MANY FATALITIES OCCURRED OVER THE WEEK-END

Woman, In Quest Of Revenge, Wounds Three

Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

Mrs. Hoover's Tea Party
Mrs. Herbert Hoover gave a tea party. It was staged at the White House. In the limited list of guests was the negro wife of a negro congressman from Illinois. Thus for the first time a White House tradition was shattered and the Old South was given the greatest shock it has known since the close of the war between the states.

"Terrible, terrible," was the comment of the governor of Texas. Deep regret was voiced by the senior senator from Texas, the author of the 18th amendment and one of the authors of the 19th amendment. Sweeping condemnation was given along the line under southern skies huge wrenches are being thrown into the political machinery of these commonwealths.

It is a long call from Washington to Hoover. In the beginning, this was a white man's government established by white men. It is safe to predict that the faith of the fathers and the tradition of the fathers will be upheld by the voters under southern skies who believe under the government made by white men shall be maintained for white men by white men throughout the ages to come.

Political equality may come some day in many northern states, but social equality of races will never come south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Financial Aid for the Farmer
An appropriation of $150,000,000 has been made by the congress as recommended by the president to place life in the farm relief act. Will it be the old story of relief for those who do not need it and hush for those who do need it? Wait and wait.

A total of eight notices of intention to marry had been filed with County Clerk R. L. Jones up to noon today. The new law requiring notices of this kind went into effect June 13.

The first notice to be filed under the new law was filed by Fred Adcock and Miss Onda Buckler of Gusting, Comanche county. The license was issued June 18.

Crouch and Miss Francis Jordan, Eastland; Morgan Mays and Miss Ollie Reed, Eastland; S. D. Key and Miss Hattie Hallmark, Lingville; H. M. Marchman and Miss Clara Smith, Hamlin; and H. A. Strobel and Miss Mary Bronk, Cisco.

Husband Shot Three Times; May Die of Injuries

Rooming House Keeper Fires In Revenge—Is Now In Jail.

AFTON, Okla., June 24.—Three persons were in a hospital here today suffering from wounds inflicted by a woman seeking revenge for family troubles.

Phil Green was not expected to recover from three bullet wounds inflicted by his wife, a Miami rooming house keeper, Saturday after she had gone to Delaware county and shot J. C. Williams and his wife.

In her cell here today Mrs. Green said that her husband was being bothered by "the Williams girl."

Legislature

The four cent gasoline tax bill was repassed by the house by vote of 101 to 16. This makes it possible for the tax to go into effect earlier, if the senate concurs. The vote by which it was passed Friday did not sustain the emergency clause. Without that clause a bill must wait 90 days to become effective.

Similar action was taken on the prison relocation bill, and the annexation bill affecting Houston and Port Worth.

Bills were finally passed in the house correcting errors in the state education board law and water and improvement district bond law passed at the preceding session.

Rep. J. W. Harper was still waiting at noon recess for an opportunity to ask action on the anti-evolution bill. He wants it printed on minority report but expressed doubt that it will be reached on the calendar.

By vote of 81 to 26 the house voted to print amendments to the evidence clause of the search and seizure act on minority report.

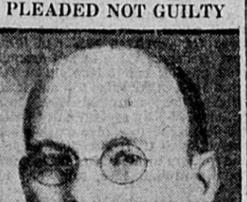

The senate spent practically the entire morning debating a resolution to criticize a news association article attempting to forecast the action the senate will take on charges against State Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson if impeachment articles are voted by the house. A resolution urging care in the future was the outcome.

Al Capone's Friends And Enemies Gather

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Now that attorneys have said they will attempt to obtain the release of Alphonse (Scarface) Capone from Holmesburg prison where he is serving a year's sentence for carrying concealed weapons, his friends and enemies have begun to gather here.

Detectives, it was reported today, had found that a number of Capone's followers were here to give him a hearty welcome when and if he is released.

To match his followers, his enemies have sent their best gunmen. It was rumored, to "see" Capone the day he is released. He is freed before the ten months of his sentence with time off for good behavior expires.

Dr. James H. Snook, who is charged with killing Theora Hix, Ohio university co-ed.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Dr. James H. Snook, confessed slayer of Theora Hix, Ohio State university co-ed, pleaded not guilty today when he was arraigned on a first degree murder charge.

