Comedy

Administration arrangers aren't any too happy over their muffling of the power lobby issue. They realize now that they let their mightiest weapon lie idle in the dust of a committee shelf.

On March 13 the Senate passed the Norris resolution for investigation of the holding company lobby almost unanimously. Sam Rayburn immediately asked unanimous consent for its passage in the House. But GOP Leader John Taber of upstate New York—the Carlisle power interests' Gibraltar—blocked it with his lone objection. The resolution was promptly forgotten.

Few would have dared to vote against the resolution had the administration swung behind it earlier in the engagement. The inquiry's revelations might have quashed the "death sentence" through the House. Now the somnolent White House fixers have been put on the spot by angry House inquisitors. Four months too late the Senate starts a face-saving inquiry of utility pressure and propaganda. As a Senate wag says, "It looks like a comedy of terrors."

Clinched

Rep. Brewster stepped on tender toes when he dragged the Passamaquoddy project into the center of current Congressional intrigues. It has been President Roosevelt's favorite dream since he and Louis Howe sailed the waters of Eastport harbor twenty-five years ago. Mr. Brewster's moves mystify his colleagues. As Maine Governor he raged up and down the state against the dominant inland interests. He attended "owl sessions" of Congressmen scheming to put through the "death sentence." He was Brain Trustee Corcoran's first lieutenant in cloakroom conspiracies and skirmishes. After a week at home he voted against execution of holding companies. And he capped that by charging that Corcoran threatened to squish the Quoddy project unless Brewster stood by the White House.

This sharp-shooting dramatizes the swashbuckling strategy indulged in by both sides these turbulent days. Everybody is straining to put something over a somebody.

Drilling Due To Begin Soon On Deep Test

Deepening of the John I. Moore et al No. 1 McDowell Ordovician test in section 22, block 34, T-2-S, T & P. survey, is scheduled to get under way this week. Additional drill stem ordered out of Memphis has arrived and is having tools welded on. As soon as this work is completed it will be hauled to the well and drilling started. The hole is bottomed at 9,946 feet where it has been shut down for many weeks. Six weeks after it had been shut in, it was opened and headed 50 barrels of oil before stopping. Another well of interest in this area was getting down near depth when show of oil ought to be noted. The Eastland Oil Co. (formerly John I. Moore) No. 1 D. H. Snyder, which test on an apparently logical trend between the East Howard and Chalk pools, was 2,520 feet Monday morning. It had been in line since 1890 feet. Two new wells were brought in last week by Sinclair and Clay in the East Howard area.

All Power Of State Vested In Kingfish

Pelican State Has No Government But Huey P. Long

BATON ROUGE, (AP)—The Louisiana legislature in a whirlwind special session approved early Monday twenty-five measures giving Senator Huey Long virtually every remaining power of the state.

The new laws took care of odds and ends, not enacted upon in six other special sessions held since last summer. They left the state almost no government except that dictated by Long.

The rights given to the senator's organization include: Control of elections; command of an army; authority over all non-elective governmental employees; hiring and firing privileges over school teachers; power to spend state money for any purpose.

Hearing Set For Mexican

Murder Charge Lodged Against Emilio Diaz Following Shooting

Hearing for Emilio Diaz, charged with murder following the fatal shooting of Ramon Cruz, 32, here Saturday night, was to be held Tuesday at 9 a. m.

Diaz was charged with murder after he had admitted firing a pistol which sent six bullets from a .38 calibre pistol into the body of Cruz.

Diaz, in the county jail, was suffering from cuts across his left arm. Cruz was buried in the Mexican Catholic cemetery Sunday at 5 p. m.

He was survived by his wife, Refugio Cruz, and 5 children, Ramon, Eleno, Gaupulla, Ramon, Jr., and Josefa. He leaves his parents, Vicente and Mrs. Cruz, a brother, Isadore, and two sisters, Sastinia Vies and Alexandra Lopez.

Huge Damage In New York State By Heavy Rains

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Torrential rains which swept Eastern and Central New York state during the week-end, ceased Monday, leaving hope that swollen rivers and creeks would recede without increasing the damage of nearly two million dollars already done.

A state-wide survey showed storms caused eight deaths, washed out scores of bridges, several railroad tracks, resulted in the collapse of three dams, drove numerous families from their homes, and halted traffic on nearly all highways.

