MURRAY DRUG STORE ROBBED OF $1,500

Oil Man Is Hit By A Switch Engine Here

GEMS, RINGS TAKEN

Murray's Drug Store Looted By Burglars Who Entered Through Skylight—Officers Are Busy On the Case.

More than $1,500 in merchandise, which included diamond rings and various other kinds of jewelry, cigarettes, high priced perfumes, and cigars and some cash, was taken by burglars who entered the Murray Drug Store on West Main street last night.

Entrance to the building was gained through the skylight, which is located about the center of the top of the building. After having scaled the outside walls, the burglars took out a panel of the skylight and climbed down the inside walls of a small stock room about the center of the building.

After looting the cash register—which contained about $17.50 in money—and the jewelry case, the burglars carried the goods to the rear of the building where they evidently placed them in a sack or something of the kind as evidenced by the kind of jewelry left in the building, etc., were secured all the merchandise apparently wanted, a bar that was in the rear door to the building from the inside, was removed and exit from the building was made through this door. The door was then closed but was not fastened.

Employees of the company found the rear door unfastened when they came to work early this morning. This led to their suspicion that the place had been burglarized and this was confirmed immediately after an inspection of the store was begun.

R. L. (Bob) Murray only recently opened the store and the entire stock was new. He stated he had no insurance amount secured by the business unless recovered, was a total loss. Officers were notified of the burglary by Mr. Murray, who hastened to the store as soon as employees had notified him of his loss, and are working on the case.

OUR GROCERY MERCHANT

He is a man in the city, he must be aggressive, honest, fair and a good business man. Do we appreciate the service our local groceryman gives us? We wonder if we do. Our grocery stores here in Eastland are the community supply depots. Without them our community would be helplessly handicapped.

And by reason of the fact that every family has a member of food supply, that groceryman faces problems not faced by any other class of merchant. The merchant's service is a right to carry a burden.

He must sell on a narrow margin. Let's give him all credit. We know he works hard and conscientiously. A group of grocery merchants as will be found in any city. They are doing their best to lower the cost of living. We thrifty housewives, we wish to thank the merchant for their special and fair price. Come to us, the merchant. Here in Eastland, the merchant is the wide-awake groceryman. They are carrying a heavy burden. They are carrying a heavy burden. They are carrying a heavy burden.

Yesterday sad groups of university boys, many with wet eyes, followed to the station the hearer that took the university law school's oldest and most loved instructor.

AND THEREBY HANGS A TAIL

By United Press. OKMULGEE, Ok., March 1.—Frank Buck must serve two years in the State penitentiary because members of a district court jury failed to find any white hairs in the tail of a cow.

Mathis Page accused Buck of stealing his cow. Defense witnesses testified that Buck had paid for a cow and that it had white hairs in its tail. Page insisted that the accused had stolen a cow sans the white tail.

After deliberating all night, the jury asked to be taken to examine the tail of the cow. There were no white hairs in the tail and Buck was convicted.

WARNING ABOUT SLOT MACHINES

Scarcely a day passes that at least one man and some times as many as three men inquire of the county attorney's department whether slot machines can be operated.

The county attorney and his point out that under the provisions of Article 655, it is a violation of the law to operate a slot machine which "pays off" more or less than the amount the machine receives.

Therefore if such machines are installed, it would be the duty of the officers to confiscate the slot machines and to file charges, and the county attorney's department will prosecute all such cases.

If such machines are already in operation anywhere in the county, the operator can avoid confiscation of the machine and prosecution by removing it at once, the authorities state.

METHODISTS TO HAVE A BANQUET

The members of the Methodist church will give a banquet Monday night. At this meeting plans will be perfected for the raising of the church debt. All the membership have received a statement as to the amounts due this year. Every one is urged to attend the banquet. This will mean much to collection. Earl Bender heads this work, and is anxious that all who can possibly do so, attend this get-together meeting.

Beginning at the banquet, and running through the next ten days, collections will be taken to liquidate the outstanding indebtedness against the church at this time. If everyone will do his or her part, the work will not be difficult.

ANOTHER DEATH VERDICT GIVEN

DALLAS, Tex., March 1.—Death row in the Dallas County jail held a new face today making a total of three who have been sentenced to death in Judge Grover Adams' criminal district court within the last few weeks.