Snook Entered Not Guilty Plea

The plea, in effect, repudiated the former university instructor's confession that he killed the girl because she "tried to dominate his life" and threatened to kill his wife and baby.

Judge Robert P. Duncan set trial for July 22.

The plea had been anticipated. The deposed professor's attorney, John F. Seidel and E. O. Ricketts, said they would not permit their client to plead guilty.

Snook, after his confession last week, said he would plead guilty and "trust to the mercy of the court."

The court, upon a guilty plea, could have sentenced him to death or life imprisonment.

Miss Hix was killed ten days ago. Snook, who admitted he maintained a "love nest" for her, confessed the fifth day after his arrest.

Snook was brought into the courtroom handcuffed to Albert C. Gunning, who is charged with killing his wife. He was neatly dressed in a gray suit, white shirt, with soft collar and red dotted tie. His shoes were polished.

Judge Duncan directed the clerk to read the indictment. Snook stood with one hand in his pocket while this was done.

Judge Duncan then asked: "Guilty or not guilty?"

Snook's voice was loud and clear: "Not guilty," he said.

Seidel intimated he would demand a change of venue. He said so much publicity had been given the case that he believed a fair and impartial trial here was impossible.

Three Churches Will Hold Joint Services

Nothing Heard From Spanish Atlantic Fliers

Trio In One Plane Left Spain Friday for Azores Islands, Enroute to United States.

Commander Ramon Franco and his three companions aboard the Spanish seaplane in which they attempted to fly to the United States via the Azores Islands were still missing today.

In spite of the many conflicting reports that the aviators had landed on one of the islands of the Azores group, the fear grew that they were lost at sea, probably drifting on their hydroplane.

The Spanish government has dispatched several squadrons of seaplanes to search the Atlantic between the coast of Spain and the Azores and four Spanish destroyers were detached to aid in the hunt. A Portuguese gunboat, which happened to be at the island when the fliers were expected, also went out in search for the plane.

The steamer Buffalo Bridge reported by wireless to the Marine Radio corporation in New York that it had seen a flare of light above the water 1,400 miles east of New York. This gave the rise to the theory that it might have been the missing plane signaling for help.

The Spanish government, aided by Portugal, exerted every resource at its command today to locate Commander Ramon Franco and his three aides in the seaplane Dornier No. 16, believed to have been lost some where between Portugal and the Azores. The British embassy at Madrid was solicited to lend the aid of an airplane carrier, if one is available at Gibraltar, to aid in the search of the area in which it is believed the Dornier 16 was forced down.

Coincidentally with the devoting of all energies to the search, the Spanish government opened an inquiry as to the means by which the Spanish people were hoaxed Saturday by unconfirmed and baseless rumors that the fliers had safely landed at San Miguel island, at the extreme of the Azores Group.

ROME, June 24.—The Cosulich steamship liner, Trieste, telegraphed the following message to the United Press here today in connection with the missing Spanish trans-continental airplane.

"Our steamer Clara has radioed the information that an English steamer, the Gredlon, had heard the rumbling of an airplane motor at 1:37 Greenwich mean time Saturday. Its position when the sounds were heard was 35.32 north, 23.93 west, proceeding west."

MADRID, June 24.—Several squadrons of Spanish seaplanes and four destroyers from the Galicia fleet, under direct orders from Premier Primo De Rivera, began a search of the North Atlantic today in the hope of finding a trace of the missing hydroplane in which Commander Ramon Franco and three companions were attempting to fly from Spain to the United States via the Azores islands.

Charged With Murder El Paso Man Suicides

EL PASO, June 24.—The murder trial of Jose Marin, bankrupt operator of Mexican mining properties which was scheduled to open today instead will be removed from the docket. Marin took his life yesterday by drinking poison in his cell.

Once a prominent and influential citizen, Marin lost his money and laid the blame on Frank J. Lyons and H. D. Oppenheimer, El Paso, his legal representatives at the time. On May 31 he went to their offices and shot them both.

He then gave himself up to the authorities and turned over to the newspaper the statement of his reasons for the crime. His attorney intended to claim he was insane at that time.

