THE GRAF ZEPPELIN LANDED SAFELY AT TOULON

THE STREETS OF TOULON
by Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

Cheap Wheat in London
On May 10 the price of wheat in English markets reached its lowest level since 1914. Cheap wheat does not call for cheap bread. American wheat is protected by a duty of 30c per bushel. American farmers produce a large surplus. There are many wheat producing countries. Canada is big to be a great wheat producing nation. Economists say there is an over-production of wheat. How will it be possible to obtain a fancy price for the grain that is said to furnish the staff of life?

William Green on Labor Conditions
William Green is president of the American Federation of Labor. He is a staunch Baptist, a staunch prohibitionist, a staunch Republican and a very able successor to the late Samuel Gompers. William Green appeared before a Senate investigating committee on the labor trouble in southern industrial centers, he said "Textile operatives work from 50 to 60 hours a week in southern mills. They receive low wages. They are compelled to strike to bring about higher standards of living. Their organizers are driven out of the mill towns by representative citizens, some armed with machine guns. The strikers and their families are in a state of terror. The conditions are not good."

Let us forget these striking mill workers are not foreigners. They are not the children of foreigners. They are not the grandsons of foreigners. They are descendants of the pioneers who landed on these shores long before the coming of the war for an independent nation. The slave states are becoming industrial states. They are becoming manufacturing states. The ancient war is on in the former slave states between the employers and their white employees. There is a new south, there is a new civilization, but the problems that await solution are as old as the industrial age of man.

Summer Home for Hoover
Leading citizens of New Mexico have invited Pres. and Mrs. Hoover to spend their summer vacation in the Spanish-American commonwealth where snow-capped mountains are ever visible to the naked eye. Sen. Borah induced him to call the session for the purpose of enacting "farm relief" legislation. Now the political prophets are croaking that the session will be extended far into the summer and perhaps the early fall months. If so the president will be compelled to forego the summer vacation. Duty has the first call.

Another Republican Farm Bloc
Republican representatives from 10 states have organized a bloc. They demand protection on livestock, that feed lists shall be taken care of, that the duties on the growers of long staple cotton shall be given the same protection that is enjoyed by New England manufacturers who buy long staple cotton from southern farmers and turn it into high priced thread.

There may be a new tariff bill written by the Democrats and the Republican representatives of 10 agricultural states of the west and the north-west battle together and then vote together. Those who represent the growers of things, regardless of party affiliation, show signs of putting up a bold front to checkmate the plans of the representatives of the farmers of things.

New Building Material Store Opens Saturday

Pickering Lumber Company Announces Formal Opening of First Store of Its Kind in the City, Saturday 1:00 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

A building material store, the first of its kind in the city, will be formally opened by the Pickering Lumber company on North Lamar street at 1 p. m., Saturday. The store will remain open until 10:30 p. m.

Invitations have been sent out and the public is cordially invited to attend the opening and see the new store and the display of building materials which are carried in stock by the Pickering Lumber company.

Manager Frank Crowell of the Pickering company; F. E. Maxedon of Ft. Worth, district representative, and employees of the Eastland office have been working for several days to get the new store in readiness for Saturday's showing.

The main office of the company which faces on North Lamar street, has been completely remodeled and converted into a modern display and showroom or building material store. From this store the person desiring to build a home, remodel or repair the one they have, or add built-in features will find everything in the way of material they need displayed conveniently before them and they can select everything they want, including lumber, brick, paints, floor coverings, wall paper, built-in features, etc., without leaving the room and at the same time see just what they are buying and what it will look like when placed in the building.

Representatives from a number of manufacturers, such as paints, varnishes, wall papers, etc., will distribute samples and literature advertising their products. There will be souvenirs for men, women and children.

Rioting Students Wrecked This Office

The picture above shows the wrecked main office of Des Moines University after 150 rioting students had broken into the building in a futile search for Dr. T. T. Shields of Toronto, Canada, chairman of the board of trustees of the school, who ordered the entire faculty of the Baptist fundamentalist institution dismissed. Shields is known as a fundamentalist leader and is said to have demanded that all the professors agree not to teach anything concerning evolution.

During the riot, Dr. Shields hid under a staircase in the school building and then ordered it closed. Students and professors have obtained an injunction against Shields order and classes have been resumed.

Student indignation also was directed at Miss Edith M. Rehn, board secretary-treasurer of the board of trustees.

Local Woman's Brother Dies at Ohio Home

Jennings Taylor, brother of Mrs. S. M. Root of Eastland and well known here, died Wednesday morning at his home in Ohio according to a message received Wednesday by his sister. He had been in extreme bad health for a long time.

Mr. Taylor had only recently been removed from the hospital in Cleveland that was destroyed by explosion and fire Wednesday and in which more than 128 people lost their lives. His sister, Mrs. S. M. Root, recently visited him in Cleveland hospital and was personally acquainted with a number of the doctors and nurses killed in the explosion.