The last to take his place in the doomed section of the jail for acts of violence against society was Dewey Hunt, confessed army deserter, found guilty of murder by a jury last night and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Hunt was convicted of shooting to death Sam A. Cole, street car conductor, during a hijacking November 3. He based his defense on a plea of insanity.

A SIBERIAN IDYLL HOUSTON, Tex., March 1.—A drama of love, greed and murder, enacted in the frozen north of Siberia with a well-known young Russian explorer, Nikifor Begichev, as its victim, has been brought to light here. Begichev's death from scurvy while on a hunting expedition was reported in the press in the spring of 1927. One of his comrades on that expedition, the hunter Natalchenko, has been found guilty of murder. It was established that he killed Begichev to take possession of his widow with whom he was in love, and through her also a considerable amount of money.

ARREST MAN IN MURDER OF SHERIFF

Is Driving a Gray Coupe And Tells Conflicting Stories About His Whereabouts During Past 48 Hours, Officers Declare.

MASON, Tex., March 1.—A charge of murder has been filed against Ofilio Herrera in connection with the slaying Thursday afternoon of Sheriff Allen T. Murray, according to F. H. Hammond, district attorney. Herrera was arrested in a gray coupe by officers this morning.

Search for another suspect in the murder was intensified with the arrival today of Capt. Frank Hamer of the Texas Rangers. He will assist local officers in their investigation of the case.

MASON, Tex., March 1.—A man answering the general description of one of the slayers of Sheriff Allen T. Murray of Mason county was arrested on the highway about five miles from Mason today.

He was driving a gray coupe which corresponds with the car in which Murray's slayers escaped from the scene of the murder. Thursday, officers said.

Police said the suspect told them several stories regarding his whereabouts during the past 48 hours but investigation revealed that none of the stories were true. Officers are bending every effort today on capture of a second man.

A farmer identified apples in the gray coupe as those stolen from his place. It is believed the slayers separated after the murder and that the second man is still in this neighborhood.

Sheriff Murray was found shot to death in a lonely lane off the San Angelo-San Antonio highway Thursday. He had gone in search of two men driving a gray coupe who had stolen a suit case at Loyal Valley. His body was found later by two farmers.

Police believe that Murray had tracked the two men to a spot near the Lonely Lane and when he went to arrest them, they shot him. Bruises on his body indicated that he had been dragged some distance and hidden in the brush along the road.

Lindy's Wedding May Be Held Soon

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—The wedding of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow before the flier returns to the United States from his present trip to Mexico is regarded as highly probable.

Lindbergh's trip for the weekend to Cuernavaca with United States Ambassador J. Dwight W. Morrow and his staff, with renewed discussion of a held quiet wedding at the Morrow country retreat.

Any clue from the Morrow family, however, was conspicuously absent. Lindbergh and his fiancée took refuge constantly behind their phrase: "I have nothing to say."

GUILTY!

AS CLOSE CALL

Teatsorth, Well Known Operator, Is In Car Is Knocked Perhaps Feet At T.-P. Crossing.

Teatsorth, Eastland oil operator, had a miraculous escape death this morning when he was struck by a Texas & switch engine in the yards. Teatsorth was not seriously injured but his car was wrecked.

Teatsorth, the discoverer of the shallow oil pool just east of Eastland and one of the town operators in this section, was coming into Eastland from the north over the Breckenridge highway and did not see the engine when he drove onto the railroad crossing.

Car, hurled by the impact engine, landed against cross ties, some thirty feet where it was when he was hit, but did not overturn. The fact that the car was returned saved Mr. Teatsorth's life, it is believed, as he remained in the car and could have gotten out had it turned over.

switch engine was backing up when it hit the Teatsorth car.

Nice Fat Jobs for Lawyers. There will be rich plums handed in the near future by the president of the United States. The new districts have been created by the congress and nine republican lawyers will be handed plums when the trees are shaken. Congressional leaders decided that 90 new districts would be needed in the near future and on account of violations of the laws. Truth is the federal government has been made over. Now is a police court judge and judges dockets which in other were disposed of by police municipal judges and justices of the peace. Jobs are jobs in a federal judge is appointed life and a handsome salary with the possession of the office.

White House Proposal Dead. President Coolidge recommended a summer white house to be built in the state of Virginia, erstwhile the mother of presidents. An appropriation was made. President Coolidge recommended the appointment of two special secretaries for the incoming president fixing the salary at $10,000 a year. These items were placed in the second deficiency bill.