Air Stowaway Greeted in Paris

The three fliers of the "Yellow Bird," had accepted him as "one of them," so Arthur Schreiber, young American stowaway, shared in the honors which Paris accorded to the trans-Atlantic airmen. This photo, transmitted by radio to NEA Service, shows Schreiber, right, American flag in hand, as he was the center of an enthusiastic crowd when the Yellow Bird landed at Le Bourget Field, from Spain.

State Tax Rate Must Be Raised

Increase From 64 to 77 Cents Due In July—$7,000,000 More Property Tax Must Be Collected Next Two Year Than In Past Two.

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, June 24.—The state tax rate will be raised from 64 to 77 cents, the maximum, in July.

This has been stated by members of the legislature and confirmed by Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher, member of the automatic tax board which will make the increase.

This means there will be $7,000,000 more property tax collected in the next two years than in the past two years.

Appropriations now being made are based on the maximum tax rate of 35 cents for support of the state government, instead of the 22 cent rate that applies this year. Members of the appropriations and finance committees have conceded that the maximum rate will be required to meet the lowest of the two sets of appropriations bills.

And Treasurer Hatcher predicted the legislature likely will create a deficiency beyond the total revenues under the highest rate allowed by the constitution.

Under an average rate of 23 1-2 cents for the past two years, the state has collected $38,046,148 ad valorem taxes for support of the government. Based on a $4,000,000 assessed valuation for the first time, the 1930-31 rate of 95 cents will bring in an estimated $45,000,000, Treasurer Hatcher said.

Other elements of the total state tax are 35 cents for education and 7 cents for Confederate pensions. The automatic tax board, composed of Gov. Dan Moody, Treasurer Hatcher and Comptroller Sam Houston Terrell, will meet shortly after July 29 to fix the tax rate. The board is required to take the total assessed valuations and the total appropriations into consideration and compute a rate to bring in the required money, limited by the 35-cent maximum tax rate fixed in the constitution.

FUNDS SOUGHT FOR PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Details of a national publicity and education campaign purporting to be "in support of the administration and sound government," and sponsored by the National Republic, a magazine regarded as close to Republican party affairs, were disclosed in circular letters sent out by Rep. Frank Murphy, Repn., Ohio.

Murphy, ardent dry and a member of the House appropriations committee, in his letter requested initial contributions of $10, and $10 every three months for thirty months.

Listed among endorsers of the campaign are Dr. Hubert Work, who recently resigned as chairman of the Republican National committee; Sen. Burton of Ohio and Rep. ood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican Congressional campaign committee.

The contributions which are to be sent to the National Republic, are to be used for extending the publication's service to newspapers it was said at the offices of the magazine here.

alter S. Steele, general manager of the publication, explained the purpose of the movement is to fight radicalism and added the campaign was not necessarily a Republican campaign.

Mr. Post is said to have conducted a retail liquor selling business on his farm. Mrs. Post accepted full responsibility for the sale and then entered a plea of guilty to a charge of liquor selling.

This is a federal court. She drew a year and six months in federal prison and $100 fine. There are 12 living children. Farmer Post remains on the outside of the federal prison in order that he may care for his large family.

In Arkansas the woman appears to pay—in the Post case willingly and without regret or remorse.

Two Pro Agents Given Prison Terms

Two pro agents in Kentucky given prison terms by juries. They appeared the case to Federal Judge Charles L. Dawson. That is, they presented a motion for a new trial. Frank Sears was the victim of the pro agents. Federal Judge Dawson overruled the motion. He declared that Sears was not under arrest when he was shot; that he was not charged with a felony, that he was shot nine times in the back, according to the evidence. In Old Kentucky it appears to be unsafe to shoot a man in the back—shoot him nine times when he is not charged with a felony.

In spite of conflicting reports from various points that the Spanish fliers had landed safely at one of the Azores islands, the government apparently has abandoned all hope that a safe landing had been made and dispatched the destroyers and seaplanes to make a thorough search of the path over which the huge Dornier plane probably travelled.

With Franco on the attempted flight to New York and return were Major Eduardo Gallarza, Captain Ruiz De Alda and Pedro Madariaga, a mechanic. They left Cartagena, Spain, late Friday afternoon and were scheduled to arrive at the Azores on Saturday morning. When they failed to arrive it was believed at first that they had drifted off their course in the mist and fog and would be delayed but a few hours. When they failed to arrive by Saturday noon, anxiety was felt by everyone here. Then the conflicting reports began to pour in from all points.