Clinic Blasts Result of Steam Fitters Blunder

CLEVELAND, O., May 17.—The threat of death hung over a score of persons today as funeral plans were made for the 125 whose lives were snuffed out by poison gas and fire in the Cleveland Clinic disaster.

Patient, doctors, nurses—all those still alive who were in the clinic Wednesday when the three explosions starting in the x-ray room sent yellowish nitrogen dioxide fumes swirling through the building—were marked on the danger list. They, with firemen, policemen and volunteers who carried victims from the blazing structure, were ordered to report for medical treatment to drive blood poisons from their lungs and blood corpuscles.

The vast destruction of human life in an institution erected to preserve life was believed probably due to two steam-fitters' blunders—each ordinarily excusable.

One of the steam-fitters, a young man named Cuffey Boggs, was held in technical custody after he told his story to Coroner A. J. Pearce, police and county officials.

He said he had been called to repair a leaking steam pipe in the basement x-ray film room Wednesday morning. Removing the fireproof covering, he had found the pipe too hot to touch. He went back to his shop, leaving the pipe to cool off. Ninety minutes later he returned to find smoke in the room and steam dripping from the pipes.

He seized a fire extinguisher and played it against the ceiling where the smoke and hissing steam seemed centered. Almost immediately the first explosion knocked him to the floor.

Thereupon he crawled from the room and was seeking safety when the second explosion flung him through a window.

His error, if such it might be called, lay in leaving the steam pipe unguarded.

City Fire Warden P. F. Ferris and M. F. Gross said they believed the heat spreading from the unprotected pipe and escaping combustion caused spontaneous combustion among rolls of x-ray film stored in the basement room. Nitrogen gas given off from the film combined with the oxygen in the air to form nitrogen dioxide gas—sure death for those who breathed it deeply.

But this gas would never have escaped from the film room to the floors above except for the error of the second steam fitter—a man, as yet unidentified. Years ago this man put a steam pipe separator from the one Boggs worked on—in the wrong place. It protruded from the ceiling and prevented the automatic closing of a fire door in the film room.

This door was designed to close when a thermometer in the room registered a certain degree of heat. Had it closed Wednesday, the flames and gas would have been forced through a ventilator without harm to anyone except Boggs, who would have been trapped and killed by the explosion, Coroner Pearce believes.

The thermometer worked Wednesday forenoon when the steam hissed into the room, but the door could not close.

City, county, state and federal authorities expected to go exhaustively into every phase of the tragedy with a view of fixing criminal responsibility, if any, and preventing similar disasters in the future.

GROUND CREWS ASSIST

Giant Air Liner's Ropes Made Fast and Landing Crew Maneuvers Her Down.

By United Press.
TOULON, France, May 17.—The crippled Graf Zeppelin, driven helplessly by a storm, maneuvered her way over the Cuers airfield here tonight at 8:25. She lowered ropes which were secured by a large ground crew.

A large force of men held on the tugging Zeppelin but it was believed at least an hour's maneuvering would be necessary before she could be brought safely to the ground.

A trained ground crew, reinforced by troops, awaited the arrival of the dirigible as she was driven by the high winds towards the Mediterranean. Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander, had advised the authorities by wireless that he thought he could maneuver over Toulon.

Fortunately the Zeppelin struck a calmer area when she neared this vicinity. The Zeppelin, with her motors stopped, drifted over the ground crew seized the ropes. There was no wind of any consequence, but the ground force proved insufficient. Hundreds of troops being sent from the city.

Meanwhile the airfield force continued to hold the ropes, and in the absence of wind, it was believed they could hold her safely unless conditions changed.

Unfortunately, Eckener was unable to choose his position for an attempt to land.

The ship was too far from the mooring mast for the available ground crew to pull her to the mast, so they prepared to hold her until help arrived.

The Fish Are Biting In The Eastland Lakes

Fish are biting at the city lakes. C. M. Manager H. O. Tatum, caught a 20 inch bass at Eastland just a day or so ago. Also C. P. Simons of Ranger caught a 15 and three-fourths inch bass out of the same lake.

Others who made good catches recently, according to the City Manager, are Jack Tucker of Eastland, who landed a 13 1/2 inch bass; Mr. Stafford of Eastland, who caught a 14 1/2 inch crappie.

The public is warned that persons caught fishing in either Lake Tullit, Lake Eastland or Ringling Lake without city permits, or other wise violating city ordinances governing the lakes, will be prosecuted by the city, who is employed by the city to patrol the lakes, will be in charge of them at all times.

It is pointed out that it is a violation of the state law to catch more than 25 fish in one day. Only 6 of this number may be bass and 6 channel cat. These must be at least eleven inches in length or they must be returned unharmed to the water. Crappie must be at least 7 inches in length and all others must be at least 5 inches in length.