Blanca of Texas killed the first point of order and Laguardia New York the second on a point of order.

In the closing days of his administration federal lawmakers elected the president around just the enemies of the late Champ Clark's Missouri hound dog kicked canine around.

It is possible that the incoming president needs two additional secretaries. It is admitted that president should have summer quarters somewhere in the mountains. Washington is as hot as at times, the president is a man and the summer white house proposal received the endorsement of the leading newspaper.

LOSING TOUCH WITH THE PAST: The death of Edwin Turner Osbaldiston, who shot himself at his home in Asbury Park, N. J., the other day at the age of 99, removes from the scene one more of those men whose lives served to link modern times with the historic past.

Osbaldiston, born and raised in England, served in wars that we have long forgotten. He fought in the Crimean war with the British army, and saw, with his own eyes, the famous charge of the Light Brigade. He saw service in South Africa, fought in the Boer war, met Florence Nightingale when she was just beginning her great work, and medals for gallantry under fire, served as a surgeon on small packets running to Australia half a century ago.

To his neighbors, in his old age, he had been something of a character. He had endless yarns, anecdotes, and stories. People liked to hear him. There was a man here whose conversation went beyond the bounds of workaday life. He could dip into his memory and bring up into the present any event of the past which served to remind us that we are progressing farther and farther into the modern age, with the old milestones receding constantly into the past.

There are still men living who can tell us about the old days; but their number is growing smaller year by year. In a short time, for instance, the great days of the western frontier will be only story-book stuff. The Civil war, too, will become mere history. The men who saw and experienced the great events of the past will soon be few, and it is hard to see these old men depart. There was a danger of our forgetting the things and struggles that have made our country what it is. We need to establish the things we have done so long as we could see and touch them. Who can say how much of our patriotism, for instance, was planted in the hearts of young Americans by the presence of their lives of Civil war veterans?

Some of us will all be history and nothing more. Before we know it we shall be discovering that those of us who can remember Roosevelt and DeWitt are counted as gray-headed.

CRUISES ARE ARRANGING FOR REVIVALS: The spirit of unity pervades the minister of every church. The minister of every church who limits himself to any one of his services to God, while neglecting his service to his fellow men, is not doing his duty. It is only by his service to his fellow men that he can best serve God. We are called upon to work harmoniously together and to use every opportunity to encourage as well as to enlighten those whom we come in contact with. For he it is who is our neighbor and to do otherwise would make us as the priest of Levite in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Eastland is not only on the threshold of a new and better commercial era, with her new activities and added enterprises but is also seeing the dawn of a social and religious day. The Methodist church brought the revival rather the spirit that it had, and it was soon followed by the promotion of a new church. We also notice the interest in the promotion of

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church

This is the third Sunday in Lent. Mass will be at 10 a. m. by Rev. M. Collins. The gospel is taken from the gospel of St. Luke XI, 14-28. The gospel read in the Mass today speaks of a man who was possessed by a devil. Our Lord had compassion on the poor man and delivered him from the devil. Did not all that were witnesses of this expulsion of the devil admire the divine power of Jesus and believe in him as the promised Redeemer of the world? For from it; the Scribes and Pharisees took occasion from this miracle to calumniate and blaspheme him in the most malicious manner. Jesus defended himself against them and spoke with such persuasive eloquence, wisdom and power that a woman in the crowd, lifting up her voice, called the mother blessed.

BAPTIST CHURCH

"Religion with reservations, three thousand years ago and now," will be the theme of the Sunday night sermon by Pastor W. T. Turner as he continues the series of messages from the general text; "There is no new thing under the sun." The message at 11:00 a. m.

that bore such a name. These in a few words are the contents of the gospel for this day, which we will consider a little more closely. This gospel shows the existence of a devil or devils, secondly that the devil may enter into and take possession of a person and may cause the possessed serious bodily harm, and finally that the devil may be expelled by the power and authority of God. It is equally true that the devil cannot do a person any harm only in so far as God will allow him for God gives each one sufficient grace to resist the devil.
Rev. M. Collins.

A ministers' meeting is called for Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the pastor's study of the First Methodist church. Every minister in the city is urged to attend.

MOM'N POP

she must have believed had killed Mr. Borden? And which DID kill him! I know it did!"

McMann shrugged. "And Hayward's gun? What about that?"

