.

Crowds Watch for Pope's Appearance

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent.
ROME, July 25.—The Eternal City presented a spectacle seldom matched in its long history as hundreds of thousands of Roman Catholics and visitors from every section of the world crowded toward St. Peter's square today in the hope of seeing a Pope of the Catholic church step out of the Vatican grounds for the first time since 1870.

Although the procession in which Pope Pius XI was to emerge from the Vatican was not scheduled to take place until early evening, the huge throngs which have invaded Rome during the past fortnight began early to make toward St. Peter's and hours before the actual procession was to begin nearly every vantage point in the famous square was occupied by spectators.

They awaited with eagerness the pealing of the bells of the churches of Rome which would herald to the world the beginning of the historical procession and the ultimate appearance of the Pontiff. The crowd for the most part was orderly and docile. A great number of Italian troops, Roman police and other guards was on hand to cope with possible emergencies.

VATICAN CITY, July 25.—Pope Pius XI ended today the long isolation of the heads of the Roman Catholic church within the confines of the Vatican.

A great and solemn procession wound through St. Peter's "mother church of the world," and about into the square in front, with the pope borne on a dais holding the sacred host to bless the world.

Not since 1870 had any pope left the confines of the Vatican. Today's procession passed through what a few months ago was Italian soil, but is now, under the lateran treaties, a part of the sovereign Papal state.

The sun was setting behind St. Peter's, the gilding the tops of buildings, and casting a mellow glow over the spectacle in the great square filled with more than 200,000 persons come to witness the event.

HATCHER ENTERS GOVERNOR'S RACE

DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—Announcing that he would freely discuss the official acts of "public officials from governor to constable" whose official acts merited discussion, W. Gregory Hatcher, Dallas, state treasurer, today announced his candidacy for governor of Texas.

In his formal statement Hatcher pledged himself to lower the cost of running the state from $50,000,000 to $40,000,000 if he is elected, he also announced himself as opposed to chain banking and said he would not knowingly grant charters to banks operated by chains.

Hatcher's announcement came as a surprise today following an altercation at the state capitol yesterday in which he was struck by James Shaw after a heated meeting of the state banking commission. Shaw is said to have declared he would "break every bone in his (Hatcher's) body if he says anything about me."

Hatcher said today he would follow his formal statement with a "free discussion" of the acts of James Shaw and any other public officials whose official acts he set fit to discuss.

Pilot of World's Biggest Airplane

He has a big job of flying to do. Herr Wagener, above, is chief pilot of Germany's giant 100-passenger seaplane. He flew the huge flying boat—largest heavier-than-air craft in the world—on its inaugural take-off from Lake Constance, Switzerland, recently. He may pilot the big twelve-motored ship across the Atlantic.

Moody Approves Rural School Aid Bill of $5,000,000

AUSTIN, Tex., July 25.—First of the major appropriation bills of the recent session of the legislature was approved by Gov. Moody yesterday when he signed the bill giving $5,000,000 to aid rural free schools. He had vetoed a previous appropriation of $5,500,000 for the same purpose.

Without signature he permitted a $2,500 appropriation for Cuba school district in Johnson county. It is to help replace a school house that was destroyed by storm.

The proposal to send a legislative committee to Washington at state expense to urge location of a veteran's hospital in Texas was vetoed.

Robin Is Still Up After 293 Hours Run

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Rbine in the monoplane St. Louis Robin, passed their 293rd consecutive hour in the air at 12:17 p. m. today.

They had then been in the air 45 hours longer than any human flier, and were half way through their 13th day of flight.

"Engine running like a race-horse," said a note they dropped to the field.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Record breaking refueling endurance flights, so far this year, including the date, the name of the fliers, the place, the type of ship and the time up, according to statistics compiled by the National Aeronautical association, follow:

January 17, Los Angeles; Maj. Carl Spitz, Capt. Ira Eaker, Lieut. Harry A. Halverson, Lieut. Elwood R. Quesada and Sergt. Roy W. Hoop, in an army Fokker, C-Q-A, 150 hours, 40 minutes and 14 seconds.

May 19-26, Fort Worth; Rognald Robbins and James Kelly, in a Ryan monoplane, B-1 brougham, 172 hours, 23 minutes and 1 second.

THE 'IT' GIRL DENIES SHE WILL MARRY

Clara Bow Says She Doesn't Know If She Is In Love.

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent.
HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—And, gentlemen, it's going to take more than a "cave-man" from Broadway to tell Clara Bow when she will get married.