Rockefeller At 96 Sees His Thrift Endure

Standard Oil Founder's Millions Span World To Aid Mankind

NEW YORK (U. P.)—Milestones in the life of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., were commemorated here July 8, 1839, at Richard, Tioga county, N. Y. Son of farmer doctor.

1848—Puts first $50 savings on interest.
1850—Buys partnership in Cleveland commission house.
1860—Begins merging of small oil companies.
1878—Head of Standard Oil company.
1880—Facing battle of independent oil companies over trust charges.
1890—Head of Standard Oil company of New Jersey, combining 20 companies controlling petroleum industries.

1908—Health failing; beginning of large donations.
1910—Retired; devoted to philanthropies.
1929—In good health; enjoying daily round of golf.
NEW YORK (U. P.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is 96 today.

The man who astounded the world of half-century ago with his wizardry in oil long ago receded into the background, but the Rockefeller millions remain in the public's eye. They provided spectacular news when they were being amassed, and now they command avid attention as they are being spent to help mankind.

At its maximum the Rockefeller fortune undoubtedly exceeded $1,000,000,000. Computation disclosed that this sum probably would have increased three-fold had Rockefeller remained actively in business during the past two-score years.

Donations Started Early
The oft-repeated expression that Rockefeller spent two-thirds of his life in making money and one-third in getting rid of it hardly is true in the light of facts known today. During money years has been a trait of the Rockefeller family. An old ledger kept in 1832-56 shows that after a four-month period Rockefeller gave away $5.58 when his earnings for that length of time was only $100.

The base for the vast fortune was laid in 1870 with the formation of the Standard Oil company. From that date until well into the 20th century, the Rockefeller career was a hectic one. The evolution of the company, its variegated history, its court battles, extension of the oil industry to every continent and the many millions it produced have been the subject matter for more ephemeral and permanent literature than any other business since the world began. Rockefeller started all this when he standardized one of the products upon which civilization depends.

Total Gifts Not Known
As the vast Rockefeller fortune was built up wholesale, so it was necessary to disburse it in the same manner rather than in small lots in retail fashion. No accurate audit of the gifts of Rockefeller and his son, John D. Jr., ever has been made, but all estimates place the total at above three-quarters of a billion. The chief principle followed in contributing this figure has been that the best investment for future generations is in the health and well-being of the present generation.

The Rockefeller Foundation, has received the largest sums, between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000. The General Education Board ranks close to the same figure. Other large contributions include: La Roche Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, $73,875,457; University of Chicago, $46,000,000; Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, $40,000,000; International Education Board, $21,000,000; American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, $8,725,960; and the American Baptist Home Mission Society, $3,472,000.

Learned Thrift Early
These many millions spent to improve the world probably were the result of the thrift Rockefeller learned from his mother. This trait

Eight Golfers Qualify Sunday

Leaders Meet Cosden Tonight

The Mellinger Angels, a group of fighting youngsters who have battled against great odds to take the top slot in the Big Spring softball loop, will meet the powerful, smart Cosden team tonight for the third time this season.

Twice before the teams have met and each time the youngsters, presenting a team clicking in every department, have gained the better of the argument.

Tonight they will be fighting under a strain, that of remating at the top, and fighting a team which is probably the most dangerous in the whole loop.

The Angels were not considered as contenders as the season began, but soon struck fear into enemy teams by winning five straight games.

The Mellinger force, although losing two games to the Stationers and one to the Herald, have never lost entire control of the situation.

fuel for the planes, trucks, tanks and battleships Herr Hitler is building or has on his mind. It provides the life blood for naval and military machines in countries lacking natural oil deposits.

Germany discovered the process in 1913 but the World War delayed its development. England has entered upon large-scale production. Russia and Japan are experimenting. Standard Oil of N. J. is working on it. Now our government begins to prepare for a peacetime or wartime shortage.

Pill

AAA-ers resent most fiercely the accusation that their crop reduction program opened the door to foreign imports. You can start a scrap with the mild Henry Wallace on this subject even before milking time.

He will pull out his notebook and hurl figures at you. According to him, we imported feeder grains totaling 33,000,000 bushels in the eight months ending February of this year. The AAA program, he says, was responsible for a reduction of only 236,000,000 bushels of these crops. He blames the drought for wiping out more than 2,100,000,000 bushels. Corn imports — and corn's his hobby — did not equal the normal production of one Iowa county. Anyway, he concludes, we exported $650,000,000 worth of agricultural products in 1934, while importing only $100,000,000 worth of competitive produce.