For the convenience of fishermen at Lake Eastland or Ringling Lake G. R. Johnson at the City pumping station, has a supply of minnows for bate which he will sell.

county schools in Cisco last night. The encampment, which will draw between 150 and 250

on swimming in the Lake Cisco Pool.

ment will pay a fee of $3 which will take care of his meals and other incidentals attendant upon the conduct of the camp. A cook will be secured for the three days and the preparation of the meals and their serving carefully superintended. The boys will sleep un-

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLV

Everyone in the room except Mildred was surprised at what Steve said to Mildred.

"I wish you happiness?" Steve said in a low, strained voice.

Mildred looked up at him questioningly. His troubled eyes, she thought, seemed vainly trying to find an inward tumult.

"Why," she said, "I . . . and then she stopped. Could he have guessed? Did he know that every fibre of her being was reaching out to him on the impulse to keep him from going away with Pamela—forever? Was he sorry for her—wishing that she might some day find a happiness as great as his own?"

He drew herself up stiffly.

"I told him," Connie broke in, looking triumphantly at Pamela, "that you're engaged to my Mitchell."

"Tommy Mit . . ." Mildred began, but Connie stopped her from saying she'd never heard of him.

"Oh, I know I was a bit premature," the younger girl exclaimed hastily. "But you're going to be Tommy's girl."

Mildred relaxed suddenly and sank back in her chair.

Pamela spoke up accusingly. "You've allowed me to tell you all about Stephen and myself and never spilled a word! Stephen!"

She turned to her fiancé and eyed him closely.

"Thank goodness he's too dumb to see through that trick," she said, "not at all taken in by my fabrication."

Mrs. Lawrence was rendered speechless.

Stephen did not stir until Mildred put up a hand and murmured: "Thank you."

Pamela glanced impatiently at her wristwatch before Stephen read Mildred's cold little fist.

"Come along, Steve, darling," she called out impatiently, "we're down to the steamship of you know."

Mildred drew her hand away. "Adios," she said through lips she could not quite keep from quivering. "Bon voyage."

"It's too early for that," Steve answered quickly.

Mildred looked over at Pamela. "But we must engage passage advance," that determined lady remarked with much emphasis.

"Mildred's going to Bermuda—said," Connie put in.

"I first gave Stephen a good and Mildred thought of going with a pang.

She looked at each other helplessly, their hearts in their eyes, then she disposed of their luggage. At least Connie was disappointed as far as Steve was concerned.

She went away with Pamela, leaving that one Tommy Mitchell as the luckiest man in the world.

"I'm glad that Mildred is married. Doesn't she look like a girl?" Pamela exclaimed. "You were down stairs. You gave me help me choose a bag present for her."

When she was eloquently silent, Steve in the Lawrence flat there plenty of eloquence at the least but it was most certainly silent.

"Connie, what do you mean by being such a falsehood?" her other began as soon as the front door had closed on the departing girl.

"Now, mom, don't get excited," Steve pleaded. "It isn't that I love her less but that I certainly love Mildred more than I do that girl."

Steve here purposely to flaunt that account Stephen Armitage in "faced."

"Connie, Connie!"

Connie wheeled upon Mildred. "What you get?" she said. "You should have taken when you had the chance. He was in jail and then you put him down the nearest alley. But no, you must be together and bring them together in jail. Well, I've no sympathy for you. You might have known that Mildred would act like this."

"You're wrong," Mildred wailed. "Pamela doesn't love me."

"She doesn't! I'm laughing! That boob is the only one who knows that you're nuts!"

"Connie, Connie!"

Connie stormed. "Let her keep right on going—the Chinese brigand because she's the high and mighty. Judson and we're no more. And don't tell me I have a complex, either. It's a man who have when you first back at that white cat."

"I'm not," Connie raged. "Let her keep right on going—the Chinese brigand because she's the high and mighty. Judson and we're no more. And don't tell me I have a complex, either. It's a man who have when you first back at that white cat."

"I'm not," Connie raged. "Let her keep right on going—the Chinese brigand because she's the high and mighty. Judson and we're no more. And don't tell me I have a complex, either. It's a man who have when you first back at that white cat."

heel and rushed from the room. For the next half hour she lay with her face buried in a pillow sobbing over her bruised young heart.

She believed she'd saved Mildred's pride and her achievement wasn't appreciated. Anyway, if that wasn't enough to cry over, she had to release the floodgates of sympathy for her sister that had been locked up in her heart since she first discovered Mildred's secret.

Her mother came to her presently and lifted her head from the wet pillow, holding it against her bosom while she gently stroked the damp curls back from the tear-stained face.

"There, there, baby," she soothed tenderly. "Mildred wants you, honey. Just sit with her while I fix a bite of lunch."

She leaned over and pressed her lips to the smooth young cheek that lay uppermost. She was feeling each pang of her suffering twin, knowing their heart-aches exactly as they knew them.