Yesterday, Harry Richmond, New York actor and night club owner, announced to the world at large that his he-man tactics had won the "it" girl of the screen and that he would marry her before Sept. 12.

Today, Miss Bow, in an exclusive interview, told the United Press she hadn't heard about the marriage date—and that Richmond was a little hasty perhaps.

"You see," she said, "I'm not even sure I'm in love. I'm not even sure I know what love is."

"I think Harry is wonderful and that he's the nicest fellow I have met. But I'm not at all sure that I'll marry him before Sept. 12—in fact, I'm not at all sure—but then we'll talk about that later."

Richman said in an interview yesterday that Miss Bow "needed a boss and I'm a good boss."

"When I need a boss, I'll put an advertisement in the paper," Clara snapped when she heard about that.

Miss Bow her hat tilted forward over her brilliant red hair, pointed out that she has been engaged several times before she met Richman—and I've never been married."

The "it" girl denied vehemently she intended to retire from pictures when she married.

"I love to work in pictures. I'd be silly to retire. I never have considered such a move and I never discussed it with Harry."

Richman told the United Press Miss Bow might leave the screen at the end of her present contract with Paramount.

"I think I'm in love with Harry," she said, "but then, I also thought I was in love with Vitor Fleming and Gary Cooper and Gilbert Roland and—"

Honor Child of Eastland Couple

"Uncle" Charlie Shepperd, "eleven-year boy" at the Eastland county courthouse is justly proud of the honor bestowed upon his little grandson, James Warren, only child of Mr. and Mrs. James Millam, when the child's name, date of his birth, and its picture was placed in the cornerstone of a fine bank building being erected in Cameron for the Citizens National bank of that city.

Mr. Millam is one of the contractors on the building and his son was born while the work on the building was in progress. The president of the bank insisted that the picture of the baby and other data regarding it be placed in the cornerstone, which was done with proper and fitting ceremony.

Flatwoods vs. Locals Here Friday, 26th

The Flatwoods baseball club will engage the Eastland Dynamites in a game at Connellee field, Eastland tomorrow (Friday) afternoon in an effort to get revenge for the drubbing given them by the Dynamites in the last two games played between the two teams.

The Flatwoods team has been re-organized and are said to be in good condition and determined to win Friday's game.

The line-up for Flatwoods will include J. M. Bennett, "Doc" Garrett, Sam Bennett, G. D. Hallmark, "Red" Foster, Boss Halwick, Pete Hallmark, Kenneth Garrett, Claude Reed, Dewey Webb, and Pat Turner.

BALL GAME NEXT TUESDAY

The Arab Black Bears and the Eastland Dynamites will play baseball on Connellee field at 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Last Tuesday afternoon these teams played on Connellee field, the Black Bears emerging victorious by a score of 8 to 4, and this time the Dynamites will endeavor to even the score.

Kindell Jones of Abilene, nephew of F. A. Jones of the Eastland Telegram is visiting in the city.

R. E. Sikes made a business trip to Snyder Wednesday.

Why Farm Relief?
A bulletin issued by the federal department of agriculture carries the message that the best farm returns for any year since the post-war agricultural depression is reported in the annual survey for 1928. Gross receipts were larger on the average during 1928 than in 1927, but expenses were also higher. There are 6,000,000 American farmers. Reports were received from 11,851 owner operated farms. What happened to the tenants? There is a vast army of these luckless Wrights in all the states east of the Mississippi river and 65 per cent of the farms of Texas are worked by tenants—whites and Mexicans and blacks. It appears that the American tenant farmer does not figure in the government survey.

MARKETS

Cotton. NEW YORK, July 25.—Cotton futures firmed up after an early decline today on serious weevil damage reports from various sections of the cotton belt, some emanating from points hitherto comparatively free from the pest.

Local professional operators covered on the bullish weevil reports, while early selling which had brought an initial decline was well absorbed.

Fort Worth Livestock. FORT WORTH, July 25.—Hogs receipts 600, market no early sales on rail hogs; truck hogs mostly 20c higher; bulk better grades 180-230 lb. truck hogs 1100-1120.

Cattle receipts 5,200; market, slaughter steers scarce, steady, some common grassers in quarantine 850, two loads well covered weighty grassers 110, fed cattle lacking; she stock and cutters rather slow, barely steady at yesterday's full decline; earlots fat cows around 800 down, small lot up to $75; low cutters around 475-550; other classes cattle generally unchanged; sausage bulls 675-825, one load good fat yearlings 1300; slaughter calves and vealers slow, around 50c lower, numerous sales heavy slaughter calves 1000-1075, very little business in heavies above 1100 level, some light weight vealers 1100-1150.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Heavy selling induced by tightening credit gripped the stock exchange today. The market was irregular from the start, despite sporadic efforts of bulls to prevent a decline.