According to varying reports the seaplane, Dornier No. 16, must have drifted off its course while en route to the Azores where it had intended to refuel before making the final drive across the Atlantic to the United States.

The Portuguese gunboat Zafres, which was at the Azores when the fliers were expected, already had started to search for the missing plane, according to advices from Ponta Belgada, San Miguel.

The Zafres began its search north and west, working toward Pital Island, which was the scheduled stopping place for the Dornier hydroplane. A rumor became current here that the steamer Magallanes had sighted the wreck of the hydroplane 100 miles from the Azores. The military wireless station, the foreign office and the ministry of marine all denied they had received any message from the Magallanes or any other source to this effect. Nothing concerning the fliers has been heard by any government department.

PITTSBURGH, Cal., June 22.—Two men held up Southern Pacific train No. 36 four miles west of here, shot the engineer through the shoulder, looted the baggage car and escaped.

Tunney Files Denial Of Fogarty Charges

NEW YORK, June 24 Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion through his counsel today filed general denial of the breach of promise charges brought against him by Katherine King Fogarty and made a cross complaint based on the fact that twice Tunney had given "valuable consideration" to have the charges dropped.

On two different occasions, according to the answer and cross complaint filed in the Fairfield, Conn., county court by Attorney Homer S. Cummins, Tunney gave cash consideration to the complainant to prevent renewal of her charges.

One of the occasions was said to have been before his second fight with Jack Dempsey and the other before his fight with Tom Heeney, the last fight Tunney engaged in.

The first release, according to the complaint, was "for and in consideration of the sum of one dollar lawful money of the United States of America to me in hand paid by James J. Tunney."

The second release, the complaint said, was in consideration of $5,000 paid by William Gibson, Tunney's manager.

LARSON'S CORNERS, N. J., June 24.—Sen. Thomas Hefflin pitched his oratory against the rain here and last, although he finally made a speech in which he charged the Pope and the Knights of Columbus were conspiring to suppress all other religions in the United States.

FEAR WOMAN HAD DROWNED AT LAKE CISCO

Pool Drained but No Body Found; Fine Is Posted

CISCO, Texas, June 24.—Finding of an outfit of woman's clothing in one of the lockers at the Lake Cisco Amusement company's pavilion late Friday evening threw a scare into the officials at the pool and resulted Saturday in an announcement by Mayor J. M. Williamson that the city commission has declared it a misdemeanor carrying a fine of $100 for anyone outside of Amusement company officials, to be found in the pool after closing hours at night.

Immediately upon finding the clothing unclaimed in the locker Friday night officials began an investigation of the possibility that a woman had been drowned in the resort. The shallow pool was minutely searched by a line of men who walked and felt every foot of space while the deep pool was drained. No trace of a body could be found, however. The pool had been filled only two days before and the draining of the basin occasioned considerable expense in addition to the strain on the nerves of the officials.

The creek below the resort was also carefully searched. Since no traces of anyone having drowned in the place were found officials were inclined to believe that the unclaimed clothing was either left by a girl or woman who was unable to pay for a swimming ticket and left her clothing in the locker room, fearing to go back for it or that the garments were left by a party who had visited the lake after 11 o'clock at night, the regular closing hour.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

ning dress of ivory taffeta, the long "period costume" skirt, embroidered with a deep border of golden poppies. On the left shoulder of the snugly fitting, very-low-in-the-neck little bodice she wore a cluster of three of the golden-yellow roses that her husband had brought her. Under the lights, her swirl-waved, short brown hair gleamed like a cap of burnished, beaten copper. Did Morgan really think she was pretty? He had told her so, as she adjusted his gardenia.

But what was Curtis saying? Nan gave the child sudden, startled attention. "... and Little Pat says Nan's my mother now. Is she, Father? I got a mother. Can a kid have two mothers, Father?" Nan did not dare look at John Curtis Morgan's face.

She would not have recognized the hoarse, strained voice that answered, "Yes, Curtis." Just "Yes," with no explanation, no attempt at justification. But what else could he say?