Ruth tried to control her anger, to speak reasonably, convincingly: "McMann, I don't believe the disappearance of Mr. Hayward's gun has any connection at all with this case. He himself told you he owned it, where to look for it. Was that the action of a guilty man? Won't you work—just for the sake of fairness—on the theory that Mr. Hayward's gun was stolen by a petty thief, prowling through the building Saturday?"

"There was a gun in THESE offices—please don't forget that! We know, from the thumbprints on the bottom drawer of my desk, Mr. Borden opened that drawer, in all probability to get the gun to defend himself against threatened attack. Maybe he always kept it handy when he was alone in the office. I don't know! But he almost certainly had it in his possession or on his desk Saturday before he was killed."

"An unknown woman was in these offices some time Saturday afternoon. You have the fingerprints. I believe that Rita was telling the truth when she said that Borden was alive, that he gave her his half of the $500 bill, if a chap gets just the right level, a nice useful sort of pole, if a fellow very badly wants a window closed and doesn't want to be seen walking along a hall and unlocking another fellow's door in order to close it. YOU found it very handy, didn't you, Hayward?"

Jack's handsome face darkened with anger, but his voice was steady as he answered: "I did not close Borden's window with a pole or in any other manner, McMann. There was no reason why I should. But it must have been a very interesting experiment. Did you also demonstrate to your own satisfaction how I robbed the body and secured Miss Lester's automatic, all with this very useful window pole?"

McMann's grin widened. "I admit that noon I was a little bit worried about those details, but a charming visitor has pretty well cleared them up for me."

Ruth could remain silent no longer. Her voice quivered with anger as she lashed out at the self-satisfied detective: "That's not fair, Mr. McMann! Rita Dubois has cleared Jack by insisting that Mr. Borden was alive when she came here Saturday afternoon at 17 minutes after two, at which time Jack was with me in the Chester Hotel dining room."

The grin left McMann's broad, thin mouth. He looked at the angry, trembling girl gravely, almost compassionately. "I'm sorry, Miss Lester, but what Rita Dubois SAYS doesn't mean that to me!" and the detective snapped his fingers.

"You saw me catch her in lie after lie. The facts are all I'm interested in. Rita had a key to this office. She could have entered only, whether Borden was alive or dead. She got from him—alive or dead—half of a $500 bill and a receipt, more in smaller bills. At least she did! NOW she got the torn half Thoxine in $500 banknote, and we can relieve the other money for grant- chloroform, iron, Borden wouldn't have full drugs—safe a cent until she'd come whole family part of the bar- fully effect. was to go away with coughs. McMann," Ruth flashed. "And granting that Micky is infallible, isn't it reasonable to suppose that a person coming here to see Mr. Borden after a telephone quarrel with him, a person he feared and armed himself against, would have walked at least a flight or two, rather than be seen getting off the elevator right in front of Mr. Borden's offices?"

"Just a minute, Miss Lester," McMann brushed her question aside. "You refer to a TELEPHONE QUARREL. Surely you're not forgetting that that telephone quarrel, or part of it, was overheard by Bill Cowan, when he was cut in on Hayward's busy line? How can you explain that? You don't think it was your petty thief, prowling through the Starbridge Building, who called up Borden and quarreled with him, after stealing Hayward's gun?"

Ruth looked staggered for a moment, then triumphant. "Telephone operators have been known to give wrong numbers as well as plugging new calls in on busy lines. Mr. Borden's telephone numbers are Main 3500 and 3501. Mr. Hayward's number is Main 3051. Mr. Cowan was formerly rather a close friend of Mr. Borden's. He could easily have given the operator the Borden number, which he must have called many times in the past, thinking that he was giving Mr. Hayward's number. Remember, he did not hear Jack's voice—only Borden's."

McMann chuckled. "You're very clever, Ruth Lester. You can have a job under me any time you like. . . . That's all for the present, Hayward. You can get back to your work."

"Thanks!" Jack bowed ironically. Then, to Ruth, in a low voice: "You're a darling and I love you."

"All right, Ashe!" McMann called through the door by which Jack was leaving.

The gray-haired, bloodless-looking little man who had been Harry Borden's man-servant slipped noiselessly, diffidently, through the door, and took the chair which McMann indicated—opposite his own at Borden's desk.

"Sit down, Miss Lester," Borden invited. "I may need you. . . . Now, Ashe, how long had you been with Mr. Borden?"