With the outlook for another record in brokerage loans, there was talk of further federal reserve pressure to stay speculation.

Because of the credit uncertainty dealings dwindled on both the stock exchange and curb market. Stock tickers were about even with the market, while curb tickers which yesterday ran more than an hour late, were nearly abreast of transactions.

Brokerage advices to maintain a cautious attitude toward buying had their effect on the general list. Small traders unloaded to await further developments, while the

Proper Salvaging Of Oil Equipment

Engineers of the San Francisco field office of the United States bureau of mines department of commerce, have just completed a study of material salvages in the oil industry and have prepared a report that describes in detail the methods of salvaging in general use by the larger companies.

Large sums of money are expended annually by oil companies in the purchase of new equipment such as casing, sucker rods, drilling and fishing tools, engines, tanks, boilers, stills, compressors, and the hundreds of other essentials that go to make up equipment necessary to the oil industry.

This material often replaces used or partly damaged equipment that many times is consigned to the scrap pile without proper thought as to the possibility of its being worked over, repaired, or made to serve some useful purpose in this industry.

Some of the larger oil companies have been doing a considerable amount of salvage work for a number of years; many of them have departments whose particular object is the repair and care of salvage materials.

The consensus of the opinions of operators is that their salvage departments are profitable enterprises, and the results of the study made by the bureau of mines indicate that organized and efficiently operated salvage departments pay large dividends to an oil company regardless of its size or scope of operation.

MAN 116 YEARS OLD NEAR DEATH

GUTHRIE, Ok., July 25.—Tommy Sloan, known as "Guthrie's grand old man," probably will not see his 117th winter physicians said today. The 116-year old man was weakening steadily at his home here with his step-daughter, Mrs. M. R. Nickens.

Records of Sloan's birth are contained in the Catholic church in Mourne Shore, Ireland. He was born, the records say, on Dec. 25, 1812. He came to America in 1826. He was too old to serve in the Civil war.

Coming to Oklahoma with the opening of "the strip" Sloan operated a harness shop at Mulhall for 20 years and later moved to a farm.

Effect of the Lively Ball Upon Baseball Is Discussed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is one of a series of stories pertaining to the effect the lively ball has on baseball. Each important league, in all parts of the country, will be covered in subsequent stories.

By RICHARD G. BALDWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 25.—"Bring back the good old days!"

That was the plea of four managers of Pacific coast league ball clubs today when asked if they approved the "lively" baseball.

Three other managers were all for the active ball and still another expressed himself more or less neutral concerning the merits of the fast moving spheroid.

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Hollywood stars, former big leaguer and one time best third baseman in any league, was most vehement of the four "old timers."

Said Oscar: "Take the lively ball out of here and we could play ball again. I may be old fashioned but no one will argue me out of my belief that we aren't playing baseball anymore—it's slug and run, nothing else."

"The fine points that our predecessors built into the national game have simply disappeared. Any time they decide to take some of the dynamite out of these bombs they now call baseball they'll find me throwing my hat in the air and letting out more 'whoopie' than this aged gentleman has cut loose with in many years."

What Will you do

When your children cry for it

There is hardly a household that has not heard of Castoria! At least a million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of it. Comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved, or a fever checked. A vegetable product, a baby remedy meant for young children. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. An hour of the day or night that Castoria becomes treasured, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

and Wade Killifer, managers of the San Francisco Seals, Portland Ducks and San Francisco Missions, respectively, goes the honor of supporting the "lively" ball. Said Williams:

"I am for the ball now being used in the coast league. It is hard on pitchers, of course, but it stimulates interest in the game."

Said Rodgers: "The lively ball is a good thing. It is a little tough on pitchers, but it certainly puts more action into the game, and that's what the fans want."

Said Killifer: "The lively ball is not doing the game any harm. There are a lot of angles to the use of the lively ball."

Jack Lelivelt, veteran player and manager who recently took charge of the Los Angeles Angels, took the middle of the fence on the question:

"Personally I like lots of action in baseball and there is no doubt the lively ball provides action. I am also of the opinion the lively ball is taking lots of scientific stuff out of the game."

Buddy Ryan, who guides the destinies of the Sacramento Solons, an ex-big leaguer, contributes:

"Players are smacking home runs now who couldn't get a double with the less lively ball. I'd welcome the return of scientific baseball with hit and run plays, stealing of bases and other strategy impossible with the present jackrabbit ball."