"Mother," Connie cried chokingly. "Why did it have to happen to Mildred? She isn't hard-boiled like . . . like me. Can't you just imagine how gloriously happy she'd have been with Stephen?"

"Yes, dear, yes. But let's do all we can for her. Don't say any more about him."

"I won't," Connie promised.

Stephen was not mentioned again in that household for several days.

But in another quarter his name was the chief topic of conversation for a heated hour.

The gunmen Huck had sent to do his killing were on the carpet for the second time. Huck couldn't seem to get enough of cursing them.

Finally the man with the injured wrist rebelled. "Aw, cut the spiel," he said sullenly. "You ain't crippled for life and you still got yer dough."

Huck suddenly clamped his lips together and his black eyes snapped. He reached into an inside pocket and brought out a billfold. From it he extracted a thousand-dollar bill which he spread out on the table before him.

"That's for the man who gets Armitage," he said quietly.

The gunmen regarded it greedily.

Huck touched a bell. A big burly fellow in a spotted white apron answered his ring.

"Tell Duke I want to see him," Huck barked.

The waiter slipped out quietly and in a few minutes Duke Grogan appeared in the doorway.

Huck waved his hand toward a chair. Duke came in and sat down.

Huck picked up the bill from the table and handed it to him.

"You will pay this over to the man that bumps off Armitage," he said tersely.

Duke roused the bill into a ball and tucked it into his vest pocket. Then he leaned forward and said to Huck: "Better add a century for Snifty."

Huck started. Then he looked at the other two men. "Wait outside," he said shortly.

They got up and went out.

"That little rat's been squawking over the beatin' you give him," Duke told Huck. "It was a fool thing to do, Connor."

"Damn him," Huck gritted.

"I told you to let the girl alone," Duke reminded him. "A thing like that stirs up too much public sentiment. It was a break for you that Snifty muffed it. But you don't want him yapping. Better get the boys outside to take him for a ride."

Huck nodded and dug out a hundred-dollar bill. "Call them in," he said and Duke went over to the door to summon the men.

Huck gave the hundred-dollar bill to the man who had driven the taxicab from which the shot was fired at Freen and told him what he wanted done.

"And don't lose any time," he added coldly.

The man nodded and went out.

"Wait," Huck said to the other as he started to follow. "You stay here. That bandaged arm will land you in stir if any bull that knows you lumps it."

"Aw, I gotta get down to Daisy," the other answered. "I got my own plant to pass the time in. You flopped me here long enough. Daisy won't stand for it."

Huck disregarded Daisy. "Freen's got you tagged, you yap," he said fiercely.

"How'm I gonna knock off this guy Armitage?" the other came back.

"You'll have to wait. And you'll let Capper do the shooting."

"Hell, I can plug straighter with my left than Capper can with his right."

"Yes, I know. But that won't do you any good until you get the bandages off that arm. If Capper gets an earlier chance, it's his."

"That crook wouldn't split straight," the other grumbled.

"That's your look out," Huck told him. "Now get out."

Duke stayed on and Huck ordered whisky and soda.

He noticed that Duke was uneasy. He seemed to be trying to lead up to something. After he had chewed his cigar to a rag

Huck asked what had on his mind.

"I'll tell you," Duke answered. "I've got some bad news for you."

Such greasy hands!

Hard water won't clean them

HARD water can't do much with greasy hands. Of course, you use lots of soap. You try to get a thick lather. But the water is too hard; it combines with the soap and forms a scum. How can you expect to clean greasy hands in that water?

There is a way. Use Melo. Sprinkle a little in the basin. Water softened with Melo makes a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. Soft water and soap and lots of lather; grease won't stay long on your hands. Get a can of Melo at your grocer's today.

RANGER, CISCO RUNNERS WIN "T" LETTERS

Cecil Cole, Former R. H. S. Athlete, Gets Long-horn Letter.

AUSTIN.—Nineteen members of the 1929 Texas track squad, runners-up in the conference meet at Dallas Saturday, have been awarded letters by the athletic council. Of the nineteen letters awarded, only three were to men who have finished their three years of eligibility, giving Texas 16 lettermen around which to build the 1930 team. The past season saw the Texas thinsy clads drop two dual meets to the Texas Aggies, winners of the conference meet, take a dual meet from the Owls, a triangular meet from the Ponies and Bears, win a five-cornered meet in Austin and place in the Kansas, Illinois and Drake relays. Their performances in the Texas and S. M. U. relays were better than the average conference schools.

The men receiving letters were: Captain Leo Baldwin of Austin, Curtis Beatty of Wichita Falls, Scott Wilkey of El Paso, Frank Guffin of Austin, George Marsh of Harlingen, Milton Perkins of Bastrop, John Craig of San Antonio, Walter Howe of El Paso, Fred Sandberg of Texas City, Frank Barton of Amarillo, Cecil Cole of Ranger, M. L. Daniels of Cleburne, Perry Harris of Cleburne, Frank Mondrick of Cameron, Alfred Rose of Dallas, John Terrell of Fort Worth, W. C. Westerfeld of Cisco, Wred Wright of Gonzales and Joe Heeler of Texarkana, student manager.