"Gee, that's swell!" Curtis exclaimed Nan by exclaiming happily. "The kids at school will stop teasing me now, I guess! All time saying, 'Curt Morgan's mother run off and left him'; 'Curt Morgan ain't got no mother' Betcha they'll wish they was me, when I tell 'em I got TWO mothers! Won't they, Father? Won't they, Nan?"

Fortunately, Curtis seldom waited for an answer he rushed on now; "Won't my other mother be 'specially when she comes home? I'll have two mothers at home, and you'll have two wives, won't you, Father?"

During the four years she had known and loved John Curtis Morgan there had been many times when Nan's heart had ached sickeningly with pity for the hurt which Iris Morgan had inflicted upon him. But the pain that stabbed her heart now made every other pain she had ever felt seem trivial. And as always, she suffered because he suffered, would have died to spare him.

The door from the butler's pantry swung open. With a gasp of relief, Nan realized that the father would be spared the necessity of answering an unanswerable question.

Gosh! What a cake! Curtis shouted, beating his hands together in a frenzy of delight. "What kind of cake is that, Estelle? I never saw such a funny, pretty cake—"

Estelle laughed, as she set the tall, white cake, surmounted by a tiny bride and groom, before her new mistress. "That's a wedding cake, Curtis. Maude made it herself, Miss—I mean ma'am."

"Oh—that was dear of her," Nan faltered. "You've both been so kind—"

"Can I have the man and lady dolls, Nan? Can I?" Curtis clamored, and her husband, at the foot of the table, seized the excuse to laugh. The tension was broken.

Nan laughed, too, and the magnificent cake was cut. So that Maude might not force her feelings hurt, Nan forced herself to eat all of the thin slice she had taken upon her own plate, but Maude might have flavored it with quinine instead of almond; the bride would not have known the difference.

The second incident occurred immediately after dinner. Nan Carroll Morgan was destined that night to be spared nothing. If innocent, blundering little Curtis had been a graduate of the Inquisition, he could not have devised more exquisite tortures for the girl who had, in all humility, agreed to become a mother to him.

Quite as a matter of course John Curtis Morgan led the way into the drawing room, Curtis dragging at his hand and chattering blithely. Nan forced her reluctant feet to follow them into the room dominated by Iris Morgan's beautiful, almost life-size portrait. She had not long to wonder what revenge Iris would exact of the interloper.

Her husband paused at a table to fill his pipe, but Curtis impatiently and automatically dragged him to the center of the room, so that they faced the fireplace and the portrait.

"Listen, Father! Listen!" Curtis commanded shrilly, pointing to the portrait of his mother. "Do you think Nan is as pretty as my other mother? DO you, Father? I think she ALMOST is, don't you, Father?"

choly from his distinguished, austere face.

"If he says, 'Alone—at last!' I'll scream," Nan said to herself as she waited for him to reach her. "For we aren't alone! We'll never be alone as long as SHE sits there, mocking us, smiling, gloating because she knows he'll always be hers—"

"Well, Nan?" Morgan put an arm about the girl's bare shoulders and pressed her close against his side. For a breathless moment Nan thought he was going to kiss her. But he drew her gently along with him to a small Empire sofa, so placed that Iris' portrait was not visible from it. Was that why he chose it? Nan wondered, but was grateful.

When they were seated, Nan taking exaggerated pains with the arranging of her long, poppy-splashed skirt, Morgan again put his right arm about her shoulders and with his left hand gathered up both her cold little hands, lifted them, brushed his lips against the rosy finger-tips.

"Glad you're here, Nan?" he asked at last, huskily.

"Yes," she could not manage more just then, with her whole body trembling to his touch.

His arm tightened about her shoulders. "I'm—happier than I've been for a long time, Nan. Dear, it hasn't been a very orthodox wedding day, has it?" he added regretfully. "But—the worst is over. I think, Curtis—"

"Of course you know he adores you," he blundered on, his voice thick with embarrassment. "We can't expect him to understand—can we?"

"No," Nan said simply, but her voice sounded cold, odd. Oh, why didn't he kiss her? She had waited so long. Nothing would matter nothing could hurt very deeply, if he loved her, even a little.

"It's rotten luck that we had to postpone our—trip," her husband went on, haltingly. "Poor little Nan! Precious little Nan!" And he laid his cheek against her shining brown hair, his arm crushing her shoulders with sudden vehemence.