Ernie Johnson, chief of the Seattle Indians and a former member of the White Sox and Yankees, spoke as follows:

"The public probably would resent a drastic change as going back to the ball of 1910, but let's give the pitchers a change with a ball they can grip. I'm not in favor of complete return to the old dead ball."

Ivan Howard, manager of the Oakland club, does not think much of the present ball.

"I am very much against the lively ball now being used and hope a change back to the old ball will be made immediately," Howard said. "Since the lively ball replaced the old dead ball there is no such thing as scientific baseball. I have many youngsters on my club I would like to teach the art of bunting, but unless you get down a perfect bunt these days the ball usually goes to an infielder and with men on bases is turned into a double play."

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

A pearl button factory is to be a new Texas industry at Brownsville, where the Automatic Pearl Button company, Muscatine, Ia., has contracted with the Cameron county water improvement district No. 5 for the right to go into all irrigation canals and resacas and take out clam shells, paying at the rate of $1 and $2 a ton. The plant is expected to bring 50 or more families to Cameron county. Mercedes has a plant already in operation employing 25 workers with a total of 55 expected to be at work soon.

Texas was the fourth largest shipper of dressed poultry to Chicago in May, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas ranking ahead of it.

The new canning plant at Robstown will can pickles and kraut.

Fort Worth voted $3,000,000 in bonds, $2,000,000 of it for subways and viaducts as a part of the plan for a $4,000,000 passenger station and freight terminal. A half million of the remainder is for additions to the municipal airport and the remainder for a central fire station and enlarged alarm system.

Claim is made for the North Texas State Teachers college at Denton of the largest college summer session enrollment in the southwest with 3,600 the probable total before the term ends.

A Mercedes company has been organized to handle the export of eggs from the valley into Mexico.

A $1,000,000 office building for the Houston Gas & Fuel company is to be erected by the Moody-Seagraves company.

The Archer City Chamber of Commerce purchased 26 registered animals to be shipped from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. The Crockett Chamber of Commerce has purchased four registered Jersey bulls to comprise the first Crockett bull circle.

The Poultry Producers Association of Texas, organized April, 1928, with 35 members owning 35,000 birds, now has 290 members and 125,000 birds in 24 counties. It is shipping a car of eggs every 10 days to eastern markets.

A Jersey cow in the herd of the West Texas Teachers college at Canyon produced 648.48 pounds of butterfat and 10,853 pounds of milk in 305 days. As a senior 3-year-old she won the state championship with 736.86 pounds of butterfat and 13,215 pounds of milk in 365 days.

An initial price of 52 cents a pound for butterfat is announced by the Borden plant at Waco.

TEXAS LEAGUE

In the face of a 6 to 1 lead by the Ft. Worth club yesterday, the San Antonio Indians came from behind to beat the Cubs, 8 to 6, in the first game of a series. Milt Gordan and Brozovitch, with a two-bagger and a triple respectively, started the rally.

When the Dallas Steers decided to break their losing streak at Beaumont, Tommy Estill was unable to stop them. When, in a fifth inning assault Dallas scored three runs, Estill was replaced by Fred Stiel, who held the invaders scoreless, but Beaumont likewise was unable to score. The final count was 5 to 0.

In a closely contested game at Waco the Cubs won out over the visiting Wichita Falls club when they scored their second run in the fifth to break the 1 and 1 tie. A home run by Windle gave the Cubs their first score. The game ended 2 to 1.

Houston rose to within half a game of the league leadership when the Buffaloes stamped in their game with Shreveport and swatted the ball for eighteen hits which enabled them to defeat the Sports, 10 to 1.

Watching the Scoreboard.
Yesterday's hero, Hack Wilson, burly cub outfielder whose two home runs at Chicago scored four runs for his team and paved the way for an 8 to 7 victory over the New York Giants.

Those same blows, incidentally, blasted Chicago into first place. There was none on base when he hit the first but Hornsby was on first and Heathcote on second when he smote his second into the stands.

Brooklyn had several home run batters on tap but didn't need them with William Watson Clarke in the box at Pittsburgh. Clarke scattered the Pirates' 10 hits and Brooklyn scored its second victory in three games in the west, 6 to 4. Pittsburgh dropped to second place.

Jimmy Wilson emulated his chummy namesake in Chicago when he hit a home run in the eighth inning of the Cincinnati-Cardinals game at St. Louis, scoring the winning runs for the 1927 Champions. The score was tied at 4-4 before Wilson booted home the runs that gave St. Louis a 6 to 4 verdict.