Austin, El Paso and Cleburne each contributed two lettermen to the 1929 squad. The other 13 members of the squad were from the smaller cities of the state, with Dallas and Fort Worth supplying one each.

No reserve letters were given at the Monday night meeting, but these may be given later in the spring. Records of several of the other members of the squad are to be checked for possibilities of making reserve letters.

Winning Scores at Shoot High

RANGER, Texas, May 17.—Even higher scores were turned in by the leaders in the weekly shoot of the Ranger pistol team Wednesday than were registered a week ago. Three tied for first with 98 as compared to a four-cornered tie with 97 last week.

STUDY SOUL AS WELL AS ATOM

BRECKENRIDGE, May 16.—"Neither the philosophical mind that seeks the explanation of things in the light of pure reason, nor the scientific mind that looks for its answer in the test tube and laboratory, can solve the problems of Christian faith," said E. M. Waits, president of Texas Christian university, Fort Worth, in an address on "Our Texas Churches" before the Christian missionary convention here this morning.

"Christianity reminds both philosopher and scientist that there are values which do not react either to the light of reason or to the test tubes; that faith, hope and love are intangible and unseen, but after all great spiritual realities," he said.

"We are not urging in our Christian education the restriction of science or the scientific spirit, but we are asking that we shall be as profoundly interested in the nature of the soul as we are now in the structure of the atom.

"Married Life" Not Worth While

Blames Wives' "Nerves"
"Weak nerves," said a New York doctor recently, "in my estimation wreck more happily married lives than any other cause."
Besides making the sweetest disposition sour and irritable, nervousness is a terrible drain on your vital forces—it saps your youth and your strength and dulls your beauty. What a difference from the bright-eyed, vibrant girl he married. No wonder married life seems unbearable!

But you can get rid of your nervousness—speedily too—and become the steady, nervous, radiant woman you once were. Take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals and before going to bed and if it doesn't soon make a new woman of you—doesn't rid you of that tired, strained feeling—go back and get your money.

Go to your druggist now and get a bottle of Tanlac. Millions of folks have started back on the road to youth, health and happiness with this world famous tonic and there is no reason why you, too, can't begin today to rebuild your worn-out tissues and revitalize your entire system.

IT'S COSTLY TO RIDE ON POOR ROADS

Travel on Pavements Is Cheaper By One to Two Cents a Mile.

By E. E. DUFFY.

The motorist who drives a light six over first class pavements rather than over low type roads does so at a saving of 2.37 cents a mile. Travel over intermediate road types costs approximately 1.13 cents more a mile than over good pavement.

These are conclusions of Professor T. R. Agg and other research workers at Iowa State College, just made public. All items of expense were considered and properly balanced with the final figures based on year round travel.

Reports from commercial car operators all over the United States were compiled in making these studies. It is believed that the results of the observations indicate quite accurately the greater cost of low type roads, for the reports cover cars operated under all sorts of conditions, through urban and rural traffic, under diverse climatic conditions, and by drivers of varying degrees of skill and efficiency.

Considering all items of car operation expense, such as gasoline, oil, depreciation and so on, the per-mile cost of a light six-cylinder car is 8.62 cents over low type roads, 7.38 cents over intermediate types, and 6.25 cents over first class pavement.

Car operation costs, of course, vary with the size of the car. For example, the cost of operating a medium four on low type roads is 7.5 cents a mile, on intermediate types, 6.32 cents a mile, and on high type pavement, 5.44 cents.

From the collected data, it was determined that if the composite "average" automobile were to be operated entirely over pavement rather than over low type roads, the saving per mile would be 2.06 cents. Intermediate types when changed to high type highways would save the average driver approximately one cent a mile.

The motorist himself may then calculate just how much it costs him to drive over roads not of first quality. But but some 80,000 miles of high type rural highways most motoring is still over inferior highways.

Motor taxes, such as the gasoline tax and the license fee, do not compare with the bad roads tax, which may insidiously collect a $200 toll from the traveler whose yearly mileage is 10,000. Motor taxes are actually good roads taxes and when properly levied and expended they lessen the tariff of mud, tractive resistance and discomfort.

EDITORS AND PUBLIC DEMAND HIGH STANDARD IN REPORTS

By United Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 9.—Demands of the American reading public and newspaper editors for higher standards in the volume and quality of news dispatches have caused the news agencies of the United States to "cover the news on a scale hitherto unheard of," Hugh Baillie, vice president and general business manager of the United Press said in an address before editors attending journalism week at the University of Missouri.

"At no time in the history of journalism," Baillie said, "has all the news been covered by American newspapers as thoroughly and comprehensively as it is today."