Nan waited, holding her breath, her heart beating so loudly that she was afraid he would hear its clamorous, despairing message, "I love you! I love you! Don't you love me at all?" Surely NOW he would kiss her. But he lifted his head, began to speak again, in that halting, embarrassed way which was agony to her!

"Of course you're to do whatever you like with the house. Throw out anything or everything, do it over to suit yourself, dear Nan—"

"He means the portrait, but he can't bring himself to say so in so many words," Nan interpreted drearily. "I shan't take it down. It's up to him—"

But he was going on, doggedly. "I want you to have exactly the kind of home you like. If you—don't like this house—"

"Oh, but I do!" Nan interrupted, her heart pounding instantly to the pain which dragged at his voice. He loved the house. She would suffer anything rather than uproot him.

"I thought perhaps... But I'll not pretend that I'm not glad and relieved that you like it," her husband confessed, his voice almost normal. "Don't hesitate to make any changes, though. I want it to be YOUR home... You can forget about me when you make your plans. I'll like anything you do. About my room—" He hesitated and Nan's heart plunged.

"I'm afraid I've grown rather fond of the little guest room, as we still share your bath—you're taking me—I'll promise always to leave it spick and span for you—"

Above the roaring of blood in her ears Nan heard Estelle's voice, as it from a great distance: "A telephone call for you, Mr. Morgan. A lady. She says her name is Mrs. Nina Blackhall—"

MRS. JOHN TURNER HAS POPULAR GUESTS

During the several days' visit of Mrs. Turner and Miss Mildred Turner of Dallas, in the home of Mrs. Turner and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Turner, a number of the friends of the hostess and the honorees have vied in entertaining with true hospitality in the informal summer fashion for which Eastland is justly famed, and hardly a day has passed since their arrival that has not witnessed a group of friends on the lawn of some hostess who was entertaining with a picnic supper, or lawn fete as the case might be an outing, or an informal home luncheon.

Saturday following their arrival, they were the noon luncheon guests of Mrs. Harry Brelsford, when the informal party numbered some eight guests.

Tuesday noon Mrs. Virgil T. Seaberry entertained with a delightful little noon luncheon, and Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Horace Butler tendered Mrs. Turner and Miss Turner a picnic dinner on their lawn, when the guests numbered a dozen.

MRS. JAMES HORTON ENTERTAINS JUNIOR INTERMEDIATE MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Junior Intermediate Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, an interesting Bible organization, composed of boys and girls from 12 to 16 years of age, were entertained by their director, Mrs. James Horton, at her residence at 3 p. m., Saturday, a change for this one date from the usual hour at 1:30 p. m., when the Society meets at the church.

The session was conducted by Miss Kathleen Cottingham, president pro tem.

Horace Horton was elected president to fill the unexpired term of Miss Florence Perins, who tendered her resignation on account of being out of the city during the balance of her term of office.

The officers are changed every three months, and in this way the young folks learn something of parliamentary law and usage, although presiding and discharging their official obligations.

A most interesting missionary mission on Japan was studied, led by Misses Barbara Ann Arnold, Elizabeth Ross, Kathleen Cottingham, June Hyer, Harry Sample, Bill Bohning, Roger Arnold, and Horace Horton.

pared to be sent to a mission school.
Mrs. Horton served a delicious plate of cake with iced lemonade.

CIVIC LEAGUE YEAR BOOK COMMITTEE.

A most interesting and delightful program has been outlined for the Civic League work and their new year book of 1925-26, by the committee in charge, Mrs. McClammy, chairman, and Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. Scott Key and Mrs. W. E. Stalter, assisted by Mrs. Doughtie as an interior decorator and Mrs. C. U. Connelley as chairman for beautification of Eastland. The committee has met three times and a rough outline for their present progress includes four programs on general interior decoration, two programs on child welfare. At this point the holidays will intervene and upon reconvening the league will have a luncheon in observance of Federation Day.

Household management will present three programs and beautification of Eastland will include three programs. Texas day will be observed and two programs given to public education.

FIDELIS MATRONS WILL ENTERTAIN TUESDAY EVENING

SUNBEAM BAND HAS INTERESTING MEETING

The busy little Sunbeam Band of the Baptist church continues to grow and grow in spite of the hot weather and four new members were welcomed at Saturday's meeting, when two rousing songs were given under the direction of Mrs. W. T. Turner, with Mrs. Thomas J. Pitts at the piano.