The experts are looking at the skies instead of charts these days. Normal weather is expected to reduce imports to average or below the 1923-1933 period. But it is ironic that our high farm prices would offer a target to foreign farmers if it were not for the Hawley-Smoot duties. That's a dark brown pill for Free Trader Henry, to swallow!

Notes

One obstacle to sensational lobby disclosures is that Senators and Representatives may not care to testify. Big expense accounts by the "utilities" will be X-rayed. The work relief scheme as now revised leaves nothing for Key Man Frank Walker to do but he says he won't resign. Senator Clark is working feverishly to put through a bill to keep Americans out of war zones and to shut off munitions exports to belligerents. The banking bill starts its voyage through the Senate on suspiciously smooth seas.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Silence—New York attention will focus this week on the pending battle over the AAA amendments. The chief point at issue is the provision to empower the Secretary of Agriculture to fix prices. This is supposed to be a constitutional substitute for the licensing powers in the original draft—which even AAA officials privately concede could never have been upheld in the courts. Astute observers doubt that the substitute will be any more acceptable legally. Harry Byrd of Virginia—leader of the anti-New Deal Democratic bloc in the Senate—will lead a determined fight to kill it. Without it the AAA would be practically impotent.

Heads of several farm groups are privately peeved at the way this AAA business is working out. Some months back the administration induced them to commit themselves in favor of the AAA amendments in principle. Since then they have been so drastically revised as to be scarcely recognizable. The agricultural chiefs don't care much for the new version—but the administration is holding them to their commitments.

In fact, strong pressure is being exerted to get them to come out openly for the amendments in their latest form. The farm leaders feel that's rubbing it in—and few if any of them will respond. The White House will be fortunate if they do nothing worse than maintain a dignified silence.

Lobbying

Brain-truster Thomas Corcoran gave anti-New Dealers a break they had been praying for when he chatted with Congressman Ralph O. Brewster of Maine about the latter's vote on the holding company bill and Passamaquoddy. They admit that Brewster probably misinterpreted Corcoran's remarks—but that won't spoil their fun.

The incident gives them a hook on which to hang the hide of a man whose reform ideas they especially detest. Corcoran has been a whole regiment of thorns in their flesh—one of the busiest framers of legislation to restrict rugged individualism. He is understood to have gotten into the Passamaquoddy picture at the President's request—to straighten out a wrangle between the Army authorities in charge and engineer Dexter Cooper. It's a sweet opportunity to portray him as an obnoxious behind-the-scenes plunger of radical heresies. No pains will be spared to make the charge of improper lobbying stick.

New York notes with glee that the House investigation of lobbying activities is in the hands of the Rules Committee. This Committee—headed by Tammany veteran John J. O'Connor—isn't too friendly to the White House. Wall Street will bet 5 to 1 that it slaps administration agents harder than power propagandists. Utility men are not worried about the inquiry. They claim they are willing to stack their lobbying methods against the government's any old time.

Overplayed

Conservatives were startled by the size of the House majority against the President. They had hoped for a victory—but expected it to be close. Still more surprising—and encouraging from the New York viewpoint—was the fact that the record vote hit FDR even harder than the teller vote supposed to give Representatives the shelter of secrecy.

Shrewd observers believe the Scripps Howard newspapers unwittingly did the President a disservice in this connection. Their widely advertised poll of the teller vote not only aroused Congressional resentment but gave Democratic waverers courage to join the majority by showing them how many of their respected party colleagues were lined up on that side of the fence.

Several Congressmen have told New York contacts that communications from constituents ran as high as 10 to 1 against the new sentence. They were plenty impressed. Jubilant right wingers now believe that Mr. Roosevelt will make a bad mistake if he uses this as a campaign issue next year. There are many indications—apart from obvious propaganda—that a public reaction has set in in the utilities' favor. Reliable scouts in various sections of the country report that the New Deal has clearly overplayed its hand on this question.

Come—

Industrial leaders are delighted with the joint decision of the Federal Trade Commission and the new NRA that voluntary codes will not have to include provisions for labor's protection except at the code-makers' option.

This means that hour and wage restrictions on employers are officially dead. That's great news to manufacturers who crave to cut costs. A drift back to pre-NRA standards is inevitable in many industries.