Baillie predicted increased use of a wireless in news transmission and development of the telephoto to a degree that would permit whole newspaper pages to be sent by wire or wireless on a practical, everyday basis. He stressed the increased public interest in financial news and its recognition by newspapers. "Today," Baillie said, "stock quotation lists are read as eagerly as baseball box scores, even more so, perhaps."

"Because in the case of the market, the figures mean money," he said, "the demands of editors in 'hardening the news' had reached the point," Baillie said to where the New York office of the United Press now handled each day more than 620,000 words of news. Discussing the increased cost of covering the world news, Baillie said, the United Press last year handled more than 8,000,000 cable words, transmitted from abroad. It cost the United Press, he said, $2,000 a week to cover the recent Mexican revolution and $1,500 a week to report Hoover's trip to South America. Referring to the heavy sums spent to satisfy the public interest in Lindbergh, Baillie said his wedding probably would cost more in news coverage than any wedding in recent years.

Mother's Day in History
Mother's Day is as old as the Gospel of the Christians. Mother's Day was instituted when the Christ was born. God was His Father and Mary his mother.

Lawmakers of the 20th century did not institute Mother's Day on this earth. Regardless of this fact it is a day that should be observed and was given wide observance on May 12 the world over.

There are splendid mothers and worthless mothers just as there are splendid fathers and worthless fathers. Honor thy father? Yes. Honor thy mother? Yes. But why not every day in the year? Never overlook the fact parents are responsible for their children—not the reverse.

FERRIS, Tex. May 17.—The business section of India, small town four miles east of here, was destroyed by fire early today.

Egg Menus For Every Day In Every Week

The wise housekeeper uses eggs frequently, for she can be sure she is contributing to the family diet not only needed protein, but iron, calcium, and phosphorus, as well as two important vitamins, A and D. Doubly wise is she who uses eggs in so many guises that no one will tire of them.

Eggs may be served at all meals. At this season of the year when eggs are most abundant, there is no reason for stinting the family on egg dishes as the main course or on eggs that enrich desserts, cakes, or sauces. Every egg used adds definitely to the food value of the dish. For the sake of variety the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests a number of different ways in which eggs may be served throughout the week.

For seven appetizing breakfasts eggs may be soft cooked, poached on toast, shirred or baked, scrambled, fried, hard-cooked in white sauce, or served as a flat or fluffy omelet. At lunch, supper or dinner, there may be curried eggs, baked eggs and cheese, eggs Benedict, eggs baked in tomato cups, ham or cheese omelet, cheese soufflé, or hard-cooked egg salad. For dessert there are fruit whips made with egg whites, with whole eggs, and custards containing either whole eggs or yolks only. Very often a decorative touch is given by reserving part of the whites to make "floating islands" or meringues for puddings or pies.

Seven good egg desserts would be: Amaretto whip, baked custard floating island, chocolate soufflé, French vanilla or custard ice cream, Spanish cream, sliced oranges with soft custard, custard or lemon meringue pie. One should also not forget that all the sponge cakes, angel food, sunshine cake and plain sponge are made with a large number of eggs and make good desserts.

Mayonnaise salad dressing is started with one or more egg yolks. Cooked dressing requires two whole eggs or four egg yolks. Hollandaise sauce, which lifts a number of simple dishes out of the commonplace, is also made with four egg yolks for thickening. It is especially good with fish and asparagus, and is always served with eggs Benedict.

The secret of successful egg cooking is slow cooking at moderate, even heat, whether one is hard cooking eggs preparatory to devilling them, making a prune whip or a cheese soufflé, or making a soft custard or cooked salad dressing.

"They Know Their Oil"

We don't know who originated that slang expression, but we rather imagine that it started in a filling station.

To most people, oil is just oil. Possibly in the test tubes we note a difference in color, but we don't know whether the dark or the light is the better quality.

We drivers of automobiles buy our oil on faith, and trust to the integrity of the oil man to give us a quality that will keep the motor running smoothly. If we have to learn the technical phases of lubricating oil before we bought it, most of us would go back to the horse and buggy.

It's a wonderful convenience, therefore, to have oil and gasoline service, such as we have here in Eastland. The business, generally, has been developed to an extremely high state of efficiency, and our Eastland filling stations are up to standard in every respect.