A splendid address, easily understood by the children was given by the revivalist, Rev. E. N. Strother of Dakota, Ok., who is conducting a revival in Olden.

The Band was arranged in four groups with directors in charge, Mrs. T. J. Pitts, Mrs. Tindall, Mrs. W. T. Turner, and little Miss Iola Simmons.

DEBUT OF BAND IS FEATURE

Informal Reception Follows Regular Business Session of Organization.

RANGER, Texas, June 24.—Between 300 and 400 attended a safety meeting held by Chestnut & Smith employes Friday evening. The session was held in the open air.

The employes hold a safety meeting each month but the latest session was enlarged from a mere business meeting to a real "occasion" and a great crowd enjoyed a splendid time.

In addition to the employes their families attended the occasion and some 20 employes of affiliated companies from Breckenridge were there.

Chestnut & Smith band appeared for the first time and the excellent manner in which they performed was a delight to all. Bandmaster Campbell wielded the baton and 30 musicians responded with a number of selections during the evening.

B. H. Peacock presided and addresses were made by F. H. Kerr, consulting safety engineer of Houston; F. G. Yonker; C. M. Edwards, and Safety Director Hightower of the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company, of Fort Worth.

The usual safety program was held and it was brought out that there was no lost time from accidents during May.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served.

INTERESTING COMMENTS BY SPORTS SCRIBE

Brownwood Writer Talks About the Grid Race of 1929.

"It's against the law in Texas to commit murder and other similar acts of unkindness," writes Bruce M. Francis, sports editor of the Brownwood Bulletin.

"Despite this, Brady High school has scheduled a football game Sept. 21 this year with the Cisco Lobos.

"Apparently Brady has a surplus of young men, at least the powers that be are none too conservative with those on hand.

"But we understand that Brady has a first class ball club in the making, one that will be made up of veterans from the 1928 grid team. This does not mean that Brady will beat Cisco or even hold the Lobos to a close score.

Francis alludes to the controversies of last season. "According to present weather forecasts, however, the 1929 grid season in the Oil Belt will not be as stormy as was the last campaign. If it is, football for high schools will be about 'finis' in this district."

Discussing the outlook for a good team in his home city, the sports writer states: "Brownwood's Lions will be much stronger next autumn than last. It is safe to say that the team will be 5 per cent stronger than it was in 1928, if not more. The 1928 backfield will rank with the best in the Oil Belt, not excluding Abilene, Cisco or any of the rest. May sound like idle talk but time will tell."—Ranger Times.

One Man Dead In Beaumont Shooting

BEAUMONT, June 24.—T. J. Benefield, 29, Beaumont, died Sunday from wounds received Saturday night when he and Mrs. A. D. Colvin, 25, were shot on a downtown street here. The woman was in a hospital here seriously injured.

The shooting occurred as the two were leaving a motion picture theater together. Immediately after the shooting, the woman's former husband who was reported to have married again surrendered to police.

"I was in a very much run down condition," she explained, "from stomach disturbances and most everything I ate gave me trouble. My food would sour on my stomach, and form gas that made me miserable for hours afterwards. I had liver trouble and severe intense pains in my sides, which hurt me so bad at times, I could hardly stand it. The gas crowded my heart and it would palpitate so fast at times, I thought I had heart trouble. My nerves were all on edge so I got very little sleep at night, and when morning came I was almost as tired as when I went to bed. I had terrible headaches, and felt so wretched and no account, I hardly had any life or energy left to do anything."

"I heard so many people telling about the good that Orgatone had done them that I decided to try it. The way it took hold of my troubles was one grand surprise to me and I hardly know how to begin to tell all the benefits I have derived from using it. I feel better than I have for several years. I eat anything I want now, and don't have the least trouble afterward. I sleep and rest fine every night and those terrible pains are all gone, and my liver seems to be in perfect condition now. Orgatone has been a fine thing for me and I am glad to recommend it to others, from my own experience with it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific preparation and is sold in Eastland exclusively by the Toombs & Richardson Drug Co. under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Adv.

JIMMY DAILEY, 'WELL SHOOTER,' RISKING LIFE

Experienced Worst Accident in Ranger Field, When Entire Well Blew Up.