Lotteries

The movement to legalize lotteries—headed by Mrs. Oliver Harriman—has strong backing from trustees of charitable institutions. A number of wealthy women are deeply interested. Most private hospitals in New York are running with ruinous deficits—and it's getting harder and harder to raise money.

Students of the situation see lotteries as the only alternative to turning the hospitals over to public authorities. Trustees would hate the latter—partly for the personal reason that it would deprive them of an activity they feel is useful and partly because they sincerely believe private hospitals are better for the sick. They have statistics to show that the percentage of recoveries is much higher in private New York institutions than in public.

WHERE DOES ALL MY MONEY GO?

I wish I had more to spend this summer... simply must get white shoes and a new light sweater and those two books and, well, lots of things... I'm not extravagant, but where does all my money go?

Don't worry too much—the very same sort of problem bothers the folks along Millionaire Row. And you can do something about it, very easily, by learning how to recognize the best things to buy, the best places to buy and the best times to buy.

The advertising columns of this newspaper can help you considerably. Form the habit of watching them closely for news about things you need now or will be needing soon. The facts are all there, waiting to be found. Perhaps you haven't been looking.

Register this fact right now: Advertised products give better service and more solid satisfaction than the things nobody knows. If you want the most for your money, and more money for other things, buy the brand with a reputation. It's a real bargain at its regular price!

Magnolia Is Now Canning Lubrite

DALLAS—Introduction of an improved Lubrite Motor Oil to be marketed by Magnolia dealers and stations in refinery sealed cans is announced by Fred M. Legge, Jr., vice-president in charge of marketing, Magnolia Petroleum Company.

The new Lubrite follows closely upon the introduction of new number grade Mobiloil, the premium lubricant to which Lubrite is a lower-priced companion. Lubrite will be sold at 25 cents a quart, no increase from the former bulk price despite its added lubricating value and increased cost of packaging.

"Mobiloil, the world's largest selling motor oil, will always provide the finest lubrication obtainable, but in this new Lubrite quart can we believe we have produced 'the Biggest Quarter's Worth of Oil in America.'" Mr. Legge said.

The progressive nature of canning Lubrite at the refinery is in keeping with other industries who are packaging their merchandise to avoid substitution in the same manner in which we protect Mobiloil, Mobilgess and our complete line of packaged Mobil Specialties.

"By sealing our motor oil in cans at the refinery we are able to assure the buyer that he will receive what he pays for. It makes it easy to identify the product and assures the purchaser of receiving the right grade and full measure. Mobiloil and Lubrite will continue to be sold in bulk by certified dealers and at Magnolia Stations."

Jolly Buffet Supper Given On Birthday

An abundance of lovely flowers from the Carpenter garden, including red carnations and white petunias, added to the floral decoration of the tables. Fire-crackers, flags and miniature cannons lent a Fourth of July note.

An unusually delicious meal was served. The guests wrote many condolences and sent their notes with the flowers after the meal to Mrs. Harry Lester in the hospital.

Present were: Messrs. and Meses Willard Sullivan, J. H. Kirkpatrick, Bob Thompson, H. B. Hurley, Joe Ernest, P. W. Malone, Herman Williams, Adams Talley; Miss Fay Clammer of Dallas; Mrs. Effie Lindsay of Fort Worth and Harry Lester.

After the supper the guests went to the dance.

'Roberta' Perfect Musical Comedy

At last the screen presents the perfect musical comedy! RKO-Radio, which produced "Flying Down to Rio" and "The Gay Divorcee," has outdone itself with "Roberta," a glamorous, romantic and tuneful production starring Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. In presenting them in "Roberta," the Jerome Kern hit which made recent stage history, the studio gave an object lesson in picking the right vehicle for the right stars.

"Roberta" plays at the Lyric Monday and Tuesday.

A delight to the eyes and the ears, and a treat to the emotions, "Roberta" contains every element of entertainment. The romantic story, richly spiced with comedy and containing some strong human interest, is a close knit, convincing and entertaining. Without the delightful musical numbers and superb dancing, it would still hold audience interest.

Those singing and dancing numbers, however, rank as the best ever brought to the screen. Lovely Miss Dunne never before has sung so beautifully as she does in this picture. As for Astaire and Miss Rogers, they positively surpass themselves.