Eliminate the filling stations our community and our daily activities would be seriously hampered. And there is a distinct sense of security in buying oil from a concern that has an established reputation for honesty and quality products.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CATHOLIC CHURCH
May 19, mass will be at 8 a. m. by Rev. P. Ruano. This is Pentecost Sunday and the gospel read in mass is taken from the Gospel of St. John XIV 23-31. This is the tenth day since Christ ascended into heaven and the fiftieth day since Christ's resurrection from the dead.
The solemn festival which we celebrate today is called Pentecost. This name comes from the Greek word Pentecoste, which means the fiftieth. The feast of today is thus named because it is celebrated on the fiftieth day after Easter. It was formerly called "the day of the Holy Ghost" because on Pentecost the Holy Ghost came down on the Apostles. There is no doubt that this feast dates back to the earliest days of Christianity and is of apostolic origin, for it was but natural for the Apostles to commemorate annually the day on which the Holy Ghost descended upon them. The apostolic constitutions ordain the celebration of Pentecost in these words: "The great feast of Pentecost be to you ten days after the Ascension of Christ, or on the fiftieth day after the first Sunday (Easter Sunday), for on it the Lord Jesus Christ sent to us the gift of the Holy Ghost in the third hour."
The special office of the Holy Ghost is to inspire and direct the church and to preserve pure and unsullied the deposit of faith.
Rev. M. Collins.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE HAS ENTERTAINED THROUGH YEAR

The domestic science department of the Eastland high school which has been most efficiently administered by Mrs. Goodman of Troup, a graduate of the Kansas A. & M., has had in its curriculum a series of entertainments which have included six luncheons, with fifteen mothers entertained; a banquet for the school board; a banquet for the faculty, the preparation of the banquet for the football boys, banquet for the ward school principals, and one for children for the second semester girls.

An interesting talk with Mrs. Goodman developed information that food supplies are paid for from the apportionment received from the state and that the salary of the vocational teacher is met one-half by the state and the other half by the school board.

The domestic science department has 48 students, divided into three classes of sixteen students each, of which some one class meets each day.

Studies in both practical and theoretical work are conducted. Mrs. Goodman has achieved splendid work in this, her first year, and expects to be here next term.

The domestic science sewing class has also sixteen members to a class, which also meets in three separate sections.

During Mrs. Goodman's year a handsome glassed-in press has been installed for girls' garments, and presses for food supplies, the kitchen and private dining room are located on the top floor of the high school. The windows have been attractively equipped with pretty curtains, and handsome buffet installed in the lunch room.

Thursday noon Miss Faye Crossley was hostess for the domestic science class to Mrs. N. N. Rosenquest, Mrs. W. K. Jackson, Mrs. P. B. Bittle, Mrs. George L. Brogdon, Mrs. Crossley and Mrs. Goodman.

The dainty table was centered with a bowl of pink blossoms, and laid in embroidered luncheon linens.

The luncheon plate of pressed chicken on lettuce, had hot ice box rolls, pineapple nut and cheese salad on lettuce, iced tea with mint and lemon with second course of banana ice cream and chocolate iced angel food cake.

Everything had been prepared by the domestic science class and was very delicious.

The noon luncheon on Wednesday was attended by Mrs. B. E. McGlamery, Mrs. A. F. Taylor, Mrs. W. Z. Outward, Mrs. Jess Day, Mrs. Luther Bean, with Miss Lorraine Taylor as hostess for the class.

The luncheon on Tuesday, entertained Misses. C. B. Frost, J. H. Caton, Sam Harris, Jep F. Little, Pritchard, with Miss Virginia Neal Little as hostess for the class.

LAST MEETING OF MUSIC CLUB FOR THIS SEASON

The Music club of Eastland held its final meeting for this season yesterday afternoon in the Community Club House, with members present, the attendance being affected by several absent, visitors to Cisco district Methodist convention in Ranger.

The meeting was a combined business and social event, and had a hint of sadness in the coming departure of Mrs. Charles G. Norton, who has been of inestimable benefit to the Music club, which deplores her going.

A charming setting of tall floor baskets, flower filled, and the president's table, adorned with glowing foliage plants, in checker holder of the club colors, white and green, marked the day.

The session was presided over by Mrs. T. J. Pitts, the retiring president.

Reports of annual Music Week were submitted by general chairman, Mrs. W. K. Jackson, showing greater public interest than usual, and generous response in attendance to all entertainments.

Mrs. C. G. Norton moved that all connected with the making of the successful "week" be extended a rising vote of thanks.

Several motions resulted in the endorsement in the minutes of thanks to the Eastland Telegram for publicity, Connellee theatre for assistance in announcing merchants' Musical revue, and on that evening of entertainment; Mrs. Wayne for cooperation with merchants, and interesting them in special Music Week (seven edition); support of merchants for same; of Mrs. A. J. Campbell for securing band cooperation; Misses Satterwhite for Lallyheo car; announcing revue; Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, assisted by Mrs. Steele Johnson for special cooperation; in presenting merchants' Musical revue; to Miss Ina Ruth Kelley for cooperation with high school girls for revue.

Special thanks from the floor were extended Mrs. Grady Pipkin for chairmanship fine arts recital; Mrs. R. L. Perkins, chairmanship of Original Entertainment; Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins for brilliant chairmanship of public benefit, and with special thanks to the artists for loan of works for Original Entertainment.