"Ten months, sir."

"When did you last see your employer?"

"Saturday morning, sir. He left his apartment at half-past nine, as usual. He told me he would be out of town for the week-end, and that I was to pack his bags. I was to expect him for dinner Monday evening—him and a young lady," the valet answered.

"Did he say who the young lady was?"

"Yes, sir. He said Miss Dubois would dine with him."

"Where were you Saturday

"Where were you Saturday afternoon, Ashe?" McMann pounced suddenly.

The valet looked startled, then faintly indignant. "I, sir? I had lunch with my daughter—my married daughter, Mrs. Bernard Williams, in Washington Heights, and took her to a neighborhood movie—my daughter and her two children. At half-past four her husband met us in the LOBBY of the theater and all of us—"

"All right, Ashe!" McMann interrupted the iron-clad alibi impatiently. "Now tell me: have you any knowledge or suspicion as to who killed your master?"

The anemic little man straightened in his chair, then leaned forward slightly toward the detective as he said in a curiously impressive voice:

Information from Austin reveals that the three stars will also compete in the Texas relays, which are to be held at that city March 29.

Present plans call for Nurmi to run a two mile race against the two best mile runners the meet can produce, making a

She Travels 15 Years In Quest Of Lost Health

"For fifteen years I have done nothing but travel over the United States, Canada, and Cuba in a fruitless search for health. Three weeks ago I began the Sargon treatment and today I am a well and happy woman. That

MRS. M. M. LINK.

Sargon should restore me so quickly and so completely after all these years of suffering and failure is marvelous and I want my friends everywhere to know about this wonderful medicine.

"Even the lightest meals would cause me to suffer tortures from indigestion, gas pains, and smothering spells. Sometimes I would just have to gasp for breath. Nervousness made my nights almost sleepless. Rheumatism troubled me a great deal, too, and my liver was so badly out of order I had to take strong purgatives continually.

"I took treatments everywhere without relief, and finally made up my mind to travel with the seasons and live the rest of my days as comfortably as possible. Had anyone told me that any medicine would do what Sargon has done for me I could not have believed them. It put my stomach in perfect condition and drove the rheumatism right out of my system. I eat anything, am no longer nervous, and sleep like a healthy child. I feel strong and well all the time. Sargon Soft Mass Pills completely overcame my liver troubles. They act gently yet thoroughly.

"To enjoy such splendid health as Sargon has given me is the greatest blessing in the world, and I feel it my duty to let other sufferers know about this wonderful treatment."

This remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. M. M. Link, wealthy resident of 863 Tuxedo Blvd., Webster Grove, Mo. Mrs. Link is spending the winter at Grande Court, San Antonio, where she went in her long search for health.

Dr. Blackwell said he hoped to get Don Elder, star Notre Dame runner, to enter in the sprints here against Williams, along with Claude Bracey of Rice Institute, winner of the Southern A. U. trials here last spring and member of the Olympic team. Williams won both the 100 and 200-meter dashes at Amsterdam last summer.

Entries for the S. M. U. relays already have been received here from Notre Dame, Butler, Nebraska, Illinois, Florida, Ohio State, Missouri, Occidental of Los Angeles and several other schools. J. # DERRICK PIONEER PASSES ON Old-Time Driller Succumbs to Influenza Attack.

(From Ranger Times)

Henry Aggers, 86, one of the world's oldest followers of the oil industry, is dead.

The veteran of the derrick floor succumbed to a two weeks illness of influenza at the home of his son, Roy Aggers, 322 Cypress street at 7:15 o'clock this morning.

He is survived by four sons, Roy Aggers of Ranger, F. K. Aggers of Ranger, H. D. Aggers of Tulsa, and Walter Aggers of Coalingo, Calif. One daughter, Mrs. William Groundwater of Los Angeles, also survives. Roy Aggers and H. D. Aggers were at his bedside when death came.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Killingsworth-C... undertaking parlor. The body will be sent to Fresno, Calif., for burial.

The aged man was one of the last pioneers of the oil industry. The veteran driller began his career in the oil fields in 1863, about four years after the Drank well was discovered. While drilling on this well,

Henry Aggers Saw Parade of Abe Lincoln

Henry Aggers once drove a buggy eight miles to Pittsburgh to see Lincoln. Before his death he told of the all-day parade and how he and his mother got up the day before and made the drive.