The best of the Kern hits from the original stage show, including the memorable "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," are retained in the film, and in addition, new sure-fire hits are introduced. These are "Lovely to Look At," sung by Miss Dunne; and "I Won't Dance," sung by Astaire and Miss Rogers and danced by Astaire.

A brilliant fashion parade, in which strikingly beautiful models display a wide variety of stunning creations, is a colorful feature of the picture.

The story centers about romance in a Paris gown shop after Huck Haines and his former All-American football player pal, John, are stranded in France with a jazz band. John suddenly finds himself proprietor of the "Roberta" gown shop in Paris and falls in love with the beautiful head designer, who is an exiled Russian princess. Huck, the irrepressible, finds a great dancing partner, and a big heart throb, when he meets an old girl friend from his home town, who is masquerading as a countess.

Randolph Scott is John, who makes love to Miss Dunne. Astaire and Miss Rogers are the Huck and Countess of the story. Splendid supporting performances are contributed by Helen Westley, as Madame Roberta; Victor Varconi, Claire Dodd and Luis Alberni.

"Roberta" will establish entertainment standards for a long, long time.

Three Local Women To "Do Northwest"

Mmes. M. H. Bennett, Ben Carter and J. Y. Robb are leaving Monday for a three weeks' trip including most of the interesting sight-seeing points of the Northwest.

They will go first to Dallas, then on to St. Louis, Chicago, St. Paul and across the continent to Canada where they will visit Banff, Lake Louise and Vancouver. From there they will follow the West Coast down to San Francisco and San Diego and return home.

In Chicago they will join Mrs. Harold Robb and daughter, Mabel. Mrs. R. F. Harris, Sr., mother of Mrs. J. Y. Robb, will leave for Los Angeles Monday with the two Robb children, Janet and J. Y., Jr., and they will meet their mother there and return to Texas with her.

FANS IN HYSTERIC OVER ROGERS' FUNNIEST FILM

Will Rogers' latest comedy, "Doubling Thomas," had the audience practically rolling in the aisles Sunday at the Ritz Theater. The fans howled themselves as nearly into hysterics as a theater audience can. To this reviewer, the picture is Rogers' funniest and to hundreds of others in the Ritz Theater it seemed to be the same thing.

The film is well-paced, capably handled and directed and each member of the cast is particularly well suited to his or her respective role. It will, no doubt, add thousands of names to the great roster of Rogers' fans.

The picture was adapted from George Kelly's stage hit, "The Torch Bearers," and shows Rogers in the role of a simple, home-loving sausage manufacturer, whose life-world is tossed into a turmoil when his wife, Billie Burke, goes theatrical; as does his son's fiancée, Frances Grant. The two appear in an amateur charity show and if the audiences hold on to their seats during this show, they'll be doing more than this reviewer was able to do.

Billy Burke is splendid as the staretuck wife who thinks she's been suppressing a desire all these many years. Alison Skipworth very capably and expertly repeats the part of Mrs. Pampinell, which she played on the stage; while Sterling Holloway, as the bungling sound-effects man for the play, is a scream.

Frances Grant and Frank Albertson give realistic performances, the latter as Rogers' son and the former as the son's fiancée, and David Butler uses his directorial skill admirably.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Wentz have as guests Mr. Wentz's sisters, Misses Eusland Wentz of Bartlettville, Okla., and Joyce Wentz of Atchison, Kans.

JANE WITHERS, as a lovable element tomboy, and JACKIE SEARL, as the pampered son of a Park Avenue family, are featured in "Ginger," Fox Film's latest laugh riot.

Jane Withers, the kid who imitated a machine gun, told tales on Shirley Temple, tried to run her down with a doll carriage and proved herself a complete annoyance in "Bright Eyes," has the title role in Fox Film's latest comedy success, "Ginger," which opens Tuesday at the Ritz Theater.

Little Miss Withers sets a new style in comedy entertainment in "Ginger," which kept Hollywood and New York preview audiences in continued guffaws and caused the prediction that the film is a great beginning for what looks like a great career.

Little Jane registers a million dollars worth of personality and talent in her new picture and the Ritz Theater audiences are assured that they will love her as much in this story as they hated her in "Bright Eyes."

When Jane, the little independent, self-reliant product of Ninth Avenue, is taken into the Park Avenue home of the pampered Jackie Searl, there's a swell clash with a world of comedy. O. P. Heggie gives an outstanding performance as Jane's foster-uncle and Katherine Alexander and Walter King provide an unusual romance as Jackie Searl's parents.