WINK, Texas, June 22.—Handling nitroglycerin and setting it off in oil wells is the dangerous vocation of Jimmy Dailey, 40, white-haired, and fearless. Wells which won't flow automatically need "a shot." Jim and his explosives do the work.

Jimmy has shot wells in most all of the Oklahoma and Texas oil fields, but right now his job is in the most dangerous of the lot—the Wink field of West Texas where high rock pressure of the gas is liable to blow the nitroglycerin shell out of the hole.

In the Wink field, the nitroglycerin is kept in 10-quart cans in a reservoir about three miles out of the oil town of Wink. It is protected by bold warning signs.

Jim's job requires that he place the nitroglycerin—"soup" he calls it—in felted apartments in his car, and haul it to the well. Then he must lift the "soup" out of the car and pour it into shells, usually four inches in diameter and eight feet long.

After the shell is let down into the hole, the explosive is set off by various methods, often by time bombs.

While handling the nitroglycerin, Jimmy is ready constantly to "meet his Maker." Some of the accidents he has experienced are explanatory of why well shooters do not live long.

In shooting 1,000 wells, Jimmy's worst accident occurred in the Ranger field of Texas. A shell went off prematurely, blowing up the entire well. Jim said he wasn't hurt badly.

There is always the danger of the well flowing spontaneously without use of explosives. If this happens when the shell is in the hole, it flows out with the oil and often has its course stopped by hitting a beam or other object. When this happens, a tornado might better have struck. Jimmy once climbed to the top of a derrick stool as the oil started to flow and caught the 70-pound shell as it appeared at the surface.

Twice Jim has overturned his automobile when it contained nitroglycerin. It didn't explode. And Jim keeps the same motto, "Drive fast and get there."

Jim's salary, $300 a month, is paid by the torpedo company for which he works.

Despite constant danger of death, Jim's closest shave came last Christmas when a group of oil field rowdies began shooting up his little home. Five bullets from an automatic went three inches over his head. For once Jim was glad he was a runt. Five feet two inches is his size.

Even superstitions don't stop Jim in his work.

"Black cats don't worry me. Friday the thirteenth is all the bunk," he has told many a wary friend.

'FARMER JIM' IS 'AGIN' CHARGES

Former Governor James E. Ferguson is against the proposed constitutional amendments which voters of Texas will ballot upon in a special election, Tuesday, July 16. The Telegram received a letter from Ferguson Saturday, together with a formal statement of his views.

The statement in part follows: "One of these amendments is to raise the governor's salary to $10,000 a year and the other is to increase the membership of the supreme court from three to nine. It is proposed to raise their salaries to $10,000 a year also."

"It looks like every time we turn around, we meet some politician wanting to create a new job and pay somebody $10,000 a year. It looks like it is time to call a halt on this $10,000 a year foolishness. If the thing ain't stopped, everybody we elect will begin to want $10,000 a year."

He concludes by urging the people to go to the polls and vote against the amendments "and we will take this crowd of $10,000 a year tax-eaters to righteous defeat."

WILL ACCEPT EMPLOYMENT AT HOUSTON

In Charge of School Here Since April 16, 1926

CISCO, Texas, June 24.—Resignation of H. V. Nigro, since April 16, 1926, principal of the Cisco high school, has been received by the school board. Mr. Nigro has accepted a position at Houston, he announces in his letter of resignation to the school board. He had been re-elected to his position here for next year.

The members of the board Saturday expressed regret at losing the services of Mr. Nigro whose work with the public school here has been outstanding. He left a short while ago with the intention of going to Columbia University at New York to study during the summer. From Cisco he went to Houston from where his letter of resignation was mailed.

Mr. Nigro came to the local high school about mid-term in 1924. From that time until April 16, 1926, he served as a teacher in the school. On the latter date he was elected principal to succeed H. C. Wells. In addition to his duties as principal he taught a number of scientific subjects, at intervals coached boys and girls basketball teams and directed the choral club of the school.

Not every man can wear every style shoe

Shoes are styled to fit different type feet.

When we fit a man to Packards we expect him to come back again for another pair—and he generally does—in the meantime he's probably told his friends about them. That's another reason we always recommend Packards.