"I had one real day," he said. "Ole Abe was on a platform supported on wagon beds and as the procession moved thru the streets he would stop and split some rails that were on the platform with him, showing the people that he was still a rail splitter and had not forgotten how to split one, even though he was campaigning for the presidency of the United States.

"He would split rails and talk and then the procession would move on. It lasted all day and was just a short time before his election."

well in Los Angeles and one at Bakersfield.

During those years he was twice on the top financially, but in 1873 and 1874 the price of oil went down to 50 cents and stayed there for three years.

Aggers' wife lived to be 81 years old. All of his sons and the husband of his daughter are in the oil business. He was the last of his family, who, when he was born, lived on a farm in Allegheny, Pa.

Aggers had done no actual drilling since 1924 when he came to Ranger, but oil men declare he was a real oil man when it came to news of the oil fields.

Before his death the man boasted of the fact that he had always voted the democratic ticket. He was the only democrat in his father's family. However, there were four Aggers families and each family had which was in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, he heard the roar of artillery that he later learned came from the battle of Gettysburg. Aggers at one time said the roar kept up through the afternoon, but it was the next morning before he knew the battle of Gettysburg was on.

Aggers wasn't in the Civil war. He was debarred on account of his size, being small in stature, but he tried hard to get in, going 80 miles from his home to Ohio to try to get in that state, only to be turned down.

From the Pennsylvania oil fields Aggers went to California, then to Oklahoma, then to Texas and in 1898 he returned to California and drilled in a

No Dates, Boys! I've Plenty

Although dates are generally thought of as an Oriental fruit, these that Miss Frances Van Der Meid is enjoying never saw a camel, an oasis or an Arab. They were grown here in the United States in the gardens of the Deglet-Noor Date Growers' Association at Indio, Calif. Hundreds of acres of this fruit are under cultivation in the orchards of Coachella Valley in that state.

French circus day distinguished from all others by the fact that the lion tamer got scared and fired a bullet into Sultan, the lion. Dr. Dennier, the veterinary who knows all about cows and cats and shetland ponies, was called and examined the king of beasts from a safe distance with plenty of nice iron bars dividing them. He diagnosed the case as one of lead poisoning and decided to operate the next day. In the meantime he examined Sultan's pal, Brutus, a lion with two teeth. The charge for the examination was fifty francs. Then the good man looked at the white bear and the elephant, charging for the double look the bargain price of 25 francs. Finally, after walking about a mile, he operated upon the dromedary which was suffering with an abscess on its right hip; price, 100 francs.

French Doctor In Lion's Den Gets His Fee

But Circus Owners Valiantly Fought "Exorbitant" Bill By GEORGE KENT United Press Staff Correspondent NANCY, Feb. 2.—A doctor who treated a polar bear, an elephant, and a dromedary, and operated upon a lion has at last collected his honorarium. But it took him a year of battling in the courts of Nancy to do it, the owners of the animals, a German circus, insisting that the operation was not entirely successful because the lion died. The doctor's bill was dated July 20, 1937, which was circus day in Nancy, a peanuts and bear

Dr. Dennier was a pretty good doctor. He came back the next day and extracted the bullet. There was no way of administering an anaesthetic, except a local one. With the help of a circus hand and the lion tamer they crowded the animal into a corner, tied its forepaws, and the doctor found the bullet and gave it the air. Fortunately, the projectile had not gone very deep. The price for this piece of work was 15,000 francs, which added to the other charges made Dr. Dennier's bill 17,850 francs, or about $720. The circus refused to pay the bill and when brought to court sometime later, testified that Sultan had died shortly afterwards. Furthermore a brand new lion was worth only $1,000. Dr. Dennier told of the great peril he had suffered and showed bruises where the lion had scratched and bitten him. The court indicated that the local veterinaries had decided that 15,000 was a fair price for the job, and that the original price of the beast had nothing to do with the matter, and decided that the Germans had betor pay their reparations. But the Germans appealed. The Court of Appeals the other day listened to evidence showing that Dr. Dennier hadn't lost anything by his work. In fact, he had published a book entitled, "My Operation in the Den of Lions," giving a full and dramatic account of how he had taken his life into his hands. The book was illustrated with photographs. Extracts were published throughout the province and Dr. Dennier is today almost a great man. Because of this publicity which Dr. Dennier did for himself, the Court of Appeals reduced the fee to 10,350 francs or about $400.