"Roberta" will establish entertainment standards for a long, long time.

Museum To Commence Big Membership Drive Next Week

Mrs. Bumpass Outlines Status Of Local Institution And Educational Function

The Museum association will start a membership drive next week. A letter of invitation will be sent to the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County, to become members of this institution.

The dues that accompany a membership are explained in the letter and each member will be given an opportunity to choose the kind of membership he or she prefers.

Membership dues are a contribution to the support of an institution vitally important to the community. Thus each member is a necessary and welcome factor in making the museum a success.

Mrs. Bumpass, director of the museum, said of it, "Since the museum has become a vital part of the community's educational life, each member, whether actively interested or not, has a part in supporting its work and spreading its influence."

"The museum is maintained for the people of Big Spring and Howard county as a means of preserving and displaying objects of science, history and art and promoting an understanding and appreciation of their values and their contributions to education. An opportunity is provided for all the people for studying the civilizations of all nations of the world by means of the museum's growing collections, library and loan exhibitions."

"It is not a cold, impersonal institution, but is a place of glowing light for the children and a pleasing surprise and interest to the adult."

"The staff of workers makes it their aim to arrange and to keep the collections in harmony with best taste and ease for study. All collections are placed in study groups as nearly as possible which furnishes quick information. All articles are labeled so one does not need a guide."

"The West Texas Memorial Museum has been established to render service to the public through the method of visual education. It has been said that museums are able to give more, hour for hour, than any one of the great universities." When the educational function is discharged, others are not likely to be neglected, since the work requires background that can be supplied only by a well-rounded program.

"The association operates under a charter from the State of Texas and is governed by a board of directors elected by the members of the association from its body of citizens in Big Spring and Howard county under an approved constitution, democratic in principles."

"The institution museum receives no support from taxation or other public source, but is dependent upon endowments, gifts and membership dues for its maintenance."

SCOUT NEWS

Word from Camp Louis Farr near Merton, where scouts of the Buffalo Trail council have been camped for the past week, tells of plenty of action.

The swimming hole and the mess hall are easily the two most popular places. When the bugle blows swimming or soupy, there is a spontaneous response.

Most of the scouts are brown as Mexicans and getting browner. There is very little blistering because of the dense shade which surrounds most of the camp and even blankets the swimming hole.

Troop No. 3 took off tent honors the first three mornings the camp was in operation. It's getting to be a habit with the troop, for last year it won more than its share of tent honors.

One of the scout laws says a scout is brave. Dale Smith, leader of the Wolf patrol in Troop No. 5 is living up to the law. He broke his leg above the knee Thursday and never whimpered when he had to be hauled 30 miles over rough roads to a local hospital. Now, despite severe pain and the fact that he must lie in one position for six weeks, he is determined to go on with his scout work. "I'm going to get the reading merit badge while I'm here," he said Saturday.

Add another name to the list of leaders which have come out of old Troop No. 1. Jack Hodges, new scoutmaster of Troop No. 3, was once a member of that troop. He was troop drummer in the old days. The troop has furnished

Troop Meetings

Troop No. 2—The troop met with its new scoutmaster, Jack Hodges. The former scoutmaster, Jack Cummings, has been transferred to Abilene. Mr. Cummings has been a very competent scoutmaster for the troop for the past two years. The meeting was opened with the presentation of colors by second class scouts and then the repeating of the scout oath. New patrols were organized and a weiner roast planned for the following Monday evening. The meeting was then dismissed. Fifteen boys and the scoutmaster were present.—Reported by Ray Wilson.

Personally Speaking

Mrs. J. A. Myers and son, Joe Robert, went to Colorado Monday to visit Mrs. Myers' sister, Mrs. Fred Donier. They will go to Abilene, Tuesday where Joe Robert will try out again in the amateur radio contest, and plan to return home Thursday.

Rev. J. Richard Spann and son, Edwin, and Mrs. C. E. Usery of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, are expected in Big Spring the middle of next week to visit friends. They will remain in Texas for three weeks, visiting in Dallas, Wichita Falls, Abilene, Big Spring, San Antonio and Houston, before returning to Baton Rouge. Rev. Spann formerly was pastor of the First Methodist church in this city.