Boston used 10 hits to advantage at Cincinnati and beat the Reds, 5 to 3. Cunningham and Smith held the losers to eight blows.

Herb Pennock allowed 11 hits but kept them well scattered and the New York Yankees beat Detroit, 7 to 5, at New York. George Uble was the losing pitcher.

Philadelphia took an early lead over Cleveland and beat the Indians, 5 to 3, at Philadelphia. George Earnshaw gave the West-owners eight hits, but held them scoreless until the ninth.

Bob Burke and Al Thomas flashed a great pitching duel at Wash-

SALMON FAILS ON TURN.

SEATTLE, Wash.—They don't have any signs "dangerous curves ahead" in the rivers of the northwest—nor do they have traffic cops. Hence this fish story, which by the way, may be true. With a "bone in his teeth," fins making 90 revolutions per minute, full canvas and throttle wide open, old King Salmon was going places up the Duwamish river. His speed was 40 miles an hour of thereabouts.

Fred W. Newell Jr., saw the terrible commotion in the water. He took a couple of looks at the white foam and saw the fish. Came a curve. Out went a fin for a signal—but the river wasn't banked for that kind of navigation.

Salmon couldn't make the turn and piled up on the beach. Newell picked up the fish, photographed it and took an oath his story was true.

DON'T FAIL To Visit THE GLOBE QUITTING BUSINESS SALE

To the Citizens of Eastland and Vicinity

Some time ago we entered the ice business in your town. The day that we opened for business our competitor slashed the price one-half although our information is that for many years you have been paying double, or more than double, the price you are now paying for ice. This is our first experience in the ice business and we did not know, and do not know now, the exact price that should be charged for ice in order to insure a fair return on our investment and adequate compensation for our work. We have been unable to sell a reasonable amount of ice at the prices heretofore charged. We have concluded that there is a possibility of our being able to stay in business and maintain our plant after meeting the prices of our competitor, provided we sufficiently increase the volume. We are, therefore, meeting this price and we feel that we should receive a fair proportion of your business.

We have recently sold ice books based on the old prices and if you will return these ice books to our office new books will be issued to you based on the prices last mentioned.

Our competitor has sought to foster and encourage sectional jealousy by stressing the fact that its product is made in Eastland. We suggest that you investigate and ascertain the true ownership of the stock in our competitive corporation.

For many years our competitor has been charging more than twice the price that you are now paying for ice. It has been in business for a sufficient period of time to ascertain what price should be charged for ice and it should know that if the present prices are fair that for years it has charged you more than twice the amount that it should have charged for ice.

We believe that competition is good for any line of business and are going to endeavor to furnish you a high class product and a prompt and efficient service. We believe that in the event that we go out of the ice business in Eastland, it will be a comparatively short time until you are forced to pay the old price for ice.

Effective today our prices will be:

	Dock	Truck
100 Pounds	25c	35c
75 Pounds	18c	27c
50 Pounds	13c	18c
25 Pounds	6c	9c

BLERHOT FLIGHT
'CROSS CHANNEL
COMMEMORATED

By SAMUEL DASHIELL, United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS.—Twenty years ago July 25, Lindbergh's forerunner, Louis Bleriot, silent Frenchman of 39, flew for the first time across the English channel, and France is preparing to observe the anniversary with the glamour it merits.

In that single flight of half an hour at dawn on July 25, 1909, the whole of the geographical balance of Europe was upset. The magnificent isolation of England was no longer a reality. The smiling Frenchman in a red jersey had smashed his plane in the effort, but he was the forerunner of Lindbergh and his mighty hop across the ocean. Byrd and his flight over the north pole and the fliers whose planes have linked Europe with Asia, the Old World with South America and continents with islands.

Airmen and pioneers around the world are preparing to flood Bleriot with telegrams of friendship. France and Britain have organized celebrations on both sides of the channel where Bleriot took off in his frail monoplane and where he was further celebrations in London.

Bleriot's plane was the smallest of the three, two principal wings attached to two smaller ones by light framework, with four movable controlling rudders in back. The total lifting surface was less than 14 square metres. The three-cylinder motor turned the four-blade propeller with 22 h.p. With pilot and fuel on board, the plane weighed only 500 pounds. The plane was not known as an airplane, but as an "artificial bird."

"I had absolute confidence in that plane, even though I had smashed up a half dozen before, and I had many firm friends including M. Painleve," Bleriot said.