Regret was expressed that Mrs. John M. Mouser had been unable to continue her work as ticket chairman for benefit, owing to illness in her family, and thanks were extended for her distribution of 400 tickets to be sold.

Flowers were ordered for Mrs. Mouser. Miss Thelma Williams was formally thanked on motion, for assisting Mrs. W. K. Jackson by selling 102 tickets for the revue.

Mrs. B. B. B. Bickerstaff moved a rising vote of thanks to be tendered Mrs. Jackson, her conductor of Music Week, her daily writing for press of attractions, and congratulations that this was the most successful music week Eastland had experienced.

The Club House apportionment to Music club of $62.50 for renovations was allowed.

At conclusion of business there developed the statement that the treasurer reported all bills paid but the largest sum in the Music club treasury they have had so far on hand.

The social hour was opened by the presentation to Mrs. Pitts on behalf of the Music club of a handsome three piece candle stick and comfort set in lovely colport, the gift tendered by Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite.

Mrs. Pitts responded in sincere acceptance of this evidence of the club's appreciation of her efforts.

A sing-song was conducted by Mrs. B. B. B. Bickerstaff with Mrs. J. M. Perkins as accompanist.

The club was then called to order by the president for a program in honor of Mrs. Charles G. Norton, opened by Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite, with a lovely reading by Rudyard Kipling, and a voice solo by Mrs. Grady Pipkin.

Mrs. Jackson presented an address on "Friendship" and stated the value of Mrs. Norton to her friends, the public, and the Music club, closing with an original verse, and the presentation of the gift of the Music club, a very handsome musical reference work, illustrated and inscribed, "The Music Club of Eastland presents this gift, in appreciation to Mrs. Charles G. Norton," with date.

The recipient responded in touching phrases, and paid the club the compliment of having a wealth of talent, and predicted a glowing future for the Music club.

The gift was accompanied by a beautiful corsage of sweetpeas from Mrs. Grady Pipkin.

The three handsome volumes the Music club presented to the public library were on display and the inscription on fly leaf read "The Music Club of Eastland presents this volume to the Public Library of Eastland, in appreciation of the response of the public to the efforts of the Music Week observance for Music Club, May 6-11, 1929. Mrs. W. K. Jackson, chairman Music Week; Mrs. T. J. Pitts, president Music club."

A delicious refreshment of orange ice, in dainty tinted glasses, and small cakes were served with plates centered with lace

Below is "the gang," entered by the El Paso Post, in the parade opening the El Paso rodeo, characters being taken from Williams' drawings. "Cotton" is a "bulldozer" and "Curly" is a bronco buster. NAVAL OFFICERS TO BE TUTORED IN AERONAUTIC

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD, United Press Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON.—The United States navy is planning to give all its future officers a sufficient knowledge of aeronautics to enable them to co-operate effectively with the naval air forces. With this in view it has ordered four new Sikorsky amphibian planes for use at the U. S. naval academy, Annapolis, Md.

Contrasted with the obsolescent planes now used, the new Sikorsky are of the latest type. Each is powered by two 450-horsepower Pratt and Whitney "Wasp" motors, can carry 10 passengers, and has a cabin sufficiently soundproof to enable an instructor to teach a class in the air.

Ground work in aviation has been given at the academy during one or two terms for some time, it was said. The new schedule of air training, however, provides aeronautics instruction covering each midshipman's four years in the academy. Students now will have 10 hours in the air before graduating, it was stated.

Sturdiness and Safety.
The new Sikorsky, it was said, were chosen for sturdiness and safety qualities. They can be flown and even climbed with only one motor and are equipped for landing on either land or water.

No pilot's training will be given the midshipmen at the naval academy, but they will be required to take thorough courses in navigation, gunnery and radio, in addition to their ground work.

Following graduation at the academy, each midshipman is required to serve one year at sea. He may then apply for aviation training either at Hampton Roads on the Atlantic coast or San Diego on the Pacific. If, during this preliminary instruction, he proves mentally and physically adaptive to the air service, he is sent to the Pensacola naval air station for advanced courses.

Some knowledge of aeronautics by line officers has been found indispensable by the navy for efficient co-ordination between the air corps and the fleet.

COMPENSATION IS SOUGHT FOR PRISON YEARS

By United Press.
MADISON, Wis.—An effort is under way here to obtain legislative compensation for John A. Johnson, 65, who served 10 years in prison for a crime it now generally is believed he did not commit.

Although Johnson confessed in 1911 to the murder of 7-year-old Annie Lemberger, he repudiated his confession just before he entered the gates of Waupun prison.

In 1922 he was pardoned by Governor E. L. Philipp, who had Johnson once had seen a lynched at Darlington and the men he heard that he was in danger of meeting a similar fate. He became a cringing, terrified wreck. He confessed, begged protection and when arraigned in court pleaded guilty, with the additional plea that he be hurried to prison and saved from the mob.
