dictment was the first of nearly a dozen voted by District of Columbia grand juries.

Sinclair on March 22, 1924 refused to answer any questions of the committee and he was indicted a few days later on ten counts, each specifying a question. He was convicted on four counts by a jury, and sentenced to pay a $500 fine and serve three months in Washington jail.

The high court affirmed the decision of the District of Columbia Supreme court in which he was convicted two years ago. The multi-millionaire's appeal argued that the questions were not legislative in intent and therefore were not pertinent, and that they illegally sought to inquire into his private business.

The first part of the signon did not indicate the decision of the leases held by Sinclair and E. L. Doheny on Tcapot Dome and Elks Hill naval reserves, began the circumstances of the leases and the famous Senate investigation in 1923 and 1924.

ACTING ON IMPULSE.

The officials in the police pro cutor's office at Detroit have made an interesting discovery about human nature. When a person comes in to swear out a warrant against a neighbor for some petty offense, they tell him to "come back tomorrow," and they have found that in the vast majority of cases he does not come back at all.

on Dewey Young spiked the prison location bill sponsored by the governor. He believes that the governor. He believes that the governor. He believes that the legislature should have the last even, so they hurry to the prosecutor; but when they are given 24 hours in which to ponder the matter, they usually decide that revenge isn't really worth having. So the warrants go unissued.

She remainded out of sight until he was gone. Seeing her disappear in the direction of the side entrance, he assumed that she was leaving for the day. He quickly followed after her, but Mildred had disappeared. There was a turn that hid her from view. Just beyond was a flower shop. She stepped inside and hid behind a palm until Stephen had passed on his way to the street. Then she hurried back to meet Harold.

"I stopped to telephone for my car," he said, "Do you mind waiting until it is brought round from the garage?"

"W" have taken the sub-way." Mildred said, thinking that Stephen might return.

The Brunk's Comedians, under management of Henry L. Brunk, are in readiress for the opening of the week's engagement tonight. The opening play is an up-to-themoute bill entitled "The Florida Bubble," written by Robert Jay Sherman. The play deals with the late boom of Florida and its the late boom of Florida and its big real estate deals. The story is unwound in an interesting way and of course, it is full of good, clean comedy for which the Brunk's Cornedians are famous. The show is playing here under the auspices of the local fire department.