"I felt great satisfaction out of my victory, but that is all it brought me. I was never approached with offers of stage contracts or speaking engagements. We knew that my success meant definite progress and we set to work the next day to build larger monoplanes."

Bleriot had been unable to interest an insurance company in insuring either his life or the plane. He did not gain a cent by his course.

Anzani, the constructor of the motor of Bleriot's plane, awoke his mechanics that morning by firing his revolver in the hallway of their hotel. Latham and Lambert slept through the din, and Bleriot, in a red sweater and red cap, was over the channel before they woke up.

There was practically no wind when Bleriot took off at 4:41 a. m. and he was soon over the whole of the channel. On the British shore, he struck bad winds and he flew up and down the coast looking for a landing place.

"The wind was blowing 25 miles an hour, almost a whirlwind and certainly the worst storm I had ever flown in," M. Bleriot told the United Press in recalling his flight.

"As I landed, I made a good three-point landing, but the weight of the motor bent the front of the fuselage, and the body of the plane was smashed. There was no wild excitement, because my flight was a surprise known only to my wife and a few friends."

Latham's disappointment when he learned of Bleriot's success. But it was a Sunday morning, and Dover slept late. A police constable named Fleet was one of the few to witness the landing. It was hours later before the municipal officials could be gathered up to welcome Bleriot at the Lord Warden hotel, and later there

KNIGHT STILL PEDDLES FISH

By United Press.

DUNDEE, Scotland.—Sir William High, newly knighted Dundee fishmonger, and his daughter Winifred, Lady Mayoress of Dundee, are not too proud to continue selling fish behind the counter of their tiny shop in Dundee's market section.

Sir William, who is also Lord Provost of Dundee, is one of the most popular figures of this city, and he is hailed as "Our Willie."

by his fellow townsmen. His elevation to knighthood was an occasion for revelry.

Sir William, who for years has sold fish, has five daughters, all of whom are known for their beauty and all of whom have served behind the counter of his shop. Their father started his business in a small way, and with the constant help of his wife, now dead, has established a business which makes him independently wealthy.

In the mornings Miss Winifred High sells fish and in the afternoon she rushes off to perform her duties as lady mayoress.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM and RED FLYNN have decided to collaborate on a crime play. The plot is to be taken from real life, and will revolve about the mysterious death of BERNICE BRADFORD. Bernice was poisoned, and Lionel Barrows, the lover who stood trial for her murder, subsequently acquitted.

Later Red Flynn, a police court reporter, meets a boy named PERRY INGERSOLL, who gets intoxicated, and admits that he was also a sweetheart of the dead woman. He tells Red the story of their sordid romance, and Red immediately sees its possibilities as a mystery play—a play centering about the unsolved murder of the Bradford woman. Red visits Molly, who covered the trial, and tells her the amazing story unaided by young Ingersoll.

They determine to get to work as playwrights immediately. But Molly is suddenly assigned to cover another murder trial—the killing of a night watchman.

Now, Molly is not at all in love with Red Flynn, but engaged, instead, to a young draftsman named Jack Wells, who has insisted upon postponing their marriage until such time as he can save a little money.

Mr. Wharton, the city editor, learns her that covering the Mandiello trial will be dangerous business, as the Chicago gunmen are watching developments with deadly interest.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

Certain radical publications had their representatives at the Mandiello trial. Long-haired men with dirty finger nails and soiled shirts.

At noon the reporters lunched together at an inn across from the courthouse. It was a funeral dining room. The waitresses were slovenly and slow. And the food was heavy and uninviting. But the discussions around the reporters' table redeemed its melancholy setting.

Only the radicals believed Mandiello innocent. And sometimes they grew very angry with the police.

"I don't believe in capital punishment," Molly remarked one day. "It is a blight on civilization. But I suppose there's some one to be paid for it, since it gets rid of men like this."

"You mean," demanded one of the radicals "that you think it should be electrocuted, who don't think they may properly be guilty of murder? Do you mean in trumping up charges against them, in order to find them guilty, that they may be paid for a crime of which they are innocent?"

"Believe," she declared rashly, "that every gunman is a potential murderer, and as such should suffer the penalty of our law."

Orgatone Put Me In the Front Rank Again

City Employee Says He Likes It Like He Could Go On All Day

Orgatone has called a halt on the troubles and put me right in the front rank again, feeling better and better than I have in eighteen years," said George E. Priest, who resides at Maple and Walnut streets. Mr. Priest has been in the employ of the City of Eastland for three and one half years in the water department. When the Orgatone representative called at his home recently, he told in his own words what Orgatone had done for him.

"For eighteen long years I haven't been able to eat a square meal without suffering misery from indigestion afterwards," he continued. "My vitals would sour on my stomach and form gas that swelled me up until I couldn't get a deep breath. I had such a sour bad taste in my mouth that even water didn't taste right.

"I lost so much strength that I got so my work was a burden to me, and some times a dizzy spell would get hold of me and I could hardly stand up. My heart seemed to be affected and I felt that if I didn't get some relief, it would soon be time to pull the flag to half mast and blow 'taps' over me. I read an Orgatone testimonial in the Eastland paper one day, and to my wife had received such good results from it and though I had tried everything else and nothing had done me any good, I thought I might as well try Orgatone."

"Well, sir, that Orgatone just put me in fine shape. My appetite came back in full force and I could digest a hard tack and a plate of beans easier now than I could a glass of milk before I started taking Orgatone. I have gained all my weight back and the dizzy spells have disappeared entirely. I haven't an ache in my whole body and feel that I could get out and go all day and go about my work and never draw a short breath."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a scientific life treatment and is available in Eastland exclusively by Toombs & Richardson Drug Co.

"I don't like it, Molly," he said flatly. Jack listened with ill-concealed annoyance.

mandates of justice."

The young radical sprang angrily to his feet.

"It's you and your sort," he cried, "with the injustice of your damn convictions that have made America the hotbed of Bolshevism it is today!"

He glared furiously, and flung from the dining room.

"No good doing that sort of thing, Molly," cautioned Slim Boynton. "You know how that fellow feels. What's the use of riding him?"

"Oh, I don't care," she announced petulantly. "I'm fed up on this wretched trial anyhow."

It was Friday, and court did not sit on Saturday, impulsively Molly decided to go to New York for over Sunday. It had been a long time since she had seen Jack.

As they left the dining room Slim drew her aside.

"Now don't tell me I'm crazy," he commanded, "and don't forget that I'm old enough to know what I'm talking about. You're going to get in trouble, if you don't lay off Mandiello. You're signing your stories, and laying things on pretty thick. Wharton says our circulation has jumped 25,000. Maybe it has. What's the blooming circulation worth, if it costs you your neck?"

Molly tried to laugh. "You don't think they'd SHOOT me, Slim?"

"That's just what I think," he told her shortly. "You notice I don't take any chances? Not on your life I don't. I've toned down my stuff, since they sent Tony Tommy from Chicago, to give us news hounds the once over."

"I'm not afraid!" she boasted.

"That's because you haven't sense enough," he informed her. "That's what they'll say when they write your obituary. . . I'm not afraid," she said. And they'll call you the Brave Young Reporter and the Beautiful Little Martyr and send some swell floral pieces to the funeral. And what good will that do you? Now watch your step, Molly, and do as I tell you. Lay off before those Chicago gunmen take you for a nice little ride. It's been done to girls before, you know."

"You're a cheerful friend," she chided.

"It's for your own good," he insisted.

"Well, I'm going to New York for the week-end," she told him. "And I'll have to tear off Saturday's and Sunday's stories in a hurry. Suppose I write the old sob stuff about the poor little bride, and the love nest on 13th street?"

"Go ahead," he urged. "Probably Wharton won't use it, but it's better to get in wrong with the office than the racketeers."

Molly wired two discreet stories that night, and telegraphed the office that she was going to New York and would be back on the job Monday morning. Then she telephoned Jack to meet her at the Grand Central.

During the journey she wrote several pages of dialogue intended for the play on which she and Red were to collaborate. They had decided that a good name would be "The Death of Delphine Darrows."

The curtain was to rise on Delphine's beribboned boudoir, with Delphine, white and beautiful dead, between sheets of orchid satin. A young man, in conventional morning clothes, with a gardenia in his buttonhole, would rise from his knees by the side of the bed, and dash from the room. Immediately the curtain would be lowered.

The second act would be in a courtroom. In the prisoner's cage would be another man—charged with the murder of Delphine Darrows. Near him, with eye fastened maliciously upon the accused, would sit the young man who had rushed from the dead woman's bedroom.

Molly was working on the courtroom scene. Trying to inject humor, to relieve tragedy. Fearful lest she lose something of the dramatic possibilities. The cut-and-dried courtroom technique was simple, but she must keep it keyed at high tension. The prosecuting attorney's charge must be pregnant with thunderous words and dreadful imprecations. The dread shadow of the electric chair must hover over the pale dark man in the prisoner's cage. And the audience must feel the ghost of the dead woman, as the sinister prosecutor conjured her presence.

Molly worked until the train pulled into the station. Then she powdered her nose, and roughed her lips until they matched the scarlet tips of her tri-colored scarf.

Jack was waiting at the gate and in a moment she was in his arms.

"Oh, Jack! Jack!"

"Molly!" he cried. "It's good to see you."

They kissed fervently while red-capped porters grinned.

"How did you happen to get away?" he demanded.

"Oh, I was fed up on the trial," she told him airily. "so I wired the Plaza and reserved a room. And here I am!"

She was clinging to the brief case she carried as though it held diamonds.

"I've got something in here to show you, Jack!" she boasted. "You'll be so surprised, you'll just about die. Let's go somewhere where we can talk and talk."

"You're not going to rave about that job of yours?" he demanded darkly.

Molly pouted. "Now see here," she retorted. "that just reminds me, Mister Wells, you never so much as wrote me a line about what a smart girl I was at the Barrows trial. What did you think of it?"

"I don't like it, Molly," he said flatly, when she laid the sheets aside, and turned her little radiant face to him. "It's not like you writing fit hand muck. Good Lord what's come over you!"

"I don't understand," she faltered.

"Oh, you understand all right," he interrupted brutally. "It's rotten! A sweet little kid like you running round with police reporters, wanting to write a play about a courtesan and a murder. . ."

Molly's painted lips trembled. Silently she shuffled her papers together.

LOOK OUT FOR THE LOCUST BAG WORM; TREE LOVERS BEWARE

Eastland is threatened with a serious tree damage in the visit of the locust bag worm, an insect an inch long that travels around in its own bag or cover, soft but tenacious, and seemingly contrived from the leaves of the tree upon which the worm has fastened. And the worm is no trifling thing being as big around as a lead pencil. When it has finished its feasting on one tree it will crawl partly out of its cover, which it carries along with it on its back, to a fresh tree, where it will climb the trunk to some leafy bough to its liking. It has been found impossible to wash them off the tree with sprays, or hose of water and they must be picked off by hand, if the tree attacked is to be saved. After a length of time this worm goes into the cocoon stage and its shell to issue forth a small, dark brown miller. Unless the trees are immediately cared for that are attacked by the locust bag worm those trees will die for the life giving element has been drained by the countless bag worms that seem to increase overnight in an utterly impossible way. Each morning, so J. C. Patterson,

End of an Endurance Flight

Wreckage of the "Greater Des Moines," endurance plane, in which Pilot Arnold Ross, inset, was killed when it crashed to earth at Des Moines, Ia., is pictured here. Arnold was standing in an open cockpit ready to make a refueling contact when the plane dove to destruction. Another pilot escaped by use of a parachute.

son, the county agent, says, the locust bag worm may be found covered with fresh green leaves which have been used to camouflage the insect.

The intelligence of this pest seems almost human. Mr. Patterson stated that in isolated spots over Eastland the locust trees are found suffering from this worm, and that his attention had only recently been directed to the visit of the locust bag worm.

Two of the trees of the long line that has marched down the side walk in front of the Judge George L. Davenport residence, are badly affected by the worm and in the effort to save them the owner has employed help to spray them with a mixture recommended by Mr. Patterson and has finally resorted to picking the pests off by hand.

It seems too bad that trees on which years of care and thought have been lavished should die or be mutilated in this way when in their blooming verdure of shade-giving and beauty.

Trees in front of the T. L. Fagg residence on South Seaman were noticed early, when this bug or worm had attacked and the bugs were destroyed by hand by workmen employed in the early stages of the worm's attack.

Mr. Patterson stated that the worms are  $\frac{1}{2}$  in the season in going into the moth stage and this he ascribes to the excessively hot weather of the past two weeks, for it is only during this period evidently, that they have been found on trees in Eastland.

So far as is known this is the first experience with locust trees, of this nature, and the locust bag worm, known in this city.

Your Milkman Never Holds A "Sale"

You would be surprised, wouldn't you, if your milkman told you that on Tuesdays and Fridays he would sell milk at half price. Quite naturally you would question the quality of the milk offered you on those days, or you would wonder if you were not paying too much on the other days of the week.

But, of course, your milkman doesn't sell his product that way—nor does the J. C. Penney Company. Both of us realize that our customers must have merchandise of assured quality, priced as near the actual cost of production as possible, plus a fair charge for distribution and handling.

Neither your milkman nor our Company believe in marking goods up one day, in order to "cut prices" the next.
